It was the appearance of people who performed traditional Korean music.

The video was taken by filming each cast member one by one and was edited by connecting the cuts.

[Hello, I'm Baek Joobin, a Korean traditional musician.]

[Last year, I had a gayageum recital at the National Traditional Music Center.]

[My most recent performance was… Cheoyongmu[3]Cheoyongmu is a representative Korean mask dance based on the legend of Cheoyong, a son of the Dragon King of the Eastern Sea. It is also the oldest surviving Korean court dance created during the Unified Silla period. Sumber: Wiki ?]

The video briefly introduced the artists' activity along with their data and then began with a simple Q and A session.

[NAYA: Do you listen to KPOP?]

[I know the famous ones.]

[No.]

[Yes, I like it].]

There were various reactions, but this was the evaluation emphasized in the video.

[It's very different from the music I usually do.]

The channel's production crew then opened their laptops and made the traditional musicians watch a music video.

To be exact, it was a teaser.

[NAYA: I will introduce you to a KPOP music video that is currently on the real-time popular video rankings.]

[Hmm… Can I just watch it?]

[One, ten, hundred, thousand… The unit is 10 million. Wow.]

[3, 2, 1, press it.]

Click.

Soon, the video was broadcasted together on a small window screen.

It was the teaser of Testar's new song.

[Oh, this?]

And the traditional musicians… started laughing when Seon Ahyeon's solo song came out.

[So, that's why you showed it to me!]

[It's gayageum.]

Of course, except for the main instrument, the elements were extremely close to KPOP, but the Korean traditional musicians still enjoyed it quite a bit.

[Very clever and well written.]

[They mixed it with the moves as well. There were arm movements used in taepyeongmu[4]Taepyeongmu is a Korean dance with the function of wishing great peace for the country…]

[Wow, he's really handsome! Someone like that should have come to our side(?).]

However, when Cha Eugene's solo song immediately followed, the reaction became slightly stronger.

[It wasn't the end??]

[Oh, this person is also very cool! The kkwaenggwari suits him!]

[…Wait, the length of this video… Wait a minute.]

[NAYA: Please keep watching. (laugh)]

Traditional musicians enjoyed the first verse of each Testar member's solo song.

Its visual beauty was overflowing with capital.

[Oh…]

The reaction that started out of politeness became stronger as they became more and more immersed in the video.

In particular, when the Korean traditional music instruments of each solo song piled up and made the title track, the most intense reaction erupted.

[Wow!!]

[Oh, this is all part of it!]

[How did they come up with this idea??]

[These instruments are originally used in different fields, so there is probably no case where they are all used together… Oh, it's very refreshing.]

[NAYA: Those are the opinions that they came up with while making the song themselves.]

[That's amazing!]

And the moment Ryu Chungwoo appeared, they eventually became immersed in the story.

[Are they spirits? In the book earlier, spirits…]

[Hmm~ I got it. Look. First of all, this one is a gumiho[5]A kumiho or gumiho is a creature that appears in the folktales on East Asia and legends of Korea. It is similar to the Chinese huli jing and the Japanese kitsune. It can freely transform into a beautiful woman often set out to seduce men, and eat their liver or heart. Sumber: Wiki…]

[Really? Ah, then perhaps, is that Cheoyong[6]I think Cheoyong is the guy that inspired Cheoyongmu mentioned above. in the front? I think it's really him.]

Then the channel's producer declared a bombshell.

[NAYA: Why don't you ask them yourself?]

[Yes??]

Then, Testar members appeared from off the screen.

[Park Moondae: Hello. I'm Testar's Park Moondae.]

[Cha Eugene: Hello! I'm Cha Eugene. From Testar!]

[Oh my God!]

Testar's members appeared one or two in each in each video cut and sat across from the traditional musicians.

With the shocked Korean traditional musicians, a fun and heartwarming appearance was produced.

[Oh, I really enjoyed watching the video!]

[Really… It was genius. Awesome.]

[You're more handsome in person.]

[Excuse me, do you perhaps… Have trouble with your eyes…]

[Bae Sejin: ???Ah, no… I was, uh, a child actor…]

[Ahhh! What should I do? I'm sorry! I was blinded because your acting looked so real!]

The raw reactions of familiarity and laughter that came out of each other's embarrassment played out for a long time.

And at the end, it leaned slightly towards a slightly touching and serious talk.

[In fact, as we continue to do this, we get the feeling that we are getting farther away from the public. Thank you for showing such a wonderful fusion.]

[Park Moondae: Thanks to you, we were able to use it knowing that Korean musical instruments make such wonderful sounds. Thank you.]

[Let's cheer up each other!]

[Cha Eugene: Great! Let's hug!]

And the situation was finished with a slight gag so that the lingering aftermath didn't feel too heavy.

[Cha Eugene: But I'm actually an American! I love it!]

[????]

The Korean traditional musicians' expressions turned confused.

[T-That's great… I like foreigners too (?)]

That's how the video ended.

And, of course, as soon as the video was uploaded, it quickly gained millions of views and became a popular video in Korea.

And it wasn't just this video.

Testar performed in full-fledged hanbok on a WeTube channel specializing in choreography videos, and they appeared playing Korean traditional instruments in public entertainment previews.

It emphasized the appealing elements of this album at a level that suited the content appropriately and didn't feel excessive.

After diligently laying the groundwork for the nuance that 'Testar is introducing Korean traditional music'.

The agency started posting articles about Testar's overseas schedule on the main portal.

It was a bomb that was dropped right when Gold 1's group just started their activities.

The work was successful.

And doing this far, they couldn't sit in a scary position like 'a symbolic group representing Korea'.

Because VTIC was there.

However, not everything went as predicted.

* * *

In Testar's first overseas scheduled shooting of this activity.

The backstage, which would have been busy with various inspections, turned into a mess with urgency and anxiety.

"Kim Raebin!"

"Are you okay??"

"I-I don't know…"

Kim Raebin, whose face turned pale, reached out to his right foot and hurriedly pulled back. It was obvious that the pain was severe.

"Raebin, don't touch your feet."

"Do you have a kit?"

"Let me see!"

Staff hurriedly took off his shoes and carefully checked his condition.

His bloody instep was visibly swollen.

'Damn it.'

I almost bit my tongue.

- 1. Chackhogapsa = Military who were selected and deployed to catch tigers in the Dynasty Joseon.
- 2. Guk-ppong is a derogatory Korean word that is used to pejoratively describe a South Korean nationalist. I thought of translating it to 'Overproud Nationalists' but eventually decided against it.
- 3. Cheoyongmu is a representative Korean mask dance based on the legend of Cheoyong, a son of the Dragon King of the Eastern Sea. It is also the oldest surviving Korean court dance created during the Unified Silla period. Sumber: Wiki

- 4. Taepyeongmu is a Korean dance with the function of wishing great peace for the country.

- 5. A kumiho or gumiho is a creature that appears in the folktales on East Asia and legends of Korea. It is similar to the Chinese huli jing and the Japanese kitsune. It can freely transform into a beautiful woman often set out to seduce men, and eat their liver or heart. Sumber: Wiki.

- 6. I think Cheoyong is the guy that inspired Cheoyongmu mentioned above.

Chapter 157

It was in the second recording after the stage rehearsal that Kim Raebin got injured.

While performing a difficult group movement on Seon Ahyeon's part, he was lying on the edge and stretched out to get up, but got hit by the structure of the room.

This happened because the stage was narrower than expected.

'…It was smaller than what they notified us.'

The stage set they prepared for the English-speaking talk show was too small for a lot of people to dance together, so we had to reduce the choreography movement accordingly.

'It's not that Kim Raebin's movement stuck out.'

In other words, this guy's feet were broken thanks to these bastards' misinformation.

'Fuck.'

No, let's not assume that it was broken yet.

The bruise was bleeding, but the wound might be smaller than I thought.

"Raebin-ssi, can you move your feet?? Don't move, just feel it!"

"…I can, but it hurts, it hurts…"

"I'll stop the bleeding first!"

After receiving first aid, Kim Rabin was put in an ambulance and went to the hospital. And the rest of the members were able to simply organize the situation and then move to the hospital.

It wasn't a situation where we could continue recording the stage anyway, because the first recording was semi-forced.

And immediately, the conclusion was briefed.

"Two weeks?"

"That's the minimum. Of course, he shouldn't dance, but only when he's still wearing a protector."

"…"

The company staff who came out of Kim Raebin's hospital room explained through an interpreter.

The diagnosis was ligament damage. And cracked bones and torn skin.

'…We avoid the worst.'

If he got a fracture, he would have been unable to stand on stage every few months.

Of course, this situation was still not good.

"Doing something as intense as the current choreography, I think we should wait for a month before talking about it again."

Because it was confirmed that Kim Raebin wouldn't be able to dance throughout this activity, he could only do it in between.

For a song that put the most emphasis on performance, it was the perfect bad news

'What's wrong with this damn America?'

It wasn't funny that we had to take turns going to the hospital since the last time.

I kept my mouth shut, and Ryu Chungwoo carefully asked the person from the company.

"There's isn't any aftereffects?"

"Yes. he didn't get hurt that bad."

"…Huft."

I could see Ryu Chungwoo sighing in relief. The other guys barely looked relieved. Even Cha Eugene was almost crying.

"W-Would it be okay to go inside and see Raebin now…?"

"Yes, yes. The doctor is out now."

I followed him to the hospital, but it was funny to move right away without seeing his face.

We opened the door to the hospital room and entered.

"…Raebin?"

Kim Raebin was sitting on the hospital bed with a slightly dazed face. His injured foot was fixed and lifted up.

As soon as Kim Raebin turned his face this way, Keun Sejin quickly opened his mouth.

"Raebin, is your foot okay?"

"Yes, but the stage…"

"It's fine, you don't have to worry. We just talked about it, and they said you can perform if you endure it for two weeks. It's not a big deal~"

However, despite what Keun Sejin said, Kim Raebin seemed to have noticed the solemnity of the situation.

This guy had no sense of interpersonal relationships, but that didn't mean he didn't know what was going on.

But I didn't know he would be like this.

Kim Raebin cried and started to shed large drops of tears.

"I'm sorry… If you miss out two weeks…"

"Hey, what are you talking about? Two weeks will pass by soon! We already had our comeback performance. What are you worried about?"

"Sejin is right, Raebin. It's not even your fault in the first place. Just focus on recovering your body, okay?"

"…Yes."

Sniff. Kim Raebin sniffed and tried to hold back his tears. I held back my sigh and pulled out the tissue from the table and handed it over.

I didn't feel good.

"Don't think about anything else and take a rest!"

"Take a rest, you idiot!"

Kim Raebin decided to stay at the hospital for about two days so that he could receive care, rather than staying at the hotel alone during his U.S. schedule.

The members shouted loudly and closed the door to Kim Raebin's hospital room and came out.

Then the topic returned to reality.

“We should split Raebin’s part, right?”

“We should.”

Ryu Chungwoo crossed his arms and smiled bitterly.

“I’ll have to learn the movement first.”

“I can’t sleep because of the jet lag anyway, so I’ll try it~”

“…”

Bae Sejin’s face seemed to turn white, but he didn’t say anything.

He must have felt sorry for complaining about the increased choreography for the guy that injured his foot. Compared to the time in <Idol Inc.>, it was a great development.

‘We’re all tired.’

Kim Raebin was mentally tired, and the rest looked physically tired.

To be honest, I want to tell the media, whether it was local or Korean, that this accident happened because of the talk show’s insincere communication.

It was disgusting.

‘But I can’t do that carelessly.’

This was the first time we appeared on an English-speaking talk show without being a part of a game collaboration. Avoiding bad rumors was the correct choice.

Still, I couldn’t help but get angry.

What kind of nonsense is this?

‘Should I spread it a little more?’

The problem was, I couldn’t figure out how much effort I should put into the boycott of foreign talk shows to make it work.

I sighed and cleared my thoughts.

‘Let’s just practice.’

I came all the way to a foreign country and fell into practice hell again.

* * *

When Testar was reorganizing their performance due to the injury issue.

In Korea, a new song by Ha Iljoon’s group, which was also called Golden Age and Park Moondae’s Gold 1, was secretly going viral among idol fans.

– My heart skipped a beat when I heard the chorus

– It shouldn’t be treated like a hidden masterpiece later on. Let’s go ㅋㅋㅋ

– Can’t get it out of my head. Countdown to the song being banned for college entrance exams (Place: In my head)

Interestingly, these so-called KPOP listener netizens wanted to support Golden Age’s new song.

This was because Golden Age had yet to be established, and Choi Wongil and Gold 1 had the image of having suffered a lot.

Moreover, since their song was good, it was fun to raise the score as if it was some kind of realization of justice.

Of course, most of them were just talks based on interest, but Golden

Age's agency didn't miss this timing and coordinated WeTube promotions and various SNS virals.

And this work to increase public exposure was carried out sensibly without making it look awkward, and they eventually succeeded.

[Golden Age Hi Goody Challenge]

On a platform that uploads short videos, a simple dance using the song took the flow.

Thanks to this, Golden Age's music rapidly reversed the music charts.

– Crazy right now, 26th place

– That's awesome

– Thrive more ㅊㅋㅊㅋ~

– After going viral everywhere, you succeeded in climbing up the charts. Congratulations

They're amazing

You're like that fan

In addition, Testar's fandom, which would normally have kept this public opinion in check, was a bit of a mess.

– Raebin's foot, what should I do? F*ck, the company that pushes forward without revising the choreography, please die

– It happened before the overseas performanceㅠㅠ I was so sad and worried, I spent the whole morning in a daze

– I'm worried that Raebin is still blaming himself. Don't worry about us. Just take care of your feet to get better ㅠㅠ

#Raebin_getwellsoon

– Isn't it funny that he didn't get hurt, but his eyes alone hurt? Maybe he was distracted by dating? It's a reasonable doubt – Isn't it enough for Cha Eugene to do Kim Raebin's part alone? I don't know why they even gave it out to Lee Sejin, who's not even a rapper…

Because of the news of Kim Raebin's injury.

Testar's fans were busy worrying about injuries, regretting that they couldn't see the full lineup for a while, and paying attention to some aggro swirling.

In fact, from their point of view, keeping Golden Age in check was not even necessary.

Golden Age was one step behind in the music charts because it failed to reach the top of the music charts due to its inherent limitations as a rookie male idol.

In addition, Testar's new album, which featured a national undertone, was receiving great acclaim.

Testar's fans were just annoyed that there were sometimes people who tried to provoke them with 'Isn't Golden Age's song better?'

No matter how you looked at it, the difference in class was obvious to anyone.

However, this situation meant a lot to someone who had been inactive for two weeks and only looked at their smartphones in hospital rooms and hotels.

* * *

"Congratulations on being able to release the cast~"

"Raebin, you've had a hard time."

“No, I’m sorry for the inconvenience.”

Kim Raebin, wearing a foot guard lighter than before, spoke bravely and bowed his head. He managed to get permission from the doctor to return to the non-dancing stage.

“Ah, it’s not an inconvenience～ I’m relieved to see you’re back!”

“T-That’s right!”

“Thank you.”

The members comforted Kim Raebin in moderation and dispersed to their hotel rooms. Because they had to sleep quickly and wake up early to revise the stage that included Kim Raebin’s movement.

I nodded my head.

“You’re in this room.”

“Yes!”

It was randomly divided while Kim Raebin went to the doctor.

‘We don’t stay for long anyway.’

We didn’t have a long schedule in Japan. I held the door until Kim Raebin came in, then I went inside to wash up.

“First, take a shower.”

“Yes!”

He’d been resting the past few days, so he’d become more disciplined. I shook my head and came out of the shower.

Then, I made eye contact with Kim Raebin, who was very nervous.

"…?"

He was on the verge of making some kind of bombshell remarks.

'Could it be that the injury has gotten worse?'

I also kept quiet as I didn't want to hear that his break from the choreography would be longer, and Kim Raebin finally opened his mouth with difficulty.

"That, hyung."

"What is it?"

"From what hyung heard… Is this new song by Golden Age more popular than the song I have worked on?"

"…??"

What kind of nonsense is this all of a sudden?

I looked at him dumbfounded, then Kim Raebin closed his eyes and recited his words.

"I am currently in a situation where my contribution to the performance is extremely insufficient, but if my involvement in the music is a negative factor, I will refrain from composing and arranging from now on…"

"Wait, wait. What are you talking about?"

I cut him off because it was going in an absurd direction.

'What kind of nonsense are you talking about when you've released such a good album?'

Of course, self-producing members were a double-edged sword. Because if you did well, it was synergistic, but if you didn't, it became the subject of internal conflict.

It was easy to create a frame like ‘The reason why the music score this time is bad is because of the producing member’s stubbornness and incompetence’.

‘But Kim Raebin has never failed.’

Golden Age hadn’t come out as a candidate for first place, and Kim Raebin’s form hadn’t fallen either, so this was really out of the blue.

I asked as calmly as I could.

“Why did you suddenly think like that?”

“That… While monitoring the reaction to the music, I accidentally watched a video of Golden Age members’ new song due to the influence of the algorithm, but there were a lot of top comments…”

“Give it to me. Let me see.”

“Yes?”

I got the video address from Kim Raebin and checked it.

[Golden Age_Hi Goody_comments]

‘…It’s a comment reaction video.’

It was content that collected and showed the best comments related to the stage video.

In the first place, if public opinion on the song was favorable, only positive and funny comments were found and shown

.

Of course, it was full of praise for Golden Age’s song.

And in the process, wouldn’t there be a lot of comparisons with the current strongest team?

– I turned on music shows to watch Testar, but when I came back to my sense, I was already watching Hi Goody

– I don't listen to loud and obnoxious male idol songs, but I listen to Hi Goody, the best song of the year

If you looked at the comments on this video, not the comments shown on the video, a more primary level of comparison came out.

Looking at this video, 'Honestly, Golden Age's song was catchier' seemed to be a popular opinion.

"Hmm."

I took my eyes off the smartphone screen. Kim Raebin murmured.

"…For that reason, I would like to ask for an objective and cold evaluation."

Right.

'Is it because you blame yourself?'

Kim Raebin was not the kind of person who could lose confidence in his ability.

Perhaps because he hurt his foot and couldn't stand on stage, the pressure to do a great job on the other side seemed to have intensified.

That's why he kept looking for the gossip that compared the songs of similar groups with the title track he made, and eventually, he would have that kind of thought.

"…"

I sat on the bed across from Kim Raebin.

And I chose my words.

Chapter 158

First of all, since Kim Raebin brought up the topic of top comments, let's talk about numbers as indicators.

"Let's look at it objectively, as you said. 'Present' is ranked higher in the music chart than that song. Isn't this an objective and cold public evaluation?"

But Kim Raebin was not deceived.

"I think it's a matter of sample differences that arise from differences in popularity. We need to evaluate after listening to both actual songs without personal feelings…!"

"…"

That's why he wanted to hear my opinion. I answered slowly, holding back my sigh.

"Okay… I get it. To me, 'Parade' is a better song."

"I-Is that so?"

"But it is true that their song is more popular over there."

"…!"

"It's a nice catchy song."

Kim Raebin clenched his hands on his knees. I went on to explain.

"But that's because the purpose is different. In the first place, we made a song that prioritizes performance."

“But…”

“It means you don’t have to uselessly compare it. No song is always perfect in every way. It’s hard to compare it objectively. Timing and taste… There’s also a matter of luck.”

“…Yes.”

Kim Raebin still looked timid, but he nodded as if he understood what I meant.

I smirked.

“Are you feeling shameful?”

“Yes?… Yes.”

Kim Raebin hesitated and added.

“I… I am often criticized for not being good at speaking and for not being the type that suits a community life.”

Aigoo.

“So, if my contributions are lacking in terms of production, I thought it would be right to develop other competencies that can help the group.”

“Hmm.”

Kim Raebin probably needed the certainty that he was contributing to the album even if he couldn’t perform right now.

‘Then this is the best way.’

I remembered the plan I had been preparing.

But before I told him about it, let’s correct this first.

“First of all… I don’t think you’re particularly bad at living in a community.”

“Oh, I’ve often heard that I can’t read the atmosphere…”

Yeah. You must have heard that a lot in your life.

However, he wasn’t stubborn or bad-tempered in interpersonal relationships, so there was no problem working with him.

“Is that so? Has any of the members ever been angry with you while promoting Testar?”

“…No.”

“See? It’s not a problem, so don’t worry about it.”

“I-I see!”

Kim Raebin’s expression got a little brighter.

“And the production issue… Hmm. Wait a minute.”

I turned on my smartphone and called up information on Golden Age’s new song listed on the music site.

I looked for the copyright-holder article.

“You see the composers and the arrangers here.”

“Yes.”

I explained what I had confirmed beforehand.

“The composer is an outside freelancer… The arranger is not on a team with this composer. They belong to the Golden Age’s company.”

“Um, yes.”

“Do you understand what that means?”

“Contemporary composition is a production of a multi-tasking and comprehensive nature, so placing responsibility on oneself is excessive self-consciousness…?”

An extraordinary answer came out.

“…No, I’m saying that you can make a direct comparison if you want.”

I tapped the composer on the screen.

“Actually, I got some songs from this composer.”

“…!! W-When and how did you proceed??”

“A while ago. Well.”

Cheongryeo’s words bothered me, so at the beginning of the activity, I already contacted them and received a few songs.

They were activity song candidates for a repackage album that would follow shortly after this album’s activities.

“Golden Age did well with this song, so I’m sure they’ll get another song from the same composer. And the arrangement will be done by the company again.”

“…Don’t tell me.”

“Yeah.”

Now he got it.

“If you arrange a song from the same composer, you can make the direct comparison you want.”

“…!”

“Who wrote the music of this popular composer… I wonder if their arrangement made it better.”

I made this conclusion after listening to all of this composer’s candidate songs.

‘They’re good at picking out the melody, but the structure is weak.’

To put it bluntly, it reduced the level of perfection. It seemed the rearrangement influenced the song a lot.

With his mouth open, Kim Raebin seemed to be imagining what would happen for a moment, but he suddenly came to his senses and said.

“But if you do it wrong, it can become a direct confrontation, which can make it disadvantageous to each other…”

Wow. You think that far?

I laughed. It was admirable.

As Kim Raebin said, if it went wrong, Testar could suffer losses with the frame itself.

No, looking at that agency, they could go further and try to sway public opinion by saying that Testar stole the Golden Age’s composer.

But in reality, it would be difficult for them to do that.

“It’s fine. There won’t be any confrontation.”

“Yes?”

“We’re not the only ones who arrange songs from that composer.”

I turned off the smartphone screen.

“Because VTIC unit and Youngrin sunbae-nim will also use that composer for the next album.”

“…!”

Right.

If I did this alone, I’d get indigestion. I had to attract people to join me.

‘I’m glad I got Youngrin’s number during the doppelganger variety show.’

…I was a little uncomfortable with Cheongryeo’s side, but it was better to burn it all at once to prevent any nonsense.

Anyway, they both said okay without hesitation.

– Ah, that would be fun. Good idea^^

– Thank you for introducing a good composer. It will give momentum to my work on the new album.

Top tiers with different affiliations, years, and images got along well with each other, so it would be difficult to unilaterally tie that composer to the Golden Age.

It would just increase the composer’s value.

As Cheongryeo advised, the Gold 1 company didn’t buy the composer, which meant we could buy their song. Isn’t this a very conscientious act?

‘So, why are you grabbing someone by the collar without consideration?’

It was their own consequence.

I smiled and crossed my arms.

“Within this year, there will be four songs by the same composer arranged separately. It will be a real battle.”

"…"

Kim Raebin swallowed.

"Do you still want to try?"

"Yes…!"

Good. It seemed his motivation had returned now that the game was set up. Kim Raebin's eyes were shining with enthusiasm.

"Of course, that doesn't necessarily mean that the composer's song will be used as the activity's song. Since it's one of the candidate songs, let's discuss it with the members and choose a popular one."

"All right!"

I nodded.

"Yes, then go to bed."

"Yes?"

Kim Raebin was taken aback by the sudden wrap-up. I spoke quietly.

"Even now, I only get four and a half hours of sleep."

"Gasp, I am sorry! I've caused a lot of damage to hyung's bedtime…"

"It's fine so let's just sleep"

I stopped Kim Raebin and immediately turned off the light.

I had to wake up early tomorrow morning and practice the performance I would show in Japan with Kim Raebin, who was uncomfortable with his feet.

'Should I bring him a tiger doll?'

I fell asleep, hoping that anyone could come up with a good idea, whether they were the footwear companies or the members.

It was three days before the recording of the Japanese broadcasting stage.

* * *

It was a weekday morning in August, when all students were on vacation.

A high school student, who played WeTube on his computer while feeling the wind of the air conditioner, found a music video that was still at the top of the popular videos.

[Testar(TeSTAR) 'present' Official MV]

"…"

In fact, the high school student had already watched the music video.

It was entirely because of the teaser.

Park Moondae, the Groom in May from <The Singer I Made>, had left a huge impression on the high school student, so his older sister gently persuaded him, saying that his final song would come out here.

– Hey, hey, look at this

– What's wrong with you? Go away

– When are you going to give me 100,000 won~ I'll call the bet off, so hurry and watch. Here's the song Park Moondae sang in My Singer.

-…

– It f*cking went viral and got a lot of views. You should watch it too

So the high school student eventually watched the teaser and was intrigued by its enormous scale.

That was how his sister successfully introduced them to him.

But the high school student was in denial.

'…I only watched it because I am curious about the arrangement.'

The high school student tried to think that he was just curious about the other version of the final song sung by 'Groom in May'.

"To be honest, objectively, it's a high-quality video. It's like a trailer for a huge drama on Netplus, so it's bound to be fun."

Even by the high school student's standards, the music video was more fun than the teaser.

Because the music video was much shorter and more exciting.

'The sense of speed was amazing.'

The high school student was a little conflicted, but he clicked on the music video and played it.

'There's nothing harm in seeing it once.'

Fortunately, the video started right away without any ads.

[Chakghopsa, Chung, comes out and follows orders.]

The music video was about Ryu Chungwoo, who was ordered by the king to catch the 'most harmful spirit' and he went around Joseon looking for the spirit with his <Ghost Record>.

Acting as a spirit, each member interacted with Ryu Chungwoo and gave clues to the 'most harmful spirit' or got eradicated.

– The day I finally found you

A parade

Let's end it here

In particular, it felt great when intense choreography scenes and dynamic story scenes intersected each time they entered the chorus.

With the choreography scenes inserted in between as if to heighten the atmosphere, Ryu Chungwoo finally met Kim Raebin in the cave.

Kim Raebin attempted to identify the 'most harmful spirit' by using the lanterns floating all over his cave.

At this time, his part in the song intersected together, and it gave a very strange feeling that Kim Raebin of the story was performing the part while looking directly at the camera.

Lanterns in the cave shone with all sorts of neon lights.

As if to give a warning.

– Now, he appears

Warning again warning

Approaching with one's life

Slow and thrilling

Amidst the flickering lanterns that created a strange light, the camera swiveled around and focused on Ryu Chungwoo.

– Me

The song stopped.

And there was a very brief cut scene of screaming and running.

[Argh!]

[Ugh…]

It was a four-footed beast.

The beast, whose shape was difficult to see due to the scene passing by in an instant, turned into a child when the sun rose.

Above it, the current figure of Ryu Chungwoo in the cave was crossed.

Ryu Chungwoo realized that it was the ‘most harmful spirit’.

Again, the tune exploded.

– Even if you lower my head, you can’t escape

Look carefully

I’m thrilled

For several tens of seconds, including the final dance break, the choreography cut that reached its climax was driven without a story.

And it wasn’t until the climax of the song was over that the story cut appeared again.

[…]

Dark night. Ryu Chungwoo, who was staring at the camera, turned his back and disappeared into the forest.

With the sound of the taepyeongso, the song ended.

[present]

And the ending credits rolled.

Along with unfamiliar background music.

– Lying down late at night

Think about it. Maybe

From the beginning, I

I don't think so

It was a song about parting. At first glance, it sounded like a love song, but after knowing the story, it became very meaningful.

It was Ryu Chungwoo's solo song, 'Truth'.

There were a lot of fans and WeTubers who find and analyze all kinds of content in the music video and the teaser from beginning to end, but the high school student didn't know that and was not interested in it.

He just admired the video and thought it was amazing.

'It even has a stinger.'

In fact, another scene came out after the end credits.

It was about the true identity of the king who strictly ordered Ryu Chungwoo in the first music video scene.

[How can you fall for that~]

It was Lee Sejin with fox ears on his head.

The stinger ended with Lee Sejin, who had been laughing wholeheartedly, crushing his huge tail decoration and lying down on the throne.

Not knowing that the fans had shuddered at the shock and cuteness of this ending, the high school student just licked his lips.

‘Isn’t this made by Netplus?’

While trying to think that it would have been better if real actors did it instead of the idols, the high school student couldn’t find any awkwardness in the video, let alone any flaws.

‘…It’s good.’

The boy eventually admitted once again and slipped out of the music video screen.

No, he tried to get out, but he couldn’t move it back, probably because it was lagging.

‘Ah, seriously.’

The high school student got sick of it and continuously tried to press the back button, and he accidentally checked the Internet page that his sister had opened because of the address that was quickly skipped back.

It was the trace of his sister’s Internet, which usually didn’t have any remains left because she browsed incognito.

“What’s this??”

On the blue SNS page… There was a gif of Park Moondae looking back in a classroom.

Magical Boy MV Behind Cut (1) Park Moondae

(revised GIF)

#ParkMoondae #BlondeMundae #GoldenMundae #MagicalBoy

Wearing white summer clothes in front of the bright red, yellow, and purple sky, Park Moondae’s black hair turned blonde when he looked back.

This gif was really well done.

"…"

For your information, the account introduction on the profile was 'a blood union that only loves Gold Moon Puppy'.

'This and that look the same.'

The high school boy grumbled, but he concluded that black hair was easier to look at than fierce blonde hair.

*'Is this from a music video, too? F*ck, I feel corrupted.'*

The high school student searched for 'Testar' on WeTube, expecting to throw sarcastic comments.

However, something caught his attention before the 'Magical Boy' music video.

It was a video that was uploaded yesterday.

[Testar visiting Japan broadcast cut]

'Huh?'

The thumbnail was a Japanese comedian with his mouth wide open.

'Ah, I can't stand this.'

He'd watch it for the gukkpong. The high school student snickered and clicked on the video.

Chapter 159

The Japanese broadcast starring Testar was a morning broadcast with the time showing 7:41 at the top.

'Ah, there are ranks in K-pop, but they show up in morning talk shows?'

The high school student was a little dissatisfied, but he kept watching the video, thinking that he should finish watching it now that he'd already played the video.

There were Korean subtitles that the fans had attached.

[A super special KPOP group is here!]

[Korea's national idol, Testar]

And Testar's history and achievements, intertwined with music videos and award ceremony scenes, quickly got on the broadcast.

[Their album sales this time reached 1.1 million!]

[What could be the secret to the charm of 7 people and 7 colors formed through a survival audition?]

[We asked Hallyu fans at Shin-Okubo!]

And interviews with KPOP fans on the streets around Korean Town briefly passed by.

[As expected, I feel like they have the most momentum lately?]

[My favorite is Moondae. A cute puppy who's good at singing!]

[Everyone has a different favorite.]

[It's touching to see them working so hard and they are so cute.]

'Oh… They're popular in Japan, too?'

The high school student straightened his sullen face.

The video finally foreshadowed Testar's appearance, along with a sparkling effect.

[Korea's super-class idol group]

[Entering the studio right now!]

Du-du-du-dum!

With some stark effect, Testar entered against the backdrop of four or two clapping panels on the pastel-tone set.

They were dressed in navy blue suits that appropriately matched their traditional accessories.

'Look at the length of their legs.'

While the high school student felt vicarious satisfaction, Testar smiled and greeted politely without showing any signs of nervousness.

[Hello, Take your STAR, we're Testar!]

[Wow!]

[Welcome. Please introduce yourself!]

[Yes!]

At the MC's request, the self-introduction continued by mixing very simple Japanese or using English.

They knew that they didn't have much time, so they added a little bit of their own characteristics.

[Hello. I am Testar's leader, Ryu Chungwoo. I was in the archery national team before.]

[Gasp!]

[Really?]

[Yes, I was a gold medalist.]

Then he smiled and passed the microphone to the next person without hesitation.

A stronger reaction was shown on purpose.

[So cool! Dangerous!]

[That must be his charming point!]

The person who produced the subtitles even carried out the sound of panels whispering in the background in small color subtitles.

Whenever a member was caught smiling, 'cool' and 'cute' burst out.

[I'm Bae Sejin. I used to be a child actor…]

[He's definitely a tsundere!]

[…!]

Lee Sejin interrupted Bae Sejin, who hesitated a little when he was about to finish.

[Tsundere??]

[Ahaha!]

Drawing laughter with Bae Sejin's dumbfounded expression, Lee Sejin continued his introduction with a smile.

[My name is Lee Sejin, and I have the same name as the tsundere hyung-nim here, so I got the nickname Keun Sejin.]

[Keun?]

['Keun' means big in Korean~ Yes. I'm in charge of dancing in the team!]

Thanks to the education he had received as a trainee, he spoke Japanese fluently.

[…Hello, I'm… Seon Ahyeon. I majored in dance… I look forward to… your kind cooperation.]

[I am Park Moondae. You can think of my image between a singing puppy and a Tibetan fox however you want.]

[HELLO GUYS, I'm Eugene. Please remember me! Thanks!]

Like this, the turn came to Kim Raebin, who was standing at the end.

However, this time, a question came from the panel. It caught their attention that the ornament on Kim Raebin's foot, which he had been wearing cleverly as an ornament, was a protector.

[Aren't you uncomfortable with that leg?]

[Yes, but there's no problem with showing the performance.]

When the interpreter translated Kim Raebin's smart answer, the panels nodded and admired him, saying, 'Being confident is good'.

*'The dance was so f*cking hard. What are you going to do?'*

The high school student watched, feeling somewhat skeptical.

[Testar's stage will follow soon~]

Originally, there should be an here, but because it was a cut scene, the stage followed immediately in the video.

On the platform of the clean set, the stage began with Japanese subtitles as the lights rotated.

– So that you can't escape even if you struggle

You come today, you go

Let's stick one more to the record

Now come, come, go

'They're in perfect sync.'

The choreography was smooth because they had practiced their movements without Kim Raebin.

In addition, thanks to Cha Eugene, who was full of spirits for having the whole group for the first time in a long time, the opening boasted a great level of immersion.

Even the extremely static camera showed the details of the dynamic performance.

The high school student unwittingly kept his mouth shut and concentrated on the stage.

– He appears

'But he's not appearing?'

However, the man who had a leg injury didn't appear on the stage until the first verse. The high school student was a bit puzzled, but he quickly erased the thought from his head.

‘I think Groom is doubling throughout the chorus. Kuh, why are my ears listening so well?’

Because he was busy watching the stage.

In fact, it was the first time he properly watched the stage of ‘present’, so he just watched the intro of verses 1 and 2 absent-mindedly.

And right before entering the last pre-chorus.

The high school student managed to notice Kim Raebin walking slowly from behind.

‘What are you trying to do?’

Just as he thought that the form might cool down, the choreography formation moved cleverly and suddenly fell out like a low tide and lifted Kim Raebin.

“…!”

Kim Raebin started his part while riding on the backs and arms of the other members, as if riding on a palanquin, with bright eyes.

– No, someone who came in the middle of the night

The broken and torn doorknob

bang bang bang

The rolling and splashing sound

And at the same time, the formation changed.

– He appears

Warning again warning

Approaching with one's life

Sow and thrilling

Riding the arms and upper bodies connected to the floor, Kim Raebin slid forward slightly as if landing, supporting himself with his arms.

And he stood in the front center and stared at the camera.

– Me

"Wow!"

Regardless of the high school student's admiration, Kim Raebin never stopped rapping.

Like that, he continued until the next part came.

'Huh?'

Only then did the high school student realize.

Testar appropriately removed similar parts from the first half and second half and rearranged them, then they gave all of the second half to Kim Raebin.

'Wow, his energy is terrifying.'

Because the song had a large proportion of rap, Kim Raebin's momentum was terrifying.

Kim Raebin, who walked forward, didn't have a separate choreography, but it looked like a performance thanks to the members around him moving as if they were his hands and feet.

And as if taking over the momentum, Park Moondae's vocals rose sharply at the climax of the second half.

'This is it!!'

The last dance break.

After Kim Raebin, who had fallen behind, made a spectacular move that made him invisible, Testar deliberately pulled the formation back.

So after they joined Kim Raebin. The ending cut came.

[Present]

“It’s great.”

The high school student unwittingly hit the desk. On the screen, the faces of the panelists were getting a close-up after the stage was over.

Their eyes were widening.

‘Hey, the thumbnail’s from here.’

The high school student chuckled.

Testar in the video got up and straightened their clothes. And they immediately smiled and greeted the camera.

[Thank you!]

[This is Testar’s parade~]

The video ended there.

And the high school student was convinced.

‘Honesty, they tore it up.’

He could understand why it had so many views. Just by looking at it, his pride in the country excessively swelled up.

When he read the comments because it was fun, he was also excited by fans and Koreans who were also having fun.

-Taste a little bit of Testar, but not too much. We don't have enough space ㅠㅠ

– It must have felt eye-opening, we know the feeling

-It's a waste for Testar to go to Japan. The agency should think carefully and focus more on the U.S

– Our kpop idols~ I'm so proud of you!^^

– Huh, Testar is not at the level to show up at morning shows. It's good to earn foreign currency, but let's take care of our pride

In Japan, the status of such morning programs is much higher than in Korea, and they have good viewership ratings too~ Testar is truly amazing ㅋ

Oh, I see ㄱㅅㄱㅅ

"Oh…"

It turned out to be a popular program. The high school student shrugged his shoulders.

'Is there anything else fun?'

As he watched the related videos with excitement, he saw a lot of reviews of Japanese reactions to Testar.

[Japanese broadcasters who can't keep their mouths shut at Testar's traditional Korean performance!]

[The Japanese broadcast is going crazy at Testar's performance]

'The gukppong channels are excited.'

High school students usually didn't watch things like this because it was embarrassing, but he clicked on one, thinking he could let this one slide because he was bored.

By the way, at the same time, Park Moondae was also monitoring.

* * *

– I spilled my milk because I was so amazed by Testar's performance

– Who's this kid? Who the hell is he? No matter how you look at him, he's an angel (Seon Ahyeon's photo taken directly from the TV screen)

– He majored in ballet? I thought he was somehow elegant. He has a pretty face and an angel's gesture(* ´ ω `)

– Another Korean idol appeared on the morning show. But the level of dance is amazing.

– Someone, please tell me the name of the member with the leg injury! Scary face, cool voice, and sweet personality? What kind of cartoon character is this ww

– I am worried about Sejin, I can't stand that his character is the opposite of him…

– It's an oriental song, so powerful(□□✿)

– Anyone can tell that he's a cute Neko-chan, but why is his nickname Tibetan fox? I can't understand Korea WWW (Park Moondae's photo)

'Did I select only the good responses?'

I felt like it might have been a little distorted. I shoved the room service into my mouth and skipped through the video at high speed.

It was annoying because the content that could have been posted as an article came out as a video, which doubled the time looking.

'Still, I'm busy learning English, but learning Japanese is too much.'

It must have been entirely thanks to my characteristic that I could learn how to properly greet and talk in two weeks.

I shrugged my shoulders and roughly organized the content I collected from fans' SNS and WeTube channels.

'Seon Ahyeon got good responses.'

Kim Raebin got a lot of responses because being the center in the second half was impressive, and the rest of the members were fine as well.

'…There are more mentions of me than I thought.'

I didn't know how they got into it, but it seemed the feeling of being a 4D character made it work.

'Whatever.'

Anyway, the conclusion was that the overall response was very good.

Of course, the fact that the reactions were big enough to be a result meant that we didn't only get good responses.

[Japan's Internet rightist is mad at Testar's popularity]

This video content could be seen as an example.

– Who's Testar?W Never heard of them. They're like Zainichi Koreans[1]Zainichi Korean = Koreans who live in Japan. anyway

– Another anti-Japanese group? If you want Japanese money so much, get your bearings right

– These guys got plastic surgeries

– It's a Korean-style concept. How far does the Korean government's national policy go?

– It's just a grandiose trick, but the song is noisy enough to be trashWWWWWWWWW

Below that, there was a comment from the video uploader that mocked and disproved this statement.

'Typical.'

It seemed the K-Pop group, which was slightly well-known in Japan, had taken care of all of this nonsense. I guessed the response was good.

I shrugged and finished monitoring.

And sure enough, a few days later, I heard the news from the company.

"Official broadcast in Japan?"

"Oh! I heard that the broadcasting station bought it because the reactions were good!"

Right away <Re-listed Idol Inc.> was officially aired in Japan.

'…Will it be okay?'

The content was so stimulating that it could work in Japan, but I wasn't sure if a survival program that had already reached a conclusion would be popular.

"Hey~ I remember those times!"

"T-That's right."

"It was difficult, but it was so rewarding."

Several members talked about their feelings regarding the topic of Idol Inc's broadcasting which was mentioned for the first time in a long time.

Since they debuted after winning in that show, some of them talked as if they were recalling a difficult exam.

Of course, there were some who didn't.

"…It should have been abolished."

It was Bae Sejin.

Anyway, the news about <Idol Inc> didn't end there.

"Oh, come to think of it, you guys know that <Idol Inc.> is going to have a new season, right?"

"Heol, really?"

"It will, eventually."

"I see~"

The manager took his chance.

"That's why~ They said they'll do it if you show up there."

I knew it would be like this.

- 1. Zainichi Korean = Koreans who live in Japan.

Chapter 160

It was a national rule for the winner of the previous season to appear on the audition program.

In particular, Testar was the living witness of <Idol Inc>'s success so if I were the staff of the production team, I would have definitely asked them to appear.

And since the current agency was also affiliated with T1, of course, it was impossible to refuse.

"Guys, think about it. Wouldn't it be cool? It's the appearance of the champion!"

"Oh~"

Keun Sejin laughed at the manager's words. He wanted to tell him not to talk nonsense, but it seemed he was holding back.

"Have you already talked about us appearing?"

"Hmm, I guess. They think you'll keep your loyalty since we're from the same company."

Saying something like loyalty.

'Half of the guys here have been smashed with their bad policy more than once.'

Perhaps everyone thought the same, I noticed some of them looked a little incredulous or laughing bitterly.

However, Cha Eugene raised his hand while making a face of thinking deeply about something.

“Hyung-nim! Is it girl this time?”

“Huh? Ah, the participant?”

“Yes!”

“Right, it’s girls!”

“Oh.”

Cha Eugene said with a serious face.

“There are fans who think of me as their boyfriend. I don’t like it!”

“Cough!”

Seon Ahyeon choked.

“Hey, then, you just have to be careful~ You’re not going to date them!”

“When you meet a good person, it’s natural to date! I don’t know how I would feel!”

“You just have to say something nice on the set! You won’t have any chance to go that far, Eugene!”

He was right.

‘They’re not going to make us particularly intertwined on the screen.’

T1 also wouldn’t want to rip out Testar’s stomach that laid golden eggs. This wouldn’t unnecessarily hurt Testar’s brand image.

However, there would be room for participants to be misunderstood due to the editing.

‘Participants who neglect practice because they are distracted by the appearance of a popular idol… ’

It was a very familiar format. It even made me feel nostalgic.

It was just tiring to get involved in such things. And it wasn’t the only risk factor.

‘I think those bastards are going to mess around.’

Since season 3 we did was so successful, in season 4, various forces would work hard to control and dominate it.

If you looked at the time period, it wouldn’t be strange if it started last year, but it wasn’t surprising that it got delayed by a year.

‘There is a 10% chance of controversy.’

I didn’t want to get involved in that mess.

‘I’ll take care of myself as much as I can.’

I wondered if it was fine to focus on appearance rather than looking cool, so I should give a briefing later.

I sighed inside, and then Kim Raebin, who was sitting next to me, raised his hand.

“Then, let’s give the song that fits girls’ key that I wrote this time as a mission song…”

“Don’t.”

“No, Raebin.”

“…? Alright.”

Before the manager could answer, Kim Raebin lowered his hand again in response to the pouring refusal.

It was good that he wasn't stubborn.

'Use your passion to produce somewhere else.'

We would go with the flow of not getting involved as much as possible.

'When will we shoot?"

"Uh, next week? It doesn't take long, you'll only do it briefly in between."

"Oh~"

I leaned back on the backrest listening to the conversation between the manager and Keun Sejin.

"Oh, it's Thursday. There's a variety show scheduled for Moondae!"

Oh, I knew what he meant.

* * *

"<The Singer I Made>, the best singer character…"

"It's Park Moondae's 'Groom in May'!"

Poof!

There was a burst of confetti and cheers.

I could already see captions like 'Three consecutive victories!' above the panelists clapping their hands.

"Congratulations!"

It was the 'Groom in May' stage that I hadn't done in a while because it got canceled for 4 weeks due to a special program.

And it was also my last victory.

Because in this program, in order to maintain originality, the number of times a character could show up was limited to three.

'It's over.'

The timing was perfect.

For the second time, I sang a rhythmical tango, and this time, I sang a faint night song to reminisce memories.

'Of course, I arranged the climax longer.'

Thanks to that, I was able to win three times before getting off, so it was nice.

I exchanged my last impressions with the panelists in moderation.

Now, let's say thank you to the viewers and the members…

"Moondae-ssi, do you have any thoughts about showing up as a new character?"

"Right! I'm so sad to let you go~"

They said that but I knew I would just be digging my own grave.

"If there's a chance, I hope I can see you again later. I had a lot of fun when I played as Groom in May."

This was the truth.

'Thanks to them, I recovered quickly.'

Having a schedule that I had to prepare alone helped me sometimes when I was uncomfortable meeting Ryu Chungwoo.

It was nice not having the time to think about anything else since I got busier.

'…Having counseling in between was helpful.'

It was embarrassing to admit this, but confiding in an expert, even if it was only scratching the surface, certainly worked.

Thanks to that, I had no other thoughts right now. The number of consultations was also reduced.

'I think I can settle the status window without any difficulties.'

While I was organizing the current situation in my mind, the MC continued diligently.

I should focus on the shoot, too.

"The Groom in May, who won the Hall of Fame with three consecutive wins, will be produced as character merchandises with the support of the Korean Culture and Arts Council."

For reference, this was a kind of public service project, but the profits were not returned to the broadcasting station and were all donated.

"Please pay a lot of attention to this product to help malnourished children, dear viewers!"

But the donation wouldn't be under my name, it would be under this program.

'Those guys rob me.'

They robbed the tax benefits, too.

Of course, thanks to this, popularity was the only thing I gained. If there were any problems with merchandising, it's would be the broadcasting station's fault.

“Thank you for your time.”

“We love it, too~”

“See you again!”

A staff member came out of nowhere and put a doll in my arms. It was a ‘May Groom’ doll with flowers on its face.

‘Oh, my God.’

They even made use of this segment for promotion.

I smiled and waved the doll once, nodded to the judges and the audience, and came down the stage.

I could hear the MC shouting the ending remarks from above.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“Thank you for your hard work, Moondae-ssi!”

“Thank you, thank you.”

This sense of accomplishment was pretty nice. I fiddled with the stuffed doll in my hand.

‘…Should I put it in my bedroom?’

The roommates would change soon, so I would have to arrange some other place to celebrate when I changed my room later.

‘Then, this is fine.’

The entertainment show that I started alone was now over.

It was time to go and finish filming Testar’s birthplace entertainment show.

“Moondae, welcome~”

“How was it?”

I was questioned as soon as I got into the car.

I waved the doll.

“I won.”

“Oh~”

Applauses rang out. It wasn’t even their business, but their response was good. With this momentum, I thought I could play an active role as a reaction bot on <Idol Inc>’s set.

“I-Is this the prize?”

“Yeah.”

“Wow…”

“It’s better than I thought. I think it’d be nice if we make something like this and put it in the album~”

After undergoing a business analysis, the flower head doll settled in front of the window behind the seat.

And the car moved straight ahead and stopped in front of a familiar huge building on the outskirts.

“Wow… It hasn’t changed a bit.”

“It’s been a long time.”

I bet my flower head doll that ‘I didn’t want to see you again’ was omitted in that sentence.

Even Ryu Chungwoo murmured a little bitterly.

“Hmm… Yes. Let’s do well.”

“Yes.”

Revisiting the script that we had already learned, Testar entered the filming set of <Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2>

And I came to confirm the situation that they had notified.

“Heol! Guys!”

“Oh~ Hello!”

Ins the filming set, there was Gold 1’s group… Golden Age.

Of course, that group wasn’t the only one here. Over there, Gold 2 was glancing this way.

“Oh, Heeseung, it’s been a long time. You said you’re a model, you seem to be doing well?”

“Hehe, of course! Sejin hyung-nim, how have you been?”

The production team gathered all the participants who had been active to some extent after appearing in season 3.

‘Isn’t this number too much?’

It seemed they were planning to launch <Idol Inc.> after raising its popularity to the fullest, but I thought it would be counterproductive because the audience was quite divided due to the gender difference.

‘Well, it’s none of my business.’

It would be better if season 4 failed.

If it worked as well as season 3, even if the gender was different, the survival group's favorite rank would change, so things would leak.

It would be best if the show failed because it wasn't fun, rather than because of a fairness controversy issue.

'Hmm, I don't know how it will be.'

Let's finish the shoot safely.

"Ah, Testar is here~ Welcome! Thank you."

Testar shook hands with the extremely friendly PD and greeted the writers. Among them was writer Ryu Seorin.

"Hello."

The writer who gave me a business card at a karaoke room and the person who caused controversy over her family relationship with Ryu Chungwoo.

And if showed up in my original body, most likely, my relative…

'That's enough.'

Anyway, writer Ryu Seorin got over the situation without pretending to know anyone in particular. It was quite a wise decision.

The PD gave a short briefing before shooting.

"Everyone, you're all familiar with the direction, right?"

"Yes!"

"Please be cool~ Cool!"

According to his brief, the direction of our appearance was like this.

After playing the 'Idol Inc Season 3 Achievement Video' to the participants, the people in the video suddenly appeared in front of them, said a word of support, asked questions, and left… they explained like that.

'My hands and feet are shriveling up.'

I could do it just fine. However, it was embarrassing to see clearly what kind of effect the person who planned this was aiming for.

"D-Do you want some chocolate?"

"…Yeah. Give me one."

"Give me one, too!"

I should charge myself with sugar.

After munching on the chocolate Seon Ahyeon gave me, it wasn't long before the time to shoot came.

"You'll enter in 5 seconds~"

Season 3 participants, who were waiting at the device in front of the ranking announcement set, appeared in front of season 4 contestants on a lift together.

I could already hear a scream.

"Uaaah!"

"It's real? Is this real?"

I couldn't believe this direction either, but it was real.

'No way, you're not going to edit me more excessively because I won first place, right?'

I was already worried about the monitoring.

* * *

“Whoa.”

“Ah, it was more nerve-wracking than I thought.”

The camera followed me even after the shooting was over, probably for the behind-the-scenes story.

I smiled roughly, waved my hand, and threw another cheering remark.

“Fighting!”

“I hope season 4 will be the best.”

Just because I said I wanted it to be the best didn’t mean it would really become the best, so I could say whatever I wanted.

But… Because the filming was so embarrassing, my hands were sweaty. Should I go wash up?

“Ah, I’m going to the bathroom for a minute.”

Instead of the manager who was away somewhere, Keun Sejin looked up while looking at his smartphone.

“You’re not going to ask for the participants’ number, are you, Moondae? I trust you~”

“Yeah.”

Perhaps because I had seen another season 3 contestant flirting with me to get my number, I didn’t even feel like asking if he had gone crazy.

‘I guess she’s confident she won’t get caught.’

I shrugged my shoulders and walked down the hall.

As I walked further away from the noisy set, I suddenly heard a sound following me from behind.

'No way?'

When I turned my head, a different person than I expected was standing there.

It was Choi Wongil.

Did he have a reason to follow me?

"Hyung."

"…?"

Choi Wongil spoke with a conflicted face.

"What is it?"

"…I don't know how to tell you this. Be careful."

"What should I be careful about?"

"Us, the agency."

"…"

You're bringing this up yourself?

For now, to prevent the same disaster as last time, I made sure that there was no one around.

"There's no one. I've checked."

Sigh.

'I guess you've learned a little on your own.'

I smiled and completely turned to Choi Wongil.

“Yeah. What about your agency?”

“…Do you know our main vocalist? Not me, that hyung.”

“Oh, him.”

It seemed he was talking about the Golden Age guy who played the Chicken with Ribbon when I was the ‘Groom in May’ in <My Singer>.

“Yeah. I know him. What about him?”

Choi Wongil mumbled.

“I think he’s comparing himself… with hyung.”

“With me? Comparing about what?”

Why would he do such a reckless thing when he got a K.0 in My Singer? With the person who won first place in the survival show, at that.

Choi Wongil lowered his head.

“That, about your educational background…”

“…!”

“He’s a Korean university student.”

Oh, my God.

‘There’s that.’

Right. This ‘Park Moondae’ didn’t even graduate from high school.

After living as a college graduate, I became an idol right away, so I almost forgot the educational background of ‘Park Moondae’.

Sometimes it came out as aggravating noises, but even that didn’t come out often these days.

‘That means it’s a weak material.’

I wasn’t the only idol who dropped out of school in the first place.

It only stood out when the family history was stolen during <Idol Inc.>.

It also played a role in thickening the background of the character of ‘Park Moondae’, so it wasn’t particularly a weakness.

This meant, if they did this wrong, even if it was Golden Age, they could get the backlash that accused them of persecuting people.

It was kind of weird to say this, but I wasn’t unpopular.

‘You must have already guessed that they’re skilled in things like this.’

I purposely inspected Choi Wongil.

“Isn’t that too much? I want to know if you’re certain.”

“…I don’t know. They’re not telling me, but I heard it from the company somehow… They asked that hyung to act like a young master. They also told him to use Park Moondae hyung as a material…”

“…”

So, instead of sticking to me one-on-one, he was being pushed into the image of a golden spoon with the impression of ‘an elite with exceptionally good academic background and family’.

And I guessed they were thinking of using me as one of the numerous counter-examples.

'They do all kinds of things.'

Of course, I didn't know if they would really use me, but this attempt was certainly worth a try for an agency that was skilled at media play.

"I-I'm sorry I don't know. It's just… I've caused you a lot of trouble… I wanted to apologize, so I told you. I'm sorry."

"…Okay."

I held back my sigh.

"First of all… Thank you."

"……!"

Choi Wongil seemed surprised, but he nodded with a more relaxed face.

"Thank you. I, uh, I'm going…"

"Yeah. Go home safely."

I saw Choi Wongil running and disappearing, then I clicked my tongue inwardly.

'It's so vague.'

This wasn't something I could do anything about even if I knew. I had no intention of doing anything useless like taking the CSAT again and going to college.

'For now, it's important that I have known it in advance.'

And I didn't think there would be a big problem even in case of an emergency. I'd just get a little annoyed.

I shrugged and continued walking down the hallway.

'I don't have time to go to the bathroom.'

After walking quite a bit, I got closer to the entryway. So I thought of turning that way and leaving the set.

And I saw an unexpected encounter at the entryway on the other side.

"…I hope you will think about it! That sunbae is a really nice person."

"…"

A staff and Bae Sejin were finishing a conversation.

'PD?'

To be exact, the stiff-faced Bae Sejin had received something from one of the producers of <Idol Inc.>.

The PD soon left, and I approached Bae Sejin.

"Hyung."

"…Huh, oh."

Bae Sejin seemed a little dazed.

"Is something wrong?"

"That…"

Bae Sejin looked a little conflicted, but soon swallowed and said.

"He asked me if I have any thoughts on doing a drama."

"…!"

Chapter 161

Let's be frank and think about it.

'It's understandable that they would want Bae Sejin playing in a drama.'

He was originally a child actor and he appeared in <Idol Inc.> to continue his acting career.

Besides, no matter how you looked at it, his actor-related skills were better than his idol-related skills.

'He must be shaken, too.'

I insinuatingly asked Bae Sejin who had a slightly darker complexion.

"I guess the drama he suggested was okay."

"…It's a drama by a writer I worked with when I was a child actor in the past. In that drama… I heard there is one small role."

Bae Sejin murmured with a slightly gloomy face.

"Just now, that PD said that he is an acquaintance of the drama PD… He said the drama is fine, and T1 supports it…"

"Hmm."

At this point, the company must have received an offer, but they cut it down because of our activities.

'Are they trying not to give it any room because Testar is about to go on a tour?'

Unless there was a downward trend, the tour would definitely make more money.

"…Well, it's fine. Any acquaintance would say it's okay anyway."

Bae Sejin said as if forcibly shaking it off, then he headed to a nearby trash can to throw away the business card.

"Wait a minute."

"What?"

"How about talking to the company? It has been a year since our activities, so I thought it would be okay if you only talk about light works."

Bae Sejin's eyes widened.

Honestly, from my point of view, it was best for Bae Sejin to only do group activities for three years without thinking about anything else.

But people's minds varied.

'If you keep pressuring him, he might run away without completing the contract period.'

I could see that he wanted to do it, but he was afraid that it would cause a problem with the team's activities, so he held back.

There was a limit to what people could endure with reason and sociality, no matter how much fun you had, you'd go crazy if you continued being bad at it while the thing you were good at was right in front of you.

'Wouldn't it be better to release a drama now?'

Listening to him, it seemed to be a small supporting role, so I thought it would be okay.

Even if he got cursed at, he could pass it off by saying, 'It's T1 production, so even Testar members are mobilized for its publicity～’

At least like this, he could loosen up a little and it would be easier to start acting in earnest after a few years.

There would be less repulsion.

I also secretly attached the basis of this reasoning so that Bae Sejin could rationalize it properly.

“You have a few solo entertainment shows, and you’re filming pictorials and commercials.”

“…”

However, Bae Sejin crumpled the business card with a firm face and put it in the trash can.

“…!”

“That’s enough. I’ll just get distracted.”

And he murmured as if he were determined.

“I’m just barely keeping up… I can’t afford to worry about anything else right now.”

I could feel the pressure in his voice.

“…Activities come first.”

“Hyung…”

“…??”

That wasn’t me.

When I turned my head to the voice that suddenly stepped in, Kim

Raebin was looking at Bae Sejin with a face full of worries.

Looking at the drink in his hand, it seemed he was looking for Bae Sejin and me with the stuff in his hands that we couldn't get because we weren't there.

'You're still wearing a foot protector, just what are you… '

It was ridiculous, but the person concerned was cheerful.

"Seeing hyung so engrossed in Testar's activities, I want to recover quickly from my injury and contribute to the team."

"W-What's with you? Where did you come from?"

"Ah, eat this!"

Bae Sejin flushed and freaked out.

'Damn it.'

There was no room or atmosphere for further persuasion.

'If he looks regretful, I'll have to bring it up later.'

I shrugged, accepted the drink, and followed Kim Raebin toward the group.

Bae Sejin was drinking his tea with a grumpy look, but he didn't seem too upset.

Up until this point.

"…So, I met Bae Sejin hyung and Moondae hyung and gave them the drinks."

"You've worked hard~"

“But let’s be careful about your walk from now on, Raebin. I’ll take care of it until you recover.”

“I am getting used to it!”

In the car going back to the dorm.

Kim Raebin told the story of finding and bringing the two of us in response to the members’ questions, ‘Where have you been?’

Then in the back seat, Cha Eugene tapped Kim Raebin on the side and asked.

“What was the hyungs doing?”

“Ah, Bae Sejin hyung seems to be making a promise about Testar’s future activities…”

“N-No!”

Sitting in the front seat, Bae Sejin hurriedly denied it as his face turned red.

Kim Raebin tilted his head with a slight look of bewilderment as if he couldn’t understand the strong reaction.

“But you’ve refused some kind of activity and pledged your commitment to Testar…”

“No! It’s not that… Hey, tell them…”

“…”

You should do it yourself. Why are you calling me?

I opened my mouth reluctantly.

“Hyung was offered a role in a drama, but he refused. He wants to focus on the activities.”

“R-Really?”

I could see Bae Sejin groaning and covering his hands in front of me.

“You’ve worked hard, Sejin.”

“Try it next time! I like the challenge!”

“I-I’ll do my best for the activities, too…!”

The little emotion and encouragement warmed the inside of the car. Bae Sejin couldn’t raise his face, as if he had complicated and subtle thoughts.

‘Aigoo.’

I clicked my tongue and opened the water bottle. Next to me, Keun Sejin looked at his smartphone and spoke.

“You must have been disappointed. That’s amazing”

“…”

Bae Sejin in the front seat flinched and remained silent for a while.

Then he threw an answer as if the words came out unwittingly.

“That’s not what you think.”

“…!”

It was a rather sharp answer.

When Keun Sejin heard the answer, an incredulous smile appeared quickly on his face and then disappeared.

“Yes? Hey, why would you think like that? I just said something nice.”

"…I know you're being sarcastic, but stop doing such things. I told you, I refused the offer."

"When did I twist hyung's words?… No. Right. I'm sorry. I won't speak to you from now on. Is that all right with you then?"

"If you're going to speak like that every time, I'd rather you say it to me directly."

The atmosphere in the car suddenly froze.

*'What the f*ck is this?'*

Without even giving me time to think about anything, Keun Sejin took off his headphone next to me.

Keun Sejin was now laughing without hiding it anymore.

"What are you talking about? I already speak nicely to you."

"Stop making people feel weird. Do you think I don't know?"

"Why would I make you feel weird? No, I don't know why you're saying this."

"Guys, wait a minute."

Bae Sejin quickly turned his head. His eyes were blazing.

"You're still doing it. You think I'm pathetic, don't you? I know what you're thinking, I only have pride and it doesn't help with anything."

"…!"

"Look."

"It's so ridiculous, I am at loss for words."

“And you pretend to be close to me only when it benefits you in front of the camera.”

Gradually, Keun Sejin was getting angry, looking really furious.

“Then should we fight in front of the camera? Hyung, it’s not a kid’s game, every time people…”

Bae Sejin hit himself on the armrest.

“I am serious about this! You’re the one who is acting like a kid.”

“What?”

The atmosphere became so violent that it was entirely because we were in the car that it didn’t spread into a fistfight.

Then, Keun Sejin pulled his upper body forward as if it was really going to happen.

“Who are you talking to right now…”

“Hey, stop.”

‘Is he crazy?’

I quickly pressed his chest with one hand. The others who were taken aback by the sudden quarrel also came to their senses and began to tear them apart.

“Yeah, guys, let’s stop! Hyung is going to have a heart attack while driving!”

“C-Calm down…”

“Why don’t we go back to the dorm first and have a talk?”

“We’re in a moving car right now. We might get into an accident!”

"…"

The two glared at each other, then quietly sat back in their seats.

Of course, the atmosphere was still brutal.

In the car that was as quiet as a dead rat, I endured the silence.

'I'm going crazy.'

The cracks that had been noticeable since our debut suddenly exploded in a not-so-great fuse.

'Is there a limit to just tolerating each other?'

My head hurt just thinking whether there was a way to solve this.

'…First of all, let's mediate the conversation once we arrive at the dorm.'

It was troublesome, but there was no other way. I decided to close my eyes and wait until we arrived at the dorm.

However, rather than talking, those two quickly locked themselves in their own rooms as soon as they entered the dorm.

To be exact, the moment Bae Sejin went straight to his room, Lee Sejin snorted and also went to his room.

Rather than avoiding each other… both of them just looked really pissed off.

*'F*ck.'*

There was no solution.

"…"

The rest of the Testar sitting in the living room just stared at the TV screen in silence.

There was even an that I didn't want to see.

[A warm touch like a warm heart]

[Meet the prospective guide dogs at Oseon's Guide Dog Professional School!]

It was the commercial I had shot with Cheongryeo. Yellow dogs jumping out of the outdoor grass and hanging on to my head in the bright filter were coming out as repeated scenes. My face looked pretty stupid.

"Oh, Moondae hyung."

"Dogs are great…"

Cha Eugene's voice, saying that dogs were great, sounded less energetic than usual.

No, not just Cha Eugene, everyone seemed to be a bit flustered and dazed.

'This team managed to get along harmoniously.'

Since our debut, we never fought so openly.

It was understandable why they were so taken aback.

Unlike the bitter atmosphere of reality, the screen showed Cheongryeo and a lively flock of dogs.

[We grew up with your love]

[Thank you! Everyone!]

[National Insurance – Oseong Life Insurance]

It was a mess over there. It was a mess over here, too.

“Sigh.”

I couldn’t help but sigh. Ruffling the back of my head, I organized the situation in my mind.

Let’s think.

‘First of all… It was bad timing.’

Bae Sejin must have been in a state of confusion because of his difficult decision to refuse the drama.

He was a sensitive guy. He must have noticed Keun Sejin’s subtle way of speaking and piled it up under the stress, but this time he must have found it unbearably annoying.

‘Keun Sejin is obsessed with career achievements.’

He didn’t have a status abnormality like me, but he was the type who paid keen attention to his grades.

As a result, he didn’t like the stiff Bae Sejin, who had low-level abilities and poor social skills.

So, there was a high probability that he thought the person he had to ‘put up with’ was a jerk.

‘And above all… Those two just don’t fit.’

They had variously nothing in common except hard work. It was clear that there was no good feeling between them and that they couldn’t understand each other’s actions.

I pressed my temples.

To be honest, I just wanted to let them take care of it on their own while the camera was running…

‘But I’ll have to try something.’

…Back when that happened with Ryu Chungwoo, they were so considerate of me.

Getting fed up, I got up from the sofa and headed for the kitchen.

“Moondae.”

“Hyung.”

Ryu Chungwoo quietly caught up to me and smiled bitterly.

“To Sejin, I mean, I’ll go to Lee Sejin… Do you want to go to Bae Sejin? You two should talk.”

“Hmm.”

It seemed he spread us out by considering the fact that I was currently roommates with Bae Sejin.

I pondered for a moment, but I shook my head.

“I think it would be better for me to go to Lee Sejin.”

“Really?”

Really. Looking back, there was something bothering me because I was the only one who knew about it.

Ryu Chungwoo nodded in good spirits.

“Yeah. It might be better to be of the same age.”

“Yes.”

“Then… let’s suffer.”

Ryu Chungwoo tapped me on the shoulder and left the kitchen. I turned my head and opened the refrigerator.

'Alcohol is going to have the opposite effect.'

Let's get some cold water.

I went to Lee Sejin's door with two bottles of mineral water in one hand.

Knock, knock.

"It's me."

"…"

After a while, the door opened with a small sigh.

Chapter 162

Keun Sejin, who opened the door, was smiling, but naturally, he didn't look happy.

"Um… Can I come in?"

"Yeah."

I entered the room, closed the door roughly, and lightly tossed the bottle of cold water I was holding.

"What's this? Are you telling me to drink cold water and get a hold of myself?"

"Simultaneously, yes."

"Haha."

This guy didn't find it funny at all, he was just pretending to laugh.

Keun Sejin sat on the floor. And after opening the bottle and emptying nearly half of it, he slowly opened his mouth.

"First of all… Now that this has happened, I'll apologize and solve it myself."

His voice was low without any rising tone.

"Don't worry, once he calms down a bit, I'll apologize and wrap it up. I'm not going to harm the group with this."

"…"

However, his next words were filled with emotion.

“I feel bad for you and the other members. Everyone must have been surprised by the fight in the car.”

I crossed my arms.

“…You’ll apologize to Bae Sejin, but you don’t feel bad for him?”

“Isn’t that obvious?”

Keun Sejin laughed. Then he rubbed his eyes with one hand.

“Really… I don’t understand. Don’t you think I’ve kept my duty to him as a team member?”

Keun Sejin folded his fingers and continued.

“I’ve watched half of hyung’s choreography one-on-one. It’s only once or twice that I said something when the camera turned, or I just kept my mouth shut.”

It was true.

Apart from his dislike toward Bae Sejin, he helped him as a team member in our activities.

It wasn’t for Bae Sejin’s sake, though.

“But pretending to be close… Ha.”

Keun Sejin crumpled the water bottle, then loosened his grip again as if to calm himself down.

“Is there such a thing in front of the camera? This is work. Is he telling me not to talk to him when the camera is rolling because he’s uncomfortable with me? And he’s serious about his work, but makes it sound like I’m joking around…”

We were getting off-topic.

Let's cut him off before it got any worse.

"Yeah. I see what you mean."

"…"

Keun Sejin drank the water without saying a word.

I chose my words slowly.

"You've contributed a lot to the team. Like you said, there are many times when hyung has one-sidedly received your help, whether he realized it or not."

"…"

"That's why he must have felt even more pressured."

I continued calmly.

"Because hyung has no choice but to keep getting help."

Aside from Bae Sejin's determination and hard work, it was inevitable that his ability as an idol was lower than the other members.

He didn't wish for this in the first place.

So, he must have held back even more because he thought it was his karma, thinking that 'I'm causing damage to the team'.

"That's probably why it exploded while he was trying to hold it in. There was a misunderstanding. I don't think he was purposefully trying to make you a bad guy in front of other kids."

Because of his personality, there was a high possibility that Bae Sejin intentionally lowered himself in front of other people, so let me tell you this as well.

"…"

Sure enough, it was a bit sincere.

Keun Sejin asked calmly.

"…Be honest with me. Did I sound sarcastic to you?"

"In the car?"

"Yeah."

I rubbed my chin.

"No."

I continued before Keun Sejin could answer.

"But it didn't seem sincere. You didn't mean it, and it felt like you only said it because of the atmosphere."

In fact, looking at the situation alone, Keun Sejin's words were similar to what the other members had said earlier.

The problem was, it was something that had been accumulating over time.

*'Actually, at the beginning of the debut, you were such a jerk*ss so it felt like you were only treating him with a smile because you're on the same team.'*

From Bae Sejin's point of view, the impression from that time was so strong, so it wouldn't be weird for him to feel like Keun Sejin's insincere tone continued to sound sarcastic.

"I know you did it because you thought not ignoring him would be better for the team atmosphere. But for some people, it can be more unbearable."

"…"

“Of course, it would have been better to discuss it separately with him in a better atmosphere first… But it wouldn’t have worked with your personality.”

“I don’t understand.”

I sipped my water and smiled.

“Your personality just doesn’t fit together with hyung’s.”

“…Sigh.”

Keun Sejin pressed his forehead with one hand.

“Take this opportunity to have a conversation.”

It would be better if they could understand each other’s principles of behavior with their heads, then they could tolerate it along the line of ‘that guy doesn’t mean to screw with me either’.

But the answer didn’t return until quite some time.

“…I’m a little sick of it.”

It wasn’t a very positive answer.

“Of what?”

“Has he ever tried to get along with me even once?”

“…!”

Keun Sejin said calmly.

“Don’t you remember? Ever since Idol Inc, if you say things he doesn’t like, he gets serious.”

…From the first team match, numerous cases passed by. I put up with the silence.

"…That's true. Although there were circumstances."

"Moondae, who is the merciless one here? There's no one who doesn't try."

Keun Sejin smiled.

"But don't tell me that I should have treated him better just because that hyung is hardworking, has circumstances, and is a naturally sensitive person."

It sounded like he had given up expectations for Bae Sejin.

"You saw it too, that hyung is still like that. He hated it when we got caught up on a variety show. Isn't that rude again? Even if I don't like it, I treat him kindly, so now I'm being sarcastic?"

Keun Sejin seemed a little tired somehow.

"Yes, well, I understand what you mean anyway. I told you, I'll apologize. Let's get some sleep… We can talk about it tomorrow."

"…"

This was driving me crazy.

I held back my sigh, then I just let it out.

"Hey, don't do it if it makes you uncomfortable."

"…!!"

"Just because you two fight, it doesn't mean that the album will be doomed right away… You don't have to apologize if you don't want to. It'd be better to curse and fight when you have the chance."

Keun Sejin shook his head.

“No.”

“What?”

“There’s a schedule starting tomorrow afternoon. It won’t be noticeable if I loosen it up before then.”

“…”

Wow, he was such a great guy.

‘He doesn’t care, work comes first.’

That’s why it was hard for him to have good feelings for Bae Sejin, who could barely take in one serving.

‘And, there’s his background as well.’

I remembered one of the reasons why I had to visit this guy.

Let’s break it down to this guy first.

“We have 7 members. Even if the two of us don’t talk, one or two times can be passed off as a coincidence. Even if I had a trashy attitude for about a month, it didn’t turn into a big problem.”

And let’s get to the point. Saying this… felt a bit awkward, but there was no other way.

“What I am talking about was kind of a personal experience. After talking to Chungwoo hyung… I feel better.”

“…! It’s different from that.”

“No, there are some similarities.”

I drank my water.

“It’s not that I was uncomfortable with him, I was just uncomfortable with the incident associated with him.”

“…”

“I think it’s the same for you.”

“What?”

“Among the many reasons why you keep giving Bae Sejin hyung poor evaluations, isn’t it also because he’s associated with an incident that made you uncomfortable just like how it is for me? ‘The last member who was an actor’.”

“…!”

Right. The past that Keun Sejin had confessed when we were preparing for the concert unit stage in the past bothered me.

Why did he get kicked out of the debut team?

– Just before the launch, a new kid whose parents were both actors joined all of sudden. He’s well-known, so he has to be put on the team… The higher-ups said that we would make it with seven people. What was I supposed to do? One person got cut off

Looking at Bae Sejin, the last member who lacked skills and had the keyword actor, he must have still had the trauma, even if unconsciously.

“…”

Keun Sejin closed his mouth, looking as if he had been hit on the back of his head.

Actually, if I did this wrong, he might want to fight me too, but he wasn’t an idiot so he knew what I meant.

“…Maybe.”

Yeah. He got it.

I nodded.

“So I want you to talk and find out what kind of person Bae Sejin hyung is. I’m not asking you to understand or apologize right away, I’m asking you to judge the other person calmly.”

“…”

Keun Sejin smiled slowly and bitterly.

And after sighing, he shrugged his shoulders.

“…Yes, I get it. I’ll give it a try.”

It was an answer that had different nuance from the previous ‘Let’s talk’.

The nuance that he would try to have a serious conversation, not apologize half-heartedly to get over the situation.

‘It’s done.’

With this, I achieved my intended purpose.

I closed the lid of the water bottle and got up from the floor.

“Well thought out.”

“Oh, thank you for your hard work, Mr. Moondae.”

“Stop it.”

“Haha!”

Keun Sejin looked slightly lost in thought, even though he was smiling.

Perhaps he was checking to see if there was really such an irrational aspect in his repulsion.

'He'll sort it out on his own.'

Whether it was a sink or swim, I couldn't do it anymore because I was tired. I kneaded the back of my neck, opened the door, and went out.

"I'm going to bed."

"Sure. Ah, right."

"What?"

I thought it might be a question related to Bae Sejin, but unexpected words came out.

"You didn't have a trashy attitude back then, Moondae. You just worked hard even though you were sick. Chungwoo hyung was worried too."

"…!"

"Thank you for caring. Good night."

Keun Sejin smiled faintly and waved his hand, closing the door.

Click.

"…"

I didn't expect to hear this.

It felt a little weird.

"Hmm."

I stood in front of the closed door, then came to my senses and walked into the living room.

If Bae Sejin was still talking with Ryu Chungwoo in the room, it would be a little awkward to go in there.

In the living room, the three I had seen earlier were gathered side by side, watching TV and whispering.

“When are we going into our room? I’m sleepy.”

“L-Let’s wait a little longer…”

“Be patient, idiot. You can sleep in the living room.”

“I hate the floor, I like the bed.”

“Is that more important than the hyungs’ feelings?”

“Both are important!”

Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin were about to grab each other’s collar and fight. Seon Ahyeon was breaking out in a cold sweat.

“G-Guys. Don’t fight…!”

I clicked my tongue and spoke.

“…You guys, go inside.”

“Hyung!”

“Moondae hyung!”

“T-They made up…?”

“No.”

After accepting the promise to ‘not ask anything’, I sent Cha Eugene back to his room where Keun Sejin was, and I sent Kim Raebin to his room and requested to not wait for Ryu Chungwoo.

And I said to Seon Ahyeon.

“Let’s just sleep in the living room.”

“Y-Yes!”

It was the first time I slept outside of bed since my debut. Again, I wished things would stay fine.

However, when I took out the blanket from the closet in the other room, Ryu Chungwoo came out of our room.

“Hyung.”

“Ah, guys… You brought out your blankets?”

“I-I was afraid it was going to be a long talk…”

“Oh, it’s all right. Get inside and sleep. I’m done talking to Sejin.”

“Did it go well?”

“Hmm…”

Ryu Chungwoo had a complicated look.

“…Sejin seems to have had a hard time. I don’t blame anyone, but… We need to arrange a place for the two of them to solve it. What about Lee Sejin?”

“He said he’d talk when he comes back to his sense.”

“Good. Then, let’s look at the situation tomorrow and talk again.”

“Yes, thank you for your hard work.”

“It wasn’t hard at all. You did a great job.”

It seemed Ryu Chungwoo had done a great job listening to Bae Sejin. After roughly saying goodnight and going back to the room with Seon Ahyeon, Bae Sejin was definitely in a stable state.

“…I’m sorry. I made the atmosphere uncomfortable.”

“N-No…! H-Hyung, are you okay…?”

“I am fine. I am just a little… Anyway, I’m sorry. I’ll be careful.”

Bae Sejin said that with a pale and swelled-up face, and then he lay on the bed and became quiet without moving a single inch.

Even without looking at him, I could feel the stress swirling inside.

‘He must have been very troubled.’

It was obvious even if I didn’t hear it.

Starting from “Did I go too far?” to ‘No, but that bastard’, all kinds of thoughts went up and down.

“…”

When Seon Ahyeon went to bed quietly like a dead rat, I sighed, turned off the room lights, and lay down on my bed.

‘I couldn’t do a monitoring.’

Originally, I was planning to do it in the car, but as you already know, it was impossible in that situation.

‘Should I do it now?’

After turning on my smartphone, I slowly looked at public opinion starting with news articles.

But it wasn't long before I could hear a small voice.

"…Aren't you sleeping?"

It was Bae Sejin. Maybe he was conscious of the sleeping Seon Ahyeon, his voice was very small.

"Not yet."

"…"

Bae Sejin was silent for a while.

And after a while, I heard a very hesitant hoarse voice.

"Hey… Did I make a mistake?"

I could feel his anxiety.

"No. It'll be all right."

It was just… The two guys who didn't get along well had been putting up with each other for the sake of the group in their own way for a long time.

If I had to argue, Bae Sejin was the weaker one, so it must have been more difficult for him.

"…Hmm."

Sniff.

I could hear a very small sniffle as if covered by a blanket. It seemed he didn't want to get caught.

I turned off my smartphone and quietly closed my eyes without making a fuss, pretending not to know.

‘You’ll come to a conclusion after you have a conversation.’

Until then, I would have to separate those two.

The next day, I had no idea that the two would be in the same group at W Live.

Chapter 163

Did I mention that even if there was a fight between us and we didn't solve it right away, it would be okay for one or two schedules?

Let me correct it. It was bullshit.

*'How can those two get stuck together on the first try? F*ck.'*

I took that risk because I was afraid that if I covered it up and glossed over it, and then it exploded even louder about half a year later, the atmosphere would really get out of control.

I didn't know the risk would explode in the first round.

'I wish this is a dream.'

I built a defense to prevent this split-up, but it was so ridiculous that it exploded there.

First of all… The W app content started like this.

"Hello, Loviewers! It's been a while since all 7 of us did a W app together like this, right? I gave you notice, did you see it?"

"We're now… Ta-da! It's an indoor climbing center. We're going to show you a new side of us playing today."

"Shall we divide it into groups of two people? Yes. Thank you for the cheers."

"Ah, Chungwoo hyung wants to be the MC for equity issues!"

The MC was originally Keun Sejin.

Actually, it wasn't an Olympics, we were just playing amongst ourselves, what did equity have to do with it?

'Rather, it would have been more fun if Ryu Chungwoo massacred the people.'

However, if Keun Sejin was the MC, he had to keep talking to Bae Sejin, so we randomly selected and assigned the MC.

And I'd already secretly told the company. I asked them to pull their tricks so that those two didn't end up on the same team.

But, perhaps some kind of error had occurred during the information delivery process, and as a result of picking the chopsticks, Keun Sejin and Bae Sejin picked the same color side by side.

"…Wow! Two Sejins are on the blue team together."

Let's start clapping right now before the viewers noticed anything strange.

Clap clap clap clap!

Fortunately, everyone clapped earnestly. It should look fine.

"Oh, let's do our best, hyung."

"…Yeah."

Still, they could easily talk because they were in front of the camera.

I felt deeply irritated with the company.

'Those bastards can't even do this right.'

This kind of mistake was common everywhere, but now that the timing was in sync, I really wanted to replace them.

And I would address the last problem. This was a live broadcast, not a recording that could use the magic of editing.

"…"

In short, it was a total mess.

I could already tell that a new anonymous account would appear after this broadcast.

'It shouldn't happen.'

I could hear the two of them losing their minds from all the way here.

As I was breaking out in a cold sweat, I heard a powerful voice from next to me.

"Hey! Let's win! Go Red Team~ Go Red Team!"

"Yeah."

That's it. The rest of us had no choice but to make a fuss regarding their reaction and bury the sense of incongruity.

I purposely encouraged Cha Eugene, who was on the same team.

"Which team do you think we should defeat?"

Cha Eugene moved as I expected.

"Umm… Team Kim Raebin!"

"That remark is just fake bravado! Ahyeon hyung and I are former roommates, so we definitely have effective management skills…"

Done. Everyone just needed to laugh and react.

I drove the atmosphere by using Cha Eugene in a similar way.

The response of the real-time chat window of the W app that I glanced at, was also as I intended.

– Moondae, why are you so excited ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– No, Moondae

– The maknaes are like Maltese dogs

– It's already no fun

– Cute ㅠㅠ

Hmm, looking at the stable and empty hate comments, it seemed they didn't feel the heavy atmosphere yet.

'I'll just have to gloss over it when those two are playing.'

Fortunately, there were three teams, so they were chosen as the team to advance to the final by default.

Of course, I lost on purpose.

"Then, the result of rock-paper-scissors minus one… The team that goes up is blue!"

"Oh~"

"I think we lost because we played fewer games."

"Hey~ Thank you, Raebin. Thanks to you, I didn't feel too happy about it."

Keun Sejin gently glossed over the situation of the two of them not giving a high five, making it sound like it was because of Kim Raebin's words.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋOut

– Raebin is smart

– Ugh, it's suddenly so awkward

– Baese's expression ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

'Now there's only one climax left.'

All they had to do was stare at each other while climbing together in the final or pull out their shoulders by touching each other.

I was a little nervous as I started climbing against Kim Raebin-Seon Ahyeon's team with Cha Eugene.

'I can't get eliminated.'

I didn't think I would be able to cope with unexpected situations in interpersonal relationships if that side won.

The problem was that the opponent was better at climbing than I thought.

Especially Seon Ahyeon.

"F-Fighting…! Watch out, for your feet…"

"Thank you!"

He climbed up quickly and even pulled Kim Raebin up.

I wanted to compliment him on his strength and sense of balance, but it didn't help.

'Actually, if I have the guts to lose, that team wouldn't have to lose in the first place… '

I held back from clicking my tongue and climbed silently.

And fortunately, I did win.

“Red team won!”

“Wow!”

Because Cha Eugene, who went up at a tremendous speed, kept both of the opposing team members in check.

After I landed on the floor, I gladly gave him a high-five.

And I said with sincerity.

“Good job.”

“Hehe.”

Cha Eugene smiled and waved to Kim Raebin.

“Winning is great!”

“Cha Eugene interfered with other people’s climbs while Ahyeon hyung and I helped each other, so I think you can’t compare us with you!”

“Hmm, Whatever~”

Cha Eugene didn’t seem to listen at all. In the live chat window, people were crying, saying that the raving Kim Raebin was cute.

– The best rabbitㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– Cha Kitty figured out variety shows

– Kim Rabbit is cute

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

And the moment of fate came.

“Then Testar’s climbing competition, the final, begins now. Everyone, get ready… Uh-huh, Eugene, step back.”

“Yes.”

Cha Eugene, who was coming forward a little too fast, probably excited by the game, stepped back into the road when Ryu Chungwoo sternly held him back.

And he shrugged.

“That’s all right, we’ll win late!”

“…!”

“Oh~ Eugene is so confident, wouldn’t it be too embarrassing if you lose to the hyungs like this?”

Keun Sejin threw words with hidden meanings, but Cha Eugene smiled wryly.

“You can’t beat me!”

“…!”

It was crazy aggro.

‘What’s wrong with this bastard?’

The reaction from the staff and live chat seemed okay, probably because they thought that baseless confidence was meant to be funny, but, from my point of view, this guy was serious.

‘Have you gone blind after winning once?’

You shouldn’t provoke these guys right now…

“Oh~ What are you going to do if I win, Eugene? Are you going to cry?”

“I won’t!”

Keun Sejin grinned.

“Really? Then I’ll have to confirm it~”

I could tell he was serious.

Even Bae Sejin, who was tense and stiff, was silently checking his gloves in the back.

His resolute eyes had returned.

‘Both these bastards hate being looked down upon.’

At that moment, something flashed in my mind.

Wait, somehow, this… Did it help?

I opened my mouth right away. While purposefully pretending to be serious.

“Right. I don’t think I’ll lose.”

“That’s right!”

“Wow, Park Moondae, even you!”

With Keun Sejin booing, Bae Sejin also looked this way this time.

He had a look of betrayal.

‘Why are you giving me that look?’

Anyway, It was a success. If they got overly immersed in the game, they would feel less out of place.

“Okay~ let’s get a head start. The four of you, stand side by side again.”

The four members waited in front of the stadium with a more enthusiastic attitude than before.

“Ready… Go!”

And I started climbing with a dash.

‘They’re working really hard.’

I purposefully climbed up at a moderate pace to see the situation, but I got a little fed up with three people moving their limbs and looking all the way up.

‘It’s better to be more careful.’

Especially for those who lacked muscle mass.

As soon as I thought like that, Bae Sejin tripped.

“…!”

But he immediately got back up into position and started climbing.

“Are you okay?”

“…I am fine.”

Bae Sejin’s voice sounded certain as he answered Cha Eugene’s question.

Keun Sejin, who had been bickering with Cha Eugene, hesitated for a moment, but he soon responded calmly.

“Then I’ll go up first~”

He must have wondered whether he should have said something about being worried too.

Surprisingly, Bae Sejin answered.

“…Okay. Wait a minute.”

“Oh~”

By the way, the exclamation at the back was from Cha Eugene.

Cha Eugene arrived at the target point right after that.

“Cha Eugene, success!”

“YEEES-!”

Cha Eugene immediately moved quickly and made a few gestures that had little to no effect, as if to distract Bae Sejin, and then he soon approached the direction where I was.

Then he stretched out his arms as if to support me, then he whispered only with the shape of his mouth.

In English.

[We have to lose!]

“…!”

We have to lose.

It was an insightful remark that I never thought I would hear from Cha Eugene.

‘Is this a dream?’

Of course, this was reality.

I almost looked at Cha Eugene with suspicious eyes for a moment, but soon I slipped naturally without further thought.

To be honest, saying that I would look after them was ridiculous, because my arms were about to lose strength after playing two games in a row.

“Ugh.”

“Moondae hyung, are you okay?”

“Yeah, I’m fine.”

While Cha Eugene pretended to ask how I was doing and my climb got delayed, Bae Sejin climbed far up.

And he touched the target pole.

“Done…!!”

Looking back, Bae Sejin’s face must be flushed red.

“Okay, Team Blue won!”

“Ooh!”

The other members forgot the tension and applauded Bae Sejin, who was holding the pole triumphantly.

‘I’m done, too.’

I let out a sigh of relief as I landed on the ground.

For now, I had succeeded in losing naturally.

After that, Cha Eugene came down as if he was performing some kind of trick, and the two winners also landed on the ground.

“No, you said you’d win, Eugene~”

“I win! Moondae hyung lost to Sejin hyung.”

“Hey.”

I purposely hit Cha Eugene on the back.

The staff who were watching the shooting from behind hurriedly held back their laughter.

“Ouch! There’s a hole in my back!”

Leaving Cha Eugene who was making a fuss, I talked to Bae Sejin.

“Hyung, you did a good job.”

“Well, somehow… Yes.”

He looked proud despite his words.

At this moment, Keun Sejin met my eyes while exchanging jokes with Cha Eugene who was making a fuss.

“…”

I secretly pointed with my chin to Keun Sejin.

Keun Sejin slowly opened his mouth.

“…I know, right! You did a good job, hyung.”

“…!!”

Bae Sejin seemed almost surprised when he looked over his shoulders, but fortunately, he quickly regained his composure.

"…Yeah. thank you. You, too… You did a good job."

"Haha."

Those two gave a very polite high-five.

Even if they only said it because they were in front of the camera, their anger clearly had softened a bit.

'Both of you must have had a lot on your mind last night.'

Happily watching from the side, Cha Eugene whispered in English.

[Sport performance and victory. It always works.]

"…Are you talking from experience?"

[I was a pretty good football player! Of course, it was when I was in middle school.]

Even if I had the characteristic that help me speak English, I couldn't understand half of what this guy saying because it wasn't the standard form. How many times could 'like' appear in one sentence?

…Of course, I couldn't scold him for his good judgment.

'As expected, it's not that you're ignorant, you just don't care about anything else.'

I patted Cha Eugene on the back.

"Good job."

"Of course!"

As we were holding our fists together as if to celebrate second place, I realized that I had safely passed this shoot.

And it seemed that the preparations to make a conversation between the two people who had fought in a somewhat timid atmosphere were finished earlier than expected.

Chapter 164

It was 11:00 p.m. after we finished all the schedules of the day, including W Live, and returned to the dorm.

After vacating a room for the two people who fought, the rest of us gathered in the living room again.

By the way, the vacated room was a 3-person room.

Because the space was wider.

Seon Ahyeon muttered, having left the sponge he had been holding when he rushed out.

“I-I hope they can solve it…”

“Yeah.”

In fact, I thought we should put Ryu Chungwoo in that place, but I discarded the idea because I was afraid that they might get conscious of the third party and end it in a superficial way.

‘It would be better for them to have a big fight than that.’

Now that they had the time to think and were ready to talk, they could hear what each other was thinking even if they fought.

‘Then, after some time, they can keep the line.’

Because intense emotions disappeared and memories remained.

And both of them were the thoughtful types, so it wouldn’t take long.

“Turn on the Netplus!”

“Yeah. Watch whatever you want.”

Cha Eugene casually played an American sitcom with Ryu Chungwoo’s permission.

In the living room which was now buzzing with English, I looked down at my smartphone.

On the screen, there was a record of the call history with the company.

[Operation Team Assistant Manager Oh Suhyung]

To put it bluntly, it was a trace of my protest.

The call was about how the two people who fought became a team on the W app despite my request.

‘This didn’t happen just once or twice, if I don’t get angry, I am just a pushover.’

Since it was a neighborhood that had no work-life balance, it was okay to make a lot of mistakes.

But shouldn’t you be aware of something that can be so fatal?

‘This is how they deal with the discord bomb?’

When I heard the excuse, apparently ‘Don’t pick out the ones with the mark’ was mistranslated as ‘Pick them’ and it ended up like that. Well, I could understand that.

The problem was the nuance.

– But actually, during the shoot, there was no big problem between the two of them… It’s good to be careful and it was a mistake on our part, but I think it’s okay not to react too sensitively…

In short, he was saying ‘It wasn’t a big deal in the first place, didn’t you guys overreact?'.

'These bastards are too laid-back.'

It seemed a lot of things had happened on the outside, and since they only focused on that, they had come to trust Testar's calmness on the inside.

I wasn't too happy about it because I thought their response would be slow if someone really did something unexpected.

'This needs some trimming.'

I took a good look at the picture, shrugged, and lowered my smartphone.

'For now… Wait until those guys solve it.'

In front of the sofa, Cha Eugene was excitedly talking about his favorite sitcom character.

Kim Raebin stopped him seriously.

"It might be a spoiler for those who haven't seen this drama yet, so be careful…"

"It's not a spoiler!"

"It is!"

I couldn't even hear the sound of the drama properly because of these guys' voices. If the two guys in the room screamed and fought, I wouldn't be able to hear it.

Right when I thought like that, the door burst open and someone jumped out.

It was Bae Sejin who looked like he was about to explode.

“Park Moondae!”

‘I think this is the first time I heard him call my name.’

No way, did the two of you come to the conclusion of attacking me together?

Of course, not.

“Y-You… Come on, let’s go inside.”

“What?”

“Come here.”

I don’t get what you mean.

Anyway, I didn’t want to aggravate him, so I got up.

Then, Bae Sejin rushed into the room.

“Oh! Hyungs, fight…”

“Come on, watch TV, Eugene.”

Bae Sejin closed the door and came in. In an instant, the loud noise of the drama suddenly decreased.

Keun Sejin, who was sitting in the quiet room, had a calm face.

It seemed they wouldn’t grab each other by the collars and made a commotion.

‘You guys seem to be doing well, but why did you call me?’

As I bitterly sat down on the floor, Keun Sejin opened his mouth as if he had been waiting.

“First of all… I talked to hyung and sorted things out a bit.”

“Yes.”

“Listen.”

Keun Sejin calmly talked about the current situation. It was a perfectly refined attitude that gave Bae Sejin a chance to intervene in the middle.

‘So business-like.’

First of all, it seemed that both of them focused on their future attitude.

“For now, we’ll try to go as far as possible without hurting each other.”

Keun Sejin apologized for acting as if he was ignoring Bae Sejin because he didn’t have good feelings for him, and Bae Sejin also apologized for suddenly attacking him because of his complicated feelings.

“We decided to be a bit more careful with each other from now on.”

That was good.

“But there are some parts of each other that we don’t quite understand.”

They said that they found something they couldn’t understand while talking to each other.

Bae Sejin nodded.

“…Listen and look at it objectively. How about it?”

The question of whether it was necessary to invite me as the jury when the leader Ryu Chungwoo was there came up to my throat, but I suppressed it.

‘If it weren’t for the status abnormality, really.’

These guys should be grateful for my time-limit condition.

“What do you mean?”

Bae Sejin swallowed and opened his mouth.

“Am I… still uncooperative?”

“…!”

Bae Sejin clenched both his hands with a pale face.

“I… I know I am not good at it, I know that’s not good enough. But… I am doing my best. Really.”

“…Hyung, everyone knows you’re working hard.”

Keun Sejin sighed as if he was getting sick of it.

“Therefore… It’s not that hyung isn’t trying. But other than hyung’s hard work, hyung doesn’t care about the rest…”

Bae Sejin’s voice dropped.

“…I don’t care, you said?”

Keun Sejin sighed.

“It’s better to get angry than to listen to me, right? That’s why I just…”

“Wait a minute.”

I knew what was going on. I cut off Keun Sejin before he could pour out more.

“You have to explain more. What’s the rest that you said hyung doesn’t care about?”

“You already know.”

Keun Sejin continued his explanation in a slightly calmer tone.

“You don’t care at all about showing the group, only yourself.”

“What do you…”

“I know you’re not really interested in making us look like a group where all the members are close and getting along. But even if you’re not very interested in the group’s existence, I hope you can do that when the camera is rolling.”

Keun Sejin said in an exhausted tone.

“We’re an idol group. That’s important too.”

“…!”

Bae Sejin was stiff. And for a moment, he looked down at the floor with his mouth shut.

His answer came out slowly.

“All right.”

“…!”

“…I didn’t know about that… I am sorry. I’ll take care of it in the future.”

This time, it was Keun Sejin who was speechless.

‘it’s going a little differently than you think, isn’t it?’

Perhaps it was only natural.

Bae Sejin must have been unfamiliar with idol groups in the first place, and he even came out on an individual survival match.

Therefore, he wouldn’t have had time to notice or care about the group chemistry or anything else.

‘It must have been difficult to practice on stage.’

In fact, if Keun Sejin thought about it without prejudice, he wouldn’t have misunderstood him in the first place.

However, his thoughts were fixed unconsciously due to the trauma of being eliminated from the debut group because of the ‘actor’.

‘He’s going to be an actor anyway, I guess he’s just trying to hold on for now.’

And to Keun Sejin’s surprise, Bae Sejin’s words didn’t end there.

“I also think this is a good team. I want to do my best, and I don’t want to be a nuisance. Also, with this team… I am happy doing activities.”

“…”

Bae Sejin hesitated until he brought up the next words, but he continued to talk in a strained voice.

“And… I’m sorry for saying that you pretended to be close only when the camera was rolling. You were just working hard.”

“…!”

Keun Sejin’s face turned complicated.

The answer came one beat late, after he thought about it thoroughly.

“No. I made a thoughtless guess. I’m sorry.”

“…!”

This time, it was Bae Sejin who looked surprised, but he answered after clearing his throat.

“A-Ahem. I-It’s okay!”

Looking at him, he seemed slightly upset and was conflicted about whether or not to get angry, but he held back. He’d grown a lot, too.

Keun Sejin smiled faintly and replied.

“And I, well, I was trying to make a profit! It’s nice to have someone with the same name~”

It sounded similar to his usual shameless tone.

However, it felt much more honest than the usual soulless conversation he had with Bae Se-jin.

Bae Sejin murmured, avoiding his gaze.

“Well… Well, yes.”

If he had denied it there, it would have led to a more relaxed and reconciled conversation, but Bae Sejin’s limit seemed to have ended here.

Sure enough, Keun Sejin was already smiling bitterly. He didn’t understand why Bae Sejin crushed his gesture to reconcile.

‘It’s fine. Up to this point, it’s a five-star development.’

Anyway, this one example clearly proved that there was no malicious intention in each other’s actions.

In the future, whenever they got angry with the other, they would be able to pass it off as ‘That’s just how he is’ without being stressed out by excessive assumptions.

‘They’ve just returned to the starting point.’

I let out a sigh of relief inside.

‘I really have done as much as I could.’

I craved beer. I should go find it.

“Then let’s just conclude that Bae Sejin hyung will cooperate… I’m going out.”

Bae Sejin was startled.

“Huh? W-Wait.”

“Hey, let’s go out together~ Ah, hyung, do you have anything else to say?”

“…No.”

“I thought so.”

Keun Sejin smiled and nodded.

Neither of them seemed to want to talk to each other anymore.

“Hmm, alright.”

If I let them have a deeper conversation, who knew what else what explode, so it was better to keep it like this.

I went out of the door with the two of them.

Then, avoiding the voices of relief and welcome pouring in from the living room, I headed to the refrigerator.

'I think there are about two cans left.'

I didn't have any problem with my weight right now, so it would be okay to drink at least one in the middle of the night.

Click.

"…"

The beers weren't there.

"The beer's here…"

"Here!"

"Oh, sorry, Cha Eugene doesn't know it's the last can…"

An empty and dented can was shaking in Cha Eugene's hand as he lay down in the living room.

"…"

You bastard…

"M-Moondae. I-I have some liquor, drink it…"

"Thank you."

"Y-Yeah!"

No matter how much I thought about it, the only person who helped with my mental health was Seon Ahyeon.

I wrapped up the day with Seon Ahyeon's liquor in the room I returned to.

“C-Cheers!”

The last incident of the day was when the roommate Bae Sejin willingly participated in the liquor tasting, perhaps intoxicated by the feeling of being relieved from extreme stress, and fell asleep as if he were dead.

And the next day.

“I… I got a proposal for little Sejin.”

The manager brought up the cause of the conflict in the car on the way to the salon.

“The writer of the drama knows little Sejin… Guys?”

“…”

Call Bae Sejin and talk to him, bastard.

The manager was nervous because of the stiff atmosphere in the car, but Bae Sejin, who was in the back seat, shook his head without much agitation, his eyes were wide open from a hangover.

“No, I am not going to do it.”

“I-Is that so? But it’s nothing big…”

Before the manager could get more flustered, Ryu Chungwoo asked Bae Sejin.

“…Sejin, it might overlap with our inactive period, so wouldn’t it be better to take a look at it?”

“…!”

Bae Sejin shrugged his shoulders, perhaps ashamed by his slight agitation.

“No… I will take it.”

“Chungwoo said something nice! You guys are fine with that, right?”

The first manager, who was not in the car on the day the two people had a big fight, turned to the designated ‘cheeky good guy’ in the front seat and prod for his reaction.

It was Keun Sejin.

“…Hmm.”

Looking at the manager without showing anything, Keun Sejin opened his mouth.

“Wouldn’t it be okay as long as it doesn’t interfere with our activities? Hyung will be able to figure that out on his own~”

“…!”

It was a plain and euphemistic declaration of neutrality.

This time, Bae Sejin also looked at Keun Sejin’s seat with a slightly surprised face, perhaps he could also pick up the meaning ‘Take care of yourself’.

He swallowed and told the manager.

“…Sure. I’ll see the synopsis.”

“Oh~ Great!”

However, the manager slipped an explanation with a slightly perplexed face.

“But I don’t think you need to read the synopsis…”

“Yes?”

“Yeah, it’s like a cameo.”

“…!!”

“You know the kid shaman that little Sejin used to act in a movie? It’s like making a surprise appearance… Sejin? Are you listening?”

“…”

Yeah. All those dogfights were caused by a misunderstanding…

Keun Sejin and Bae Sejin were absent-minded and in a daze throughout the day’s management.

And anyway, a few days later, Bae Sejin finished the filming of ‘Kid shaman who grew up as a madman’ within a day, showing up as surprise appearances in episodes 1 and 2.

“Wow…”

“Huh…”

As a result of watching it on that very day, the synchro rate with the shaman was almost demon-like, and it was very powerful.

Except for the fact that the demon seemed really pissed off…

“Hyung, your acting skills are amazing.”

“It’s cool!”

“…T-This much is nothing.”

Well, in the end, Bae Sejin also liked it.

However, the trailer that came out after the drama was even more shocking.

[Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2]

[Friday at 10 pm]

The airing of <Idol Inc.> season 4 was really just around the corner.

Chapter 165

“Oh~ Idol Inc.”

“It started this week.”

When the for the new season of Idol Inc came up, some of the guys watching the drama admired it with no sincerity.

They probably weren’t really looking forward to it. They were filmed in it, so I guessed they were just pretending to acknowledge it.

However, by the time the 30-second ad was over, that composure had turned into incredulity and shame.

[KPOP National Idol created by ＜Idol Inc.＞]

[Global phenomenon going beyond Korea to the world]

[Testar(TeSTAR)]

[Meet the following stock idols!]

“Oh, my God.”

More than half of the publicity was focused on ‘how great Testar is and how will they appear in season 4’.

‘…They picked the easy way out.’

At the time season 3 aired, it was incredibly popular, and the debut group even did better beyond its momentum, so there was nothing like this in the early aggro.

‘Putting the ad at the end of this drama must have been intentional.’

They put up an for Season 4 right after Bae Sejin, a former participant of Idol Inc Season 3, made a surprise appearance at the drama.

It meant that they had aimed for this picture from the beginning. There was a reason why the company didn't skip the proposal and passed it over to Bae Sejin.

'So, what they picked as the initial audience's traction… are Testar's fans.'

"…Hmm."

Even if the fan bases wouldn't overlap, the fact that the fandom could leak was not a good thing.

T1 probably thought it wouldn't matter if they induced the transfers because the kids who would debut in season 4 would belong to them anyway.

'At any rate, it's going to attract a real consumer base after creating such a buzz in the beginning.'

However, if Season 4 didn't go as well as they expected… They might also try to use Testar's opportunity again.

'It's not good.'

From my point of view, Season 4 was a ticking time bomb.

I already saw that sh*t happening during the Rookie Award due to the controversy over Ryu Chungwoo and being the writer's relative, but if a fairness controversy issue happened in Season 4, it wouldn't be weird if we got entangled in it.

Already, Testar had been overcoming the fatigue that came from all the noises since their debut by pushing with the album quality and image. It was no longer a problem.

'We have to end it with this appearance.'

…And, if possible, I wished we had less airtime.

I already knew. It was a hopeless wish.

‘Those bastards, they even took individual cuts… ’

They’d probably use us as much as they could until their own popularity was on track.

Sure enough, Keun Sejin, who was rummaging through his smartphone, smiled.

“Oh~ We also appear in other trailers.”

Just by listening to it, I could tell that the greeting voices of Testar and the screaming participants of this season were nicely put together and well-edited.

[I am Seon Ahyeon…]

[Kyaaa!!]

“I-I’m a little embarrassed…”

“Ahyeon hyung came out very handsome. Don’t worry, I think you’ll look fine!”

“That, u-uh…”

It seemed Kim Raebin’s words embarrassed him the most. I could understand.

On this day, I checked the reaction to Bae Sejin’s appearance in the drama and briefly checked the reaction to the new season of Idol Inc before I wrapped up my day.

So far, it became a hot topic without much conflict, but somehow I couldn’t shake off the thought that it was like the calm before the storm.

And a few days later, Idol Inc's new season began to air.

* * *

"Hello, Loviewer~"

"Hello!"

With a lively greeting, Keun Sejin pressed a button on his smartphone.

[W LIVE has ended.]

Coincidentally, we had a bit of time, and the period came around, so we did a W live.

The topic… I'd be honest. I ran out of repertoires, so I just did some cooking.

Still, I believe it would be fine since it was meat. The guys in charge of eating liked it.

"Can I eat this?"

"Yeah. Eat."

The last half of the beer can chicken, which was the menu of the day, went into Cha Eugene's mouth.

'You eat well.'

This guy had the best appetite among the members who joined the W live (due to empty schedules).

Me, Keun Sejin, Cha Eugene, and… Bae Sejin.

"You've worked hard, hyung."

"I didn't do anything, so what are you…"

Bae Sejin murmured, avoiding my gaze.

“No. Hyung helped the most in cooking.”

“…Really?”

“Yes.”

“Well, ahem, well then.”

It was safe to say that Bae Sejin was the only one helping, as Keun Sejin focused on making people laugh and Cha Eugene focused on eating.

In addition, to borrow Keun Sejin’s words, Bae Sejin was quite ‘cooperative’ today.

He had reacted a lot and tried to actively participate in friendly conversations that were not related to the progress.

And Bae Sejin’s efforts would come back with greater results than he thought.

Because his timing was good.

‘Bae Sejin did a really good job in the drama.’

It was a well-known fact that Bae Sejin used to be a child actor, but his image overall was that he was inferior to the other members due to his footage in Idol Inc.

So, in this drama appearance, his ‘acting’ skill was recognized again and his stock price recovered considerably.

It was like this.

– Bae Sejin, you scared me I thought he was really possessed

– The 10-million actor at age 11 doesn’t go anywhere ㅋㅋㅋ

– When we saw it together, my mother was so happy that the kid has grown up like this.

– I wanted to see you longer. Please work in a drama~ ㅠㅠ

He played a very sensible cameo role, so even if his appearance was short, it left a deep impression and his acting skills were great.

‘Good for you.’

So, if I had to pick an issue, it was Bae Sejin’s solo fans and anti-fans who might have thought, ‘Wouldn’t it be better for you to act?’.

However, since it was an eventful one-shot appearance, their noises didn’t rise to the chopping board, so this was enough for now.

‘It’d be nice if you could continue to show your good side in your own content.’

This atmosphere of him enjoying the group activities was enough.

‘From a moral point of view, I think it would be just right for him to start acting in earnest in two or three years.’

Well, actually, I didn’t know what the situation would be like starting from the end of next year.

If this was the end of my status abnormality, by that time, I wouldn’t have had to focus on such far-fetched achievements.

‘Of course, I have to focus on the present.’

So I tried to proceed with the monitoring of Idol Inc’s new season, which wasn’t even set in stone right now.

I thought Testar’s appearance in the first episode was just for fishing around, so I waited until it was piled up to the second episode.

“Moondaemoondae, what are you doing~?”

“I’m going to watch Idol Inc.”

“Oh~ That’s a good idea.”

I used the TV in the empty living room and moved to WeTube. The guys who had filmed the W live together slowly settled down around me.

‘They must have been curious inside.’

I was able to check the broadcast clip right away from the main page.

[＜Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2＞ Stock Testar ★ Appearance Episode 1 and 2 Testar Clip]

These things usually took some time to be released, but it must have become a hot topic right away.

“Oh~ The thumbnail is Moondae!”

I was the official first-place winner.

Anyway, I clicked right away.

[What does ＜Idol Inc.＞ mean to me?]

On the screen, there was a solo shot of Testar members with serious faces against a dark background.

[I was so nervous!]

[To me, Idol Inc is…]

[…A new opportunity?]

[The turning point of my life]

It seemed they were trying to set the mood by saying ‘Our Idol Inc. is such an amazing program' with these cuts.

"Ugh~ It's no joke."

"Cheesy!"

"…Sigh."

The video continued straight ahead, leaving behind the people who were distracted by the taste of Idol Inc's show business after a long time.

Testar, who was embarrassed when looking back at their season 3 appearance cuts, appeared with warm BGM.

"Hey, Moondae can't raise his head. Are you embarrassed because of the chicken feet? Are you embarrassed because you ate the chicken feet so deliciously?"

"Shut up."

And the scene was connected with this season's participants who were watching Testar's appearances on Idol Inc and their activities.

[Really, I want to make a stage like that.]

[I think it motivates me to challenge myself.]

"…Those were good times."

"Cheer up, guys~"

"I hope it goes well."

Members who watched this scene with sympathizing eyes sighed in the next scene.

[Season 3 participants appear on the set!]

[Kkaaaaaah ↗!!]

[※ This is not the sound of crows ※]

Since each member of Testar was captured well, they replayed it about three times to shed light on the scene of our appearance.

The finishing touches were the interviews with the participants.

[He was my one pick. I'm going crazy…!]

[I… I was just screaming from my throat!]

[I couldn't control myself. Hehehe!]

[Moon Puppy in person! Really! I thought my heart was going to explode!]

I bet on my beer can chicken that the poor last contestant was going to be torn apart on the Internet for calling her direct senior by nickname instead of honorific.

"Hmm, it's more embarrassing than I thought."

"Why?? I like it!"

While the members' opinions were divided, the fierce welcome on the screen calmed down a bit as the members of Testar took turns delivering words of well-wishing remarks and support.

First, Cha Eugene.

[WOW!Everyone, cheer up! Don't be nervous, enjoy the moment, and work hard!]

There must be a few people who pretended to be upset, saying that he could say such a thing only because he'd never been cursed out, but it was okay because that complaint would have come out no matter what Cha Eugene said.

Next was Bae Sejin.

[…I hope you can get what you want from here.]

Hmm, they could instigate him, saying that he could only say such obvious things because his skills were not good enough, but that attack could backfire and fail.

Next… Keun Sejin.

[<Idol Inc.> is a big audition. Therefore, I think it's a place where you can't help but think that things didn't go the way you thought like you expected.]

He was laying the groundwork for 'you might fail'.

[But you can't deny that it's an opportunity, so I hope you do everything you can so that you don't have any regrets. I'll be rooting for you!.]

The focus was on the challenge itself rather than achievement.

Hmm, there was no problem here. The program also slightly raised its status without being offensive.

'This guy is still quick-witted.'

Anyway, it had been all right so far. There was no weird editing, and it seemed there were a lot more people who liked it.

But my turn hadn't come out yet. I was the last one.

"Moondae hyung!"

"Oh~ The last one!"

It wasn't until the playback bar almost reached the end of the video that Park Moondae on the screen picked up the microphone.

[While appearing here…]

And suddenly, soundless flashbacks started to appear.

"…?"

[There were times when I felt my limit. Whether it's my ability or my situation.]

The scenes of Park Moondae dancing to Popcorn, practicing without sleeping during the midterm evaluation, and stretching after practicing the choreography passed by one after another.

And… There was also a cut of him sitting on a bed alone with a complicated expression.

"…"

It was unaired footage. It was probably the scene when I realized the past of 'Park Moondae'.

[But sometimes you can go beyond those limits.]

The scene of Park Moondae on the stage smiling briefly while shouting slogans among the participants from the same team was briefly captured.

[I hope you will be able to look at yourself with a wider perspective when this filming is over.]

When the screen returned, Park Moondae, who had become Testar, bowed his head.

[Thank you for listening.]

After that cut, the tearful participants of this season were captured. Of course, it was accompanied by the emotionally arranged BGM of this season's theme song.

"…"

"…That."

Bae Sejin carefully opened his mouth.

"I don't think you said it like that."

Right. It was pure fabrication.

I was asked 'You won first place, so please make it a little longer!' and I finished the cheering with an easy-going tone amidst the goodwill of the participants.

Oh no… It meant there was no nuance that connected Park Moondae's past activities like a panorama.

Of course, there were no tears from the participants.

The kids were just having fun.

But it wasn't surprising.

"It's really just like Idol Inc."

"That… yes."

With this conversation, everyone in this room was convinced of the situation.

However, it seemed that 'everyone' on the Internet was not.

"Moondae, there are some articles?"

"…Really?"

[<Idol Inc.>'s new season is on the way. From Dark Horse to Winner… Will Park Moondae's reversal gets reproduced?]

[The public’s number 1, Park Moondae’s wise advice. <Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2>]

[<Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2> Park Moondae, who was a bad stock, passing on the secret of his rapid rise?]

‘You bastards.’

It was the taste of Idol Inc’s aggro after a long time.

Author's Thoughts

I am back^^.

English alphabet will be in bold instead of blue color from now on. I wish I had thought of that earlier. Sorry for the inconsistent format.

Chapter 166

"Give me your phone."

I took over Keun Sejin's smartphone and skimmed through an article.

Park Moondae was the best aggro knight who won the title of a poor-performing stock.

<Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2> Park Moondae, who won last season as an ordinary person with no expertise and experience, encouraged participants to experience the same thing, saying, "Sometimes you can go beyond the limit."

……

A program staff said, "The beauty of watching <Idol Inc.> is that you don't know who will win the program, everything is left to the viewer's choice," adding, "Thank you, Testar, for willingly appearing here."

……

"Hmm."

I roughly got it.

'It's really an article released by Idol Inc."

It was written down as if they were delivering Park Moondae's story, but in fact, the focus was not on me.

'They want to emphasize the dramatic fun of Idol Inc.'

They wanted to emphasize the unpredictability and fun of the program, such as its bio stocks, like when a person who participated without a proper background could suddenly win.

But I didn't think it was a very good idea.

'They went overboard.'

My first rank was gold, and I received platinum in the rating evaluation.

I was just a classic audition-style participant who steadily ran the royal road through popular groups and won the championship after my family affair was solved at the last minute.

This meant I wasn't a participant who showed a differentiated style of <Idol Inc.>.

'It's so uselessly stimulating.'

They just had to remind people of the fun of the audition, but the production crew seemed to have taken strange pride in this opening audition program.

'Looks like those guys are a little out of shape, too.'

Maybe having even-numbered seasons ruined was a jinx.

'As expected, Testar should step out.'

As long as I was an affiliated celebrity, I would suffer big losses if I antagonized T1, so if an offer came in, whether it was to appear again or to collaborate, I needed to create a justified reason so that I could comfortably decline.

First, let's check the aftermath of this article.

"It looked great."

"Yeah~ It wasn't a bad feeling, right?"

“Yeah, it was fine.”

Let’s start with the fans’ reaction.

I returned Keun Sejin’s smartphone and started browsing with my smartphone.

“…”

And I was embarrassed.

– Idol Inc bastards, you made me hear my kid’s worries, blood, sweat, and tears only through oral narratives, and only showed them 3 seconds in the new season ㅋㅋㅋ

– I’d say, the story is really about Moondae’s affection and passion for this work… I felt so emotional that I cried. I suddenly became the story girl on Subway line 4

– It hurt my heart that he didn’t show off his personality to not worry the fans. I’m so glad I bought Moondae’s stock. I’m so glad that he debuted

– Park Moondae, you’re so f*cking great ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ The only way to escape for you is death

Wow, this… I was kind of embarrassed.

Even the people who had withered through survival shows after Idol Inc was over were pouring out new articles.

There must have been a part that touched their heart somewhere.

I thought half of the people were annoyed because they didn’t like Idol Inc, and half of the people were just happy to see my face, but there were more people gathering than I had expected.

‘This a good thing, isn’t it…?’

Something was a bit off, but it wasn't bad.

I decided to accept this situation.

'Then next… is the public reaction?'

There was absolutely nothing on this one. Comments on entertainment articles were also blocked, and the focus of the articles was on promoting <Idol Inc.>, so they focused on that.

Most of the responses to me, not the program, were just 'He said something nice'.

I could gather negative reactions, but I wondered if it would mean anything.

It was like this

– Hn, it just sounded like an obvious statement, what's wrong with T-net

– They praise him too much ㅋ

– He's an ordinary middle school graduate, it would have been hard for him to debut if it weren't for Idol Inc

– The difficult, big feeling seems to be the type he likes at the audition

Having written this much, these words couldn't even be considered hate comments because they didn't curse me out.

Those were just thoughtless remarks, so I didn't have to worry about it.

'This is enough.'

It was a little annoying that they used me and consumed my image for no reason, but since the fans liked it, I could play along in moderation. Let's quickly grab a stop loss.

I shrugged my shoulders.

However, as I was about to turn off my smartphone screen, I inadvertently checked the latest comment on the SNS post I was reading.

It was a post that shared an article titled ‘Park Moondae, delivering wise advice in Idol Inc season 4’.

– If you have a proper conversation with Park Moondae, he’ll just sound empty and ignorant… If you just say whatever sh*t and pretend to be cool, the company will manipulate it to the media

‘Oh?’

It had a very subtle implication.

It wasn’t just a hate comment that I didn’t like, I even saw keywords that tried to artificially turn the flow.

‘Ignorant?’

Isn’t it an expression that naturally follows Park Moondae?

Besides, this wasn’t the flow that would harm me the most.

‘It would be more effective to combine it with Idol Inc’s issue of fairness and T1’s media play.’

So, how should I say this, I strangely felt like it had a different sense of purpose.

‘Wait a minute.’

I checked the account.

They participated in events and shared humorous articles. And their timeline was filled with obvious words such as ‘When are we going to have lunch?’ and ‘I want to get off work’.

‘Hm.’

I tried to browse several times by combining keywords such as ‘Park Moondae’, ‘ignorant’, and ‘middle school graduate’, and confirmed the existence of similar accounts.

Accounts with good profiles and IDs and sharing words that didn’t show personality or specific topics.

‘They’re good at this.’

Next, I searched for a completely different keyword on SNS.

[Golden Age Korea University]

Then, excellent results poured in.

The most shared article was ‘idols who have the vibes of young masters from rich families’.

‘Not this one.’

I found a minor article that had fewer shares and checked the sharer’s accounts.

[A collection of celebrities from Korean University]

…The uncharacteristic account profiles I saw earlier were caught in between.

‘Found you.’

I smirked. I was certain now.

‘Looks like Golden Age is starting to work on it.’

This was what Choi Wongil had told me.

– They asked that hyung to act like a young master. They also told him to use Park Moondae hyung as a material…

As expected, the company didn't directly compare me to the Golden Age member who was a Korean University student.

'Instead, they're grouped together.'

Popular Idols with weak academic backgrounds like me stealthily went viral.

In addition, correspondingly, the Golden Age member was tied to a list of talented celebrities with good educational backgrounds and they worked to imprint that image. Because this image was definitely in demand.

It was a move to raise the stake, suppress the backlash as much as possible, and effectively raise their level and image.

'They're good.'

Well, it didn't really bother or annoy me. Most entertainment agencies did this.

But… I was sick of it.

'Even though I'm too busy to care about other things.'

There were a lot of guys to deal with from the current situation to the new season of Idol Inc.

And I thought it would be more troublesome to deal with them if they took it one step further.

So I should just end it now with this agency.

'Let's see.'

When I was about to recall the list in my head, someone suddenly spoke to me.

"…What are you looking at?"

It was Bae Sejin.

"Oh, monitoring."

"Is that so? Then… Is something wrong?"

"Yes, well…"

Bae Sejin noticed my conflict and soon spoke quietly.

"…If you have any concerns, tell me. Since I've been working for a long time…"

Maybe because he had been cooperating in front of the camera, he gained confidence, and he was even trying to be an older figure that he hadn't planned to.

'Thanks for your effort, but… '

Right now, it wasn't a situation where Bae Sejin's help was particularly needed.

But still, it'd be better to explain. The schedule was also an issue.

I said in the easiest way I could think of.

"I want to go to a broadcast, but I want to schedule it as soon as possible."

"A broadcast? What kind of broadcast is it, all of sudden?"

I smirked.

"Some people on the internet are saying I am ignorant. I'm thinking of going out and using my head a little.”

“W-What? What a bunch of freaks!”

Bae Sejin fumed as if he empathized with me, and then he went back and forth busily to his seat several times.

Then after a while, as if suddenly recalling something, he stopped abruptly.

“…Right! I know a writer!”

“Yes?”

“A writer from the education department!”

Bae Sejin’s eyes were burning.

“The writer of the drama I filmed this time was with me on variety shows. Wait!”

Then he brought out his smartphone and furiously tried to text and make a call.

By the way, it was 8:30 pm now.

“…”

What the hell.

“Yes, yes… Writer-nim. Oh, no. That role… It’s not that. That, um, I’m sorry, but perhaps…”

Bae Sejin, hiding his uncomfortable expression, ended the call with some effort, then looked back at me with clenched fists.

“Done…! They said they’d tell me about a broadcast that can air as soon as possible!”

“…”

I said calmly.

“Thank you.”

“Well, this much is…!”

“But what program is it?”

“…?!”

Bae Sejin’s face turned white and turned red again, perhaps realizing that he had put a request into a specific program without asking for my intention.

“Oh, it’s an educational show, but it’s similar to an entertainment show… Um.”

“Yes.”

“…It’s called <The Calls of the Past>.”

Aha.

“That’s great.”

“…Right?!”

Right, it was really great.

<The Calls of the Past> was a program I’d seen from time to time.

It was content that made the cast move to a place that reproduced a place from a certain point in the past and solve a case.

And it saved its educational characteristic by solving logic and history quizzes in the middle.

Crucially, unless it was a special feature, the places in the past that the cast went to… were places that transpired within Korean history.

‘I’m a fool if I can’t take this.’

Being a test examinee who had prepared for PSAT and Korean history among those who devoted their lives to liberal arts and physical education? It would be a piece of cake.

“I’ll talk to the company and adjust the schedule. Thanks, hyung.”

“Y-Yeah!”

I made a late-night toast for Bae Sejin as a compliment and return gift.

“Hyung! I want to eat too!”

“Get permission from Sejin hyung.”

Everything went smoothly.

* * *

Then, on the day the filming of <The Calls of the Past>.

I met an unexpected person.

“Hello, sunbae-nim!”

That guy who bowed his head down… He was Golden Age’s main vocalist from Korean University.

Therefore, he was the guy who played the Chicken with Ribbon.

‘Oh.’

I smiled and nodded.

“Yes. It’s nice to see you again. I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“No, I really look forward to your kind cooperation!”

The man who bowed his head and greeted me said while sweeping his chest down.

“I suddenly had a schedule, so I came here very nervous, but I am glad and honored to have you, sunbae-nim!”

Look at this?

“You got caught up here all of a sudden. I also decided to appear not too long ago.”

“I see! It’s really almost on the same day… Oh, I’m sorry. I’m talking too much…”

“No, it’s nice talking to you. Let’s do well in this shoot, too.”

“Yes, thank you!”

The Golden Age main vocalist soon left to greet the rest of the cast.

And, as if they missed each other, Seon Ahyeon, who had gone to the convenience store for a while, returned.

“I-I’m here…!”

“Okay~ Ahyeon, let’s fix your hair later!”

The education department asked for one more member to appear, so he came along as support.

While arranging the snacks he brought, Seon Ahyeon asked with a smile.

“M-Moondae. Are you looking forward to the shoot? Y-You look happy…”

“Yeah, because it’s fun.”

It was really fun.

As soon as I hurriedly grabbed a variety show where I had to use my head, that guy followed suit and grabbed the same variety show?

There was only one conclusion.

‘There’s a rat in the company.’

I was already excited thinking of how I was going to use this.

Of course, I needed to finish this shoot nicely first. I opened a chocolate that Seon Ahyeon gave me.

‘Let’s see if it will work against Korean University.’

After a while, the shooting proceeded immediately without delay.

Chapter 167

The broadcast starring Park Moondae and Seon Ahyeon, <The Calls of the Past>, was filmed by five or six cast members.

And for stable progress, of course, there was a fixed cast who played a kind of MC role.

'Ah, this is perfect.'

Confirming the faces of the guests, this was the thought of the great senior MC of the entertainment industry.

'A popular idol and an idol who graduated from a prestigious university? I can't miss this topic, I have to secretly compare them.'

Having worked on more than 20 episodes, he already had a clear idea of how the editing would turn out.

Of course, if he recklessly compared them, he would receive huge criticism from the fans of that popular idol, 'Testar'.

This was an educational program, so it wouldn't be too obvious.

He would save the scenes of Testar members' activities somehow, or if it didn't work out, he'd edit them in a cute way.

'Hey~ it must be hard if you're a middle school graduate pairing with a Korean University student.'

The MC snickered inwardly, saying that the production team would have a hard time editing it in a warm-hearted way.

Then, the sign came.

“Ah, it’s coming!”

He shouted to the camera and quickly waited in the corner of the set.

“When are we getting off?”

“Where am I?”

The six cast members, who covered their faces with hoods, waddled along the guide.

The MC raised his thumb to the camera and shouted with emotion.

“What’s up with the clothes?”

“Wow!”

“That surprised me!”

“Come on, take off that monstrous thing!”

“Huh…”

The cast dragged their hoods down in confusion.

And they were surprised.

“Oh, where are we?”

“It’s like hanok[1]A hanok, also known as the joseonjip in North Korea and China, is a traditional Korean house. Sumber: Wiki…?”

“It’s like the Joseon Dynasty.”

The cast members whispered to people they were familiar with or wanted to look close to.

And the MC paid attention to today’s subject of interest, Park

Moondae, who calmly listened to Seon Ahyeon's whisper.

'He's calm~'

It was a calm face, with black hair and a handsome look. The MC inadvertently had a prejudiced thought, thinking that he didn't have the impression of someone from low educational background

'Idols these days have good figures.'

He nodded inwardly at the sight of the blonde Seon Ahyeon, and quickly said his lines before the confused cast could add words for gags on themselves.

"There will be a big event today, so be sure to dress up and attend your seats in time! Then I'll leave it to you."

The MC, who spoke roughly in mixed modern language, slipped out of the window paper door with his hands behind his back.

"No, where are you going??"

"Hyung-nim! Hyung-nim!"

"Wow, there are no steps in this program."

The door closed tight, leaving the panicked cast behind.

"Oh, we get a big fish today, too!"

MG skillfully threw a comment and moved to the monitoring room with a grin.

It was the MC's duty to react and add commentary here while watching the guests' awkward behavior or performance.

'Let's see~ For about 20 minutes, they'll talk nonsense because they can't figure out the airtime.'

MC sat down in front of the monitor, predicting the trend so far.

And he saw an exception.

[Think about what the administrator who looks like the MC said. I think there are three steps to the goal: find out what kind of event it is, get dressed, and attend it in time.]

[That's right, that's right.]

[As expected, since he's from a survival program, Moondae is very calm.]

[Then we have to leave this room first… This looks like an escape room. There is a lock next to this door.]

[Huh? I see!]

Park Moondae quickly moved on.

"Wow~ He's fast! He's fast!"

The MC was perplexed even as he hit his palm and dutifully uttered exclamations.

'What is he?'

He explored the room, not giving people time to talk nonsense. It was a quick decision.

What was even more surprising was the next scene.

[Now, I'll read it to you. Listen, guys.]

A long-time comedian took out a Korean paper from a small box next to the door and recited the first quiz.

[Hmm, 'We decide on the distribution of the six students in this class, and they are Eul, Gap, Byeong, Mu, Ki, and Jung. The terms are as follows.'…What is this?]

Below that, there were several lines of conditional sentences that didn't match each other, starting with the sentence 'If Eul and Gap are assigned to Jiphyeonjeon[2]The Hall of Worthies, or Jiphyeonjeon, was a royal research institute set up by Sejong the Great of the Korean Joseon Dynasty in March 1420. Sumber: Wiki. together, Byeong is also assigned to Jiphyeonjeon'.

It was a fairly complex question using real logic.

It was a bombardment of historical and cultural entertainment.

"Hahaha! Ah~ everyone's faces!"

And right when the MC was just starting to enjoy the reaction of the cast who were freaking out.

['Gap' and 'Gi' are working at Jiphyeonjeon.]

[…??]

[I-Is that so?]

[Yes. And if you rearrange them in order… It's a military weapon[3]Military weapon = gab-eulbyeongjungmuki/갑을병정무기.]

Park Moondae pressed the first and sixth buttons simultaneously on a six-stage wooden lock.

It unlocked.

[Ohhhh??]

[What's this, what's this?!]

"No way??"

The answer took less than three seconds. The MC looked at the monitor with his mouth wide open.

He almost asked the production team sitting in front of him, ‘Is he from a prestigious university?’.

“Can you solve it as soon as you hear it like that?”

Production teams shook their heads and formed X here and there. The MC burst out laughing. And he cried out inwardly.

‘I thought he was a middle school graduate!’

Even the guy who graduated from Korean University was clapping his hands on the monitor. That speed meant he wouldn’t make an appearance.

And this situation repeated several times.

[Let’s see if there’s anything else in this room before we leave]

[That’s a very good idea~]

[T-This…!]

Seon Ahyeon, who searched the room at once and found a hidden box and a quiz, handed over the reading role to the prestigious university student.

[Then I’ll read it! ‘The way to catch flying animals is to shoot arrows, and the way to catch wild animals is to throw spears. Sea animals are like land animals… ’]

It was a logical problem that required wit with a little bit of nonsense added, but as soon as he heard the question, Park Moondae opened his mouth.

[Hmm, three flying animals, one wild animal, two sea animals, one flying animal… I wonder. And if you think of the animals as four gods… Wouldn't it be possible to replace each with the directions of east, west, north, and south?]

[Four gods? Are you talking about Azure Dragon[4]The Azure Dragon, also known as Qinglong in Chinese, is one of the Dragon Gods who represent the mount or chthonic forces of the Five Regions' Highest Deities. He is also one of the Four Symbols of the Chinese constellations, which are the astral representations of the Wufang Shangdi. Sumber: Wiki. ?]

[Oh! I get it! The flying animal is a trick! Like this?]

[Yes, like that.]

The lock device, which could be pulled up and down on both sides, was unlocked in an instant by the excited cast members.

[Wow!]

[Hey, you're so smart! This crazy kid!]

[Thank you.]

"Huh? It shouldn't be like this, though?"

Park Moondae in the monitor bowed his head at the compliments and the pats of the cast. And the production crew murmured at the MC's words.

"They're supposed to solve it only after going around it once…"

It meant he had solved it with his own sense and logic without hints from the geography and location.

At the PD's words, the MC purposefully got angry.

"Yeah~ If you cast such a smart guy, you should have raised the difficulty level and showed the bitter taste of culture!"

The camera captured the scene of the PD sinking. The intention to be funny worked well enough, but the MC was impressed inwardly.

'Wow~ As expected, natural brains are more important in things like this!'

It was half right and half wrong.

In fact, Park Moondae in the monitor was a little nervous.

'Well, I copied LEET and PSAT.'

Even when he watched the previous episode to prepare himself, he thought that it felt familiar somehow, but they were really the same questions with only words and steps added.

'Once you solve it, it somehow stays in your head.'

So he just finished it a lot faster.

And even if it wasn't the case, honestly, it was still favorable to Park Moondae.

'If you know the logical symbols, you can organize them in one line.'

This was embarrassing for Park Moondae, who had taken a logic course for his senior class in preparation for the PSAT in the last semester and received good grades.

'It's like comparing them to a guy who took a leave of absence after finishing his freshman year.'

Park Moondae looked at the Korean university student with a slightly pitying gaze, but he soon realized that he wasn't in a situation to help others.

'Anyway, it's going smoothly.'

The people around Park Moondae, who were quite satisfied, were busy checking the contents of the box.

[What's inside??]

The contents wrapped in silk… It seemed to be a book that had just been made.

And both the cover and the inside were full of Chinese characters.

[Oh, hm…?]

[I don't know. What kind of Chinese characters is this?]

[I don't know either.]

[Perhaps, just in case… Should I take it?]

[Yes, yes, then Ahyeon will take care of it… Shall we go out now?]

[Yes!]

Then, Park Moondae talked to Ahyeon.

[Can I take a look at that for a second?]

[Yes!]

Park Moondae quickly looked through the inside of the book handed to him, then smiled.

[…?]

[Ah, thank you.]

[Come on, guys. Let's open the door together!]

[Yes!]

Seon Ahyeon took the book back into his arms, and the cast quickly opened the door after counting down on the door.

[3, 2, 1, open!]

[…!?]

[…!!]

And they stiffened.

Outside the door… it was a busy hallway with courtiers passing by.

[Oh my god, this must be a palace.]

[They're all outfits that I saw in historical dramas…!]

It was time to move on.

"Oh~ it's going to be fun~"

As the MC said that while watching the monitor, the full-fledged skit continued.

[A group of bizarrely dressed people…!]

[Argh!]

The members who came out of the room were reprimanded by the courtiers and started hiding in the huge, closed palace.

[Wow, I'm going crazy.]

[Shh! Let's go quietly.]

[O-Over here, the door is open…!]

[Good job, Ahyeon!]

Finding an unlocked door, they found clothes in the room's closet.

[Oh~ it's gwanbok[5]Gwanbok = traditional clothes worn by officials ?]

[That's cool.]

It wasn't gwanbok.

[Isn't that the cheonggeumdanryeong[6]Cheonggeumdanryeong = The formal attire worn by scholars in the Joseon Dynasty. worn in Sungkyunkwan[7]Sungkyunkwan was the foremost educational institution in Korea during the late Goryeo and Joseon Dynasties. ? It looks like they just passed the national examination in Sungkyunkwan.]

[This program really stakes its life on the backstory.]

[Yes?]

[Ah, it's nothing~]

Through a skit with the courtiers, the cast realized that what they were wearing was a kind of school uniform worn by Sungkyunkwan scholars

And through an official who claimed to be their Sungkyunkwan teacher, they learned that the event they were going to attend was the king's event

[Hurry up and attend to it!]

[How?]

[King! We have to go see the king!]

[Wow, I see!]

[One thing, before that… Don't you have something to do? Ahem.]

[What…?]

They brought small food to Sungkyunkwan as a kind of ritual to give to their teacher instead of giving him tuition, but they managed to get a real official uniform and moved to the next step.

“Park Moondae is good at cooking, too.”

The MC, who was drinking PPL drinks while looking at the monitor, spoke in a completely resigned tone.

The production crew sighed.

This time, the performance of the cast was very fast. Simply looking at the problem-solving scene, the amount of footage was a little worrying.

Of course, it was entirely Park Moondae’s fault, but it wasn’t the more shocking part.

As the problem was solved quickly, they faithfully performed the roleplay to fill the time.

[What was your favorite game in Sungkyunkwan?]

[What could it be?]

[M-Moondae?]

It was quite cute to see Seon Ahyeon hurriedly respond while being taken aback by Park Moondae’s evasion.

‘That guy takes care of his dongsaeng’s gag footage.’

The MC, who misunderstood Seon Ahyeon as the dongsaeng, felt a bit touched and fed up at the figure of Park Moondae conceding the skit to Seon Ahyeon and Golden Age’s main vocalist and subtly urging them.

‘There’s a reason why he won first place in the audition~’

Just looking at him, he was like a ghost spirit.

[Hmm… What do you think?]

[Uh, um, hold on. Let me calculate!]

In some quizzes, he even stepped back and gave a chance to the prestigious university student, but it didn't give as much impact as Park Moondae's quick accuracy.

'Hey, how is that going to be edited~'

The MC, who had secretly clicked his tongue, realized right after.

'The situation has completely turned around…?'

Originally, the production team expected a quiz show from the prestigious university student and planned to give Testar heartwarming and cute footage, but it became the complete opposite.

In addition, the prestigious university students were from a group that wasn't really well-known, so the production team didn't have to take care of them anymore.

Even Seon Ahyeon, the other member of Testar, looked much more like a real scholar because he had such a good mask and an elegant response.

'Hey, that's scary. I'm scared.'

The MC stuck out his tongue.

Park Moondae definitely took care of his junior, the prestigious college student, but it became a picture that the prestigious university student couldn't accept.

In the meantime, the story of the cast on the monitor advanced rapidly and reached the final gateway.

But the gate was already open.

[There's something you need to deliver quickly… H-Huh, you brought it…?!]

[Yes…?]

The thing that the person who introduced himself as a bureaucrat of Jiphyeonjeon wanted to find was the book they had immediately found in the first room.

[Awesome!]

[Moondae! Thank you!]

[Everyone solved it together… Um, thank you.]

Park Moondae once again endured the patting hands of the cast.

[Isn't this the fastest record?]

[The shoot will end when the sun rises!! Hurray!]

The cast moved their steps excitedly and finally arrived before the end.

And the hidden quiz appeared.

[For what business are you visiting the palace?]

[We have to know that too…?]

[Ugh…! Guys, retreat!]

When the cast members were planning a tactical retreat with their pupils shaking.

[That, I thought about it.]

Park Moondae whispered to the cast.

“It’s you again!”

When the MC shouted joyfully, everyone in the monitoring room waited for Park Moondae’s words with excitement.

[The king right now… I think it’s King Sejong the Great[8]Sejong of Joseon, personal name Yi Do, widely known as Sejong the Great, was the fourth ruler of the Joseon dynasty of Korea. Initially titled Grand Prince Chungnyeong, he was born as the third son of King Taejong and Queen Wongyeong. Sumber: Wiki…]

[…!]

[W-Why??]

[This book.]

Park Moondae picked up the book that he had been asked to deliver and turned over the contents inside. Numerous Chinese characters unfolded.

[Isn’t this just like Korean?]

And Park Moondae’s hand stopped in one place and pointed to the top.

The first letter of the chapter that he inadvertently skipped over… It was shaped exactly like ㄱ.

[Huh?]

[Hold on!]

The cast checked the book in detail.

The shape was different from the modern one, so it looked a little unfamiliar, but when they looked closely, they could see things that looked like Korean vowels and consonants all over the top.

[Heol, wait. So, this is Hunminjeongeum[9]Hunminjeongeum is a document describing an entirely new and native script for the Korean language. The script was initially named after the publication but later came to be known as hangul. Sumber: Wiki. ?? That's why it's King Sejong the Great?]

Park Moondae nodded ambiguously and expressed.

[Hmm. But Hunminjeongeum is said to have been made by the king himself. It would be strange for the scholars of Jiphyeonjeon to deliver it to the king. So, what's left is…]

[What's left is?]

[I think this is <Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon[10]Hunminjeongeum Haerye, or simply Haerye, is a commentary on the Hunminjeongeum, the original promulgation of hangul. The Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon is the printed edition—bon means "book" or "edition". Sumber: Wiki. >.]

It was a book that explained the principle of creation and usage of Hunminjeongeum.

You might have inadvertently thought that it was written in Korean, but in fact, it was written in Chinese.

This book was about introducing 'Hangul' to those who used Chinese characters.

Park Moondae smiled faintly.

[I learned that it was made by scholars of Jiphyunjeon. So, I think we can enter and give it to him after telling King Sejong that this book is <Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon>.]

It was indeed the answer.

"Wow!"

The MC was amazed. The production team in front of him was letting out similar sounds.

And the cast in the monitor was also excited.

[Hey, Moondae-ssi, you even know that?]

[Wow! I think that's correct??]

[The circumstance is perfect! Somehow, I got that feeling when I entered Jiphyeonjeon!]

However, Park Moondae's words didn't end there.

[And I think there are two people who will fill that role.]

[Huh?]

[Before… Do you remember the question of military weapons where 'Gap' and 'Gi' were assigned to Jiphyeonjeon?]

[Yeah, I remember!]

Park Moondae nodded.

[I think that's us.]

[…!]

[The number of names is the same, and the number of people who passed the exam is the same.]

Unexpectedly, the back story intertwined.

[So I think the two people who work at Jiphyunjeon should deliver this Haeryebon, but in order of age…]

Park Moondae raised his hand politely.

[It's this hyung-nim… and this dongseng.]

[…!!]

Park Moondae smiled faintly, pointing to the oldest cast member and the youngest cast member, namely, the prestigious university student.

In the monitoring room, there was only admiration.

"That's amazing, seriously."

[You're a genius.]

[You flatter me. Actually, I think might be guessing too much.]

[No, it's correct. This is the correct answer. My gut tells me that.]

As the cast said, it was correct.

'Isn't that a picture you're not supposed to figure out until you get a lot of hints and break them down? Whatever, let's just move on.'

"Do you know all about Korean history? Huft."

The MC got fed up with Park Moondae, who avoided the final tough questions and answers, but he quickly picked up his clothes and put them on anyway.

It was about time.

"Come on, let's go down~"

He went to the palace with the staff who was dressed like courtiers in a parade.

Just in time, the cast had also made up their mind and passed through the frontward of the palace.

“‘Gap’ and ‘Gi’ of Jiphyeonjeon have come to present
＜Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon＞ to Your Highness.”

“…Welcome.”

“Yes!”

The cast cheered and went inside with quick steps.

Then they saw him.

The MC sitting on the throne.

“You’re here?”

“Ugh!”

The MC triumphantly confused the spirit of the cast who appeared with the ＜Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon＞.

“Hyung-nim! No, King Sejong the Great!”

And after the embarrassed eldest member of the cast called him King Sejong, the scene ended with a gag and captions that said, '※ King Sejong is called by his temple name that was set after his death' and 'Extreme Spoiler'[11]I wasn’t familiar with it so I had to do some research. The eldest member called him King Sejong the Great but it was a name that was set after King Sejong’s death (Names like this are commonly called temple name/myoho). In this skit, King Sejon is still alive, hence the ‘Extreme Spoiler’ is referring to the name he’d get after his death…

“Great!”

Park Moondae’s solution turned out to be the correct answer.

“Wow~ that was great!”

The MC tapped Park Moondae on the shoulder as he greeted him at the end of the filming.

“Thank you.”

Park Moondae smiled and bowed his head.

MC glanced back at the prestigious university student and Park Moondae.

‘They can’t be compared.’

It was already a foregone conclusion that Park Moondae’s questions-and-answers footage and his tremendous performance would be broadcasted as it was.

And Park Moondae was already considering the side effects of this.

* * *

“T-The shoot was fun!”

“Yeah.”

I nodded. It was really fruitful.

Seon Ahyeon smiled.

“M-Moondae… You’re good at Korean history.”

I shook my head.

“No, I studied beforehand.”

“H-Huh?”

I meant it literally. I had studied beforehand.

“I watched some episodes before that broadcast.”

I'd watched about 5 of them. The rest were done a little differently.

First of all, I made a table list of <The Calls of the Past>'s 25 episodes with titles and plots.

And after excluding them, among the impressive events remaining in Korean history with similar trends in quizzes, I selected those that occurred in an era that didn't overlap with the latest 3rd round.

'The invention of Hangul and the June Democratic Uprising was the most likely choice.'

After that, I just had to memorize all the achievements and incidents that had happened around that time, even the minor ones.

'If the scope is reduced to that extent, doing that is worth it.'

I had so much experience memorizing knowledge while preparing for civil servants.

In addition, there were still many pieces of Korean history that I had studied before.

"Y-You did a great job… T-That was really cool!"

"Thank you. You did a good job, too. You're good at finding things. Your skits were good too."

"N-No…, that was you!"

"What did I do?"

I kept chatting with Seon Ahyeon while moving in the car.

And just before arriving at the next set and joining the group, I slipped into the bathroom.

"I'll stop by for a minute."

“Yeah, okay~”

“G-Got it!”

But instead of going to the bathroom, I headed to the closed space behind the parking lot.

And I called the company.

‘It’s about time.’

Today’s filming was scheduled to air this weekend late at night. I thought I’d deal with it before then.

The rat.

“Yes, hello.”

Am I calling the operation team? No.

“Is this the management office?”

Management office. It was the office that had the operations team as its sub-organization.

“Can I speak to the director?”

Originally, isn’t it the most effective to plug this directly into the highest person involved?

- 1. A hanok, also known as the joseonjip in North Korea and China, is a traditional Korean house. Sumber: Wiki.
- 2. The Hall of Worthies, or Jiphyeonjeon, was a royal research institute set up by Sejong the Great of the Korean Joseon Dynasty in March 1420. Sumber: Wiki.

- 3. Military weapon = gab-eulbyeongjungmuki/갑을병정무기

- 4. The Azure Dragon, also known as Qinglong in Chinese, is one of the Dragon Gods who represent the mount or chthonic forces of the Five Regions' Highest Deities. He is also one of the Four Symbols of the Chinese constellations, which are the astral representations of the Wufang Shangdi. Sumber: Wiki.

- 5. Gwanbok = traditional clothes worn by officials

- 6. Cheonggeumdanryeong = The formal attire worn by scholars in the Joseon Dynasty.

- 7. Sungkyunkwan was the foremost educational institution in Korea during the late Goryeo and Joseon Dynasties.

- 8. Sejong of Joseon, personal name Yi Do, widely known as Sejong the Great, was the fourth ruler of the Joseon dynasty of Korea. Initially titled Grand Prince Chungnyeong, he was born as the third son of King Taejong and Queen Wongyeong. Sumber: Wiki.

- 9. Hunminjeongeum is a document describing an entirely new and native script for the Korean language. The script was initially named after the publication but later came to be known as hangul. Sumber: Wiki.

- 10. Hunminjeongeum Haerye, or simply Haerye, is a commentary on the Hunminjeongeum, the original promulgation of hangul. The Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon is the printed edition—bon means "book" or "edition". Sumber: Wiki.

- 11. I wasn't familiar with it so I had to do some research. The eldest member called him King Sejong the Great but it was a name that was set after King Sejong's death (Names like this are commonly called temple name/ myoho). In this skit, King Sejon is still alive, hence the ‘Extreme Spoiler’ is referring to the name he’d get after his death.

Chapter 168

The meeting with the director of the management office was set up immediately after a little fuss.

There were several attempts to inquire about the reason for the meeting with the director, but surprisingly, I was able to defend myself with vague words, ‘I have something to tell him’.

‘I guess you make a lot of money from Testar.’

Because they were resources that had emotions, appeasing them was easy.

I even thought of a specific excuse.

And I also thought that the management division must be secretly nervous.

Because the guy who wasn’t even the leader of a group and didn’t have much self-assertion outside of albums or activity plans suddenly put in a request for a meeting.

They were probably racking their brains among themselves regarding this sudden action.

But they wouldn’t be able to do that for long.

“Then I’ll go see him tomorrow.”

– Ah… Yes

I made an appointment for a meeting the very next day.

It was the only time I didn’t have a daytime schedule during the week,

so I couldn't help it.

I hung up the phone and shrugged.

'Hmm… How are they going to judge this?'

It didn't matter in particular, but I was curious about the situation.

And I figured out how the company judged my behavior within five minutes after entering the meeting with the director at 10 o'clock the next day.

"Um… Moondae-ssi, is there anything about the group activities that you find unsatisfactory?"

"…"

"Moondae-ssi, you may find this frustrating because you're so skilled. Still, going this way for another year or so is best for your stability."

This was the main point of the conversation after we exchanged our greetings and talked about personal matters.

'Aha.'

And I noticed in his subtlety.

'Did you think I wanted to be a solo artist?'

It was an easy and quick conclusion.

Won first place in survival, recently received good responses in a solo entertainment show, and received counseling for mental anxiety during group activities.

'With those backgrounds, it wouldn't be strange if I came to talk about my solo activities.'

And there was one more thing I realized.

‘He’s never had a conversation like this.’

If I really came here to complain about group-oriented activities because I was really interested in being a solo artist, he shouldn’t have done that.

It would have sounded like ‘You’ll stay like this for another year’ before I could even bring up the topic.

A self-conscious celebrity would have understood that.

‘The format should proceed with the celebrity bringing up their story first and you pretending to be concerned.’

Usually, if you became a director of an entertainment company, you must be a person who had been successful in this kind of work, but this person was not.

*‘As expected, he’s a*parachute[1]Parachute = People who get high-ranked jobs through inside help… ’

Other parts, such as AR parts, production, and product marketing, were departments that needed professionals, so experienced workers had been scouted for those positions.

However, the shareholders gave some seats to the parachutes, as if they thought this kind of management was a good trial for them.

In fact, this part also required expertise.

‘Thanks to that, it’s easier for me to talk.’

I stared blankly at the young director, then deliberately nodded my head.

“Stability is good.”

“Right~?”

“But I was worried that something like this might turn out to be a big deal.”

“Yes?”

I threw the bomb with a shrug.

“Someone is going to another agency and working a double job, is that okay?”

“…!!”

The director couldn’t answer for a moment, probably at a loss for words.

And he finally opened his mouth with a smile.

“Ah Moondae-ssi, it’s not possible at our company~ Well, maybe their profile hasn’t gone down yet because it hasn’t been long since they changed jobs.”

He must have thought that the young man he didn’t know well had misunderstood.

The more you think so, the better.

I nodded my head obediently.

“Is that so? Looks like I have misunderstood. It feels like they keep scheduling us with Golden Age.”

“Yes??”

“They were talking on the phone talking about the Golden Age and that I was filming <The Calls of the Past> this time.”

“…! W-Who?”

“Hm… Who was it? Wait a minute.”

I picked up my smartphone and pretended to go through my address book, then answered as if I had just noticed.

“Oh right. Oh Suhyung, assistant manager of the operation team.”

“…!”

Do you remember?

When Lee Sejin and Bae Sejin had a fight, he assigned them to the same team and I called to protest. He was the one who said, ‘It’s our mistake, but don’t get so sensitive’.

Oh, did I really hear that phone call?

‘Of course, I didn’t.’

Would you make a phone call like that in a place where the celebrity you were in charge of could easily hear you unless they got shot in the head?

But the suspect was definitely him.

‘It can only be him.’

First of all, the other departments had no reason to do that.

As I said before, they were made up of professionals that had been scouted.

That meant they had no problem changing jobs even if they didn’t spy on the industry.

There was no incentive so they had no reason to try.

But the management division was different.

Underestimating the expertise of the management division in the entertainment industry, T1 filled it with parachutes and cheap businessmen of ambiguous careers that had already appeared in the market instead of scouting experienced workers.

And they even add newcomers who didn't know anything to fill the head count.

In short, the worst division in the company. There were a lot of complaints about them, and there was a high probability that they had no particular attachment to this work.

'Then the odds of having a parasite is bound to be higher.'

Then the next step was simple.

'I just need to see if someone overlaps.'

The Golden Age's agency couldn't have hired someone they weren't familiar with, so they must have tempted someone they knew and had worked with.

So I checked the history of Golden Age's agency, Traveler.

Usually, if they were such a good worker, it was highly likely that they came from another formation.

And sure enough, the testimonies I was searching for had already overflowed on SNS.

-The CEO worked at Wonder Hall and took Iljoon and a few people with him and became independent. No wonder the trainees had Wonder Hall's vibes ㅠㅠ

Wonder Hall. That famous agency was good at producing large boy idol groups.

'Hmm, it's obvious.'

Then, it was decided.

For the rest, I just had to find the guy in our company whose tenure and career history overlapped with the CEO and his employees from Wonder Hall.

'The company's internal network structure is derived from T1.'

I was just grateful for their complacency in giving their celebrities high access to documents.

Anyway, as a result of looking around, there was only one person in the management division whose history overlapped.

[2019. 06. 01. – 2021. 01. 04. Wonder Hall ENT On-site assistant and paperwork]

Oh Suhyung, the assistant manager of the operation team.

Then all the circumstances fit.

'I can understand why he's doing a rough job over there.'

Since he had already made up his mind, he only had to adjust the assortment. That's why there were complaints in everything he was in charge of.

"The assistant manager might have thought that sharing a good entertainment show would be efficient, but I thought it would be better to focus on one place."

The important thing here was, he shouldn't have done it by blaming the celebrity.

That meant I wouldn't give him a chance to rationalize this issue by saying, 'The celebrity must be overthinking~'.

This guy should have his own doubts and realize the seriousness of the situation. I said as if not knowing anything.

"Now that I think about it, I keep seeing a lot of things overlap with the Golden Age, so I wonder if he's working with cost-effectiveness in mind."

"Your schedules overlapped?"

"Yes. They did. And there are many cases where we appear together in articles and posts on the Internet… It was annoying so I thought they might be working together."

"…"

If he didn't notice the seriousness behind these words, he wasn't a f*cking parachute, but an idiot.

Fortunately, the director's face turned red, then white again, and then returned to normal.

That meant something like realization and anger came and went inside.

"Is that so… Hmm, right. I'll talk about this substitution issue. I understood Moondae-ssi's story."

"Yes. Thank you."

Of course, I didn't really expect him to be alert and handled it neatly.

Take a good look.

"But Moondae-ssi, it could be a problem later, so I think it would be better not to say anything about this until the matter is resolved."

I knew this would happen. This bastard was scared it would damage his reputation.

It was understandable. The moment this was leaked to the outside world, he would most likely receive a truck of protest from Testar's fans.

I nodded my head obediently.

“Of course.”

By the way, this was of course, also a lie.

“Well thought out.”

The director saw me off, not even having time to ask or think about why I requested a meeting.

‘I’m going crazy.’

I clicked my tongue inwardly and headed to the recording studio I had set up with the excuse ‘I’ll take care of the recording while I am at work’.

The AR team employee, who was asked to adjust the sound, was having a brief talk with the second manager who had come beforehand and was about to finish their work.

The manager talked to me first.

“Moondae, you’re here~ Did you have a good talk?”

“Yes, it was fine.”

“What did you talk about?”

“Hmm… He asked me to keep it a secret.”

“Huh?”

I wouldn’t be surprised if the ears of the AR team employee, who was touching the device from next to us, grew twice as big.

‘You must be curious.’

It was the same for the second manager, so he asked me with a low voice.

“W-Why? Moondae, is he letting you go solo?”

“Oh, it wasn’t that kind of talk…”

“Then what it was about?”

“Hmm… Hyung is in the management division, so maybe it’s okay for you to know.”

“What is it??”

Well, the hint that it was about the management division worked pretty well. The AR team staff must have picked it up.

I deliberately paused for a while, then just shook my head.

“I am not sure. He asked me to be quiet until it’s resolved somehow.”

“Ah~ I’m really curious!”

“I’m sorry. I don’t think I should say it.”

“Oh, got it!”

Now, the implication that a pretty big problem broke out also spilled.

Perhaps the AR team staff had something to say after this schedule was over.

‘A big problem must have happened in the management division!’

Isn’t it a fun snack for a boring company life?

Then, when the management division showed signs of patching up, there would be people interested in what was going on.

Then it wouldn't take long for all the rumors to spread inside.

'I bet 1,000 won it will reach the director's ears within this week.'

And it was exactly what happened.

Three days later, there was news that the director was looking for additional evidence as well as the people involved.

* * *

"Moondaemoondae, do you know?"

"Know what?"

"The operation team said someone was selling our information to other agencies~ Oh my gosh, it's really scary."

Sitting on the sofa in the living room, Keun Sejin made a fuss. He probably thought catching the bastard was such refreshing news.

I smirked.

"Yeah. Did they get caught?"

"Yeah. But… I heard one of our members reported it on his own."

"…Really?"

"Yeah. Really."

Keun Sejin grinned.

"And I am just saying this, but you've worked hard, Moondae~"

Keun Sejin tapped me on the back and entered his room.

'Did he notice?'

It was nice that he didn't pry around.

And on the contrary, there was a person who came and chatted a lot.

"Wow~ The atmosphere at work is no joke!"

The second manager.

In the middle of my personal schedule, he said, 'Isn't this what you were talking about?' and excitedly talked about the company situation.

"How is it?"

"I heard the director contacted the company directly! Ah, they already called Assistant Manager Oh!"

It was understandable.

The payment bot was trying to fill his time period quietly, but since such a large-scale problem had exploded under the surface, he couldn't help but get angry.

In addition, once the news got out, there was only one way to restore the atmosphere. The payment bot that worked at T1 knew this well.

Public execution.

'Of course, it's limited to inside the company.'

So, with the industry spy getting caught, they were pressuring Golden Age's agency over whether to sue the spy and make it public.

Of course, the result was most likely an unconditional surrender.

'It was over the moment he got caught.'

Regardless of whether they had raised Golden Age to be a first-class team or not, this was neither a fight of weight class nor a fight of public opinion.

It was a head-on struggle between an affiliate of a large company and a small agency with broadcasting stations behind them, and this time the small agency was at fault so the large company even had the justification.

'As long as the evidence is secured, they can't remove it.'

No matter how clever and skilled Golden Age's agency was, if they wanted to continue operating, they would have no choice but to lie down and watch their moves.

'They'll be silenced for a while.'

They would have to stop the media play and viral business that intertwined with Testar.

And this meant the Golden Age's side should keep their mouths shut despite the public response to <The Calls of the Past> which would be broadcasted now.

'This is much more comfortable.'

I lay back on the sofa.

All the preparations I had done in advance were complete. The weekend when the program would be broadcasted was just right around the corner.

- 1. Parachute = People who get high-ranked jobs through inside help.

Chapter 169

Nobody knew about Park Moondae's appearance in <The Calls of the Past> until the trailer was released. It was because the schedule was hurriedly set to the earliest airing date.

[(Preview) Testar and Golden Age become Sungkyunkwan students? <The Calls of the Past> EP36 SBC Education]

And, of course, behind the scenes, public opinion swirled at once with unease.

It was a gut feeling that came from past experiences and worries about the provocations.

– Ah, f*ck, that group again

– Am I the only one who feels strange

– Get a healing show and go to a famous restaurant but instead, these bastards ask the already busy kid to study

Among the fans who care about public opinion, a lot of them had already realized that Golden Age was deliberately clinging to Testar.

Considering Park Moondae's past, his family history, and the story of his unfortunate dropout, there was no way they would like this situation where he and a Korean University student appeared in a 'brain training education'.

If the edits secretly compared and scratched those two's academic backgrounds, they felt like they would go crazy.

– I am going to explode, I don't think I'll be able to watch the show

– If they annoy us again, I won't be able to stand it. I am going to make it public

But not everyone dug so deep and thought like that.

The public opinion of the people who enjoyed being casual fans without looking too deep into the abyss was this.

– Crazy, Park Moondae dressed in hanbokㅠㅠㅠ even better, it's Sungkyunkwan's yusaengbok. Just looking at the preview, it's definitely a masterpiece

– Thank you… Thank you so much…

– No, why so sudden? It's very sudden, but I welcome it

– Looking at the preview, it seems Moondae is going to be active, I get so excited

This was also the one that the graduate student, who was going through a difficult master's course, was looking at.

'The joy of my life… '

The graduate student grinned.

She was thankful it was broadcasted late at night. Because she was in the lab room even during the daytime on the weekend…

'I'm watching the show too!!'

She was so excited that she wanted to jump on the sofa, but she didn't have the energy, so she sat quietly and turned on the TV.

"Here we go!"

The broadcast started shortly afterward.

[What is the past that calls them?]

The graduate student excitedly watched the opening where they removed the blindfolds and the MC was sitting in the monitoring room.

And unable to hide her smile out of excitement, she followed Park Moondae's every move.

There was no better healing than seeing Park Moondae talking and laughing.

'It's a pity that he has black hair for this activity, but I still want to see you in the yusaengbok soon!'

However, this composure was shattered in the next scene.

['Gap' and 'Gi' are working at Jiphyeonjeon.]

[!!]

"Uooh!"

Because Park Moondae solved the first problem at a rapid pace.

"What? What's with him? What's up with Park Moondae?"

And the graduate student wasn't the only one who thought like that.

The timeline of her SNS account, which she made clumsily for fangirling purposes, was filled with similar phrases.

– ??

– What's this

– Park Moondae is crazy ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– My man's brain is so great, f*ck ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

But it was too soon to be surprised.

[Hmm, three flying animals, one wild animal, two sea animals, one flying animal… I wonder.]

[Why don't you bring me the thing on the third shelf?]

Because Park Moondae's performance didn't end throughout the broadcast.

"Heol."

The graduate student looked at the screen with her mouth open.

The broadcast didn't particularly use the magic of editing. This meant that as befitting of educational content, the sophisticated but not overly stimulating atmosphere continued.

Therefore, Park Moondae's problem-solving felt like it was happening in real-time, making the taste even better.

[Huh? It shouldn't be like this, though?]

[They're supposed to solve it only after going around it once…]

[<The noisy monitoring team>]

With that extraordinary level of ability, the production team and MC's candid reactions and lamentations set the mood.

"Wow…"

The graduate student was at a loss for words looking at the screen, and her heart suddenly swelled.

'This… I don't want to express this in plain words like being smart!!'

He'd be an ace if he went on a quiz show that brought together smart celebrities to solve problems!

Perhaps the cast felt the same way, admiration and laughter poured out from here and there.

[Moodae, come here. Okay. Answer me honestly… Are you a member of Mensa? Just tell me!]

(TL notes: Mensa is the largest and oldest high-IQ society in the world. It is a non-profit organisation open to people who score at the 98th percentile or higher on a standardised, supervised IQ or other approved intelligence test. Sumber: Wiki.)

[Yes? I am not.]

'He has to be!!'

The graduate student shook her head back and forth, wondering why he gave an answer like 'I am not' even though he had to be.

And like her, who was very excited, fans who were worried about his appearance were pouring out comments about Park Moondae's crazy performance, which far exceeded expectations.

– Crazy Park Moondae got it right again

– Is this a dream?

– He answered as soon he heard the question ㅋㅋKyu ㅠAre you crazy, Park Moon Puppy?!!

– What is it that Moondae can't do besides drawing? ㅅㅂ I was worried for no reason;;

– I… I thought our puppy was a genius in singing, dancing, and visuals, but it turned out that he is a real genius.

Because Park Moondae proceeded so quickly, the problem-solving part didn't get particularly cut out.

Rather, they added to it even more.

[The first problem is actually simple if you organize it with logic symbols. Hey, can I have a pen… Thank you.]

Park Moondae explained the solution in an interview, interestingly reinforcing the amount of explanation of the problem that should have been originally presented.

It was so detailed that people who were about to curse couldn't bring up the words, 'The script is too obvious' and "Didn't he already tell the answer?'.

[It's easier for me to put the same symbols together by overlapping them. Then like this… There are things that don't fit.]

Anyone could see that Park Moondae solved it himself and completely understood it.

In addition, a background story about 'why he's so good at this' had been prepared as the finishing touch.

[I like this program… I've watched it a lot. I studied a lot while thinking about how to solve it.]

Park Moondae honestly expressed that he had studied hard for this program.

Of course, the truth was, he only narrowed down the scope of the Korean history questions in this episode to make it easier to memorize, but it felt more true thanks to the mixed facts.

The excuse for the Korean history skill in the logic quiz was also added with some truth mixed in.

[Actually… I wondered what it would be like to become a civil servant, so I studied Korean history a bit before becoming an idol.]

It was a rather heartbreaking remark for those who knew Park Moondae's situation.

Given that everyone knew the situation if they had even the slightest interest in Park Moondae, the remark was well-formed to the point that it was a bit mortifying.

Thanks to this, viewers' reactions were filled with 'I'm proud' and 'What should I do?' and crying emoticons.

– ㅠㅠㅠDo whatever you want except retiring

– My mom keeps saying to herself that she's so proud. She's about to send a scholarship

– Thank you for being an idolㅠㅠ A civil servant… Wow, with that brain, it looked like he would have passed immediately… ; It's quite scary to see an idol world without squishy Moon Puppy

– So smart… A determined young man… With no opportunity to learn… The reality is deplorable!

It stabbed their national spirit that was burning with passion for education.

Indeed, with this atmosphere, it was awkward to bring up the manipulation aggro.

Still, from time to time there were ambiguous comments such as 'It feels artificial', 'Umm ㅋㅋ', and 'He's aiming for this' struggling to light the fuse, but they were far from enough.

Because the program had high reliability from the beginning.

– Not one of T1 affiliates, a public broadcaster is trying to show off Park Moondae in their show? ㅋㅋ They don't need to – Even the producers were bewilderedㅋㅋㅋㄱㅂ That's so funnyㅋㅋㅋ

– This professional PD would rather go bankrupt than fabricate it, that's why when he fails, he can't recover sometimes, but he's still firm

In addition, even if they tried to turn the direction of the criticism to ‘He took up the whole airtime alone’, they had no evidence.

Because Park Moondae didn’t take any particular action except when he was solving the questions.

In role-play situations, action scenes, or heartwarming scenes, Seon Ahyeon was brought forward.

[Wow! Wooow!]

[I want to do something like that…]

For example, it was quite a sight to watch as Seon Ahyeon gracefully and nimbly performed the mission where he had to extract hints without touching the hanji and persimmons hanging from the ceiling.

(TL notes: Hanji = traditional Korean paper handmade from mulberry trees.)

It suited him more because he had a neat posture.

‘He looks like some kind of Taoist.’

The college student was sure that all the slow edits for that scene would enter her timeline within a few days.

In addition, Seon Ahyeon also saved quite a bit of small talk.

[This… Do you want one?]

[U-Uh. I’m fine… No, I’m good.]

(TL notes: she switched from the modern way of speaking to the old one.)

There was a scene of Seon Ahyeon dipping a piece of rice cake in grain syrup and holding it out with the other hand to the court lady who was staring blankly at the rice cake baked by Park Moondae.

Perhaps he was wondering if it was okay to do this during the filming, the expression that revealed his internal conflict was cute.

Even the courtier, who appeared as an NPC to set the mood, forgot her duty for a moment and almost came out as a real person.

'I can see why his nickname is Angel… '

The graduate student promoted Seon Ahyeon from her inner 'Moondae's Friends' folder to the 'Moondae's Cute Friends' folder.

In the meantime, the cast members were warm-heartedly solving the case on the screen.

[This mood is good?]

[Great, great! Shall we do it together?]

[Yes! Let's solve it!]

Of course, as Park Moondae had prepared, the Golden Age's Korean University students also received airtime in problem-solving and role-play situations.

However, because of his unfamiliar solo appearance and stiff talk, it wasn't really fun.

He did well in solving the quiz in his own way, but of course, it had no impact like Park Moondae, who solved it quickly from the beginning when people hadn't expected him to.

Because the prior information that he was a student at Korea University was emphasized from the beginning, this much was expected of him.

[Oh~ Good good!]

[Thank you!]

It was just a normal scene with no uniqueness, and only the flow of broadcasting continued.

So, while Korean University students were not ‘so bad that he became a subject of ridicule and a pointless topic of discussion’, he was sorted out by viewers as ‘barely deprived of the spotlight’.

It was the best result for Park Moondae’s fans.

Thanks to that, their private communities and SNS were in a festive mood.

– It’s a topic that can only be told here, but I want to start it up

– He looked just like when he was in My Singer ㅎ

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋAh, so much fun

– Next time, please look for a place to lie down and stretch your legs

(TL notes: Look for a place to lie down and stretch your legs = Think of the results before you start something.)

The atmosphere was established without opposition because Golden Age’s agency, which normally would have encouraged talks of ‘the tyranny of large companies’, was as quiet as a dead rat.

And the climax broke out at the end of the episode.

[This book.]

[Isn’t this just like Korean?]

It was a great procession of Park Moondae’s knowledge of Korean history and his quick reasoning.

[‘Gap’ and ‘Gi’ of Jiphyeonjeon have come to present <Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon> to Your Highness.]

This scene with a calm voice and a faint smile came out well, just like the climax cut of a drama or movie.

Thanks to that, as soon as the scene aired, it was clipped and posted on various SNS and communities.

[Today's < The Calls of the Past > famous scene that the viewers could sympathize with]

[???: Doesn't this look like Korean?]

[< The Calls of the Past > Park Moondae's final deduction scene that gives you goosebumps]

Usually, those were titles that would explode because of the aggros, but instead of aggro, they received a lot of sympathies and quickly became popular posts.

Because it was the plain truth.

– It was super difficult, but he got it right in one try. I got goosebumps

– I guess his brain ascended

– This fit perfectly, but catharsis didn't come ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Yes, I knew it would be like this from the moment Park Moondae took the lead in making the PPT for the debut song ㅋㅋㅋ

– It's such a waste. He's so smart… Even now, the K-third-year in me is telling him to take the college entrance exam…

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋNo! Moondae has to be K-idol forever! ㅠㅠ

It was at this moment that the image of Park Moondae's 'unfortunate past history', which was accompanied by weaknesses, was added with 'genius' and converted in a more three-dimensional way.

It meant that Park Moondae's plan was carried out without any problems or variables.

* * *

'It's neat.'

I put down my smartphone. It had been a long time since I saw only refreshing results without any unexpected incidents.

"Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon! Hunminjeongeum Haeryebon!"

I heard Cha Eugene excitedly shouting those words in the next room as if it was some kind of cheering phrase. It was the result of monitoring <The Calls of the Past> together because the people who had empty schedules were bored.

'Is it an American habit?'

His pronunciation was also correct, and it seemed that the scene left a deep impression on Cha Eugene, who was ignorant of Korean history.

"Uhahaha!"

Just in time, I could hear Cha Eugene's roommate, Keun Sejin, laughing. Roommate reassignment content would be coming soon, I hoped I didn't get stuck with those two.

But anyway… It had been a while since I had nothing to calculate.

I closed my eyes, ignoring the noise in the next room.

A relaxed feeling dominated me, so I didn't even need airplugs. I thought of going to bed early today.

It was then.

Ring– Ring–

The smartphone started to vibrate continuously.

It was a phone call.

‘What?’

I had no one who would call.

However, calls that were not registered in the address book were set to be blocked, so it wasn’t spam.

Ah…

Holding my breath, I picked up my phone and brought it to my eyes. Naturally, the name of the caller was floating on the screen.

[Golden Age Ha Iljoon hyung]

“…?”

What… The person calling in the middle of the night was Gold 1.

Chapter 170

‘This late at night, are you out of your mind?’

No matter how much he worked until night due to his job, this was already past midnight.

I thought Gold 1 was still a sensible guy, but it seemed I was wrong.

I answered the phone with bewilderment.

“Hello.”

– Ah, Moondae.

Gold 1’s reply sounded a little dazed.

– Um… Oh, is it okay to call you now?

“Yes. Please speak.”

– Okay. Um…

Gold 1 took a long pause, then slowly continued.

– I heard about it.

“Yes?”

– Our company to you… They said you didn’t take it well.

“…!”

You’re openly bringing it up?

That company was going crazy with emergency bomb disposal, so it wouldn't be strange if this guy figured out the situation, but it was strange that he called me all of a sudden.

'What are you going to do?'

This question was answered the very next moment.

– That… I'm sorry.

"…"

Is it about this?

Well, what I could say to him was pretty obvious.

"Hyung wasn't the one who did it, so you don't have to worry too much."

If he said it because the company asked him to, it would be useless, but still, it would be nice if those words came from Gold 1 himself.

'This should be enough.'

But Gold 1's answer was unexpected.

-… No, actually, I think I knew roughly what the situation was like. I just pretended not to know.

"…!"

– I heard about you at work sometimes.

I could hear Gold 1 sigh over the phone.

– I didn't know it was this bad… But I guess I rationalized it in my head.

I thought it wouldn't be a problem because you guys were doing so well.

"…Um."

– But thinking about it again today, I would have been really annoyed if I was in your position.

His voice trembled a little.

– So I'm calling to apologize. Um, originally, I was going to say it to Chungwoo, but I thought you're the one who suffered the most, so I speak to you first.

Hmm, this was true in a way.

'The company must have really turned upside down.'

A person's guilt didn't arise for no reason. That neighborhood must be really a mess, enough for the singer to look back on the past.

'Still, it's great that he thought of an apology first rather than the backlash.'

He didn't contact to put his mind at ease or to help the company… What can I do? This guy was only as old as a college student.

Just having the courage to apologize, I could see him as a decent guy.

I received the apology in a good light.

"It's fine. I was a little surprised, but it's all over."

In a situation where the one f*cking around was his company, I had no reason not to accept his apology.

I mean, what can he do?

– Yeah, thank you.

I could hear the voice of Gold 1 sighing in relief.

– And Seulhui also asked me to tell you that he's sorry and thankful. He said you were kind to him during the filming.

"…?"

Who… Ah, right. The Korean university student.

'Should I call him Gold 3?'

I accepted it in moderation.

"I didn't do much… Anyway, I understand."

– Yeah… Gasp, wait. It's 1 am right now??

"Yes."

Gold 1 groaned in a strange voice.

It lost its weight in an instant.

– Wow, I'm so sorry. I was monitoring…

"So did I. It's all right."

It seemed that side was also watching <The Calls of the Past> featuring the Korean University student as a group.

"But it's time to go to bed."

I made an appropriate closing remark, and Gold 1 hung up the call.

– Ah, yeah. Hmm, good night. I'll be rooting for you.

"Yes. Thank you. I hope you the best, too."

The conversation ended smoothly.

However, I had a hunch that in the future, they probably wouldn't say hello or pretend to know us like they did at the beginning of their debut.

'It can't be helped.'

This was what it meant to be competitors. I shrugged my shoulders and turned my smartphone to silent mode to avoid any other disruptions.

'Let's sleep.'

And I slept soundly without knowing that Seon Ahyeon and Bae Sejin were entering the dorm.

Thanks to this, it wasn't until the next morning that I checked the text message that came at dawn.

* * *

[Hubae-nim, you put your experience as a civil servant examinee to good use. Congratulations ^^]

What's up with this bastard?

I almost spluttered my food.

'When did he send this?'

Looking at the time of the text message arrival, it was 4 a.m.

'He must be in the salon when he sent this.'

What a nuisance.

I looked at the word 'VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim' with cold eyes, and his profile picture was the golden retriever that I had seen back when I was doing the insurance commercial.

‘Come to think of it, I told this guy that I studied for the civil servant exam.’

It became some kind of unintentional proof of trust.

I quickly typed ‘Yes thank you’ and tried to exit the message tab. But before I could do that, a new text came.

Ring–

[(Image file)]

It was a… gifticon out of the blue.

“…??”

When I clicked on it, it was ‘a chocolate set to support examinees’ sold at franchise cafes.

Did he send this as a joke?

[I sent it as support for the activity. Isn’t it time for a new song soon?]

That… He was right. It was time to release the repackaged album.

And, as planned, we picked the song for this activity out of the candidate songs received from the composer who was in charge of Golden Age’s songs.

‘The arrangement is done well.’

Kim Raebin’s arrangement passed almost unanimously, but I noticed that Kim Raebin still wasn’t very confident.

The funny thing was, he was more concerned about the environment rather than his own skills.

– We definitely chose a genre that stands out on the music charts, but if a new trend arrives by the time we release the song, the measure of popularity will completely change…!.

– That won't happen, Raebin, calm down.

We'd had this kind of conversation several times recently.

I held back my sigh.

'You should worry about your feet.'

Kim Raebin's foot was recently judged to have a 'perfect level of recovery that no longer requires stability'. Thanks to that, the choreography practice went smoothly.

'If he hadn't insisted on doing the indoor climbing, he would have gotten it off a week earlier.'

I knew he was passionate about following the schedule, but he was a really strict guy.

"If we aim for too much popularity, the critics will criticize a lot…"

"No, Raebin~ Don't worry, and just eat."

He was doing that even while eating.

Anyway, the preparation for the album was smooth sailing.

'If I was going to silence that company anyway, did I draw a big picture using that composer for no reason?'

Even Youngrin and Cheongryeo got involved to share the composer.

I thought while putting rice wrapped in seaweed into my mouth.

'Hmm, Youngrin got good records this time, too.'

A new song released two weeks ago by Youngrin, whom I deliberately shared the Golden Age's composer with, was also currently at the top of the music charts.

A few days ago, I received another separate thank you for introducing her to the composer.

'Ah, that's why they got angry.'

If the Golden Age company had heard somewhere that I was the one who introduced the composer to Youngrin, it would make more sense why they had been dragging me down lately.

'You work better when you put emotions into your job.'

It was still a bit ridiculous that they got pissed off for sharing the composer while they had gone viral.

'Well, it's all over.'

It wasn't morally problematic, so those guys who were out of breath right now struggling against T1 wouldn't be able to hold bad feelings for long.

'Then we're next after Youngrin.'

The last was VTIC, Cheongryeo's group.

'Quick-witted bastard.'

While talking about tours and comeback schedules, we fall behind, but he was basically saying that he would bet on it after watching our rise and fall and being proven.

'It's not even the title track, just the b-side song, but he made so much fuss.'

It was like a perfectionist reset syndrome.

…Well, conversely, the fact that this lunatic was willing to cooperate was a sign of cooperation in itself.

‘I can bear it if we continue like this.’

I sighed and moved my thumb to the smartphone keyboard.

[Yes, I’ll do my best. Thank you for the chocolate, sunbae-nim. I hope you have a good day.]

[All right.]

Yeah. This was neat.

Perhaps this guy liked the composer’s song deep down, he became much more cooperative.

‘And if the Golden Age doesn’t do anything wrong, it’s better not to say anything else.’

In many ways, this picture was fine. I nodded and focused on eating again.

No, I was going to, but my smartphone rang again.

Ring–

“…”

[Oh, my birthday is in next month. 27th.]

So what.

I turned off my smartphone with disgust.

Let’s finish eating.

“Did each of you bring your bowls?”

“Yes!”

We had someone who would clean it, but I put the bowl in the sink for basic etiquette.

Then, it was free time.

“Uhahaha!”

Usually, they often played in their own rooms, but today, the living room was crowded with people who came to watch Cha Eugene playing a strange dancing game.

‘Should I go to my room?’

I came out because I was always in my room, but they were too noisy.

But I was too lazy to move, so I found another thing to focus on.

‘…It’s time to look at it.’

It would be more convenient to do it when it was noisy because that way, I didn’t have to think about anything else.

‘Status window.’

For the first time in a long time, I started the settlement.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level : 0

Title: None

Vocal: S-

Dance: B

Visual: A-

Talent: B+

Characteristics: Infinite potential, International student (A), Bacchus 500 (B), Snatching ears (A)

!Status abnormality: Get the audience or die

The remaining points: 2

The vocal that had entered S rank caught my attention first.

'I am a little proud.'

It was a good item. From entertainment to activities, I had used it a lot.

After that, I noticed the points I gained from leveling up, but another factor bothered me more.

'Why?'

For some reason, my talent naturally increased from B to B+.

'I don't think I've done anything particularly worthwhile.'

I hadn't opened it recently, so I didn't know when it increased.

"Hmm."

Anyway, the stat going up was a good thing.

I calmly crossed my arms.

Now I just had to quickly distribute the points and then turn it off.

Now right before the new album came out was the right time.

‘Following the standard procedure… Talent.’

This was the most efficient choice because it was an opportunity to enter the A rank by consuming only one point.

“Good.”

“What is?”

“…!”

Oops.

It seemed I had said it with my mouth because I was too focused on leaving the status window.

Cha Eugene, who had just finished the game, was looking this way with wide eyes.

‘Well, I didn’t say anything else.’

It didn’t matter. I was about to give a rough answer, but I suddenly thought of something.

Let’s see what these guys think.

“Hmm, this is just a hypothetical question.”

“Yes!”

“What do you think is the most necessary skill to become an idol?”

“Hmm? It’s like- personality?”

Personality.

‘Is it possible to roughly substitute that with a skill?’

It was something a guy with such good skills would say, it was hard to find even in the same industry.

But Kim Raebin stepped in from next to me.

“You should give a more professional answer! Hyung! I think it’s the ability to pull off a song. I think expressiveness is important.”

Yes. In the end, those were words that could be substituted with ‘Talent’, just like Cha Eugene’s.

“Mine was professional! Your answer was plain!”

“No! Your answer was insincere!”

As I watched those two fighting, a gloomy voice interrupted from next to me.

“…Basic skill.”

It was Bae Sejin. It sounded like he was saying what he felt was necessary for him.

Meanwhile, Keun Sejin also added a word to Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin’s quarrel.

“You should be good at everything~ Why are you still arguing about that?”

“But I want to choose something more important…”

It was a mess.

‘I shouldn’t have asked.’

Let’s just leave it until they came to a conclusion. I shook my head and decided to use the gap in the conversation to check something else.

It was the event pop-up.

[The true taste of fame!]

10,000,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw Legendary Characteristics ☜ Click!

10 million people.

At this point, it was impossible to imagine this scale gathering in reality.

What was even scarier was that this pop-up had been around for quite some time. Maybe… It was running towards 50 million people right now.

'Huft.'

It felt rewarding and creepy at the same time.

Anyway, let's click on the characteristic draw.

Dung Dung Dung Dung-

With the image of a familiar slot machine, the slots started to spin.

'Since the hero characteristic started with B… If it's legendary characteristic, does A come out as default?'

Ten million people knew me, so I should have that much at least.

But the slots were mixed with gold.

'What?'

Only the probability of a higher grade was created, and it wasn't confirmed that an A grade would come out.

‘It’s like a mass-produced game.’

I glared at the slot machine that spun with a mixture of gold, platinum, and rainbow colors.

‘Anything is fine, so I hope something useful for the activities comes out.’

It was time to abandon the ‘International student’ and changed it. It would be nice if I got something that helped with concept performance or made my hair look better at least.

The slot rotated slowly and then stopped.

Fortunately, it stopped at platinum.

Papapang!

[Characteristic]

Acquired ‘Now that I heard it, you’re right (A)’!

“…!”

But there… The name of the characteristic that I had seen before was floating.

Just with a different grade.

Chapter 171

Do you know the ghost story of finding a doll you had thrown in the trash in front of your front door?

My feelings right now were very similar to that.

'Why is this showing up here?'

The characteristic I picked up right now was 'Now that I heard it, you're right'.

At the beginning of Idol Inc's participation, I got this characteristic with a C grade and used it to persuade Seon Ahyeon, but I deleted it after we debuted.

The fact that it popped out again was funny but the difference was funny as well.

'Why is the grade A?'

I had experienced having a characteristic that popped up again being synthesized and changed to a higher grade but in that case, the name also changed.

'What kind of system doesn't have a system?'

Don't tell me, saying that it was upgraded to an A grade because of its good utility, it wasn't that kind of nonsense that only happened in failed games, right?

First… Let's check the contents in detail.

[Characteristic]

Acquired 'Now that I heard it, it's true(A)'

– It causes emotional agitation to the 'listener'.

: Activation rate 60%, basic activation state

"…Hmm."

The explanation was the same, but the probability had definitely increased. It was 35% when it was a C grade, but 60% here.

'Then it's really a higher grade but without the name change… Why?'

At that moment, a thought came to my mind.

'Is this a warning?'

Come to think of it, I had hypothesized that when a new characteristic came out, the moment to use it would definitely come.

And the hypothesis… had been proven true so far.

So the reason the name didn't change was to make me think twice and warned me to take this characteristic…

'That's too much.'

Let's not focus too much on the intentions of this status window. It wasn't just once or twice that it hit me in the back of my head.

However, there was no need to flatly ignore it just because I was reluctant. I had to judge it objectively.

"…"

I tapped my arm with my fingers and eventually shrugged.

'Well… I was going to change it anyway.'

‘Emotional agitation’ was a useful ability in many ways.

‘This is the right choice.’

I operated the characteristics section.

[Characteristic: International student (A) has been deleted!]

That was how the ‘Now that I heard it, you’re right (A)’ characteristic re-entered my status window. Congratulations on being used again.

What was left was stat investment…

“Yeah. Like Sejin said, I think basic skills are the most important. But it’s more of the mindset than the technical aspect. It’s important not to lose your original intentions.”

“Hmm~ that could be true!”

“M-Me too… I think the heart is important…!”

“That’s right! Heart! Personality!”

No, it’s not the heart.

In addition, their conclusion was completely unrelated to the stat investment.

‘Sigh.’

But these guys’ warm-hearted expressions were saying they had come to the same conclusion in their own ways… Let’s just leave it alone.

“So I conclude that it’s the mindset… Wait, but why are you talking about this?”

“Moondae hyung asked!”

At Cha Eugene's remark, Ryu Chungwoo turned his head toward me. I averted my gaze.

"…I was just asking because I was bored."

"Ah, I see."

Ryu Chungwoo smiled awkwardly.

"I thought you were telling us to keep ourselves together, once again. We'll start out new activity soon."

"Ah~ We can use it for that purpose! Comeback, fighting!"

"F-Fighting!"

It suddenly became an atmosphere of shouting for an awesome comeback. Seriously.

'But they're not as nervous as before.'

Definite popularity. Good songs and choreography.

And since the repackage originally had a short period and the album composition was similar, there were less expectations for the results, so the pressure lessened.

There was no fear of getting caught up with Idol Inc's new season. Because of the industry spy case, the company would keep a low profile for a while, so refusing appearances and articles wouldn't be too difficult.

From what I heard, in episode 6 that recently aired, they did a crazy thing called a stock sale discount, in other words, a 'negative vote sale'.

It wasn't my business, so I didn't look at the fire across the river.

'Hmm, should I take it easy this time too?'

It would be a lie if I said I didn't need to feel comfortable during the filming of the choreography.

I looked at the status window that was still on and smiled.

'What kind of person will die for being unable to collect 200,000 audiences?'

Let's do it efficiently.

This time, the performance wasn't strong, so it was better to make the stage attractive by emphasizing other elements more.

'It all converges to one opinion.'

I raised my stats just as I originally planned.

So that my talent went up from B+ to A-.

'Well, even if I do this, it can't be compared to Cha Eugene's.'

What difference it would have with the B grade? I was curious.

* * *

On the afternoon of Thursday, October 17, two weeks after Park Moondae completed the settlement of the status window.

"Comeback!!"

Park Moondae's homma couldn't hold back her overflowing emotion and shouted as she watched the music video and music streaming on the tablet and smartphone respectively.

Those screens had one phrase in common.

[Testar (TeSTAR) – Picnic]

Testar made a comeback on the 14th of this month and this was their new repackaged song.

‘I love it!’

Even though she was worried about the singers who worked like a cow without a break, she couldn’t help but open her mouth because she loved it.

‘I was worried it wouldn’t catch people’s attention because of Present’s momentum!’

She hadn’t needed to. The song they promoted was very good.

The refreshing and soft R&B song was perfect to listen to on a chilly autumn morning.

‘Pick this one on the way to work… Please!’

It was still the third day of release, so it was the popular pick of the public, and fans were busy raising the rankings on the daily chart, but the homma was already counting her chickens, which was unlike her.

‘This needs to be advertised on the music charts!’

Because it was a song that focused on the listening experience, she felt a strange pride that everyone should listen to it.

In addition, Testar brought a glimpse of themselves that fans might like, which could be missed if they only cared about popularity.

It was in the details of the music video.

– It doesn’t matter what the weather forecast says

It’s the day I want to meet you

If you walk lightly

The sky is blue today

Go on a picnic, Go on a picnic

The content of the music video was just a simple story of 'College student Testar members hanging out at the Han River', but the use of props and composition inside was not ordinary.

Because Testar's distinctive appearance and props from Idol Inc to present were cleverly reproduced and inserted.

For example, the high school uniform that resembled <Idol Inc.> uniform hanging in Park Moondae's room, the soap bubbles that Seon Ahyeon blew in the Han River, and the composition of Ryu Chungwoo walking through the trees.

The elements that only people in the know could find made the fans amused.

So a reporter who was interested in Testar made this comment.

[Nostalgia brought by a group celebrating their first anniversary]

Here's time that has been compressed into a great story. Testar, which has been running non-stop, has shared compact memories with the public.

……

The feeling of releasing all those times one by one and letting them scatter beautifully is special.

Those who are in the know notice it, but even those who don't know can enjoy it…

Of course, this article didn't receive much attention from the public, but it received plenty of comments and support from Testar's fans, including the homma.

And although it wasn't at the level that got the fans drunk on the interpretations, the first public response was very good.

First of all, the fact that KPOP-related communities were not plastered with 'the song is bad' and 'Present is better' was the proof.

The limit was this.

– It's a bit plain compared to Present, it's just my preference though

– They chose an easy route ㅠㅠI guess they won't do this concept anymore

Raebin arranged it himself and the members said they wanted to use it as a title song because it was that good! I'm looking forward to what other great songs they'll bring for the next comeback. ♡

– Easy easy~

– The song is good, but it's a bit disappointing. I thought it would be more powerful

Of course, it didn't mean the fans weren't pissed off.

'When Present came out, they said 'That's too much' and 'I'm cringing'!!'

It was always so upsetting to see them attacking the new song by praising the song from the previous activity that had already passed and couldn't be undone.

The homma briefly recalled the scene, feeling like grabbing the back of her neck, but soon she calmed down.

'It's okay. It's our masterpiece.'

The song was good, so everything was fine.

Besides, the reviews for the title song weren't the only things good. The composition of the repackaged album was also excellent.

As a privilege for the people who reserved the album, they sent a picnic blanket and box, and the members drew the pattern.

'I know it's a marketing trick, but… It's a great tactic.'

The homma gazed with satisfaction at the wall of her room, where a picnic blanket with an apple pattern drawn by Moondae was hung.

By the way, next to it were the dolls of'Groom in May' from <The Singer I Made>, all in different sizes.

She felt satisfied just by looking at it.

'All right… It's going smoothly.'

The homma calmed down in an instant and at the same time she rolled into the bed with excitement and happiness.

To be honest, when she first started her homma activities for a group member who debuted through a survival program, she was actually worried inside that it would be a thorny road.

But looking at their records so far… Those days had been more pleasant than she had worried about.

Although some problems broke out, they behaved appropriately, so it quickly subsided.

And above all, the records were great!

'Ah, it was great that <The Calls of the Past> came out at this time.'

Saying that he was intelligent just like a crown prince in a historical drama, the homma excitedly recalled the situation as her timeline lagged.

Moondae was a genius puppy…

It was just plain silly comments.

And a few moments later, she came back to her senses again in a flash.

'Let's work, work!'

She should quickly edit the photos taken at the last event so that she could watch today's comeback stage with a fresh mind!

But what the homma accidentally clicked on the laptop's Internet tab… was an announcement on Testar's WeTube channel community.

[<Testar's Living Together TEST: Side Story> Changing Roommates Part 2!]

Who will share the same room? Tomorrow (Friday) at 7 pm, pre-released to membership Loviewers! > – <

(photo)

The attached photo showed several men's hands playing a card game.

If you matched it with the text… It was a game to decide the roommates!

"Waah!"

The homma let out a cry of joy.

'It looks interesting!'

Of course, she didn't dislike Ahyeon, but at this point, she wanted to see Park Moondae's reaction when he got another member as a roommate.

But then, she calmed down a bit.

'Um… Not Ryu Chungwoo… I hope it's Lee Sejin!'

It hadn't become a problem because they somehow knocked it off and turned it over at the right time, but looking at Moondae's last summer package, everyone vaguely guessed that he had something going on with Ryu Chungwoo

.

It wasn't serious, of course.

'They get along well again after that.'

She doubted that they had a fight, but there was no need to hope for their endeavor in becoming roommates.

And because the first impression of Idol Inc's first team match combination was still strong, the homma inwardly chose Lee Sejin.

'Anyway, I hope it will be fun!'

As a result, only this comprehensive wish of the homma came true

* * *

"WOOOW! Moondae hyung!"

"…Wow."

Is this real?

I was speechless for a moment when I saw Cha Eugene reaching out for a high-five.

This, now…

"We're roommates!"

He even confirmed it. Now I knew this was real.

Chapter 172

Let me explain what the hell this was about.

Testar's roommate assignment this time was set as a board game disguised as a card game.

"Now, Yeouido is my 'Blushing Coin Power' land! Everyone, give me a coin~"

"…H-Huh??"

"Already? Sejin is very good."

"Haha, thank you!"

For reference, this unfamiliar game had complicated rules, a long playtime, and, crucially, had little to do with roommate assignments.

It turned out to be a new board game that used the IP of '127 Section' that we had collaborated with.

'It must be PPL from T1.'

I was used to it now.

Anyway, the production team somehow managed to fit this into the roommates' re-arrangement, allowing us to choose roommates in the order of the top players in the game.

And here was the result.

"It's Eugene's group… The 'Flame Gang' won first place with 36 squares!"

“Yeah!”

“Oh~ That’s too bad!”

Cha Eugene made a comeback victory and won last minute.

‘I can’t believe he got dice number six three times in a row.’

Thanks to his crazy luck, Cha Eugene triumphed and afterward, they all sat there screaming as if they were watching some kind of gambling game.

And Cha Eugene… He pointed me as his roommate without hesitation.

“Moondae hyung, you’re a good roommate! Please take good care of me!”

‘Just why.’

When did we get close?

Even the option to distribute the responsibility by inserting another guy was blocked.

“Hmmm, then room choice of the first-place winner Eugene…”

“Number 1!”

It was a room for two people.

“Oh~ Moondae is returning to room number 1? Congratulations!”

“…Yeah.”

It didn’t make me happy at all.

Of course, I had no intention of doing anything crazy like expressing this openly.

I couldn't say anything positive, but I still gave Cha Eugene positive body signals such as high-fives and shoulder taps.

'I shouldn't provoke Cha Eugene's fans.'

Those people wouldn't pass this off as a gag, they'd squeeze me out and turn me into the maknae's bully.

So calm down, let's share a room with this guy and think of the benefits…

…Is there any?

"Then, what is the choice of the second-place winner Sejin?"

"Yes, my choice is… Da-dum-da-dum. It's our cool Raebin!"

"Ah, thank you!"

"Haha! I think it would be nice if we can have the three-people room."

"Well, the third-place winner is Moondae, so let's skip him… Coincidentally, it's Raebin's turn to pick roommates since he won fourth place. What do you think, Raebin?"

"I want Seon Ahyeon hyung to join as the last roommate!"

"…! M-Me?"

"Yes! I'd like to ask you a few questions since we were roommates last time…"

I thought about it as the others were picking roommates one after another, but I couldn't think of any good points.

But I knew one thing.

"Eat the jelly!"

“Okay.”

It would be difficult to sleep early for a while.

And this judgment was not wrong.

* * *

A few days later, in the music show waiting room. The stylist who was fixing the costume props asked.

“Moondae, are you okay? You look drained.”

“I am fine.”

But without Bacchus, I wouldn’t have been fine.

‘Cha Eugene, that crazy bastard didn’t sleep until 2 am yesterday.’

It was fine up to that point. Everyone could have different styles.

However, the problem was that he was active until 2 am.

Talking to me.

“…Sigh.”

In fact, I had made a few requests to Cha Eugene in advance.

– Recently, I’ve been taking care of my physical strength… Outside of exercise time, I want to lie down and rest whenever possible.

– Oh… Are you having a hard time?

– I am not. I’m trying to save some energy, so please don’t get me out of bed as much as possible.

– Got it!

And Cha Eugene said okay so neatly that I was worried a question bomb would come flying, but from then on he really paid attention.

…Only to the words ‘don’t get me out of bed’.

– Wow! Look at this, hyung!

–…

A video of a Siberian husky talking with a baby in a strange howl was playing on Cha Eugene’s smartphone, which he checked by moving his head away from the bed.

– [Isn’t it cute and funny?? A baby and a puppy. They always make my day happy] – Yeah. It’s great.

I didn’t know that this similar pattern would repeat itself until 2:00 in the morning until I gave a positive response.

We had a pre-recording for a music show tomorrow Friday…

– Hyung, hyung! This hippo…

– Stop.

In the end, Cha Eugene went to sleep after I said ‘Let’s be quiet and get some sleep’ three times.

If it had gone for any longer, I would have hit the back of his head and forced him to sleep.

‘I’m going crazy.’

Of course, it wasn’t always like this.

There were times when Cha Eugene went to bed early, but the problem was that it was all up to him.

Still, looking at his attitude, it seemed he was trying to keep his word, but the problem was, he was the kind of person who wouldn't store things in his head if he thought it wasn't a big deal by his standard, so he forgot every time.

'Should I scare him?'

Of course, it was a joke. The moment Cha Eugene showed a timid look in front of the camera, there would be rumors of discord.

I usually could ignore it, but the problem was, I had left a video where I had an uncooperative appearance with Ryu Chungwoo just a few months ago.

The summer package.

'That's not good.'

So for now… I would put up with it.

However, based on the trend so far, this roommate would be set for more than half a year, but I wasn't sure if it would be possible for me to not show any slightest sign of discomfort to this bastard.

'How did Ryu Chungwoo endure being his roommate in the first place?'

Well, come to think of it, Keun Sejin was there, so Cha Eugene's aggro must have jumped at him.

"Hyung! Cookies, cookies?"

"No, thank you."

"It's delicious!"

"Eat a lot."

Now, even outside the dorm, the frequency of Cha Eugene talking to me had increased. If he wanted to get closer as a roommate, I'd like to decline.

“Testar, let’s stand by right away~”

“Yes!”

Anyway, the next stage was our turn. Roommates were roommates, let’s focus on work now.

Woooow!

I heard people shouting over the in-ear.

The buzzing sound through the small device that acted as sound insulation had a strangely uplifting taste.

‘It’s like my thoughts disappear.’

In particular, the feeling of adrenaline soaring helped a lot in a complex and thorough performance.

However, for a song that was loosely organized, it would be better to think a bit.

If I just let it spill out, it often seemed lacking.

As easy as it was, I had to pay more attention so that it didn’t look plain.

‘Wait here for a bit… Gesture.’

– Cool wind, sweet coffee

Add a lot of syrup

Same as me, yes

Take a seat

The chin-resting motion was well captured by the lit-up camera.

'It's strangely easy.'

It seemed that the delay or the sensory difference from thinking to expressing had decreased compared to before.

'Is this the power of talent stat?'

It was quite fun.

I added a couple of unplanned expressions–such as changing facial expressions or setting up glasses with one hand–but I was able to get the timing right without hesitation.

'Oh.'

It was interesting.

– Now, take it easy and wait

(Hold on a second)

I'll pick you up now

The stage ended with the performers standing or sitting with their backs to each other.

"Thanks!"

"Thank you!"

The faces of the guys who bowed and came down from the stage were great.

"Monitoring, monitoring~"

"Watch out there!"

There was a bit of a witty dance break at the end, but it didn't particularly make me breathless enough to have my lungs burst out.

'The b-side is also a ballad.'

It was interesting that, unlike the reduced difficulty level of this activity, the music was doing well.

As soon as the stage monitoring was over, the manager ran over and shouted.

"Guys! Picnic goes up again! 7th on 24Hits!"

"Wow!"

It was an unbelievable feat for a song on the fifth day of its release.

In a format where it would only be counted once within 24 hours if one person listened repeatedly, we were the first other than VTIC to rank like this among boy idol groups this year.

'Right now, it's better than the double score of our previous album, Present.'

The speed was similar to that of Youngrin, who had much better popularity on the music chart, which meant our song must be really catchy.

Keun Sejin sneakily packed it up.

"It's because Raebin is good at arranging~"

"T-That's right. The song is really good…!"

"Ah, no! I think we got this result thanks to the team members' good demonstration and feedback!"

It sounded like an award speech.

‘Your face straightens.”

Kim Raebin smiled broadly with a much more relaxed face than a few days ago. Hmm, it still looked fierce though.

“You make a lot of songs! Give one to me.”

“Songs don’t come out randomly like that. I need some kind of inspiration to work on them…”

“Old man? Are you a grandpa?”

(TL notes: Cha Eugene mistook inspiration (영감이) as old man (영감님).)

“You idiot! That’s not it, um…”

I sighed.

“…Inspiration.”

“Ah, thank you, Moondae hyung!”

“Thank you!”

…Looking at those two bowing their head, I wondered if Cha Eugene actually took me as his roommate to use me as an interpreter.

It was a convincing explanation.

“Guys, the ending performance!”

“Ah, yes!”

Anyway, the time to organize my thoughts didn’t come easily in a hectic schedule because it was the comeback week.

So, it was only a few days later, during my free time right before going to bed, that I found out Cha Eugene's intentions.

* * *

[The weather forecast doesn't matter~ It's the day I want to meet you.]

It was late Monday night when I had some free time.

I was lying on the bed and watching a fancam.

It was the official vertical fancam that was uploaded by the music show filmed on Friday.

[(K-cam) Testar (TeSTAR) Park Moondae's fancam 'Picnic' 2X1018]

The thumbnail was a close-up shot of me resting my chin, and it had already received quite a few views.

It seemed to have become a hot topic in the community, comparing it to my first idol Inc fancam.

It… It was the fancam for the rating of <It's Me>.

I watched all of my fancams, going through the comments that were plastered with words like 'Park Moondae is a deep learning AI puppy' a little bashfully.

'It definitely got better.'

It was good to have clear control of strength and dynamics and to have a clear expression of what I felt, without feeling awkward or pressured.

'Hmm.'

Even if I look at it from my old self's perspective, this guy was good enough to make money from the filming, I thought it would be okay to praise myself a little.

However, this idea was temporarily dismissed as the next video played out automatically.

[(K-cam) Testar (TeSTAR) Cha Eugene's fancam 'Picnic' 2X1018]

It was Cha Eugene's fancam from the same day.

'This bastard is a real monster.'

It wasn't just at the level of looking natural and great. Each of his movements gave a strange feeling.

'Hmm, it's kind of gooey?'

I thought that description suited him. He didn't just dance well, he did a great job.

'He's worth being analyzed.'

I played Cha Eugene's fancam for a while. Then, a head suddenly popped in beside me.

"Hyung! Are you watching my video??"

"Yeah. You're good."

"Hehe."

Cha Eugene poured out words in English with an excited expression.

[What do you think? Are you watching it because it's fun?]

"There's that, and I want to compare it with mine and do some research."

"Oh!"

Cha Eugene's eyes flashed, and he hit my bed.

[Hyung! I think we can share some tips? If you teach me how to sing, I'll teach you how to dance!]

"Really?"

"Yes!"

Just when I thought that I shouldn't expect much because he didn't seem to have the skills to teach, Cha Eugene brought out the main point.

[And how about we make a unit performance? At the next concert!]

Huh?

Chapter 173

A topic that I had never thought of came out.

‘A unit performance with Cha Eugene?’

The concert schedule was definitely set, but unlike other set lists that were mostly fixed, opinions on the units were still divided.

‘Some people also said that we don’t need it because we have solo songs.’

We were going to sing a few ballad songs as a group instead, but I was actually more inclined to do the unit.

I thought it would be more fun to look forward to.

Looking at Cha Eugene waiting for an answer, I smiled.

And answered.

“No.”

“Yes? Why?”

Cha Eugene looked betrayed.

This guy was funny.

I shrugged.

“Why do you want to do a unit performance with me?”

“Hyung is great! It’s cool to do it together!”

“I don’t know about that. You’re good at dancing and I’m good at singing, so I don’t think we’ll fit together.”

“We can practice!”

He talked about effort casually. He’d become a Korean, too.

Cha Eugene looked upset, which was rare for him. I put down my smartphone and crossed my arms.

“From the beginning, you chose me as your roommate with the unit performance in mind.”

“Yes!”

He nodded his head eagerly as if he didn’t particularly intend to hide it.

‘Did you choose me because you thought of how the roommates did the unit stages last time?’

I looked at Cha Eugene without answering, and Cha Eugene whithered slightly.

“Hyung’s performance is fun… I want to do that, too.”

Hmm. He was still as stubborn as ever.

“You think my performance is fun?”

“Yes… Can I say it in English?”

What are you asking permission for after saying whatever you want so far? I nodded, and Cha Eugene explained the situation in English.

[I’ve been thinking about it since we were on the survival reality show, hyung’s stage ideas are really cool. So I want to devote myself 100% to it and try it at this concert!]

Cha Eugene blinked and pointed at himself and me alternately with his finger.

[Best dance, best vocal! I assure you, with a little more practice, it will be a great performance!]

Oh, it was more than I expected.

'Come to think of it, in Idol Inc, he kept asking to perform together next time.'

At that time, there was no next time so I thought it was just some nonsense, but I supposed he had thought about it from a long-term perspective.

Seriously.

'Should I explain it more to him?'

Look at his confidence when he proudly said he was the best dancer even though there were three dance lines on the team.

It was clear that if I just refused, he would continue to beg for a unit because he wasn't convinced. I opened my mouth, rubbing the back of my neck.

"First of all, we don't even know if we'll do unit performances or not you know?"

"But I like the unit! Just say we'll do it!"

"No. We should think carefully about which one is better, and consider other people's opinions."

"…"

Cha Eugene looked sullen, but he seemed to understand in his own way.

I went on to explain.

“And our positions are very different. If we play a unit where we clearly have to show different strength points, which is neither dance nor vocal, and doesn’t meet people’s expectations, the situation can become ambiguous.”

“I’m not worried. We have great skills, let’s try it!”

Even if you’re not worried, I totally am, you bastard.

It would draw attention if the first and second-place winners formed a unit among themselves, and from there, some fans of other members would get upset.

However, if we failed to meet their expectations after performing on the stage, we could suffer losses without gaining anything.

So, in other words, I had no reason to do a unit with Cha Eugene.

“Challenge is good, but we’re at work. This is not a school, so you can’t challenge yourself however you want. You have to be careful.”

“…”

Cha Eugene slumped. It was the first time since Idol Inc that I’d seen him so discouraged.

‘I guess you have grand ambitions.’

I finally shrugged and opened my mouth.

“So, when the unit stage is confirmed and a good idea comes up… Why don’t we talk about it again then?”

“…!”

It meant it was a postponement, not a rejection.

‘I shouldn’t press him too hard.’

It was okay to bring Cha Eugene down to reality, but there was no need to blindly press him down.

Well, I might come up with some really good ideas.

Sure enough, Cha Eugene was excited again.

“Good! I have a lot of old men! Let’s talk a lot!”

You mean inspiration.

“I get inspiration only three times a day.”

“Umm… Got it!”

The conversation seemed to end with Cha Eugene snapping his fingers, but…

[Right! How about an underwater concert?]

“…”

Think of our concert budget.

‘I should’ve just discouraged him.’

I briefly regretted my choice.

But I never thought that the fuse would be ignited by something more trivial than this concert unit.

* * *

A few days later, Testar’s roommate reassignment content was uploaded to WeTube.

It was released only to the people who subscribed to the account membership so that they could see it a week earlier, but of course, illegal pirated copies spread everywhere.

It was thanks to Testar's popularity, but there were other reasons for the number of views in each illegally uploaded video.

– Crazy, hilarious ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

It was incredibly funny.

Just like most of idol's own content aimed at fans, Testar's recent WeTube content was somewhat heartwarming and less provocative.

However, from this roommate content, the production PD changed, reviving the stimulating taste of Testar's debut reality show.

As T1 reorganized Testar's own content, they also recruited the production team that filmed the debut reality show.

They actively added character traits, drove them, and made good use of the editing twists.

[Bae Sejin (Investment addict): (After investing in everything, all I have left is 2 coins…! It's really just these coins now!)]

[Seon Ahyeon (Building owner): Ah, that… I ask Sejin hyung to collect 3 coins…]

[Bae Sejin (Just went bankrupt): !!!!]

Besides, there were so many unexpected situations in this game.

Thanks to this, the comments in the videos were filled with repeated laughter in foreign languages and Korean.

– Everyone, this video is so real, I almost threw up while laughing

– They're crazy, they're making each other go bankrupt ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Guys, look after your territories, why do you keep selling them ㅠ

– (19:41) Cha Eugene's reaction the moment he got the highest amount through 1/216 odds probability ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Child Ryu Chungwoo and Bae Sejin ㅋㅋㅋ

I think they've never played a game where they have to make fake money because they've been making real money since they were young… (Pitying emoticon)

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋNo, how can you talk about national team members and child actors as if they're illegal child labor!!

Fans encouraged people to report illegal videos, but inwardly, they liked the videos because they were so funny.

– I think it would help promoting to muggles… Is it the idol delusion? (resting chin emoticon)

– It's just for promotional purposes anyway, so don't be blinded by the small amount of money you get from the membership and release the video right away ㅠㅠ

– Ah, so much fun… I love you guys

– You waste your life if you don't dig up this funny group right away. Check out the best cost-effectiveness Testar that will bring back your laughter on WeTube now

– Lee Sejin's cute hand gesture that grabbed the soul of the bankrupt Baese… (GIF)

And the PD made the forming of the roommates after this game quite fun.

[Cha Eugene: Wow!! Moondae hyung! We're roommates!]

[Park Moondae:… Wow? (I don't know English, but let's thank him first)]

Because the roommates were assigned to maximize the emotions each member expressed in a positive way.

And among them, the combination of Cha Eugene and Park Moondae, which was rarely seen after their debut, was quite entertaining and received good responses.

– I think Cha Eugene just picked Park Moondae because he was next to him ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Moondae must have thought Eugene would pick Raebin, look at his expression ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Moon Puppy and Cha Kitty's combination, how long has it been~~ Show us more

– ㅅㅂ On the topic of Park Moondae being an introvert, Cha Eugene accepted everything he said, what a sweet cider maker

– This Incheon Tibetan fox dried up under the direct sunlight of the super extrovert Caliboy (screenshot)

Most of the fans who liked Testar and Park Moondae also liked this format. It was because their characters were strong and kind, so it was fun.

However, there were also some people who didn't like it.

Among Cha Eugene's solo fans, there were stuck-up people who had been there since the beginning of 'Idol Inc' drama.

– Ah, I see someone who pushes forward to be everyone's favorite even though he doesn't do anything blergh

– He can't get rid of the habit of instigating with emotion, he can't help it, just die ㅠ

– Gommeo that *sshole is showing his dirt, but his friends are trying to make him look like a kind person. After the summer package, is Euggene next? ㅋㅋ

Their argument was that Park Moondae forcibly staged the neglect of Cha Eugene and had it directed in a warm-hearted way.

Of course, this was not the general public opinion of Cha Eugene's fandom.

Their aggression had softened a lot thanks to Cha Eugene's successful debut, and their exclusivity had decreased a lot as they mixed in with new fans.

However, there were still some fans who questioned the legitimacy of Park Moondae's first-place ranking.

And their emotions led to a poor view of Park Moondae's solo performance.

Therefore, some people made these hateful remarks not only on anonymous sites or secret accounts under the surface, but also in public places.

This day was the same always.

– What are you guys doing?

However, the difference from before was that Park Moondae's fans didn't have to endure it any longer.

– (screenshot) The second-place's akkgaes are still doing this, It can't be helped that he got pushed out because he wasn't good enough ㅠㅠ

– Hn, the freaks are swamped with inferiority complexes~

– I think I'm going to throw up when I see freaks like you using his profile

– He can't appear on a solo variety show because he stupidly can't keep his mouth shut, what can we do about that? Does the 1st place have to take responsibility?ㅜ

In Idol Inc, they had no choice but to put up with it and be satisfied with behind-the-scenes work because of the preoccupation of Cha Eugene's fandom which had been immovably at the top since the beginning, but the situation had changed.

Because Park Moondae did great performances after his debut.

His appearance and stage continued to improve step by step, the influx of fans increased, and entertainment shows often hit popularity with each of his appearances.

Even in this album, his photo card market price had become similar to Cha Eugene's.

So, it was only natural that Park Moondae's radical solo fans secretly started thinking like this.

'Isn't it fine to openly beat them up now?'

And once they started to refute, curses and accusations began to pour out like a broken reservoir.

Of course, it wasn't just Cha Eugene's malicious solo fans alone.

Some people deleted their posts and disappeared, but the remaining people went under the surface and began to respond more violently.

– Ah, If you ask me not to talk freely in my account, just don't look. Why are you using force?ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Pretending to be an all-fan, but refusing to stream solo songs behind the scene. Wow, really, The idol and his suckers are the same

– Ugh, *sshole, thinking he's the popular member and going crazy. Yes, congratulations on being the pick of grandmothers and grandfathers who don't spend money~ (applause emoticon)

It was a complete mess.

– Whenever Cha Eugene isn't the center of the chorus, they use dirty methods such as using fax machines. We need to take this opportunity to root them out

– Park Moondae's akggaes have an open message room, why are you pretending not to know? ㅋㅋDo you enjoy spreading rumors? (screenshot)

Revelations upon revelations followed, and rumors and fake testimony sneakily came out.

– Let's be happy, guys

– I will block all the related content, I am just going to enjoy kids' content~

– Quit the fandom, please

Among the fans who hadn't dipped their toes into this, many who noticed the situation were disgusted or ignored it, but unsurprisingly, there were also people who expressed their opinions.

– Honestly, the solo fans are going too far, they're crazy

– Gommeo's are the same but Euggene's are all jerks, what's wrong with them

– Cha Eugene should have won first place. it got twisted from the beginning, you just gave me a chance to feel upset ㅋㅋㅋ

If things spread a bit more, it was only a matter of time before they entered SNS or community popular posts.

*'F*ck.'*

And it was at this point that Park Moondae saw this.

“…Eugene.”

“Yes!”

“Let’s do a W live.”

After a short phone call with the company, Park Moondae turned on a personal live broadcast with Cha Eugene.

It was less than half a day after the situation was confirmed.

Chapter 174

Let me briefly summarize the current situation.

Some of Cha Eugene and Park Moondae's solo fandoms started fighting, and it was on the verge of spreading widely through public debate.

'It's driving me crazy.'

…Hmm, calm down.

I could just pretend not to know and moved on, but if the topic made it to the surface, we could be imprinted on the public as a 'tiring group', so I would try to patch it up lightly for now.

'That's why I'm going to turn on the W app.'

We had become roommates and things hadn't gone too far, so if we pretended we didn't know, it wouldn't look too obvious.

However, there was one thing I should pay attention to.

In this situation, there were a few things I needed to keep in mind if I wanted to broadcast anything with Cha Eugene.

– First, one person shouldn't teach the other.

In this case, the situation could lead to an implicit sequence, making it a weakness they could pounce on.

I could give examples such as 'He did his best to teach but the other guy's attitude is so insincere' or 'His teaching is forced'.

'Therefore, things like 'Joyful Cooking Class with Cha Eugene' and 'Joyful

English Class with Park Moondae' are dismissed.'

– Second, don't choose things related to work.

The moment I chose a topic related to dancing or singing, a talk of comparison would come out, asking 'Which one is better?'.

It would be perfect to make the conflict explode again.

And… the last third.

– Don't choose competitive content.

People who were committed to one side could get offended by the other.

'Therefore, hard bets or card games are not allowed. They're out.'

So what should I recommend?

It was simple.

'We should show the two of us doing something together as a team.'

The implication was subtle, so it didn't feel forced, and it was best to just laugh and watch.

Even if we failed, being funny would be much better.

So I chose this.

"Woooow!"

Right away… It was a horror-themed escape room.

*'F*ck.'*

I never thought I would willingly waste money like this, but I was looking for a room at an escape room cafe that was going to be remodeled soon, and I paid quite a lot of money and ended the contract over the phone in an instant.

…It seemed I had lost quite a bit of money because I didn't have time to bargain.

'I'm glad the company said they would take care of the expenses.'

Of course, the expenses would be taken from my settlement amount.

Anyway, that's why I came to the escape room with Cha Eugene in the middle of the night when my schedule was empty.

Naturally, the staff with their smartphone cameras followed with sad eyes.

'I'm sorry.'

I didn't know it would be like this either.

"Whoa! Hyung, head! Watch out!"

However, Cha Eugene looked very excited. It was absurd.

"Weren't you afraid of this, too…?"

"It's so fake! I'm not scared! There are no ghosts!"

He meant that compared to the house we had gone to in our debut reality show last time, this was almost like a child's prank.

'Certainly… It's rather sloppy.'

Perhaps because of the labor costs, there were no employees who played ghost roles. In addition, the props and the wallpaper strangely smelled of cost-effectiveness.

'It's not for no reason that the room is going to get remodeled.'

There were very few sections where I had to use my brain, so I didn't have to get caught up with words such as, 'You can't even solve that?'

Sometimes they turned off the light to scare us, but it was okay as long as I had the right amount of courage and agility…

"Hyung, there's blood here!"

"…C-Crayons. It's melted crayons."

"Aha!"

I shouldn't express my desire to hit him. Let's just forget it.

Fortunately, or maybe unfortunately, I was able to forget the sloppiness and got myself immersed thanks to the structure that became creepier as the second half progressed.

Even Cha Eugene got scared when the mannequin came out of the red light at the end, so this picture was good.

"What the…!"

He held back from cursing. Good job.

Thanks to this, when we escaped and came out, we had a tight atmosphere as if we had overcome some kind of great adversity.

"You two managed to escape with 6 minutes and 21 seconds left~"

"WOOOW!! Look, escape!"

"On the way back… Let's eat something delicious."

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋScaredy-catz

– Surprisingly, aren't they soul twins?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCongratulations on your escape

– (Applause emoticon)

The live responses that the staff sneakily displayed were very good. The number of viewers was as high as the group W app.

“Is it over?’

For now, the content seemed successful.

“Thank you for watching.”

“Thank you! Thank you, guys~”

Like that, the W live ended right before midnight.

“Then I’ll go get the camera.”

We had agreed that today’s broadcast would be edited together with the cams installed in the room from different angles and uploaded separately to the W app.

…I almost lost it when I heard that the title would be [The Story of a Puppy and a Kitty Overcoming Their Fear] but I approved.

It was better to attract aggro that way.

‘It’s better… ’

I checked my smartphone again with a sigh.

– Escape from horror with those two? The person in charge of the W live is evil ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– The second coming of reality show horror experiences

– I guess both of them miss Keunse

– A trembling puppy and kitty ㅋㅋ (screenshot)

– Moon Puppy who was brilliant for a moment and shrunk in an instant (screenshot comparison)

“What are you watching?”

“Fans’ reactions.”

“Aha.”

Cha Eugene nodded.

In fact, while preparing for this W live, I had explained why I was doing this.

Some of our fans didn’t get along well.

‘He must have figured out the situation.’

It seemed that this guy’s tactful attitude in the last fight between Lee Sejin and Bae Sejin was not a coincidence. It was nice because his unnecessary desire to compete was completely gone.

“Does everyone like it??”

“Yeah. It’s fine.”

Anyway, the response was very satisfying.

They were busy enjoying the content and the related content posted on real-time trends and popular articles right now, so the topic of the behind-the-scene fights had already been pushed aside.

Except for the people who fought, it was hard for anyone to care.

‘Cha Eugene’s and Park Moondae’s fans have good firepower.’

A few days later, when someone else tried to raise their voice, a newly edited version would be uploaded. It was basically over.

“Are we going to eat something delicious now?”

“Tomorrow. It’s late, so drink zero coke.”

“Yes…”

…However, after getting in the car to go back to the dorm, I found something troubling.

It was the posts uploaded by some of Cha Eugene’s malicious fans who had fled to anonymous sites.

– Wow~ Amazing, look at the timing again ㅎ

– You’re making it so obvious that you care about the public opinion, you disgusting bastard

– I’ve thought about it. Gommeo, let go of Euggene

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋI feel like the*sshole Park Moondae is spying on us while browsing

‘It’s here.’

I had a hunch that someone might be talking about this.

‘I handled a few cases too smoothly.’

Every time there was a controversy, it turned out alright, so some people might connect the dots and think, ‘Is this bastard doing this because he knows everything?’.

However, whether it was this time or in the past, there was no circumstantial evidence.

Because I prefer to respond first, there were many cases where I was one step ahead or came out at the same time to crush them.

It would be difficult to regard this as ‘responding to a controversy’. They’d thought the timing was right.

Furthermore, since I didn’t comment on such things, anyone who suspected it would easily think that it was the company that set up the board.

So my assessment always ended with just the right response or luck.

Somehow… it was fun.

‘Even though they’re the ones who post that, they don’t believe it.’

They were just pissed off so they insisted on that situation.

However, if you put it together, the samples would eventually pile up and become a plausible topic… I had that concern.

‘Well, that’s also true.’

I shrugged. Still, I didn’t want to give them a win.

So I thought.

‘Then how do I get rid of this?’

Since it had already started, I wanted to root it out so there would be no room for complaints.

‘It’s best to disrupt them by making them fight among themselves. Or make them transfer to another fresh group.’

From Cha Eugene’s point of view, it would be good in the long run if their influence weakened. That’s why…

“Hyung! Would you like a coke??”

"…Huh, what?"

When I turned my head, Cha Eugene, who had bought coke zero, was in the car holding a small plastic bottle.

"Um, are you drinking? Are you going to drink…? You're going to eat?"

Cha Eugene earnestly changed his words. It seemed he thought I replied like that because his words weren't conveyed properly.

"It's fine. You drink it."

[Oh, okay. Hyung, are you worried about something?]

"…!"

"Hyung, you're tired. You look like you are."

"It's late at night."

[Not that! Um… Like, psychologically?]

"…"

This guy… He noticed that.

I looked over at Cha Eugene with suspicious eyes and finally sighed.

Let's answer him properly.

"It's because I'm paying attention to the response. It's not a big deal."

"Oh, there are a lot of people who don't like it?"

"No, it's just… Nothing's missing."

"Aha."

Cha Eugene sipped his zero coke and spoke seriously.

[But don't worry too much, hyung. How can you change everyone else's mind at will?]

"…!"

Cha Eugene shrugged.

[My mom said that there are always people who hate you in your life! But ignore them, and voila! It keeps going. Don't stress over it!]

"…"

Hmm. He gave advice that unimaginably made sense.

Somehow… My head cooled down.

I thought about it again.

Will there be a problem if I don't immediately take care of the people who escape to this anonymous bulletin board?

'Maybe, maybe not.'

So if that 'problem' occurs, will it be hard to deal with?

"…"

'No.'

Even if I kept quiet and then solve it at that time, it wasn't going to be a difficult problem.

Besides, it wouldn't be a big deal if my intense monitoring became known. Even in the worst-case scenario, people would just be more self-conscious.

Rather, if I made a mistake when trying to pull them all out, there was a high probability that the problem would grow.

I eventually acknowledged it.

'I was a bit… overreacting.'

Normally, I would have already brushed it off and stopped caring, but I hated that someone was trying to figure me out.

'Do I have some kind of obsessive-compulsive personality?'

After entering the body of another person and being engaged in a job group that required dealing with many people in various ways, my brain had hardened before I knew it.

"Sigh."

I turned off the anonymous bulletin board on the screen and tossed my phone aside.

And I said.

"You're right. I need to snap out of it."

"Of course, I'm right!"

You're very confident.

[Ah, hyung. There's one more! Don't forget that there is always an option to sue!]

He also gave very American advice.

"Yes."

"Good!"

I never thought I'd hear this.

I chuckled. And I leaned against the backrest.

'Should I close my eyes?'

At the same time, Cha Eugene would be able to drink my share of coke zero with peace of mind.

And just as I closed my eyes, someone hit me hard on the shoulder.

"Oh, hyung! I'll tell you my old man! Let's have a circus performance!"

"…"

Being roommates for half a year… I didn't know if I could stand it.

* * *

After suffering from sleep deprivation in between, I eventually threatened and coaxed Cha Eugene with snacks to make him shut up for several days.

The company talked about the concert, and naturally, there were also talks about new content.

By the way, I was optimistic. If there were a lot of things to enjoy, it was better to push out useless nonsense.

However, the company's talk was not like what I had thought. It was different.

"I'm planning a new reality show."

A reality show was good. It would have been nice if it was done at the time of the album release, but it would be good to fill in the hiatus during the tour…

“I’m thinking of going to America!”

“…?”

I should have noticed then.

The payment bot left and a new director came in… with American disease.

Chapter 175

It was two days ago that I found out that the director was changing.

“Again?”

“That’s what I said! But I thought he’d fulfill his term this year.”

According to the rumors, there were several talks between the payment bot and the higher-ups as the industry spy case entered T1’s head office.

And whatever agreement they had, the payment bot retired and left for an affiliate, and a new director was appointed in his place.

“The director said he’s not from T1 this time. Some famous professional CEO is coming!”

“I look forward to it.”

I wasn’t expecting anything, but well, I couldn’t do anything about it, so I nodded to the company staff.

By the way, this was a concert-related meeting.

“Then the direction of Moondae-ssi’s solo song will be set like this.”

“Yes. Thank you.”

This meant that I didn’t expect to hear the unexpected talk of the trip to the US at the reality show meeting two days later.

“America?”

“I like it! Let’s go to America!”

“Ah, Eugene, wait a minute. America is good~ But will our schedule and the cost be fine? We almost don’t come near America at all on our tour.”

As soon as he heard the remark, ‘For this reality show, you’re going to America’, Keun Sejin smoothly brought up the realistic issue.

‘His point is accurate.’

When we said that we got a certain amount of response from the US, what we meant was that we had a reputation worthy of the first-tier group in Korea only among KPOP fanatics.

The interest we received from the game talk show helped us gain some popularity in the subculture, but only at a small level.

This meant that the size of the tour was not as we had expected, and of course, the concert in the US only matched that range.

“Oh, they said that they plan the flights according to the South American tour schedule. About the cost, of course, Tnet will invest this much on Testar~”

“Oh~”

“I’m grateful, but what if there’s a situation where we can’t recover the production cost…”

A few naive guys were embarrassed by the staff’s flattery.

‘It’s strange.’

They suddenly brought up America. The cost-performance ratio didn’t fit.

I purposely asked straightforwardly, in order to see the staff’s reaction.

“But why America? Did Tnet suggest it first?”

“Ah, um… It’s what the director suggested…”

“…The new director?”

“Yes.”

It had only been two days since I heard that the director changed, when did he make that proposal?

“What reason did he tell you when he talked about it?”

“Well, first of all, I didn’t hear it directly from him… Well, since he chose it with the simultaneous global release in mind, he said that he chose a background that is familiar to the world.”

He created holes to escape and gave a vague answer. It seemed he had something on his mind.

‘Let’s dig a little more.’

Before I could open my mouth, Ryu Chungwoo continued with the next question.

“Simultaneous global release?”

“Yes. We are discussing releasing this reality show directly on WeTube outside of Korea!”

Cha Eugene stepped in.

“A lot of Americans are going to watch it?”

“…! Uh, yes. We talked about it, but…”

Looking at the agitated staff, it was clear that Cha Eugene had accidentally stumbled upon the right answer.

‘They’re aiming for the English speakers.’

Trying this reality show was not a bad thing, but the problem was that the director's preference was visible here.

Rather than selecting content to appease domestic fans during the overseas tour and preventing them from leaving, he was thinking of increasing overseas viewers.

Not a country where KPOP was already familiar, but the US that 'apparently watches KPOP'.

'Let's put it off for now.'

It would be better to check whether they would be cautious when we showed our reluctance.

I looked around the members and opened my mouth.

"Can we discuss it among ourselves first and then talk about it at the next meeting?"

"Right~ I think that would be better!"

Keun Sejin fired a support shot, but the responding staff's speech got longer.

"Ah, of course! However, Testar's opinions naturally will be considered but the final decision is made by the program producers after taking various realistic requirements into account… I'm really sorry about that, but I ask for your understanding."

This meant that even if we didn't want to go to America at the next meeting, they would send us away.

*'F*ck.'*

It must have already been half-decided because of the strong push from the inside. Still, because of the industry spy case, they showed signs of being cautious.

“Then I’ll see you next week.”

“Thank you~”

After that, we left the meeting room while talking about the content we wanted to do in the reality show.

“What do you think? About America.”

“Let’s go! Go to my home. There are a lot of delicious restaurants! Mom miss hyungs!”

“Ah~ that’s nice.”

“I-I wish I could say hello.”

Cha Eugene fiercely supported it, and other members seemed to think it was only natural.

‘It can’t be helped.’

He had fewer chances to meet his family compared to other members, so if there was a way to meet them, he would want to use it.

‘He must be homesick.’

If we would go anyway, it would be better to go to Cha Eugene’s house in regard to the content.

‘It would be better to set the mood before that.’

From what I noticed earlier, maybe there would be some gestures in the company before the next meeting.

And sure enough, the next morning at the company practice room, we received a new schedule from the manager.

“Guys, the director said he wanted to see you.”

“Ah, the director.”

“…Now?”

“About an hour later? They said it won’t take long!”

Bae Sejin’s face was gloomy when he asked.

It was understandable.

‘The break time is gone.’

We were in the middle of a busy schedule, so we were barely able to make use of our time and enjoy a break in the practice room.

“I understand…”

“Um, yes!”

The responses were not very enthusiastic.

Still, an hour later, Testar headed to the director’s office for the first time in a long time.

Seeing that even Seon Ahyeon, who had recently switched to French embroidery or something, glanced at the pile of cloth with regretful eyes, it was clear that the general manager had made his first impression.

‘We’d rather spend the meeting time doing anything else.’

He only managed to buy our slight animosity while trying to establish his position in a hurry.

I entered the director’s office, suspecting that someone who wasn’t good at their job was in there again.

And I was a little surprised by an unexpected sight.

“Ah, Testar. I’m sorry I called you out of the blue. Sit down first.”

The director was waiting with refreshments set up.

It wasn’t at a trivial level that matched the occasion. From chicken to waffles, all kinds of snacks were brought out as if it was some kind of event.

It was like an academy briefing session to attract children, but at least he expressed his intention clearly enough.

He was saying ‘I set up this position with you guys’.

“I called you while you were taking a break, right? You must be busy these days, I feel bad so I prepared some snacks, haha!”

“Oh my, of course, it’s fine, director!”

“T-Thank you.”

“Shall we talk while eating?”

And the director first picked up a chicken.

Seeing that he just put it down after it roughly touched his mouth, I guessed he didn’t want to eat it, and he seemed to know that it was inconvenient for other people to eat comfortably if he didn’t eat first.

‘Oh.’

Still, I felt like he’d been close with the staff. He was also much younger than the former director.

.

The director chatted for a while and after waiting for the kids to eat, he started talking about work.

“The first reason I prepared this was to have a meeting where we can see each other's faces and greet each other. Please take good care of me in the future."

"Ah, please take care of us!"

We exchanged light handshakes.

"And the second reason is… I think you've already heard about it. It's related to the reality show in the US."

The director clasped his hands with a serious face.

"I am drawing a roadmap to target the US market not only for this period but also from a longer-term perspective."

"Yes…?"

Ah, damn it.

"I checked all your albums and activities before I came here."

The director talked about Testar's activities and explained his analysis with a serious look.

"…And it's clear that America likes it. Underdog, social message, pride and individuality in one's roots. What do you think, Eugene-nim? Am I right?"

"Oh, you're right!"

"Yes. And Testar is a team with styles that meets all three. So I'm sure it will work out in a bigger market as well."

"Oh…!"

It was nonsense.

First of all, those three conditions were an excessive leap of logic, and Cha Eugene was excited because he just ate delicious food, so when the person who bought the food asked his opinion, he just agreed.

And more importantly, if all three conditions were met, groups who didn't get beaten down by America would be as many as the stars in the sky.

'I had a false hope.'

The problem was, this bastard was confident in analyzing the data in his own way. And he seemed to have a lot of confidence in his abilities.

Ryu Chungwoo managed to open his mouth.

"Well, thank you for your kind words, but rather than targeting any particular country or class… The team has been working to focus on making good albums."

"Of course! You just have to keep making good music. I was saying that the company would work harder on how to promote and manage that good music."

He had a way with words.

"Honestly, I think we've lacked support from T1 Stars so far. Rather than sharing my vision with everyone, I was in a hurry to chase after it."

The director's eyes were serious.

"For example, the size of this concert tour in Japan. I heard that <Idol Inc.> was well-received from the first episode aired in Japan, so we should have quickly increased the size of the tour, set up additional schedules, and analyzed Japan's needs, but we didn't do anything like that."

Oh, this was pretty new.

I'd been busy lately, so I hadn't gotten a chance to find out more about the responses in other countries, but now that I thought about it, as he said, it was something that the agency should have looked into earlier.

'Still, it's better to not do anything now than pointlessly do something in a strange direction.'

For example, if he had been there instead of the payment bot, we would have been on a Japanese music show out of the blue.

However, the director was deeply immersed in his analysis, and he was so enthusiastic that he was almost spitting out.

"So what's the result? <Idol Inc.> was a big hit in Japan, and while Testar's stock prices continued to rise, the agency put the activities in Japan on hold."

"Um, is that so?"

"Is the upward trend that strong in Japan?"

At the remarks of the flustered Ryu Chungwoo and the curious Kim Raebin, the director took out his pad, excited to boast his knowledge.

And with a smart gesture, he flicked the screen.

"Have you seen this?"

It was a slide of a PPT made with an up-to-date template.

And the content… It was about a Japanese auction product screenshot. There was nothing special about it other than the price range.

However, Seon Ahyeon's face was clearly visible on the product.

It was a photo card that was given out in a lottery at the beginning of the year as an event for public interest campaigns by some broadcasting company.

It was probably taken behind the scene at the request of the broadcasting staff right after the stage where the ear-in fell off and Seon Ahyeon covered it up with a somersault.

‘That situation was oddly unique’

In addition, considering that it was Seon Ahyeon’s photo, it was as good as ever, and I remembered that the original photo data was finally uploaded to the broadcasting station’s SNS after a barrage of requests.

Still, it seemed that the first few cards released in the event were quite premium, but I didn’t know that it would go all the way to Japan and form such a price range.

“This is almost 500,000 won in Korean currency. It’s strong proof that the demand for Testar is increasing significantly in Japan. In particular, they gave good responses to Seon Ahyeon-nim.”

“Y-Yes…”

Seon Ahyeon’s face turned red. The director exclaimed enthusiastically.

“So now is the time to be more aggressive in targeting overseas markets. Since we invaded Japan so easily, I am sure that we will be able to achieve enough results in the United States if we work hard and break through good routes.”

“…”

Now I got it.

‘I guess ‘Now that I heard it, it’s true’ came back with an A grade to deal with this guy.’

This proved my theory again.

I held back a sigh and opened my mouth.

Chapter 176

First of all, one thing to point out, just because I had the characteristic 'Now that I heard it, it's true', it didn't mean I could be all-around persuasive.

Let's look at the description of the characteristic again.

[Characteristic: Now that I heard it, it's true(A)]

– It causes emotional agitation to the 'listener'

: Activation rate 60%, basic activation state

It caused 'emotional agitation' but that didn't mean they would be convinced of whatever I was saying.

In other words, it was an assisting wheel to various types of communication situations, ranging from stage to conversation.

Therefore, in order to string around this America-obsessed director, I had to come up with a convincing reason.

Then where should I prod him?

I had to stimulate this guy's inner desire that wanted to go to America.

Namely, the 'image'.

"If it goes well in the U.S., that would be great, but… How long are you planning on doing this?"

The director was outspoken in his answer, as if he had already made all the plans.

“Two years if it’s short and about three years if it takes a long time. It’s a fully feasible plan.”

This meant that it would fill the period until the contract ended.

‘That shouldn’t happen.’

I asked right away.

“But if we work in the US for that long, won’t all the Korean fans leave?”

“Haha, that’s all in the past. These days, everyone knows the world news through WeTube or SNS. You all speak Korean anyway, right? Korean fans have more access.”

“Hmm… Then I think they’ll hate it even more.”

“Yes?”

“No. When we go to America, we have to start it all from scratch without having any recognition, but I think they’ll hate it if they have to see it all.”

I deliberated paused and then added.

“They think we’re a great team, but wouldn’t they think differently if we start from the bottom in America?”

“…!”

“If in Korea they don’t see things going well for two to three years, I don’t think our image will recover.”

“That’s right~ I think other countries are responding because we’re doing much better than we normally are! As the director said, everyone in the world knows everything in real-time these days~”

Keun Sejin interrupted with a smile. I continued right away.

“The reaction in Japan you mentioned earlier, I think they got immersed in the program because they know that we succeeded in Korea after <Idol Inc.>.”

“…Mmm.”

A strange look passed over the director’s face, along with the displeasure at being talked back by young idiots who hadn’t even graduated from college.

It was the agitation of being bothered by something.

And at that moment, a pop-up came up.

[‘Now that I heard it, it’s true (A)’ activated!]

‘Done.’

It was plausible to predict that the Korean market, which had already been established, would be shaken by the broken image of Testar’s brand in Korea because of its devotion to the US for two to three years.

Originally, he could have said something like, ‘If it goes according to my master plan, we’ll succeed in America, so it doesn’t matter!’ but here, the characteristic popped out and his agitation intensified.

‘Now all I have to do is make a stake that the director can afford to lose.’

So that he could rationalize it with ‘being considerate of the singers’ while quietly withdrawing.

“…It’s because we’re anxious.”

“T-That’s right.”

“We’re still growing in Korea, so I want to work harder to reach the top.”

The members also fired their support shots.

We'd already been in agreement since the last meeting.

– It's good to film a reality show in the US, but having America as the target is a bit…

– It's weird. It's like they're saying they're aimlessly aiming for Hollywood

– I think it's a perfect metaphor, hyung!

– W-Whatever…!

Through this process, the conversation had already ended, concluding that if there was any more talk about America, we would cut them off.

Here, Ryu Chungwoo carefully added the last words.

"Until our position is solid enough to receive Grand Prize in Korea… Can't you think about it some more? Please."

"…"

The director twitched his eyebrows for a moment, then shrugged as if he was the bigger man.

"Well, it can't be helped. Since it's an entertainment business, the thoughts of the parties involved are important. I think your opinion should be respected."

"Thank you!"

Now, we just had to leave before he could change his mind.

"Phew."

When I left the director's office, sighs of relief were heard here and there.

“I never thought he would really let it go.”

“I-I was surprised.”

‘At least I bought time until the end of the year.’

If we happened to win the Grand Prize this time… then. Well, at that time, our right to speak would be stronger, so negotiations would be easier.

Ryu Chungwoo came out and hit Keun Sejin on the back.

“Good job.”

“What’s with you?”

“Sigh.”

“Are we still going to America? Are we going to my house?”

“Yes, we’ll go there”

There wasn’t anything I could do about the reality show.

“Wow!”

Cha Eugene raised both his hands.

Gazes that said ‘I am glad you’re happy’ secretly fell on Cha Eugene and then disappeared.

‘Still, it’s going well.’

I had met with the director and was convinced.

He was the type to get overconfident in his work, but not difficult to deal with.

‘He just has to put himself in the position of a giver.’

Above all, it was better to want to grow Testar itself rather than thinking about using us for T1.

‘I just need to change the flow.’

I stretched myself. There seemed to be a strange noise coming from my shoulders.

“Sigh, do you want me to give you a massage?”

“It’s fine.”

From ‘Present’ to the current repackage ‘Picnic’, my body felt a little sluggish after rushing non-stop

‘Still, the results are great.’

Although the music shows of this album’s activity had ended, the music score was still good.

‘Although we were beaten by VTIC at the last minute.’

VTIC, who pre-released the song from the same composer yesterday, climbed up the music charts at a terrifying pace.

‘It can’t be helped.’

However, the text message I received yesterday was a bit annoying.

– Thank you for the song, hubae. ^^

He even sent me a screenshot of the music chart.

I got pissed off for a moment, but after realizing that I didn’t have to deal with him in the current peaceful status quo, I calmed down.

‘Now… Should I just decide on the concert unit performance?’

Whether to add a unit stage to the composition, and if so, who to form with.

It’s not like there was a particularly huge landmine hiding there, but I just had to consider the quality of the concert and Cha Eugene’s fighting spirit.

‘I’d like to do a unit with someone else, like Kim Raebin.’

Thinking of the unit candidates I had originally thought of, I thought about how to separate myself from Cha Eugene.

However, before I could make the final decision, something happened that would make a major impact on the decision-making.

The edited version of the horror room escape with Cha Eugene was uploaded.

* * *

[Moon Puppy and Cha Kitty’s number one horror escape | Testar Roommate Extra EP.1]

This video, which was slightly more distinctive from the preliminary title Park Moondae had heard, provided a different kind of fun from the real-time W live at the time.

When viewed live, the video was transmitted through a shaken smartphone camera, so it was like a fake documentary in the style of found footage.

However, in this video, that feeling was left out and entertainment editing was added.

So, rather than the immersion in escaping the horror room, the characters of those two were more emphasized.

[The theme of this room is… The nightmare of a child who has picked up a strange doll… Hmm, this is why garbage sorting is important.]

[Are you afraid of dolls? I hate nightmares!]

Before entering, Park Moondae was calm and Cha Eugene was making a fuss.

Even after entering, this format was similar but the position was reversed.

[Hyung, hyung! That hair over there! The Teddy Bear's hair is human hair! It's not pretty!]

[Put that down, put it down, Eugene.]

Cha Eugene made a fuss and Park Moondae calmly freaked out.

And at the end of the game, they threw away the initial format and were both terrified and trembling.

It was because they got immersed in the story, but there was no such gag for the fans who could see one step away from it due to the editing.

[Like this… If you get it right… Is it an English sentence?]

[It is! Umm~ THIS IS NOT A DREAM… It's not a dream!! It's not a dream!!]

[W-Wait, wait.]

Gugugugung!

Suddenly, the lights flashed red, and the crude mannequin in the corner turned its head.

[Hiiii!]

The sight of those two jumping backwards while holding each other was truly worth seeing even through the infrared camera.

And as soon as they saw the video theme, people were satisfied with the picture they had expected.

– (00:57) (05:14) (13:09) Both their eyes get bigger over time ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's the mannequin's fault. It threatened the two scaredy-cats

– ㅅㅂThis is the first time I've seen Park Moondae rely on Cha Eugene like thatㅋㅋㅋㅋㅠㅠㅠ

– It's heartwarming to see them pulling each other's clothes because they won't damage the property. Law-abiding idols

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCrazy

Both of them had the strongest mentality, almost second to none, but thanks to the additional explanation that they chose the content themselves, there were very few people who felt particularly uncomfortable watching it.

[It was fun. It was refreshing.]

[Let's do it again one day!!]

[Yeah.]

After escaping, they naturally liked it as if it had been done easily, it was an example of a great idol's content.

And it settled down better than Park Moondae expected.

– Scaredy-catz will continue to walk the path of fear…

Under the nickname 'Scaredy-catz'.

In fact, it was as if they were giving suggestions to the people who wanted to group first place and second place together but had no special connection.

The fierce battle of solo fans who bared their teeth under the surface was so noticeable that people who liked them both reacted strongly.

"…"

In the end, Park Moondae, who only monitored in moderation, also said this to Cha Eugene.

"Hey, let's do a unit."

"Wow!"

It was a plain declaration of surrender.

However, in order to avoid direct comparison with the unit of the last concert, the timing of the unit stage was slightly adjusted.

"Then the unit stage will be revealed later during the encore concert?"

"Good, good~"

It was the conclusion of the final concert concept meeting.

Instead, they added some surprises to the tour.

"People will be surprised, right?"

"I think they will fall over laughing."

Everything was neat.

Testar finished the preparation for the concert step by step without any particular conflict.

Under the direction of the new director, the agency even gave Testar a long 10-day vacation before the tour's final rehearsal.

Along with the wonderful words, 'It is also the company's duty to manage the artist's condition'.

'Are you trying to get a head start?'

Park Moondae was not very impressed, but he welcomed the vacation anyway.

It was time for everyone to take a break.

* * *

"After a long time, I'm going home~"

"Let's get some rest."

"I'll say hello often."

They left the dorm after a loud farewell as if we were parting for half a year.

– I-If you don't mind… Do you want to come over?

– My grandmother said she was impressed with the Groom in May.

– I'm looking for a house to move in with my mom, but, uh, if you have plans too, it'd be nice if you could share!

A few people invited me to go to their house together, but I declined.

'I'm finally alone.'

I cheered as I reviewed the ten-day seclusion plan.

I established an emergency contact network with the company in case

I got sick and received first-aid medicine. I also bought porridge.

‘It’s just a cold anyway.’

It didn’t matter if I got sick. The vacation was ten days long, so even if I got sick for about three days, I would be able to rest for a week with a sane mind.

‘Let’s not monitor too often.’

Funnily enough, I decided to reflect on Cha Eugene’s advice this time.

‘I can rest for a few days.’

The director was very interested in Testar, so he must have strengthened the Internet monitoring within the company.

This meant that I could expect to be contacted if a problem occurred.

“All right.”

Smartphones were also set to silent except for emergency calls. I even put up a status message.

– Vacation. Slow to check.

Like this.

I picked up my smartphone to double-check and found that the screen was already on.

The phone was ringing.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim]

I wasn’t really happy about this.

Chapter 177

Regardless of whether you saw Cheongryeo as a senior competitor in the same industry or a crazy person with reset syndrome, he was definitely not the kind of person you wanted to contact on the first day of your vacation.

'Should I ignore it?'

The temptation was intense.

…However, it bothered me that it was not a text message, unlike usual.

'He could have texted me, but instead, he called.'

If it was an emergency, not picking up the call could end up leading to more trouble.

For example… If it was something related to the composer.

*'Let's take a f*cking break.'*

I finally sighed and answered the phone.

"Hello."

– Ah, hubae-nim. I'm sorry, but you're on vacation, right?

This bastard saw the status message and still dared to call me.

"…Yes. I get a vacation."

– Then you must be staying in the dorm.

For some reason, I had a hunch that I would face a very annoying situation.

I changed my words.

“I am going to go out now. I was thinking of going down to the countryside to rest.”

– I see. Then can I have a moment?

“Yes?”

When I wondered what nonsense he was saying, he immediately added an explanation.

– Ah, we’re filming right now.

“…!”

– Hm… It’s KBC’s ＜Instant Roadmap＞ and ‘close junior’ is the keyword for the place recommendations.

＜Instant Roadmap＞. It was a plan to travel around Korea for half a day by chance through a lottery filled with viewer requests.

In short, a random trip.

And it was also a program that was consistently doing well enough to be picked by VTIC, which was about to make a comeback.

‘I heard that it has content where they have to instantly invites acquaintances to participate, is that it?’

I was probably the most well-known among the guys who had free time, but I didn’t intend to work from the first day of my vacation.

With this guy.

Of course, I couldn’t show my dislike in a situation where the filming tape was running, so I spoke softly.

"Uh… Thank you, sunbae-nim. But I'll move down really soon… I don't have much time. What can I do about this?"

When I said it in a somewhat regretful tone, a troubled voice returned from the other side of the phone.

– I called Moondae-ssi because you're right nearby… Can't you just do it for a few seconds? You only need to draw lots once.

"…"

– It can't be helped if you're uncomfortable with it.

*'I am so f*cking uncomfortable with it, you bastard.'*

However, if I refused it here and the editing didn't work properly, I was the only one who lost.

Some people would definitely try to interpret it as an implication that the guy who was having a vacation and staying in the dorm refused his senior.

And the fact that this guy showed a submissive attitude meant that he must have been aiming for that too.

'You're crossing the line.'

I would make sure to pay him back for this one.

"Of course. As you said, I will try to make time somehow."

– Really? I'm sorry and thank you. I'll buy you something delicious later.

I tried to push an image of a junior who was troubled by power abuse, but it didn't work. That damn bastard.

“Are you coming now?”

– Yes, I’ll go there. Hmm… I think I’ll be there in five minutes.

“All right.”

– See you in a little bit.

I heard Cheongryeo’s laughter over the phone, then he hung up the call.

‘How annoying.’

I held back a sigh, put on my mask and hoodie, and came out.

‘I should have gone with the others.’

Like Bae Sejin said, it would have been better to go around seeing Seoul brand apartments sale.

‘I would have a market price.’

Well, this pissed me off.

It was the morning just after rush hour, so the complex was quiet. I checked out a black car already waiting in front of the main gate.

Someone waved slightly out of the window as if to identify me.

‘Is that it?’

As I approached, the front passenger door opened immediately.

“…!”

I saw Cheongryeo holding the steering wheel on the other side of it.

“Good morning, Moondae-ssi.”

“Good morning, sunbae-nim.”

“You came down quickly. Thank you.”

“First of all… Shall we start by saying hello to the camera?”

Perhaps it was the section where the staff hadn’t joined yet, Cheongryeo was alone in the car. And cameras were visible from all angles around the driver’s seat.

What Cheongryeo took was the camera mounted in front of the passenger seat.

I put myself in the passenger seat and said a greeting.

“Hello. I am Testar’s Park Moondae… Sunbae-nim, what about the lottery?”

“The PD will tell us as we move. I’ll take a short walk around here, so can I get in touch with you?”

It had gotten more troublesome. But now that I’d come this far, I couldn’t even throw up in front of the camera.

“Yes, of course.”

I got into the passenger seat for now. As soon as the door closed, Cheongryeo filled in the audio.

“Don’t forget your seat belt.”

“Yes.”

Even if you don’t tell me, there’s no way I won’t put it on, you bastard.

As I turned around with my belt on, I suddenly became conscious of the smartphone in my pocket.

‘Come to think of it, wouldn’t it be better to contact the company?’

I didn’t think of it because I was suddenly contacted on the first day of vacation, but it was beneficial for both of us to report it even if I just appeared briefly as a cameo.

‘I’ll have to contact them as soon as I get off.’

Since we were in the middle of filming, it was better not to touch the smartphone as much as possible.

It was then.

‘…?’

I had a strange sense of incompatibility.

··.In the middle of filming.

I looked at the camera again.

‘The light’s off.’

The on-air sign was usually processed with red light, but this camera had no signs of that.

No, not just this camera, but the others as well.

‘…Is it a matter of the filming format?’

Still, I reached out to the camera, just in case it got turned off due to an error or abnormality.

At that moment.

Swoosh.

Suddenly, something flew to my face and clenched violently.

"…!"

"Done."

Something like a white cloth covered my eyes, nose, and mouth. Suddenly, I was suffocated and a strange volatile smell stung my brain.

"Whoop."

When I tried to immediately lift both of my hands and tear off the cloth, my mind instantly turned hazy.

*'F*ck… '*

I tried to bite my tongue, but it was too late.

I blacked out.

* * *

"…Gasp!"

"Ah, you're awake?"

My head hurt like sh*t.

At the pain that felt like shaking my brain, I reflexively tried to press my head, but both of my hands came up.

Clang.

Silver… handcuffs.

'…Handcuff?'

Even when my head was about to explode, I had a strong feeling that something was wrong.

“Drink some.”

A silicone cup suddenly appeared in front of me.

The owner of that hand… F*ck, it was Cheongryeo.

“What kind of situation is this?”

“Hm, drink some water first…”

“If it were you, would the water go down your throat right now, you f*cking bastard?”

“…”

If I was in a clearer state of mind, I would have reacted more calmly, but I had guessed roughly what the situation was and got even more pissed off.

I tried to analyze the situation, pressing my head with both hands as much as I could.

This bastard got me into the car because it was a broadcast, and there was some kind of cloth…

‘Was it an anesthetic?’

Then, of course, the broadcast was a bait to catch me.

Of course, the camera wasn’t on.

*‘F*ck…!’*

I couldn’t believe I got caught up in something like this. No, first of all, this wasn’t a crime movie, and this situation itself was ridiculous.

I took a deep breath and raised my head again. At last, I saw the surroundings.

'…It's not an apartment.'

Looking at the ceiling and the floor, it seemed to be an old house. In other words, there was a high probability that it was somewhere remote.

'Even if I started screaming, there's no way this bastard hadn't thought of that.'

In other words, a place where you wouldn't be disrupted right away even if you killed a person… I surmised.

'I'm going crazy.'

Why are you flipping out all of a sudden?

I swallowed dry saliva. And I thought as calmly as possible.

First, question him.

"…Why the hell did you knock a person out and drag him away? Where is this?"

"I have something to suggest. I don't think you'll be willing to hear it so I prepared for the long run."

Cheongryo shrugged his shoulders and put the water cup next to me. And I realized that my feet were also restrained.

So f*cking thorough.

"What is your suggestion?"

"Hm… It could be a boring topic. You know, starting over."

I knew this crazy bastard would bring that up as his reason.

.

However, this timing was so sudden.

“You said you were satisfied with the status quo. And you said you’d try to adjust, too, sunbae-nim.”

“Ah, about that.”

Cheongryeo stared down this way without moving an inch.

“There’s a problem.”

“…Yes?”

“One of the members will be charged with a criminal case.”

“…!!”

“It’s a little messy. I don’t think I can fix it. It’s only natural to expel him from the group, but… In the aftermath, the comeback will be difficult to schedule.”

F*ck. I didn’t know where to start. I swallowed my saliva.

“…Still, if that person leaves the group, wouldn’t there be no problem with the group?”

“Yes? haha. Hubae-nim. Why are you pretending not to know?”

Cheongryeo laughed.

“VTIC is not a multi-person group with 10 members, so if one of us leaves, the impact is great. There will be some issues with our image, so it’s almost certain that this will be a signal of our downward trend.”

Cheongryeo pulled up a chair and sat across from me.

“The company also started talking about the next group, so isn’t it safe to say that we’re over?”

This wasn't going to work. I had to play it up.

"…In the future I was in, I haven't heard anything big about VTIC. Maybe it won't turn into a big incident…"

"You said you don't know anything because you were a test examinee."

"VTIC is a big group, so if there was an incident like that, I would have seen it on the news somewhere…"

"Haha, don't try too hard."

"…"

He wasn't in a state to listen to anything. It wouldn't be strange if he hit my head right now…

'A weapon.'

I immediately looked around. To see if there were any tools that could be used as a weapon.

"What are you doing?"

"…I am wondering where this place is."

"Oh, we have plenty of time, so you can take your time figuring it out."

What is he saying?

"Of course, it depends on your choice, but… Hmm, let's get back on the topic of my suggestion."

Cheongryeo asked with a smile.

"Why don't you try to commit suicide?"

Goosebumps ran down my spine. Crazy bastard.

“Are you crazy?”

“I knew it. This isn’t the time for you to be reluctant.”

He nodded his head thoughtfully.

“It’s better if I die myself, right? But I want to avoid killing myself as much as possible.”

There was no common-sense reason such as ‘because I was reluctant’.

“I don’t know if I can go back after I die… I don’t want to add unnecessary variables.”

“…”

“Hubae-nim, aren’t you like that too? We must avoid the terrible situation of not being able to go back to the beginning.”

“I’ve told you, I won’t go back when I die…”

“You will.”

Cheongryeo met my eyes.

“Don’t worry, you’ll go back even if you don’t want to.”

“…”

“Oh, and I was going to tell you… Hubae-nim, you can’t trust it if the casting is the same as before. Of course, when I call an acquaintance, I talk about everything in advance before filming it. Remember that, you might fall for a scam or an invalid blank check next time.”

Cheongryeo got up from the chair.

“Then, when we start over, let’s slowly come up with a plan on what direction we should take to make it better for hubae-nim. If you have any questions, ask me anything.”

“…”

“I’m taking a break. You said you’re on vacation.”

Cheongryeo opened the door and went out with a low hum.

Thud.

The door closed again with a polite little sound.

“…Huft.”

I could feel cold sweats running down my spine. My wrists under the handcuffs were also sweaty.

‘Right now, I’ve avoided death.’

However, I didn’t know when that guy would turn his head around and say, ‘It would be easier to just kill you’. What a crap situation…

I got caught here?

*‘Did my brain melt because I was on vacation? F*ck.”*

I slammed my handcuffed hands to the floor in a boiling rage. Only the floor got dug out, and the handcuffs were still intact.

But it didn’t matter.

*‘I’m going to f*cking crawl out of here somehow.’*

I’ll make you regret not smashing my head with a hammer when you knocked me out, you bastard.

Chapter 178

Sometime later. At some point in time that I couldn't guess because of the black curtain.

"Let's wrap things up from here. Was hubae-nim's participation in <Idol Inc.> a good choice?"

Sitting across from me again, Cheongryeo calmly explained while writing down keywords in a notebook.

"It's very efficient to pass the initial mission right away. Hubae-nim must have chosen it without knowing the existence of the next mission… That's a good judgment."

His words didn't make me happy at all.

"But it's a disappointing choice in the long run. In a short period of 5 years, the image burnout would be severe… The company doesn't have a system, and it's unclear whether they will renew your contract."

Cheongryeo smiled weakly.

"If you are confident that you can get past the initial mission, it is better to skip the survival program."

"…"

"When you restart, come to LeTi. I'll put you in a position where you can debut right away."

I could hear his inner thought saying, 'I will put you close so that I can restart right away if my team fails again'.

I held back a snort.

‘You’re all talk.’

In this bastard’s status window, the status abnormality that caused the reset, ‘Remediation’, was inactive

In other words, the method to restart by dying was already blocked.

And this bastard, who had grasped the concept of ‘If the mission fails, you will die and go back’ must have guessed now that his mission was over, he couldn’t go back even if he died.

That’s why he wanted to use me… I got a bit stuck here.

‘How can you be sure?’

Why is he so sure that when I die, I will start over? No matter how crazy he is, isn’t he too obsessed with this?

I’d like to dig into this and knock him out of it, but the timing wasn’t good.

‘If I mess up, he’ll bash my head with a hammer.’

I shouldn’t provoke this bastard right now.

‘I have no intention of voluntarily leaving this life. In that case, I can only taste the hammer.’

And I didn’t know what would hit me.

So I had to believe the other corner of my mind.

My advantage was that I knew something this guy didn’t know.

My status window. The characteristics.

‘Let’s think.’

Before that, I would get pissed off and grind my teeth, so I would answer this much.

“So if you debut in LeTi and there is another problem with your career, you will reset again, is that what you’re aiming for?”

“No. That won’t happen.”

…Cheongryeo looked a little embarrassed.

“I’m sorry for this. As hubae-nim has heard, it is because I don’t have the correct answer. If you want, I’ll help you finish the mission faster next time.”

“…”

“Of course, let’s make a plan together so that we can do group activities in a more convenient and beneficial way than it is now.”

The fact that he seemed so sincere hurt the most right now.

‘If something similar happens again, this bastard will urge me to reset again.’

Of course, I didn’t think I could restart even if I died, but wasn’t this already obvious? He’d done it once, so he would keep doing it.

However, it was more problematic to think that the current situation in this madman’s thought circuit would be an exceptional one-off thing and that he had provided me with a sufficient compensation plan.

‘He thinks it’s not a big deal.’

Since our control points were different, he thought forcing a reset was just embarrassing and felt apologetic about it. Of course, it didn’t work.

I sighed, and Cheongryeo got up from his chair again.

“You seem tired, so let’s stop here for now… Is there anything you want to eat for dinner? I will give it to you if I can.”

First of all, it was evening right now. I managed to scoop out one piece of information.

“None. Why don’t you just let me go so I can take care of it myself?”

“That would be difficult. Hmm, wait a minute.”

And Cheongryeo left the room once again.

I had no expectations, but seeing how he reacted naturally, I couldn’t appeal to his emotions.

…That meant without a build-up, it wouldn’t work.

‘I hope this can get me through.’

I checked one of my characteristics that I had singled out in my head during the useless conversation.

[Characteristics: Bacchus 500 (B)]

– Clear mind and healthy body!

: Fatigue accumulation rate -50%

Bacchus 500.

It was a characteristic that kept me in shape. Thanks to this characteristic, I could endure only sleeping for one hour or two for a few days a week during the comeback.

Of course, taking advantage of this characteristic, I wasn’t trying to sound like I would start ideally searching around while the bastard was sleeping.

‘This place is awfully and meticulously cleaned up.’

Even the bathroom, which I confirmed with an uncomfortable and funny attitude earlier, only had the bare necessities.

'It's like he's done this a few times already.'

I didn't know what kind of person he threatened to bash their head in to get information from during the reset, but this guess seemed quite plausible.

Anyway, the situation to use this characteristic would come at a different time, not 'while he's asleep'.

'I'll wait a little until then.'

I would watch over the situation carefully until he thought I'd given up, until he thought I'd adjusted.

I looked down at the handcuffs and clicked my tongue.

This was going to be a tough vacation.

And then a few days later.

Considering the sleep interval and meal timing, I estimated it had been about three to four days.

To prevent suicide solicitation from becoming more radical, I adjusted my remarks to sound as if I was slowly sympathizing with the 'New Life Plan'.

Like this.

"Does LeTi also start paying after charging all the trainee expenses?"

"No. They start to pay when we make a profit at the time of our debut. You're fine with that right?"

"It's a nice place… I have no intention of going there."

“Haha.”

After repeating this pattern a few times, I started touching the slightly sensitive materials to gather information.

“Even if I am on vacation, if they don’t hear any news from me, they will definitely be suspicious. Is there any call?”

“Well.”

“…Looks like you got a call.”

“Haha, is it obvious? Don’t worry, I replied in moderation. In the way hubae-nim talks.”

“…”

Does this bastard even know my screen lock pattern?

‘It was during that insurance commercial.’

I remembered unlocking my smartphone when taking pictures of the puppies at that time.

‘Damn it.’

I couldn’t expect outside help until the vacation was over.

Still, I found out that this guy kept checking my smartphone.

In that case, there was a good chance it was inside this house. I decided to remember that.

Since then, meaningless persuasion, excuses, and surprisingly good-quality Cheongryeo’s idol-related tip briefings continued for a few days.

The time had finally come.

“Today… hubae-nim?”

“…Sunbae-nim.”

My third time waking up here. Maybe in the morning or dawn.

I shoved my head to the pillow and sighed. My nose and throat where my breath passed through felt hot.

My head felt heavy. I spoke slowly.

“Do you have any medicine for cold?”

It was the terrible cold that came every time I took a break.

This time, in line with the timing of the vacation, tremendous heat and pressure poured into my body.

Even though it was not the time for me to relax mentally.

‘As expected.’

It meant my guess was correct.

‘This illness, I guess it’s really a reaction to my physical condition’s characteristics ‘

Not just Bacchus, this was also true for that one-time characteristic, ‘Sleeping only if you die’.

After using those characteristics to the fullest every time, it only hurt when I didn’t have an ‘activity schedule’, so it felt strange.

That’s why I made a hypothesis, but with this, I was almost certain.

‘It’s a mechanical classification that seems to involve the status window.’

It was only when I took a break from the celebrity activities that the burden on my body came forward.

And this painful timing was fully exploitable.

"…Medicine?"

To make this bastard flustered.

It would have been hard for him to imagine that I would lie down with a cold instead of trauma in three or four days.

"Wait a minute."

Cheongryeo, who was coming in, closed the door again and left.

'Good.'

First of all, he didn't immediately say something like 'You're sick just in time, just die', so this direction was very good.

'He let his guard down.'

The thought that he was in control of the situation made him reflexively relieved. He must already be thinking of resetting in a few days as an established fact in his head.

Cheongryeo came back with medicine and water in his hands.

It was a medicine that could be bought without a prescription.

'…He's prepared a first aid kit.'

This was a bit disappointing. Meticulous psychopath bastard.

"It's painkillers and antipyretics. Take some."

It was contained within the packaging. It didn't need to mix with other medicines, so I took them.

And I sneakily took my luck.

"…By any chance, the hospital."

"I thought it would be too noticeable if it's just the two of us. I'm sorry. Um… If you restart, your body will be fine right away."

In the end, he was back with these words. This was a good thing, though.

'I'm going to prod you now.'

I hesitated, then spoke in a low voice.

"…Again, I actually like my team right now. Even if I start over and build the same team, it will never be the same as it is now. Because the incidents and stories we share will be different."

"…"

"I just… Could you please let me go so I can continue to live here? Please."

Well, it was a remark that didn't fit my personality, but if you were sick, you could turn a little emotional.

In addition, the characteristic burst out just in time.

['Now that I heard it, it's true (A)' activated!]

Good.

Of course, it only led to the other person's 'emotional agitation,', so it didn't guarantee persuasion.

Look.

"…I'm sorry."

Cheongryeo murmured briefly with a slightly expressionless face.

It seemed he only felt ‘sorry’. I got it already, you damn bastard.

It was exactly as planned.

“…”

I deliberately remained silent for a while, then slowly opened my mouth.

“…My head hurts and it’s hard to move, but I need to go to the bathroom… Please help me up to the front door.”

“Yes.”

I knew he wouldn’t say no.

Cheongryeo held me under my shoulders as if he were helping a person with disabled legs.

The moment his mind wandered and got distracted.

Therefore… The moment when he was more conscious of his thoughts than his own actions.

‘Now.’

I spun my arms and draped them over Cheongryeo’s head.

“…!”

Then I began to pull the handcuffs around his neck.

“…You!”

The metal between the handcuffs pressed down on the guy’s neck, but of course, he resisted strongly. Even if I pressed with my weight and changed my posture uneasily, I continued to pay the price.

*‘F*ck.’*

It seemed I broke my rib. But I could never him let go.

I forcibly twisted my arm and broke his neck.

“…!!”

“Ugh.”

I couldn’t break the neck of a strong adult in this situation with my hands restrained anyway.

Just press down until this bastard collapse…!

“…”

His eyeballs turning away as he stared this way and his face turning pale due to the lack of oxygen was f*cking creepy…

It didn’t matter.

‘Just like the simulation!’

I twisted my handcuffs one last time and hit him in the back of his head.

Tack.

With a short, violent sound, the pressure dissipated.

“…”

I had subdued him.

“Ugh.”

I shuddered and got up.

“F*k you, seriously.”

My wrists were all worn out. They looked like crap.

Still, I didn’t feel the pain because of the euphoria.

I wriggled out of the door, and fortunately, I found a useful blade.

Right away… It was a light bulb.

Crash!

The light bulb was shattered on the thrown book, and sharp pieces fell to the floor.

It was worse because it was an old product.

“Alright.”

Although I got cut a few times, I undid the bundle of cable ties that bound my legs.

Now that it had become easier to escape in case of an emergency, I proceeded as scheduled.

I moved my sore neck. There was still a long way to go.

* * *

“…”

“You’re awake.”

Cheongryeo, who was tied tightly with cable ties to the chair across from me, lifted his head without groaning.

“You bought a lot of extra cable ties.”

“…”

“You prepared plenty of tools, so I removed the handcuffs.”

I showed him my free hands.

“You’re thoroughly prepared, sunbae-nim. Thanks to that, you made it easy for me.”

And I grinned.

Chapter 179

I had a lot to say to this bastard, but I would start with this.

“Let me ask you first. How the hell did you know that your crazy kidnapping plan wouldn’t get caught? After my vacation, everyone will be frantic to find me.”

“…”

Cheongryeo looked this way with dark eyes and answered without raising his tone.

“Because I was planning to finish it in ten days.”

He must have checked the vacation period on my smartphone.

“That means you will kill me if I don’t show any signs of committing suicide within 10 days. Got it.”

I changed my posture slightly. And asked again.

“And you firmly believe that if I die, I will restart, I know that, but where did you get the belief that you would go back together with me?”

It was a question that I couldn’t help but ask.

“Did you ever think that I would just die and you would be arrested as a murderer of an idol from another group?”

“…”

“Sunbae-nim.”

Cheongryeo leaned back on the chair. His face was expressionless.

“Well… They wouldn’t catch me.”

“…!”

“I have your phone… With the right gesture, if a member of an idol group that has a lot of incidents like Testar goes missing, there won’t be any police investigation. The agency will prevent it.”

Cheongryeo smiled faintly.

“They will think that you have given up because of the pressure, or that you’ve run away because you’ve settled down and lost your original motivation. And if they look for you on their own… Eventually, when the cost becomes high, they will give up. Even without hubae-nim, the remaining members will make enough money, and eventually, they will focus on rolling it.”

“…”

“That’s how Park Moondae will disappear after being dismissed as ‘suspended for health reasons’. Hmm… I think in about two or three years, you will only have people who sometimes reminisce about you.”

It was a leap of logic.

The contract period remained intact, so there was no way that the agency with T1 on its back would give up on ‘Park Moondae’ that easily.

In addition, I was currently popular enough to be one of the top 10 idols. The aftermath of my sudden suspension of activities wouldn’t simply disappear.

…However, when viewed thoroughly… There was an eerie plausibility.

*‘F*ck.’*

I almost went through that. Even though I clicked my tongue, I was satisfied with the conversation.

“I see. Thank you for your testimony.”

“…?”

I took something out of my pocket.

It was my smartphone that had its recorder running

“…!”

“You put it in a more boring place than I thought, so I found it quickly.”

He even considered the GPS tracking, so he turned it off, connected it to his laptop, and used a message app with bypass access.

Anyway, my smartphone, which I found in the dishwasher, was fortunately fine.

I pressed the stop recording button.

“Anyway, even if I report it, it’s a two-way assault, so if it spreads to the media, the controversy will only grow, and my last mission might fail because of this issue.”

I tapped my smartphone.

“I made a recording, left all the circumstantial photos, and even set up automatic backup to the cloud.”

“…”

“It means that if I get out of here and made a report, it’s over for you.”

“Is that so?”

“Yes. So be a little cooperative, you f*cking bastard.”

I sat down on a chair and hit him in the face.

Tack!

A short, dull sound coolly rang out.

I felt satisfied now.

Cheongryeo seemed to be feeling around with his tongue as if his mouth had burst, but he didn’t look particularly agitated.

“…I can’t make a comeback anyway. Hmm, it hurts. You said you weren’t feeling well.”

“The bastard who fainted after being beaten down by a sick guy is all barks.”

“Haha, hmm, I don’t think hubae-nim will report it, anyway.”

Cheongryeo met my eyes.

“Even if you have evidence, I don’t think you would want to get caught up in an accident like this and leave room for anyone to interfere with the mission.”

“You’re right.”

I nodded.

“But if I get too pissed off… Who knows, I might solve it right after the last mission is over.”

“…”

“It might get a bit noisy, but there is no one in the group who will oppose it. The report will proceed smoothly, what do you think?”

On the contrary, they would be astonished that I didn't report it quickly.

Things were looking good already.

But his reaction when he heard it… It was out of standard.

"Yes? Hahaha."

Cheongryeo laughed brightly.

"I thought you were smart, but you're blind."

"…!"

"Do you like your team now? Ah, now, you must think it's great. You get good records, and you have to stick together because there are so many enemies outside, isn't that great?"

Cheongryeo lowered his head.

"But how many years do you think it will last?"

"…!"

"No, not even in a few years. After a year or so, they will start saying strange things."

He looked into the empty air. He looked bored as if he were recalling an obvious past.

"There are all sorts of people, from the guy who voiced nonsense about finding oneself to the guy who sold the group while going in and out of the clubs. It's the same no matter what team you set up. Human passion and sincerity are exhausting."

"…"

"Even if it doesn't look like that now, think about it. Were there any minor flaws that bothered you? Later they… They will come back with great disappointment."

The low, calm voice finished speaking.

"After receiving the payment once more after the tour, you don't know if no one will tell you to stop doing stupid things and just move on."

"…"

I didn't really trust people either, but… This guy had it bad, perhaps because it came from repeated experiences.

I was speechless and looked at him, then shrugged my shoulders.

So what, you're saying I should start focusing on efficiency instead of getting attached to useless things?

That's ridiculous.

"If we don't fit together, we can disband later. My missions will be completed by then."

"…!!"

"It can be done only with similar-minded people… If the fight gets worse, I'll just quit, why would I bother with a group like that? Ah, right. I've been thinking about it ever since I heard about the restart."

I crossed my arms.

"Can't VTIC be on a downtrend?"

"What?"

"It isn't a field where you can stay being a top tier for thousands of years. Prime times are called prime times because they can come to an end."

No matter how popular the idol group was, they had no choice but to face a decline after reaching their peaks when they went into the military and got older.

“Even if that isn’t the case, there will be a day when VTIC will be on the decline, so I don’t know why you’re trying to restart just to delay it for some time.”

He probably had a delusion that VTIC could be the best in the industry for the rest of his life.

Cheongryeo lost his expression for a moment, but then he smiled.

“Hubae-nim, you haven’t tried it yet, so you don’t know what it feels like, but in fact, restarting once is not a big deal. If you can extend the group’s lifespan, it’s worth trying.”

He lowered his head slightly.

“And I am not doing this because the group’s career is declining due to the unexpected event, but it’s because I plan a picture where we decline in a gradual curve. Don’t worry, it will happen next time.”

I threw out my words.

“It won’t happen.”

“What?”

“That perfect career, it’s not happening.”

I tried to rest my chin on my hand, but it hurt, so I stopped. Damn it.

“VTIC’s decline is an event that is bound to happen, only the timing is different. But how do you know the most perfect timing to start the downtrend? Are you going to keep restarting every time album sales drop?”

I came to a conclusion.

“Then you’ll have to restart forever. With the rationalization that ‘next time will be better’.”

“…”

Cheongryeo opened his mouth slightly as if trying to answer, but he couldn’t answer right away.

There was no expression on his face.

‘I guess I’ve hit the mark.’

I didn’t know if it was a landmine or a switch, but I had to solidify it now.

‘I have to break his momentum.’

I couldn’t let this guy get in the way of my work any longer.

After all, there was nothing more to spare now that I had come this far. I would put an end to it here.

I opened my mouth first.

“Anyway, even if I die, I can’t restart, so you won’t have a chance for that.”

Cheongryeo opened his mouth almost as if moved by someone else.

“…So if you fail the mission.”

“Well. I die.”

I uncrossed my arms.

And told the truth.

“I wasn’t originally Park Moondae.”

"…!!"

"I was originally a college graduate, but when I woke up, I was in Park Moondae's body. I didn't restart, I just went into someone else's body."

It was ridiculous even when I said it. I smirked.

"So maybe if the mission fails and I die… Even in the best-case scenario, I think it will end with me returning to my body. Don't you think so?"

"…"

"Wasn't it strange in the first place? I didn't act like someone in their early 20s. I was originally 29 years old."

For the first time, all sorts of expressions passed through Cheongryeo's face. I guess it didn't sound like a lie.

He murmured blankly.

"That can't be true."

"It can. Why would I lie when I've caught you?"

I laughed, rubbing the back of my neck.

I hadn't told him because I was afraid it would be a weakness, but I had evidence of his attempted murder in my hand, so I could say this much.

I felt refreshed.

"You can't restart now."

"…"

Now, he was definitely agitated.

Now… I didn't want to do this, but let's throw him a carrot instead of a whip for a perfect stitch-up.

"So… Just because it's flawed, you don't have to give up your life now."

"…!"

"What you have now won't go away anymore. So just live comfortably. Raise a dog and do whatever you want to do."

If he could just cut his hands clean here, I had no intention to sue him.

Of course, I would claim compensation for the damages.

'If I can avoid getting involved with him in the future, I will be satisfied with the loss.'

I fidgeted with the itch coming from the cut.

"…"

Cheongryeo lowered his head. The hands tied to the table tie were shaking slightly.

At that moment, a pop-up appeared.

['Now that I heard it, it's true (A)' activated!]

I didn't know what this meant, so let's wait.

"…"

After quite some time, Cheongryeo raised his head.

He looked unexpectedly calm.

"I don't know what to do."

“Figure it out.”

“I see.”

Cheongryeo’s voice was calm, but there was something like a strange feeling of melancholy.

‘That’s understandable.’

If he didn’t succeed as an idol, he kept restarting, so he must have put all his value judgments on VTIC’s success.

‘Otherwise, he would go even more crazy.’

And if the mission wasn’t cleared, the situation that kept resetting must have been processed in his brain as an ‘opportunity for VTIC’s perfect success’.

But now, I stopped him and said, ‘That’s not an opportunity, it’s giving up!’

And I didn’t know what would happen in the future, but right now that this guy had definitely lost his fighting spirit.

*‘It’s f*cking over.’*

Now that I had the evidence first, the disclosure of my situation second, and attacks on his mind third, I would rationalize it in my own way for about half a year.

‘And by then, the mission will be over.’

It was great.

I immediately got up from my chair.

“Then I’m off. I’ll leave the tool next to you, so untie it on your own.”

My movement was limited, so it would be difficult to pick up the tool and throw it to him.

Tap.

"…"

Cheongryeo stared at the toolbox I was pushing with my foot, and he said quietly.

"If you wait a bit, I can give you a ride to your dorm."

"I decline. The inhaled anesthetic is still vivid in my mind."

"…"

Looking at it roughly, it seemed we were in a suburb of Seoul, there shouldn't be any problem getting to the dorm by bus for an hour or two.

I wore long sleeves so the wounds on my wrists wouldn't be visible.

I took my smartphone and immediately headed to the front door.

I heard a voice from behind my back.

"…I'm sorry."

That feeling and attitude should last for more than half a year. Or else I would put him in jail no matter how much damage I had to take.

I opened the door and came out right away. The wind hit my face.

It felt cool.

* * *

I immediately caught an intercity bus at a nearby stop and headed to the dorm.

I had to transfer once, but it wasn't a complicated route so there was no big problem.

The problem was that the pain was slowly coming.

'I'll have to run a test.'

I was thinking of making up an excuse once I got back to the dorm.

I checked my smartphone on the bus to forget the pain.

First of all, quite a lot of words have been exchanged in the group message room since the vacation.

They mainly focused on reporting on the recent situation and chatting about what they were doing, but there was also a guy who kept calling 'Park Moondae' without getting an answer.

Like this.

[Keun Sejin: Moondaemoondae? Did you cancel your smartphone?]

[Keun Sejin:… Looking for Park Moondae… Even if it is a vacation, to cut ties with the world… Indeed the Tibet is merciless]

And Cheongryeo replied like this.

[Me: Stop it.]

Honestly, the synchro rate was creepy.

'…He made it sound more plausible than I thought.'

I bitterly checked the other private message rooms.

[Kim Raebin: Moondae hyung, Grandmother is asking for a video call. I'm really sorry, but can you give me one more chance? We'll set the date and time to however you want!]

After that, a picture of Hallasan Mountain flashing in primary colors with ‘Thank you ♫ as always’ written in fluorescent colors was attached.

“…”

How should I say this… It was a very predictable situation.

And Cheongryeo, who impersonated ‘Park Moondae’, neatly refused.

[Me: Sorry. I want to rest, can we do it next time?]

[Kim Raebin: I’m really sorry. All right. See you after the vacation!]

It was kind of like this.

‘It’s not difficult.’

I checked the rest again, thinking I should do this when I came back to my sense after going to the hospital.

It was all similar. When they suggested something, I refused.

[Bae Sejin hyung: We have 3 for sale. Which one do you think is more balanced? (Photo)]

[Bae Sejin hyung: You don’t have to reply if you’re busy]

[Me: I don’t know. I’m sorry.]

It was like this here, too.

[Seon Ahyeon: Moondae, I’m on a trip with my family near Seoraksan Mountain and I like the autumn leaves because they’re so pretty. I am not good at taking pictures as you are but I’ve taken some pictures. I’ll bring them to the dorm (Photo)]

[Me: Yes, thank you.]

It was the same for this one.

And Cheongryeo's last trace was found in the group message room.

[Me: I've come to a hotel to rest more. See you all when the vacation is over.]

[Keun Sejin: Wow, hotel vacation! (emoticon) Moondaemoondae, tell me, is it 5 stars??]

"…"

There was no reply from there.

No wonder.

I felt like my vacation was almost over.

*'F*ck.'*

As expected, when the status abnormality was over, I would rage on and kill him.

Fortunately, looking at the date, I still had half of my vacation left. I calmed down as much as I could, resting my head against the back of the bus.

Since it was a weekday, no one recognized me wearing a mask and hat on the empty bus, and I was able to arrive at the dorm peacefully.

However, my physical condition was not as peaceful.

'Damn it.'

As soon as I opened the front door and entered, I collapsed on the floor with a sigh of relief.

Thud.

I could hardly feel the marble glued to my cheeks because of the burning sensation in my whole body.

*'F*ck.'*

This was bad. I couldn't move.

I felt like all my cartilage had disappeared.

I didn't have any strength.

'An ambulance.'

No. Looking at the injuries left on my body now, I looked like a crime victim.

It had been handled so far, but unnecessary controversy before dealing with a status abnormality was a no-go.

'Wouldn't I be fine once I wake up after passing out a bit?'

Nevertheless, staying down in the hallway like this…

Ring–

Smartphone.

Someone was calling.

Almost unconsciously, I pressed the receive button on my smartphone.

After a certain amount of time passed, I heard a voice.

– Ah, connected…

I cut off the voice.

"Now… the dorm, 119… Don't call… hospital, somehow…"

– What??

“The company… Don’t contact them…”

– Moondae? Park Moondae!

I just spread out.

That said, I fell into a deep sleep for a few days.

Chapter 180

I didn't know how long I'd slept after that.

It felt instantaneous, but the moment I woke up, I thought maybe it wasn't short at all.

Because my head felt refreshed.

"…"

Fortunately, the place I saw as soon as I opened my eyes was a single-person hospital room.

'Alright.'

The guy who answered the phone must have handled it properly…

"…! Moondae."

"…!"

When I turned my head, I made eye contact with Ryu Chungwoo, who jumped up from his chair.

'What?'

Why is this guy here?

"Wait, I have to call!"

However, without giving me time to say anything, Ryu Chungwoo immediately pressed the button and called the medical staff.

And a little later.

“Yes. There are no other abnormal signs. Is the drip rate okay?”

“Yes…”

“Then I’ll exchange it again in an hour.”

It seemed that under the check-up of the visiting medical staff, the discovery that there was no major problem was being issued again.

I looked at the back of my hand where I was being injected with bitter yes.

‘No wonder I feel refreshed.’

It must have been thanks to the direct supply of antibiotics and nutritional supplements.

“If there is anything wrong, you can call me.”

“…Yes.”

“Thank you!”

Click.

And as soon as the medical staff left. Some serious faces popped out from the side of the bed.

Not one, but three.

Ryu Chungwoo seemed to be fiddling with his smartphone for a while, but Keun Sejin and Bae Sejin came out of nowhere.

‘What is this?’

Isn’t it a format you’ve seen in some kind of gangster movie?

In the meantime, Ryu Chungwoo opened his mouth with a serious face.

"…Your wrists are sprained, it will take three weeks for a full recovery. And two of your ribs are fractured, it will take four weeks. They said the bruises on your arms and legs will go away faster than that."

"…"

"You've been passing out all day."

The degree of injury was better than I had expected.

Park Moondae's body was unexpectedly tough.

'It's good that it's not broken.'

But… I need to be smart in this situation.

Before I could screw up, the person who made the phone call spoke to me just in time.

"…First of all, I'm glad you're feeling better."

It was Keun Sejin.

There was no answer to this situation except that this guy had contacted the other two.

"…Hey."

"What, what is it?"

Why are you answering uncooperatively?

"How can I move you to the hospital by myself without calling 119? Is there any other way besides calling hyung who has his own car?"

"…"

I didn't mean to interrogate you, but I certainly had nothing to say.

Keun Sejin didn't stop there.

"In the first place, when I called you… I was in the middle of meeting Chungwoo hyung."

"…"

"Your messages were so weird."

"…What?"

Keun Sejin crossed his arms.

"It's funny that Park Moondae left the nice dorm to go to a hotel, but it's even weirder that you cut off contact."

"…!"

"So I asked the other kids, too… All your replies were strange."

Keun Sejin tilted his chin slightly toward Bae Sejin.

"That hyung was also contacting Chungwoo hyung."

Bae Sejin slightly averted his gaze and murmured.

"…It's strange that you suddenly don't know about apartment balances when we've already talked about filing a comprehensive income tax report."

"…"

So you called him.

Keun Sejin asked with a hardened face.

“That wasn’t you, was it?”

“…”

“So let me ask you, what’s going on? What’s wrong?”

Yeah. I knew this question would come up.

“I stopped Chungwoo hyung from reporting it right away… Honestly, I don’t know why I stopped him. I thought about a lot of things…”

Keun Sejin sighed as he looked into the air.

“If you want to handle it alone because of a ridiculous reason, I’ll report it right now, so just tell me what’s going on.”

I smiled bitterly.

“I want to avoid reporting it.”

“Why?!”

“Moondae, whatever reason you have, it’s better to leave an official record first. Let’s report it.”

“…Is it because of the activities?”

“No.”

I shook my head. And I answered in a serious voice.

“I think it could be a two-way process.”

“…!!”

“W-What?”

I clenched the hand that didn't have the injection into a fist and shook it.

"Because I beat the sh*t out of him."

"…"

"…"

"I was caught by a crazy bastard while going out, so I knocked him down and got some evidence, but Korean law is too narrow for the scope of self-defense… Even if I win, I will have to spend some time on the court."

"B-But, you can get that bastard punished by the law…"

"It's fine, I've hit his head with real metal."

"…"

It was the handcuff, but well, it was really made of metal.

Opening my mouth and facing the three people who stiffened, I calmly continued my explanation.

"In fact, a lot of my injuries happened because I was trying to subdue him in retaliation… I didn't actually get hit in a defenseless state, so I think I'll be the only one in trouble if I pointlessly get caught up in an article."

"…Mmm."

The guys' faces turned dazed and complicated, not making a fuss.

However, Bae Sejin still had a dark face.

"Still, you were right beating him…! We can handle it, so let's just make a report. He might attack you again."

“Well, even if I report it, he won’t be able to talk anyway. I’ve scared him enough so that he won’t do anything stupid again.”

“Y-You scared him?”

“Yes. I did a great job scaring him.”

I lowered my head to the side.

“Um, I… You don’t think I would have taken care of it half-heartedly, do you?”

“…”

I guess not. Our well-built trust really shone here.

“Is this explanation good enough? That’s why I don’t want to report it. If I called 119, they would track the cause of the injury right away, that’s why I asked you not to.”

“…Moondae. You could just go to the hospital.”

“…!”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled bitterly.

“Your condition is very serious. Your fever was boiling, and you have traces of being beaten and tied up…”

“…”

“I don’t know how much you hit that person, but whatever the scope of your self-defense is, you are the victim. Looking at you now, is it possible for both sides to sound the same?”

Ryu Chungwoo sighed.

“First of all, I told the hospital that you had an accident while practicing for a concert and working too hard in a sick state, but… I’d still like to report it. It can't be helped if you don't want to."

"…"

"Or at least share his personal details with the company as much as you know. Just in case, we should keep him away."

"Hmm…"

I nodded.

I could just make up a sketch and talk about it.

"Yes. I will contact the company."

"…! Well thought out."

"Tell us, too! Everyone should be careful of such a crazy person."

"Okay. Um, also."

I was a little embarrassed, but it would be better to say it.

"Thank you."

"……!"

"Thank you, hyungs. To be honest, it would have been difficult if you didn't call me back then."

I smiled.

"The fake messages sounded plausible. I didn't know anyone would notice."

"…"

For a moment, the hospital room warmed up with a sense of accomplishment.

'If I hadn't escaped, you would have caught on before I got smashed by a hammer.'

As soon as the moment passed, Keun Sejin nodded seriously.

"That's right. So be nicer to me. First of all, my personal photos…"

"I take it back."

"Hey! That's too much!"

Keun Sejin hit the bed sheet. Funny bastard.

"…Hmm, hmm! Anyway, rest well! Take care of yourself!"

"Yeah. I'm glad you got me to the hospital on time."

The other two were also proud. All right, things were sorted out well.

"Ah, should we get some drinks? What would you like?"

"Hey, hyung, I'll go get them and come back soon~"

"No. I want to go for a walk. Um, Moondae, you want apple juice?"

"Yes. Thank you."

And if there was one more thing I should sort out, it was this.

'Hmm, we've certainly become a bit more comfortable with each other.'

Ryu Chungwoo had gotten less awkward.

Perhaps, my subconscious had slipped the person who had helped me when I was sick back into my mind.

‘As expected, I have to feel it to find out.’

As he helped with my health, my mind returned back a bit.

“Then take a rest.”

“Yes.”

I waved my hand and sent Ryu Chungwoo off.

Click.

And when he left, Keun Sejin suddenly asked.

“Hey, the leader hyung left too.”

“…”

“You don’t want to talk to the company but is there anything you want to tell me? Sejin hyung-nim will also listen if Moondae confides in us, right?”

“W-What? Oh, uh… Of course!”

Quick-witted bastard.

‘He noticed that I turned my words around with compliments.’

Well, I was going to explain it to a few people anyway, just in case.

So that I could move major opinions within the team toward not getting involved with VTIC as much as possible during future activities.

‘There’s no need to make a big deal out of this.’

For that, they couldn’t conspire against me without me knowing because they weren’t close with each other, and they had a good trait of not making blunders with other people.

'It's perfect.'

I opened my mouth.

"The guy who attacked me, I actually know him."

"What?"

"Who is it!?"

"VTIC Cheongryeo."

"…!!"

Bae Sejin's face visibly hardened.

"That fellow, something's strange about him."

"…Really?"

"Yeah, his eyes are weird…!"

"Let's report him."

"…!!"

Keun Sejin stepped in with a hardened face.

"We'll continue to see him at award ceremonies and music shows, so no. Let's report him."

"There's no need for that."

"Even if you're fine now, when you meet…"

I smirked.

“So, what about that motherf*cking bastard?”

“…!”

“I told you. It was me who hit him.”

I stretched out my arm, careful of the injection.

“That bastard got hit in the face, so he won’t be active for a while.”

“…If he reports you first.”

“I even received an apology at the end of the recording and the photos. He won’t.”

“…Sigh.”

Keun Sejin let out a deep sigh, but he didn’t refute further.

‘I guess he’s starting to get the sense of what kind of mess it will become if I report it.’

Still, for a guy who was so hung up on the group’s records, it was brave of him to ask me to report it.

“Why on earth…”

“I don’t know. I guess he just doesn’t want to see me.”

“He’s crazy.”

Perhaps he had seen more outlandish people in the industry, Bae Sejin understood this poor excuse surprisingly easily.

Then he hesitated and asked.

“…Is there a reason you only say this to him and me?”

“Um, if we have to schedule a meeting with VTIC in the future, I want to ask you to avoid him together.”

Let’s flatter him a little bit.

“Because you’re good at speaking every time you’re working.”

“…! Y-Yeah. All right.”

He felt better now that I had given him a sense of duty. Good.

“Still, just in case, make sure you have the proof!”

“Alright.”

As such, the explanation and conviction of ‘How Park Moondae ended up like that’ were over.

‘It was more difficult than I thought.’

Well, it was difficult in a good way.

“Guys, drinks.”

“Oh~ Thank you!”

“…Thanks.”

After a while, Ryu Chungwoo returned, and I turned my head the other way while drinking a fairly expensive convenience store apple juice.

‘First of all… Four weeks is enough to recover from an injury to a level where I can easily move around.’

I guessed I would be able to make it to the beginning of the concert.

‘If I have to, I’ll overwork myself at the Seoul concert.’

However, the problem was, I hadn't been able to keep up with the final practice.

It was the group choreography, so I had learned it before the vacation. I could adjust to it if there were no changes, but I was worried about the solo stage.

And I had to learn a new choreography for the fan service segment

'Should I just memorize the moves while being careful?'

I couldn't help it now.

I shrugged and picked up my smartphone.

First of all, I was going to ask the other guys' understanding regarding the injury, and I planned to contact the company and ask them to publish some articles ahead of time.

'I have to do this now so that everyone will forgive me if I don't recover until the concert.'

…However, if I had known that this action would have stronger repercussions than I thought, I would have thought of delaying it a little longer.

[Me: Got caught by some crazy stalker and got hurt a little when subduing him. All of the messages after the vacation were from that person impersonating me, so please excuse everything. (sighing emoticon)]

As soon as he saw this, Seon Ahyeon quit his trip and came to the hospital room.

It seemed he was more alarmed by the stalker excuse because he had seen some freaks break into my apartment.

"M-Moondae!"

"…? Hello."

Before he could look at my 'Why are you here?' expression, Seon Ahyeon shouted in panic.

"Y-You didn't get hurt, right!?"

"…"

Well… I wasn't even wearing a cast, this was a bit too much.

I calmed Seon Ahyeon who was about to cry instead of the other way around and I received a gift box full of some bread.

It was from a famous bakery in Sokcho, but it tasted good anyway.

I also exchanged awkward greetings with the parents who had brought Seon Ahyeon all the way here.

I was rather embarrassed because they were so sad.

"Next time, make sure to come with Ahyeon. There are so many strange people these days… Aigoo, what should I do?"

"It's okay. I won."

"R-Right. But still…"

The tearful face was the same as Seon Ahyeon's, I wondered if it ran in the family.

"C-Call me if you need me!"

"All right."

Since then, Seon Ahyeon had been in and out of the hospital room until the vacation was over.

He had a great deal of patience. If it were me, I would never visit the hospital every day while on vacation.

'Is it due to a difference in personality?'

Oh, of course, other members besides Seon Ahyeon also contacted me.

Among them, there was also a guy who tried to call me.

– Hyung-nim! Are you feeling well?

It was Kim Raebin.

"Yeah. Um, that's great. I had something to say."

– Yes…?

And I did my job.

"Hello, Grandmother. This is Park Moondae."

[Aigoo!]

I tried to sing trot to lighten the mood, but Kim Raebin's grandmother had a firm taste.

[That one~ I like the one that our groom sang! Winter Night!]

"I-I will let you hear it."

[Oh, so pretty~]

Hmm, it was a pretty fun experience anyway.

And lastly, Cha Eugene… Surprisingly, there was no contact from him until the last day of the vacation.

Then, a short video uploaded to the group message room reported his survival.

[Wahhahaha!]

[Watch out!]

…It was a video of Cha Eugene getting into the beach which was filmed dynamically.

In this late autumn.

[Cha Eugene: Mom took this video for me! :D]

He was a really consistent guy.

Still, he must have belatedly seen my post, so he called me late at night to ask how I was doing.

– Hyung!! Do you beat the stalker?? Did you hit him?

This guy was really consistent.

“Sigh.”

And around this time, the company finally started publishing articles about my injury.

Chapter 181

When the company first found out about my hospitalization, they were understandably shocked.

They sent us on a vacation to the best of their ability, so there should have been no disaster striking out of nowhere, but it got lengthened to four weeks.

And when I explained the whole story of the incident, they were even more shocked.

“S-Stalker??”

“Yes. I got caught by some crazy person…”

It was an excuse similar to what I had said to the members, but the agency’s face also changed when I said, ‘I also hit them a lot’.

They wanted to ask me to bear with it rather than stir up public opinion for no reason, so when I requested it myself, they welcomed it.

“Yes, Moondae-ssi. We’ll expand our security personnel as much as possible, so don’t worry! You’re on vacation, so this happened…”

They were greatly skilled at insinuating that this wasn’t their responsibility because I was on vacation.

Even if I was on vacation, they obviously knew that I was staying at the dorm, but they didn’t contact me for a few days, so they must have felt prodded.

‘It’s obvious.’

Anyway, thanks to that, picking the title of the article was easy.

[Testar Park Moondae is hospitalized due to a fall during concert practice]

Isn't it neat?

They decided to post the notice on the company's official account, and the contents were properly mixed with information about the sprains and bruises.

'It's done.'

In fact, I thought this topic would be over at this point.

When I looked it up, the circumstances of my hospitalization were spread under the surface, but everyone seemed to be in a rush due to the source issue.

Of course, the people who were obsessed with idols' private lives brought up the topic first.

– Heol, Gommeo is hospitalized. He's not faking illness because he's on vacation, right?

– ㅠㅠㅠIt must be true that Park Moondae is hospitalized. He doesn't come to the dorm, he's making me worried

– There's no record of his whereabouts… What's going on

There was nothing more outside of this.

Besides, the place I was hospitalized was a hospital that the company had filmed before, so the staff kept quiet.

This meant that there wasn't a lot of information regarding my detailed condition.

Sometimes, truths came up, but a lot of rumors and lies were mixed, so those were also treated as rumors.

– I heard from an acquaintance that he got caught by a sasaeng and broke his bones… Hmm.

– Honestly, this topic is meaningless. We all know he gets a cold every time he rests

-Wrist injury ㅋㅋ I think it's an injury from practicing choreography. It's understandable because he's a practice freak

Since they were talking like this, I thought that the excuse of 'a stage injury during concert practice' was quite convincing and not particularly shocking.

In addition, the company quickly began managing media play to prevent unnecessary articles before the official admission.

Certainly, the director seemed to be running the company properly this time.

'It'll be fine.'

I inwardly gave them a passing grade and enjoyed the rest of my vacation.

'I'm glad I still got four days.'

Although the hospitalization period was extended to the end of the vacation to match the company's official data on the injury, I had no particular complaints.

In fact, except for the fact that the dates were cut in half, it was a one-person hospital room, so there was no big difference from what I was originally going to do.

But I was a bit shaken up.

'…This place must be expensive.'

From what I heard, the 6-person room was quite expensive, but I got a single room, so I must have been really hurt.

The fact that I was injured enough to go to the hospital was funnier.

‘I’ve gone through all sorts of things.’

Well, it was still a good thing, the company would pay for it anyway, so I had a good rest and relaxed comfortably.

Read books, watch some videos. I spent my time without thinking of anything, eating three meals a day given to me by the hospital.

Members who visit from time to time brought outside food, so the special meals were great too.

“M-Moondae. I brought strawberries.”

“Yeah, thank you.”

“I-I’ll wash it…!”

It was mostly Seon Ahyeon, but there were times when other people brought food, too.

“Moondaemoondae~ Pizza!”

‘I think this guy is just buying what he wants to eat with the excuse of visiting the hospital.’

In any case, the four days of lying down and only eating food were quite thrilling.

And on the last day of vacation.

Articles and announcements were released as planned.

[Park Moondae fell during concert practice… ‘Four weeks of full recovery’]

[Testar Park Moondae, news of injury while on vacation]

But… when I looked into it, things went a little differently than I expected.

The response was much stronger.

– Ah, Moondae, what should I do?

– I am going crazy, T1, f*cking bastard, you can't even manage the stage?

– The kid who went to practice even after taking a long vacation got hospitalized. I am really upset. I am crying

– What did you force him to do? He fell off the stage and has to recover for 4 weeks… Ah, please, stop making him do dangerous things

– Because of Park Moondae's personality, he fell due to carelessness? I don't believe you. They obviously ordered a weird device. I'm so mad ㅋㅋㅋ

Park Moondae's fans were exploding with anxiety and anger.

'Wait a minute.'

I broke out in a cold sweat.

No, I wasn't unconscious or anything like that, and I didn't break my leg, but how did it end up like this?

I agreed to not participate in the group's official schedule for about 10 days after the vacation was over, so I thought there would be people who would criticize me, but surprisingly there were very few of them.

Every time they came out, fans beat them up.

– He went out on vacation and couldn't attend his schedule ㅋㅋㅋ

What a load of crap

ㄴㅎㅎYou bastard, every day is like a vacation for him, he can't keep upㅠ

As a lifetime fangirl, I can show it to you ㅇㅋ

Oops! A comment from a fan of dead-eyed ruined idols! (Applause emoticon)

It was brutal.

'First of all… I didn't know the agency would be attacked this much.'

Because the members often showed themselves participating in album or stage production in their own content, I thought they would accept the stage setting with that feeling.

Maybe… They were so worried that they wanted to find the cause and take corrective action.

'…Are they that worried about Park Moondae getting injured?'

I felt strange.

"…Hmm."

I rolled up the sleeve of the hospital gown.

It still felt a bit swollen, but the bruises were almost gone, leaving only yellow or blue color.

'This should be fine.'

I was going to be discharged to the dorm tomorrow, so I should do something now that I was in the hospital.

Click.

I took a selfie and uploaded it to SNS.

Hello, Loviewer.

It's Park Moondae.

I am sorry that I missed activities because I was negligent in taking care of my body.

It's not a serious injury, and I'm going to be discharged tomorrow. I'll recover quickly so that I can show you a good performance.

(Photo)

In this case, writing it politely would be the best way to keep unnecessary noises out.

"This is okay."

It didn't have any unnecessary expressions, and I even attached a photo to notify them of the necessary information and my current status.

This would put everyone at ease.

I was satisfied and immediately monitored the reaction to the uploaded post.

"…??"

And I was flustered.

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠ Moondae's writing that didn't start with This is Moondae is so unfamiliar to me. What should I do? Moondae, let's not blame ourselves for being sickㅠㅠㅠ

– No Moon Puppy… No Tibetan Moon Puppy either… Moondae without emoticons…

– You shouldn't hold back and apologize like this. What the hell did you say to the kids, T1?

– Moondae, rather than overexerting yourself to quickly catch up with the schedules, I want you to rest well, recover well, and see me with a bright face. Please don't suffer ㅠㅠ

Below that, my writings were translated into all languages, including English and Japanese, and crying emoticons began to run endlessly.

It was almost like a wave of crying.

They even identified the bruises by correcting the contrast value of the color of my wrist.

"…"

What should I do?

I ended up posting a picture I took with the members the next morning after being discharged, along with the phrase 'This is Moondae'.

Only then did the atmosphere calm down a little, but the crying tone and the over-immersion still remained.

'For the concert preparation… I have to work hard.'

I didn't know how this atmosphere would turn out if I couldn't show them my normal appearance. I kept this in mind, feeling like I was going to break out in a cold sweat.

And the moment I entered the dorm after completing the discharge procedure, another intense reaction was waiting for me.

Cha Eugene had just returned from vacation.

"Moondae hyung! I'm here… Huuuuh?!"

“Don’t!”

“M-Moondae’s ribs hurt!”

Perhaps there was no time to give him a briefing when he returned at dawn, and the person who tried to raise his hands and pat me on the back at the front door was immediately stopped by the other members.

Cha Eugene opened his eyes wide.

“Ribs? Meat?”

“Here.”

When I roughly pointed at my back, Cha Eugene pointed with a shocked expression.

“Is that true? Didn’t you hit him?”

“…I got hit when I hit him.”

“He hurt his wrist, too.”

“Oh, my God!”

Cha Eugene muttered with a shocked face.

“You lost…”

“I said I won. I hit him more.”

[Did you strike his jaw??]

“Yeah, his jaw and his head.”

“Oh.”

Cha Eugene then nodded with a face of restored respect.

“That’s cool!”

“Yeah.”

Fatigue suddenly set in.

‘Come to think of it, he’s my roommate.’

I forgot because there were so many incidents.

‘I want to go back to the single room.’

It was a sudden wish, but of course, it didn’t come true.

[So, my mom is not a big fan of seafood. Still, she liked the hairtail! Well, the flesh was sweet.]

“…Hairtail is delicious.”

[I hope the team can go and eat together!]

As soon as I lay down in my bed for the first time in a while, I listened to Cha Eugene and his mother’s Jeju Island trip until right before the schedule.

My attempts to sneak out into the living room were thwarted three times by a bombardment of questions.

At this point, my only hope was to not accompany their schedule.

‘Please.’

And as scheduled, the members, including Cha Eugene, left the dorm following a short evening schedule.

It was one of the few official schedules I missed because the final practice for the concert would begin in earnest starting tomorrow.

“We’ll be back. Rest well.”

“Call the manager hyung if you have to!”

“We’ll be home around 10 and see you.”

“Yeah. Have a great day.”

The crowd disappeared from the dorm like a tide. As soon as they left, I went back to bed.

“Sigh.”

In my mouth, I had a semi-dried persimmon that I had received from Kim Raebin as a return gift for singing passionately in the video call.

It tasted sweet.

The world was silent.

“…Hmm.”

But more than I thought… I didn’t feel very good.

‘It’s like I just overslept on an important major and took a break from the class.’

I felt like I was losing money without gaining anything because I missed my schedule.

‘Let’s just make a plan.’

I had to pretend to work. I frowned and recalled some of the problems at hand.

The top priority was… Of course, the concert.

‘Should I change the composition of the solo stage?’

Since it was a stage I did alone, it would be troublesome if the taste of watching the stage dropped just because my injury didn’t recover much.

And this was the best way to make the excuse that Park Moondae got hurt while practicing alone during vacation seemed credible.

‘It should be a stage where falls and wrist injuries are likely to happen if I make a mistake.’

At the same time, it was a performance where I could respond flexibly if my injuries didn’t get much better…

‘Hmm.’

I thought of several options and stopped at one.

“This is the best.”

And at a little past 10:00 at night.

I called one of the guys who were back from the schedule.

“Ahyeon.”

“Yes??”

“Can I ask you something about your major?”

“H-Huh??”

If I couldn’t load everything, I would have to make a moment of impact.

Chapter 182

Asking Seon Ahyeon for cooperation related to the stage was already a proven method.

Even during <Idol Inc.> midterm evaluation where we just knew each other, he was happy to teach me.

However, the conversation went a little differently than I expected.

"N-No!"

"…?"

As soon as I explained the situation, Seon Ahyeon changed his attitude.

'Could this guy have awakened his competitive spirit?'

I looked at him dumbfounded, and he hesitated a bit before continuing.

"Y-You're hurt, doing that kind of thing is dangerous…"

Oh, is it about that?

"It's fine. I didn't mean I would practice right away. I plan to do it once I recover properly."

Since I was used to exercising a bit, I was going to focus on conceptualizing and memorizing first, and then I planned to practice in earnest with about two weeks left.

I wasn't a character in a drama who got shot and then immediately ran around in the next episode, and of course, I did my best to take care of myself.

However, even with this detailed explanation, Seon Ahyeon's complexion didn't look good.

"S-Still, it seems to be putting a lot of pressure on the joints than I thought… C-Can you not do that…?"

"Hmm…"

"Y-You're good already! You're good at singing, even if you don't do that…"

I was doing well but he was on the verge of sweating profusely.

'…You're sensitive to injuries.'

I thought it was simply because he majored in dance, but there was something more desperate than that.

"Hmm."

Anyway, it would be difficult to get an answer at this rate, so let's change the words a little.

"Yeah. I think you're right."

"…! R-Really?"

"Hn. I'll take care of my body and refrain myself."

Seon Ahyeon's complexion brightened.

I added stealthily after that.

"Then, using the device for a short moment… Yeah, can I ask you for a safe posture just in case?"

“Y-Yeah!”

Done.

Seon Ahyeon nodded in agreement. I played a video on my smartphone and showed it to him.

“Here’s the part where I pull back my strength…”

It was the so-called ‘josammo sa[1]josammo sa = short-sightedness/deceit/deception. In which both outcomes are the same but we’re led to believe that it’s not. It originated from the story of a man and his monkeys. He told them he would give 3 acorns for breakfast and 4 for dinner and the monkeys got angry. So he told them he would give 4 acorns for breakfast and 3 for dinner and the monkeys liked it. ‘ style of speech.

Actually, if you thought about it carefully, it meant I would do what I was originally going to do, but with this guy’s personality, he would fall for the implication that the other person had agreed.

I picked up some practical tips from Seon Ahyeon and even got a promise of a demonstration in the practice room.

“Thank you.”

“I-It’s nothing!”

And it was only after Seon Ahyeon arrived at the huge practice room rented for the concert that he noticed the oddity.

The company seemed to be moving fast, they had already rented the device.

“H-Huh…”

Seon Ahyeon’s expression was plastered with ‘?’, but the situation was already over.

“This, uh I don’t…?”

“You said you’d tell me.”

“B-But…”

I shrugged my shoulders.

“Well… You can stop if you don’t want to. The instructor is here, so I can ask him.”

“…! N-No! I’ll tell you!”

“Thank you.”

This was how I secured Seon Ahyeon’s demonstration.

It was easy if you’d done it before, even without the instructor’s advice.

And it felt different.

‘…There’s definitely a difference.’

I had to learn that.

“Oh!”

It was a smooth progress, except for when Cha Eugene broke into the middle and almost hit his head on the floor while excitedly intervening, saying that he would try it too.

However, some of the members stealthily asked.

“Moondae, have you received treatment? Are you sure it’s okay to do this?”

“Ah, it’s fine.”

I immediately nodded to Ryu Chungwoo's insinuating question.

"I decide to try this so I don't have to overdo it once I recover."

"…Okay, but don't overdo it."

I was really fine. Not only did I skip all of my schedules, but my recovery was definitely faster than my original body.

'Is it because of the Bacchus 500?'

Since the speed of accumulation of fatigue was slow, it must be compensated by recovery.

I crossed my arms and looked at the device where Cha Eugene had just descended down with a grin.

'As expected, this picture will be fine.'

Now I had a taste of what I was doing. I felt good.

I looked forward to the concert.

* * *

"This… A cup to celebrate success."

"Oh, that's great! Cheers!!!"

Park Moondae's homma drank beer with her friend who was a graduate student.

'Argh!'

It was thrilling.

They had successfully completed the pre-sale for Testar's second concert which was held a while ago!

Both of them did.

“This is the standing area, right? Do I have to stand and watch?”

“No, no! There’s a chair there! You can just sit and stand depending on the atmosphere.”

“Ah~ I see!”

The graduate student, who had a good seat in the front seats among the so-called ‘righteous standing[2]‘Righteous standing’ seat = even if there are chairs laid out, everyone gets to stand up and watch. It’s apparently a culture of concert viewing. ‘ seats with simple chairs in the standing area, smiled brightly.

‘I heard she barely made it.’

Looking at the scene with a bit of pity, Park Moondae’s homma glanced at her own smartphone that just rang.

Bzzt!

And as soon as she checked the contents, she grabbed her smartphone.

“Gasp, Moondae posted something!”

“Heol!”

Hello Loviewer

This is Moondae (dog emoticon)

This is tonight’s dinner

I made it

(Photo) (Photo)

Chungwoo hyung took the picture

Loviewer, enjoy your meal

In the attached photo, a home-cooked meal with soybean paste stew and fried egg was prepared quite nicely.

And there was even a picture of Park Moondae's profile, seriously taking his prize.

'I'm going crazy, seriously.'

The homma felt like hitting her head.

Park Moondae was really the best. He was just too much.

'Take a break!!'

He cut off his schedule to rest, so why is he sitting there cooking?

In addition, looking at the photos again, she noticed things that bothered her.

The graduate student muttered with a worried face.

"He's still wearing a protector on his wrist…"

"I think he has it on his back, too. The shape came out on his clothes."

It had already been a week since she heard the news of the injury, but she couldn't help but worry.

The atmosphere of the drinking party subsided a little.

"…But Moondae's solo song is not a song with fierce movements, so the concert will be okay, right? He sang it standing up in <My Singer> too."

“That’s right. He’ll sit down and sing.”

The two made a reasonable guess, saying that he could skip the group choreography and sit down if it was necessary.

‘He must be very regretful.”

As a result of watching his activities for more than a year, Park Moondae seemed to be the type who pretended to be not greedy on stage.

The homma held back her desire to cry, thinking that she should send red ginseng through his agency right away.

“…Still, I think this concert will be more fun than the first one! The concert hall is bigger!”

“Hmm, t-that’s right.”

The graduate student attempted to change the atmosphere, and the homma responded accordingly, but she couldn’t help feeling bitter.

She remembered what she had been ignoring in the face of a happy situation where both of them were successful in ticketing

‘Gocheok Dome, of all places… ’

The concert was held at the Gymnastics Stadium with 13,000 seats last time and now it was held at Gocheok Sky Dome and opened with 21,000 seats.

Of course, since it was Testar’s concert that was gaining momentum like crazy, increasing the scale was the right choice for the agency.

However, as a fan, she didn’t like really like Gocheok Dome.

‘The field of vision is bad.’

She wanted to cry out that she’d rather have Gymnastics Stadium and extended the period for two weeks, but she knew it was impossible because of the tour.

'Hiks.'

The homma, who couldn't completely follow the entire tour due to personal circumstances, drank the beer in a single shot.

'I'll just have to buy the data a few times… '

She was drunk.

And she managed to bring up a good topic.

"…And after the concert, it will be the award ceremony season. I'll see them often even when they're on a tour!"

"Oh! That's right!"

Expectations for Testar's performance at the awards ceremony were quite high.

'There's a possibility that VTIC won't be able to attend.'

This was because one of their members was involved in a dirty social controversy at the club, and the group's comeback was delayed.

Thanks to this, VTIC only released pre-released songs and there was no news of them, so the fans seemed to be anxious.

After cutting off the controversial member like a knife, she heard their official SNS had been quiet too.

Even on a member's birthday, they were quiet.

'It was Cheongryeo's birthday, wasn't it?'

She didn't know if he was secretly preying on her kid or if they were actually close, but anyway, the person she was most familiar with slipped into her mind.

But it disappeared in an instant.

'Well, he's in the first-tier group, so he'll do well on his own.'

In fact, even without the variable VTIC, Testar's momentum was certain.

In particular, Park Moondae's rise had been sharper recently.

To some extent, there had been a number of new hommas for the past half a year.

'So many people have transferred!'

It wasn't just once or twice that she witnessed other group's hommas sneakily transferred offline without a word.

Even the person who took the same area as her in this concert was like that.

'It's a twin fansite tied with Keun Sejin!'

She heard rumors saying that they took pictures of Keun Sejin at the first concert last time and picked out high-quality eye-contact photos from the <I like waiting> stage and posted them on an anonymous site.

However, when she actually opened the platform, it started with the other cuts from that photo.

Together with Park Moondae and two-cut photos!

'…I thought they would only take pictures of Keun Sejin, but I never imagined we would take pictures of Park Moondae together.'

A subtle feeling of competitiveness ignited her heart.

For this concert, she would definitely choose a picture of Moondae that was better than the twin fansite she transferred to!

Ignoring the fact that she had also transferred, the homma made a firm resolution.

“I’m going to pick out a really great cut this time.”

“Ah~ That’s great! Show it to me too!”

The graduate student answered brightly. And they ordered a new beer.

“Then, cheers!”

“Cheers!”

Thinking of the upcoming concert, the two clinked their glasses again with pounding hearts.

She couldn’t have imagined that she would cry while waving and breaking the lightstick on the first day of the concert.

* * *

And on the day of Testar’s concert, in the rehearsal site.

“Now, move it right away!”

“Yes!”

Various people were busy moving ahead of the performance.

Among them, there were many one-day part-time workers who were urgently hired to fill the immediate unnecessary work.

‘Oh, it’s so hard.’

A one-day staff put down their load irritably. They applied for a wage of 70,000 won a day, but they were sick of the endless labor.

"…"

The one-day staff looked around and sneakily took out their smartphone. And they posted an angry message on an anonymous site.

[A male idol concert staff. Not taking questions]

: I have to load and unload. They give the lowest wage and ask for so much sh*t

There are already a lot of fangirls outside. Not doing anything ㅉㅉ

'This aggro is fine, right?'

There were a few comments that seemed interesting.

But it wasn't a good talk.

– ㅋㅋThis bastard never load and unload delivery stuff before

– What kind of staff are you? Sounds like a part-time job

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Then why don't you order the part-time workers to do it

– Fangirl = Spend money, OP = Receive the lowest wage

*'Motherf*ckers…!'*

The part-time worker huffed and turned off their smartphone screen.

"Over there! What are you doing?!"

"…!… Yes."

The part-time worker noticed the sharp criticism and carried the luggage half-heartedly. The other busy part-timers glanced at them, but they already lost motivation.

‘Should I run away?’

As they switched up their mind, they suddenly heard a buzz from one side.

‘What?’

When they raised their head and looked up, they saw famous faces.

“…!”

Testar had come for the rehearsal.

They bowed their heads here and there as they busily moved down the aisle with the staff.

“Hello~”

“…!”

Coincidentally, Lee Sejin made eye contact with the part-timer and greeted them amicably.

It was a large, well-maintained physique and face.

“Let’s go.”

“Okay~”

Park Moondae tapped Lee Sejin. The two bowed their heads a few more times and quickly moved their feet again.

“They are all so handsome.”

“Wow.”

“It’s kind of amazing.”

The other one-day part-timers whispered excitedly next to them but the part-timer who was about to escape felt worse.

‘Well, how amazing is their job?’

It was a sense of deprivation.

It was an attitude that came out because someone in their age group had achieved tremendous accomplishments, and they didn’t want to admit it.

However, the desire to escape had diminished a little.

‘Let’s see how great they are.’

Whether it was personality or skill, shouldn’t there be any flaws in the people who rose without a period of obscurity in a single program?

These days, all kinds of facts could be testified with a single authentication post.

‘Well, it’s anonymous, so can you catch me?’

The part-timer thought complacently and fell into a not-so-wholesome pleasant delusion.

And regardless of one person’s fantasy, the concert was ready to proceed smoothly amidst the expectations and hard work of many people.

- 1. josammo sa = short-sightedness/deceit/deception. In which both outcomes are the same but we’re led to believe that it’s not. It originated from the story of a man and his monkeys. He told them he would give 3 acorns for breakfast and 4 for dinner and the monkeys got angry. So he told them he would give 4 acorns for breakfast and 3 for dinner and the monkeys liked it.

- 2. ‘Righteous standing’ seat = even if there are chairs laid out, everyone gets to stand up and watch. It’s apparently a culture of concert viewing.

Chapter 183

Testar's concert began with a heavy background sound.

Swoosh!

In front of the darkened concert hall, a dark video appeared on a huge electronic display board along with the sound of cutting through the wind.

It was a pine forest in the middle of the night.

[…]

With an ink-like brushstrokes effect, someone stepped out from the pine trees.

It was Ryu Chungwoo wearing a cheollik.

It was as if the composition was connected to the last scene of the 'Present' music video.

Six people appeared together behind him.

Then the sound of drums and strong kkwaenggwari began to ring.

It was the accompaniment of 'Present'.

Woooow-!

Amid the echoes of the cheers of 20,000 people who filled the dome, the actual members appeared in the concert hall under the electric signboard before the intro was over.

And as soon as they got in formation, intense rap verses and choreography broke in.

– So that you can't escape even if you struggle

You come today, you go

Even as the fans screamed, short thoughts quickly passed through their heads.

'Hitting with Present first??'

'I thought they would do it at the end after the solo songs!'

Just like the first concert, the audience was very excited about the bold set composition list.

Even the staff, who had been busy backstage, were nervous at the thought of the concert finally starting, and at the same time, the mood was somewhat heightened by the spread of the atmosphere of the venue.

Of course, not everyone was like that.

'What's with the sound?'

The one-day part-timer, who was assigned to the backstage aisle control task, frowned as they heard people shouting.

The sound of the sound speakers echoed through the voices of the audience and staff inside, making their ears hurt.

'It's so loud.'

Some part of the members' faces was occasionally visible on the half-hidden electronic signboard.

"Hey, I can see some of it from here, too!"

"Oh, so handsome."

They didn't want to be amused or impressed like other thoughtless part-timers.

'All the celebrities will be treated at the hospital. How much money will they spend?'

The part-timer couldn't see the stage well because of the angle, but they must be doing something obvious like idol choreography.

However, despite all the noise, the part-timer could clearly hear Testar's voice in the aisle.

'It must be pre-recorded.'

The part-timer thought as cynically as possible and touched their smartphone.

Real-time comment broadcasts now…

"Hey, don't look at your smartphone."

"…"

Acting like that even though they were both part-timers, screw them.

The part-timer muttered and put back their smartphone.

'I'll post it after I finish watching it in a little while.'

Thinking of posting it with a verification attached, the part-timer frowned in the aisle.

And regardless of what the one-day part-timer was thinking, the performance was going crazy on and off the stage.

"VCR 120 seconds!"

"Next outfit, hurry up!"

As soon as ‘Present’ was over, what followed was part of the collaboration song from the game ＜127 Section＞ and the title song at the time, ‘Better me’, but it was a remix version, not the original song.

In order to continue the flow of ‘Present’, it was arranged into a traditional instrument and most of the chorus was changed to Korean.

– At this moment

You can’t let me go

A high-pitched chorus pierced like an awl between the dancers and the gigantic stage set that looked like the jaws of a beast.

And a very agile dance break was unfolded using white strings similar to sangmo[1]Sangmo is a Korean folk arts hat. A kind of a hat with feathers or paper streamers called pi-ji, made of Korean paper attached to the top which is worn when dancing and moving the head around during a pungmul performance. Sumber: Wiki.pungmulnori[2]Pungmulnori/Pungmul is a Korean folk music tradition that includes drumming, dancing, and singing…

– Better me

The performance of the three songs poured into the sky was finished with countless dancers flying strings into the sky.

It was a concert-worthy splendid production.

Aaaaaa-!!

With the lightsticks shaking like crazy and flashing in different colors through the central control, the VCR entered again.

And the members and dancers came pouring into the aisle.

“Outfit!”

“Ahyeon-ssi, here!”

“Yes…!”

Seon Ahyeon moved quickly among the members who were gasping for breaths.

Because the first solo performance immediately followed.

“Ahyeon, gasp, you have good stamina.”

“Huff, his lung capacity, as expected, he’s really a dance major…”

And it was time for the other members to take a breather while reflecting on their own solo songs.

“Moondae?”

“Moondae-ssi, are you okay?”

“…Huff, yes.”

Park Moondae sighed as he leaned back in the hallway.

“Do you need a hot pack?”

“It’s fine.”

Park Moondae answered firmly and wiped off his sweat.

‘It’s more worthwhile than I thought.’

His ribs were all recovered a few days ago. However, he did hear something like, ‘Don’t overdo it’.

‘That’s what the hospital always says.’

Who’s gonna tell him how to live his life now that he’s all better? Park

Moondae rationalized it sullenly and raised his hand to where his lung was supposed to be.

'The wrist… It's still a bit painful.'

But it would be fine.

'Because it's already well sort-out.'

Park Moondae was confident.

From above, he finally heard the sound of Seon Ahyeon performing on stage.

– A swaying conclusion

Among those voices

I can hear you breathing.

Uaaaaaaaa!!

"Everyone loves it~"

"…I guess so."

Park Moondae also knew.

The stage of Seon Ahyeon, who moved while splashing water droplets on the surface of the water, was sure to be splendid.

"Wow! I'm coming!"

"Yes, yes! Move!"

Cha Eugene, who would perform next, ran excitedly, hitting the staff's back.

‘He changed his clothes quickly.’

It proceeded smoothly.

The stages of the solo songs that came in the order in the music video teaser didn’t give a surprising impression, but they created a structure.

It meant there would be a lingering aftertaste when the solo stage was finally over.

“After Cha Eugene, it’s me…”

“You’ll do well. Don’t worry, Sejin.”

Park Moondae heard Bae Sejin’s voice and Ryu Chungwoo’s encouragement from next to him.

‘The stage equipment has been cleverly configured, so there is no problem over there either.’

Bae Sejin’s stage featured a rotating stage device and several magical elements. It was probably the most expensive device on today’s concert stages.

Therefore, Park Moondae guessed that he would be able to hold up even if he came out after Cha Eugene.

‘Because the audience will be amazed.’

On the contrary, If they had put another guy in, that person might have suffered from a situation where his stage capabilities were compared.

Park Moondae quietly added.

“That’s right, hyung. It’s great, don’t worry.”

“…Ah, okay.”

“Ah~ So heartwarming!”

Lee Sejin smiled. Beyond that, a camera for behind-the-scenes content could be seen following them.

‘…I shouldn’t throw up no matter what.’

It wouldn’t be aired, but it would be quite embarrassing if the camera caught that.

Park Moondae brushed it aside and got up, moving to prepare for his stage.

His solo song stage came out at 5th turn. He had plenty of time.

* * *

‘It’s coming.’

Kim Raebin performed a rhythmical yet slightly cute solo song with unbalanced charm under the stage lights that glowed with glow-in-the-dark lights.

At that moment, in the midst of ripping cheers, this was the thought that the homma had.

‘It’s Park Moondae’s turn now.’

She took good pictures of Kim Raebin as practice, so her hands were more energized.

‘Everyone’s performance is great.’

From Seon Ahyeon to Kim Raebin and even Bae Sejin’s stage, it was fun.

‘Moondae, you’ll tear it all apart with just your singing skills…!’

Conscious of Park Moondae’s and Keun Sejin’s twin homma sitting three spaces away from her, the homma held up the camera solemnly.

Just in time, she saw someone's camera being caught by a security guard in the standing seat in front of her.

It was a person who tried to put a white lens on the shoulder of the person in front of them on the previous stage.

'Amateur.'

The homma thought reflexively, seeing as that person couldn't play innocent even if they got caught.

At that sight, some people were judgmental.

'It's really funny.'

One of them was the part-timer standing in the backstage aisle.

The part-timer clicked their tongue when they saw the audience getting their camera taken away by a security guard.

'Why are you taking pictures like that? Don't you feel embarrassed?'

A fangirl that couldn't enjoy a show, the part-timer thought in a slightly condescending manner. They already had one certified comment.

– That fu*cker only took pictures. Just how boring is the concert? ㅋ

The part-timer, who grinned as they thought of it, shrugged their shoulders.

'Since the concert started, this part-time job is easy.'

There were not many audiences trying to access the backstage aisle, so part-timers could easily fool around.

It was at that moment.

“The people in the back here!! Follow me!”

Staff came running from the inside and started calling part-timers.

It seemed something had spilled.

‘What is it now?’

The part-timer grumbled and followed the urging steps.

After that, the slow and beautiful VCR ended, and Park Moondae appeared on the stage.

Wooow-

In the static atmosphere of the stage, the cheers were quickly organized.

Under a ray of light on the dark stage, Park Moondae was sitting in a chair as a lot of people had expected.

However, as seen in the music video teaser, the colorful fabrics that wrapped around the abandoned house were stretched out from all directions on the stage, tying the chairs and Park Moondae.

And the costume was not a wedding outfit, but a light white stage costume.

On a quiet stage with no accompaniment.

Park Moondae started singing first.

– On the eve of April

I can’t even see the moon

You didn’t come

Love is rotting away

At the end of the first verse, when only the heavy voice resounded.

The sound of an instrument came in like a rush.

Whooo!

The moment the Korean musical instrument in the minor key subsided slightly, the next verse continued, and the color came into the light.

Red, blue, and flashing lights heightened the strange tension.

'Gasp.'

The homma barely held on to the camera and heard Park Moondae's voice.

'He sings so damn well.'

She really had nothing to say other than this. The homma swallowed her saliva and captured Park Moondae's image on camera.

'I like the hair and makeup.'

And in her ears, she listened to the emotional high notes that run through the chorus as if sucking it.

– Still, I'll wait

'Gaaaah.'

At the end of the chorus, the homma's heart was strangled by catharsis.

'Just with your voice!'

It felt great.

But the moment he entered the second verse, things changed.

– After that time

The sun doesn't rise

Along with the lyrics, Park Moondae's hand was half-lifted in the air.

It looked as if the fabric wrapped around his arm was being pulled.

'Huh?'

The moment she hurriedly tried to convince herself that the slightly bizarre movement must have been Park Moondae's own movement, this time the other arm came up at a different angle.

– You didn't come

Love is rotting away

And Park Moondae lifted his waist like that and went up into the air.

"…!!"

It was a movement that looked as though he was swimming in a space without gravity, guided by the fabric.

As he climbed onto the chair, lying down and stretching his body, Park Moondae continued the song.

"…Huh."

The homma made a sound without even realizing it.

The audience everywhere also had similar faces as she was.

And this wasn't just the audience.

The part-timer, who was cleaning up the collapsed luggage inside, also saw the scene that was broadcasted to the stage electronic display through the monitoring screen in the front.

“…Oh.”

The part-timer looked at the screen with their mouth wide open while carrying their luggage.

And they could understand why the captive audience was so eager to take pictures.

- 1. Sangmo is a Korean folk arts hat. A kind of a hat with feathers or paper streamers called pi-ji, made of Korean paper attached to the top which is worn when dancing and moving the head around during a pungmul performance. Sumber: Wiki.

- 2. Pungmulnori/Pungmul is a Korean folk music tradition that includes drumming, dancing, and singing.

Chapter 184

Park Moondae continued to rise into the air. Even as his limbs dropped in the air, his limp body maintained its dramatically graceful lines.

And he kept singing.

– My heart is melting

Until there's nothing to expect in desperation

Until it's over

Just like the eerie lyrics, it was a static yet intense performance.

The homma, who was watching the scene blankly, suddenly realized something.

'That's why it's a head mic!'

From the moment he sat in the chair, he was wearing a head microphone, not a standing microphone or a handheld microphone.

'I thought it was because it didn't fit the atmosphere with the tied-up clothes… '

No, it was because of that crazy performance.

And it didn't end there.

– Still, I'll wait

The moment the final chorus hit.

The accompaniment suddenly turned into a slow string solo instrument.

In the midst of that mournful sound, the fabric that had been tied around the singer's body loosened and began to flutter along with the wind.

And the cloudy night sky began to be reflected on the electronic display.

"…!"

Fabric in primary colors swayed against the background of a cloudy dark night where the stars were hard to see.

And a white figure floated in the middle.

Even though all the tied fabric was released as if he had been pulled up, Park Moondae was still floating in the air with only his body.

'Crazy.'

She didn't even have time to think about how he did it. Every element of the scene made a dramatic contrast, and it even looked like some kind of modern art.

The white outfit shimmered in the light.

The song flowed beautifully without wavering.

– On the day you finally came

Until the day you think it's pretty

Unlike the original song, which seemed to be burning, it was a singing method and accompaniment that seemed to resonate with sadness.

– Waiting

The ensemble of the orchestra resounded in the hall. It was the sound that was actually played under the stage.

With that melody, Park Moondae's body slowly descended from the air.

And the next moment.

As if nothing had happened, Park Moondae was sitting calmly in the chair.

The fabric, untied in all directions, was spread like a pattern on the floor.

Click.

The lights went off without warning, and the stage was over.

* * *

Woooow!!

The screams and exclamations that rang through the concert hall made the backstage tremble.

And the one-day staff members, who glanced at the monitoring screen while packing up their luggage, were all in deep admiration.

Looking directly at the electronic signboard screen from the front, they thought it was a performance worth paying for.

The same was true of the disgruntled part-timer who was fiddling with their smartphone.

'In real life, it looks even better… '

However, since they were watching indirectly through the monitor, the magic of the performance quickly unraveled.

'…But isn't it all because of the equipment anyway?'

All of that was done by the experts who made the stage, honestly, the singers just sang.

'Maybe it wasn't live like before.'

The part-timer tried to ignore the excitement and touched the luggage again.

Still, that person seemed to be struggling, they shouldn't say anything bad. They were a little conflicted.

Just then, they could hear a murmur farther down the aisle.

It was a background noise that they had never heard before during the performance.

"What?"

"Is there an accident?"

In the distance, they could hear a small shout, 'Hey, oxygen mask!'.

However, soon Lee Sejin's performance began, and the background noise became almost inaudible.

'Oh, boy.'

The part-timer licked their lips, listening intently to see if there was anything they could get as an anecdote.

But after a while.

People who were newly assigned to move the luggage whispered around the part-timer about the news they had picked up.

“What, he passed out because they pressed the wrong device?”

“Heol.”

“Is it Park Moondae?”

“Looking at the order, I think so? Then why would they make signals? The staff seemed to be talking about it… I eavesdropped and got kicked out.”

“What a pity.”

“…!”

The part-timer, who had been eavesdropping pretending not to listen, realized it too.

‘The guy who was on the air stage just now collapsed?!’

The part-timer knew his name because he was popular on WeTube these days.

Park Moondae, who debuted at No. 1.

To have collapsed after coming down from the stage, it was a passionate professionalism that they had heard in every good story.

‘…But what are you going to do with the rest of the performance if you collapse like that?’

Isn’t it rather thoughtless? The part-timer thought as sarcastically as possible.

But eight minutes later.

At last, it was the moment when Ryu Chungwoo’s solo song ended and the group song started again.

[Speading Midnight

The distorted focus

Shaking, worrying about the time]

The Park Moondae that was caught on the monitoring screen… was performing his part with a normal face.

"…!"

There were no signs of collapse anywhere.

And witnessing that gap somewhat directly… Something about it struck a person's heart.

'…It's amazing.'

As if their energy was released all at once, the part-timer felt relieved.

Seeing him gritting his teeth and working hard like that, their inferiority complex subsided.

"Let's go back!"

"Yes~"

Even after organizing all the spilled luggage and returning to the background, the part-timer was lost in thought for a while.

"…"

And with the noisy concert hall in the background, they took out his smartphone and wrote a post.

[A interlude review of male idol concert staff]

There are a lot of fangirls yelling sh*t, but there are no times to try

But still, the floating-in-the-air performance, he's working so f*cking hard by himself

There was a problem, so as soon as the song was over he put on an oxygen mask and collapsed, but honestly, this bastard is so determined

It was written without malice.

However, the comments were appalling.

– ㅌㅅㅌIs it a part-time job?

– Fangirl, your efforts are so touching

– Not interesting

– Even in the ’80s, they wouldn’t have done this, show your next manipulationㅋ

“These bastards…!”

The angry part-timer took a picture of their vest visible in the aisle, then they posted the proof shot triumphantly.

‘They can’t say that anymore!’

And 30 minutes later.

“Who posted this here?”

‘Gosh.’

The part-timer, who was immediately found out, was dragged away by security guards for violating confidentiality.

It wasn’t a skit.

However, apart from this happening outside, the concert went on and finally reached the mid-break time.

Right away, it was time for the talk show.

* * *

[It's Testar's second concert!]

[Thank you once again for coming to <Enchanted ME>.]

[Wow~]

Members clapped and laughed at Ryu Chungwoo's hosting.

Most of them were still sweating, gasping for breath, and drinking water due to the performance just before this, but it was also attractive in its own way.

As Lee Sejin and Park Moondae who happened to be sitting side by side were zoomed in, the office worker holding the camera thought indifferently.

'If it's already like that, you should make Lee Sejin the MC.'

She was the homma that started operating the twin fansite of those two, 'Puppy Bear'.

'Looking at the leaked set list, I heard there's no unit performance.'

It was a bummer. She wanted to film the performance of those two soon… No, she just missed them.

After making a quick estimate, the office worker still felt good.

'The number of followers is different.'

The number of followers exceeded the fan account of a male idol from a small agency she originally operated for within six weeks.

Thanks to that, she closed her old account and moved on without looking further.

‘It’s for this taste.’

After all, it was right to catch popular guys, and the office worker thought calculatingly.

‘In particular, Lee Sejin is the type to have a long run.’

Just in time, the person in question opened his mouth.

[Ah! While watching today’s concert… Ah! Our area is so alienated! I didn’t even make eye contact! Is there anyone who did?]

Me! Me!!

Here!

A booming sound echoed through the concert hall.

Lee Sejin smiled and picked up the points with his finger, asking back, “Here? Here?” wherever he heard the sound.

Park Moondae suggested with a slight smile.

[Then, shall we start with a greeting first?]

[Ah, that’s a great idea~ Stand up!]

[Hello!]

[Let’s have fun.]

Testar got up and went around the end of the stage, greeting up and down.

Laughter and cheers warmed up the hall.

The office worker relentlessly followed them with her camera and licked her lips.

‘I wish you could show off your abs.’

Even if he only showed it for a moment, she was confident she could capture it neatly.

Unfortunately, that didn’t happen, but the talk continued naturally.

[Did you enjoy the performance?]

“Yes!”

The office worker responded reflexively along with people shouting from all sides, and she got a little embarrassed.

But she couldn’t help it.

‘It was really fun.’

Even compared to the first concert, the device was more spectacular and there were many configurations that showed off their individual capabilities, so it was nice to get into it more.

In particular, the solo stage leading to Park Moondae–Lee Sejin was very good.

When Lee Sejin’s splendid and active stage was put after Park Moondae’s extremely static and artistic stage, her satisfaction doubled.

‘It’s not because I’m their homma, but objectively, those two did the best performance…!’

The office worker calmly fangirled.

[Ah, I worked hard on preparing it, so I’m really glad!]

[Thank you.]

[Actually, we've prepared an improvised performance!]

Huh?

There was a murmur here and there.

'Please don't screw around.'

Having seen several idol concerts that became solemn when doing things like 'improvised stage', the office worker clenched her teeth.

But the members continued to talk excitedly.

[Before that, everyone, there will be a sentence on the electronic display! If it's YES, can you turn on the light stick, and if it's NO, can you turn it off?]

[Shall we try it? Now, turn it off!]

Some audience were puzzled, but in an instant, the hall suddenly became dark.

[Wow, this is scary??]

[There are over 20,000 people in the audience, so I thought it would definitely have a big impact.]

[That's true.]

[Actually, I'm scared, too, so can you turn it back on quickly?… Haha, thank you, thank you!]

The explanation that followed was simple.

After hearing an explanation about a member, if you think it would be right, turn it on, and if you think it would be wrong, turn off the light.

[Okay, here's the question… Oh, 'Seon Ahyeon likes dogs more than cats!' What do you think?]

Twinkle twinkle.

Most of the lightsticks didn't turn off and swayed.

[Oh! There's no need to use central control! Everyone said YES!]

When Lee Sejin made a fuss, Ryu Chungwoo smiled and announced the correct answer.

[The answer is… YES, it's true!]

[No, how can you guess it so well, everyone!]

Seon Ahyeon nodded shyly. The members clapped and laughter and cheers rang out from the audience.

In the same way, questions about each of the seven members continued. Audiences succeeded in more than half of them, but of course, they also got it wrong.

[Oh, dear. All three are emoticons that Raebin uses in the group message room, it's true! Everyone, Raebin is such a mature friend.]

[I'm good at swimming! Loviewer, do you perhaps think Lee Sejin can't swim?]

As the laughter continued, it came to the last turn.

It was Park Moondae.

Park Moondae was rather quiet throughout the talk, but when he was given the timing, he read the message on the electronic display in a soft voice.

[Hmm, 'The largest amount of dishes Park Moondae has ever cooked is for 7 people.' What do you think?]

Twinkle.

Quite a few lightsticks were turned off, but the majority of them had turned the lights on.

'Since there are seven members, there's a high possibility that it's seven servings.'

The office worker also turned it on.

[The answer is… Ah! It's NO.]

Heol.

After the members commented one by one, saying that it was such a pity, Park Moondae took the microphone again.

[It doesn't end with one serving each, I usually made enough for 12 people.]

Ah~

The audience was quickly convinced.

'This is our fault.'

'It didn't cross my mind.'

After that half-playful understanding, the question and answer were finally over.

[Now, then… The members you didn't guess right are Kim Raebin, Lee Sejin, and Park Moondae!]

[Nice combination!]

When Lee Sejin self-destructed, the members laughed.

[These members will get a punishment now!]

“…??”

“Punishment?!”

She thought they were just filling the time for the talk show before the stage, but it seemed they had prepared more.

[Yes, everyone. Please wait a moment~]

At the same time as the members stood up, the stage equipment moved and huge boxes began to enter from the right and left.

[See you later~]

And the members who were guessed correctly by the audience ran to the right, and the three members who weren’t guessed correctly ran to the left.

The box on the right had a nice castle printed on it.

And on the left… It had a picture of a tissue box with a doll on it.

“…??”

Around the time when the audience was bursting into laughter at the unexpected momentum, the accompaniment suddenly began to play out.

It was an ominously fresh and lively intro.

Chapter 185

Not long after, the door to one of the boxes on the side of the stage opened.

[TA-DA!]

It was the box on the right with the winners of the audience mini-game.

When Cha Eugene excitedly ran out of the box first, the other members followed with a laugh.

They were wearing something like red uniforms, which looked like the doll uniforms from The Nutcracker.

They were cute.

“Uoooh!”

The moment people cheered for the costume, the accompaniment included a melody.

‘Oh, this!’

‘Ah~’

Many audiences recognized the identity of the song. It was a famous children’s song that dominated the 2000s.

However, it had a stylistic refreshing band arrangement, which was perfect for an idol concert.

It was a little too cheerful, though.

The winning members jumped onto the stage, waved their hands here and there, and then stood up in a proper formation and began to perform on the stage.

It was a perfect movement.

– My friend is really really cute

I have no words

my heart is warm

It seemed they were watching the prompter, but the winning team sang the song very well by dividing it into parts while holding back laughter as the song was recited a few times.

There was no particular change, but with this level of quality, it was hard to say that the team was made on the spot.

‘So cute.’

In order to exchange data with Lee Sejin or Park Moondae from a different angle, the office worker set aside the data with great care.

‘I have to film Cha Eugene no matter what.’

The one with the highest unit price.

At the extremely eventful stage, the fans waved lightsticks and hummed along to the song, immersed in cuteness without much pressure.

The first verse ended in such a warm atmosphere.

[Thank you!]

[Thank you.]

When the bridge began to appear, the winning team finished the stage with a bow.

Cute!

Cheers and laughter spread throughout the audience.

And inside, a strong sense of foreboding flashed insidiously.

'If this is what the winners do… Are the losers going to do something worse?'

'It's sexy.'

'The answer is the costume.'

'Fairy wings.'

In the midst of all sorts of self-interest, the winning team ran excitedly down the stage.

And at that moment.

Jijijijijijiing-!!!

Suddenly, an electric guitar sound pierced through the interlude.

"…??"

Strange exclamations like 'Huh?' mixed with laughter came out here and there.

'What??'

In an atmosphere of bewilderment, before long, the refreshing interlude was smoothly replaced by a heavy metal sound.

[Argh!]

Then, the tissue box was torn apart and the people who got punishment came out.

"…!!!"

"Oooh!"

They weren't wearing uniforms like the winners.

They were wearing stuffed animal suits with only their face shown and it was too big for their body size.

They were the ones rising from the tissue box.

The form of the animal suit waddling out was openly cute, but the animal suit only had gangster attire.

That meant it matched well with the accompaniment.

"Huuuh??"

While the concert hall was in chaos for a moment.

The three members hit the center of the stage with rock and roll gestures.

Lee Sejin, whose head tilted for a moment because of the wobbly body of the doll, stood up straight after receiving rough pushes from both sides.

'You get it…!'

The office worker captured the cut like a knife.

Lee Sejin, who was struggling, watched his gap while dancing, then picked up a hand microphone with a hot pose at the right time.

And the high note exploded.

-My friend is!

really really sweet~

Their hands are small

Their heart is big!

However, his voice was altered.

A chirping voice rang through the speaker as if he had inhaled helium gas.

That's why, it got higher.

"No!"

The noise of the bustling audience mixed into the modulated sound.

Park Moondae then struggled to raise the hand microphone with the foreleg of the thick doll suit.

– I like friends~

We are best friends~

Along with a capitalist smile, a flashy autotune surrounded the audience.

"Uahahaha!!"

The fans were now laughing.

It was the same for the office worker. She even saw the person next to her hit the lightstick to avoid hitting everywhere.

'Crazy.'

Nothing could be this radical.

‘Crazy!!’

It was so unnecessarily great that it was so funny.

And, of course, it was cute.

– Dear friend, dear friend

You’re my best friend

I love you, my friend

Give me a big hug

A low-pitched voice that sounded as if cursing came from Kim Raebin’s rabbit suit.

And instead of hugging each other, they sit back to back.

Thanks to this, they couldn’t control the lump of cotton and all three of them almost fell, and they got up again grabbing each other and pushing each other.

‘Oh, my God.’

Watching the guys singing the chorus dance naturally, the office worker who ran the twin fansite felt it.

‘This is… This is definitely going to pop off!’

This gag, this impact.

The future where they would appear in real-time trends and popular articles was already looking good.

[Testar crazy people ㅋㅋㅋ]

[Live crazy Testar concert.jpg]

‘I have to do a preview right now and upload a short video on the way home!’

The office worker made the data passionately. And on the stage, the three guys on the losing team were also performing passionately.

The skull-patterned robe and black jumper worn by the stuffed animal suit were generously taken off and thrown to the audience.

By the way, it was disposable, made of paper.

Only its form looked like the actual thing.

“You must be crazy, seriously!”

“Here!!”

Fans cried and cheered, almost laughing. There was no other rock star attitude like this.

– Yeah~ Best friend!!

The performance of the children’s song in the heavy metal version ended with them hotly kneeling down.

Looking at the three stuffed animal boys pretending to be cool and waddling out in the midst of ripping laughter and cheers, the office worker cried out,

‘I’m going to upload it as soon as it’s over!’

She could already see the followers’ content!

And unlike the office worker who was busily picking out photos from the camera and making the previews during the interlude, the heart of another homma sitting near her was a mess.

‘I’m going crazy.’

It was Park Moondae’s first homma.

She looked at the stage where Park Moondae had already left, looking as if she had been riding a roller coaster ten times.

In fact, the homma had been in this state ever since she watched Park Moondae’s solo performance.

‘Moondae, this is… Sigh.’

Lying in the air and singing while floating?

With this stage, she could understand why he injured his wrist and his back.

So it was a problem.

‘It hasn’t been long since you got better, but you really did that…!’

The fact that he really did it without revising it made people feel nervous.

And there was a bigger problem.

‘…It was great.’

The solo stage was really, creepily good.

Despite all the homma’s worries and premonitions.

‘I think it will be difficult to publicize due to artist’s protection… ’

There were so many people who like that stage, so it seemed the topic of ‘If Moondae is fine with it, shouldn’t it be fine?’ would go trending.

Right now, he did it himself.

‘The fact that you’re so good at it is a problem.’

The homma mechanically filmed the VCR opposite her with a nervous face.

In fact, she felt the same sentiment for the heavy metal children’s song he did earlier.

When she saw the kid who had just recovered was singing a group song breathlessly and running around in that heavy doll suit, she thought about all kinds of things.

But at the same time, it was inevitable that she felt pleased and proud and thought it was cute.

Still, the homma had no choice but to cry inwardly.

‘Park Moondae, you’re fine, right? I don’t have to bang my head after the behind-the-scenes footage comes out, right?’

Park Moondae of the VCR turned around with a smile.

* * *

“Ugh.”

“Moondae-ssi!”

“Are you okay?”

I was fine. I just overworked my cochlea because I was walking around in an animal doll suit.

‘It must have looked funny.’

Good. Actually, I thought it was funny too.

“I am fine. Just give me one glucose.”

“Here!”

The staff busily handed over the capsule.

It was salt glucose.

I removed the packaging and swallowed the pill with water. Immediately, a make-up artist came and wiped off the sweat and moisture.

‘Two and a half minutes from now.’

It was time to catch my breath and go out. I took off all the crap lumps of cotton.

Just in time, Keun Sejin was about to take off his doll suit and throw it away.

“Take a breath.”

“I am fine.”

My shortness of breath had long gone. I clicked my tongue.

‘How could they press it like that?’

What I prepared for the solo stage was a wire device that got me floating while lying in the air.

.

I looked like I was floating thanks to the fabric, but even if the fabric was completely unraveled, I was still floating, which was even more surprising…

I was aiming for something like that, and it seemed to work well.

In fact, even if it was a wire device, there was no great burden on the body because safety equipment was widely attached around the waist below the costume.

As long as it was properly installed.

‘It went wrong.’

It was fine during rehearsal, but maybe there was a mistake because they were busy when I used it, or perhaps something went wrong during the maintenance.

It kept pressing down on my left lung.

Fortunately, it didn’t put pressure on my broken rib, so I could finish it properly without any major difficulties other than the lack of oxygen.

I also came down and put on an oxygen mask, so I recovered quickly.

‘Even if there’s no accident, I use an oxygen mask whenever I can.’

In fact, except for Ryu Chungwoo and Seon Ahyeon, everyone used it. Even those two had used it once or twice.

However, an accident was still an accident, so it seemed the others were nervous.

Right now, Seon Ahyeon swallowed and asked.

“I-Is there any pain…”

“Nothing in particular. My physical strength is fine, too.”

I was in good shape because I just kept playing, eating, and practicing.

‘The wrist… well, I rarely use my wrist anyway.’

This much could be managed after the Seoul concert. I shrugged my shoulders.

“Let’s go. We can’t be late. We have to be on standby.”

“Y-Yeah…”

“…”

Ryu Chungwoo, who was watching from next to us, interrupted.

“Moondae. Can we talk again after the concert?”

“Yes, that woud be great.”

I wanted to have a deep conversation about the thought of changing the person in charge of the device.

And the other guys added one by one.

“…Your body, just tell me if it gets worse.”

“Health is the most important thing.”

“Okay. Okay.”

I could rest better if they didn’t talk, but I accepted it in moderation because I was somewhat grateful and I wasn’t a sociopath.

“Move!”

After a rather long VCR, we had to go up to the concert hall again.

Wooow-

Cheers.

And the purple lights that filled the concert hall.

‘It reminds me of the first concert.’

It was understandable. Because it was built that way on purpose.

Listening to the clear percussion through my in-ear, I sang the first part.

– I will meet you tomorrow

I think about it all day long

It was our debut song, ‘Magical Boy’.

– Dream as blue as daytime

At that moment, small shining things from the audience seats began to fly into the air in the wind.

“…!”

Those were soap bubbles.

Numerous round surfaces shimmered in all sorts of colors in the purple light.

“…”

These many people were shooting soap bubbles side by side.

Just like when the first concert started.

Because we remembered that scene together.

[Loviewer will show it to you today!]

A slogan was caught on the electronic display. A familiar phrase was altered.

‘It’s fun.’

I laughed.

'…It's nice.'

My brain seemed to disappear because of the adrenaline.

I felt like I had taken some kind of drugs.

The time of the remaining concert passed quickly, as if it had melted away.

* * *

Thus, the first day of the concert ended successfully.

I also heard that there were favorable reviews here and there. Of course, if you went to watch the concert, you must have liked Testar… Still, it was quite rewarding.

'Good.'

However, not everything went as expected.

"Why don't you reconsider it?"

"…?"

This was because the members, company, and fans each dragged a variable one by one.

It was driving me crazy.

Chapter 186

I crossed my arms.

“So… You’re saying that it would be better to revise my solo stage.”

“Yes.”

Ryu Chungwoo nodded with a firm face.

I ordered a special meal at the dorm to celebrate having successfully completed the first day of the concert, but I didn’t know I would hear such words.

‘Is this what he meant when he said we would talk later?’

I have to cut down the person in charge of the device, why should I give up on the performance?

It was my solo stage, so it’s not like I was hurting anyone else, but it was funny to hear people telling me what to do.

I answered bitterly.

“We can just find the person who made the mistake, change them, and keep going. I’ve never felt any particular pressure on that stage.”

“You don’t feel the pressure, but you can feel it in your wrist or waist.”

I held back my sigh.

“…It’s all right. I wouldn’t have done it if I couldn’t stand it in the first place.”

Keun Sejin asked me a question.

Yes, not only Ryu Chungwoo, but the other guys were also listening intently as if we were having a meeting.

“Park Moondae. It’s been more than 3 months since our tour schedule was immediately set. The number of performances is 12, excluding Seoul.”

I know that.

“Can you do it 12 times? Can you do it every time at a new concert hall without making a single mistake?”

“That’s why, it’s fine to make a mistake…”

“I-It’s not fine.”

“…!”

…It was Seon Ahyeon.

“Moondae, you passed out… I-If you do something wrong, you’ll be in big trouble. Y-Your wrist still hurts…”

“…”

My head was pounding. I rubbed my shoulder.

“…I have time until we go abroad anyway. I can fully recover if I rest.”

“Moondae.”

Ryu Chungwoo shook his head.

“Are you a doctor?”

"…!"

"Whatever injury it is… I can't guarantee that there will be no side effects from the moment the bone is injured."

Ryu Chungwoo smiled bitterly.

"I guarantee you."

"…"

This bastard was using a cheat key.

I kept my mouth shut at the words of the former national team member who retired before he got into his prime time due to the aftereffects of injury.

Of course, my silence was not a declaration of surrender.

'Should I set up the mood first?'

As long as sensitive keywords such as 'injury' were included, persuading them only with logic was not a good match.

'Either way, to put it mildly… I can use the characteristic 'Now that I heard it, it's true'.'

The probability was more than half.

I came up with a suitable structure.

And I said hesitantly.

To appeal in this way.

"But… I've practiced for a long time to show you this."

"…That."

“I thought a lot about the idea and created it. And when I actually tried it, the response was really good…”

I finished my speech with a serious tone.

“It’s such a waste to quit after just one day. I want to do as far as I can. If the recovery from the injury is too slow, I’ll ask for understanding and change it later.”

Ryu Chungwoo’s face darkened slightly.

‘Is it over?’

However, Keun Sejin intervened with a ridiculed face.

“You’ve been on the device for less than 2 weeks, what do you mean you’ve practiced for a long time?”

This bastard.

“…I mean, I’ve thought about it for a long time.”

“Ah, really? You picked this to make an excuse for your injury, right?”

“…!”

“The excuse should have worked in one day, so let’s go for an alternative now. You can refrain from it and later recover completely. We will continue to have concerts in the future.”

Keun Sejin continued to speak with a serious look.

“Look at it from the long-term perspective. Are you going to retire after this tour?”

“…!”

“You’re not.”

That… I don't know.

I might not be able to continue.

Then, I realized as if I had been hit in the head.

'Did I care about this?'

If all the status abnormalities were over with this tour, I didn't know if I would continue to stay as Park Moondae.

'So this time, I really wanted to do it while I could…?'

It was too sentimental… I wasn't a kid.

I erased the sentence that crossed my mind at the moment and thought of a nuance that made more sense.

'Yeah. I guess I want to do well while I am still doing it.'

The stage was more fun than I thought, and it was a rewarding work. In addition, the pay was good, so there was no area to blame.

In the state of being immersed in that sense, there was no long-term certainty, so my standards might have gotten a bit blurred.

While I was lost in thought for a while, Keun Sejin spoke as if driving a wedge.

"Rather than hindering your performance with side effects of the injury, just recover now."

"…"

Yeah, f*ck.

He was right.

‘I don’t feel like it’s not my body that I use’

Maybe, I could continue to live as Park Moondae.

I sighed.

“All right.”

“…!”

“I already have an alternative, so I’ll look at the condition tomorrow morning and think about it again.”

Bae Sejin, who had been listening quietly, suddenly shouted.

“D-Don’t look at it by yourself! Go to the hospital!”

“…Um, yes.”

It was my solo stage anyway, so I could ignore them and push ahead, but let’s accept it this time.

“Well thought out.”

“Make sure you go to the hospital with the manager tomorrow.”

“You should.”

‘It would be funny if the doctor said I am fine.’

I drew an unanswerable hopeful prediction and postponed the decision until tomorrow morning.

By the way, it was a meaningless move.

Because an argument broke out between those who had concert tickets at dawn that day.

A pretty big one, too.

* * *

The atmosphere was great until the first concert was just over.

– Guys, I love you forever, Testar

– I can't wrap my head around it. Why was I not at that concert? ㅠㅠ I should have found a seat in the middle, I am an idiot ㅠㅠ

– I really love all the performances. The capital they poured is overflowing, but the performance is more memorable than that. I'm going to post a detailed review after I get home

– Moon Puppy, my sweet apple rice cake crybaby king renewed again ㅠㅠ (photo)

– It's hard to type because I am crying and screaming so much, but having my seat on the weekend is the best moment of my life

There were very few lamentations that were posted only under the surface and very few ambiguous responses of regret. It was just a wave of delight.

In addition, as the twin homma had expected, Testar's improvised talk stage became a hot topic even for non-fans.

As soon as the concert was over, videos of the stage taken with smartphones were uploaded to WeTube.

– Ack ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I laughed so much that I would have cried if I had seen it on set

– It's so funny that they were throwing their shirt off. Are they crazy ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– In front of the handsome kids, happily watching a children's song????Yes

– No, was Kim Raebin always been like that?ㅋㅋㅋ I can't even imagine, it's so funny

– The fact that what came out was a ripped tissue box is also funny

The company even got on the trend by quickly leaving a slightly witty post on SNS.

All combinations of our Testar are precious☆

All the improvised performances from the ＜Enchanted ME＞ tour will be included as a special feature in the VOD package.

Fans sent doubtful glances saying 'T-One works quickly?', but they were relieved that they were able to collect all of the improvised stages officially.

– It was good to continue with the solo songs, I got goosebumps when all the members came out after Chungwoo ㅠㅠ

– Ahyeon seemed to be in good condition. He was flying around. During the encore, he greeted everyone… But I hope Ahyeon will get the punishment tomorrow. Loviewers, please get it wrong. (Photo of Seon Ahyeon's greeting)

– Cha Eugene's dance break, you really have to see it with your own eyes at least once in your life

It was a night filled with detailed reviews and posts about looking forward to tomorrow's concert from the audience who had returned home.

Of course, there were countless articles about Park Moondae.

– Park Moondae is an angel. I realized it today

– I wondered if it would be okay to spend money to watch it, but

Moon Puppy is a genius performer of the century

– The moment he floated in the air and the moment the fabric was unraveled, the timing and color were exactly like Moondae's taste, so I thought that Moondae was definitely involved in the planning. He wanted to show it even if he was hurt, I thought a lot about it and on the way back so much I shed tears. I became the girl who cried on the bus

– Honestly, I was worried that he might get hurt, but he did a really good job. I'm glad that our puppy recovered quickly but don't overdo itㅠㅠ

The exquisite shots of Park Moondae, who took the moment of rising in the air with grace, filled the SNS and were shared in all kinds of angles and versions.

There were occasional concerns about injuries, but because the stage was so good and Park Moondae was calm, the majority of people liked it, saying, 'He must have recovered quickly'.

It was also more convenient for those who believed they could see that stage in person next time.

But the moment this public opinion was about to pass by.

One post was discovered.

[Interlude review of a male idol concert staff]

It was the part-timer's review post that testified about the collapse of an idol who performed 'the stage of going up in the air by himself'.

It had been deleted fairly quickly, but it even came out with a verified photo, so of course, there were people who screenshotted it thinking that it was real.

And if you matched the situation, of course, Park Moondae was brought up.

– Did he pass out wearing an oxygen mask?

– My heart is about to drop

– I am going crazy, Moondae really would have done that – So humiliating. So humiliating. Those bastard really lost their mind. I'll trust this and burn the shared posts ㅋㅋ

– Everyone uses oxygen masks at idol concerts. Why is this one special? He said he'll work hard, just enjoy it. Why pay money and go crazy?

– It must have been really painful if the injury hadn't recovered, but he even collapsed. What should I do, seriously…

– It's just an aggro, why are you guys agreeing?

– There's nothing official about it, so I hope you all calm down… Are you doing this on purpose, or are you keeping Gommeo's solo genius performance in check?

All sorts of opinions swirled around and the fans were shaken.

People who were already worried about the side effects of the injury were heartbroken, but because it was just a single unofficial article, various opinions came out.

And this situation deepened over time.

– I sympathized

– There's a concert today right now, what if he does it again and the injury gets worse? I really can't stand it

– Let's not go ahead ourselves. Do you want to be ridiculed by the muggles again?

– I think it's better to check if it's true

– Let the sleeping dogs lie… What would you do if he's doing well? Is leaving the fandom the only answer?

The move to put pressure on the agency and the opinions of skeptics intersected, and it turned into a mess.

They were on the verge of splitting up.

And Park Moondae woke up in the morning and confirmed this.

"…"

He was puzzled.

'Can I solve this?'

He grumbled, saying, 'It seems serious when they describe it as pass out, but in reality, it was just a momentary haze'.

However, when it came to this point, Park Moondae had no choice but to admit it.

Because he didn't want to worry the audience who was concerned about his health while watching the stage.

* * *

I admitted it over breakfast.

"…I should quit."

"Y-Yes!"

"Well thought out."

I calmly added to the members who responded.

"Yeah. But only after we're done in Seoul."

"…??"

To put it bluntly, all gazes were pouring out to me, asking what kind of nonsense it was.

It didn't matter. I said it firmly.

"I came up with a good way to explain it to the audience. This is the best."

"Moondae."

"I won't do it until I get better when we're done in Seoul."

It was funny that I persuaded them to do my own stage, but anyway, these guys reluctantly agreed.

'Seriously.'

I contacted the company right away.

And before the concert on the second day.

A notice was posted through the company.

[Hello, we're T1 Stars]

During Testar's <Enchanted ME> concert last Friday, a stage equipment error occurred during the performance of the song 'The Last Flower'.

Considering the risk of reinstalling, the performance of the song will be revised after consulting with the artist.

However, according to the artist's wishes, this concert in Seoul will be held safely with the presence of experts without any changes.

……

After that, there was a lengthened content about ‘Park Moondae is fine’.

To sum it up, ‘Park Moondae is fine, but because there was a device error, we’ll remove it from now on’.

The agency must have been quite conscious of the fans’ attack, and they agreed to disclose the error of the device since the story was already going around anyway.

They would get criticized a little, but if I had to revise the performance anyway, it would be better to focus on ‘prevention’ rather than highlighting my injury.

‘Either way, it’s another device error, they’ll get criticized for their poor handling.’

It was none of my business. Anyway, the person in charge had been changed to someone more professional, so there wouldn’t be any accidents anymore.

The problem was what I heard from the company afterward.

– The camera is going to come in, but you’ll only see them briefly, so you don’t have to worry about editing…

The participants in season 4 of <Idol Inc.> would come to see Testar’s concert.

Of course, it was for broadcast content. Probably, they were planning to include a few cuts of ‘participants who reaffirm their dreams after watching a successful Testar concert’ in the final that would air soon.

After debuting, they would come to this agency anyway, so it was like tasting the water.

‘Hmm, the company is digging their own graves.’

In fact, if they simply attended the concert, it was too ambiguous for the members to refuse.

‘It’s not funny if we ask them to take away the invitations that the company has already given out.’

Tnet’s feelings would also get hurt.

I was a bit worried.

But right after that, I realized that I didn’t have to spend my energy.

It was none of my business.

‘If the company really wants to see the sea of fire… ’

Then, just let them be.

I shrugged.

Chapter 187

“Wow, that sucks.”

A little past midnight, Kim Raebin’s solo fan was engrossed in the Internet while eating bread.

Testar’s Saturday concert, a mid-day concert that she attended just before midnight, ended as successfully as the first day.

– The kids commented that they liked it more because they had time to spare, and they even laughed during the encore, they were just 100% happy

– Today’s penalty group: Seon Ahyeon, Cha Eugene, Bae Sejin, and Kim Raebin ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Loviewers are trying so hard to get the quiz wrong. Isn’t that too much?

– No, If they’re doing well, they have to get the punishment tomorrow

– Kim Raebin’s rabbit ears 3 times in a row (photo)

Needless to say, public opinion about the quality and the entertainment was still good.

In other words, the complaints of the day came from other factors.

The first, of course, was due to the company’s announcement about Park Moondae’s stage equipment.

Instead of apologizing, the statement focused on future measures.

If it was a company dealing with consumers of industrial products, that method might have worked, but of course, it didn't work in the entertainment business.

– Have you gone crazy?

– So, it was true that the kid passed out, you f*cking bastards

– It's been a while since I saw a post full of avoiding responsibility, every end of the statement is about the artist~The artist's will~ ㅋㅋㅋ Have you lost it?

– I can't believe he was going to do it all the way to Seoul with a device error. Park Moondae is amazing. I'm already looking forward to the last concert – In the end, it wasn't because of Gommeo's injury, it was because the agency was bad at their jobㅋ T-one, just reinforce the device so that he can do whatever he wants

– I can't believe that the agency hired an expert only just now. What have you been doing?ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– So after making the kid pass out, you're saying you'll make him do it at the Seoul concert because it's a waste of equipment? Wow

From people who felt like sending trucks and bamboo spears to the agency building without hesitation, to people who were relieved to be able to see the stage in person.

Just like when the rumor first spread, there were various reactions, but this time, they clearly had one thing in common.

Either way, the evaluation of the agency had fallen below the bottom.

Whether it was a concern for Park Moondae or contempt for the agency's incompetence and shamelessness, they all converged into one and created a sharp atmosphere.

– I thought they had money, but I guess they didn't have money to spend on the safety of their singers

– T1, go die. Please die

– Just give the company to Moondae

And when it reached this point, people who were cynical began to form an atmosphere of 'The agency admits their defeat'.

– Honestly, the muggles completely agree, right?

– Practice injury, real-life accidents, controversy announcements, and strikeouts. It's a small agency wearing the mask of T-one company

– It's better to dig properly now than to check one by one next time

Kim Raebin's fan was also like this. However, she had a little bit of stereotypes.

'The agency is beaten, they're supposed to listen.'

Anyway, all that public opinion flowed in one direction, and it was about to explode into a public debate as soon as the concert was over.

The only reason they were waiting was to avoid harming Park Moondae and to avoid disputes with other members' solo fans.

The atmosphere was so intense that even Park Moondae's fans who just wanted to enjoy the concert leisurely felt uncomfortable.

And in that fire, the second concert began.

"And it all ended."

Kim Raebin's fan murmured jaggedly.

As soon as the concert started and ended on the second day, the brutal atmosphere visibly faded.

There was only one reason for this.

…Park Moondae at the concert looked relaxed and happy.

Of course, while being incredibly enthusiastic on stage.

– Even if you watch it in low resolution, Moondae's face looks good…

– Moon Puppy getting a slogan at the encore (photo)

– Moodae is so excited. There's no Tibet. It's just the puppyㅠㅠ

– Park Moondae, side by side and choked upㅠㅠ Our apple rice cake is so juicyㅠㅠ (photo)

His solo stage was even more powerful than the first day.

Even the fans, who had been watching nervously before the stage, were loosened by the ease and momentum around the middle.

– Crazycrazy Park Moodae crazy

– The visualization of the best idol

After creating a good stage, seeing idols who were happy to see them face to face had the effect of making them sympathize.

They felt like they had shared a perfect successful moment.

The happiness transmitted from the party concerned slightly cooled down their heated minds.

So Park Moondae's fans began to refine the level of feedback they would send to the company.

From burning them at the stake to criticizing them.

– I am the leader of <Park Moondae Space>. The statement to the agency is being written based on anonymous voting, with an emphasis on safety. (draft attachment)

– You'll see how far the boycott will go if another incident occurs in the future.

– If there are signs of something similar will happen, I will boycott T1, even their jinppang[1]Tl notes: Jinppang = fluffy steamed buns filled with red bean paste. too

T1 Star, who was monitoring while biting their nails, breathed a sigh of relief and was preparing to react to the feedback in advance.

'Ugh.'

Kim Raebin's fan, who was searching for all kinds of keywords related to 'Park Moondae injury' and 'Park Moondae accident', sneered at the fading atmosphere.

'Ah, whether Park Moondae enjoyed this concert or not, the agency has to lose~ Why are you trusting yourself to Park Moondae??'

She grumbled that she should have squeezed the agency at this opportunity, but deep down, she was also relieved.

FullMoon Baby

: XX1207 "Magic is You" Preview

(photo) (photo) (photo) (photo)

I love you, my star

#ParkMoondae #TeSTAR #Testarcon #Enchanted-ME #MoonPuppy #Moondae

'…Well, he did look happy.'

The college student's expression faded as she watched Park Moondae's sweaty face singing a fan song during the encore. She felt like her fighting power was shrinking faster with the low-definition photos.

However, she changed her attitude shortly after.

‘No, since he looked happy, isn’t it right to think that we should beat the ones who almost made him unhappy?’

The college student, who was huffing and puffing, updated her timeline vigorously with the thought of checking once more to see if anyone had similar thoughts.

And suddenly, she checked a post.

– I thought it was for VOD because there were many cameras in the best seat in front of the extended stage ㅋㅋ It’s Idol Inc 4 shooting, wow… (photo)

“…!!”

The attached photo showed a camera clearly marked with the logo of <Idol Inc.> season 4.

The real complaints of the day, the news of <Idol Inc.> season 4 participants watching the concert, began to be shared as a popular post.

Not only in fans’ SNS, but it had also begun to appear all over the community.

[Idol Inc 4 finalists were witnessed at Testar concert today.jpg]

[Testar concert will come out in Idol Inc 4?]

“What?”

As a finishing touch, the <Idol Inc.>’s production team, who was delighted to call this ‘going viral’, attracted the aggro as always.

[<Idol Inc. re-listed! Season 2> Stock Idol Testar cheers for the finalists ☆ Bling bling concert is a bonus! (EP.14 preview)]

At dawn on the very same day, this video was released as a final trailer.

* * *

I took a sip of cold beer.

I had a concert tomorrow too, so I had no intention of drinking too much, and it just was to relax.

'It ends up like this.'

After the concert. The public opinion, which I confirmed while lying in the bathtub of the dorm, was running out of control.

'First of all, the announcement was fine.'

It didn't specify the side effects of the injury, but only revealed the device's failure.

I pushed ahead with the stage until the Seoul concert.

It was to seal up the pointless differences of opinion among the concert audience.

Whether it was the people who cared whether 'Park Moondae had recovered' or worried about 'being able to watch the stage of production', both should be satisfied.

'So that the debate wouldn't become a controversy.'

As I had expected, the topic subsided.

And to prevent further gossip, I tried to show myself at the concert looking as stable as possible.

…However, I didn't know that there would be so many people who good-naturedly cared about my mood.

How could Park Moondae looking so happy had such an impact?

"…Hmm."

I was a little embarrassed, but… It wasn't bad. Thanks to that, it seemed I had gone overboard with today's concert.

'I have Bacchus 500, so I will be fine.'

According to my calculations, I should recover well by tomorrow.

It went in a slightly different direction than I had expected, but I was able to settle it down within the expected range by slowing down the criticism that would pour down on the agency.

'Now, even if a bomb explodes as the final trigger, the company's resentment will not come directly to me.'

I was not the ultimate cause.

'Because they got ruined by <Idol Inc.> season 4, the agency must be blaming Tnet.'

And in fact, the bomb was already exploding.

"Hmm."

I put on the screen the trailer for the final episode of <Idol Inc.> that Tnet just uploaded.

[Hello, we're Testar!]

Familiar people in concert outfits bowed with a smile.

We didn't bother to refuse the final cheering interview for <Idol Inc.>. If they were going to perish, might as well perish splendidly.

'Still, at least they didn't take a face-to-face cut with the participants, as if trying to keep the line.'

Thanks to that, none of the members had to worry, and after the concert, even in an exhausted state, they smiled and filmed words of encouragement and support.

But I didn't expect them to edit it hastily and hit us with a final preview right at midnight.

'Normally, it would've been taken as a hot topic even if they got cursed at. Too bad.'

The timing was not good.

Because of my case, even among the fans of the other members, the image of the agency was at its lowest point.

'It's perfect to get cursed at by tying it up with the agency.'

It wasn't a situation where they could just rub it in and move on with words like, 'It must have come out to promote the concert tour'.

At the bottom of the video which had more 'dislikes' than 'likes', all sorts of comments were lining up.

– Wow! 30 seats in the center in front of the console!^^

– I'm sick of it. Idol Inc, stop crossing the line

– I don't have a seat yet, but a program that was cut down in the past crawled into the concertㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅋㅋㅋI was joking about boycotting the jinppang, but I guess I am going to do it for realㅠㅠ

And thanks to Testar's fans getting angry with the agency, <Idol Inc> season 4 participants got less swearing than they normally would.

Because they also added the complaints to the company.

– They are being held hostage by this garbage program and suffering again. Let's all get out of here

– Do you send people who haven't even debuted yet to a male idol concert to get a picture of them cheering? Oh, you're getting caught, you're giving cheers to the kids you want to send away ㅋㅋ It's obvious

– Just show one more cut of the participants. Who would want to see a male idol when every single scene is a waste?

<Idol Inc.> Season 4 fans who didn't want to be attacked began to attack T1 and Tnet together.

It was a strategic choice because they didn't want to look bad since the weight class didn't match, and it was clear that they would continue to be involved in the future.

Of course, there must have been enough anger accumulated on Tnet while watching <Idol Inc.>.

I clicked my tongue.

'…There must have been an uproar after calling so early in the morning.'

It was obvious.

I sympathized a little with the regular staff of the company, but then I stopped when I realized I wasn't in a situation to care about others

'Still, as long as this tour goes well, I can easily fulfill the status abnormality.'

And when that happened, I…

"…Park Moondae! Are you there?"

"…!"

Someone calling me from outside the bathroom door could be heard dully through the steam.

“Um, yes.”

…I must have been sitting here too long. I got up from the lukewarm water.

Then, after roughly wiping off the water, I put on my clothes, took the empty beer can, and walked out of the door.

The one standing outside was Bae Sejin.

‘Are you in a hurry to go to the bathroom… ’

I deliberately waited for the others to sleep, but it seemed the other bathrooms were already being used by someone else.

I tried to pass him by with a nod and go to the trash can.

But I was caught by my shoulder.

“Y-You.”

“Yes?”

What.

Bae Sejin gulped and glanced at one side and said.

At the empty beer can in my hand.

“Aren’t you drinking too much…?”

What are you saying?

- 1. Tl notes: Jinppang = fluffy steamed buns filled with red bean paste.

Chapter 188

‘Drink too much’, he said.

I looked at Bae Sejin with ridiculed eyes.

“I just took one can.”

I never drank too much when I drank alone.

I was not an idiot, and I had a schedule every day, so there was no way I would drink too much. Moreover, tomorrow was the last day of the concert in Seoul.

However, Bae Sejin replied with a nervous face.

“…It’s dangerous to drink while taking a bath. And not just today, you drink too often.”

“I drank once today to cheer myself up, I don’t usually drink like this. I don’t drink that often…”

“No, you drink often!”

Bae Sejin screamed. Then, in surprise, he glanced at the other rooms.

‘What are you doing?’

As I looked at him with bitter eyes, Bae Sejin continued to talk in a slightly lowered tone.

“You drank a few days ago. You drank last week, too.”

“It was just one can.”

“It’s not the quantity that matters… You, why did you drink?”

“Well, to relieve stress…”

Bae Sejin clenched his hands tightly.

“Therefore… You’ve been drinking every three or four days to relieve stress!”

“…!”

“You’ve been doing that lately.”

Bae Sejin looked down.

“…Since you came back from America.”

“…”

I felt like I’d been stabbed in the back.

“I saw you did that too often while we were sharing a room.”

Listening to Bae Sejin’s testimony, I ran the calculation in my head.

‘I… drink every three or four days.’

Right.

Bae Sejin was right. Twice a week. It was almost once every three days.

There were more days when I didn’t drink than days when I drank, and I didn’t feel it because I drank it quickly without thinking.

In other words, I drank to ‘relieve stress’ every time like a habit.

“I-I did some calculations, and the frequency seemed to decrease a bit when you were receiving counseling. But… um, after you got hurt on vacation, you drink again often."

"…"

"And when someone touches your drink, you get irritated, and you get happy when someone gives you a drink… To me, you look too dependent on it."

Dependent.

Come to think of it, isn't it too natural for me to drink beer when taking a break whenever I have a hard time?

'It's worse than before entering Park Moondae's body.'

I couldn't help it.

'It has good cost-effectiveness.'

Considering all the time, effort, and money, I couldn't help but know instinctively that there was no method as convenient as this.

"You can try to relieve your stress in other ways. Seon Ahyeon also picked up embroidery…"

I looked at the empty can in my hand, and I answered.

"…You're right."

"…!"

"I'll be careful."

"Y-Yes!"

Bae Sejin seemed a little surprised, but he soon answered vigorously.

'…I've been helped.'

I looked at Bae Sejin again.

"Thank you for caring."

"It's not a big deal, I notice this kind of thing a little faster…"

Perhaps the problems at home had an impact. I nodded.

"Then I'll throw this away and go to bed. I won't drink anymore, so don't worry."

"Okay. Go to bed quickly. It's already late. Um, uh, we should do well at the concert tomorrow."

"Of course."

I threw the empty can to the trash can in the kitchen.

Then I went back to my room and lay down on the bed.

Next to me, Cha Eugene was already lying upside down on the bed, completely asleep. It seemed he had fallen asleep while eating popcorn.

'New hobby… '

I had to develop a hobby to relieve stress.

Still, I could choose regardless of money. Because I had a lot of savings.

'Should I buy some expensive food?'

Looking at the empty popcorn bag on Cha Eugene's bed, I reflexively thought of that first.

‘Maybe adjusting the quantity would be better… ’

I felt like I fell asleep after thinking about whether I should eat Korean beef or not.

And the next day.

Before going out early in the morning to prepare for the concert, I inadvertently opened the refrigerator and noticed a change.

The beer was gone.

Of course, there was only one person who could be suspected of being the culprit.

“…”

Bae Sejin, who was sneaking into the kitchen, avoided my gaze and shouted quite brazenly.

“W-What?! You said you wouldn’t drink.”

True.

‘I must have had some real dependency symptoms.’

I got a little pissed off for a moment.

I shrugged, packed the soda as planned, and closed the refrigerator.

“That doesn’t taste good!”

Ignoring Cha Eugene who strongly recommended coke, I drank the soda.

My troubled thoughts last night resurfaced again.

‘Hobby… ’

I never had anything like that.

Whatever. Let's just end the concert for now.

* * *

"Thank you!"

"Loviewer! I love you!"

"Go home safely! See you again!"

Since it was the last concert in Seoul, everyone seemed to be immersed in emotion, so the exit remark was long.

"SEE YA～"

Except for when Cha Eugene reached out and shook his hand outside the closing screen and almost got caught, it was a satisfying ending.

"You idiot! You could get hurt doing that!"

"I'm not an idiot I have Passion."

He was full of energy. I heard a few words from Ryu Chungwoo, who was equally energetic.

I drank water and wiped my face and neck with a towel. I could hear people catching their breath or chattering here and there.

"Moondae, your phone!"

"Yeah."

I could just go to the waiting room and get it, but he insisted on handing them out today.

I nodded my head to Keun Sejin, who was handing out the smartphones from the hands of the staff.

Eventually, as the cheers from above subsided and announcements began to appear, the guys started moving from backstage.

“Ah, didn’t it feel going more smoothly today? No, of course, I liked all the concerts, but was it because it was the last?”

“Haha. Probably. I liked it, too.”

“R-Really… It was great!”

“I thought I’d like to sing one more song if it wasn’t for overtime work for the staff and night noise problems.”

I didn’t feel like refuting what I heard as I walked down the hallway.

‘It was fun.’

There were no accidents or difficult unexpected situations, and it was a performance that worked together.

It could be said that the best assumption was made because that was simply how it was.

Even the improvised performance during the talk show was like that. With a bit of luck and coincidence, an interesting situation was created.

‘I didn’t know we’d all get punished.’

Thanks to this, there was no stage for the winners, so we did one more encore.

It seemed the fans were plotting with each other to make us get punished, so they must be very proud.

“What do you think, Moondaemoondae?”

“It was good.”

“Oh~ You’re going to cry again today… Cough.”

He was good at goofing and messing around every time.

As I walked past Keun Sejin who had a towel on his face, the manager approached me from the other side of the hallway.

“Well, ahem, Moondae!”

“…? Yes.”

“Wait, can I talk to you for a moment? Not for long!”

“Ah, yes.”

Hmm, it was probably about the company.

I forgot about it for a moment because I was busy drinking and thinking about the concert, but the company was currently in a state of emergency due to the ‘Idol Inc season 4 Testar Concert Cameo incident’.

It might be slowly being added to the wiki in the ‘Controversies and Accidents’ section.

‘But I don’t know why they picked me.’

Well, because of the industry spy case, they might have misunderstood me as the type who was good at picking things up from here and there.

I shrugged my shoulders, bowed to the others, and followed the manager.

The manager went to the restricted parking lot and offered me an iced Americano.

“Um, why don’t you have a drink first?”

“Alright.”

I waited for the manager to get to the point while contemplating the benefits of drinking beverages as a hobby.

However, until the whole cup of Americano was gone and only ice remained, this guy hadn’t opened his mouth

“…?”

Looking at the manager who just stood awkwardly and pretended to be looking at his smartphone for no reason, I eventually opened my mouth first.

“What is it, hyung?”

“…Ah~ Um, Moondae. Do you have any concerns these days?”

What are you saying, out of the blue?

‘Since when did the company care about that?’

I replied hesitantly.

“Well, nothing in particular. Why?”

“No~ Umm, ah, counseling! Do you have any plans to do something like counseling again?”

“…”

I frowned, then smiled.

“Why? Did the members tell you I need counseling?”

“…! Uh, it’s not like that~ You look tired these days!”

What do you mean it's not like that?

'Looking at his attitude, someone has prodded him.'

And to use that as an excuse, it would have been right to do it when I was hospitalized.

I shook my head.

"It's okay. It's hard to get counseling once the tour starts anyway."

"Um, that's right. That… um, yes. But if you need it, just tell me!"

"Yes."

"…"

"…"

No way, is it over already?

"Do you have anything else to say?"

"Um… yes, yes! Shall we go in now? Moondae, keep fighting in the future!"

"Yes."

How strange.

I looked at him with some doubts, but soon I put myself together.

'It"s not just once or twice that the company fools around.'

Well, even if he said it, I would pretend to evade the topic.

I returned to the waiting room with the silent manager and touched my smartphone.

‘Wouldn’t it be better to post a speech at least?‘

I turned on the camera application on the screen as I walked. And I turned it to selfie mode.

‘Now I’ll take some pictures with this.’

Of course, I was skilled enough that my focus didn’t falter when I walked.

Alright, let’s level it up.

Click. A proper picture was saved with a low sound.

‘This is fine.’

Let’s post this. I nodded my head inwardly and started typing.

Hello, Loviewer

I really enjoyed the concert. So much that I don’t know how the three days went by

‘Ah, I forgot the introduction.’

As I added ‘This is Moondae’ in front of it instead of typing it down, something suddenly bothered me.

‘Hmm, it would be better to have a group shot than to post it alone.’

It was a concert, so doing that would make it more touching. It could also prevent sarcastic comments and useless comparisons between the members.

‘Let’s take a picture as soon as we enter the waiting room.’

Just in time, the door to the waiting room was just around the corner.

Like a habit, I knocked and opened the door.

…But, suddenly, glitter flew in front of my eyes and covered my field of view.

Puufft! Puuuffft!!

Similar to the confetti I just saw on stage… It was an event firecracker.

"…??"

When I came to my senses, I was covered in some kind of shiny threads.

As I was dumbfounded and speechless, a group of guys wearing cones of all colors suddenly appeared in front of me.

And in the hands of the two guys at the front… There was a cake.

It was chocolate, and a dark brown puppy decoration was on top of the mess.

The phrase was… 'HAPPY BIRTHDAY'.

"Happy birthday!"

"Happy birthday!"

"…!!"

Birthday?

Suddenly, I calculated the date in my head… I was surprised.

December 8th.

It was my birthday.

In other words… It was not Park Moondae's birthday. It was my birthday.

The day Ryu Gunwoo was born.

"How did you…"

I didn't even know what I was saying now. I was about to say something useless, so I quickly stopped talking.

But my brain still didn't work.

What the hell is going on?

"Haha!"

As if I looked funny, Keun Sejin burst into laughter and hit me on the shoulder.

"Hey, have you forgotten? It's your birthday next week!"

"W-When we were on the plane, you said back then… It would be nice to celebrate on the same day…!"

"…"

Ah, I see.

'That's right. There's no way you'd know.'

I broke out in a cold sweat. I understood a little bit now.

…Still, I didn't know how they chose this day.

Like the improvised stage where everyone got punished together… It was because of coincidence and luck.

"Yes, and it's also the last day of the concert!"

Ryu Chungwoo added with a smile.

“Moondae likes concerts so much.”

“…”

“We worked hard! The birthday cake! It was made by me and Kim Raebin!”

“Cha Eugene has no skills. Strictly speaking, it’s more like I am the one who made it.”

“No! I’m good at drawing!”

The two maknaes insisted hard to win the cake decoration.

Keun Sejin grinned.

“Anyway, you look really surprised, don’t you? The surprise is successful!”

“S-Successful…!”

‘Oh, my God.’

When I saw the manager who had slipped aside and looked at me with a happy face, I immediately understood what he had been doing.

“Then what you kept saying out of the blue…”

“Hey, these guys are asking me to buy some time~ What can I do? I just did whatever I was told to do, Moondae!”

“…”

The manager showed his smartphone.

On the screen, there was a group message room filled with noises such as ‘Just talk about counseling’ and ‘We need more time’.

By the way, the name of the message room was <Tibetan Moondae Surprise Birthday Party>.

I could tell without looking whose naming sense it was.

When I looked at the giggling Keun Sejin, he reduced his laughter and spoke seriously.

“Anyways, happy birthday!”

“Happy birthday, bro~“

And a messy birthday song mixed with English and Korean filled the waiting room.

The staff who were present were also smiling and singing together.

“…”

It felt really weird.

‘…No.’

Good.

Yeah, this was good.

Chapter 189

The birthday celebration lasted longer than I expected.

To be honest, I thought it would end after the singing, but we even ate the cake in the waiting room.

“D-Does the cake suit your taste?”

“Yeah, it’s nice”

“I guess it’s a beneficial choice to vote for the strawberry whipped cream cake. Strawberries are in season, so they’re plumps.”

The conversations about related topics continued until I received a large piece of the cake as the birthday boy.

There wasn’t even a camera. It was just… They did this without any intention to make this into content.

“…”

In the end, I had no choice but to say this in front of the cake plate where Cha Eugene had scraped off the remaining cream from.

“Thank you. It’s great.”

“…!”

“Ah~ Moondae hyung, I’m going to cry! What’s up with the Tibetan Moondae?”

“Because the cake is delicious!”

“Congratulations, Moondae-ssi!”

From the guy who pretended to cry, to the staff who clapped as they finished packing their last belongings, all kinds of reactions came back.

'Oh, well.'

I smiled.

Then I picked up my smartphone and opened the camera app.

"Taking a picture? Great!"

"Oh, it would have been better if we had taken it before eating the cake."

"Over here!"

I brought the empty cake plate and took several group selfies with the six guys in a row.

"Guys, we have to move now!"

"Yes!"

Then as I moved to the car at the urging of the manager, I completed what I was writing earlier.

Hello, Loviewer

This is Testar (puppy emoticon)

The concert was really fun. I was so happy that I didn't know how the three days passed. Thank you.

I just received a surprise birthday party, so I'm posting this because I want to share it

I hope you have the best night in the world.

♡ (Puppy emoticon) ♡

After uploading my personal photo and the group photo I just took at the bottom, somehow I felt relieved.

The responses came back in an instant.

– Crazy. Park Moondae, welcome

– ㅠㅠㅠMoondae, happy birthday. What's going on? Come on, let's talk about it

– Aah, let's do it together at the birthday concertㅠㅠ Testar, stop! Stop bullying Loviewer!

– I love you Moondae, the concert was so good. I always cheer for you. I hope you have a nice and happy tour

– I also want to celebrate Moondae's birthday in person, I'm serious (crying emoticon)

Expressions of excitement and affection, soaked in the afterglow of the concert.

Even in foreign languages and emoticons, I could feel their goodwill.

"…"

There was a lot more to read in the comments, perhaps because this time I shared it directly right before this. I continued to refresh slowly, examining them.

Occasionally, there were sounds of bulsh*t running around, but it didn't catch my attention.

However, even though it wasn't bullsh*t, there were also comments that bothered me.

– As expected, Moondae is fast, tooㅋㅋ

'…Moondae is fast, 'too'?'

Somehow the nuance was strange.

I clicked the back button on the post and returned to the first page of Testar's SNS account.

And I saw the post below my post.

"…!"

Long texts beginning with 'I love you, Loviewer' were already uploaded in several long bundles.

20 minutes ago.

In addition, for each post, there was a selfie photo of him and a behind-the-scenes group shot taken at the last concert.

…It was Keun Sejin.

He glanced at my smartphone screen with a sleazy face.

"Ah~ Moondae, you posted too?"

"…!"

As expected, this bastard… He was no ordinary guy.

'Could it be that the surprise birthday party was a ploy so that this guy could strike first?'

Even though it wasn't possible, I doubted it briefly while moving to the place for the after-party.

* * *

"My~ friend~ is really, really cute!"

“Hahaha!”

While Cha Eugene sang the children’s song, other members collapsed into a fit of laughter.

It had been only an hour since the after-party started.

The staff just went home with only a few people remaining, including the manager. Perhaps he was somewhat conscious of the company’s hideous atmosphere…

And the rest of them…

‘They’re a bit drunk.’

It would be easier to be a little drunk among drunk people, but it was impossible for me.

Because what I had in my hand was non-alcoholic champagne.

* * *

“Y-You! Don’t!”

I didn’t say anything. I stared silently at Bae Sejin, who was cleaning up the bottles around me like a ghost.

By the way, those bottles were already empty.

“…Sleepy.”

It seemed so. Chop down the bottles and stay strong.

‘Slowly, their words are losing context.’

I looked around the not-so-drunk atmosphere, then shook my head and got up from my seat.

“Oh? Moondae, Where are you going~?”

“Restroom.”

Actually, not the restroom, I was just going out to get some fresh air, but it didn’t matter.

The entire restaurant was rented with the terrace included in the option, so it was convenient because I didn’t have to worry about other people’s eyes.

‘Still, if I just show my face, I am sure there are some bastards waiting nearby to take pictures.’

It didn’t matter. I would just sit quietly.

I came out to the terrace and escaped the space filled with songs and laughter.

Thud.

As soon as I closed the door, the cold winter air hit my cheek, but I didn’t feel too cold because there was a camping stove nearby.

‘It’s an expensive place’

I just sat down and quietly looked at the night sky.

“…Hmm.”

As with the night sky in Seoul, I could hardly see the stars, but it somewhat calmed my mind.

Filling the place where gratitude and joy had subsided…

Creak.

“Ah, M-Moondae?”

"…Seon Ahyeon."

Why is he here?

After the door had been closed for some time, Seon Ahyeon poked his head out through the open door.

"C-Can I stay there too…?"

"I guess so."

In the first place, I didn't reserve this place alone.

"Yes!"

Anyway, perhaps taking this as permission, Seon Ahyeon immediately came out of the door.

Thud.

The door closed again and the terrace became quiet.

Seon Ahyeon quietly sat close, but not too close.

"…"

Strangely, it reminded me of something.

When I got hot chocolate from Seon Ahyeon, it was exactly in this position.

I inadvertently opened my mouth.

"Did you come out to get some fresh air?"

"O-Oh, me?"

"Yes."

“That… There is that too. Um, t-there’s something I want to ask…”

“To me?”

“Yes.”

Seon Ahyeon hesitated for a moment as he touched his knee, then suddenly continued.

It was an unexpected question.

“Hey… Moondae, b-by any chance. After 5 years, you don’t want to be an idol…?”

“What?”

The words I heard from Keun Sejin when I gave up on the stage setting a while ago came out of Seon Ahyeon’s mouth again.

However, the nuance was slightly different.

…Seon Ahyeon sounded genuinely worried.

“Y-You said that to me before.”

Seon Ahyeon lowered his head slightly.

“I-It could be dangerous, so don’t overdo it on stage. Stay healthy… It is better to be able to do it for a long time.”

“…!”

“That, w-when I did the improvised backflip on the year-end stage last year!”

Seon Ahyeon even explained the situation at the time in detail, perhaps because he thought I couldn’t remember.

He didn't have to. I remembered it well.

'I did say that.'

I gave this advice because I saw Seon Ahyeon doing something that could cause serious injury on stage, and I had thought, 'When pressured, he tends to overdo it in a self-destructive way'.

And since then, Seon Ahyeon had never been particularly stubborn.

…Yeah.

On the contrary, I was the one who had been stubborn.

"B-But Moondae… You've been overdoing it. You're not healed yet, but you were using wires…"

Once I realized my dependence on alcohol, I came to acknowledge this too.

Perhaps this was a reproach, but it couldn't be.

"Y-You said it's good to stay healthy for a long time… I wondered if Moondae didn't intend to do it for a long time…"

"…"

It seemed Seon Ahyeon had unexpectedly pointed out the truth.

How do I put this contradiction together?

'I said that because you improvised at the time, so it seemed more dangerous', 'My performance didn't have that much risk of injury', 'I thought I already got better'…

Various answers passed through my head.

And maybe those were things that could roughly convince Seon Ahyeon.

But in the end, the answer that came with a sigh was this.

"…I don't know."

A sigh spread white in the air.

"I think I want to, but I don't know if I can keep doing this until then…"

"W-Why?"

Giving a specific answer to this would be difficult.

I lumped the situations together.

"Because I don't know what will happen. You never know what will happen. Now that I see the stake running… I think this job is hard to do in the long run."

"…"

Seon Ahyeon was quiet for a moment, but he soon raised his head.

"A-Actually, I don't know if I-I can do it for a long time too… I think."

"Yeah."

"B-But that means… Doesn't that mean that you can?"

"…!"

"W-We would have good five years… We can keep doing it together. Well, that's how it is, but if you're having a hard time because you're overdoing it now, you shouldn't…"

"…"

"S-So, if we think of staying healthy and doing it for a long time…

Can't we do that?"

I felt like I'd been hit in the head.

That… seemed like a more reasonable idea.

'…Of course, I should have acted while considering the possibility of continuously being in this body.'

It might end, which meant it might not end.

Then, of course, I should make a long-term plan in case it didn't end.

'In the first place, it's not a field with a clear future.'

I was lost in useless thoughts in a situation where I could retire tomorrow because of an incident.

It was only then that the irrationality of my recent attitude came up. Throwing away your retirement plans just because there was an epidemic was a stupid thing to do.

'This classification fit just right.'

My mind cleared up.

If I lived with this body even after all the status abnormalities were over, I would be swearing at myself in the past for not making a long-term plan enough to make my dream of having a healthy long life come true.

I eventually smiled.

"Why not?"

"…! R-Right!"

"Yes."

Seon Ahyeon smiled. I looked up and watched the night sky again.

'Five years from now… '

Then, we should plan a route with the issue of contract renewal in mind.

Creak, thump!

"Wow! It's cold!"

"Eugene, you're wearing short sleeves!"

"Heol, Moondaemoondae is here! Did you run away when you said you were going to the restroom?? I'm really hurt~"

"…"

The blueprint I tried to draw for a moment was soon smashed by Cha Eugene and other drunken people who broke into the terrace, but it was not without results.

Because the very next day, the variables for the long-term plan were revealed.

* * *

"There was a photo of you making a fuss on the terrace of that restaurant. Guys, hyung already told you to be careful!"

"Gasp!"

"But everyone says it's cute. I've talked with the company, and the article's content is good, too!"

"Phew."

After listening to the first shocking news through the manager's intro, the internal situation of the company that slipped out was important.

“Still, it’s fortunate that the company got better and responded quickly, so let’s be more careful from now on!”

“Yes!”

I did see the statement posted this morning.

The director had issued it in his own name.

‘It was almost a declaration of surrender.’

To sum it up, it was like this.

– We’ve really made a mistake in evaporating 30 seats. But since Tnet is a gangster, we couldn’t help it either ㅠㅠ Hurry up and curse at them. We’ll try our best not to mess around and take care of Testar.

In this context, it seemed that thoroughly setting the fans as customers worked better than unnecessary emotional sales.

‘You must have taken a breather.’

But the manager’s words didn’t end there.

“There is a rumor that there is a shortage of manpower right now, but they said that when the girls come in, they will hire them there… Ah, guys, but hyung wants to continue as Testar manager!”

‘Oh.’

This… This arrangement was a little fun.

Chapter 190

Of course, I had guessed that the new idol group selected by season 4 of <Idol Inc.> would come to the agency.

It was just, things were getting a little more interesting now.

”Naturally, I thought they would hire a new person in charge for that part.’

Testar was still in their 2nd year, so the company was going to hire someone here.

For the sake of a group that hadn’t entered and gotten a proper estimate yet.

“Oh~ We’re getting juniors, too! Ah, but instead of hiring new ones, our employees are going there? Aren’t you getting too much work?”

“They’ll hire new ones, too! But it seems they’re trying to distribute some of the experienced people. Don’t worry, hyung isn’t going~ They’ll send off the second manager!”

“Haha~”

Keun Sejin laughed brightly at the manager’s joking remarks, but he must have roughly guessed the atmosphere since he had experience with big and small agencies.

‘The director has left Testar and hold onto the junior group.’

To be exact, he was fed up with Testar’s fans.

From the director’s perspective, it was right to think that his predecessors had already been replaced two times at a fast pace and that the fans would get furious if he did anything.

In fact, Testar's fans were already watching the agency closely.

'And the members even oppose his vision.'

That American disease.

The new group had also been through that crazy <Idol Inc.> survival show and had formed enough fandom, so it wasn't strange that he turned the central manpower to that side and dreamed of a new vision.

"Our company's performance is good these days~ People with better skills will come, don't worry too much!"

"Yes, yes!"

What do I think?

'It's a great profit.'

It was great.

The company wouldn't want to pick a fight with the fans again, so they would take care of it properly.

In that case, this situation where the director could only pull capital investment without interfering was the best.

After all, we could plan on our own.

'Is this the second coming of the payment bot?'

However, there was one thing that bothered me.

There was a risk factor that they might stop investing properly in the new album and tried to turn the tour around.

'We're being treated like a cash cow.'

There was a good chance that the director would go crazy when he saw the sales volume once he checked the profits after this tour ended.

Now that he had other options to care about and grow on his own, it would be difficult if Testar asked him to withdraw money.

So what are the countermeasures?

It's simple.

'We just need to make sure that they can't give up their capital investment in Testar.'

Three and a half years until the end of the contract.

In the meantime, we had to steadily keep growing.

It scratched both the economic aspect 'because they're bigger, we can increase the scale of their tour' and the honor-seeking aspect 'the singer under me has become so great'.

'Looking at the personality of the director this time, he won't be able to give it up.'

Therefore, Testar's external atmosphere was important during this tour.

It was the first long hiatus. We should manage our popularity beyond showing our faces at the awards ceremonies.

However, with the already tight schedule, we couldn't put in additional activities in Korea.

Then there was only one answer.

'We'll have to present the reality show better than planned.'

To increase the scale of the schedule that was set.

‘I’ll have to be proactive.’

It was the first time I made this resolution since <Idol Inc.>, so let’s grab the content and the personalities in a more provocative way.

“Are we going to watch our juniors??”

“It will be difficult right now.”

I could hear Ryu Chungwoo answering Cha Eugene’s words nearby.

And he was right.

The departure for the tour was tomorrow.

* * *

After the well-received Seoul concert, Testar left for America.

During the award ceremony season in January, they went to Japan, which was close to Korea, so that they could go back and forth quickly.

And the fans who used up all the content at the concert were sucking their fingers.

It was just around that time that the last episode of <Idol Inc.> season 4, which drew aggro with Testar’s concert, was aired.

[Controversial <Re-listed! Idol Inc. 2>… Is the grand finale coming to an end?]

[<Idol Inc.> Season 4’s debut name ‘Mirinay (Miry-nay)’ has been finalized]

[<Idol Inc.>’s New Season Winners, living under the same roof as Testar?]

In response to Testar fans’ sharp reaction, Tnet also slipped out, and Testar's concert only briefly appeared as a nuance to praise themselves.

However, even if it wasn't for this issue, <Idol Inc.> season 4 had failed to properly shake off numerous gossip.

Because Season 3 Testar was so good that they were constantly compared to each other, and it came out with a more stimulating composition each time.

– Even if I am a survival nerd, I can't stand this season, go away

– Looking back, season 3 is like a fairy

– After watching its craziness, I escaped to Testarㅅㅂ

The program's image was at its worst, due to the accusations of being overly sadistic and squeezing the dreams and hopes of aspiring candidates, and testimonies from participants who dropped out.

Therefore, apart from the success of the program, the public felt uncomfortable about the group that was launched through this season.

So, naturally, Testar's fans didn't want to be deeply involved. Even more so because they were creating their own image and worldview after their debut.

– Don't tie them up together

– I want to know what the kids are up to but I feel uncomfortable

– It's nice that you're quiet when you release the group. As expected, losing is the answer

However, except for a few articles, there was no particular reckless act from the agency, so the hostility was not strong yet.

There were a lot more fans who were paying attention to Testar's news, which was not long before this.

– It's been a long time since I saw the kids' faces, they left right after the pre-recording of Gayo Daejeon (photo taken on the way home)

– Come to the W app, guysㅠㅠ There's no content these days and I'm bored…

– 2X1221 New Jersey Concert Preview (photo)

– Moondae's solo has been modified to sit on a chair and rise up. It's more stable, but it's a bit disappointingㅠ I hope the Seoul Concert V0D will be released immediately

Testar was not in Korea throughout December except for the year-end programs on public TV and big awards ceremonies.

Besides, except for a short W live to celebrate Park Moondae's birthday, they only heard the news of the tour.

There was no news of their own content. The behind-the-scenes footage of the concert was not uploaded either, probably because it was on VOD.

Naturally, people who were worried and freaking out began to appear.

It was an inductive reasoning formed by past experiences of KPOP enthusiasts.

– Looking at the atmosphere right now, I don't think there will be any content throughout the tour.

– Motherf*cking bastards, It's obvious that Testar's new content will be put on the back burner to take care of the rookies by taking out Testar's manpower. It's not just once or twice this has happened

-Enjoy the awards season to the fullest Loviewers, this year is the end of watching Testar on domestic music shows for three weeks every time they make a comebackㅋㅋ

– F*ck, It's only been 2 years since our kids debuted. Don't tell me they will go on a tour all around. Promise me they'll make a comeback twice a year at least, you f*cking bastards

– It's time to gradually reorganize activities focusing on overseas, but each one is too big.

Some people even went this far.

– I hope that the next album will not be well received overseas so that they can focus on Korea

Don't say things like that with the kids' profile

I am not even Shamstar[1]In case you've forgotten, Shamstar is Testar's modified name to prevent searches. , so what's wrong with that?ㅋㅋ Getting more popular here won't help you at all. They don't come to Korea and only fan sign cuts will f*cking increase. My initial determination is broken. It's the shortest way to get rid of early-days fans

In fact, it wasn't like they hadn't heard from Testar for over a month or two, so it was too early to say anything like that.

The problem was that Testar had been working nonstop like a cow, so news usually poured out every day.

The news, which was delivered on all kinds of SNS and videos even during the vacation, was suddenly cut off, so this brief silence alone agitated people.

– The tour just started and it overlapped with the year-end programs, so of course they must be busy

What are you saying? Shamstar is hanging out everywhereㅎ I guess leaving the country is for sightseeing rather than the tourㅋ

– I am only saying it here… I'm a bit sad that it's difficult to upload a picture of them goofing around

That's right ㅁㄷ The birthday celebration at the last concert… In the end, they did a lot of things that didn't solve anythingㅠㅠ

– It's a mess. I wonder if the idol has been too nice to you or if there are a lot of people who haven't been a fan before; I'm sad and sick of everything

Still, it's not that there wasn't any content at all thanks to the appearances in the year-end programs, so it was December when these voices were treated lightly

And on the last day of December, when fans felt sorry for Testar who also appeared in a pre-recorded event at MBS' Gayo Daejejeon.

A notification came on Testar's official WeTube channel.

Ring.

[(Trailer) Happy New Year! Testar's new reality show with the New Year!]

The thumbnail was a picture of seven figures sitting on the beach.

'Ah, finally!'

'Yeah, you should release at least a reality show, it's a vacuum!'

'Since they're on tour, it's probably going to be like a boring documentary, but it's okay! It's still content!'

Fans quickly clicked on the thumbnail, relieved by the New Year's gift.

And they got a bit perplexed by the video that was playing.

'…??'

First of all… The high notes of magnificent brass instruments and vocalists roared.

Bam bam bam bam bam bambam!!

[Urgh!]

[Argh!]

[Wow,]

[Oops!!]

[Ugh!]

The scenes of each Testa member screaming and sighing to that beat quickly passed by.

[…]

And finally, Bae Sejin, who was completely frozen and raising his hands, was captured for a long time.

On the floor, spilled ice cream could be seen.

-???

-ㅋㅋHn?

– What is thisㅋㅋㅋ

Leaving the bewildered real-time reaction behind, the video suddenly calmed down.

The peaceful daily life of Testar being interviewed suddenly followed.

The question was also simple.

[Have you ever had a part-time job?]

[Lee Sejin: Yes!]

[Chungwoo: I helped my parents' store?]

[Bae Sejin:… No. (Nervous) W-Why do you ask?]

White text appeared on a black screen.

[Just because ㅎ]

And the scene changed again.

The production team shouted at Testar, who was wearing a suit during a business trip and carrying their briefcases.

[Everyone! Are you ready for the reality show shooting? This time, the theme is free travel!]

[Lee Sejin: Wow!!]

[Seon Ahyeon: Really?]

[Of course! Feel free to go around!]

And the heartwarming cuts of Testar having a good time in groups of two or three people at exotic beaches or restaurants flashed by.

With this red caption.

[※A fee will be charged.※]

Again, white text appeared significantly on a black screen.

[As expected, Testar… Will they be able to safely earn money and go out to play!?]

[Eugene: I want to go home.]

[Moondae: Please let us go…]

Park Moondae and Cha Eugene, who covered their eyes with both hands, came out futile and funny.

[Testar's reality showshowshow]

[Idol Working Holiday]

[Episode 1 will be released on Thursday, January 9th!]

Of course, it was a taste of full-fledged public entertainment that the fans didn't see coming.

* * *

"Today's sales finally exceed $1,000, so I think we can go to the theme park tomorrow without debt."

"Wow!"

There was applause all around. The members stretched out with proud faces and gave high fives.

"W-Would you like this?"

"Thank you."

I took the plum juice that Seon Ahyeon made. I was quite proud.

'Everyone worked hard.'

If this continued, we would be able to move smoothly without debt… Wait a minute.

"…"

'This… I don't think this is a variety show anymore…?'

Everyone was too immersed.

When I realized that in the filming site, we were more serious about paying off debt than playing around, I broke into a cold sweat

'How can I save this?'

I am afraid I can't.

I guess I'll have to encourage wasting money.

- 1. In case you've forgotten, Shamstar is Testar's modified name to prevent searches.

Chapter 191

In fact, when this reality program was planned, it had a simple travel and healing concept.

With the director's American disease and the part that reacted to American culture added, this composition was very obvious.

'It's going to end with only a few fans watching.'

You got the estimate.

Well-known idols appeared only to heal, so how could they stay popular for so long?

So, the reality show crew was languishing, too. Because they were already having fun picking out provocative images that tormented the cast.

So it was quite easy to fish around.

– Wouldn't it be fun if there are curves in the program? Like earning money for the trip on your own…

– Wouldn't it??

We fell for it right away.

The director was already distracted by the prospective junior group, so the change of proposal easily passed.

And, as expected, the reality show crew began to reconstruct the concept of 'earning money on your own and playing' in the most stimulating way.

…That meant I didn't expect to get hit at the back of my head by a debt claim on the first day of filming.

"Ah~ I was so worn out that day that it was so hard to recover."

"That's right. I learned the importance of responsible consumption…"

"What did we eat back then? Lobster?"

"Lobster and King Crab! It was very delicious!"

"Yes, it was delicious…"

Cha Eugene's bright remarks made some people look sad. It was understandable.

'The crew deliberately drove us to an expensive course.'

– No~ you really can go anywhere!

By saying it like this.

All of the members commented that the nuance sounded like 'playing to your heart's content on the first day will motivate you to work hard to go play again'.

So on the first day, we watched dolphins, ate lobsters, and slept at a luxury resort in Cape May, New Jersey.

And here was the amount charged.

"But I didn't expect to be charged a whole $4,000."

"I know, right."

It was about 4.5 million won in Korean won.

If I hadn't reduced the price to $1,800 by asking, 'Shouldn't we stay at the dorm even if we didn't play?' I would still be in debt.

It was a very shocking start, but looking back, it certainly had been fun.

It's not that I didn't really have that money, it was betrayal and shock in an entertainment show, so there was nothing particularly sadistic about it.

'All the staff laughed… '

I remembered Bae Sejin looking at them with a face full of betrayal.

Anyway, I had worked like a cow ever since, paid off the debt in three days, and saved $800 for the theme park tomorrow.

It was more fun than expected.

'…I was so immersed in it because making money was addictive.'

Cash came and went, but it felt different when I got it in my hands.

We played one more time in the middle, but I didn't think it had much of an impact because all we did was run around the beach snacking on things to save money as much as possible.

'So this time, it's better to edit it with some stimulation.'

"All right, let's plan it out tomorrow."

"F-Fighting!"

"Testar is doing great today, too~"

The theme park tomorrow seemed like a good opportunity. I would make us spend all our savings and put us back into debt.

The tickets to the amusement park and safari alone would already cost $450, so there was about $350 left… Each person spending 50,000 won would be quick.

‘It’s easy.’

I just had to target Cha Eugene.

I took off my apron and hung it by the sink.

Anyway, I hoped they would just enjoy the program.

* * *

Testar’s reality show was carried out in the form of two episodes being released weekly.

However, only those who signed up for a paid membership could see the sequel right away, and general users had to wait three more days to watch the sequel.

It was a preview arrangement that showed a determination to take care of both money and popularity.

And their determination worked well.

[Testar going crazy at Working Holiday Reality show is revealed today ㅋㅋㅋ]

The reaction to the first episode, where Testar was scammed by the production crew from the airport and eventually started a part-time job to repay the interest-free loan, was very hot.

The percentage of paid membership subscribers increased noticeably.

In addition, Park Moondae had one more goal that was mixed in here.

That nuance was revealed in the scene where Testar finally realized the existence of the debt.

[Here it is~ The small store we rented! You can make a profit there!]

[Kim Raebin: Gasp.]

[Ryu Chungwoo: A-Are the items already decided? What kind of store is it?]

[It's not decided yet, but if the cost exceeds $100, it is added to the debt!]

[Lee Sejin: Heol.]

And a shameless caption appeared.

[Whatever you want~ You can sell anything ㅎㅎ]

But right after that, Park Moondae, who had been calmly listening to the production team without expression, said this.

[Park Moondae: Then let's sell hotteok.]

(TL notes: Hotteok = Korean sweet pancake.)

[????]

[Seon Ahyeon: Hotteok?]

[Lee Sejin: Moondae, do you want to eat hotteok?]

[Park Moondae: No, it's not an obvious choice of menu, but I think there will be some competitiveness. The cost is cheap, and the taste is good. I think you just have to do well with the customers… I think everyone will be fine.]

It was a convincing tone. Sounds like 'Oh' and 'That's fine' began to come out here and there.

The idols, who had been hit in the back of their heads so many times even before their debut and got used to it, quickly understood the situation on their own and began to pioneer a survival route.

The weak point where Testar could be boring and frustrating if dragged too one-sidedly by the production crew had disappeared.

Rather, the production crew began to panic.

[Lee Sejin: But is there a place that sells them?]

[Seon Ahyeon: Wouldn't there be a Korean mart nearby…? Many Koreans live in New Jersey… I think I heard something like that!]

[Park Mundae: Yes. And I am good at making hotteok.]

[Lee Sejin: Oh~ So confident!]

[Cha Eugene: I'm in! (Expresssion of confidence)]

[Ryu Chungwoo: That's nice. Ah, it would go well with chocolate or ice cream on top.]

Even Bae Sejin nodded with a nervous face, and the agreement was over in an instant.

Ryu Chungwoo answered the production team refreshingly.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Okay. We'll sell hotteok.]

[PD: I-Is that so? Don't you want to consider anything else? Well, it doesn't have to be food, there are a lot of other things~]

[Cha Eugene: Nope!]

With the member's clear refusal, the image of the PD looking at the sky entered the cut scene.

[Expecting a lot of trial and error from Testar]

[We've prepared a lot of mini-games]

[But in the end, we couldn't use any of them and sent them back to Korea…]

Along with the blue sky, lively country music played hilariously.

[☆Decided to open Testar's hotteok store☆]

[(It took 5 minutes)]

That was how Testar started the hotteok business in the corner of an American beach… That was the composition.

It was a choice that captured all three types of popularity: money, food, and gukppong.

[That employee is cute!]

[Hotteok? It's crispy and delicious.]

And after a lot of twists and turns while hearing compliments from foreigners who didn't know Testar, the scene of selling hotteok was briefly inserted as a preview.

It was no wonder that people couldn't resist this familiar taste of entertainment and paid for the paid membership.

– The production crew is so evil. So funnyㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅠㅠIt's so cute when Testar was surprised. Please tell us a lot of behind-the-scenes stories, too!

– Wow, an idol reality show is doing something like this, too. It's cool and it's a lot of funㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Foreigner's reaction to hotteok? This taste… It's the taste of gukppong!

– I didn't expect it to be this funny. Hurry up, show the next episode

There were a lot of comments from people who were full of expectations.

Fortunately, their expectations were not betrayed.

In the second episode that followed, Testar started running the store, boasting quite good teamwork.

And up to episode 3 where they took time off to see the beach a few days later, the reality show progressed at a fun and fast tempo.

[What club are you in? Are you a college student? A high school student?]

[Similar! Dancing, singing~]

The scene where Cha Eugene smiled and said something half-truthful made the taste of the so-called 'Meta who hides his power' could be felt properly.

People's reactions to the second and third episodes, which faithfully met their expectations, didn't cool down.

– Hey, these guys are doing a really good job, they won't starve anywhere ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

-It's smart that they spread food taster and drink coupons on the beach for promotion. As expected, Lee Sejin is a genius;

-Chungwoo is hot even by American standards… I knew it.

– Hotteok ice cream is really crazy. Is it only Americans who can order? Loviewers want it too ㅠ

– Cooking: Park Moondae, Kim Raebin

Taking orders: Seon Ahyeon, Cha Eugene

Serving: Lee Sejin, Ryu Chungwoo

Hamster: Bae Sejin

The best combination

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

□Why is only Bae Sejin the hamsterㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

□Our hamster is working hardㅠㅠ

As the entertainment-type personalities were discovered, there was also the effect of having the image of the members softened.

And finally, the emotional moment when they finally exceeded $1,000 in sales and went to the theme park.

Testar's determination to deliberately spend money only on their savings was smashed, causing a burst of laughter as the scene went through editing.

The trigger was Park Moondae, as determined by Park Moondae.

[Park Moondae: That's cute.]

[Lee Sejin: Heol~ Moondae, if we buy something like that, our budget is over!]

[Park Moondae:… Right. Sorry.]

Park Moondae reacted a little sullenly to Lee Sejin's gag skit at the souvenir shop.

After Keun Sejin's backpedaling, numerous exclamation marks were edited, and Cha Eugene intervened.

[Cha Eugene: Buy it! Let's buy it!]

[Kim Raebin: Huh??]

[Seon Ahyeon: Right, I think it'll be fine…!]

[Cha Yujin: We'll work again! Earn money again!]

[Bae Sejin: T-That's true, but…]

It just so happened that Ryu Chungwoo was away.

The moment Bae Sejin, the eldest, was flustered by Cha Eugene's assertive claim, Cha Eugene deliberately pretended to be pitiful.

[Cha Eugene: Let's enjoy it today! We're working hard…]

[Bae Sejin:… Then, just this time.]

[Cha Eugene: Yeah!]

That was how Testar went shopping at the souvenir shop with the rationalization 'Let's buy it just this once'.

The caption from the happy production team appeared.

[Of course, it doesn't end with just this one time♡]

They were right.

Saying that it was easy once you tried it, Testar went through a similar pattern and started buying all kinds of souvenirs and snacks.

And in the end, they began to reach out to the production team's finance.

[Ask for this much~ Guys, that's the money you can earn by working for 3 hours!]

[Seon Ahyeon: That's true, but…]

[Cha Eugene: That's right!]

[Bae Sejin: (Confused)]

[It doesn't have interests so who cares? Everyone, this is your first trip to the US!]

The result of falling for this trick.

[Today's settlement… Wow! Minus 1,012 dollars!]

[!!!!]

It ended like this.

[You have to work hard, everyone~]

Episode 4 ended with Testar hugging dolls, cushions, and hats, and returning to the dorm with confused faces.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅠㅠㅠㅠThe kids lost all their money, what should I do!!

– This is why loan s are dangerous.

-The production crew prevented these unfortunate guys from working for more than 7 hours a day to manage their tour conditions and encourages debtㅋㅋ

Even if the kids beg to sell a little more because people are rushing in, they say, 'It's for you guys ^^' I've never heard such a wickedly nice sound

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㄹㅇ

The Gold Disc Awards was even held in the week when the story of the Testar's theme park money squandering ended.

That meant it was the week Testar entered the country.

The viewers of the reality show had already waiting been for that day.

Because it was an opportunity to laugh when the number of cases was caught even if just a little.

– Please add hotteok to Testar's fan chant

– Ah, I think I'll laugh just by looking at their faces

– I can't wait to see you guys, seriously ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It would be legendary if they even certify it with the souvenirs

But it wasn't just their fans who were waiting for Testar's domestic schedule.

* * *

"Huft."

The evening of Testar's arrival.

Sitting in the lobby for company staff, the rookie idol waited quite a long time to meet Testar.

'…I heard they would stop by the office today.'

The news was delivered by their manager, who also worked as Testar's manager, so his words were reliable.

The idol clasped her hands together and thought calmly.

'Get a grip. I have to say it well today.'

Just then, the automatic door to the parking lot opened.

"…!"

What appeared after that… were several tall men wearing hats and masks.

They were Testar.

‘They’re here…!’

The rookie idol jumped up and ran toward them.

“Hello, sunbae-nim!”

The rookie from the same company as Testar, the participant who debuted in second place in <Idol Inc.> Season 4 bowed her head to them.

“Yes? Ah, yes. Hello.”

“Ah, nice to meet you.”

“Yes! I’m terribly sorry, but if you don’t mind, can I talk to you for a second…!”

“…”

It was extremely polite and desperate.

It was like a new employee’s attitude toward their boss.

“Uh…”

Among Testar members who exchanged glances with slight bewilderment, Park Moondae was slightly impressed.

‘Oh.’

He had a feeling.

He felt like she was going to unravel the story of the director.

Chapter 192

First of all, we moved to a nearby empty meeting room with the second-place winner of this season's <Idol Inc.> who appeared out of nowhere.

"Thank you so much!"

"…It's nothing."

No, it was actually a situation she should be grateful for.

She suddenly asked for our time in the middle of our schedule without making any prior arrangements.

For a junior who we met for the first time, at that.

'At least, I have some free time because the meeting concerns personal s.'

If not for that, she would have no chance.

– Ah, your talk will go well if you're together with Moondae!

Like this, Keun Sein made a hole to escape just now.

'Hmm, that's what they said. Sorry.'

The reason I didn't avoid this situation even if it could turn out bad with just a little flip was simple.

'It's better to know in advance.'

Someone must have taken action that would affect Testar, but it would be distorted once the company went through it.

‘If you listen to it directly, getting out of it would be easy.’

It wasn’t morally problematic if we couldn’t provide specific help to each other in the same situation.

‘Then let’s listen to it.’

…However, what came out of the hubae’s mouth after she said her greeting was more than I could have imagined.

“The working title of our debut title track is ‘Magical Girl’…!”

“Cough!”

The sound just now was not from me, but from Kim Raebin, who was sitting next to me. He wasn’t part of the meeting either, so he had time.

And I’d make that noise if I had been drinking something, too.

‘Are they crazy?’

Is the person in charge over there crazy? No, there could be a misunderstanding.

I managed to open my mouth.

“Testar’s debut song, it’s ‘Magical Boy’…”

“Yes, yes! When I heard it, I was immediately reminded of that song. The lyrics are also similar, and the genre is also similar…”

It wasn’t a misunderstanding.

The hubae’s face was pale.

“The concept is already done… I’ve seen the outfits, and they’re really, really similar…”

"…"

"I came to see you because I thought I had to tell you…"

Yeah, I understood that part for sure.

*'She came here because she thought this would f*ck us all together.'*

After all, since this kid also suffered in Idol Inc, there was no way she blindly believed that Testar would help.

A senior with a two-year gap in the same agency was very close to a rival.

However, if something like this broke out, Testar would get hurt, so she came here expecting that we would oppose it as well.

It was a reasonable guess. But I couldn't just blindly believe it.

'Let's dig up some more.'

I had a rough idea of what the agency was thinking, but I needed to hear more about the situation.

But I didn't have anything to fish around with.

Kim Raebin raised his hand before I could.

"May I ask you a question?"

"Yes? Yes!"

Considering this guy's social nature, I thought briefly about keeping his mouth shut, but I gave up.

Because Kim Raebin was the person who directly had a hand in the song 'Magical Boy'.

And as expected, Kim Raebin hit the mark.

“How similar are the songs? Is there more than a common denominator in the concept in addition to genre similarities??”

“That… Ah!!!”

The hubae excitedly put her hands on the table.

“Oh, I got something! It entered the bridge briefly!”

“Yes…?”

“The melody that goes ‘Ttarara～’ in Magical Boy!”

“…!!”

The most iconic riff melody of ‘Magical Boy’, a refreshing accompaniment played by Kalimba. That one…?

‘Wait, isn’t this plagiarism?’

Even if the original songwriter wrote that, it had a copyright issue.

As far as I know, that transformation occurred because Kim Raebin added a few more chords to the lower notes during the arrangement process.

So, Kim Raebin was definitely among the list of songwriting copyright holders…

“Ah, it’s sampling.”

However, Kim Raebin calmly shook his head. The hubae opened her mouth wide.

“S-Sampling…”

“Yes. Unauthorized sampling has often occurred in popular music history since the past, but recently, it has been avoided…”

“At any rate, you haven’t heard anything from them.”

“Yes.”

“It’s also legally ambiguous.”

“Yes, it depends on the quantity… In fact, there are many cases that haven’t been recognized as legal issues. Moreover, in this case, since you said that it briefly entered the bridge, there is a possibility that it could be interpreted as homage…”

In other words, it might have to be solved only regarding the moral problems caused by public opinion.

‘Come to think of it, I think there have been numerous cases where the permission is obtained once it is released.’

I clicked my tongue.

‘…I think this is the director’s endeavor.’

Anyway, the director had half given up on realizing his vision through Testar.

In that case, it wasn’t strange that he prepared to use Testar as the nourishment for the rookie group instead.

‘He’s pulling in the aggro.’

To use the firepower of Testar’s fans in reverse.

By touching an ambiguous line that could be played off as having a world view of the same agency, he was drawing a plan to take in the public interest with the anger of Testar’s fans.

‘It’s typical noise marketing, so to speak.’

After all, the public was not interested in details that Testar was in charge of their own concept and arrangement.

It was only accepted as an image, and there was no way anyone could infer exactly which part of the production the group was involved in by checking the details.

Therefore, if that junior group selected a good song and a good music video and was recognized by the public, public opinion might end up saying 'Testar fans are too much'.

Like this.

– Isn't it common to connect the worldviews of the same agency? Anyway, they're unusual… ㅉㅉ

– It's nice, but since the composer and the company are the same, their styles overlap. Do you really believe that Testar made it all by themselves? ㅋㅋㅋ

– There was so much fuss that I became a fan after watching your performance. Let's only walk on the flowery path now ㅠㅠ

And the song and concept of 'Magical Boy' were already proven to be a popular hit.

'Of course, they must have calculated that the reaction would be fine if they follow only half of it.'

Once the junior group became popular through this method, the director would push them to be the main force.

Overall, it was an arrangement in which only the agency benefited without much loss.

'The arrow will go to that rookie group first anyway, so they'll feel less pressured with being criticized.'

And just by looking at the complexion of the hubae sitting there, I could tell how burdensome this situation was for that group.

Going through the crazy program called <Idol Inc.>, all the members of that group must have received all kinds of curses they would have to deal with for the rest of their lives.

'But it's understandable that you don't want to get cursed at after your debut.'

However, even after debuting, their 'popularity' could be guaranteed, but there was no conflict and there was only a sense of repulsion.

'Hmm.'

I spoke again.

"Excuse me."

"Yes!"

"Do you have any alternatives in mind?"

"Yes?"

"I was wondering if you have other candidates other than 'Magical Girl'."

"…! Yes!"

As expected.

The junior's complexion had returned a little. And a calm explanation followed.

"Actually, among our members, there is someone who originally studied producing. That person's song went all the way to the final stage as a candidate for the title track… Suddenly, it was overturned a few days ago."

Considering the situation alone, it was good news.

“You must have wanted to do that song.”

“…Yes. The team leader said we can use it for the next album, but… To be honest, regardless of the situation, objectively, I think that song is better.”

Hmm, the company’s strategy was good.

First of all, after pulling off a lot of aggro with the debut, they would paint an image of self-production in the next album.

‘The problem is that they use us there.’

Even if Testar got offended, they knew what to do. The contract renewal was still so far away, and there were still three and a half years left.

I frowned slightly, and the hubae freaked out.

“Of course, ‘Magical Boy’ is an amazing masterpiece…! Right now, our debut song feels like an imitation, so the original candidate song is better than that…”

“Sure. I fully understand.”

It seemed she had misunderstood my expression. As I loosened my face, Kim Raebin suddenly started talking.

“What kind of song did you originally prepare?”

“Oh, it’s a bit of a newtro… It’s a style that’s been in the spotlight lately, and the members and I thought it’s a really catchy and cool song!”

(TL notes: Newtro is a portmanteau of the words “new” and “retro”, and refers to the trend of “modernized retro”. Newtro’s beginnings can be traced back to 2018 in South Korea. Sumber: Wiki.)

“Is it on the disco or synthwave side of newtro?”

“Um, I think it was synthwave!”

“Then, by any chance, do you have the sound pack…”

The hubae, who didn’t work directly on it and couldn’t have mastered all the terms of composition, began to shrink away at Kim Raebin’s question. I had to cut him off.

“I’m sorry. He’s so passionate about music…”

“It’s good to be so passionate…! You’re amazing!”

“Ah, thank you.”

This wouldn’t do. The new employee was back again.

I felt sorry for the hubae who seemed stiff and was shouting flattering words, so I refreshed the atmosphere.

“First of all, I understand why you came here. You must have been worried. You must have been upset.”

“Yes…”

“But as you know, it’s hard for us to get carelessly involved in the production of other groups. It hasn’t even been 2 years since we debuted. Now that I’ve heard the story, it’s hard to make it a legal issue.”

“…Right.”

The hubae’s face turned dark.

And Kim Raebin’s face also turned dark. Dude, you can’t do this to me.

‘Th song is the problem.’

I almost missed Keun Sejin for a moment. I continued, holding back my sigh.

“But I fully understand how you feel. Have you ever discussed this topic with the company?”

“…I tried, but they didn’t listen.”

In the end, in order for the words of the kids who haven’t debuted to be accepted, do they have to prepare a presentation?

“I see.”

Kim Raebin nodded his head eagerly, perhaps remembering his former agency.

“It’s sad. Everyone should be able to speak freely…”

Aigoo.

I looked at Kim Raebin in silence.

Kim Raebin quietly hardened.

All right. Now let’s pick the right words.

‘You never know how the story will be distorted if Testar comes forward and covers it up.’

The rookie had to be shown opposing it themselves, not Testar.

So, our role ended with advice.

I crossed my arms.

“Have you heard of the topic of America at the company recently?”

“A-America?… Ah, when we met the director, he said that a lot.”

“I see.”

So, the American disease was still alive. I nodded and said casually.

“The next time you meet someone in a higher position, why don’t you let this conversation go in this direction?”

“Yes?”

“Magical Girl is too traditional and nerdy, so I don’t think it will work in places like America.”

“…!!”

“Newtro is popular in America these days, give them examples of how effective it would be if you ride the trend before it passes.”

“In person?”

“No, you make the members hear those conversations. Do it with the AR team staff or company people as well.”

“…”

The astonishment disappeared from the hubae’s expression, and instead, there was calmness.

“And, when the rumors spread, I can meet with the director and talk about it properly?”

‘Oh.’

She was good at judging the situation.

I nodded my head slightly.

“I am not sure, but… If you prepare it properly, it might work. We did the same thing when we debuted.”

"…"

The hubae didn't answer for a while as if lost in thought, but she soon nodded calmly.

"…Yes. Thank you."

"No. I hope it helps."

"Yes! Thank you so much for your precious time. Thank you!… Oh, a call! Ah, see you next time, sunbae-nims!"

The hubae quickly said goodbye, and soon ran out of the meeting room, startled by the sound of ringing vibration.

'She must have come out here secretly.'

Well, now it was up to them to figure it out. I shrugged and got up from my seat.

"Raebin, let's go, too."

"Yes."

Kim Raebin got up, arranged the chair, and then asked a question with a serious face.

"Do you think the hubae's persuasions will be successful?"

"Let's see. I think it's a matter of luck and ability."

Kim Raebin lowered his head and muttered in a slightly gloomy tone.

"I hope it goes well."

"Why? Do you feel sorry for the hubaes that might get cursed at?"

"There's that too, but…"

Kim Raebin hesitated and continued.

“I hope they don’t use our debut song as they please.”

“…!!”

“Everyone worked hard without having the time to sleep, so I don’t want other people to abuse the precious result… It may sound selfish, but I am more concerned about the feelings of our group.”

Seriously.

“It’s not selfish.”

“R-Really?”

I smiled.

“Yeah. I feel the same.”

“…!”

“How could I feel good about someone stealing our song to get some attention?”

“Y-You’re right.”

Right. Even the group would suffer some damage, so if I just let this go, I was just a damn pushover.

“And if they don’t succeed, I am going to work on it so that it doesn’t go completely according to the company’s will, so don’t worry too much.”

“…Yes!”

The sullen look disappeared from Kim Raebin’s face.

“By the way, how are you going to do it?”

Hmm, I just had to lay the groundwork.

That day, as soon as I returned to the dorm before the other members, I uploaded a post on SNS with Kim Raebin.

Debut production

(File)

To celebrate the airing of the theme park squandering, I look back on my original determination. I will continue to work hard…

(Screenshot)

It was the first and final version of the PPT related to the debut song, which was made to persuade the director at the time of the debut.

By the way, a file storage list from the first draft to the final copy was also attached as a screenshot.

There were all kinds of titles with lots of ‘Real-Final’ and ‘1- (1)’ attached in the screenshot.

Kim Raebin hit his palm.

“I get it! You posted it, emphasizing the physical evidence that the arrangement, concept, and lyrics of ‘Magical Boy’ were all produced by Testar!”

“Uh… Yes.”

When he said it like that, it sounded very grandiose. I was just playing tricks.

And just in case, I set the format to make it look like I accidentally posted it, conscious of the reality show.

I did that in order to prevent the talk of 'Testar shot down the junior girl group' from coming out later in case the company went ahead with it.

"Hyung! Some fans recommend PPT templates!"

"Yeah."

The fans seemed to be immersed in memories while laughing at the strange content called PPT.

I listened to Kim Raebin relaying the responses and waited for the others to return.

After posting on SNS using the reality show as an excuse, I was thinking it would be nice to take some action related to the reality show at tomorrow's awards ceremony.

'It's worth discussing.'

And… I should also alert the two guys with the same name.

'I should tell them not to make it obvious at least.'

I just saw the article.

At the awards ceremony tomorrow, VTIC was finally resuming their official schedule.

Chapter 193

The Gold Disc Awards ceremony was held for two consecutive days, divided into music and album categories.

And male idols tend to be stronger in albums than in music, so they often show their faces in the latter.

This year, Testar was one of those cases.

This was because their album, which included ‘Present’, set a staggering record by selling more than 7th place in all-time idol album sales.

The music score was also excellent, but breaking the one-million-album barrier had a significant meaning.

First-tier male idol group in name and reality.

Even if there was an insurmountable wall above it.

– Still, they can’t get the Grand Prize because there’s Vtic ㅋㅋㅋ I feel sorry for them – Didn’t they still win ToneA’s Artist Award this year? Of course, I thought they would receive it since it was a T1 awards ceremony, but still ㅎ

– I don’t think Testar can win the Grand Prize yet, but maybe they can get it after Vtic goes down next year

□It’s been a while since the problematic guy was kicked out, but it’s still hell ㅇㅈㄹ I don’t accept a failed idol’s wistful thinking, you bastard~

□It’s ugly, Tika

“Oh, you bastards!”

A VTIC’s fan huffed and threw away her smartphone.

‘I’m so pissed… What’s with that criminal bastard?’

She didn’t like him because he didn’t have skills, but it even got to this point, she was so mad she felt like she was going crazy.

‘Our innocent kids suffer the damages… ’

Temporary hiatus due to cancellation of all schedules.

No appearances in the year-end programs under the excuse of a break.

Just looking at the pre-release, it seemed they had prepared something amazing for their comeback, but she couldn’t believe that it got delayed this much, and now it was just about to be released.

‘Seriously, he hasn’t caused any trouble since his debut… ’

In particular, this fan, who had a tendency to be a solo fan, recalled her favorite.

“Jaehyun…”

It was the leader, Cheongryeo.

*‘Our Shin Jaehyun… Even when he takes a break, he volunteers to take care of stray dogs, but he’s been having a hard time leading the guy who got involved with dirty s*hit like a club incident… ’*

Let’s think of it as a good thing, Cheongryeo’s fan changed her mind.

‘Yeah. We lost an incompetent guy who doesn’t do anything anyway, so let’s get a career-high with just the four of them.’

The fan, who gave a merciless review to the ex-member who was kicked out, logged on to SNS.

The accounts of VTIC fans, who had been somewhat quiet during the hiatus, were full of energy.

‘It’s a cheering-up atmosphere.’

This momentum had to lead to grades, so the fan eagerly scanned the texts to see if there were any strange nuances.

And she found a vacancy and licked her lips.

‘They must have switched.’

Some of the accounts she had been talking with disappeared before she knew it.

It would be filled with new people when the activity started soon, but it couldn’t be helped that there were people who had fled.

“Have they all switched to them?”

Recalling the group that had been making a buzz here and there for some time, the fan was overcome with a mysterious feeling.

A group with a junior who seemed to be quite close to Cheongryeo.

It was Testar from <Idol Inc.> season 3.

In fact, she also recently watched their reality show. This was because it was so popular on the Internet and she was a little interested in Park Moondae, who was close to Cheongryeo.

It was said that the video, which included all the elements people like from mukbang to gukppong, had secured even the ordinary people who were not interested in idols and middle-aged Wetube viewers.

– Ah ㅋㅋㅋ Hotteok with ice cream on top? It’s irresistible

– Our handsome young people are promoting Korea’s delicious hotteok~ You’re good with your hands and your faces look great.

Fighting^^

– ㅋㅋㅋLook at the faces of foreigners when they sing along to the song at Park Moondae's store. I think I would be like that too If a chef from a distant country who was cutting kebabs suddenly picked a great song

– Oh my, what if they misunderstood that all Koreans look like that… I don't know (smiley emoticon)

Thanks to the momentum, it was even scheduled to be aired on TV starting next week on T1 cable broadcast.

'If my kids were asked to do something like that, they would do well, too.'

Cheongryeo's fan grumbled, saying that it would be nice to work with a major broadcasting company.

But she couldn't deny that it was fun. Their characters were alive even in scenes that just passed by.

For example, in the second half of the second episode, there was also a scene where the business was suddenly suspended due to an unexpected rush of sales from the first day.

[It really tastes like heaven. I'd like to order one more ice cream hotteok. Please.]

[Bae Sejin: O-Okay.]

Bae Se-jin, who was carefully sprinkling chocolate on hotteok, was so nervous about the sudden attack by the foreigner that he creaked into the kitchen.

[Bae Sejin: Hotteok… I need another ice cream hotteok.]

[Lee Sejin: Gasp. Hyung, we just ran out of dough!]

[!!!!]

The shaking screen effect shook Bae Sejin's close-up.

[Bae Sejin: T-Then… W-Wait.]

[Lee Sejin: Ah, I'll tell them! I'll give them a lot of ice cream as a service~]

[Bae Sejin:… No, I'll do it!]

[Bam!]

Bae Sejin filled up the ice cream with a determined sports cheering song as the BGM.

[Oh~ Thank you!]

[…Ahem, you're welcome.]

And in the end, the additional order situation was concluded by receiving the customer's OK sign and making a proud expression.

The screen was also lively In the sales inspection discussion that followed.

[Suspension due to excessive orders!]

[※ Start of discussion ※]

Doodoom!

[Focusing on the recipe]

[Kim Raebin: It is a matter of skill to work with 50 pieces of dough and only make 40 pieces. I will learn 50 senses through practice after the business closes…!]

[Korea's generosity(?)]

[Lee Sejin: The cost isn't too high anyway, so let's give them a lot~ Show them how generous Korea is~]

[Let's make money]

[Park Moondae: Whatever you say, don't stop kneading. We need to sell something.]

The members actively expressed their opinions and seemed to get along well while bickering with each other, and their different personalities were also highlighted one by one.

In particular, Bae Sejin, who froze in surprise at the smallest mistake, and Kim Raebin, a broken hotteok machine, were walking around as cute memes.

It definitely meant that they felt attractive as celebrities.

'So leaks happen in our fandom too… '

But even that ends today, Cheongryeo's fan thought.

Now that the hiatus was over and the comeback had been confirmed, VTIC would continue drawing attention at a terrifying speed!

'As long as they pick a good song, their decline is far away!'

Rather, due to the influence of the member's withdrawal incident, there was a lot of interest like 'let's see how well you're holding up' or 'You've worked hard, I am cheering for you'.

And for a long time after his debut, Cheongryeo had never betrayed the fans' expectations.

[Ring~ Tiring!]

"Ah, here it comes."

As soon as the suggestion that 'Viewers under the age of 12 are not permitted to watch' passed by, she turned her attention to the TV.

'The live comeback stage at the awards ceremony!'

Perhaps it was filmed in advance, the singers seated in the waiting room were briefly caught and passed by.

And the moment it passed a certain point.

"Heol."

Testar was caught on the screen.

Of course, it was not that Cheongnyeo's fan was suddenly impressed that Testar came out. It was because their timing was perfect.

They just appeared on the screen… putting the commemorative cushions they bought at the amusement park on their chairs.

Squish, squish, squish!

They even covered up the amusement park trademark.

And the camera took a dim close-up of the animal's face on the cushions attached to the chair.

'What is that?'

When she opened the internet page with a sudden gut feeling, the live viewers were laughing and plastering 'ㅋㅋㅋㅋ'.

Even for those who hadn't watched Testar's reality show, it was a funny scene that appeared out of the blue.

And those who watched the reality show were having fun sharing the background knowledge.

– Over here, it's crazyㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– What's the story behind that? ㅋㅋ

– It's on Testar's reality show

– Gah ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Thousand dollars of Impulsive buying, but they make use of it to the fullest

– Look at Korean young people who pay off their debts on the US trip by selling hotteok~

"Wow…"

While waiting for VTIC to be caught on the screen, Cheongryeo's fan had no choice but to admit it a little.

Those guys were really great.

* * *

"I want to use the cat cushion."

"Cha Eugene, you broke the cat cushion! Be content with the dolphin."

"I hate the dolphin."

Cha Eugene had his eyes on Kim Raebin's cushion bought from the shop. My head hurt as I kept looking at the situation.

I lifted my cushion.

"…Use the puppy cushion."

"Nice!"

Cha Eugene happily took the puppy cushion and politely held out the dolphin with both hands.

It was definitely ugly, but I was going to crush it with my butt anyway, so it didn't matter.

'Huft.'

I laid down the cushion and sat down. I could hear another idol hurriedly holding back their laughter next to me.

'Laugh a lot.'

It was a good sign that the viewers would laugh, too.

Since it seemed we had done a good job in promoting the reality show, let's focus on the award ceremony now.

Like the seating arrangement.

'VTIC is right next to us.'

Since Testar was more popular than last year, it was inevitable that we received a good seat.

Besides, it wasn't Cheongryeo that bothered me. It was the guy next to me.

'What's with him?'

Next to me, Bae Sejin had a very grave expression.

Fortunately, because it was an awards ceremony, everyone would misunderstand that it was because of the award, or else there would be all sorts of speculation.

Holding back a sigh, I covered my mouth just in case and spoke quietly.

"Hyung, your expression."

"Ah…!"

Immediately, Bae Sejin regained his usual expression. Certainly, his ability as an actor was outstanding.

'Keun Sejin… Well, there's nothing to worry about.'

The guy who was laughing and teasing Cha Eugene was no different than usual.

Well, it was only natural. I remembered the conversation I had with these guys yesterday.

– I won't pay much attention, but I'd like to ask for a cover if the situation turns weird – H-How??

– Hmm… If it looks like there's going to be a problem, can you just change the subject?

In fact, in terms of the skill distribution, it was no different than just asking Keun Sejin rather than Bae Sejin, but as a courtesy, those words were delivered centering on the older one.

– Okay~

And as expected, Keun Sejin ended the reaction like without saying any further words.

However, Bae Sejin seemed to get a sense of duty from this conversation.

– Ahem, yes. Don't worry!

After answering like this, he was high-spirited all the way through the awards ceremony as if he was escorting his younger brother who had been bullied on the way to the school.

'Isn't that what's causing trouble?'

I probably shouldn't say it.

But it was admirable that he was trying to be mindful, so I decided to ease the tension.

Like this.

"Come to think of it, Sejin hyung's cushion has a ribbon on it."

"That's right. Sejin, that guinea pig character is cute."

"…Yeah, I think so, too."

"Yes. Did you buy it because you thought of it after watching the VOD reaction?"

"…!!"

Bae Sejin's face turned red.

The VOD reaction was this.

A video of Testar's reaction to the first concert rehearsal which was included in the VOD sales of this concert.

'I heard they'll release it to promote the VOD.'

And when Bae Sejin reacted, he lost it.

This was because the rehearsal video that came out was the unit stage fully equipped with costumes ranging from jean jackets to ribbons.

In addition, inquiries from the film production crew came out.

– The ribbon really suits you!

–… No

Watching Bae Sejin do this and run away on the screen, Cha Eugene had mercilessly burst into laughter.

Hmm, Bae Sejin yelled loud as if he recalled the same scene.

“No! It’s just similar to a hamster…!”

“Oh, a hamster.”

“It’s not that I’m a hamster! I-It’s because the fans call me that!”

“Guinea pigs are big hamsters, right?”

“Ugh.”

At the members’ innocent question, Bae Sejin sank. He wouldn’t be able to get out of it for a while.

‘They must have looked harmonious, so it’s killing two birds with one stone.’

I smiled and looked away from Bae Sejin.

Then, my eyes met with the people at the next table who were just entering.

“…!”

“Oh! Moondae-ssi~!”

The two VTIC guys who appeared together with me in a variety show last time smiled and waved as soon as our eyes met.

And right next to them stood the guy who tried to hit my head with a hammer.

Chapter 194

VTIC's Cheongryeo.

'Is this the first time since vacation?'

In fact, just as I expected, it didn't really affect me. Seeing that he had been quiet, the chances of him doing useless nonsense were low.

'I guess I can just play along.'

Sure enough, I could only hear other guys chattering. They seemed to have raised their voices because they were conscious of the noisy awards ceremony.

"I'm enjoying the reality show!"

"Thank you."

Since their comeback had been postponed, they probably had been watching all sorts of videos while staying quiet at home.

However, perhaps misunderstanding my lack of excitement that made my words sound like empty words, they continued talking once more.

"No, we all watched it together and it was really fun!"

"That's right, hyung enjoyed it too, right?"

"…!"

One of them prompted and pulled Cheongryeo into the conversation.

'Just go away.'

Even if you thought we had a proper friendship, the atmosphere was now sh*t, but if it got caught on a fancam, it would generate rumors.

'These bastards are really annoying.'

As I sighed, I made eye contact with Cheongryeo.

"…"

He gave a slight nod.

That was all.

'Oh.'

It was an appropriate attitude for the situation, which was a bit surprising.

Just as I wondered if common sense had finally returned to that guy's head after he got hit on the head.

"Ah~ Sunbae-nims, thank you so much! We also watch sunbae-nims' performances a lot these days~"

"Oh~ It's a bit embarrassing!"

"I know, right!"

"So I even brought a cushion today to concentrate hard on it!"

"Wahaha! That's why you brought it?"

"Of course~ Sunbae-nims, fighting!"

"Yes, hubae-nims too, fighting!"

Keun Sejin took care of the conversation and ended it.

Should I treat him?

‘It’s worth the meal price.’

I could say that Bae Sejin over there deserved the meal price just by not staring at VTIC.

And the moment VTIC went to their seat, Keun Sejin immediately covered his mouth so that it couldn’t be seen by the audience and said quietly.

“…Where did you hit him? I couldn’t see any traces.”

“At the back. His neck.”

Cheongryeo was wearing a black turtleneck.

It was clear that the scar hadn’t gone away yet.

Keun Sejin made a strange expression for a moment, but quickly erased his expression.

[Hello everyone. The beginning of the year, looking back on last year’s performance…]

And at that moment, the MC’s greetings began to come out from the stage.

The main broadcast had begun.

‘It’s going to be boring for a while.’

I put my weight on the backrest so that it didn’t show.

It was time to run the reaction machine.

* * *

Of course, it was nice to have time to sit still in the middle of a busy schedule.

However, it was also quite uncomfortable that I had to show a look of concentration while only looking at the stage without doing anything.

'Still, it's better than Idol Inc's first recording.'

At least all of the people who performed on stage now were the people who would win the awards.

Woooow!

I applauded following the cheers to the group performance that had just ended.

They added a dance performance that incorporated modern dance, but honestly, it wasn't very fun except for the one person standing in the center.

If I were to replace the popular idols with Idol Inc's ranks… they probably would be somewhere between gold and silver rank.

Hmm, let's hear the expert's opinion.

"What do you think about the stage?"

"M-Me?"

"Yes."

"Um, I-I think it's cool that they worked hard. Um, the extensions are pretty."

You can't say that they're good. Got it.

Like that, I put up with it while maintaining a reaction that was appropriate enough to not be seen as rude on the fancam.

[Loviewer, I love you!]

[Thank you. Thanks to all of you, we had a great year]

After an hour and a half, right after we said our award speech for the Main Prize, it was time to prepare for our stage.

“Move, move.”

“Okay.”

And this stage wasn’t just one of the special stages of the awards season.

It was our first performance after the successful reality show.

We had to bring the public attention we had received through the variety show toward the stage once again so that we could be liked as an idol group.

‘After all, I have to do my job properly.’

So this time, I put in some strength.

– The day that finally came

Present

Grrrr-wow!

The moment the two-pronged choreography collided with numerous dancers on stage, colorful flags with pictures of landscape paintings and animals fluttered by.

And there was a nimble dance break using a globose laser effect.

Brilliant colors and movements mesh with aggressive arrangements.

It was a performance that applied ‘Horseback riding Gyeokgu[1]Gyeokgu is an equestrian sport in East Asia with some similarities to polo. It’s called Dakyu in China. ‘, a traditional game played by military officers during the Goryeo and Joseon Dynasties.

Cheers pierced through my in-ear.

Uwaaaah!!!

Aah!

I added the dance break part that was shown at the concert to a shorter and simpler variation, and the response was very good.

I had thought about this the other day. Funnily enough, now I could roughly distinguish it just by the atmosphere on stage.

Whether it was a stage that was appropriately acceptable, or whether it was a stage worth seeing.

This time it was definitely the latter.

“Huft.”

“The floor was slippery, but everyone did well.”

“It was great~”

Even if Keun Sejin said so, he sneakily looked up, perhaps feeling regretful. It seemed that he had failed to show more radical movements than planned.

“Yes, you’ve worked hard. It’s been a while since we performed in Korea, right?”

“Yeah.”

“It’s fun!”

Seeing that the camera lit up on the flawless clean stage, the performance seemed to be set as great as the rehearsal.

Everyone took a breath with proud faces and came back to their seats.

It just so happened that VTIC wasn't around.

'They probably perform next.'

Now that the live broadcast was almost over, they must have gone to prepare for the last stage sequence.

The Popularity Award and the Grand Prize were the only ones left.

'If they win at this timing, they'll jump out of the backstage.'

I'd seen it a few times, but honestly, it had less impact than getting up and coming out of the seat.

Thinking that this year's local awards ceremony was a bit clumsy, I waited for the VCR on the screen to finish.

And after a while.

[The winner of Golden Disc's Popularity Award is… Congratulations. Testar!]

The presenter of the Popularity Award called out Testar.

"…!!"

"Huh? Huuh?"

The guys who had been sitting leisurely after the stage jumped up.

It was understandable.

This was… frankly an unexpected situation.

After being sanctioned not long ago for ‘encouraging unhealthy competition’, the voting status for the Popularity Award was changed to a closed-door method in which only the total number of votes was displayed.

‘But it made sense.’

Popularity Awards were often won together by the winner of the Album Grand Prize.

This was an era where streaming services had become mainstream. A singer who had sold a lot of albums? That meant that the singer themselves was popular, not just the song.

However, Testar, not VTIC, won the award with 100% voting, without the involvement of the organizers in the name of ‘expert screening’.

‘Even if VTIC fans have less participation, it’s still true.’

I knew that VTIC fans, who had assumed that VTIC wouldn’t be able to attend this awards ceremony, didn’t enthusiastically rush to vote until almost the last minute.

Even taking that into account, this result was still surprising.

‘There must have been a late rush after the article that they would be attending come out.’

This is what we call… ‘worth rubbing it in’, isn’t it?

A strange feeling of joy slipped past me.

‘Let’s stay calm.’

Anyway, apart from this thought that passed by in an instant, my body reflexively got up and I bowed my head.

So did the other guys.

“Wow…”

“Wow!”

There were all kinds of reactions, from those who got up with puzzled faces to those who ran out of excitement, but no one seemed to have expected anything. It was only natural.

The organizers didn’t say anything either.’

Maybe they wanted to properly pull out the cut of us being surprised. Treacherous bastards.

We creaked up onto the stage, accompanied by a camera that eagerly zoomed in.

“T-Thank you…!”

“Thank you!”

However, as the line was naturally disrupted because we greeted the fans who were waving their hands, the hand microphone from the staff went to the wrong person, not the leader.

It was Kim Raebin.

“Uh… Um.”

He was flustered. As expected, an impromptu speech was too much for this guy.

‘But once you’ve got your chance, you have to say something.’

Just say, ‘Thank you, I love you’.

“Thank you.”

Like that.

However, Kim Raebin seems to have gained momentum after taking his chance. He kept holding the microphone and spitting long words back and forth.

“While preparing the album, I had frequent concerns about whether it would be a hit in the public eye, but as a result, receiving the award because many people voted for it feels like a confirmation that the group’s choice was not wrong.”

Please, stop.

Still, at this level, it was a passing score, albeit a lengthy one.

If it ended well like that.

“And the adventurous choice of solo songs… Gasp, I’m sorry!”

However, when Kim Rabin finally found the staff’s sign in front of him, he freaked out and politely handed over his microphone to me.

“…??”

Why are you giving it to me? The leader is next to you.

The audience burst into laughter. Kim Raebin respectfully stepped back, covering his face.

‘It’s rather fortunate.’

More than half of the audience that filled the ground right now were VTIC fans, but the atmosphere there had eased up a bit.

Seeing that the less-than-2-years-old rookies who won the award were flustered, it seemed it was possible they would delude themselves with ‘I’ll let you go this time’.

I naturally tried to pass the microphone to Ryu Chungwoo, but Ryu Chungwoo smiled and pretended to ask me to do it.

He probably made concessions because he had given his speech on the Main Prize.

'It's fine.'

I held up the microphone even though I was nervous.

"Raebin is very smart. I agree with everything Raebin said."

After a small laugh burst out again, I calmly continued.

"Thank you to everyone who took time out of their busy lives to vote for us. I will come back with an album that deserves more votes."

"Thank you!"

"Loviewer, I love you! It's great!"

The award time ended with Cha Eugene raising his thumb.

Since there were cameras even during the short time we went through backstage, we couldn't have a detailed conversation yet, but everyone seemed to feel it.

Now, Testar wasn't just the first-tier group's goalkeeper, we had entered their weight class.

'That's certainly motivating.'

I even thought that the people at the company might be dreaming about whether it would be possible to create a rivalry with VTIC smoothly by next year.

But after a while.

Looking at VTIC's comeback stage, I thought the company must have given up on the short-lived dream.

Waaaah!!

The cheers from the audience seats were so loud it could tear apart your eardrums. It was understandable.

'They're filthy good.'

Even though the number of people had been reduced to 4, there were no empty spaces because the dancers were placed in the right places.

And the tune was great.

'If a company does its job well, that's what happens.'

They quickly cut off the guy who couldn't be rectified and thoroughly take care of the rest so that there was no article during the break period.

Even Cheongryeo's injury had never surfaced to the outside world. With just this one action, I could feel the company's experience, ability, and vision at once.

As a result. With that one perfect stage amidst the well-polished public opinion, it was obvious that VTIC would smoothly escape the downtrend crisis.

In short, it was very comparable to any agency.

'Hmm, I want to resign.'

As I recited the dreams of all office workers, VTIC's long stage would soon come to an end and the Grand Prize would be announced.

Well, it was obvious.

[The Grand Prize winner is… VTIC's <Insight>!]

If you don't want to create attitude controversy, stand up and clap your hands.

[Thank you so much! We… Sniff, we'll really do better.]

That side was crying too, they must have had a hard time. The sound of snifflings could be heard not only from the award speech but also from the audience seats.

‘Hmm.’

However, Cheongryeo’s face was clean.

He pretended to soothe other guys a few times as if out of habit, and eventually grabbed the microphone.

Then, in a feminine tone, he began his speech.

[I don’t know.]

Have you gone crazy?

- 1. Gyeokgu is an equestrian sport in East Asia with some similarities to polo. It’s called Dakyu in China.

Chapter 195

"…?"

"…??"

When someone said something like 'I don't know' in today's Grand Prize award speech, of course, the concert hall froze.

It wasn't even a tone that came out of emotion and embarrassment, it was just a soft and mysterious tone.

'This bastard can't be going crazy and talking nonsense, right?'

A chill ran down my spine. Of course, that bastard probably didn't know that VTIC Cheongryeo's record of attempted murder would be published as an article if he mentioned Park Moondae.

Most of the people watching the stage were probably running their pupils around mercilessly at that awkward timing.

Cheongryeo continued.

[I really don't know. There was once a night when I was so desperate for this spot that I cried and couldn't sleep, and I couldn't stand it.]

Even if the members next to him were frozen, Cheongryeo's slow words continued.

[And after the time that felt like it would never come, I finally reach this far.]

Cheongryeo tilted his head.

[I still don't know what kind of enlightenment the desperateness at that time gave me. But now, my feeling is more than that.]

The audience held their breath. Cheongryeo laughed.

[Thank you. For not letting me give up.]

That was how the speech ended.

Belatedly, normal applause started pouring out from the people who realized that it had a proper heartwarming and emotional ending.

Fans had been cheering enthusiastically from the beginning.

Perhaps they were thinking that such feelings came out because of the recent commotion among the members.

Probably… That feeling actually came from other experiences.

"…"

I sat down quietly, following the others.

On stage, the VTIC guys were wiping away tears and clumsily patting Cheongryeo's back. It must be something he didn't normally do.

Still, with the title song of the Grand Prize album playing, VTIC stood on stage until the song was over.

Then, after the camera light was turned off for a while, they slowly came down from the stage.

"Hmm."

I felt like he just greeted me from over there, but I couldn't be sure because of the distance.

It didn't matter.

Anyway, the ceremony ended with such cheers.

“I want to win the Grand Prize!”

As soon as we left and got in the car, Cha Eugene murmured somewhat sulkily.

It seemed he got interested because VTIC received the Grand Prize the moment we came down with the Popularity Award.

“Why? We did get one. Artist of the Year Award at ToneA!”

“It’s not real! They present our broadcast!”

Surprisingly, Keun Sejin didn’t waver despite the harsh remarks.

“Hey, we still earned it~”

“No. I want to win it fair and square.”

Hmm, now it was time for Kim Raebin to step in.

“We did win it fair and square.”

I knew it.

“It’s the same thing.”

“That’s not true!”

“It is!”

I was just glad there were no people around. I picked up my smartphone and ignored the two people who inadvertently started bickering while forgetting about the Grand Prize.

It wasn’t just once or twice this happened, and they would go quiet on their own even if no one stopped them.

“A-Are you reading the comments about us?”

“Might as well.”

I was thinking of monitoring it out of habit, but there were things I had to organize first.

[You have a new message +34]

There were a lot of text messages and message notifications.

Maybe those were congratulatory messages. Against all expectations, Testar received the Popularity Award, so the article must have been quite big.

‘There’s nothing urgent.’

It was just sent out of courtesy by strangers I had exchanged numbers with anyway.

I just skimmed through text messages and message notifications.

…And, I saw a distinct text message among the congratulatory texts.

[I brought this guy in]

Not beating around the bush, in the text message that came with only those five words without any other explanation, a picture of a rather filthy dog was attached.

The guy sleeping in the corner of the sofa looked like a retriever mix.

“…”

Well, I supposed it was over with this.

I skipped the message without deleting it.

And just as I was about to start monitoring again, I heard a deafening call from behind.

“Moondae hyung! Don’t you think Cha Eugene’s remarks on the Grand Prize are rash and reckless?!”

“We must have a dream! Kim Raebin is narrow-minded!”

You even know words like narrow-minded?

Anyway, it seemed that the topic of conversation had turned to Grand Prize after those two fought.

‘Where is the leader?’

Looking at Ryu Chungwoo, it seemed he was busy talking to the manager about the next schedule.

It couldn’t be helped.

I nodded and opened my mouth.

“Winning a Grand Prize would be nice.”

“That’s right!”

“But if you want to say you will win Grand Prize next year, it’s better not to say it too often.”

“Why?”

I smirked.

“It would be less touching if you win it after talking about it so much, wouldn’t it?”

“…!”

Behind the shocked faces of those two, Keun Sejin snickered.

“Hey, look at Moondae’s spirit.”

“That’s cool.”

“Thank you for your advice on the new perspective.”

Don’t mention it.

In fact, if Testar maintained this momentum, there was a good chance of winning the Grand Prize within a year or two.

‘VTIC will go to the army, too.’

Of course, I didn’t know if I would be living as Park Moondae until then.

For now, let’s assume that would be the case.

“T-That’s right, Moondae. Let’s work hard and get the Grand Prize…!”

“Yes.”

“Grand Prize!”

Cha Eugene was excited and began started humming a song and put Grand Prize as the subject instead of Present.

Bae Sejin covered his ears with earphones and went into the corner. Too bad.

‘That will keep him in a good mood for a while.’

Well, it wasn’t just because of Grand Prize.

“Grand Prize for the day I finally go home~”

It was because the next reality shooting destination was his home in San Diego that Cha Eugene sang like that.

Thinking about baking hundreds of hotteoks in two weeks, I felt like I was already getting muscle pain.

As expected, the food business was heavy labor.

‘Well, my arms are all healed.’

I looked at my wrist, where the bruise had almost disappeared.

Now, even in the examination, they didn’t say any caution.

So by then… It seemed I could resume my solo performance as well.

‘Good.’

I was already looking forward to the encore concert in Seoul.

Of course, I had to finish the rest of the Japan tour in January before that.

* * *

Testar’s concert tour in Japan was conducted in an arena size.

It was the size right before the dome tour, which was often seen as a symbol of a super-big singer, and it was an ambitious size before <Idol Inc.> was aired in Japan.

By the way, Park Moondae was bitter that the remaining tickets were sold through dumping.

(TL note: Dumping: selling a large volume of a product in a single transaction at a price lower than the market price.)

However, after <Idol Inc.> aired, it turned out to be a good prediction of demand.

[Testar's first arena tour in Japan, 8 concerts in 4 cities sold out]

Ticketing for concerts in the form of a lottery was highly competitive in each city.

And the performances that wouldn't disappoint those who succeeded in the competitive ticketing continued.

– Everyone did the opening with a smile, so cool and cute!

– Here is an idol otaku who screamed at their favorite solo performance (laugh)

– The moment the encore came out, this magical moment was also over, I really couldn't hold back my tears because of that feeling… I am still crying。゜(゜´Д`゜)゜。

– Not even 1mm of them is messed up by the flowing sweat, so he can't be human, right? This kid is obviously an angel who came down to Earth

'No, where are the pictures…!'

Bang. Kim Rabin's personal fan hit the keyboard with her fist.

She would be lucky if there was a supply of one or two fancams for each stage, as there had been many cases where solo cuts were completely wiped out.

'Why isn't there any detailed review on the stage?!'

The solo fan cried out that this was why she didn't like the tour in Japan. The control was so strict it was like there was no schedule at all.

Still, Testar was kind.

Dear Loviewer, I'm here

(Bear emoticon)

This is today's penalty outfit ㅋㅋㅋ But everyone is still cute, right? For sure! (Coy emoticon)

(Photo)

Even during the tour, each member took turns and constantly left a review of today's schedule and performance on SNS.

'Big Bird always picks and uploads the best pictures.'

Kim Raebin's solo fan grumbled, but she saved the photos of Kim Raebin and Park Moondae that Keun Sejin uploaded.

"So cute…"

Testar's improvised stage penalty outfit was a kindergarten uniform.

If you scraped together the contents mentioned in Japanese fans' reviews, it was said that <It's Me>, Idol Inc season 3's theme song, was arranged as a children's song.

*'F*ck…!'*

She heard that in Yokohama–or was it Jokohama?–last week, they even performed a song from a famous idol rhythm game unit, but her stomach hurt because it ended with one blurry picture.

The solo fan banged her head on the desk.

Bang!

'Please come back to the country…!'

Fortunately, thanks to the overwhelming stage of the award ceremony and cute congratulatory W live not too long ago, the public opinion of domestic fans was still fine.

However, there was a subtle anxiety that VTIC might lose all of its influx this year.

This was because they were still on a winning streak making a first-place record after their comeback stage at the awards ceremony.

‘That bastard is good at talking.’

The solo fan wriggled her eyebrows when she recalled Cheongryeo’s speech at the award ceremony that incited hardcore fans with huge aggro.

She recalled it along with the VTIC fans who stealthily made provoking noises.

– ㅠㅠI guess my kids feel sorry for their juniors because they can’t change generations. They’re so nice to them…

– It can’t be helped that a great team continues to lead this game, they’re just following their abilities! So I think we’ll see each other in the top spot for a long time. I love you

□This is a remark of a Tika who is scared that the junior will rise up following their abnormal abilities and beat them up

At that time, Kim Raebin’s fan, who was still furious even after defending Testar in the last comment, exclaimed.

‘Guys, please give us something in Korea!’

It was then.

Tiring.

“Huh?”

She got a WeTube notification on her smartphone.

[(Trailer) I’ll sell hotteok instead of lemonade at the maknae’s house

(Resolute) Testar's Idol Working Holiday Season 2]

"Crazy!"

At the long-awaited popular content, the fan hit the Bluetooth keyboard.

* * *

The morning after the Japan arena tour was completely over.

When I woke up after a good sleep on the plane, I arrived at Cha Eugene's neighborhood as planned.

I bought some presents and headed to his home, but a few unexpected things happened there.

Mainly because of language issues.

It was because an old woman who ran out of Cha Eugene's house spread her arms wide and shouted.

"Bienvenido carifto!!"

And Cha Eugene replied.

"Abuela, estoy aqui!"

"…??"

It's not English… isn't it?

'Spanish?'

Of course, it was a language that no one on the team had ever spoken before.

Cha Eugene ran out and hugged the old woman through the unexpected language barrier.

It must be his grandmother.

Ryu Chungwoo hurriedly grabbed Cha Eugene.

“E-Eugene? Is that your grandmother?”

“Yes! Ah, she speaks English! My grandmother speaks English well!”

Rather than that, his carefreeness in not bothering to mention that he spoke Spanish was more surprising.

In any case, after a clumsy introduction in English, a welcome greeting, and a gift exchange, the reality shooting began in earnest.

First of all, obviously, it started with the scene where we asked Cha Eugene’s family to eat hotteok.

“What about your parents?”

“They’re working now!”

For that reason, the solo cut of the grandmother was included instead of the other people who said they hadn’t left work yet.

And the grandmother cleanly emptied the plate.

“I guess she likes it.”

“That’s a relief.”

As the six grown-up men who gathered in the kitchen to bake hotteok were whispering, Cha Eugene, who had been talking with his grandmother, interpreted.

[It’s delicious, but um, she said she wants it a little sweeter! Because it’s a snack!]

“Yes.”

I nodded.

Looking back at the breakfast earlier, it seemed that this place generally had sweeter tastes than Korea.

“Then let’s add dalgona.”

(TL notes: Dalgona is a Korean candy made by adding baking soda to sugar and stirring it.)

“What?”

“Yes?”

And after a while, we decided to sell a crazy snack called dalgona ice cream hotteok.

Chapter 196

First day of the hotteok business in San Diego.

Before the opening time, the PD smiled and gave a briefing.

“Everyone, don’t forget! You’re going to play right away tomorrow~”

The remaining debt was $1,000.

Last season, due to a miserable defeat from the chain of debt and sales to the last desperate drawing lot, we ended up in a debt-ridden state.

Therefore, if we didn’t earn about 1,500 dollars today, we would be in debt the moment we play tomorrow.

‘The picture will be more fun if we can pay it all off at this point.’

If the money kept piling up, it would become a problem because the tension dropped down, but being constantly in debt wasn’t good either. Wouldn’t it be better to have uphill and downhill?

But perhaps the PD was too immersed, he didn’t give us a chance.

“We should show our Korean conscience, right?” You can’t double the price just because you put a dalgona on it~”

“Sheesh.”

“Huh? Who said sheesh just now?”

It couldn’t be helped.

What I could trust now was the ability to attract customers and… Cha Eugene’s existing connections.

Just in time, Cha Eugene raised both his arms and shouted.

[My high school friends are coming. Let's make them order three dishes for each person!]

"No, it's fine."

If you went that far, you were basically robbing them. Rather than getting controversial articles, let's just do our best to attract customers.

It was time to reorganize the job distribution and bring out new fun, but I postponed it at the end of the discussion because I needed skilled workmanship today.

So today's lineup was similar to last time.

Cha Eugene and Seon Ahyeon, who were fluent in foreign languages, took the orders, while Ryu Chungwoo and Keun Sejin finished plating and serving.

However, only one person has a change of job.

"I'll do my best."

Bae Sejin was put into the cooking section.

With the addition of dalgona, the amount of labor increased… It was the excuse I gave, but in fact, there were other reasons.

Last season, Bae Sejin fell into a sense of shame after making one mistake, so we made him our backup under the pretext of it being a versatile position, and the response was very good.

'They were saying it's cute.'

The production team saved his hard-working character through editing, so it became 'It's not obvious, but, in fact, he only made 1.5 serving'.

And this time, based on that image, the position was assigned to give the taste of promotion.

'It would be more fun if having a lot of contact with foreigners is added to the picture.'

Bae Sejin's stomach would melt so I gave up the idea.

"I'll do my best, too! Let's cook and sell the perfect hotteok today!"

"…That's great!"

"Yeah. Shall we say fighting before we go?"

"Yeah!"

It seemed that subtitles like 'Up to this point, I was full of energy' would be included in the next cut, so I did it once for the image.

Next… The toppings that needed to be prepared right before the opening.

"Moondae-ssi, what are you doing right now~?"

"Pre-production of dalgona."

Keun Sejin started to point a handycam into the frying pan. It would probably be used as a separate recipe clip video.

Actually, it was embarrassing to call it a recipe.

"After melting enough sugar, I'm going to add baking soda and make a good layer of air."

"Oh~ Then what would happen?"

"It softens the texture."

I made a huge dalgona with three huge frying pans. And I handed it over one by one to Bae Sejin, who was waiting.

“Me! I want to eat it!”

“…Here.”

Bae Sejin, who was diligently breaking the dalgona, awkwardly held out a large piece to Cha Eugene.

It was like feeding a beast, but in the actual aired episode, it would be highlighted as a heartwarming moment.

And then, Kim Raebin, who was carefully dividing the broken pieces of dalgona, suddenly let out a sound.

“Ooh!”

“What’s wrong?”

“A-Are you hurt…?!”

Even Seon Ahyeon, who was cleaning the table outside, came running.

“No! I want you to pay attention to this!”

And Kim Raebin was so excited that he took the dalgona that he had divided… and began to weigh it on the scale.

30g.

It was the perfect exact amount.

Is this what you want to brag?

“Yeah, it fits well.”

“And this too!”

Kim Raebin quickly put another one on the scale.

It was 30g again.

“Oh.”

“This, too…!”

Kim Raebin kept putting another pack of dalgona on the scale.

30, 30, 30, 31, 30…

“…??”

“Heol.”

Even the production crew began to make a fuss.

The PD hurriedly asked.

“Raebin-ssi, did you just put all of this using your gut feeling without weighing it??”

Kim Raebin clasped his hands tightly.

“Yes!”

Oh my god.

“Wooow!”

“What’s up with Kim Raebin’s hand?!”

The members started making a fuss around Kim Raebin.

Apparently, Kim Raebin was a good slave even outside the art and physical field… No, he could have become a grad student.

“Amazing! Amazing!”

The staff joined in and it became a World Cup goal-scoring atmosphere.

[The broken hotteok machine]

[Suddenly started operating normally]

Hmm, maybe this kind of editing would enter right after this.

What came next would be either ‘Weirdly Lucky’ or ‘Dream Team’s dispatch’.

‘It will be decided by today’s sales performance.’

I changed my apron at the request of the art team.

It was about time to open the store.

* * *

Near La Jolla Beach on a sunny day.

A woman returning home from a nearby comic store smelled something good.

‘Cinnamon?’

When she turned her head to the savory and sweet scent, she saw a small store next to the corner.

‘I think it used to be a taco shop over there.’

She hadn’t been there so she wasn’t sure, but the good smell made her legs move.

Ring!

[Welcome~]

[Um, hello.]

Even at this ambiguous hour, there seemed to be a lot of customers inside the store.

The people who seemed to be the employees, serving and moving between the tables without hesitation, greeted her.

And one of them approached first.

[Would you like to try one?]

[Ah, um, I would love to.]

A tall man with a cheerful voice held out the plate filled with testers. His smile was nice to see.

She quickly took a piece off the plate.

[It's a sweet snack with a bit of cinnamon in it. Its texture is great. Ice cream or…]

[Table 3, Dalgona 2!]

[Yeah, got it! Um, guest. Eat it and if it's delicious, call me!]

The man smiled broadly and tried to say something more, but when he heard the call from the kitchen, he ran away with a laugh.

The person who called the man from the kitchen was also a man of his age with clean skin and a neat appearance.

'They are all handsome… '

There was a vibe that could be felt beyond race. She stood dazedly near the entrance and chewed on the piece of hotteok.

Hot, sweet cinnamon syrup burst in crisps.

"…!"

'It's delicious!'

She was dragged by the smell, but her mind became firm.

'I guess today's snacks have been decided.'

She headed straight to the counter where the menu was hung.

The man leaning against the counter suddenly rose.

[Are you going to order?]

Huh?

She opened her mouth wide at the familiar figure beneath the unfamiliar hair color.

[Oh! You! Eugene!]

[Huh?]

The person opposite her looked puzzled. When she looked up, she could see more of his handsome features and fangs.

Her memory was correct. It was Eugene!

[Hmm… Have we met before? Middle school? Elementary school?]

Of course, she should have expected this reaction.

Since he was such a popular boy, the only point of contact between them was when she showed him her homework and got some snacks in return.

[Ah… It's Hannah Hamilton. I was in the same class as you in middle school.]

[Ah~ Hannah! It's good to see you. How are you?]

Wow, it was encouraging that he pretended to know her!

Hannah replied with a laugh.

[Couldn't be better. What about you?]

[I am doing great. Ah, are you going to order?]

[Huh? Uh… Um.]

While she was hesitating, new people entered the store.

[You've come back to San Diego??]

[Oh~ Welcome!]

'Ugh.'

They were faceless middle school classmates.

She backed away in discomfort.

Then she bumped into someone behind her.

[…! I am sorry!]

[It's okay.]

It was another employee. He had a French accent.

And surprisingly, this one was also handsome.

'…What's this?'

What's up with this little store?

Upon meeting her eyes, the elegant employee asked with a smile.

[…Would you like to order?]

[…Yes! Do you have a vegetarian menu?]

[Sure. Vegetarian… Here it is. Here, can you look at this?]

She was recommended a vegetarian-topped hotteok with cashew vanilla ice cream by the friendly, elegant staff.

And by the time her menu came out, Eugene came back.

[Hannah~ Huh? You already ordered!]

And they had a short conversation while she ate.

Some of the topics were surprising.

[Y-You're a K-Pop singer?]

[Yes!]

It was an unexpected remark.

It was the truth, but it felt strange when a popular boy who used to play American football mentioned K-Pop!

It was true that some of the K-pop singers were famous, but overall it felt more like a subculture.

But Eugene was calm.

[Didn't you know? We're filming right now! These are all my team members.]

[…!!]

At those words, she looked around, and she could see camera lenses all over the place. And there were notices everywhere.

– Currently shooting a Korean broadcast. Thank you for your understanding.

She didn't notice it because she was looking at the food and the employees.

'I met my classmate who was a quarterback after a long time, and but he became a K-pop star and is selling snacks… '

In the unrealistic situation, she silently chewed on her food.

The hotteok she had ordered was very delicious.

'It would be nice if they could just keep selling it here.'

In addition, she even received a drink at the end of the meal.

[Hmm, it's a drink called 'Dalgona Soymilk Latte'! According to that hyung, it is a bonus service for my friend.]

[Hyung?]

At Eugene's gesture, I turned my head.

The man with an indifferent expression she had seen earlier in the kitchen nodded.

And smiled slightly.

'…That's cute!'

She almost smiled and nodded along, but she managed to switch routes halfway through.

[Really? Thank you. He's kind.]

[That's right, he's a good hyung!]

Hannah inadvertently sipped the new drink while talking to Eugene.

"…!"

This was pretty good, too.

When she reflexively lifted her head and looked back at the kitchen, she saw that the man who had given her the free drink had full control of the kitchen.

'You're a singer, but you cook so professionally like this?'

She didn't know whether he was the unimportant member of the bad or whether it was originally his main job…

'…Should I ask for his number?'

No. It wasn't possible.

She stopped thinking and picked up her smartphone instead.

Click.

She took a picture of the store's menu and uploaded it to her comics mania SNS account.

[Found a store by chance. I heard that a K-pop boyband is running it, but it has a taste made by professionals (chin-rubbing emoticon)]

It didn't mean much. It was just a record.

'Still, it's true that the food is delicious… The employees are cute too.'

In the end, she packed three sets of hotteok.

The man in the kitchen happily witnessed the series of events.

'All right, the business is going well.'

At this rate, they were close to getting the highest amount of money, and Park Moondae in the kitchen was satisfied.

And that night, Hannah confirmed that the post she uploaded on SNS received a tremendous response.

Testar's fans cried and asked for the location of the store.

– Please, please tell me. Where is it??

– Oh, my God, I was at La Jolla Beach yesterday ; (

– You're so lucky (Cha Eugene looking at Park Moondae's hotteok GIF)

'Oh, my God.'

Eventually, through several Testar music videos and their appearance on an American talk show, she realized that her classmate was more successful than she had expected.

And after a few days of floundering on WeTube, she wanted to turn back time, saying, 'I should have gotten an autograph'.

* * *

"Huft."

I sat down on my assigned bed.

It was the night after the first day of business ended successfully.

– Today's sales… $1,627!

– Uaaagh!!

Incentivizing the sales by offering low-cost drinks to customers who came through personal connections had worked better than expected.

Cha Eugene's friends were very generous.

'It's sold out.'

And after a noisy dinner with Cha Eugene's family, we finally received a break.

However, I shared a room with Cha Eugene again. Damn it.

'Today as well, it isn't going to be quiet.'

Even now, Cha Eugene was still talking.

"Hyung! I think of something cool for our unit stage!"

Still, this was the first time I heard him say this since the unit stage was decided to be an encore concert.

Well, it was about time to talk about it.

"What is it?"

Cha Eugene hit my bed.

[I've thought about it many times, but the circus is the best choice!]

Is that so?

I replied while looking at my smartphone.

"Okay."

"Oh?"

“Let’s do it, circus.”

“Wow!”

Cha Eugene raised his hands.

And after a while.

[As expected, diving would be more shocking, right?]

I knew this would happen.

‘I’ll have to get ready.’

Undoubtedly, the unit stage with Cha Eugene either would be a jackpot or a flop.

Chapter 197

Testar's reality show remained popular even after entering season 2.

No, rather, in terms of popularity, it received a better report card.

This was because Season 1, which was aired on TV, raised decent viewership ratings, and the term for Season 2 to air on TV was significantly reduced.

One week.

In addition, there was a slight difference in the amount of editing on WeTube and TV, so die-hard fans watched both.

Of course, there were more viewers who took advantage of the kind and quick labor of netizens.

[Hour Hall TV Additional Cut (1/3)]

: (Video)

0:43 Interview with Cha Kitty's grandmother

3:58 Keunse's whistling section

5:02 Park Moondae's smile collection

– Grandmother's pick is Chungwoo… As expected of my man

Wash your feet and go to sleep

– Crazy Lee Sejin, you're even good at whistling, just how far are you going?

– You smile when giving bonus services? Park Moondae is guilty

It was the first time since <Idol Inc.> that the group Testar itself was directly exposed to the public in terms of entertainment.

Of course, fans happily enjoyed the timing of the sales.

For a while, they thought VTIC would sweep off everything by themselves, but it felt good to see Testar come out even during their inactive period.

[Testar's Hour Hall that started season 2]

[The popularity of Testar members throughout serving in the US]

[An idol who can weigh 30g with just his hands]

In the first week when the first and second episodes of season 2 aired, dozens of popular articles went up and down on the Internet every day.

The momentum didn't die in the third and fourth episodes, which were released the following week.

[Testar's secret friend tour!]

In this tour, the members became each other's secret friends through a lottery.

[Kim Raebin: It's Chungwoo hyung!]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Ah, it's Moondae.]

[Bae Sejin:… Lee Sejin.]

And they had to buy the 'gift that person would want to get' that the selected members had chosen in advance as souvenir tourists without being caught.

Let's laugh at Testar who was trying their best to be exempted from the punishment and acting as a spy… Or so was the plan.

[PD: The members' caring deep friendship! It will be a tour that shows the power of friendship!]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Ah, I see!]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Then let's pretend we don't know each other.]

[The crew: !!!!]

Ryu Chungwoo's innocent and transparent destructive method completely ruined it.

The members stood in a line, entered the mall one by one, and came out with a fully wrapped gift box.

[PD: E-Everyone. Don't you want to know who the secret friend is?]

[Lee Sejin: Yes~]

[Kim Raebin: It's going to be revealed in half a day anyway, so I think I can endure not knowing.]

Despite the PD's desperate plea, Testar didn't budge.

In addition, Cha Eugene misunderstood PD's words as a question.

[Cha Eugene: Ah! Me!]

[PD: Ah, as expected! Eugene-ssi, you're curious~?]

[Cha Eugene: No! I already know! Secret friend is a Spanish word! Buddy[1]The Korean word for secret friend here is 마니또, read as manitto. And after a quick double-check with Google, manito means buddy/pal in Spanish. I think Cha Eugene was mistaken and thought that the PD was asking what manito is. !]

[Park Moondae: !!]

[Moondae is unfamiliar with the maknae's knowledge…]

The PD holding his head and Park Moondae who admired without expression were cross-edited with a gag.

Anyway, it was a development that broke the cliches, which was made possible because they picked the amount of laughter they received from the PD while doing sales in anger.

Besides, it didn't end here.

In the latter half of the broadcast, not only they enjoyed the entertainment, but they also took care of the professionalism and the heart-warming moments.

In the evening after they visited the safari and the shopping mall to their heart's content.

[Lee Sejin: Should we make a toast over there? With drinks!]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Should we? What do you think?]

[Seon Ahyeon: I'd love to…!]

[Bae Sejin: Let's just order drinks.]

As if the members were having sincere conversations in a pub and making obvious editing points, the broadcast portion that started with this conversation changed its nature due to one factor.

[Lee Sejin: Is that a karaoke machine on stage? Ah, this has a karaoke concept!]

The place that Testar entered was a karaoke bar with a karaoke machine.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Come to think of it, Moondae looks like he wanted to sing.]

[Park Moondae: Me?]

[Lee Sejon: Wow~ Applause!!]

[Park Moondae: (Tibet)]

And while playing around, Testar eventually grabbed the karaoke machine and sang.

[Park Moondae: (Singing passionately)]

[A professional ruckus at a nice pub]

[He sings so well that we wonder if it is necessary…]

Although the subtitles were playful, the skills were indisputable.

And it was also Testar's job, which was highlighted for the first time on the reality show.

[Cheers and applause]

Being certified among foreigners who had no awareness of them all gave viewers a strange vicarious satisfaction.

In addition, it wasn't just Park Moondae.

[Lee Sejin: Hyung-nim~ Don't you want to sing a song?]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Shall we? Raebin, do you want to sing with me?]

[Kim Raebin: I will do my best!]

The members took turns using the karaoke machine alone or in a group of two or three people.

There were almost no Korean songs, but it didn't matter because everyone knew how to sing a few pop songs anyway.

Later, they got drunk with the atmosphere and even danced with an unknown customer, singing an old American boy band song.

[Cha Eugene: You got a vibe~ (Meaning you're pretty good)]

[Customer: I know! (Meaning drunk)]

[This cool customer even bought a drink, saying that they were impressed]

While keeping the humor alive from time to time, they essentially fulfilled the personality of music and entertainment, so there were more things to see.

Testar passed the time naturally without forcing themselves to sing their own songs or make promotional remarks.

Thanks to this, viewers were able to enjoy only the content without feeling burdened.

[Seon Ahyeon: Uh, if we order more here, I think it'll be put into debt…!]

[Lee Sejin: Oops]

[Park Moondae: It's time to get up.]

And finally, when they returned to Cha Eugenen's house, they reached the peak of the heartwarming moment with the cut where they gave gifts to each other.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Moondae gave his cushion to Eugene. That's why I picked this.]

[Seon Ahyeon: What I prepared is a wrist rest. Well, since Raebin uses the computer a lot…]

The moment it was about to end with such a good cut.

[Cha Eugene: Popcorn is delicious!]

[Bae Sejin: ???]

The camera focused on Bae Sejin, who was dazed after receiving a colossal-sized popcorn box from Cha Eugene.

[Bae Sejin: W-When did I ask for this…?!]

Bae Sejin's protest was suddenly cut off, and subtitles appeared with peaceful BGM.

[Reading Result]

[In Bae Sejin's gift list]

[There was a snack.]

[Cha Eugene won]

And the cut eventually captured Bae Sejin waddling around carrying the popcorn box as the ending. The aftertaste was good when the last part was decorated with laughter.

Since then, a delicious preview had been added to raise expectations, making it a great entertainment show.

Therefore, the response was bound to remain friendly.

– It's so funny

– Please make this series for other idolsㅠㅠ

– I think it's fun because it's Testar, let's do it for a long time with Testar

– Seriously, I've been waiting for Wednesdays these days. Please go on for a long time~

Of course, there were comments from other groups that tried to keep them in check, but it was so popular that there were people who really only liked entertainment itself.

Of course, the fans started screaming and shouting.

– Please make a comeback before this trend is gone

– You have to strike when the iron is hot, T1

– Start an activity or something, you bastards

It was a desperate cry saying that they shouldn't let go of this entertainment special.

It was only during the awards ceremony season that they said it less often because they knew there was a definite influx factor—the awards ceremony stage, but this time, Testar wasn't committed to any schedule.

– What if they add a tour? There's a lot of possibilities that they'll go overseas more boldly after knowing that they're doing okay in Korea – I heard it's the month after Mirinae's debut. Aren't our kids behind schedule?

– It's not just a day or two that these bastards are senseless, I am so anxious;

– Don't tell me that you're going to mess around while the reality show is running. Don't skip all the sweets and do your job when we clap

Fortunately, news broke out before the reality show aired next week.

[Testar's <Enchanted ME> Seoul Encore Concert Ticket Opening

Announcement]

It was the news of the encore concert in Seoul.

– Finally

– Crazy, I love it so much

– It's been a while since I saw them ㅠㅠ

You need to get the ticket to go see them

I'm going to succeed even if I have to sell my organs

As if worrying about the addition of the tour schedule was a lie, fans were delighted with the addition of the Seoul concert.

It wasn't just because you could see them in person. The content of their bias concert in Korea was expandable.

This meant that once they entered the country, in consideration of efficiency, there were many cases where the domestic schedule was carried out rather than immediately re-departing.

For example, something like a new album comeback.

– I know it's only been a few months since Picnic, I have a conscience, I'll be content with a single

– If they at least held one event, they'll have more opportunities to go off

– Wait for me, Moondae. This noona is going to break her savings account… I'm going to go to the fan signing event this time ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

Testar even had a history of releasing a new song at their first concert.

Testar's fan community began to flutter with expectations, 'Isn't a comeback not too far away?'.

– Raebin just verified the wrist rest that Ahyeon gave him. I think he's trying to tell us that he's working on the music

It was time to creatively interpret all the members' SNS posts as hints for a comeback.

In addition, not long after that, the agency really announced an activity.

– Huh?

But it wasn't Testar.

[Mirinay (Miry-nay) Debut Intro -'NO magic in this WORLD']

It was a preview video for the junior's debut.

– Ah ㅅㅂ It's already annoying that they share the agency's channel

– Wouldn't it be better to just post them on the group's official channel from now on?

– The kids are cute, I am cheering for them

Testar's fans grumbled and ignored the video, or clicked on it out of curiosity.

However, there were some people who clicked because they felt strange.

'Magic?… Magic?'

'The background color is purple… '

And they were faced with a familiar mise-en-scène from the first scene of the video.

[…]

With the sun hanging at the end of the ground, a teenager in a school uniform standing by a scarlet window looked back.

It was an image that they had seen somewhere.

– It's Magical Boy

The association was too obvious.

* * *

It was one o'clock in the morning in Korean time.

I was sitting on a plane seat while moving on a schedule and watching the video uploaded an hour ago.

Surprisingly, the airline provided Wi-Fi.

"Hmm."

On the screen, an idol in a school uniform was captured by a window in a very familiar composition and suddenly jumped through the window.

And suddenly, in the dark of the night, she fell onto a huge spider web, turning into a cocoon and fading out.

The scene that reminded me of 'Magical Boy'…was in the first 3 seconds.

"Oh."

They used their brains.

I smirked and turned off the video.

In fact, I'd already heard of it.

The title of the junior group was finally decided with the previous candidate song that they wrote and composed by themselves.

So what is this?

‘It’s like they’re going to peel it off to the limit no matter what.’

They wanted to try using ‘Magical Boy’ as a way to promote Mirinae’s title.

Just enough that it could be excused as fragmentary ‘homage’.

Even if Testar fans openly publicized it and got pissed off, they would only drag on the aggro so that the public support was uncertain.

The persuasions of the hubae who listened to my advice skipped out the essentials and only slightly touched the trap that I set up.

‘…It’s smart.’

Yeah. I admitted it.

I didn’t know who came up with the idea, but it seemed that the company made a decision on a more intelligent level than I thought.

And I felt worse than expected.

‘This won’t do.’

Don’t you feel like making a little contribution somehow following their plan?

‘I don’t want to see them making decisions on their own, leaving out the party concerned who get hit by bullets.’

I didn’t know what my place would be like in half a year, so I was slowly pulling on things I hadn’t bothered myself with.

‘Let’s tear up the factions.’

I had to make some trouble for the company.

- 1. The Korean word for secret friend here is 마니또, read as manitto. And after a quick double-check with Google, manito means buddy/pal in Spanish. I think Cha Eugene was mistaken and thought that the PD was asking what manito is.

Chapter 198

A few days after Testar returned to Korea to prepare for the full-scale encore concert.

“It’s been a while since I’ve been to Seoul.”

Testar’s first manager, no, currently their only manager, headed to the company with a smile.

Handling the work that was originally handled by the two people alone was inconvenient, but it was somehow easy.

Because Testar wasn’t such a demanding group.

‘I feel like the kids have been aggressive these days, but maybe it’s because they got criticized a lot.’

Besides, most of the work was allocated to the newly hired tour staff, so the manager was having a good time than when he was in Korea.

Originally, it was his responsibility to check and manage the condition of each individual, but he gradually let them be.

It was because that work was voluntarily taken care of by the leader, a former athlete who was familiar with this kind of work.

– Chungwoo, is there anyone who says they’re sick?

– Yes. In particular, it seems only Moondae’s upper body massage schedule can be skipped out

In short, it was a bit of a negligence.

This kind of ridiculous leech-off didn’t make sense in this industry, but in the first place, people were bound to get used to their position.

'I can hold out well while the kids are in their prime time here and then change jobs after I get a bit of career experience.'

These days, the company had been paying less attention to Testar because they were focusing on the newly launched female idol.

There also had been rumors that the female idols, who were usually more popular than male idols, suited the current director's taste.

'Looks like you've done it this time.'

The manager recalled Testar's reactions a few days ago.

– Hyung, the fans don't like it… Are there any other talks from the company?

– It's definitely Magical Boy, it's obvious even for us~

– Huh? Hey, don't the same agencies usually use slight references like this? The fans will soon forget! It's not like it only happened once or twice.

He had already received a statement from the company, saying, 'If there's any protest, just gloss it over'.

Naturally, it was easier to deal with Testar than to argue against the company.

And the manager was already convinced that it wouldn't be too difficult.

'As expected, the topic subsided~'

Well, this wasn't going to ruin Testar, and it was obvious that those guys would continue to do well. There was no problem with the manager's own career.

So, it was best to calm them down and not to do unnecessarily tiring work.

“Ah, I’m almost there~”

The visiting manager, who arrived at the company thinking about this and that, met an unexpected face in the parking lot.

“Hello!”

“Oh, yes~”

It was the second manager. No, now he had been transferred to be the manager of the junior group Mirinae.

Even though he thought this man was stupid, the manager continued the small talk.

“Who are you waiting for?”

“Ah, Mirinae is meeting with the division head right now. I’m waiting for them!”

“Oh~ Is that so? Which division head is it? Why are they meeting?”

“Uh, they said I shouldn’t tell other teams… Is that okay?”

His hesitation was very annoying.

Since ancient times, social life was all about wit!

‘You won’t last long, will you?’

It was frustrating, but he felt relieved to have sent the man away. He still missed having someone to do miscellaneous work, though.

‘I hope the next one is more obedient and quick-witted.’

The manager passed the time with coffee, thinking of the manpower that would be filled soon.

And after a formal report and a hearing in the company, he slowly returned to Testar's dorm.

'Brief the schedule properly and shout fighting in howdy style~' This was the manager's expectation today.

However, the moment he entered the dorm, he realized something strange.

"Oh, hyung, you're here~"

"Welcome!"

There was a table of donuts and drinks in the dorm.

And a stranger was sitting at the table fiddling with his smartphone.

'What?'

"Guys, who's that…"

"Oh, hello, I am the new manager. I look forward to your kind cooperation."

"…??"

The person sitting down then slowly got up and greeted the first manager casually.

'What's with this jerk?'

He'd never heard of a second manager. And what's with his insincere attitude?

The first manager asked without hiding his doubts and irritation.

Isn't this a situation where the new manager has to say something?

"I've never heard of a new manager, who are you? No, are you really a manager?"

"I start working next week, but my hyung asked me to say hello today. Haven't you heard?"

"Hyung?"

Park Moondae stepped in with a faint smile.

"I heard that he's the division head's cousin."

"…!!"

"Oh, you're saying this because you don't believe me."

The man claiming to be the second manager held out his smartphone with a crooked attitude.

"Well, would you like to talk with him on the phone?"

A familiar name floated on the smartphone screen along with the nickname 'Cousin'.

He was truly the management head's cousin.

'What's going on here…?!'

The first manager was puzzled.

* * *

"Have a safe trip home~"

"Yes, see you next week."

The second manager gave a proper farewell and soon left.

They said they would put in a guy who had been unemployed, but he didn't seem to have much passion for work. It didn't matter, though. I didn't have expectations.

In the first place, the first manager also only did the basics.

'The important thing is the thoughts of the management head.'

The gesture that people with only that name were starting to make 'their own line' in the company was important.

'It's working well.'

I shrugged and turned away from the front door.

"Hyung, would you like another donut?"

Just then, Kim Raebin held out a box of donuts from the table.

"No, I'm full. You eat it."

"All right!"

Yeah. Eat a lot.

The guy who bought those donuts got in because of you anyway.

I recalled my schedule on the first day of entering the country.

It was the recording schedule for the encore concert's new song.

The team members preferred to match the tune in advance before practice so it progressed quickly.

Of course, it was a position where we worked directly with the AR team.

– Hello~

– Please take good care of me.

After greeting the A&R team staff who had gotten used to it, we recorded the songs by each unit.

I spoke to Kim Raebin, who was waiting for the recording.

At a distance where the staff scattered around the recording booth could listen to us.

– Does it bother you a lot?

– Yes?

– That ‘Magical Boy’ came out in another group’s teaser.

– Ah…

Kim Raebin’s face turned dark at once.

– It can’t be helped if it’s a decision made by the company, but I think it would be nice if they asked for our understanding first.

– It’s a little unfair.

– Yes.

He knew well how to drive it forward. Kim Raebin nodded and his shoulders dropped sullenly.

‘Excellent.’

I took the implication of what Kim Raebin had said on our way back from meeting the hubae last time and took my chance once again.

– Honestly, you put a lot of your opinions into the arrangement and concept. Me too… We don't know anything about it, but I think it would have been nice if they asked for your opinion.

– Oh, no! For the overall concept, Moondae hyung even decided on the image and symbol, so I think they should have consulted with you first…!

– Is that so? Thank you. But you made bigger efforts.

Let's get a little more emotional here.

I murmured in a slightly gloomy tone.

-… Back then, we worked really hard. I barely had time to sleep.

– Yes… We worked hard…

Kim Raebin was now almost crying. It seemed he got immersed after remembering that time.

Good.

I purposely talked to the AR team nearby.

– Excuse me, I am sorry but do you have tissue here?

– Ah, here…!

As expected, having been listening, the staff had a very sad expression and quickly found a pack of tissue and handed it over.

I pulled out a tissue and held it out to Kim Raebin's face so that they could feel sorry for him even more.

Of course, Kim Raebin, who wasn't really crying, tried to answer honestly.

-…? I'm fine…

– Just use it.

I personally pressed it to his dry face. Kim Raebin's head seemed to be full of question marks, but the effect was certain.

Over there, I could see the staff exchanging looks like 'What should I do?'.

'The AR team secretly likes Kim Raebin the most.'

They could communicate well, and he was a composer, so he interacted with them the most. Besides, he had a mild temperament, so I knew that they thought of him as the maknae of the team.

And that team was split up with a lot of the staff watching Testar struggle through their debut.

It meant that there must have been a lot of people who were baffled by the higher-up's decision to copy the concept of our debut song without permission.

'But no one is able to speak out.'

As a result of collecting people with real experienced careers, there was no one here who had a personal acquaintance or network with the superiors.

'So next, I'll encourage people with connections.'

So I contacted the management office.

First, I sent a message with a light gift.

– Hello, division head. During the recent tour, Testar received a lot of help from the management office, so as a thank you…

In fact, during the tour, I usually met people from the management office, so this rough excuse was fine.

If you send vitamin supplements according to the number of employees there, of course, the division head would send his gratitude.

Usually through a call.

– Ah, I received the vitamins well~ Thank you Moondae-ssi.

– The members discussed it together and sent it. Thanks to the people in the management office who took care of us, we safely carried out our schedule throughout this tour.

I threw the bait at this timing.

And this bait was based on a fairly plausible understanding of the current situation.

‘The management division fell out of favor with the current director from early on.’

The current director was not a fool. There was no way he didn’t know the decisive reason why he came here.

There was a major accident called an industrial spy case in the management office.

Since he had a connection with the head office, he had no problem maintaining the position of the division head of management, but his influence was a slightly different issue.

‘He’ll be a bit alienated from the front-line decision-making.’

Still, since the industry spy incident, it seemed he’d been working with a lot of tension. I didn’t know if he was watching out for his behavior, but he must be pissed off.

If you came in as a parachute and got to work, you must have rarely experienced being ignored in your life, so the current situation was bound to be more unbearable.

Let's slowly aggravate him.

– Even when talked about the strange assistant manager back then, you listened to us seriously… Thank you. There were people from other companies who pretended not to know, as if it was not a big deal, so I wondered if I was being sensitive.

Let's give him a lead so that he distorted and glorified the industry spy case on his own, saying, 'I, the division head, was quick to deal with it because I recognized the issue, but I am being treated unfairly'.

– Thanks to the director, I'm relieved and I'm still active

– Haha! Don't mention it!

Look at this. He ate it up without humility.

In addition, if the AR team spread public opinion to the general staff, such as 'The director has gone too far this time' and 'It's too much for Testar kids', the division head could rationalize it more.

He would have a great delusion like, 'The director who is bad at his job is keeping himself in check'.

I knew that if the condition grew well for a few days, it would serve as a driving force to hit the director at once.

'Since he's a parachute, he's not scared of getting fired if things go wrong, so he'll just do it with confidence and impulsiveness.'

And fortunately, it seemed I had properly filled the division head with delusion, and this morning, he put his cousin as Testar's new manager… That was how things got to this point.

'It's going to be a mess.'

I lay on the sofa and watched Cha Eugene finish off all the remaining doughnuts.

“Stop eating! Are you a pig?”

“I’m a tiger!”

“Tigers are carnivores that don’t eat flour, but now you’re eating sugar and flour…”

Hmm, how peaceful.

‘The next one is going to explode soon.’

Of course, it could end in failure, so shouldn’t we lay several mines?

‘That hubae seems to be good at talking.’

I decided to wait peacefully for the next bomb.

Chapter 199

The ‘bomb’ that I planted exploded shortly after when we were practicing for the encore concert with the behind-the-scenes camera attached.

“Now, kick to the right~ Then sideways again… Hyung, be careful!”

“…Kuh.”

Bae Sejin, who almost got his feet twisted, rearranged the choreography again with his ears burning red.

Even if his dance stat had risen to C, he was still struggling with the more difficult choreography.

‘This isn’t the time for me to talk about other people’s situations.’

The moment I thought I had to reorganize my stats to do a unit stage with Cha Eugene.

There was a small commotion behind the door of the choreography practice room.

It sounded like someone was raising their voice.

‘It’s here.’

I had a feeling. But I didn’t have to pretend to know.

“What is it?”

“Hmm?”

The filming ended immediately, starting with the camera. Because it was too loud for us to ignore.

The choreography ended just after the chorus, and after the members finished their movements, they looked at the door of the practice room, half puzzled and half worried.

“W-Who are the people talking…?”

“…I don’t think there’s anyone else here right now.”

“Wait a minute.”

The moment Ryu Chungwoo, who was glancing around, got up and tried to figure out the situation, the door opened one step ahead of him and an unknown person suddenly entered the practice room.

“…!”

He seemed to be in his early and mid-30s. After that, the first manager with a horrible red complexion hurriedly followed.

He ignored the first manager, bowed his head at us, and started handing the takeout glasses in his hands.

“Ah~ Hello, our testa artists. Whoa, nice to meet you! I brought this so that you can eat this and practice well.”

“Who are you??”

To Cha Eugene who asked him after immediately receiving the drink, he answered neatly

“Ah, I’m the new manager.”

“Yes?”

Of course, his position overlapped with the division head’s cousin who brought donuts a while ago.

“Um, you’re different from the person we met a few days ago~?”

“That guy will follow you around and work as a road manager, and I’m the general manager!”

General manager.

In other words, that meant he was the chief manager.

That also meant that the first manager, who had been the manager dedicated to us, took this guy that suddenly rolled in as his boss.

“With such a busy schedule, you would need at least need three people… Aigoo, don’t worry from now on. I’ll take care of everything, so if you’re uncomfortable with something, you can contact me right away!”

“No…”

Hmm, the first manager still looked bewildered. It seemed he hadn’t heard anything about this.

The guy who became the chief manager looked at the first manager and said regretfully.

“Manager Kim, you must have had a hard time doing this alone. From now on, let’s manage the needs of our artists more systematically. I will also check their injuries and physical condition each hour every day.”

It had been advertised that the first manager was pushed out of the promotion line because he hadn’t been able to take care of the group properly.

Yes, it was the justification for the management head to push for a new manager.

‘Artist-centered care!’

If I had just influenced him, it might end up with the director and the division head going for the senior vs junior format.

It was because the director would simply push the junior group aside, so there was a high probability that he would choose the remaining option, the senior–Testar.

Then, it might come to a needlessly tiring situation in which the two groups were used for political fights.

However, if you inserted another variable here, the story changed.

'The hubae is also influencing the division head.'

That's right.

As soon as I entered the country, I contacted the second-place winner in the junior group through the second manager.

– I'm sorry, sunbae-nim. You gave me advice, but I couldn't do it properly…

– No, you've succeeded. You convinced him. Of course, it's unfortunate that you're having a hard time mentally because the company hasn't conceded to your requests.

– Yes… Ah, no, it can't be helped, and we've caused trouble to sunbae-nims and sunbae-nim's fans!

– We've hurt each other. Well… If you're having a hard time, there's a way to talk to the management division.

– Management division??

– Management division is in charge of group care. I think he'll speak for you if you tell him.

And she probably would say this.

‘It can’t be helped that it’s already been planned, but it’s giving us a hard time, so I don’t want to get involved with the senior group from now on’.

Then the junior who had already used my advice would try it.

-… Thank you! I’ll give it a chance.

She seemed to be the smart type so she would have done it well.

Then, as if struck by lightning, the head of the management division suddenly had a common vision.

‘The director is ignoring the artist’s will!’

‘The incompetent director is trying too hard to take advantage of the artists who can produce on their own!’

It must have been a slogan that he liked.

If you refined this into a more formal language, you would see what you saw earlier.

‘Let’s focus on artists (instead of the director)!’

Of course, there was no way that the division head was really interested in caring for the artists.

It was important that he took that justification just to beat the director.

Maybe the AR team that was close to Testar, or the production and marketing side that had been grilled mercilessly to repackage the finished concept, would sneakily jump on the bandwagon here.

‘Then it really becomes a faction.’

And it seemed to have worked quite well.

The manager manpower, which was the symbol of ‘artist care’, had been structurally reorganized.

Just in time, the chief manager, the symbol, tapped the first manager and continued to talk.

“To celebrate the three of us becoming a dedicated team, why don’t we have a simple drink today and talk?”

“…Uh, yes, yes. Of course.”

The first manager finally gave in with a bitter look.

Of course, it seemed he had cooled down and noticed that there was nothing good to say.

‘It’s the taste of your own medicine.’

I gazed at the scene with satisfaction.

Since then, I had been able to see the current situation at the company.

‘I want them to keep each other in check and bite off each other.’

Am I worried that the parachute division head will press the director and drag down the company and do whatever he wants?

Yeah, not at all.

‘That bastard is bad at his job.’

It’s just… I only needed to make the higher-ups who want to make their own achievements in this entertainment business use up all their energy to fight among themselves.

In the meantime, as the group took the lead in promoting their work, the regular staff could do their work diligently.

“Then for your practice, fighting~ I’ll see you again soon!”

“Yes!”

“Goodbye!”

The chief manager gave out his number and left with the words, “Please feel free to contact me anytime.”

And only then did the first manager start to use his head.

“…Guys, aren’t you uncomfortable with that guy? He suddenly came in out of nowhere.”

He was telling us to take sides.

Keun Sejin smiled brightly and said.

“Ah, it’s the first time I’ve met him, so I can’t help but feel a little uncomfortable! Still, he seems to be paying a lot of attention to us, so I’m looking forward to it! I am also grateful.”

“The shake is delicious!”

Next to him, Cha Eugene shook his drink.

Eventually, the first manager left the practice room with a look as if he was swallowing curses.

‘What a fool.’

I clicked my tongue.

These kids weren’t stupid, they must have known from long ago that Ryu Chungwoo worked more than he did.

There might be someone who hadn’t thought about whether that treatment was fair.

“Ah!”

Kim Raebin who was making exclamations over there probably didn’t know…

“I get it now!”

“…?!”

At the words that came out at an exquisite timing, I stopped thinking.

Kim Raebin continued with an admiring look.

“Thanks to what Moondae hyung said in the recording studio, this situation…”

“Wait a minute.”

I couldn’t believe he was bringing this up when there were seven staff around us.

No, more importantly…

‘This guy understands the situation?’

It was questionable. However, Kim Raebin was steadfast.

“Ah, what did Moondae say?”

“Yes! I think the company gave us good feedback because Moondae hyung openly shared the hardships and emotional pain the group went through!”

“…”

“Oh, really? Moondae said we’re having a hard time?”

“Yes! He asked me, too. Through this opportunity, I can feel that the other person's reaction changes only when I express such a difficult situation clearly."

"Oh~"

"…Um."

Geez.

So, this guy figured out the very basic structure.

'Testar clearly shows that they're having a hard time. → The company pays more attention to group care!'

Basically, this algorithm.

It was a theoretical level without any options, but those with a similar level of interpersonal thinking began to react first.

At the fact that I was having a hard time.

"M-Moondae…"

"…I see."

You don't.

"Thank you for always teaching me."

It's not something you should feel touched for.

In the midst of this, Keun Sejin smiled and applauded.

"Yes, wow, thanks to Moondae, it worked out well~ How cool~"

This bastard was doing this on purpose. I was getting pissed off.

…However, a heartfelt speech followed after that.

“But let’s not overdo it. Moondaemoondae, don’t we have mouths too? Let’s share it with us, not with Raebin~”

“…!”

“That’s right, Moondae.”

Ryu Chungwoo nodded, making eye contact.

“We’re a group. There are seven heads, so if we discuss it, we might come up with something good.”

“…”

Since I had a history, it seemed that all the sensible guys here had noticed that I had deliberately spilled those words.

And I wouldn’t deny it.

It was a fairly reasonable statement.

‘I was a bit hasty.’

It was so easy for me to deal with it alone, so I kept forgetting that this was an action that affected the entire group.

All of these guys were affected, so they definitely deserved to be consulted first.

‘In the future… It’s fine to proceed after discussing it first.’

There wouldn’t be any delay since we always saw each other’s faces every day, anyway.

I nodded.

“Yes, you’re right.”

“Alright!”

Ryu Chungwoo jokingly added.

“Because we have parts that complement each other, so the fans, um… the ‘shareholder’ chose us like this.”

“I have a smart brain!”

“Cha Eugene has no official intelligence test results. It’s just a subjective opinion…”

“I am smarter than Kim Raebin.”

“Is that so? Then should we do a psychological test for our content later on? Something like official MBTI.”

“Nice!”

“I think it’ll be a very interesting content!”

The quarrel ended in an instant.

‘He’s not the leader for no reason.’

I glanced over at Ryu Chungwoo.

As my perception as a member of this group solidified, the great rejection I felt toward this guy also clearly diminished.

‘Hmm, this is fine.’

I think we were slowly going back to how we used to be. I acknowledged it in my heart.

Next to me, Seon Ahyeon nodded with his eyes shining.

“T-Then from now on… If you have a hard time, let’s discuss it with each other…!”

“Yes.”

The atmosphere in the practice room was friendly.

And the practice soon resumed, leaving behind the staff who were weeping for not being able to catch this on camera.

A few days later.

“Oh.”

In Mirinae’s title track music video, which was finally released, traces of ‘Magical Boy’ were completely removed.

– In the edited version, there was a short video in the middle of the cut scene!! I was really worried, but it’s all thanks to you, sunbae-nim! Thank you!

Through the manager, I received a one-sided appreciation from the junior who seemed to make it sound three times more amazing than it actually was.

‘It’s neat.’

Articles that dared to connect Mirinae with Testar, which was secretly encouraged by the agency, also disappeared from the main page.

When there was no more unpleasant content, Testar’s fans also let it go, saying, ‘T-one is being T-one’.

It was because the news of the encore concert unit stage broke out and their attention was focused on it.

– Crazy, Cha Kitty Moon Puppy Unit? They’ve come to discipline K-pop. I’ll die if I don’t watch it

Seeing this reaction, I needed to prepare better.

“Wahaha!”

Watching Cha Eugene lying on the bed next to me, I called inwardly for the first time in a long while.

‘Status window.’

But it wasn’t mine that I checked first.

It was Cha Eugene’s status window.

‘I will check once more before finalizing the unit stage and completing the countermeasures.’

That guy’s stats monster-like stats, let’s see how they had changed.

Chapter 200

A translucent hologram appeared next to Cha Eugene.

[Name: Cha Eugene]

Vocal: B- (B+)

(Rap: B+)

Dance: S- (S+)

Visual: A (S)

Talent: S (EX)

Characteristic: Black hole (S)

I almost cursed.

'Is this bastard human?'

His dancing had improved again, so he got two S stats. As for his singing, his vocal part had increased recently so it eventually entered the B stat.

And the final nail in the coffin was… his characteristic.

[Black hole (S): Immersive stage that sucks everything, driving people's hearts]

– Stage immersion +150%

As A stat became S, 150% became 180%. Characteristics would also evolve.

‘Is it because of that?’

I broke out in a cold sweat.

*‘I think I am f*cked no matter what I do.’*

I felt like I was reviving my senses from <Idol Inc.> survival for the first time in a long time… My survival senses.

‘Did I push forward too hastily just because the fans like it?’

No, let’s calm down.

I didn’t have to leave the group just because my stance was broken after doing a unit with this guy. I would just be a little embarrassed.

‘It’s not like I am trying to press down Cha Eugene, like Keun Sejin.’

Though, I could already see that the fans would struggle to push public opinion with ‘Both of them did a good job’ and Cha Eugene’s solo fans would sneer at me and say things like ‘Gommeo sucksㅋㅋ’.

And in the end, the image of Park Moondae being good on the stage would suffer…

‘I can’t stand that.’

I couldn’t. I’d double-check to make sure that such a situation didn’t occur.

“Eugene.”

“Yes!”

“Tell me all the devices you wanted to use on the unit stage.”

Cha Eugene, who was looking at his smartphone, jumped to his feet. His eyes were sparkling.

[Water! Fireworks! Lights and dancers! And a huge moving structure!]

In other words, he wanted to use everything he had.

“You know that it’s impossible to use all of that budget-wise.”

“I know! But I still really want to use a lot of them! They’re great!”

“Yeah.”

It was true.

The choreography draft and stage setting had already been confirmed. And a lot of the things Cha Eugene had mentioned were actually used on the stage.

I agreed with Cha Eugene’s claim only in secret, but I was actually aiming for those too.

I wanted the focus to spread throughout the stage thanks to the colorful peripherals.

But I could tell when I checked Cha Eugene’s stat. It was a little superficial.

‘Their focus won’t disperse.’

People would definitely focus on Cha Eugene. The stage setting would only help with it.

I needed a more enforced method to take away their focus.

The easiest method was… handling my stats.

‘Status window.’

Let’s check my status window this time.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 18

Title: None

Vocal: S-

Dance: B+

Visual: A-

Talent: A-

Characteristics: Infinite potential, Now that I heard it, it's true (A), Bacchus 500 (B), and Snatching ears (A)

!Status abnormality: Get the audience or die

Remaining points: 2

I thought my current status window was pretty decent, but after seeing Cha Eugene's status window, that thought faded a bit.

'First of all, there are no unique points.'

What's worth looking at was… the one level-up. And the naturally-increased dance stat.

Perhaps it naturally went up because I kept learning and performing the improvised choreography during the tour schedule.

Then, naturally, what I would do was obvious.

'I will raise the dance stat from B+ to A-.'

It was easy to think of it as an efficient way to change the stat grade and a way to catch up with Cha Eugene's specialty, dance.

But… It felt iffy.

'Even if I raise it like that, the grade is different from Cha Eugene's.'

Cha Eugene's dance stat was S. Since it was a unit stage, even if I mixed it in with an A- stat, we might end up barely matching.

Even if I invested all 2 points and set it to A, it would be the same. In talent and characteristics, I was way behind.

And this was true no matter where I invested.

'…Turn the vocal into S+?'

It was a way to make the eyes focus on Cha Eugene, but the ears focus on Park Moondae. It was a bit desperate.

Let's put it on hold and look at the remaining variables.

'Hmm.'

I brought pop-ups accumulated through concerts and reality shows.

[Successful performance!]

You deeply impressed the majority of people!

There had been several pop-ups like this, including notifications of reputation renewal.

Most of them gave a moderate amount of characteristic draws, so there were about five draws accumulated.

And it had been proved every time that the characteristic that came out was always something that could be used in the near future, doubting it more would be embarrassing.

I was almost certain now.

‘Let’s spend all of it.’

Spit out something useful.

Let’s start with the low grade.

I ran all the draws that had ‘precious’ and ‘hero’ on them. They were the ones that came out with B–C grades.

The lever turned and the slot machine flashed.

Papapang!

[‘Soft and cute (B)’ Acquired!]

[‘Angelic Heart (C)’ Acquired!]

[‘Crocodile’s tears (A)’ Acquired!]

[‘Unmoving Heart (B)’ Acquired!]

They were unnecessary and didn’t fit the situation.

‘There’s nothing related to the stage.’

Only the characteristics related to external activities were pouring out.

‘Are you telling me to take care of my performance on my own?’

Is it implying that I won’t suffer much damage even if the unit stage is ruined this time?

I scanned the pop-up window with my head colled down. Then, all of a sudden, I remembered a rather unsettling prediction.

‘Or… Maybe it’s because the time has come.’

Naturally, the status abnormality would be over soon.

[Get the audience or die]

: If you fail to meet more than 200,000 spectators within the time limit, you will die

The number of people reached: 199,997 / 200,000

There were only three audiences left.

After the encore concert, no, even if it got canceled due to natural disasters, it didn't matter. With just one stage filled with three spectators, this status abnormality was over.

*'And… I think there will be another s*hitty truth check.'*

Considering the past cases, it wouldn't be strange if it showed someone dying again this time.

…That meant it could stir me up.

So, in order to defend against attitude controversy, characteristics related to external activities appeared…

'The fact it's so convincing made this reasoning more unpleasant'

Don't give me a disease and medicine[1]Give a disease and then medicine = it's a proverb meaning 'to give trouble and then pretend to help'. , just don't show me useless sh*t.

I clicked my tongue, but I decided to act rationally for now.

In other words, my characteristic was replaced.

[Characteristic: Now that I heard it, it's true (A) has been deleted!]

Instead, I added the 'Unmoving Heart' characteristic that could be useful. Although it had a lower grade, it was a characteristic that could be used in many ways.

…By the way, the ‘Crocodile’s tears’, which momentarily interested me because it was grade A, could arouse sympathy by crying pitifully… It was the upward compatibility version of the faucet characteristic.

In other words, it was trash.

‘Done.’

I cracked my neck.

Now, let’s clear out our brains.

There was only one left.

It was a draw lot with an unusual name.

[Draw Legendary Characteristics ☜ Click]

This was the last draw I received after the tour.

Whether in mass-produced sh*tty games or god games, it was the rule that having legendary attached to it meant it was something good.

In that case, the same should be true for this obscure game system.

‘I expect an A grade at least.’

Please let me add some stage enhancement features too!

The lever of the holographic slot machine was pulled, and the platinum-colored slots began to spin rapidly.

Brrr–

Amidst countless plausible characteristic names passing by.

Click.

The slots slowly… stopped.

It was a slot that had never been seen before, shining with a five-colored light.

Papapapapang!!

[Characteristic: 'Time of Indulgence (S)' Acquired!]

*'F*ck.'*

An S grade appeared!

Before I knew it, I pounded the bed with my fist. Fortunately, Cha Eugene, who fell back into his smartphone, didn't notice.

'It's crazy.'

Even if I wasn't so hung up in this kind of drawing lots, it was thrilling to have such a high-grade stat.

Wait, let's calm down.

First, I had to check what kind of characteristics it was.

'Still, just looking at it, it seems to be a stage-related characteristic.'

I brought up the details of the characteristic.

[Characteristic: Time of Indulgence (S)]

– I feel alive up here.

: (Self) immersed in the stage +180%

'It's driving me crazy.'

Isn't this basically Black hole but with a different name?

“Huft.”

I took a long breath and sat down on the bed.

‘Additional 180% stage immersion… ’

At this rate, I could compete with Cha Eugene just by efficiently adjusting the point distribution and coordinating the practice…

No, wait a second.

Looking at it again, there was something attached.

(Self) immersed in the stage.

‘Self-immersed?’

So, it wasn’t the immersion of the entire audience… It meant that the performer was immersed in their own stage.

“…”

You bastard.

‘Are you telling me to get narcissistic on my stage?’

If this status window was a real game, I would have already asked for a refund and left a one-star review.

‘Where did you sell your business ethics?’

I gritted my teeth while looking at the status window, but soon cooled my head.

‘…Compare with the Unmoving Heart.’

Let’s calmly weigh the pros and cons.

First of all, the effect of this characteristic, which was an S rank, would be certain.

It would really make me immerse myself on stage.

Then, what about how I usually did it?

Have I not been fully immersed?

'The stage… It's fun.'

It was rewarding, and matching the concept with the atmosphere wasn't embarrassing at all.

In other words, it was just ordinary.

Then, what's good about being more immersed than I do now?

'It'll look more natural.'

If the performer was deeply immersed, the effect of making the viewer more immersed was also expected to some extent.

And in case of an emergency, even if various obstacles intruded, the performance could be carried out more easily without breaking the flow.

'And… it might be more fun.'

…This shouldn't be taken into account, so let's skip it.

"Hmm."

Anyway, in summary, it seemed to be quite useful even if not at the level of the 'Black hole' scam.

In particular, due to the nature of this group having a strong concept, it was also beneficial if I could perform with less sense of incompatibility. Because it seemed to affect the concept performance.

There would be fewer complaints like ‘It’s so embarrassing to see’.

‘It’s a little different from being good, but it means he can do it with boldness.’

The moment I thought that far.

“…!”

Suddenly, an extreme thought occurred to me.

‘But… I want to be able to use it.’

It was all or nothing anyway.

I’d already peeled off all the variables I had, and there were no other options.

‘Let’s just try it.’

I manipulated the pop-up right away.

[Characteristic: Unmoving Heart (B) has been deleted!]

In the empty spot where ‘Unmoving Heart’ had passed by, a new characteristic, ‘Time of Indulgence’ was inserted.

And I poured all the remaining points into talent.

Talent: A+

All right. Let’s proceed like this.

“Cha Eugene.”

“Yes??”

“Would you like to have more fun on the unit stage?”

Cha Eugene answered right away without asking a question.

“Yes!”

Yeah. I knew it.

With less than 15 days left until the encore concert, Cha Eugene and I made some changes to the unit stage composition.

And both of us were satisfied with the revised direction.

“Are you okay with this?”

“It’s really great!!”

“If you say so…”

Ryu Chungwoo asked several times, but Cha Eugene only raised his thumb.

It was worth it.

We would do what we were good at.

- 1. Give a disease and then medicine = it’s a proverb meaning ‘to give trouble and then pretend to help’.

Author's Thoughts

Hello everyone, Tapas has picked up this novel so naturally, I have to stop here. Take the chapters I posted today as a farewell gift and thank you for all your love support, it has been a wonderful journey(◍•ᴗ•◍)❤

PDF by: traitorAIZEN

KW
데뷔 못 하면
죽는 병 걸림
백덕수 현대 판타지 장편소설

Debut or Die

– 데못죽 –

- VOLUME 5 -

-AUTHOR-
백덕수

-ILLUSTRATOR-
텡

[DAOTRANSLATE]

Chapter 201

The day of Testa's encore concert in Seoul.

The graduate student who entered Gocheok Sky Dome was smiling faintly.

'I finally… have my first con…!'

Since the encore concert started on Saturday I barely managed to make it on time.

It was finally time to enjoy the concert without spoilers!

I was a graduate student standing at the crossroads of whether to become a doctor or get a job as a master's degree student but I only had one worry today.

'You can see the gate clearly right? 'This is the best place right?'

That's right. The graduate student was able to secure a ticket for a huge seat in the front.

This was the same area where controversy arose because Azusa Season 4 occupied the area at the last concert.

Her friend who was taking pictures of Park Moon-dae congratulated her with tears in his eyes and envy.

-I just entered and my heart feels like it's going to burst out of my mouthㅠㅠㅠ

The graduate student entered his seat and sat down replying to a message from a friend who had arrived a few minutes ago.

It really felt like my heart was going to jump out as he said!

Encore concerts usually have similar set lists and similar venues so estimates have already been made.

‘We’ll see at least four songs on the protruding stage!’

She held on to the light stick and waited for the performance to begin hoping to see Park Moon-dae’s performance right in front of her.

And after some time.

“Aaaah!!”

“Ugh!!”

A graduate student was also cheering among the people who were filled with adrenaline from the overwhelming performance.

‘Oh I love it!!’

Watching the concert from a place with a good view in the exact center was an almost artistic experience.

“Park Moon-dae!! “Mundae!!”

Park Moon-dae’s solo performance that just ended was an example of this.

The intention of this stage was felt more clearly when I saw it from the very center of the stage where the chair used during the tour was removed and the performance was performed by floating in the air with the bare body again.

A dizzying dance of primary-colored fabrics like a whirlpool of emotions.

A fleeting love floating in the air beyond the cloth falling from the center under the lights.

The graduate student nodded silently and recited the words.

‘Park Moon-dae… is a genius.’

And the reason why all those emotions came through clearly was not just because of the good location.

‘Mundae is so good.’

A stronger force than the last time.

Since it was the same concert hall the sound would obviously be the same but strangely enough the emotion that touched people in the voice felt more vivid.

If a graduate student had access to SNS he or she would have been able to see these comments from people watching the broadcast.

-Clapping while lying in bed

-Hey I don’t accept excuses for low sound quality anymore haha Park Moon-dae sounds good even when he listens to it like this haha.

-Am I the only one who likes Park Moon-dae’s music better than just now?

-Please give me the encore condom D.D.

As the level of immersion changed the quality of emotions on stage changed.

The ‘Time of Indulgence (S)’ effect was more evident than Park Moon-dae himself expected.

And Park Moon-dae himself who had just unlocked the stage equipment backstage was also feeling it.

“…Whew.”

My hands were shaking.

It wasn't because of the pain or cramps but because of the lingering sensation.

The feeling of emptiness and refreshment was overwhelming as if my head had been submerged in water and then lifted out.

'Still… it was a better choice than expected.'

This is because I was satisfied with the performance just now.

The immersion that goes into it right away without being conscious of it further elevated people.

It was especially great because I did the song alone which had eerie heartbreaking emotions.

'Stronger than usual.'

To regain his composure Park Moon-dae drank an ionic drink to clear his mind.

"Mumundae! "Is there any place where you feel uncomfortable?"

"Oh it's comfortable."

"I see. I'm glad… But if you feel uncomfortable you must tell me!"

"I will."

"Ugh!… ah! Just now the New Year's Eve was amazing…!"

"Okay thank you. "You're cool too."

As I was listening to Sun Ah-hyun who had changed her costume express her concerns under the pretense of conversation during the interlude the time was slowly approaching.

‘The group song continues and the impromptu stage VCR goes on for a bit longer… ’

“7 minutes left!”

‘Unit just before the encore.’

Park Moon-dae thought that time passed faster than expected during the concert.

So I had to be more conscious.

‘Do it properly.’

After making up his mind Park Moon-dae moved down the hallway to wait under the stage again.

Then they came out to the chorus of Ryu Cheong-woo’s final solo stage and began to immerse themselves in the stage again.

Wow!!

In fact it was an environment where it was difficult not to become immersed.

* * *

Now as the title song stage which was quite numerous was passed and the cute impromptu stage passed the audience was thoroughly enjoying the offline experience for the first time in a long time.

Still everyone knew.

Based on my past experience of reviewing through VOD the concert was now clearly in the latter half of the concert.

So at the end of Testa’s huge hit reality show there will soon be a ‘unit stage’ with promotions attached.

‘There wasn’t much change in the set list!’

‘I think we put a lot of effort into the unit stage… ’

In particular when the VCR that duplicated the previous concert came on even in the excitement calculations were running in my head as if it were time for a break.

And without disappointing those expectations the unit stage appeared at the right time.

[Falling- Fall fall Fallen to you like a falling autumn star.]

The first one was Sun Ah-hyun and Ryu Cheong-woo.

The audience watched the stage feeling refreshed by a combination they had never experienced before.

The two performed refreshingly the debut song of their famous male idol T-Holic.

‘Oh that’s good!’

This was the opinion of a graduate student who is a fan of Park Moon-dae.

Next is the stage of Bae Se-jin Lee Se-jin and Kim Rae-bin.

[I’m aiming for you my target I won’t miss my enemy.]

We took a female idol song with a strong concept called “Hitman” and distributed the parts appropriately.

‘Is it cool?’

As expected with the exception of Park Moon-dae graduate students with the sensibilities of ordinary people gave appropriately favorable reviews.

Both unit stages were much larger in scale and more like a large-scale performance than the first concert.

Thanks to this I automatically gained strength in my back.

‘Now that means there’s only one door left…!’

As the previous two stages were excellent expectations were high to see what kind of stage Park Moon-dae and Cha Yu-jin who were in charge of the finale would prepare.

‘Everyone was looking forward to it on social media too!’

If we looked a little deeper there were plenty of people who were worried and worried that they would bite their nails but graduate students were not that familiar with the Internet yet.

So I approached the final unit stage with 100% expectations.

[…]

After the previous stage a short video was played on the electronic display board and the stage became dark.

Ding-

The grandfather clock chimed and the light suddenly returned.

On the black-and-white stage the image of a tall man was seen in an angled choreography formation with eight dancers.

It was Cha Yu-jin.

‘The door is…?’

Before the graduate student’s thoughts could be completed into sentences the music started to rush in.

It was the melody of a pop song that I had heard at least once.

Bam bam bam bam!

-listen!

No matter how hard

I think about it.

I can't hold it

Cha Yu-jin led the dancers over the cheerful and agile electric swing sound and began the movement.

Among the many people he was the only one wearing a black shirt and everything from a harness to a jewelry chain and anyone could see that he looked like a solo singer.

-Why Why~

Are you not a monster?

Cha Yu-jin was gorgeous.

The sight of twinkling lights cheerful voices and even glitter effects exploding in the background as part of the choreography was jaw-dropping.

Cha Yu-jin was enjoying the stage like she was possessed.

-Umm Umm Umm~

The scream-like cheers did not stop.

So it was only when he left the center and walked to the left with great strides that the graduate student came to his senses.

'No so what about the door??'

However Cha Yu-jin entered the chorus without mercy.

Because the song was in the form of a hook song it was an iconic part that was quickly repeated four times.

-Monster monster

you got me so

I grabbed you baby baby

Among the dancers Cha Yu-jin was able to bring out the most complex choreography movements in a light and lively manner.

It felt like my gaze was being sucked in.

-bebe babe!

After a sharp kicking motion Cha Yu-jin drew a line on her mouth with her index finger and smiled.

“and…”

Even Park Moon-dae’s fans were reflexively impressed.

But the ending moment of the first chorus is so impressive.

Suddenly the accompaniment changed.

Ugh-!

‘uh?’

The sophisticated arrangements that used extremely modern electronic instruments disappeared as if they were not working.

And instead a radical band orchestra came into the place.

“…?!”

“…??”

Before there were even sounds of panic coming from the audience.

The background opened with a brilliant light flashing in the center of the stage.

“…!!”

And on top of the huge blue carpet structure golden chairs like thrones began to appear.

The person sitting at an angle on that magnificent chair was Park Moon-dae a bespectacled man wearing a striking knit school uniform.

‘what’s this??’

Park Moon-dae began singing with a naturally distressed face.

-okay.

Just thinking about it

no more you

I can’t stand it

These were the lyrics of a pop song translated into Korean.

Park Moon-dae led the song with a clear and distinct voice. It somehow sounds a little more exaggerated and emotional than usual…

‘No wait a minute.’

The graduate student who was almost hooked realized that Park Moon-dae's arrangement also sounded quite familiar.

This wasn't simply an adaptation.

'…This is a musical!'

That's right.

This pop song 'Monster Baby' was also one of the famous numbers in a musical created by compiling the singer's songs.

-person

You're not even the same!

Park Moon-dae continued singing while sitting on a chair in a neat school uniform.

This is because he was digesting a song sung by a modern student who was shipwrecked and disoriented in a strange 17th century castle.

And it didn't end there.

Woo woo woo woo~

People in flashy modern clothes appeared around Park Mun-dae and began dancing and singing a chorus.

Anyone could see that it was a musical ensemble.

Thanks to this the audience regardless of whether they were a few people who knew the background or not was able to guess roughly.

That you are recreating a musical scene.

'omg.'

It was a stage where the same song was presented in a completely opposite form but the impact was so great that the audience forgot their embarrassment and was drawn into it.

-Monster Monster

snatch me up

pull

Yes like that!

While Park Moon-dae choreographed the dance atop a giant golden chair the structure itself moved around in the hands of the ensemble matching the lyrics and story.

-Like that all the time!

Park Moon-dae's vocals divided the concert hall amidst colorful lights and dazzling period drama elements that would make you crazy.

It was a taste of an explosive and dramatic musical.

"Waaah!"

First of all the audience reflexively applauded again. Because it was a quality that gave me goosebumps.

However there was nothing that could be called a unit stage.

'Almost just… a solo stage showdown?'

'It's not a unit.'

A few people were predicting that the moment you get out of the excitement of this concert the story of Al-U-Al-Eum will begin.

Ji-ing!

The interlude trembled and from the lights turned off on the left side of the stage Inyoung dressed in a stylish black and white suit rushed into the center stage.

“uh?”

It was Cha Yu-jin and the dancers.

And they pushed Park Moon-dae and the ensemble who were singing on chairs and carpet structures all the way to the right!

“…??”

The musical set was pushed away like it was falling over…

and.

Bbabam bam- baba bam!

Cha Yu-jin and the dancers took out sticks this time to match the return of the synthesizer and brass.

The bars were connected and dismantled according to movement adding to the strength and splendor of the choreography.

“wow.”

The moment the luminous color flashed on the stick numerous lights came from the air and assisted Cha Yu-jin’s movements.

It was a luminous drone performance.

Cha Yu-jin smiled crookedly and leisurely handled the drone as if it were alive.

-bebe babe!

The moment the refrain ends once again on a grand scale.

This time without a gap Park Moon-dae suddenly pushed into the center of the stage.

Park Mun-dae standing on a golden chair with his arms crossed hung a huge chandelier on the structure as if he could not be defeated.

And as if declaring war the ensemble and high-pitched chords were added.

-I thought about it today too.

I can’t stand it anymore!

The lyrics were exquisite. The chandelier was shining brightly harassing the dancers’ eyes.

‘crazy!’

Now the audience started laughing.

However rather than laughing because they didn’t know what to do there was comfort and anticipation in enjoying the completed stage.

This is because a somewhat meta humor that crossed genres was shamelessly taking place on stage.

Because the participants Cha Yu-jin and Park Moon-dae were so naturally virtuous the performance on stage became very enjoyable instead of embarrassing.

Drrrrr-!

The two who were fighting like that ended up fighting in silence during the last chorus and ran out onto the stage together and started performing.

With the combination of synth sound and orchestra the song became loud and grand enough to be used at festivals or carnivals.

-Monster Monster

Bebe babe!

Grab and pull

Yes like that!

The original and adapted lyrics were mixed. Dancers entered the ensemble.

Cha Yu-jin climbed onto the golden chair and changed her singing style to sing while Park Moon-dae danced with the drone.

The stage was heated by the feeling of a runaway invading each other's territory without hesitation.

-Monster like that!

Peeing!

Firecrackers of all colors exploded bringing the harmony and choreography to a climax.

The two disparate elements of the stage reached the ending with each other's destructive feelings more intense.

Wow!!

Beyond the sound of fireworks and electric accompaniment people's screams shook the scene as if they were part of the performance.

"Yaaaa!!"

The graduate student also applauded hitting the light stick with his palm without realizing it.

Little did I know that an hour later on my way home I would be shocked to realize that this performance was only 4 minutes and 20 seconds long.

* * *

“Awesome! “It’s awesome!”

“I get it.”

Cha Yu-jin shook my shoulder repeating the same words throughout the VCR. It looks like you just really liked the stage.

I understand. I was a bit surprised too.

‘This is it.’

It was a composition that was difficult to immerse in unless you had a very thick complexion but I didn’t feel a single bit of solemnity.

‘I thought it was a dud but was it still worth the S rank?’

On the contrary I feel like I want to continue performing without stopping with the VCR…

“Do it again! Do it a hundred times! oh my god!”

Of course it’s not that bad. Let go.

“okay. “Let’s organize everything first.”

“yes!”

This kind of sudden expenditure of stamina is not acceptable. I had to keep my head straight tonight.

Besides this unit stage challenge there are still other events for today.

‘…Is this really the end?’

Approximately 30 minutes until the concert ends.

The removal of the status abnormality was really just around the corner.

Chapter 202

The first day of the encore concert ended successfully as planned and without any problems.

The response to the unit stage was also good.

-Please give me the music ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– Being able to see these two on the same team is Azusa's only advantage. Now abolish it.

-I wonder if this combination of Park Moon-dae's vocal vocals and Cha Yu-jin's dance should be added to the K-Pop Hall of Fame (I'm here to help please pass by)

-Cha Goyoung They always talk about Moon Dae-hyung's unit on Dub App and I understand why. Our kid is a genius.

Occasionally aggro would pop up to compare it to other unit stages but it didn't seem to work that well.

Even if I say it myself… I think it's because the units came in 1st and 2nd place.

Since the combination is a combination it seemed like fans of other units didn't want to cause unnecessary trouble.

'It's difficult to touch anything with a lot of pages.'

In the first place because the overall quality of the unit stages was good they lumped it all together with stories like 'Testa is good in any combination.'

So the fan community was in a harmonious atmosphere just taking care of each stage.

-Today is so good

-I was so overwhelmed that I started crying from the moment the opening VCR came out.

-I promise to go to the Testa dinner show (concert group photo)

The atmosphere of Park Moon-dae and Cha Yu-jin's individual fans was at the highest level since its launch so it was no different from a festival.

What this means is that among the people involved I was the only one who was nervous.

"brother!! "I'll swing the chandelier tomorrow!"

"okay. "Sleep well."

I gave the OK sign again to the ad-lib suggestion I heard about five times and left the bedroom.

"Where are you going??"

"Half-body bath."

Then he passed through the living room and entered the bathroom closing the door behind him.

This is the only place where I can be alone for an hour or two without raising suspicion so there is nothing I can do.

Sweet.

"after."

I sat down in the bathtub.

…In fact I already saw a pop-up appear the moment the concert ended.

I just postponed checking until bedtime so as not to interfere with simple night schedules such as behind-the-scenes interviews.

‘Of course if you check the pop-up now you don’t have to do anything right away.’

There is still time left so there is plenty of room to wait and see.

Still I feel like it might be the last time so it’s hard for me to put it off any longer.

see.

‘Status window notification.’

At the same time as I was chanting the pop-up whose existence I had only briefly confirmed earlier appeared again.

[Successful meeting!]

You succeeded in reaching an audience of ‘200000 people’!

!Time limit: met (success)

!Status abnormality: ‘Audience or death’ removed!

: Check ‘Options’ ☜ Click!

First of all… success is certain.

“under…”

Somehow the tension goes away. I pressed my temples with a strange feeling of helplessness.

All that’s left is to confirm the damn truth… Wait a minute.

“…!!”

: Check ‘Options’ ☜ Click!

Keywords are not the truth.

‘Choice?’

The moment I saw that word of course something came to mind right away.

‘…an option to choose between the original body and the ‘Park Moon-dae’ body.’

Isn’t this the most plausible and appropriate story as a reward for clearing the last status abnormality?

“…”

However it was so unexpectedly good.

My head gets cold.

‘Isn’t it too late to present it now?’

This strange system has stayed true to the game style since I joined Park Moon-Dae’s body.

However it was strange that this carrot was not presented until the end and then given as a surprise reward.

In a normal game this would have been thrown at the starting point as bait before hitting the status abnormality.

‘No even if it’s not a game… it’s true if you think about structure and efficiency.’

Wouldn’t it be better to torture hope with a clear reward at the end rather than just cracking the whip because you lose?

‘Then what are the other hypotheses?’

I tried to think about what would be more plausible if it wasn't for choosing a body but I couldn't come up with a specific hypothesis that said 'This is it.'

"…Whew."

I really feel like I need to take a half-body bath. My head is pounding.

I briefly thought about drinking but ignored it and just came out of the bathroom.

'Anything tomorrow will be considered tomorrow.'

First of all the last concert had to end well. It is right to erase from your mind anything that will affect your condition.

'Let's get some sleep.'

Just as I was about to return to the bedroom someone waved at me from the kitchen.

"hmm? "Are you not sleeping?"

It's a big hit.

"Half-body bath."

"Ah good."

He grinned and poured another cup of cold barley tea from the bottle he was holding.

"One drink? "Mom gave it to me yesterday."

Perhaps because of the color it strangely reminded me of beer.

I accepted the glass without saying anything. Big Sejin continued speaking with a smiling face.

“Oh right. The Mundae unit stage was amazing right? “You did really well with Eugene~ Park Moon-dae of course!”

However the content is bare bones.

‘There is a subtle nuance.’

Are you reflecting on your experience with the Cha Yujin unit?

I remembered that time.

-Just choose the stage itself well. I don’t feel like comparing you and Cha Yu-jin to see who is better.

I think I gave this kind of advice at the time but I was worried because I performed in a head-to-head competition with Cha Yu-jin.

But this was just a matter of appearance.

“…I chose the right point to emphasize.”

I muttered to myself as I sipped my iced tea.

“It wouldn’t have worked if it wasn’t a musical. “No matter how you sing.”

“…”

In the end it just meant that the format was no different from the four-unit stage.

‘Of course there are some characteristics but I can’t explain that.’

Instead let’s give this guy a chance to finish his sentence.

“Your unit stage was also good. “The shadow performance is just right so it’s cool.”

“…!”

A bitter smile as if he was a little embarrassed passed across Big Sejin’s face.

I understand how you feel about saying it without thinking even though you probably knew it in your head so I’ll leave it at this.

The guy joked and quickly took the opportunity.

“…haha. I worked hard. “It’s nice to see a good performance in practice~”

“I know.”

Bae Se-jin was practicing with all his heart and if the stage had been ruined he might have tried to kill you.

‘At least it seems to have gone well with Kim Rae-bin who is clueless and hard-working among them.’

Big Sejin smiled.

“Next time I’ll have to try it with Mundae too! “We haven’t worked together as a unit since we debuted~”

There are no overlapping positions so why bother?

This guy is probably just saying it as a congratulations. so…

“I just thought there was no need to do it since I was in a different position at Mundaemun University!”

“…!”

“Haha I guess I was right~”

“…no.”

How did you know this guy?

Big Se-jin burst out laughing but then quickly calmed down and spoke.

“Hmm but if we get a chance we’ll do well right?”

“I guess so.”

“Okay~ That’s the position!”

Big Sejin put the barley tea into the refrigerator. Then after a little hesitation he continued.

“…I have a lot to be thankful for. I wish you all the best in the future.”

“…Not much to say.”

“You say that whenever I praise you!”

Big Sejin laughed and tapped my shoulder. You’re laughing.

This guy also seems to have become emotional because it has been a while since he performed in Korea.

‘…Anyway it’s a bit better.’

This guy didn’t mean anything but talking about the stage made me feel comfortable because I didn’t think about anything unnecessary.

“Then I’m going in.”

“okay. Let’s do well tomorrow too~”

I just went to sleep.

There were no variables yet.

And the next day.

Wow!!

“thank you!”

The encore concert has ended completely.

“Ugh! “Clothes are sticking together!”

“First of all guys gather your things…”

“They say we all need to take a group photo…?”

After the mission is over the little things that remain are

It was finished quickly.

The after-party ended with the members eating some delivered food at the dorm. This is because I had them stay there once when I came to Korea after the tour.

“No drinking!”

“…I didn’t even touch it.”

I was assigned a non-alcoholic beer. It was a very strange feeling to have my drink stolen from me by a drunk guy.

And then I noticed it and went out onto the veranda to get some fresh air.

“…Whew. Status window notification.”

Pot. The pop-up seen yesterday has returned.

Now it’s time.

From today until the comeback there was almost no official group activity.

Yes it's only about a month but it means that if I want to find out something this period is appropriate. Because I can afford it.

And one thing came to mind.

'I'm sure if you click on this 'choice' item another pop-up introducing each option will appear.'

Considering the UI so far this is a fairly convincing hypothesis.

'Then it's better to find out quickly and think about it.'

I swallowed raised my hand and pressed 'Option'. My fingers split the air without any sense of touch.

And as I expected… a new pop-up appeared above it.

[Options]

: Check the 'truth' ☜ Click!

: Obtain 'Coin' ☜ Click!

※Duplicate selection is not allowed

"…!"

It was also not an option to choose one's body. And one of them… looks familiar.

'truth'.

This is probably the damned past notification I've seen so far.

So the meaning of this choice ultimately lies in the new option below.

‘Coin’.

What does this mean?

My head automatically spins at the completely unintuitive word.

The first thing that comes to mind is… currency.

‘Is any store open?’

This is also a setting I’ve seen a lot in web novels. I’m the only one in the status window shop.

It was plausible but too abstract. Other than that only images like virtual currency came to mind.

“…Damn.”

You’re being vague until the end. I glared at the options window.

But… in fact it was as if it had been decided.

I immediately moved my finger to the option that I didn’t have to worry about.

[Obtain ‘Coin’!]

It was a reasonable choice.

‘The truth is… it’s too risky.’

Because I don’t know what to show you.

Just looking at the description of the pop-up right now ‘truth’ is confirmation and ‘coin’ is acquisition. Since you own whatever the coin is isn’t it the status quo even if it fails?

‘This is correct.’

I wiped away my cold sweat and saw the pop-up.

There was a common sense expectation that there would now be an explanation of what to do with this coin.

However the pop-up that appeared… contrary to expectations was already familiar.

[outbreak!]

Status abnormality: ‘Star or die’ occurs!

“what?”

A status abnormality notification like X appeared again.

‘These bastards are really…!’

I feel dizzy. What the fuck is the last one! How long are we going to have to keep doing this shit?

…But on the other hand a strange feeling arose.

It was a relief.

‘Isn’t this… also seen as maintaining the status quo?’

All you have to do is live like you have for at least a year.

Even if it were tomorrow you’d probably think it was a crazy idea but still… there was a strange comfort from the reprieve.

I can keep living like this.

“no.”

I shot the pop-up gritting my teeth to resist the feeling.

‘What is the purpose?’

It was then.

Suddenly… the pop-up started crackling.

“…!!”

Status abnormality: ‘Star or die’ occurs!

And then the content disappeared.

“what.”

It wasn’t the end.

Tiring!

Status abnormality: ‘1st place or death’ occurs!

A new pop-up appears. The content is more than something I have seen before.

“what.”

And this wasn’t the end either.

‘No. 1 or death’ occurs!

‘Target or death’ occurs!

‘Performance or death’ occurs!

‘Be the best or die’!

‘Debut or death’ occurs!

‘What the fuck?’

Status abnormalities in pop-ups were endlessly crossed out and deleted.

And it blinked countless times as if someone had hacked it and it was updated with a new name.

How many times did that happen?

Tiririririn!!

[outbreak!]

Abnormal status: ‘Audience or death’ occurs!

The pop-up finally stopped updating.

It has the same name as the previous status abnormality.

However the content description was different.

[‘Audience or death’]

: ‘Park Moon-dae’ will die if he does not meet more than 400000 audiences within the specified period.

Number of people achieved: 0 / 400 000

Not 200000 but 400000.

The number of people has doubled.

And there is something added to the explanation. A specific name was attached to the death.

‘…not just a death but the death of Park Moon-dae.’

…How should I accept this?

From the damn coin to the buggy status window there was no way to figure out the alternative situation.

There is no use in racking your brain. Because there is no clue.

"…"

I sat on one side of the veranda and cooled my head. It was a bit tempting to smoke but it was bearable.

"after."

And I settled the situation by the time my body got cold.

'First of all two things are certain.'

The first is to reach 400000 audiences within one year.

This is actually okay. The two-month tour immediately attracted 200000 people.

The scale of the tour in the second half of this year has been increased so just looking at the plan it is possible to reach 400000 people.

'It's even more generous if you include an event.'

So let's skip this for now.

The second thing is… there is at least one person worth asking about this situation.

Since what this bastard told us was even wrong there is justification for questioning him.

"…Fuck you."

It's not something I really want to do but since I have no options there's nothing I can do.

I took out my smartphone from my pants pocket.

Then I found an MMS text with a picture of a dog attached and made a call.

The beep was cut off briefly.

-yes.

You might have guessed it but it’s pretty.

Chapter 203

As soon as I confirmed that Cheongnyeo had received it I got straight to the point.

“Can I make a call?”

-yes. Got a problem with the mission?

“…”

-I think that’s the only reason to contact you.

Was the timing too blatant in contacting you right after the encore concert ended?

There were so many unexpected situations that it hit me hard so I didn’t think enough about it.

‘But I can’t make it feel like I’m begging for a clue.’

This only sets the mood if it comes from an unconditional question. I cracked my neck.

“There were no problems with the mission itself.”

-I see.

“But there’s another mission?”

-…

“It wasn’t the last time. “Did you lie on purpose?”

-no.

The answer over the phone was obedient. There was no laughter.

The sound of the dog grunting seemed to be a small sound for a moment but then the conversation continued quietly.

-I think I can explain… If it's okay how about taking a quick look when you have time? Who can hear the phone call?

"It would be better to do it over the phone."

I'm not really saying that I want to talk about Miju over the phone but I'm just saying that wouldn't it be better for someone to listen to it than having my head broken?

-If it's inconvenient it's okay to watch it at Testa's accommodation. I have no other thoughts… Because I know it won't work anyway.

Well if you say something useless or leave out I tried to scold you with a recording and dig it out but it doesn't seem necessary.

Of course I can't guarantee when this guy will change his mind again so of course I plan to create safety measures.

"Then let's do it this way."

After choosing a place and time I came out from the veranda.

Kim Rae-bin who happened to be nearby was startled.

"brother! "You were gone for 35 minutes so I was worried that you might have secretly gone drinking. Were you on the veranda?"

"okay."

This guy is a little drunk too.

I sat down next to the other guys before they noticed and started talking to me.

“Ravin.”

“yes.”

“I have one favor to ask of you.”

“I will listen!”

Kim Rae-bin became impatient perhaps under the illusion that he had something to point out.

‘No that’s not it.’

I waved my hand once to tell him to calm down and then continued my explanation.

“I mean…”

And things went as expected.

* * *

A few days later.

“It’s okay.”

I first arrived at the outdoor cafe in the corner of the city that I suggested and that he had rented the entire place.

Although it is difficult to observe from the outside it is a place where someone nearby can immediately report if they hear screams. There are enough CCTVs.

“You came early.”

And next to Cheongnyeo who appeared in front of the entry fence a few minutes later… a dog wearing a tight-fitting chest strap was panting.

“bruise!”

“…”

I thought it might be possible but… I didn’t really think this would come out.

“I thought it would be a good excuse to bring him. “Are you okay?”

“…It doesn’t matter.”

“Haha it’s okay to pet it. “He’s a person who likes people.”

Cheongryeo grinned picked up the dog and moved away while holding it. The dog was wagging its tail vigorously.

‘The speed is good.’

It looks plump as if it is well fed.

“The cafe owner said it’s okay to eat whatever food you want so I’m comfortable with it.”

In this situation is there any way that could go down your throat?

I sat down at the table and answered calmly.

“No thoughts let’s start with the story.”

“is it so? all right. “Then the mission is not over… can we start from here?”

“Before that there’s something I need to answer first.”

“hmm?”

I kept asking questions but I didn’t think this guy would answer so I asked the question I had put on hold.

“How were you sure about the number of missions?”

“…”

From the beginning this guy confidently told me the total number of status ailments.

-I decided to calculate it… It seemed like it was given by adding the basic number of years returned at one time. that.

“I need to know where the formula of number of years returned plus 1 was derived. Because it’s wrong.”

“Oh that.”

Cheongryeo nodded obediently and petted his dog.

And then he made a bombshell statement.

“We collected cases from people like us.”

“…!”

“Oh not right now. “Because he died.”

The guy had an unimpressed face.

“What kind of illness was it… Anyway.”

I clasped both hands. My brain tingled.

There was another guy?

“How did you meet?”

“Oh this is a bit of an embarrassing story… Was it the fifth time? “There was a time when I went around saying unnecessary things to try to debut as quickly as possible.”

Cheongryeo smiled brightly and continued.

“There’s been talk on TV here and there about knowing the future.”

“…!”

“But maybe because the field was different the mission wasn’t cleared… Well I did it properly next time. “It’s fun to think about it.”

This bastard’s tone is changing.

You shouldn’t give a crazy person time to dwell on the past needlessly. I strangely broke the mood that was about to change.

“So anyway?”

“So… an old man approached me saying he was also from the future.”

Cheongryeo took his hand off the dog.

“After checking to see if it was real… and then guessing I figured it out.”

“what.”

“The point at which the future he knew ended was exactly the same as the point in the past where I started over.”

“…!”

“So… it seems like there is only one person in this time zone who knows the future. A few years for him and then a few years for me.”

“…”

“Now Mr. Mundae.”

Only then did I understand what this guy was talking about to me.

-Now is the perfect time. It must feel like living as the main character.

Was it because there was only one person occupying that exact moment in time to know the future?

'…Then what is the standard?'

What do I have in common with this bastard? And was the dead old man also in the entertainment industry?

All kinds of questions were confusing my head but the circumstances under which I asked them all were mysterious.

In the meantime Cheongryeo continues to mutter to herself.

"Well come to think of it… I never tried restarting it before he died?"

"…"

"It would have been nice to restart at least once while the person was still alive and see if he would return to the past. Right? Then we wouldn't have had to go through so much trouble. haha!"

"no."

I hung up on purpose.

"no?"

"uh. Just to confirm that it's better to get hit than to die."

"…hmm. "What is it?"

Cheongryeo's momentum died.

'I'm going crazy.'

As I was wiping the saliva from the fur of the dog that had started licking my hand I suddenly noticed something else.

"…Then you realized right away that I had returned to the past."

"that's right. "The timing was just right."

Cheongnyeo laughed.

"I wondered if someone else might now know the future but suddenly someone from the general public came to the audition and won first place."

"…!"

"Everyone expected it to fail but in a very successful program… we ended up taking first place by revealing a family issue at a very critical time."

"…"

It was a result of both coincidence and the effect of the status window but Cheongryeo smiled as if she was a little embarrassed.

"How many times did you think it was turned? of course."

"…hmm."

It seemed like a candidate site worth thinking about and considering.

"But I didn't expect it to be someone else… Well actually I thought that might be why I had another mission."

At that moment a hypothesis passed through my mind.

"…Because I am not 'Park Moon-dae'."

"yes."

This means that since you entered someone else's body you are subject to an additional penalty compared to cases where you simply returned to the past.

'I never wanted it but I'm going crazy.'

I pressed my eyebrows.

…If this hypothesis is correct the fact that the death target was designated as 'Park Moon-dae' in this situation feels quite relevant.

Doesn't this seem like a sign that from now on if you can't overcome the status abnormality they will prevent you from continuing to use Park Moon-dae's body?

'Fuck you.'

…Is this a one-time thing?

I don't know. In addition to that there are all sorts of irregularities from status window errors to coins.

'The coins can't even be verified.'

There is no news after the pop-up saying it was received.

Despite the shame I even shouted 'Inventory' in a loud voice but there was no change.

Cha Yu-jin who picked it up even while wearing earphones asked "Do you have any albums left in stock?" I just heard the same thing.

'Damn it.'

When I think about it my face gets hot. I roughly petted the dog which was rubbing its head.

'Isn't there anyone with a status window?'

I feel like telling the kid sitting in front of me to shout ‘status window’ once.

Of course instead of acting on that impulse I just stood up.

‘It’s a problem even if the status window actually opens but it’s a problem if it doesn’t.’

Let’s not provoke it further for no reason. Since I achieved my goal I planned to reduce the stimulation as much as possible and dig deeper next time.

But suddenly the dog started whining.

“…Kkiing!”

Does this mean don’t get up?

“It looks like Kong wants to play more.”

“…Beans?”

“yes.”

A name that seemed more native to the local community than I expected stuck out. I get along well with dogs but it’s a bit disgusting that that guy put it on me.

At that moment Cheongryeo spoke as if to emphasize.

“It’s the original name.”

“…”

I know what you mean.

“okay.”

I stood up after patting the head of the guy who had probably been called Kong for quite some time a few more times.

“Let’s play some more.”

“That’s it.”

I felt like my energy had been sucked out. There is no need to talk to this guy anymore.

I walked towards the entrance fence.

The guy who was following me holding the dog suddenly asked a question at the entrance.

“Hmm… Now that I think about it Mr. Moon Dae also has his original name.”

“…!”

“Could it have been someone with the same name? haha.”

I answered almost casually.

…I guess it doesn’t matter. Anyway even if I looked for my records I couldn’t find them.

“Ryu Geon-woo.”

“hmm.”

The guy made a strange expression.

“It’s better than Parkmun University.”

“…That’s right.”

I can’t bear to deny it.

Still in its own way Park Moon-dae… I think it's a good name after listening to it.

'It seems like fans ultimately like it because it's unique.'

Anyway I climbed over the fence of the outdoor cafe and started to go home.

"Uuuuuung-!"

The sound of a dog howling quite mournfully could be heard until we turned the corner.

I massaged the back of my neck.

'It wasn't that I had no income.'

Because I have at least a hypothesis as to why the status abnormality appeared again.

I hate to admit it but… it's definitely easier to come up with results because I have an extra head. Now that guy will stop using useless bluffs.

But it was even more disturbing to hear that this strange thing had happened to other people in succession.

'Why am I the only one who sees the status window?'

I really feel like I'm the main character of some kind of web novel.

At that time the smartphone in my pocket rang.

'this.'

I got a call right away.

-older brother! Are you okay??

It was Kim Rae-bin.

“sorry. Confirmation was late. “I’m on my way back now.”

-You’re very fast… It took less than an hour.

That’s right.

I recalled a conversation I had with Raebin Kim yesterday.

-I’m going out during break time so could you send me a text message every 30 minutes? It won’t be long… I think you’ll only have to do it in five or six times at most.

-Of course! But may I ask why??

-I remembered the last time I got into a fight with some crazy guy. I think I should make some preparations. If you don’t get a reply call them and if they don’t answer report it to the company.

-okay! Good idea!

It is a kind of emergency notification bell.

I plan to use Raebin Kim often in the future as he has a heavy mouth and rarely forgets his work once he says something.

‘Should I give them a snack when I get back?’

It was difficult to work without pay so I was thinking about carrots.

Suddenly a flood of noise came through the phone.

-Oh hey!

-brother!! Quick quick!

-Go away Cha Yu-jin!

-It’s important! Kim Rae-bin go away!

It’s Cha Yujin. I understand.

“I’ll be in soon. “See you later.”

It was the moment when I was trying to calmly end the call.

-Mundae hyung! Our American pro has appeared!

“…?”

-Our reality show!

It was very unexpected news.

For reference after checking the detailed circumstances it became even more absurd.

Chapter 204

〈Testa's Working Holiday〉 received a good response on WeTube and gained quite a bit of recognition among overseas KPOP fans.

-So this is a store where you can get Testa's smile by shouting hotteok? (Crying emoticon)

-The lover who shouts 'of course' every time he sees a customer who says he is a really handsome young man.

-Anonymous: The sophistication of Asians is the ability to use chopsticks haha.

-Ravin: 30g tailored by hand

-Anonymous: No one is mentioning Cheongwoo's kindness. Everyone is only talking about his 'hotness' (crying laughing emoticon)

There were quite a few comments that Testa who had made a mark on the public following the game collaboration song opened the door to the influx of overseas fans through this reality show.

However of course it was not enough to enter the international mainstream.

It's just that it has a name for itself among people who like this field.

So when I heard that it appeared on an American program I wondered what they meant and wondered if Hotteok had gone viral…

After checking I found that a minor detail that I had not expected at all caught my attention.

"This is this!"

As soon as she arrived at the accommodation what Cha Yu-jin saw was a short video shared on social media with English subtitles.

It was the scene where Cha Yu-jin had a meal with her mother in Season 2 of Reality.

Thanks to the division of roles into teams the three of us Cha Yoo-jin myself and Ryu Cheong-woo went to this meal… The meal composition was quite unique.

[I got selected in a lottery! [It would be nice to go with you]

It was a meal served on an American chef survival program.

Our production team was excited and managed to get a few shots through on-site negotiations but honestly it wasn't a comfortable position.

[Wait a minute that's not cooked.]

[okay?]

[Oh let's ask him to cook it!]

This is because when the white fish dish ordered by Ryu Cheong-wu was not cooked and sent back to the kitchen a tremendous amount of shouting was heard.

[This fish is so cold that my hands will get frostbite if I touch it!]

[…]

The survival program seems to have a similar route wherever it goes.

It was a wonderful experience that reminded me of the times when I was scolded by my trainer every time I messed up during <Azusa>.

However it is said that this scene was also aired on the chef program.

However there was a misunderstanding.

He thought of the members as brothers.

This was because when Cha Yu-jin's mother applied she used phrases such as 'Eating with my son who came back after a long time :)'.

Thanks to this the reprimand has a story.

[Those guests! After working overseas I am having a meal with my mother in my hometown for the first time in a year!]

[You are ruining their precious time!]

[stop! Everyone get out of my kitchen right now!]

The judge said something like this.

Moreover I don't know when the film was filmed but it was broadcast to the point where our calm faces were included even while listening to the commotion in the kitchen.

[It reminds me of the old days.]

[Sure.]

This line was kindly added with subtitles.

And this seems to have been quite funny in contrast to the crazy atmosphere in the kitchen.

It is said that it briefly appeared on the American Internet as a kind of East Asian meme.

-A- is not called Asian C for nothing haha.

There seems to be a comical meme going around saying the same thing saying things like 'For East Asians who live hard lives survival in America is everyday life.'

As a result it must have quickly entered the field of view of KPOP fans who knew about Testa.

-Oh my god it's a testa.

-You idiots they won a 'real' survival program haha.

-The phrase 'reminds me of the old days' refers to similar survival programs they experienced! I can't believe such misunderstandings occur in the world (laughing emoticon)

-The scene has already been aired on their reality show (link)

– Moon Dae is a great cook so the scene where he notices the undercooked fish first is always fun to watch.

-Their survival program had really mind-blowing rules. I'm really proud of Testa who overcame it♡

This uproar also became well known in the American Internet community and became an issue with an interesting twist.

And the climax was that it did not end there but almost turned into a controversy.

-Am I the only one who feels that mistaking fellow Asians for brothers is a form of racism?

Later it was clearly explained that it was a misunderstanding caused by Cha Yu-jin's mother's story but in any case it seems to have become quite viral as it continued to attract attention from humor to controversy.

[This is a corner that introduces recent popular stories on the Internet!]

In the end it was briefly reported on a news-style broadcast covering Internet gossip in the United States.

That is exactly what Cha Yu-jin showed.

“It’s fascinating!”

“I know.”

I think anyone can go viral by chance.

However I wonder if it is this exciting but it may seem even funnier when viewing it in one’s native language.

Cha Yu-jin roughly hummed ‘It’s me’ and browsed the English page. I shook my head and headed to the kitchen.

“I have more barley tea at Mundaemundae~ I’ll give it to you you can drink it!”

You sound like a brother.

“it’s okay.”

“Wow are you ignoring my mother’s sincerity?”

“…”

I finally gritted my teeth and took out the barley tea. Big Sejin burst into laughter.

‘That’s real.’

It was a bit of a mess but it was possible since we were all lounging around in the dorm during the day.

‘…It’s been a while since I had some free time.’

This was good because it postponed confirming the damned ‘truth’. It seemed like there would be no problem as long as we worked hard on the post-production of our comeback single starting the day after tomorrow.

‘The song is almost ready we just need to look at the final edits.’

It was a single released to confirm the form that was uploaded as light fan service and reality before the conceptually strong Daum regular album.

If all goes as planned the second half of the activity will overlap with the university festival period so the status quota will be greatly increased.

‘good.’

Aside from this damned game system of which nothing is certain the short-term future seemed peaceful.

…I didn’t know that the variable would pop up the next day making it pointless to think so.

The news was that the head of the headquarters had turned his attention.

* * *

The problem was that damn American meme.

Naturally it was not something that would arouse much sympathy so the meme died down quickly but some people continued to be interested.

-I’m really only a VTIC Tika but I’m also interested in Testa.

-I was curious about how Burning Chefs would be received overseas so I looked up their program and the number of views exceeded 10 million! (Capture from Episode 1 of Testa Working Holiday)

-Your name is Testa? Interesting. I never thought the day would come when I would search for KPOP (laughter)

-What kind of survival program did you appear on that made you

‘reminisce about old times’ because of that vitriol?

Some people from those who were originally interested in KPOP to those who were bored and looking for something different dug a little deeper.

And they eventually re-listed! Co. Ltd. I found it on Netplus.

-I found the survival program these guys appeared on and it has a negative voting system! Oh my god (shocked GIF)

In such a small community-centered way we belatedly launched ‘Re-listing! This means that American viewers are obsessed with “Idol Inc.”

The sensibility may not suit American tastes but it seems to have gained some word of mouth because it is guaranteed to be stimulating.

-They’re even revealing the hate vote rankings. That’s crazy.

-Only one person on the team votes to guarantee the right to survive? Let’s introduce it to the US right away XD

Psychopath bastard

There is no need to import anything. I don’t know but there are already a lot of survival programs like that in this country…

Of course the performance was not enough to immediately rank in the Net Plus daily US viewing rankings.

It was only a small success to the extent that “Azusa” was recommended by an algorithm to American viewers who had watched at least one Korean drama or entertainment show.

However it seems that it was something special for the head of the headquarters.

It would seem that the ‘appeal to America through reality’ that you were pushing for has really succeeded.

In fact you may have forgotten that the reality program itself did not take off and that the plan was revised differently from your vision.

‘no. I think it would have exploded even more if it hadn’t been fixed…
’

The superior intoxicated by the strong conviction that ‘he was right’ and a sense of accomplishment was no different from a runaway locomotive.

It was even worse because the junior idol Mirinae’s debut was also quite successful.

‘Fuck you.’

Fortunately the management director seemed to be eager to criticize the general manager’s behavior.

He is a guy who is worth the effort he took in advance.

“My brother said that people who steal artists’ achievements shouldn’t run a company.”

“and.”

This is what the third manager the manager’s cousin read the text message sent to him with a sad look on his face.

‘I guess we’ve had a real falling out.’

I hope we keep biting and fighting each other as planned and nothing happens. If we release a single and start promoting it will all be in vain.

‘Just fight with each other for four weeks.’

“Thank you for caring so much about us.”

“Yeah whatever.”

Manager number 3 said he was not particularly interested and turned on the game on his smartphone.

‘I’m really not interested in this.’

Still this guy was more useful than the first manager because he was the type of person who didn’t miss out on asking or asking for things.

Besides since I haven’t lived a social life I don’t know the lines when it comes to texts like this so I just show them.

“…Guys let’s move.”

“yes.”

On the other hand the first manager’s absent-minded attitude decreased significantly as if he was quite stressed by the changed ecosystem.

This was also comfortable. Moreover the new chief manager worked quickly and quickly.

‘But Liu Chengwu still works too much.’

Since the two road managers who accompany him directly do only what they are told Ryu Cheong-woo ends up taking the lead in checking the management.

Originally the managers should check each item individually and Ryu Cheong-woo should provide good feedback.

‘I think we need to fill the tester team with people who are good at their work.’

Let’s plan this a little further. First of all preparation for the next activity came first.

First of all the schedule for now is a meeting related to activity coordination.

“I have red hair!”

“okay. Do whatever you want Eugene.”

“Hehe.”

“By any chance Sejin… Bae Sejin don’t you want to dye your hair a brighter color? “From what we can see we think you’ll get along well.”

“…! I think it would be strange… No I will do it if necessary…”

“I’m not forcing you to ask! “I was wondering what it would be like to change my image.”

“Isn’t it nice to change your image~ Moon Dae-ya piercing call?”

“You do a lot.”

“Mumundae doesn’t like piercings…”

“That’s just it. “Do you like it?”

“Oh no! “I’ve never done it before…”

“Wow look at Park Moon-dae’s discrimination.”

Thanks to their stronger voice their opinions are now starting to be reflected quite a bit when it comes to hair and makeup.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“I’ll see you the day after tomorrow!”

‘Well it’s a piercing.’

After the meeting was over it was time to go to the recording studio to review the content that had not yet been decided.

“I’m really sorry but if you have time please go to the management room for a moment.”

“Oh yes.”

A cautious call came in from the management office.

‘what.’

In this case I had a bad feeling about the unexpected call but it seems I was right.

“Don’t worry testers!”

This is because the management manager who called us smiled brightly and said this as soon as we met.

‘Why does this guy look so happy?’

“I think the director of this comeback must have had a hard time because he kept asking us to target the United States.”

“That’s okay.”

In the first place the order from the head of the headquarters was not given directly. Besides what’s the point of laughing when you’re criticizing your boss right in front of your eyes?

In response to Ryu Cheong-woo’s hesitant answer the director responded more forcefully.

“no. We must respect the artist’s abilities and intentions! So I received confirmation through this meeting.”

“yes?”

I was shocked because I thought they had called me to show off and appeal but more than that I was quite scared as to what kind of confirmation I was getting.

And then came the damn statement.

“The director of this testa activity said that it would be successful in the global market without having to send testers to the United States!”

“…”

“So testers you can make the album you want like you are doing now without worrying about debuting in the US.”

You crazy bastard.

Suddenly it became necessary to make a fan service single a global hit.

Chapter 205

‘I believe you can do well on your own.’

At first glance it may seem like a good statement that conveys trust and confidence but if you hear this from a superior it means one of two things.

‘Do it yourself’ or ‘It’s your fault if you don’t do well’.

And this guy the management director is making remarks that contain both of these meanings without even realizing it.

‘If Testa does not achieve global results in this activity the head of the division has given him a reason to come in.’

It’s obvious. The head of the department will probably say something like ‘You have to do as I say in order to be successful in the global market.’

‘Naturally Testa’s right to speak will be weaker than it is now.’

I had barely developed my leadership to this level but in this small company with no answers such a situation was no different from a land mine.

However it is also problematic to say that Testa is not confident that this album will become a global hit.

Because the head of the headquarters could use that as a justification for intervention.

In short it was a dilemma.

‘I was played by this bastard’s headquarters manager.’

What do you expect from a parachute bastard? I'm just pissed.

"Of course we are trying to achieve good results but we cannot guarantee that we will hit the mark every time…"

"yes? No you just have to do what you have been doing so far. "Don't worry!"

This means that the manager only cared about his right to speak so he arbitrarily decided that Testa would continue its usual upward trend.

There was no consideration at all that 'You just have to do what you've been doing' would be a burden to the singer.

Not knowing what it's like to suffer on the front lines is truly parachute-like.

"…Um yeah."

Liu Chengwu eventually kept his mouth shut.

I realized that if I said I couldn't do it seriously the group would look funny.

'Damn it.'

This means that the arrangement and choreography of this single have already been omitted in order to be light and popular. Because I was planning on taking advantage of the domestic recognition I gained through reality.

'We made the chorus point choreography easy to follow.'

With only a few weeks left before the comeback I feel like I have to completely change my direction.

I'll see you again in hell during your debut.

"…"

Is there a hole to escape?

I quickly shook my head.

‘Testa is slowly transitioning out of being a rookie so how can I rub it well… ’

At that time Raebin Kim raised his hand and threw a fastball.

“However this single was designed to focus on domestic popularity so we did not aim for a global hit.”

“…!”

‘hey.’

For a moment I thought about covering my mouth but when I saw the manager’s embarrassed face I realized.

‘In fact this might be more effective.’

Raebin Kim had an expression full of pure doubt without any intention.

When Liu Chengwu made eye contact with me he nodded slightly.

“…”

Okay let’s take a look.

“If it does well domestically there will of course be a positive response overseas.”

“Not necessarily. The gap between KPOP’s domestic hits and global hits has steadily deepened over the past few years creating various cases…”

Kim Rae-bin diligently explained everything from songs that were hits in Korea but had little response in the global market to counterexamples.

And he ended his speech with a proud look on his face that he had explained everything.

“That’s why we can’t guarantee that this will be a global hit!”

“…”

The manager seemed a little overwhelmed by the innocuous bombardment of background information.

However perhaps because he knew that Kim Rae-bin did not intend to talk back instead of looking offended he began to blabber in an uneasy tone.

“There are still a few weeks left until the comeback so why not change the route? “The current head of the headquarters is such a maverick… you all know that right?”

That’s it. I found a pod.

I clasped my hands together.

“Then what I’m saying is that we need to immediately reorganize the group’s activity lines in line with what the director said.”

“…!”

It’s not that our performance is bad and we can say this much to Parachute.

“Of course I know that you said this for our sake and I think we should work hard but…”

Still put down a layer of cushioning material.

“I’m a little worried because it’s the opposite of our original intention so I think the director will say that this isn’t artist-centered either.”

"…"

Isn't there a conflict between the orders to 'respect the artist's opinion' and 'change whatever the artist has planned to focus on global performance'?

A moment of bewilderment passed over the manager's face.

Does it sound reasonable to you?

If you think about winning at best but getting caught because the head of the division changed his words you will be overwhelmed with stress.

"That's right~ I see there is a direction in which we originally wanted to pursue our activities! "I think it might look that way."

"We don't have any big plans for the US yet so we'd like to continue preparing for our comeback by working hard in Korea first."

Support fire pours in.

We will continue with our preparations so you can take care of the problem yourself.

Of course the manager's complexion worsens.

"Well then it may be difficult for me to support you in the future…"

I guess you don't want to sound regretful by retracting something that made you feel embarrassed.

'Well if I push it any further this bastard might make a fuss about hurting his feelings.'

The director's arrow should be pointed at the head of the division not at the tester.

Still there are many good things about pushing it into a corner like this.

‘It’s easy to tear off.’

Then like this… Oh that’s right.

‘…I decided to proceed after receiving consent from the team members.’

I made eye contact with the other members nodded and gave a rough signal.

‘Let’s just do as he says. If we do something wrong a bomb will explode.’

‘Yes yes～’

‘I’ll do my best either way…!’

‘I’m hungry!’

There seemed to be a strange signal at the end but I ignored it.

Anyway there is no one who shakes his head or is in desperate opposition. I answered the manager slowly and in a serious tone.

“Hmm… then how about doing it like this?”

“What kind of…?”

“The company saw that the reality show was doing well and invested heavily so we increased the scale of the project before the comeback.”

Please invest more capital.

“Then the context seems natural. What do you think Manager?”

Since time was short the strategy was to pour in whatever money was available to fill the void.

‘He’s a parachute so he’ll be able to attract funds from the headquarters.’

As expected the manager was pleased.

“It looks good to me.”

Done.

As the picture shows Testa didn’t ask for more money so even if it ends up being an average hit there will be less backlash.

Now let’s pour in a huge amount of capital and revise the arrangement choreography and MV in just 4 weeks.

‘Fuck you.’

It suddenly became a forced march.

* * *

That day we postponed our recording schedule and locked ourselves in the conference room.

“Global hit…”

“Hmm.”

Surprisingly the first to speak was Bae Se-jin.

“…How about doing it in English?”

That was quite reasonable.

However looking at the global ecology of KPOP it was a premature suggestion.

“Using English is aimed at gaining popularity in English-speaking countries… Wouldn’t it work if the public there first needs to know about us?”

“ah.”

That’s right. First of all it was a strategy to use only when the fan base was solid.

If we weren’t careful we could have just given a negative label like ‘too conscious of America’.

So what can be done to solidify the people who have been introduced to American memes into a fan base?

“I think it would be good to look at the concepts that existing KPOP overseas fans liked.”

“Oh that’s for sure~”

Hearing Liu Chengyu’s muttering Big Sejin raised his hand.

“The choreography is cool and the beat is good~ Don’t you like it when the music video is beautifully chosen?”

“Wouldn’t Korea also like something so cool…?”

“Well that’s right. But what should I say? In Korea dance songs with a lot of emphasis on beats… there are a lot of people who don’t listen to male idol songs right?”

That is correct.

So out of the two debut title songs we pushed ‘Magical Boy’ further because the beat was not too loud and was easy to listen to.

‘That one definitely ranked higher on the music charts and had a longer run than ‘Hi-five’.’

In the same vein songs like ‘Travel’ which is extremely conceptual and intense had slightly weaker music rankings than the previous title song.

Even though it was a period of activity in which they reached a career high and entered the top tier so much that the influx of fandom was visible.

Still it’s just as Big Sejin said.

‘It’s a shame that the popularity has soared domestically but if you need a response from overseas this is the right one.’

Of course even if you have decided on a direction it is not easy to change everything overnight.

“We just need to fix the choreography and everything so there’s no big problem… Are you okay Sejin?”

“…of course.”

Bae Se-jin responded steadfastly to Ryu Cheong-woo.

Liu Chengwu continued speaking with a slightly sorry expression.

“okay. Well I think I can gradually modify the rest in a cooler direction… I’m worried that arranging it will be difficult.”

Everyone looked at Raebin Kim after hearing those words.

“…?”

Raebin Kim looked around with a puzzled expression and then opened his mouth with an expression of realization.

“Once the concept is decided I will come up with a few arrangements to suit the mood! Please give me four days!”

It was an exciting statement.

“Is it okay…? “Wouldn’t it be very difficult…?”

“Still this title already has good melodic top notes that can be combined in many ways so I’m quite excited to try something new!”

“…”

Kim Rae-bin… seems rather excited about being able to try something he couldn’t do because he was trying to fit the formula for popularity and box office success.

‘Yes I’m glad that everyone is happy.’

I opened my mouth.

“Okay Ravin. “Then let’s start by talking about the concept so that Ravin can start working on it quickly.”

“okay.”

“I like Joe!”

“Does anything come to mind? “It’s an idea bank again~”

Originally we planned to release a seasonal song suitable for spring with no special fixed image but was moderately refreshing and had good colors.

What I’m saying is that we need to change this into a concept on a scale that will make a great ‘music video’…

At the same time we need to make it suitable for the tastes of English-speaking countries so that the head of the department can’t give a damn.

If it seems greedy I hope I get a lot of it without giving up on domestic popularity.

Since it is a digital single the album is not sold so the music charts are important.

‘…hmm.’

Is it good for fans to consume with great choreography and strong beats?

‘…ah.’

I opened my mouth.

“Let’s take this opportunity to expand our world view.”

“Our worldview? “Which one?”

“March.”

After some intense brainstorming the amendment including the arrangement was passed unanimously.

‘Instead go in a direction that is as comfortable as possible for listening!’

And three turbulent weeks passed.

* * *

Testa’s fans all knew that this comeback was a single.

This is because news of the comeback was quickly distributed to the media in conjunction with the encore concert. It was part of maintaining topicality.

And fans were even able to guess the mood of the song from the phrases added to each article.

[Revealing comeback with Testa Cherry Blossoms]

[Testar's comeback warm-up… Will they challenge the spring carol?]

[National style tester returns with men with refreshing spring emotions]

It was a press release that the agency's working-level staff worked hard to induce to set the tone after confirming the plan for this testa activity.

Thanks to this fans all expected it to be a crowd-friendly easy-listening song similar to 'Picnic' which was the title of the last repackage album.

Of course it wasn't just the fans.

-The music rankings were updated with Picnic. It looks like they are going to do it safely.

-Haha it's a bit disappointing. The testa's color looks something like Magical Boy's Coming.

– I've really come to like Baramy but since I keep playing easy songs I feel like I'm cooling off.

-I've only been with the team for a short period of time but I'm already a bit weak at lowering the choreography difficulty haha. I guess that's because the fans still like it.

As the reality program was a hit Testa's comeback received almost as much attention as its debut which made many people go crazy.

-This song hasn't even been released yet so it's already damn it haha. How much of a crisis is there? I feel sorry for you.

-It's strange because there's so little sense of impact.

-It's a digital single so… I'm sure they'll release a full-length album but I'm a fan so it's a shame. Those idiots who talk like this are so annoying.

-No matter what our kids do we'll be happy with it so stop lecturing us.

– Hahaha it's going so well that I can only scratch it like this now baby hahaha.

Fans were able to ignore the reaction by being moderately annoyed and laughing at it to a moderate degree.

Looking at the current momentum there was no way this comeback would fail…!

At the same time I also thought that this stage would be fun and flashy enough to make that guy shut up but basically everyone trusted Testa.

'I've never failed before!'

And on the day of Testa's comeback teaser release.

Fans will see an incredible 30-second video that they never expected.

'Wha wilderness??'

The concept that Testa chose was… Steampunk Joseon.

Chapter 206

Testa's teaser began with a steam locomotive passing through a barren field.

Chiiik!

A brass-colored train with prominent gear wheels approached the screen at an angle.

And then there was a close-up of the inside of the train window as if you were being sucked in.

[…]

It was a room with an antique mid-Joseon Dynasty style.

The two passengers sitting opposite each other were wearing black and white coats like coats.

Underneath the outer garment a modern-style garment with leather straps and buckles was visible.

Suddenly the camera captured the face of the person wearing the white robe. Sun Ah-hyun with her hair neatly covered looked down.

And on the other side.

In-young who was opening an old newspaper with a large headline reading 'Why are you saying that even monsters are being issued citizenship certificates?' took down the newspaper.

It was the silver-haired Park Mun-dae.

Park Moon-dae raised his head and stared at the camera without any expression.

At that moment the music came.

[♬♪-♪♬ ♪ ♪ ♪]

The video quickly began to move through cut scenes with rhythmic drums and gently falling wind chimes creating a strange period drama feel.

Lee Se-jin wearing a monocle flipping a gold coin seemed to be smiling briefly but soon Rae-bin Kim wearing a suit and holding a gas lamp passed by in front of the coal mine.

And Bae Se-jin with light brown hair was looking at a strange-looking analog brass instrument panel.

The moment Bae Se-jin looked down outside the window the camera followed his gaze and showed the train entering the strange city.

The city with its chaotic mix of traditional architectural styles and symbols of the Industrial Revolution was briefly captured but soon the focus was on the train running over the buildings.

And the next moment.

The train derailed.

Wow!

When it collides with the building the roof tiles fall off. Golden dust and debris flew.

A foot wearing a walker stuck out from there.

Pot!

Inyoung soon kicked away the debris and clung to the side of the train. Loud metallic-colored medals flashed on the front island.

[wow!]

Cha Yu-jin wearing a remodeled military uniform was hanging from the train and smiling brightly. Debris was scattered behind her.

And the camera moved along the oldest of the numerous bounty posters that were sucked into the rubble.

[100 000 nyang]

It was around this time that the identity of the black figure in the poster was recognized.

Suddenly the camera showing the screen shook and fell as if it had received a shock from the outside.

Jijijik-!

The accompaniment stopped as if it was broken.

Ryu Cheng-wu with a musket slung over his shoulder against a shaking black background raised his chin and looked down at the camera.

His eyes glowed bright blue like a poster.

[…]

The screen disappeared.

A singing voice rang out.

-no oh no-oh no-oh

A time of thirst and thirst

A line of melody.

And then a subtitle appeared along with silence.

[TeSTAR]

[Spring out]

Immediately after the comment section began to update like crazy with question marks and tears.

* * *

“after!”

Kim Rae-bin’s personal fan held his breath when he saw the package that had arrived.

Testa’s latest activity only released one title song so there was no album but T1 sold related MDs to a large extent.

What Kim Rae-bin’s fan purchased was light stick parts and a concept photo book.

She made and sold everything from bags to hats on the site but she did not want to be a fanatic enough to buy all of that so it was her choice.

‘The T1 guys are really amazing.’

I had no idea that photo books would be sold so seriously instead of albums.

Of course I wanted to check the photobook first but first I had to remove the light stick decoration parts from above.

‘It’s so cute!’

It was cute that the golden gears and pocket watch were connected to the pipe. As she huffed and sorted it out her mind wandered to the music video.

“It was crazy.”

I really couldn’t think of anything else to say.

The response was explosive from the time the teaser was first released. Of course it was because the video quality was good but there was another reason that was bigger than that.

-He said he was a spring youth! They say you are a spring youth!

-Spring Youth (derailed the train)

-I understand… I wanted to express spring with yellow dust and fine dust flying not cherry blossoms.

-I didn’t know it was the spring.

This is because the media was agitated with the feeling of a ‘refreshing spring carol song’ but the teaser actually gave the taste of a world view with a strong sense of science fiction fantasy.

Still there were far more people who were angry than who were disappointed.

-Yokai and traditional style? This is definitely a world view lol.

-Ah crazy Ryu Cheong-woo the final boss material was messed up. Are you crazy?～～ National University gunman!!

-It’s steampunk even down to the brass gears of the steam engine. What in the world is happening to Joseon steampunk?

-T1 has a lot of money so that’s why I’m holding back and being a fan.

-Wow they’re throwing this out as a single.

It was overwhelming to spend so much money on a single that was not even a regular album and seemed like it would pass as fan service.

Since it was famous for being a subsidiary of a large company that was good at spending money not many people regretted it or worried about it.

Of course that doesn't mean there weren't people scratching.

-But I think this will only do well if I sell the album but the music… I don't know.

-T1's guts are good but he seems a bit weird lol.

-It was an opportunity to gain popularity among male idols but he kicked away his luck.

People who like to cause trouble changed their words and started disparaging the song as if they had never said that 'popular songs are not fun'.

But that also ended the moment the song was released.

-The sense of today seeps in

Enjoy this moment I can feel the gaze

What's up?

the real flavor (come out)

The song was rhythmic and languid reggae.

It was clearly expected that the performance would be faithful to the interlude and bridge with a strong drop but overall it was easy to listen to.

This means that it was a good song to shake your body and enjoy as a drive song.

'Only the same rabbit Kim Rae-bin is capable of killing two birds with one stone.'

Kim Rae-bin's fan casually finished the rhyme-only meeting and continued with the task of dismantling the package.

But in my head the reactions I had seen on the internet were flying by.

The general public who had been waiting for Testa's comeback for the first time as a reality program was confused from the teaser.

-It looks like a movie trailer.

-Hey they must be making a lot of money.

-No I thought it was an idol music video but it was some kind of SF Joseon Dynasty movie.

-Is that Cheongwoo at the end? ㅠㅠ Oh my goodness Cheongwoo makes that kind of expression he's so cool!

-What is it? Why did the cuties who sold hotteok have such flashy hair colors? It reminds me of magical girl transformation haha.

Surprisingly their debut song is Magic Boy

Huh

These people could only be seen on social media but the comment section of the WeTube video was swept away by a wave of foreigners.

-So… this is the 'work' they were doing in Korea? (chin-down emoticon)

-Ahyun's pomade hair almost took my breath away.

-Everyone didn't know that in Korea airships fly and steam locomotives run over buildings? (Crying laughing emoticon)

-I can't believe that the people who won that tough audition program are finally making such great videos so I'm rooting for them from Wisconsin☺

-Testa deserves more recognition!

Foreigners who had watched Azusa through memes started leaving comments.

This was possible because the story of 'something like that happened in the United States' circulated not only in the United States but also among KPOP overseas fandoms.

Thanks to this the music video surpassed 30 million views in 24 hours.

Now Testa's fans are slowly getting a taste of the first team.

'The tour schedule will expand further… '

Kim Rae-bin's fan envisioned a bleak future and eventually succeeded in unwrapping the photo book from the delivery box.

"Whoa."

For reference this is volume 4.

It was because T1 the treacherous pigs of capitalism used the random photo card system they used for their albums here too…

If Park Moon-dae had known it could have been stopped but because he was busy with a crazy schedule he couldn't take care of it up to this point.

Kim Rae-bin's personal fan clasped his hands.

'Please Raebin Kim!'

She had already looked up a reasonable explanation of what photo cards were included for each member.

First of all there were a total of 14 types of photo cards 2 for each member.

And Kim Rae-bin had a selfie taken with a wink and a behind-the-scenes shot of a music video wearing a suit and hat.

‘If possible the former would be better.’

This is because Kim Rae-bin does not take selfies often.

[hello! My name is Raebin Kim. I’m posting this because I thought of Loveviewer while I was working. (picture)]

This would be explained if in the early days of debut there were many cases of photos of one’s own equipment being attached to social media.

And… if Kim Rae-bin doesn’t appear I wish she would appear together if possible.

‘Silver-haired Park Moon-dae…!’

It was the first time for Park Moon-dae to dye his hair in such a cold color. In addition the neatly trimmed and half-cut hairstyle was great!

-Baba Park Mundae What is happening?

-Please let me go to the workshop. I have to see that with my own eyes.

-Spring Park Moon-dae Let’s choose a Siberian Husky dog. We just agreed now (capture)

As soon as the teaser was released the response was so hot that ‘Mundae silver hair’ was featured as a popular post and real-time keyword.

‘He definitely knows something.’

She nodded ignoring the fact that most members who had newly dyed hair or wore colored contact lenses had similarly become a hot topic.

And then he began to open the photobook with great vigor.

‘If you take out the card you can’t sell it at full price anyway! Just one book needs to be intact!’

Confirming the photo card was a priority.

She boldly opened the first photo book and picked up the card that fell from the middle.

“…!”

The person in the photo was… Cha Yu-jin.

“Eight.”

She lamented the reality that she was neither Kim Rae-bin nor Park Moon-dae but soon changed her mind.

‘Cha Yu-jin is unconditionally exchangeable!’

It was obvious that Cha Yu-jin’s personal fans were overflowing frantically looking for exchanges.

Moreover Cha Yu-jin’s photo card in this music video outfit came out really well.

Cha Yu-jin lying with her feet up on a very classic open car and smiling glowed golden.

It had a magical power that made you want to scream and keep it.

“…”

Should I sell or not?

Even she who had no special feelings for Cha Yu-jin eventually cleared her throat and carefully took the photo.

“No… well they may appear in the other three volumes.”

Making excuses to herself she reached for the remaining photo books but couldn’t shake the strong feeling that she wouldn’t sell those photo cards.

‘I don’t know maybe I can buy more.’

Rather the key was whether or not the music video would appear on music broadcasts exactly as it was.

Two days later… no it was just past midnight so tomorrow was the first music broadcast.

She thought deeply recalling the grueling schedule for the first week of her idol activities.

‘Well I guess we’re in the middle of practicing the last-minute choreography right now.’

Unfortunately it wasn’t as she expected.

At the same time the members were all huddled together in the practice room looking worn out and exhausted looking at the monitor.

“Now… let’s play.”

“yes.”

After completing the crazy schedule of the past month they were finally filming the reaction video for this music video.

Chapter 207

It was an eventful month.

-Teacher~ From the confirmation of our choreography draft

-I'm sorry but when the lyrics are modified like this there are a lot of parts that don't match the rhythm…

-I heard that costumes for concept photos have been released.

The countdown to the activity started but there was no end to the number of things that had to be changed so the working staff worked almost like crazy afterwards.

Of course the highlight was the music video.

I came to the conclusion that no matter what I did I couldn't finish editing by the date.

'It was creepy.'

So they revised their schedule to release the music first on Tuesday the comeback date and then release the music video at midnight on Thursday.

At the time I was reluctant because I thought I would lose money but surprisingly this method brought about quite positive results.

'Thanks to the fact that the music was released first it was placed on the charts without prejudice.'

Steampunk Joseon appearing in the music video is a fun element but it's not a friendly element.

If this specialness affected the impression of the sound source there was a high probability that its popularity would suffer for no reason.

However after garnering attention with just an interesting teaser the song's popularity melted away as I listened to the song separately.

Thanks to this it is currently hovering between 4th and 5th place on the biggest music charts.

[4th place Spring out / Testa] ▲1

To be honest I expected a top 10 finish but it went surprisingly smoothly.

'I wonder if the number of users will increase after the stage and entertainment show is done like before.'

So this time we made up our minds and made quite a schedule as a team for major domestic entertainment shows. Let's take advantage of the buzz created by reality.

'I guess I'll look forward to it.'

Of course for a smooth corporate life in the future… the most important thing is the global response.

For your information I don't even expect it to make it onto Billboard's main chart.

'It's not yet known that much overseas.'

In order to target the Billboard in the first place it should have been simultaneously released in the US on Friday to match that chart and fully reflect the one week's worth of results immediately after the comeback.

It would be completely understandable that the infrastructure could not be built within three weeks.

‘Damn it.’

Moreover the only way to win is to aim for the album chart. There is no answer to the song chart unless you have a VTIC-level overseas fandom.

This means that Testa’s global growth cannot be measured by being on the Billboard charts this time as he is only active with one song.

‘We focus on proving that we have increased Testa’s global awareness.’

The answer is the increase in the number of searches for Testa in global search engines the number of views by platform country and the size of the tour.

And the current music video reaction will also become good WeTube content that drives that.

“Oh here we go.”

“Excited~”

It was a great attitude for the members to talk so hard even though their eyes were tired.

‘Is it thanks to the settlement?’

The settlement amount for the first quarter of this year which came in a few days ago exceeded the first settlement amount received after debuting for over half a year.

Bae Se-jin claimed that he had paid off the real estate mortgage loan.

Anyway I also slapped my palms as sincerely as I could and looked at the monitor.

The music video started from the end of the teaser that is the overturned train.

-I…

fancy sneakers messy collapsing

Quack!

As soon as the low-pitched narration-like rap ended. The train exploded.

And Cha Yu-jin who jumped out of the explosion unharmed caught the newspaper flying in the air and grinned.

This is the old newspaper that ‘Park Moon-dae’ reads in the teaser.

“Oh~”

“Is it cool?”

“that’s right!”

While Cha Yu-jin next to her was excitedly asserting her coolness Cha Yu-jin on the screen was excitedly running into the city developing the music video’s storyline.

And the rhythmic and slow intro melody.

-I let go and enjoy it lazily

Comfortable Driving Mode

I’ve been through it all fame pain

An exploration unfolds in a strange city that mixes science fiction and modern Joseon. In short it was close to an old American Western style adventure drama.

However I was careful not to seem too obsessed with the story.

‘It’s a music video after all.’

This means that they did a good job of capturing wonderfully choreographed scenes set in unrealistic building interiors or sparkling wilderness.

It was also specified that attention should be paid to distribution of the story volume.

Although Cha Yu-jin was the first to start the members took over the baton by appearing one by one in each part.

“Why is Sejin wearing a monocle…?”

“Ah I was a nine-tailed fox before right? “Why do I get mesmerized when I look into your eyes? Are you showing me something like that?”

“That’s great.”

“Huh? Put a little more soul into Mundaemundae!”

“Wow that’s really cool.”

Even the already decided comments are filled in like this. Because it’s not fun to just add exclamation points.

Of course I also got some exclamation points.

“Wow Bae Se-jin!”

“Oh your acting is always amazing…!”

“Not to that extent.”

This is the praise poured out in the scene where Bae Se-jin presses the analog instrument panel and the train turns gears and recovers.

“There were no objects in front of me but it felt like they really existed!”

“that’s right. “When Sejin was acting it was just full of green everyone.”

This means that he acted in front of a green screen with only a focusing stick.

It may seem like they are bragging about their technological prowess but that is not true.

I really didn’t have time to build a whole set so I just chose CG to kill time with my budget…

‘That company must have had hell of a job too.’

And even in that situation they gave a fancy CG scene to someone who would act without being fazed and that was Bae Se-jin.

“…I’m glad it came out well and I will continue to work hard.”

“and!”

Bae Se-jin’s face turned red and she nodded at the camera.

Well public opinion has been favorable toward that guy lately so it seems like things have gotten a lot easier.

The music video reaction continued like that.

“Look at that! Kim Rae-bin can’t move!”

“no! “I played the role of a goblin so the director asked me to use such static movements to create mystery!”

Eventually a meaningful scene passes by where I Park Moon-dae and Kim Rae-bin meet in a coal mine and both the song and the picture become heightened.

From languid reggae to intense and deep moombahton.

-Actually I know it's not enough.

What I need is a sense burning thirsty

time of thirst

This is because a sense of specific purpose was revealed in the story toward the end.

The train derailment in the music video teaser was aimed at monsters who came to the city to receive 'citizenship certificates'.

So for various reasons the members try to catch this terrorist in order to receive citizenship.

And as anyone who saw the teaser may have guessed the terrorist is Liu Chengwu.

-no oh no-oh no~oh

A time of thirst and thirst

Soon the members on the screen faced off in the middle of the night with Ryu Cheong-woo who glared down at them with an overbearing face.

"Oh!"

The nicely CG-ed scenes were believable without being excessive.

It could have been like a low-budget B-movie but it was definitely worth the money spent.

And it was quite interesting to see the different interpretations of this scene.

For reference this was the strong liquor.

-It's a metaphor for discrimination!

The basis is as follows.

-The members who appeared as extremely powerful and mysterious beings in 'Training' must run to be recognized as members within the confines of human society.

-This is a discourse on discrimination that naturally melted into the background of the modern era when sufficient discussion and awareness growth about human rights have not yet occurred.

-The story line is laid out similarly to 'Travel' making it more thematically conscious.

-In addition 'Ryu Cheong-woo' who eventually realized that he was a monster in 'Training' this time denied the citizenship of monsters and became a terrorist.

-This is a feeling of discrimination that stems from self-hatred.

-In other words Testa's music video reflects criticism of discrimination.

Actually I didn't think about it this much… but it was surprising that they immediately recognized what I had considered.

Of course it seemed like it was used like this in the end.

[You can compare a monster like this? Foreigners astonished by Testa's amazing music video!]

[A counterattack against the racism faced by Asians in the United States? Testa's new song review]

Since I'm filming this video so late I've already looked through the public reaction and analysis… so a thought comes to me.

Anyway at the climax of the song a battle between the members and Ryu Cheong-woo is implied and intense climax choreography is included.

Ah it's my part.

-The sense of today seeps in

Enjoy this moment I can feel the gaze

Now without notice

Spring out

The cut of Ryu Cheong-woo turning the ebony long gun around and firing was included in an appropriate part one after another.

"Wow!"

"Brother~ It's so cool??"

"I really feel like a boss! What a badass!"

"Well is that so? haha."

Liu Chengwu smiled awkwardly. Actually at the time of filming he seemed to like it a lot and was looking into his hobby of shooting… but let's not talk about it for now.

"Hey~ But it's a bit like that because we're in a 6:1 picture. "Right?"

"no! I love winning! "You just have to win!"

"…"

I'm asking you to edit this.

The music video contained more waves and flips than the previous songs creating a good dramatic choreography and ultimately ended with the monsters overpowering Ryu Cheong-woo.

However Cha Yu-jin smiling comes forward and a brief interlude that is not in the sound source is added.

[…]

Cha Yu-jin places the citizenship certificate application into Ryu Cheong-woo's hand.

-Bite it and enjoy it

Now Spring out

You sting

Swallow it to your heart's content

The music returned and the ending ended like that.

The members quite naturally added comments as if they were seeing it for the first time.

"Oh~"

"I think it came out really cool…!"

"I was impressed by how well it was implemented according to the storyboard!"

"Thank you director~ I love you Lovers who watched the music video~"

"I hope it's a big hit."

It's clear that the music video has already broken its own record in terms of views but out of courtesy let's add this comment.

[Wow!]

[Wahhaha!]

After watching a few seconds of the guys who got citizenship through the cookie video running around excitedly I think they chose the right amount of footage.

“Then everyone we will work hard and do great things again so please give us a lot of interest and love.”

“See you soon~”

The camera turned off with a greeting.

And as soon as the staff packed up their equipment all members immediately returned looking exhausted.

“after…”

“We can… stay awake tomorrow right?”

The current time is 1:30 AM.

Considering that I had to leave for the shop at 4 a.m. tomorrow I had to go to bed right away but considering the final choreography practice I’m sure I’ll stay up all night.

“Let’s cheer up.”

“yes.”

Well there is no other way so I have no choice but to do it… It would be nice to reduce the travel time at least.

‘Isn’t it time to change accommodation?’

I want to move my accommodation to the center of Seoul.

Looking at the settlement amount it seems like I can receive that much investment.

‘Should I deal after seeing the results of this activity?’

In order to get the best location and conditions possible I decided to consider the timing carefully and put that thought aside. Because I was too busy.

But the very next day.

This topic immediately surfaced.

“Our testers how about moving to a better place to stay?”

“yes?”

Of course it was not an idea like a charity project where the agency voluntarily paid for the singer out of concern for the singer who looked tired.

The chief manager said with a tearful expression as if on purpose.

“No… because I keep getting complaints about that apartment.”

ah.

“You know those crazy kids keep trying to break into my complex so the management says it’s no longer difficult…”

okay. I wondered why this problem didn’t come up.

Chapter 208

In fact I experienced quite a few unusual invasions of privacy while working in the group.

-You crazy you intentionally tried to cause an accident with that taxi right??

-Hey… he keeps trying to hit me from behind…

-Wow~ Testa! Please sign here and take a picture!

-yes? Sorry but this place…

-I just did it for my nephew.

In the most severe cases it ranges from intentionally causing an accident to intrusive actions during the waiting time for a music broadcast.

Well it's true that it wasn't an unexpected side effect but I just passed it off as a professional disadvantage.

In the information age it seemed like there were more people trying to hack electronic devices than people coming in person.

First of all the accommodation was fine.

'It didn't seem like there was any room for something like a one-room incident to occur.'

This is because the accommodation is an apartment with very good security.

There would have been no way to break into the old studio apartment

I was using as a temporary base.

Perhaps Bae Se-jin also felt a stronger urge to purchase real estate with good security after moving into this accommodation.

However it seems like that has now reached its limit.

“They came in at all?”

“yes. Ugh. They say he bribed a delivery man to come into the parking lot but the process of getting caught again…”

“How did you get discovered…?”

Chief Manager sighed and answered the nervous Kim Rae-bin.

“It was a diversionary operation!”

“…?!”

“I heard that all the kids who infiltrated the management office’s CCTV room and were caught looking at blind spots were taken away… Oh my that’s right.”

“Ugh.”

“…”

It’s amazing.

Isn’t this some kind of mafia? Did you bribe an employee and carry out a diversionary operation?

It was so organized that its persistence and passion were a waste. But it wasn’t surprising.

‘When I was doing Data Pal a similar number of cases came in.’

It's the kind of request that asks someone to hang around all day and leave behind data.

The pay was quite strong but it was easy to draw a red line so I avoided it.

Anyway after seeing this the apartment management office and the residents' meeting could no longer tolerate it and issued a recommendation.

"In the beginning it was difficult to chase away those who kept camped in front of the complex but now you say it is no longer difficult…"

"…Hmm."

In short 'It's your problem so do something about it yourself.'

This is a situation where I can't help but feel embarrassed because it is a common sense request.

Moreover it is dangerous for the company to just ignore it because it does not want to worry about it. The moment the apartment residents report it to the media the situation will escalate.

[Controversy over Testa accommodation… Apartment residents complain of fear due to noise and intrusion]

The article title is already thrilling.

'As expected there is no other answer than moving.'

Rather than investing money and manpower into this apartment the company would have chosen a mover who could make a media play by saying "We moved the accommodation to a better place."

Still telling the relevant situation in detail like this has more meaning than just an explanation.

It would be easier to get their cooperation by scaring them like this rather than wiping their mouths and saying things like “We’re moving them to a better place.”

In the future… in dealing with stalkers.

‘In that sense he is definitely more capable than the first manager… ’

Hmm it would be better to add a new road manager with good humanity.

This is a group with a lot of people who put a lot of effort into their work. As a manager I needed someone who was kind and quick-witted.

“So since things are like this I think it would be nice to move to a bigger and better place. What do you think?”

“song! great!”

“wait a minute. “Well would anyone who definitely wants to change accommodations raise their hand?”

Hearing Ryu Cheong-woo’s words several people including Cha Yu-jin immediately raised their hands.

Instead of raising his hand Big Sejin waved it as if it were a stretcher and grinned.

“Oh of course it’s nice to move~ But where are we going?”

“We’re still checking potential locations but what’s certain is that we should go to a place with better security and a better location than here!”

“Right~ Ah you’re going to a place near the shop right? “I agree!”

This means that if the shop in Cheongdam-dong is not close enough to the center of Seoul it is the opposite.

“Haha I understand! Oh then would you like to see the candidates in person? “I’ll send it to you!”

“yes!”

Soon a file appeared in the company’s workroom on Messenger. I immediately clicked on the file and scanned the candidates.

‘It’s okay.’

Of course you won’t know unless you go there in person but once you look at the location and name everything was very good.

‘There are already many places where celebrities have moved in… ’ for a moment. Why am I here?

At that moment Chief Manager happened to pick up that ‘here’.

“Actually we want to push SV Village a little harder but the Testa name is worth it! “I think it’s okay to give that much~ I’m trying my best to deliver it!”

No.

“…How about a place closer to the broadcasting station? Endre Felice and…”

“Ah we are also taking a meaningful look at that too!”

The Chief Manager skillfully changed direction. Sun Ah-hyeon asked from next to me.

“Do you hate riding in the car for long periods of time…?”

“…It’s kind of like that.”

“I see!”

no.

I only know whose accommodations are in ‘SV Village’.

‘It’s VTIC accommodation.’

Of course as people get older everyone knows that they have become independent and have become less famous but there is no need to give them the excuse of being neighbors.

‘Well looking at what he’s doing it looks like he has no intention of getting out of the house.’

I don’t know why I’m sending pictures of dogs rolling around in the garden but I hope they just live their lives as they are.

But I don’t know what people do so let’s avoid it.

“Then I will definitely organize your opinions and pass them on to you!”

“yes!”

The meeting ended neatly and it seemed like the moving process would probably proceed quickly by the end of this activity.

‘There won’t be any problem.’

I thought so but the problem was that this news leaked elsewhere.

* * *

-We are moving to each island╥ E fellow

-You guys are getting expensive all of a sudden.

Kkkkkkkk Now is the part where I can complain about invasion of privacy?

– Haha they say he's such a top star that he can't even stand his crush waiting outside his dorm. ㅠㅠ

-That sucks I barely got through the security.

'I can't come to my senses.'

Twin Homma turned off the capture he was briefly examining.

This office worker who runs the twin home of Lee Se-jin and Park Moon-dae was using his downtime to browse social media. Then I found this article.

[Testa regular soldiers are disgusting]

Someone captured and uploaded their private account.

'Why are you dragging something like this over the water?' 'What you wrote is also an invasion of Testa's privacy' etc. but seeing that they didn't take down the post even though they were excited it was clear what their intentions were.

'It looks like you want to start your promotion period.'

The office worker quit after thinking about the obvious suspects – VTIC's fans One Curve's fans etc.

That's because there was no atmosphere to ruin it.

Testa's activities this time were going smoothly.

There was a lot of influx of fans but the weakening of popularity which had gradually become entrenched in 'their own world' after 'Azusa' was stopped thanks to reality.

'I guess that's why you're so anxious that you're in trouble?'

In addition Twin Homma's picks the two were particularly successful in adding a new image and were on a roll.

Not only Lee Se-jin who wears a different type of monocle for each music broadcast but Park Moon-dae's silver hair was also very well received.

-In the music video he licked the pen nib and in the fancam he licked my heart and ate the heart of the person who touched it.

-I will never stuff the silver-haired Mundae and give up the 1000-year-old elite monster vibe (emoticon with clenched fist)

-Yes I knew it would be like this. Heukdaeng Geumdaeng The era of grand unification has come.

Isn't silver hair from Tibet?

It wasn't just personal SNS but even the posts posted on WeTube fancams were flooding in with nothing visible.

'As expected it's a good thing we caught Park Moon-dae together.'

At this level it would be possible to cover the cost of activities by making and selling season greetings. Twin Homma logged onto his SNS with satisfaction.

What do you mean by sasaeng? This is an issue that will be swept aside if a new one pops up again.

To put it bluntly the people he caught were not the ones to be caught by Sasaeng anyway so there would be no further controversy.

'First of all I'm sure about Lee Se-jin.'

Twin Homma is confident that Lee Se-jin an idol was never the type of person to feel sorry for a stalker after years of being in this relationship.

He is clearly an ambitious guy who is good at making and breaking ties and is good at distinguishing between construction and construction.

‘Park Moon-dae? Definitely not this way.’

This was a guy who would wonder why he was living like a stalker.

It seems like he’s secretly weak towards people who like him but judging by the way he creates an amazing self-image it seems like he’s smart so he’ll take care of it.

The office worker finished his review neatly and continued making corrections while gulping down a zero-calorie soda.

And it was the moment when a two-shot of the two that was not released from the last concert was uploaded to social media.

“what?”

-Pube have you seen this?ㅠㅠ

The Internet bulletin board link posted by an anonymous account that I did not know was unusual.

[The skill of hitting a testa]

Twin Homma immediately checked the contents.

Attached to the article was a GIF file of a scene where a member used his elbow and the back of his arm to hit a large human being attached to the tester and pointing the camera at him.

And that member was… Ryu Cheong-woo!

“…??”

Isn’t this guy like this too?

Since he was a former athlete I thought he would be the type that knew how to avoid getting into trouble but just looking at the scene he looked threatening almost as if he was hitting someone.

The best comments were also filled with similar content.

-Wow Ryu Cheong-woo did you have that kind of personality?

-Honestly those bastards are tough even if they get beaten haha. But Ryu Cheong-woo is a little more sobering.

-What on earth did Cheongwoo do wrong? Is this something that will make a thousand people laugh? It's really scary

-He's cool isn't he? After all people need to exercise

There was a flurry of objections and recommendations and all kinds of words were exchanged.

"Is that strange?"

Twin Homma couldn't let go of his reluctance even though he thought 'well that's right' when he realized that they weren't the two he had chosen.

Ryu Cheong-woo is not an idiot and there is a reason why he would act like that with a security guard and a manager when there are cameras.

'I guess it's the magic of the angle.'

And sure enough it wasn't long before other cameras and testimonies began pouring in that captured the situation.

-That bastard came through security and was almost at the level of throwing cameras at the kids. If Ryu Cheong-woo hadn't done that it would have been dangerous.

-If you look at it it's not like he hit you. If you look at the cam from a different angle you'll see that the kid stuck got his foot tangled and fell. Stop making up stories (capture)

-I don't even know why they're saying this in such an obvious defense in the first place. Seeing them dragging it all the way back to Cheongwoo's National University days and belittling me makes me feel so upset that I'm going crazy.

Twin Homma could understand why Liu Chengwu's personal fans who were usually not very aggressive came out and expressed their anger.

Because I was slapped in the face out of nowhere.

And secretly I began to have doubts about the situation.

'Who did the work?'

It was correct.

There was a group message room where data sellers hired for a hefty daily wage raced and tried hard to recreate the controversy.

And the ones who paid the data seller a daily wage… were the ones who breached the security of Testa's dormitory apartment.

It was eye-opening that Testa was moving to a place with high security.

Of course the story couldn't have come up in Testa's company as well.

* * *

"Are you out of your mind? "Are you out of your mind?"

"sorry."

The one who is broken now is not the Testa member… of course but the first manager.

"What if you escape alone? "Why are you getting paid you idiot?"

I'm hearing all kinds of verbal abuse because I got bitten by a cub that was running at me as if I was going to hit him with a camera.

‘It may be a bit sarcastic to leave him alone… but it’s not like that.’

The manager is not a martial arts master and is just an office worker so there is no need for him to sacrifice himself.

So this is a performance.

“sorry. We will pay more attention to security in the future!”

By directing all the criticism towards the first manager they were prepared in case their artist became annoyed by the lack of security.

‘I see some time.’

In fact it wasn’t that there was a lack of security personnel it was just a special situation but they were good at trying to appease them.

There are a few members who don’t know what to do in this situation right now.

“It’s okay.”

“I think it’s a good situation without having to reprimand the manager…”

“Phew thank you!”

The Chief Manager spoke with a look of great relief.

“You don’t have to worry too much Cheongwu! “Everything was explained and there were a lot of reactions that said it was cool to begin with.”

“…”

Liu Chengwu smiled bitterly.

That guy must have been a bit of a blow this time because he was a former national team member and had a very gentle image.

It's easy for even those who originally looked down on me to pretend to be shocked for no reason.

"Don't worry!"

"Well I understand."

However I think it would have been better for the manager not to backtrack.

"But it's okay if you don't do this from now on! The company has to take care of things like this but when artists step forward things often end up like this…"

Between the words that sounded like self-reproach there was a strange nuance of 'Why did you do that for no reason?'

'Why are you doing this so needlessly?'

The moment I was wondering whether I should intervene and reply Liu Chengwu answered first.

In an unusually sharp tone.

"…So you're saying we should have just let someone get hit?"

"…!"

"No that's not it… What I mean is that avoiding it was enough! Because there are many eyes watching…"

"…"

Liu Chengyu did not answer for quite a long time but then answered with just one word.

"All right."

It was a tired voice.

And throughout the schedule that day Ryu Cheong-woo did not say anything other than official appearances.

‘Damn it.’

Anyone could see that it was a clear sign of burnout.

Chapter 209

There was no separate freezer in the car.

Not the temperature but the atmosphere.

‘That’s it.’

This is because although Liu Chengyu was not particularly angry or unfair to anyone he was never in his usual state.

Let’s see what happened in the music broadcast waiting room a few hours ago.

-Brother I’m eating snacks again! Eat a lot!

-okay.

It was over.

Liu Chengwu sat on the sofa without making any gestures and only moved the stress ball in his hand.

Since then no one has touched Liu Chengwu and he has been living quietly.

There’s filming starting tomorrow morning but since it’s the first day in a while that I can go back to the hotel before dinner the guys who are obviously in a good mood are keeping their mouths shut.

me? I’m not really the type of person who makes noise. I’m just reading public opinion on my smartphone.

‘It’s almost all sorted out.’

[Ryu Cheong-woo different angle fancam]

[I didn't hit Ryu Cheng-wu XXX]

After all the explanations had been spread the atmosphere calmed down with comments such as 'If that's the case.'

Still inevitably those who claim to be 'awakened' will pop up… but this can't be helped.

The reason Ryu Cheong-woo was in that state in the first place was not necessarily because there was controversy on the Internet.

For your information this atmosphere was the same even when I entered the accommodation.

"Go in first."

"yes!"

As soon as he finished eating Liu Chengwu went into the room. It seemed like he was planning to go to sleep right away.

widely.

As soon as the door closed and Liu Qingyu disappeared people began to sigh in worry or smile bitterly here and there.

Bae Se-jin muttered solemnly.

"…Honestly he deserved to be angry."

"that's right!"

"Cheo Cheong-woo are you very offended? You did a good job to prevent the members from getting hurt…"

Sun Ah-hyun shouted worriedly.

Even so everyone lowered their voices as much as possible because Ryu Cheong-woo went to bed.

“Well the company can just avoid it on its own so why bother pushing it? “I guess you felt a lot of pressure when you spoke.”

Big Sejin sarcastically pretended to feel sorry. You knew it.

I said as I took my bowl to the sink.

“Cheongwoo has been very good to the company so far.”

If he had behaved like shit he would have just quietly repeated ‘I’m sorry’ but since a person with a good personality and responsibility accepted it well he crossed the line.

“Why don’t we just take this opportunity to let Chungwoo get some rest? “If there is anything you need or need more let the company know right away.”

Most people nod their heads in sympathy.

“That is reasonable.”

“…okay!”

Bae Se-jin seems very conscious that if Ryu Cheong-woo leaves he will be the oldest. I would like to say that it is a needless waste of stamina.

“Wouldn’t you be okay after taking a rest…?”

“you’re right. The original method is to restore energy by resting. “I will have to assist Chungwoo a lot during this period of activity.”

“okay.”

“Come on let’s go in quickly~”

The short discussion concluded with ‘Let’s not put a burden on Ryu

Cheng-wu in the future.'

Although it was common sense and considerate teamwork it did not actually eliminate the root cause.

'There is a limit to going like this.'

I don't have any expectations that any of the managers will be able to do what Ryu Cheong-woo has done so far.

The Chief Manager is embarrassed as to why he is talking to him about what he does so he hands it over to the first manager and he is… it's obvious.

I'm sure at some point I'll see an angle to pass it on to Ryu Cheong-woo again but if I make a mistake at that time a real landmine will explode.

'I'm glad it ends with Ryu Cheong-wu getting angry and punching him.'

So we have to do something before that. Either change the manager or make him come to his senses.

'We'll also have to check how well Ryu Cheong-woo's mentality recovers.'

It would be difficult if a major accident occurred while working. Because 400000 people are still alive and well.

So first of all… let's take a close look at Ryu Cheong-wu's condition tomorrow. Even if it looks okay don't let down your guard.

I came to that conclusion and went to sleep but the next day I knew right away that there was no need to come to that conclusion.

"I'm going to stop by the shop before filming today's entertainment show. Do you have anything else to deliver?"

“no.”

This is because Liu Chengwu’s condition was the same as yesterday.

I even passed by the first manager’s face as if I was looking at something.

‘I’m scared!’

‘Quiet.’

Even if this guy lowers his voice the volume is like this?

I got into the car removing Cha Yu-jin who was shouting into someone else’s ear. And I deliberately sat close to Liu Chengwu.

‘Let’s take a look at the liver.’

Ryu Cheng-wu did not appear particularly uncooperative or give a crappy answer. It only seems like a contrast because he was always so sad.

‘…Actually I don’t think it’s any different from me normally.’

Thinking about it like that makes me a little nervous.

Anyway I saw an opportunity and naturally spoke to Liu Chengwu as I was getting off.

“I’m going to buy you a drink but what would you like to have?”

“are you okay.”

It doesn’t look good at all but I get it.

“COKE! COKE!”

I only received support from Cha Yu-jin who strongly advocates carbonated drinks.

And the team members' 'It was a courageous challenge!' I did get some attention but… well this wasn't even a challenge in the first place. It's just a build-up.

And the next day.

"Brother Cheongwoo."

Without saying a word I handed the guy some fresh fruit juice.

"are you okay."

"You think it supplies glucose. "We couldn't sleep for even three hours."

"…"

Liu Chengwu seemed to have no energy to argue so he just picked up his drink and drank it.

And I opened my eyes wide.

"…! "It's too sweet."

It will be so. I asked for as much sugar and syrup as I could.

I actively tried the Sugar High method that I used during "Azusa" on Cha Yu-jin. It's simple and stimulating so the hurdles are low.

"So it was delicious."

"…hmm."

Liu Chengwu eventually finished his drink.

Maybe it's too bothersome to say anything more and I don't have the will to exercise self-control to control my diet.

However seeing as the color returned to my face as I drank faster it seemed like my aim was successful.

I asked one more question.

“How are you feeling? “I think I’m particularly tired this time.”

“okay. “I feel like I’m less able to recover from fatigue.”

“Of course.”

Was it because of burnout and helplessness?

For the first time in days Liu Chengwu speaks softly. Perhaps it was the power of sugar but my energy seemed to instantly increase.

“But it sure seems like high-fructose corn syrup is effective! “I feel energized!”

“Um sure.”

Even though Kim Rae-bin couldn’t hold back and intervened with a relieved face the response was as gentle as usual.

It works better than expected?

I touched my chin.

‘…You seem like the type of person who needs to relieve mental stress through physical actions.’

It’s not just about resting it’s about getting good stimulation in your body and when you feel refreshed your head becomes clearer.

“hmm.”

It’s annoying but there’s nothing you can do about it.

‘I also owe Liu Chengwu a debt.’

I picked up my smartphone and searched for a place.

* * *

The next afternoon we filmed a weekend entertainment show where people automatically dive into the pool if they misspell the lyrics of a memorable hit song.

This means that he obtained it without any hesitation.

“Wow!”

“I won’t leave you alone!”

“What are you doing here calling our tester? MC Tongtong!”

In the end everyone was soaked with water so we only got into the car after being showered with towels and a hair dryer.

There was no feeling of exhaustion.

‘I want to go back like this and take a half-body bath… ’

But there was also a schedule right after that.

However it is relatively free as it is not a fixed schedule but rather an arbitrary period of time.

It’s W Live.

Fortunately it’s a schedule that I cram in during my free time so I can easily adjust the volume and content if I’m too tired.

However this time instead of holding the event comfortably at the hotel we agreed with the members to take pictures individually.

Except Liu Chengwu of course.

“In an hour right?”

“Yes I will move~”

Testa moved to a pre-arranged location and took a short nap.

Ryu Cheong-woo who would normally have checked where he was going also fell asleep in silence.

So he becomes even more embarrassed when he arrives at the filming site a while later.

“This is…”

The members surrounded the surprised Liu Chengwu grinning and opening their arms to introduce the place.

“Today’s W Live location is the shooting range~”

“Ta-da-ta-ta-ta!”

“…!!”

A large-scale air gun shooting range in the center of Seoul.

This is the place I searched for the day before.

“Hyung you seemed to enjoy shooting but we don’t have time for serious hobbies these days~ I hope you enjoy it like this!”

“Enjoy! Let’s play!”

“…”

Liu Chengwu looked like he had been hit.

But soon a faint expression of emotion appeared on his face.

"…Thank you guys. "It will be fun."

"Hehe."

You seem a little overwhelmed.

I guess it worked as expected.

The consideration that had been sinking under the water for several days finally began to come out of Liu Chengwu's mouth.

"You must be very tired right now are you okay? "It would be difficult to do anything this active again at night…"

Bae Se-jin avoided gaze.

"…I agreed because I saw it while filming the music video and it looked fun. Don't get me wrong it's something everyone wanted to try."

"That's right. I think it'll be fun…!"

"Haha yeah. okay."

"Hmm hmm."

For a guy who was the first to excitedly agree saying it was a good idea he speaks quite rationally.

"Then let's pair up and beat Ryu Cheong-wu! Let's go to W Live on this topic!"

"It's not okay to watch! No mercy!! "I win!"

Liu Chengwu smiled for the first time in a while.

“Are you okay? “A team of 3 people can do it.”

“Wow you ignore us so much.”

For your information it is revealed in just one hour that it was not ignorance but a cool-headed look at reality.

“Ugh!”

First of all let me just say that the team of Bae Se-jin and Kim Rae-bin sank after a double score with Ryu Cheong-woo.

– Hahahahahahahahahahahahaha

-Guys why are you taking on such a reckless challenge?

-Let’s pretend we didn’t see it.

– Hahahahahahahahahahahahahaha cute

The real-time comments I checked while watching other teams looked like this.

And Liu Chengwu flew around more and more as time passed.

“omg.”

“…That’s it.”

The sight of a former gold medalist in archery running wild among ordinary people will likely remain a source of laughter for fans for a long time…

“You should also consider that Chungwoo has a bit of an advantage because he used a gun once in a music video!”

“…That is a musket and this is a rifle so they are different types.”

“omg.”

“The staff said that the musket was improved to create a firearm called a rifle…!”

“also! “This is by no means a defeat for Bae Se-jin and me but a result of our excellent efforts…”

“Oh another double score!”

“oh my god.”

Regardless of whether this joke-like sound continued or not I silently shot the gun.

Tatang!

I think he did well even if he wasn’t Ryu Cheong-woo. As proof of that Sun Ah-hyeon and I followed Ryu Cheong-woo’s score the most.

-Oh this place is kind of cool? Haha.

-It’s a bit harsh.

-When is the Testa army coming? Please go quickly hahahaha

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠLook at the atmosphere.

Given the location there was a bit of military aggro but W Live ended quite successfully capturing laughter and thrills at the same time.

“See you again~”

“I will come often!”

And after the usual closing remarks everyone including those involved returned to their exhausted state.

“under.”

“I have no regrets…”

“It’s fun! “I’ll do it one more time!”

Oh except for Cha Yu-jin.

Anyway the idols were given some free time while the staff was cleaning up the scene.

It was then that Liu Chengwu made his move.

“Drink some of this.”

“thank you.”

The guy who was feeling a bit better because he enjoyed shooting and won the competition bought drinks for the number of people at a nearby convenience store.

Then he stood next to me as I was taking the can and started making insinuating remarks.

“Ahyeon said that you asked her to come here.”

There was someone else who dared to say that.

Before I could answer anything Liu Chengyu finished speaking succinctly.

“thank you… much better.”

“…”

I took the drink he offered me. The sound of carbonic acid rising was refreshing.

“Are you feeling a little cooler inside?”

“okay.”

That’s it then.

I sipped my zero-calorie drink in silence. Liu Chengwu opened his plastic bottle and spoke calmly.

“Actually it wasn’t a big deal… but I was strangely exhausted.”

“…”

“I guess it’s because it reminds me of the time I quit archery.”

A story like this even comes out?

It seems that the level of activity was greater than I expected.

Chapter 210

Liu Chengwu continued speaking in a not particularly serious tone.

“When I first found out about the aftereffects I thought it would be manageable. “Everyone even said that it would be okay if I rehabilitated it.”

“…”

“The doctor said it showed promise so I continued to do it but it didn’t really help.”

Liu Chengwu clenched and opened one of his hands into a fist as was his habit.

“Possibility is just a possibility… It has become a situation that cannot be escaped or recovered…”

“…”

“Anyway that’s why I got angry at the company for no reason. “I want to do that because I know what will happen if someone gets hurt but I also feel like I’m doing something useless.”

Was that the cause of the feeling of helplessness?

As it overlapped with the fruitless rehabilitation period I must have thought ‘What am I doing now?’

‘…I guess it was worth it.’

Since he was so overworked he must have felt even more lethargic.

I was a little conflicted and only answered after finishing my drink.

“You’ve never done anything useless.”

“okay?”

“yes. Everyone helped me a lot… Me too.”

“…! okay? Haha I don’t think I did anything special for you.”

No you have an amazing personality just because you didn’t get angry when I behaved like X.

If the situation had gotten worse at that time… he could have suddenly died from the abnormal condition by now.

“Oh really then? Um no. You’re good enough. I said it back then too. “I said the same thing to me when it was confirmed that I couldn’t recover.”

Liu Chengwu chuckled.

“It really wasn’t a joke. “I got angry at the doctor… and on the day of the tryout I was really embarrassed to even think about it.”

I’m not really curious but it’s the right time for anyone to ask so let’s say it.

“What did you do?”

“I broke my bow.”

“…!!”

Wow this guy… his temperament is not normal.

It wouldn’t normally be something that would cause an archery bow to break but it must have been really bad.

Of course it would be foolish to answer as you feel.

“Well it happened because I didn’t hit anyone.”

“Is that so? haha! “Yeah well I just broke one of my practice pieces.”

Liu Chengwu smiled with a much cooler face.

I don’t know if it’s okay to be cool with something like this… but let’s leave it alone.

Still he seems to have come to his senses and adds a social remark.

“Oh I’m sorry. “It might have been an uncomfortable story for you to hear…”

It seems like he’s trying to remind me of the time when he was mean to Ryu Cheong-woo.

“it’s okay. I don’t really care anymore. “I was truly sorry.”

“I said it’s okay.”

Did I tell you to turn your worries into bigger worries?

After looking at the status window I can only confirm the ‘truth’ that has already passed.

However Liu Chengwu fiddled with his plastic bottle and suddenly said something as if it came out without his knowledge.

“Um it’s a door.”

“yes.”

“Actually there is something that has bothered me for a while…”

“…? yes.”

Liu Chengwu frowned.

“Do you remember well?”

“…!!”

“I think it would be a good idea to meet an expert in that regard.”

A story that I could not have imagined came out.

To be honest I almost forgot that I was using the setting of ‘I can’t remember the past but it’s slowly coming back to me.’

There have to be so many incidents.

‘…Looking at it like this there’s no such thing as setting up some kind of epic drama.’

In any case it means that I didn’t expect that the excuse I had casually made before would suddenly hit me.

And Liu Chengwu let out sounds that sent chills down the spine.

“I don’t think you’ve ever gone to see your parents looked at their photos or… talked about it.”

“…”

“We’ve already been living in the dorm for over a year and a half so it’s worth hearing about it even if it’s just inadvertently.”

“…hmm.”

I quickly thought about it.

“I have very few memories related to my family. “It’s not something I particularly want to find in a hurry.”

“I see.”

“yes. “I’m just satisfied with where I am now.”

“Um okay.”

Liu Chengyu crumpled the plastic bottle and neatly organized it then took a long breath and exhaled.

“that’s right. “I like it now too.”

I asked drawing a picture of Liu Chengwu refuting with his own words.

“I heard you’re tired?”

“I don’t think it’s possible to not get tired no matter what. “It’s important to manage it well.”

okay. That’s right.

“Honestly I was skeptical when ‘Azusa’ came out but I’m thankful that it turned out better than I expected.”

“Yes of course.”

Regardless of the stress Testa’s move was a surprising success.

Of course I knew “Azusa” would do well.

“I’m trying not to get used to it.”

“…”

Wow. Your mindset is healthy.

I chuckled.

“But for these few days you only do what idols are supposed to do. “There is no need for the company to do the work.”

“Haha well… since I was already the leader I tried to work hard.”

At that moment Cha Yu-jin who had finally achieved her highest score was heard shouting from the other side.

“WOOOOOW!!”

“Quiet idiot! “It’s already almost midnight but noise pollution…”

“It’s not noise! “It’s just us here!”

“A resident near the building…”

“doesn’t exist!”

“there is!”

I muttered with sincerity in my eyes.

“…Honestly I think you’re doing enough as a leader just to handle those guys.”

“Hmm.”

I can’t deny it.

“I think that’s just fine. “If this continues you will forget why the manager gets paid.”

Ryu Cheong-woo burst out laughing as he added a word like a celebrity who abuses power.

“haha! “Okay okay.”

And then he slightly thrust his fisted hand to the side.

“Let’s do well in the future.”

“yes.”

I lightly bumped my fist with the back of my hand.

It’s a bit cringy but it has a mulberry flavor.

“We have finished organizing~”

“yes! “I’ll take the Testa car!”

That day Liu Chengwu returned home to his usual self.

“Eujin go in and sleep. “It’s a pub tomorrow.”

“yes!”

Even Cha Yu-jin was moved and listened well.

The members all congratulated themselves by raising their thumbs with faces that said ‘The shooting range is a really great idea.’

“As expected it’s Mundae. “It’s a Tibetan fox and those eyes that see through everyone’s psychology are just…”

“tight.”

And it means that everyone slept well even if it was only for a short period of time.

The best came the next day.

This is because the first manager who sensed that Liu Chengwu’s mood had relaxed immediately stepped forward.

“Cheongwoo do you guys have anything else to deliver?”

Liu Chengyu smiled faintly and responded.

“well?”

“…!?”

“I don’t know either. “I think you can ask the members directly.”

It was over.

Ryu Cheong-wu stretched and got into the car and the manager hesitantly got in with a look on his face that had just hit him.

Since it was only a few days ago that I broke up with the Chief Manager I can’t begrudge Ryu Cheong-woo for no reason.

‘Is this enough?’

This will buy us some time until we find someone who is good at the job.

And on the Internet which I opened for the first time in a while the topic of Ryu Cheong-wu’s bullshit about hitting someone was completely ignored and the topic was changed to the scene of him shooting instead.

-As expected the male idol raised by Taereung

-Is this okay?

-Aren’t the archery masters not human after all?

-Wow you shoot like this too so you must have shed bloody tears when you quit archery;

-I can only thank you for choosing my new career path as an idol.

“Oh~ Chungwoo everyone is talking about how cool his shooting is!”

Keun Se-jin who pulled his head out to take a peek at the screen deliberately praised Ryu Cheng-wu. Liu Chengwu smiled with an embarrassed expression.

“I was just doing it for fun.”

“no! “While watching the shooting yesterday I naturally expected Chungwoo’s status to increase but it is as expected.”

“It was really cool…!”

Those who are relieved that Liu Chengwu’s mood has eased pour out praise like a waterfall.

And Keun Se-jin seems to have paid attention to some of the comments among the reactions. A question came up.

“Now that I think about it brother how did you decide to become an idol as a career?”

“Oh me?”

Liu Chengwu smiled vaguely.

“Well actually my parents recommended it.”

“wow!”

“Your parents?”

“Well they keep saying that I’ve been good at dancing and singing since I was young… so I just started it as a hobby.”

It seems that the new career path was encouraged to get a guy who was depressed after quitting archery to get out of the house.

“What about you? “I’m especially curious about how Eugene became an idol.”

“Someone I don’t know is talking to me!”

“The beat submitted to the contest was selected and sent to Seoul where a contract was signed…”

The topic in the car suddenly turned to ‘Why did you become an idol?’

And eventually the question came back to me.

“Then what about the door?”

me?

I don’t mind answering this honestly… but it’s a bit embarrassing.

“…I was cast by the writer of ‘Azusa’ at a karaoke bar.”

“really??”

“Wow I thought that was a story but it was real!”

The car became noisy for a moment. The theme seems to be ‘How talented is Park Moon-dae?’

“So you’re not even an aspiring student you just started out as someone with half a birthday and ended up like that?”

“I think your talent is amazing…! “Of course I worked hard at the university!”

“…It’s amazing.”

“Well thank you.”

If I brought up the status window I would probably get hit for not knowing.

Anyway when I think back to the moment I first entered this body I feel a new emotion.

In fact if it weren't for the stat increase or characteristic draw provided by the status window I wouldn't have been able to grow to suit my occupation as much as I did based on that.

'It would have been quite a rewarding few years if I hadn't been knocked out when I couldn't get rid of the status ailment.'

…No I will correct it.

Even including the status ailments it was quite rewarding.

The past few years in which I returned to the past in someone else's body are so dense that it's almost embarrassing.

'I guess it's because I'm struggling to survive because it's a terminal sentence.'

Well it's quite persuasive.

"…Then you didn't necessarily mean to do this. are you okay?"

"yes?"

"Activity… are you okay?"

Bae Se-jin asked with a serious face.

I answered without hesitation.

"yes. "It's fun."

"That's right~"

"You have no regrets later right?"

I grinned.

"doesn't exist."

“Oh~”

The members responded loudly and clapped.

Kim Rae-bin even secretly played the sound source.

“I don’t know what I was thinking but one day I suddenly got inspiration and made an EDM version of Magical Boy…”

“let’s go!”

And the car was filled with passionate idol-wearing guys nodding their heads.

‘It’s a sight to behold.’

Out of loyalty I decided not to post the scene on the group’s social media.

* * *

Afterwards activities in Korea seemed to proceed smoothly without any other noise.

“Testa standby!”

Pre-recording for the second week of music broadcasting was also carried out smoothly and the variety shows filmed the week before and in the first week of the comeback were broadcast one by one.

And of course the schedule was not entirely filled with music broadcasts and entertainment shows.

“Look here~ Lift your chin a little more!”

I participated in a few events but since I was promoted to the first team the distance to travel was long so I focused on events with better costs rather than inefficient events.

It’s an advertisement.

“Please touch my collar!”

Although I have been filming commercials consistently since my debut these days the scale has completely changed.

Among the pouring in requests for advertisements the agency did a good job of selecting the most valuable ones and thought they were able to capture those that did not require too much image and had a high unit price.

‘There’s no such thing as that damn artificial intelligence Curious.’

But I didn’t know that he would also be reaping the company’s profits.

This is a benefit not for the parent company T1 but for the agency T1 Stars.

Let’s take a look at the commercial being filmed today.

“Wow hello senior!”

I met ‘Mirinae’ a junior idol from the same agency at a smartphone commercial filming site.

‘oh.’

It was a bundle sale that showed the agency’s ambition for the value of its name.

And there was plenty of room to take advantage of it.

Chapter 211

The smartphone advertisement was not a joint model with a junior idol at all. If that were the case I would have known it a long time ago.

However there were only a few scenes where we filmed together.

“Now… come in here with me and show me what you have in your hand!”

“yes.”

“Oh please be sure to lift the tab with one hand~ Lightly!”

“yes!”

A junior idol was advertising a tablet from the same brand line and it looked like they would include a few cuts of both groups appearing at the same time to gain additional effect in the advertisement.

And because this side was ahead in terms of time and popularity on the day of the testa shooting Mirina had to wait one more time before coming in.

‘But again I crossed the line by not telling you until the day.’

It is unclear whether the first manager forgot because he was so shocked by being cut off by Ryu Cheng-wu or whether the company deliberately crushed him.

Of course the latter is my concern.

‘I wonder how many times I’ve bounced off the head’s opinion these days so I get the hang of it.’

There is a possibility that affiliated artists may request changes because they do not want to be associated with each other.

And I would have done so if I had really known in advance.

‘Because I talk a lot for no reason.’

It has already been scratched by the ‘Magical Boy’ related topic.

In the extreme there was a possibility that it could end up like this.

-Oh what’s going on with the tie-in sales again?

-Just looking at it it was Seombyeol’s sole role but they made a deal by having a junior come in. Haha I was so greedy.

-It would have been better if Mirinae which can appeal to people of all ages was pushed to the main page. My business acumen is very disappointing.

-Those fans really don’t understand the topic. They have to win the music album or something for it to work hahahaha.

-Ugh we don’t like it either. Don’t point all of our hats at old men✋

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋ They usually see eye to eye but they’re already betting on an album because at least one couple has started dating hahaha

From comparisons to dating speculations.

It was a very needless and annoying thing.

Fortunately the company must have been aware of this and when I got there there were almost no cuts that looked suspicious.

Rather it was a kind of arrangement that emphasized ‘Cosmic’ a premium electronic equipment line with artists from the agency T1 Stars.

“My identity shines like a star.”

“Star’s Choice Cosmic!”

But this is also somewhat sarcastic.

‘How can they say that they have such a great commonality and vision when they didn’t raise it themselves?’

It seems that the company has come to the conclusion internally that it needs to have a name value beyond simply being an agency affiliated with Azusa as it now wants to develop other rookies as well.

Existing groups may be grumbling that they are overwhelmed by newcomers because they came in as a surprise from an audition program that was already a hit.

‘They may be aiming for a separate listing.’

Either way it’s probably an idea that came from the head of the current headquarters.

And when I thought about it up to this point I realized that I could use this.

‘Let’s start by collecting cases.’

The opportunity came near the end of my filming.

“Thank you for your hard work!”

After today’s individual cut a short joint shoot with Mirinae was being completed.

I also finished filming and went near the guy who was looking at the monitor.

The 90 degree greeting immediately returned.

“Oh senior! “Thank you so much for today’s shoot!”

“We were truly grateful.”

It was the junior who took second place in Azusa last season.

“Was the filming okay?”

“yes! Ah sir you were really great! Indeed the idol who was elected first with the support of the public…”

“Let’s stop.”

“yes.”

The junior’s face became solemn as if he himself thought this wasn’t right.

“How is the fortress?”

“yes?”

“The company.”

“hmm…”

But right now I’m just like ‘Thank you so much!’ It seemed like he was aware of the nuance as he didn’t make comments that were filled with the same social life.

The junior lowered his voice and spoke with a slightly solemn expression.

“It’s still the same…!”

“…”

It has multiple meanings.

“Has there been any confirmation that the next album will also feature self-produced songs?”

“…Well you’re asking me to go with the double title.”

“hmm.”

Since Testa has been doing this since his debut he seems to be promoting it as a box office formula.

“They asked me to do one in English.”

“…!”

The junior continued speaking with the face of a liberated office worker.

“Still… I think at least one of them will be included as our song so we’re all saying we’ll be satisfied with this…”

“…”

Wow. I expected this but it seems like this side also has its share of hardships.

“How about care?”

“Care? Well that’s good! “Please do a good job with the shop and coordination…”

The words went astray. I brought the topic back up.

“One of the managers who was originally with us also went there.”

“…! Right…! Oh my I’m really thankful and sorry…”

“no. There is absolutely no need to do that. “I’m asking because I’m curious about that kind of care.”

I brought the junior colleague back to reality with ‘Is this workplace bullying…!’ written on his face.

“Does the management office brief you on the schedule and check the members’ health? Things like that.”

“Oh well.”

The junior had a worried look on his face. I don’t know if he was reminiscing or just choosing his words but his next words sounded quite sincere.

“I don’t know. It looks so busy and overwhelming… I think it’s because we have so many members. “It looks like you’re having a hard time so I feel sorry for no reason.”

also.

I guess this one isn’t working properly either.

‘Was there 9 people?’

Since it is 1.5 times the size of Testa it would definitely need an additional manager but when I looked at it it was still running with 2 people.

‘It seems like the producing team is going back and forth saying they listened to what the head of the department said and what they said.’

Since the head of the division is trying to hold on tighter it seems like the management director’s comments are less likely to be heard.

Hmm… I wonder what will happen at this level.

“okay. Thank you for your hard work. Let’s do our best.”

“Oh no! We are working hard and having fun. Thank you for your concern!”

“yes.”

I was about to end the conversation there but as if something just occurred to me I spoke again.

“Oh that’s right.”

“…?”

“I was wondering if you would be interested in establishing a new dedicated team.”

This is actually the main point.

A solution I have been thinking about since the manager incident.

“A dedicated team…?”

The junior looked dumbfounded for a moment but quickly came to his senses and accepted the offer.

“Ah will a team dedicated to our group be created?”

“It’s not confirmed… I’m thinking of going ahead with it this time. “If necessary I will also forward the stories of my juniors.”

“…!”

“Of course I’m not saying I heard it myself… I’m thinking of telling someone close to the company that I heard it so what do you think?”

The junior swallowed his saliva and immediately answered with his eyes shining.

“We are truly grateful.”

It’s a wise choice.

Since I've already told him about my current situation I think he realized that if it was actually my intention to set a trap or defraud him there was no need to ask the doctor.

"Well then let's talk about it together."

"yes! thank you!"

At that moment I heard a voice calling my junior from behind. It seemed like filming had completely finished.

"Minha! Hey come quickly! "This chocolate is crazy super delicious!"

"Okay sis~ Ah senior then I'll go!"

"yes. Please come in safely."

The junior quickly ran towards the same member. The guy waving a huge box of chocolates that looks like he got it from a fan… is from first place.

Well… it's bright.

'…Is that type of person naturally popular?'

Or is it an audition special?

"brother!! Look at this! So Cool!"

"Oh cool."

As I reacted to Cha Yu-jin's photography prop – a surfboard – that appeared out of nowhere I almost lost my strange appreciation for the mysterious structure of this industry.

But there was no time for that. There was a place I needed to contact during the day while I was moving.

'We need to start talking about the dedicated team soon.'

For your information I've already finished talking to the other guys.

This was the very week that Liu Chengwu's condition recovered.

-It's a dedicated team…

-I have doubts about whether the company will willingly cover such expenses.

-I agree! Mundae must have said this because he had a good idea.

-… I agree too.

-oh!

-Management problems keep coming up at the company.

What's interesting is that Bae Se-jin unexpectedly agreed to the point and then actively pushed the opinion.

-It looks like this will continue here… so it's better to do it now while you can.

-Sejin is cool?

-…! I wasn't trying to look cool… Anyway! At least have a large majority!

-Ouch.

So this means that due to its force it was decided to proceed unanimously.

And here's how:

"Are you supplementing the content of your email?"

"okay. "Do you have anything to add?"

“Oh no! “We all worked so hard to write this so I hope it gets across well…!”

“I know.”

Among T1’s affiliates the story is directly included in T1 Culture which is the direct parent company of this agency.

There must have been a fight between the manager and the general manager. Now it is difficult for anyone in the company to try to control Testa on their own.

So now is the time to stop pretending not to know by saying ‘I don’t know about new artists’.

‘The time has come when it is more advantageous to look bad-tempered than to look easy-going.’

After all it is better for the group itself to become a force and attack directly within the company.

Since this self-produced activity was a hit the only thing that is disappointing is that.

The global performance was also pretty good… we’ll talk about this later.

‘I took out the contact information by telling the manager.’

He arbitrarily misunderstands that Testa is going to give him a piece of cake by getting the head of the division overthrown.

Instead I plan to poke at the chronic problems of this company.

‘There is no supply of manpower.’

They keep inserting parachutes turning around and bringing in inexperienced people but the angles are locked and they won’t turn.

The easiest way to write this is… I liked the idea that there is a serious problem with risk management.

‘Security issue schedule delivery issue… ’

Most recently it connects well the data arm attack incident that Liu Chengwu experienced the failure to communicate schedules and the incident of my stalker’s injury while on vacation.

And this claim becomes possible if the ‘schedule leak industrial spy’ incident which these people are already aware of is followed up well.

‘It’s because we don’t have enough dedicated staff!’

And because our company is a new subsidiary we cannot easily make big decisions on our own by running an independent dedicated team.

Above all I emphasize that it will be a huge controversy and loss if someone gets hurt or is unable to do activities like this…

-Mundae-ya this… wouldn’t you think we’re too self-conscious?

-It doesn’t matter if you think that way. It’s even better if you get the feeling that those guys are having a hard time and going crazy.

-Umm okay.

As long as you have entered the first team this kind of behavior is okay.

It’s not something unusual in the industry so it’s likely that some unreliable rumors will start circulating among the people involved.

Above all just be polite to the other person.

Whether or not they are dissatisfied with their agency wouldn’t it be enough if they just be polite and grovel to me the listener?

‘There was good prior contact and there was nothing wrong with the format.'

It seems like it was done neatly and neatly like a draft rather than being a foolish person asking for everything to be done.

I took my hand off the keyboard.

"That's it."

"Oh～"

"Now all I have to do is send it!"

"forwarding! forwarding!"

In this way the draft proposal for the 'recommendation for the creation of a project team dedicated to artists' was sent directly to T1 Culture.

If the parent company's pressure comes in in the name of 'brand value' the head of the division will eventually be unable to oppose the decision and will give the okay.

'Of course I don't think anyone will be obedient.'

In fact I fully anticipate the possibility that the answer will be 'I understand how you feel but it is impossible due to issues of cost and principle.'

'Then we go to the next step.'

My head was spinning. Somehow it was kind of fun.

'Anything comes.'

However the phone call that came at about 7:30 took the situation in a very unexpected direction.

"…Are you appearing on Survival?"

-That’s right.

The person on the other end of the phone answered clearly.

-Did you know that the Idol Co. Ltd. production team has joined the studio under this company this time? This is a new program produced there.

“hmm.”

-Of course this time Testa will appear as a mentor rather than a participant.

‘It’s only been three years now?’

It was a deal I could never have imagined.

Chapter 212

I hung up the phone with the T1 representative and replayed the conversation.

‘Please appear as a mentor on KPOP Global Survival Reality…?’

Of course there have been more than one survival game that has claimed to be ‘global’ so far. Right now just for ＜Azusa＞ we are determined to select a global KPOP star.

However this format… was a bit unique.

‘It is not a Tnet broadcast but a Net Plus self-produced title.’

It seemed like the production was inspired by the small success of “Azusa” on Net Plus in the English-speaking world.

The structure of the program was quite experimental but in fact what was more important was that the offer was good.

-There was talk of forming a dedicated team as soon as the appearance was confirmed.

It’s neat.

If you are appearing on a variety show with a dedicated team isn’t the exchange fee worth considering?

‘Testa isn’t the only mentor.’

And I wasn’t the only one who thought that.

Because the reactions of all the members who received it were ‘it’s worth a try’.

“Um… it’s okay.”

“If I just appear on the show will a new team be created? “I think it will be very beneficial in the long run!”

However there were also concerns.

“…That production crew is a bit weird.”

“I don’t have the skills to teach anyone… will it be okay?”

It was an expected story and most of it was organized within a reasonable line.

“I don’t think you need to worry about that. “You’re good.”

“That’s right~ Considering the nature of the program I don’t think I’ll ever get beat up like that for being a ‘mentor’ right? “Isn’t that right?”

“that’s right.”

It seemed like the selling point of this program would be that a rookie would be the mentor. Moreover it was a format where there was no reason for the mentor to be edited by the devil.

What kind of program is this?

What I heard at the meeting with the production crew after accepting the offer to appear would be an explanation.

“We are going to gather people who hate K-pop and train them in K-pop activities. Of course it will be a one-time joke that will end as a one-time joke.”

“…??”

The members were a little embarrassed.

‘It’s still the same.’

Anyway you say it too bluntly.

Writer Ryu Seo-rin whom I had not seen in a long time had a sparkle in her eyes.

Even though this human tester has risen to this level his attitude has become even rougher.

‘Are you doing this because you don’t need to be gently coaxed like you did when casting for an appearance?’

Perhaps considering Ryu Cheong-woo who was somewhat uncomfortable with the writer Keun Se-jin quickly answered.

“Hmm this is the kind of structure where a foreigner who doesn’t know much about K-pop gets to know it and becomes attached to it right?”

“You could look at it that way.”

This means that a bigger and more extreme picture is being drawn. Of course there is no need for us to know that in detail.

The production team asked Testa for one thing.

“You must be good to me.”

And I’m not particularly worried about this.

“I will try to structure the script as best as I can to somehow make your skills seem superior.”

“…yes! Testers are always so great! I think we just have to work harder to capture that image well on screen.”

Perhaps a little taken aback by writer Seo-rin Ryu’s unfiltered words another production team member stepped in and raised his tester.

At that time Liu Chengyu who was quiet calmly asked.

“Then you won’t look arrogant on screen for no reason right?”

“…!”

“…sure.”

Writer Ryu Seo-rin answered calmly. But he seemed a little agitated.

‘aha.’

Your attitude earlier was to take the initiative.

I think Testa who had an antipathy towards this production team came out stronger because he was worried that they might be picky for no reason.

‘Should I have guessed from the beginning when I offered to appear as a deal in exchange for a dedicated team?’

There was already a rumor going around among those involved that Testa would not appear in this production team’s work.

However since he shows signs of discomfort with a direct ball there is nothing to complain about. It was clear that T1 had already put a lot of effort into it.

‘Well I guess I don’t have to worry about editing.’

The production team is not stupid and there is no way they are cheating on the parent company.

“A variety of KPOP stars including testers have already been recruited as mentors…”

“yes yes.”

Afterwards the meeting went smoothly and was concluded without any particular problems.

And a few days later the article went viral.

[Starting production of a large-scale K-pop survival entertainment show in collaboration with Netplus]

['Guaranteed spectacular cast'…What is the identity of Net Plus K-pop reality?]

[Netplus K-pop entertainment 'Know KPOP Now' huge investment… Targeting the K-pop market]

It seemed that the company name T1 was intentionally not mentioned possibly because the company wanted to develop its own image as a new production studio.

Instead as if it was intentional gossip about the cast circulated quickly and loudly on the Internet.

-ㅂㅇㅌ I heard it was confirmed to appear.

I'm so sick of delusion why would a male idol come out on a third-rate variety show on Netflix?

Byung

-I heard that there is a lot of talk among followers about the line-up so I'm curious.

-Produced by Mighty Studio? ㅅㅂThey said this is the Azusa production crew's den so it's confirmed hahaha.

It seems like all cast members from Aju 1 Company have been captured even Young 1 Rin by Sam Byeol.

The entire internet will be turned upside down.

-No so what kind of fronte audition is this? What kind of survival is there with that lineup?

If they had known that it was a mentor anyway so the screenplay wasn't that big they would have cooled off quickly but for those who didn't know that fact just the rumor of her appearance caused an uproar.

'I'm really seeing the effects that weren't specifically revealed.'

The first day of filming has arrived with all kinds of idols being mentioned and an embargo on specific official cast articles.

And after an 11-hour flight to LA I confirmed the rumor.

"hello."

'Fuck you.'

There was a real VTIC.

step. Not the rest just Cheongnyeo.

'It wasn't in the cast lineup I heard about in advance.'

I heard later that he personally gave the OK sign at the last minute and joined us on a private plane.

I don't know but one of the mentors who ran the fastest would have been fired.

"I didn't know that you would participate in the audition program not alone but as one of the mentors."

That also applies to this style of entertainment.

And Cheongryeo gave an unexpected answer.

"Oh I'm coming out with a solo album soon. So global promotion?"

"…"

“As my junior said I tried to redirect my activities outside of the group. haha.”

“Oh yeah.”

‘How did you persuade the company?’

The agency that didn’t give a shit even when fans regularly sent trucks asking for solo activities gave them a solo album? Did you at least threaten to withdraw?

…for a moment.

‘Could it be because of that guy’s influence that I haven’t released a solo until now?’

It could be that he was artificially blocking the group’s activities in order to keep the other members involved.

‘Well it has nothing to do with me.’

Whether this guy shows up here or not doesn’t really matter other than being a little off-putting.

“…Park Moon-dae! “Let’s sit down!”

“Oh yes.”

At Bae Se-jin’s loud call I returned to my reserved seat in the booth and sat down.

Bae Se-jin immediately covered the microphone and hurriedly bowed.

‘Why does that crazy guy keep talking to you?’

‘I see. Do you want to get your head smashed again?’

‘…’

It’s convenient to have support like this from people who know the full story of the injury incident while on vacation.

‘Should we just keep going like this?’

And to be more honest I don’t care if this program fails.

If this line-up fails and it fails it will be the production team’s fault and not Testa’s fault.

In addition the company passed a plan to form a dedicated team just yesterday. Now we just need to attract some good people in time for the end of our activities.

‘That’s enough.’

Since I ate everything in this deal it’s okay if Testa doesn’t curse in this program.

The flight time is a bit of a waste but since I’m here anyway I can fit in some of the American schedule so my schedule is well-balanced.

‘Well looking at the script all the cast members will eat the aggro.’

I think the production crew of “Azusa” really climbed out of the fires of hell.

“Going into standby!”

“Yes～”

The participants were shown on the monitor screen observed by the mentors.

The appearance and words and actions are according to the script.

-I’m ready to become famous!

-I can’t help but say that it’s not cool behavior but of course I lie at least to get hearts on social media. Doesn't everyone do that?

-I want people to know me be crazy about me and be crazy about my actions. You have to do something for that.

The friendly Korean subtitles below the English emphasized the identity of these people.

To put it bluntly it is a custom.

It was perfect to receive the comment 'I think I would sell my soul to become a celebrity in order to become famous.'

And this program is said to have recruited participants with the story of 'celebrities teach us how to become famous.'

And here there is one more thing that the production team secretly left out without explicitly mentioning it.

It's just music taste.

-K-pop? no! I… don't listen to that kind of thing! absoluteness! (laughter)

-You know at school right? I saw a lot of kids listening to that.

As writer Ryu Seo-rin said these guys hated KPOP.

No 'I hated it' is a very flat expression… I think 'ignore' would be a more appropriate expression.

That's exactly what Cha Yu-jin felt when she snorted while watching an American talk show we appeared on thanks to our game collaboration.

"Wow that's too much!"

Actually I find it a bit funny that he looks at the monitor without hesitation and says something like that.

Anyway that is how the story of this program was established.

Participants appear on a reality show with the expectation of becoming famous by being aired around the world on Net Plus and then get a taste of K-pop self-discipline training…

‘I guess that’s why there was such a fuss about having to do well at all costs.’

I guess they wanted to pick a scene where they open their mouths in surprise and declare ‘I will never ignore K-pop again.’

‘I’m sure it’s Gukbbong.’

Moreover it will definitely attract aggro to overseas K-pop fans as well. The problem is how to digest it with universal likability without making it cringy.

“That’s fun.”

“You might not like it!”

The guys who looked at the monitor and said one thing at a time seemed relaxed. Because I knew that scene like that would happen anyway.

‘Honestly there is a high probability that the participants are already aware of this fact and that it is Go-Stop’s plan.’

Well it’s none of my business.

We just had to do our part properly.

Mentors appear for each team on a stage where participants are excited to see who will appear as a ‘celebrity’.

With a ‘KPOP-like effect’ that is considered very flashy overseas.

Puff puff! Pipipiyung!

[Please welcome us with applause! We are a team of 7 K-pop stars who will teach you how to become famous!]

The artificial intelligence MC supported by Ohsung was heard shouting in English.

Then a cloth fell from the top of the set and the truth appeared on the electronic display.

-Welcome to

☆K-POP Training Camp☆

Naturally the response was not good.

[oh.]

[oh my god!!]

However the filming immediately moved on to the next cut taking the spectators who were embarrassed nervous deliberately exaggerated or forced to smile.

'I don't have time.'

How much time can 7 teams of popular idols devote to this program?

So while many of the mentors left work and some went back to change their costumes and get ready the participants were informed about the new content.

This is the so-called 'intro stage'.

[At this stage you can walk away as the winner of this reality show. Even before entering the camp!]

To summarize 'They can't admit that they are mentors right? If you win I'll give you the prize money right away.'

And I was in charge here for the first time.

[Our mentors please appear!]

With a setting that is childish but seems to work well.

[With an audience of 100 randomly selected LA residents you will take turns singing the same song as your mentor!]

[Of course this song is not K-pop… it's a pop song that you selected in advance! You chose it for your personal skills right?]

[And the mentor will check the song now!]

It's all about taking off the rank insignia and sticking it on.

Chapter 213

The stage built on the set was modeled after the style of an open-air theater with circular stairs that would be found in an American park.

In short this small space is open 360 degrees meaning that the audience is right in front of them in all directions.

‘It must be a refreshing experience.’

While residents who were invited as spectators came one by one and went through inspection I sat in the waiting room with my camera and received an envelope.

The flashy glitter was an American sensibility.

Along with the artificial intelligence MC’s English explanation an interpretation came out of the in-ears.

[What is inside this envelope is the signature song chosen by the participants!]

[Our KPOP mentor will learn all three songs in one hour.]

[Let’s see what happens?]

There is nothing to see.

The production team already informed us in advance which songs would be candidates.

‘Of course I’m not narrowing it down to these three songs.’

They gave us about a dozen songs and told us that they would be released in this album. Because it’s a pop song you might not know it at all.

And these three songs were probably chosen because of the participants' running and fighting.

Well on the show a contestant said 'What I wanted wasn't this damn song!' I think I can already see them shouting the same thing.

[Are you nervous?]

[Well a little bit.]

I gave an obvious answer to an obvious question and opened the envelope.

"hmm."

Well it was just as expected.

'It won't even take an hour.'

Let's try to relax after the plane trip.

* * *

A set where people are buzzing.

Residents with their arms folded holding bags of wine or cosmetics as gifts (all sponsored by T1) in one hand waited for the stage without much anticipation.

This is because it wasn't a famous show and I didn't know anything about it except that it was produced by Net Plus.

[I heard you're singing]

[I wish we could at least do a magic show!]

The father and daughter shrugged their shoulders and talked.

And behind the stage a camera was also rolling to record the participants listening to the audience's clamor.

In this 'Intro Stage' a total of 8 people chose 'singing' as their talent to become a celebrity.

And the audience was given one button.

[When the audience presses the button lights flash instantly on the spot!]

[They will press the button if they feel 'good'.]

[And… WARNING! They think everyone who shows up is a contestant and they don't know the existence of our secret K-pop mentor!]

[Now let's join our 'K-pop' camp participants on stage!]

The audience reflexively cheered as nine people appeared on the stage in a lift.

[and!]

Participants also reflexively waved their hands or ran around. I had no idea what kind of arrogance or immaturity those excited appearances would be edited out of on air.

And in the corner there was also an Asian young man wearing a large hood.

However unlike other noisy participants there was no movement so it was barely noticeable.

Of course it is Park Moon University.

[Now the first song is… Oh! This is Phil Garcia's 'Drive it'! Shall we run!?]

It was a popular song a few years ago that skillfully mixed R&B and pop and was easy to listen to. And it was also a regular song on audition programs for men in this country.

[Oh~]

The audience responded appropriately and politely to the typical song selection.

However when the next rule was explained the admiration began to be mixed with sincerity.

[Contestants on stage will sing a song each time they are randomly selected.]

[If you like it please feel free to press the button! The longer the lights stay on the longer you will be able to listen to that participant sing!]

[If there isn't much fire… well next!]

Laughter poured out from the audience at the sly words spoken by the machine's voice.

[ha ha ha!]

If the response is good you can sing more but if the response is bad it's over.

It was a fun rule because it was easy to see and provocative enough to be cruel!

[Now then let's start from number 1!]

Music rang out as participants took deep breaths or tried to pretend not to be nervous by turning on the microphone.

And participant number 1 blinked and picked up the microphone.

The trembling voice produced a quite believable sound.

-I drive the car without hesitation~ I have a big engine and shiny headlights~

[oh…]

People who had been pushing the button in moderation stopped pressing the button as soon as the participant stuttered.

[Now next!]

The moment the fire faded the artificial intelligence pointed out number 5 without hesitation.

-I'm not a solid man but I'm wild. That's my charm…

In that way the song began to travel around people.

Most people could barely digest one verse and those who went a little further could only digest two or three bars.

It was something that could not be helped.

With artificial intelligence's name coming from nowhere you can see 'if you make a mistake it's over' as a visual aid before your eyes so you end up making mistakes that you shouldn't have made.

-My eyes see… Damn it!

[next!]

The contestant who could not finish a word properly was even booed by the audience who were now in a good mood.

The moment when the audience became more ruthless due to familiarity.

[Number 7!]

Number 7 who was standing blankly in the corner received the first electronic display call.

[…]

An Asian young man wearing a hood who glanced at the flashing lights immediately opened his mouth and picked up the microphone.

And the song started exactly where it was supposed to go.

Naturally as if it was originally his part.

-Such scenes make me live.

The light of the city again today

Run run run between the stars and light

[oh!!]

A pleasant voice rang loudly through the speakers.

The difference in clear tone and volume is as if you were using different quality equipment.

Crash! widely! Tararalalak!

In an instant lights of all colors started flashing along with the sound of buttons being pressed repeatedly in the audience.

The song stretched out.

-Run run.

Between the stars and light

Tonight.

Even in the high notes of the chorus the voice was not disturbed.

No on the contrary the melodic part that clearly reveals the taste of the song stands out.

[Hey!]

The repeated button hitting did not decrease. The lights kept flashing and the seven races continued.

But the problem was… it was now entering the interlude.

When the song stops the fire will inevitably decrease. Then it is time to naturally move on to the next person.

[Mmm!]

When the lyrics disappeared from the electronic display some audience members who quickly realized what was going on were even disappointed.

-DDU DDU DDururu

DDU DDU DDU

[-!]

Number 7 started humming the interlude.

It’s not just a hum but a tremendous vocal range and technique that’s almost at the level of a concert ad-lib.

[wow!!]

With that feat-like skill the button was hit again and again and the lifespan of number 7 was extended once again.

Paba paba pak! Faba Park!

Lights flashed everywhere.

At this point some of the other participants opened their mouths and watched what Number 7 was doing.

But Park Mun-dae did not continue the stunt.

Instead he stopped ad-libbing a bar or two before entering the second verse and politely lowered the microphone.

[In that case next time!]

The audience was disappointed by the artificial intelligence MC's sonorous shout but there was a reason.

'Push once at this timing.'

This is because No. 7 Park Moon-dae was aware of the blind spot of this rule.

'People get used to stimulation.'

It was more important to sing the previous verse better than to continue singing well.

If you just keep singing without thinking people's reactions will inevitably fade after the climax.

Since it is not better than the climax part we heard just before there are many cases where there is no need to press the button.

So whether it was a high note or an ad-lib I had to give it variations and keep giving it new stimulation and elements of surprise.

This was also the reason why even people who sang well before could not go beyond two or three bars.

So Park Moon-dae passed the introduction of the second verse where the song tempo is adjusted again.

'Well I have to take care of the pictures that give participants a chance so I'll do it at the same time.'

Since you are a mentor you have to give the contestant a picture of yourself for no reason so that you don't get bullshit like 'Am I the only one who is jealous?' on the domestic internet.

And Park Moon-dae's calculations have already been completed.

'Considering the number of participants… they'll probably give me one more shot at the end anyway.'

Looking at the timing it seemed like the participants would go around once and then it would be their turn again.

[Sorry next!]

Because Park Moon-dae had done so well in the beginning the audience's evaluation had already become harsh and most of the discouraged participants were eliminated after just one verse.

And as per Park Moon-dae's plan he was nominated again for the pre-chorus just before the last chorus.

[Oooh!]

Amid the anticipation and preemptive cheers of the already biased audience Park Moon-dae held onto the song from the first verse and did not let go.

-Run run

Hit the horn and crush the light

tonight

Park Moon-dae's song possession time was the final 1 minute and 3 seconds.

The first 'intro stage' so shockingly overwhelming that it wasn't even a game ended.

[The winner is… number 7!]

[Wow!!]

‘I paid for the meal.’

Instead of bowing his head Park Moon-dae smiled and waved his hand to match the audience’s sentiment.

I could already hear the production team drooling beyond the camera next to the stage.

‘If it’s done well it could be used as a trailer.’

And the prediction was correct.

* * *

[K-pop? I don’t listen to that.]

[To call that music… no don’t misunderstand. Because I don’t think boy bands in this country are music either.]

[My younger brother is completely crazy but honestly he is not in his right mind.]

“Oh trailer?”

“that’s right!”

Cha Yu-jin who played Net Plus on her smartphone in the car excitedly shook the screen and showed it to the members.

Immediately the members also focused their attention on the short preview video.

After the cut of the interview with the participants obviously saying things like ‘I’m not interested in K-pop which is a crappy subculture’ the actual filming was cut short.

[This summer.]

[To reality contestants thirsty for fame]

[K-pop baptism pours in!]

“Wow look at the subtitles.”

“You did a good job translating.”

[Aaaaa!!]

[What the fuck is this…]

Screaming contestants and smiling K-pop idols.

And the profile of me singing and the participant next to me with his mouth open passed by.

“Besides you there were two other vocal teams right?”

“okay.”

I guess I used it well because I thought the first stage would get the most reaction from the participants.

“I heard everyone won.”

“Oh of course. “Everyone has positions so they probably lost?”

Looking at him smiling and doing that I think he too won the dance stage by a landslide.

[Do you know K-pop?]

[Do you like it?]

[Would you like to try it?]

[K-NOW]

Immediately after the title appeared ‘Episode 1 coming soon’ appeared along with the date.

Usually programs released on Net Plus are released in a bundle of four or five episodes but it seems like there was an agreement with the studio to release each episode one at a time.

“Be sure to click on ‘Receive Notifications’ when Cha Yu-jin is released so you don’t forget to watch it right away…”

“I know!”

“If you knew what would you do?”

‘Anyway the broadcast isn’t far away.’

First of all it was quite exciting to see what the reaction to the first episode would be perhaps because filming was successfully completed.

And by the time you see that there is also a new event.

At that moment Seon Ah-hyun seems to have realized something when she sees the date and is shouting out.

“Ah this day… it’s our moving date…!”

“I know?”

“I think it will be worth it to order a new large TV after much discussion!”

“I really like it!”

It’s just moving.

We have finally moved to a new accommodation.

Chapter 214

When Testa was in the midst of preparations for moving people who were waiting for the new Net Plus entertainment show created by the “Azusa” production team were quite upset.

This is because the aggro in the released trailer was excellent.

————————— = =

[Azusa production team’s new entertainment show I’m the only one who doesn’t care]

I don’t know why they’re begging K-pop fans to like K-pop… It’s like cultural toadyism.

————————— = =

-That’s right I was exactly like this too.

- ㅇㄱㄹㅇ

-There are a lot of people who say they like K-pop but it seems like they really have no pride in gathering haters and doing something like that.

-It feels like watching a gangster rehabilitation survival show. Please shine a light on people who are living well and are passionate while doing such things haha.

-?? I don’t think this is what it feels like… Isn’t this something like “A little weak Americans have a taste of K-pop hell?”

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ I felt this way when I saw the trailer too.

-On one side it's toadyism and on the other side it's all over the country. It's amazing haha.

-It's annoying to film such a low-quality entertainment show but it looks like it's going to be good again. Just the trailer alone is making me go crazy again. Ugh.

– Top topical topic hahahaha

Moreover the production team secretly released official information about the exact content of the program only when the most talk and controversy was growing.

-K-pop idols are mentors and the deal is to gather American fans and send them to a K-pop hell camp and only those who survive are given prizes.

Fuck hahahahahahahahaha

I must be crazy

How do you come up with something like this? Are the production crew really camping in hell?

-My kids are already so busy so it's absurd to ask them to do something like this but it's funny.

You're a fan of Testa. It's karma for buying Azusa stock and helping the production team grow haha.

I fell in love with it during a visit

And when the controversy over the program subsided slightly articles about the mentor cast began to appear.

People who were embarrassed by the scale of the program also reproduced articles related to the program.

-V-ticker is really coming out?;;;

-No Jaehyun why did you make this choice?

-Golden Age also appears. I guess they added it because they are from Azusa… Um… haha.

X Idiots are now sitting on entertainment shows and even considering the level. Anyway these bastards are dying from laughter haha.

Okay let's listen next time

-It must be difficult for this lineup to appear on weekend entertainment shows at once so what's going on? It's like a childhood dream concert.

-It's a pity that the Testa Azusa production crew filmed it as a holy bone and got caught.

And everyone expected his appearance and by the time Park Moon-dae appeared in the trailer the resigned Testa fans had already burned out once.

-Yes Azusa is not a mentor in the new season.

-This activity has seen a lot of entertainment shows of all time and one of them has something like this… lol… lol…

-Testa will probably test it but it's so good that I'm actually looking forward to it (that's a lie)

-I hope you don't have a hard time filming your kids.

Many fan communities ended the story by simply saying 'I hope Testa's feelings weren't hurt while filming.'

This is because the 'Spring Out' activities went very well and the overseas response indicators were good so the weather was short.

Even the small rumors related to Ryu Cheong-woo's camera have long since subsided through his frequent appearances on major entertainment shows.

So amid the mixed reactions from fans of the idols who appeared and the unfavorable topicality from general netizens the entertainment show aired episode 1.

[K-NOW!]

[K-pop is boring! Participants who have only aimed to become celebrities their entire lives fall into an unexpected quagmire.]

As written in the introduction the production team introduced the extreme characteristics of some of the 24 participants and then emphasized two commonalities through the magic of editing.

Being thirsty for attention.

And it ignores K-pop.

Naturally the reaction of domestic viewers who were watching in real time as soon as it was released was extreme.

-Ah hahaha that's so annoying.

-Is that really the American average?

-I feel really bad… Why are my emotions like that?

-'This is real music' I really want to punch that guy in the mouth.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ It's just funny. Koreans are so obsessed.

-I actually somewhat sympathize with what the contestants said… These days idols' songs are all the same.

Oh my gosh old man

The participants competed against each other and were amazed by all the sponsored products in the wonderful accommodations.

Finally the scene in question came.

[KPOP mentors will appear now!]

[3 2 1]

[Ta-da!]

[Screams like this are rampant!]

Participants who were shocked angry or embarrassed were still portrayed as blatantly unfavorable.

Viewers now took a step back from that unfamiliar emotion and just watched it as if they were watching an idol appearing on a foreign entertainment show.

-Stand at the breakout corner

-I want to skip it later ㅠㅠ

– Haha why am I so funny? All the idols are really good and I'm shocked to see them compared to professionals haha.

If things had continued like this 〈K-NOW〉 would have lost its domestic buzz and fizzled out after just one episode.

However from the next moment the atmosphere changed.

[You will compete head-to-head with KPOP mentors!]

[Fields include singing dancing and photography!]

[Yes this is the item you listed as 'specialty' on your application!]

-what?

-for a moment

-Hahahahaha is there a contest here too?

-Stop talking crazy.

But it was true.

[great! If you win you get $50000~]

[Honestly I don't think we'll lose. yes.]

[With a pop song? Well I can never lose it. I'm sorry but you made a mistake.]

Again the appearance of several talented participants was captured at quite a length.

They argued fiercely again over song selections and photo themes and soon went on stage with the appearance of amateurs full of baseless confidence.

And in contrast the idols were shown as very calm and kind.

[Aha you give me one hour~]

[I have to work hard.]

[Can I put this here?]

-At first glance they really look like different races.

Different race

Kkkk

Idols who participated bare-chested almost slaughtered the participants with terrifying force.

[Victory victory victory!]

Coupled with the Azusa production team's unique emphasis on editing the scene was brutally cool and overwhelmingly presented on the screen.

[There's nothing more to see!]

[Once more the mentor wins!]

[It's overwhelming! Hmm are you still saying that camp is useless?]

[Participant: Damn…]

In particular the results were still the same not only in Park Moon-dae's first vocal stage which was carefully edited but also in the dance stage where everyone wore masks.

In an instant the Internet was covered with related reactions.

-Wow I'm kicking my ass.

-Crazy Park Moon-dae you crazy bastard I knew this would happen. As expected I won first place and I'm not going anywhere.

-Taste the taste of K-pop hell.

-Please give me a fancam of Keun Se-jin wearing a teddy bear mask so I can reveal the behind-the-scenes! ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-I can't believe that only Americans have seen this. Do it in Korea too.

-It's so fun. As expected Azusa's production team has a good hand. Hahaha.

Originally they were viewers of survival programs who were fascinated by the format of competition purely based on skill.

In addition K-pop idols who are emotionally close to each other won comfortably adding to the thrill of winning in sports.

But at the same time there were people who had doubts.

-This… Is it okay to promote this Gukbbong flavor to English-speaking countries? Hahaha.

-I think they'll be upset that it won't be a hit in the US.

-That's right I think people will feel rejected for promoting K-pop too much.

-I think all the idols ran away when they were leaving school hahaha.

But that wasn't the case.

This is because foreigners were watching this program with different sensibilities.

It was the taste of rehabilitation.

They did not yet identify with the participants at all and were thoroughly enjoying their suffering.

This is because the production team did an excellent job of giving the participants the attribute of 'an annoying human being they have experienced in their lives'.

-Friends take this opportunity to tell them to grow up (tongue sticking out emoticon)

-Oh please the blonde guy with the cap is just like my ex-boyfriend who was always posting weird stuff on Inheart.

-Isn't this pretty funny?

-I hope everyone is reborn like a ‘K-pop’ star with a 12-year-old rating (laughter emoticon)

Here one of the representative images of K-pop was very popular.

That means it is wholesome.

And the plot of these wholesome friends of all ages giving realistic lessons to malignant followers was quite odd but it fit well.

-It’s like watching a reality program that catches bad kids and sends them to a special summer camp (laughter)

Popular opinion: True.

And there are K-pop (rainbow and unicorn emoji) instructors at that camp!

So to English-speaking viewers the whole thing felt like a fairly humorous parody.

At the same time I felt a crush on the K-pop idol who was active in this entertainment show.

-Everyone is so kind and classy! It’s a bit touching

-That hoodie is a really great singer.

-They say I received training from a very young age so it seems it wasn’t in vain.

In the meantime existing KPOP fandoms worked hard to spread sales and information.

-That hoodie has never received any training! The auditionees were 100% ordinary people! It’s just a bunch of talent and effort♡

-Their latest song is really great and I recommend it to anyone interested in the combination of oriental and steampunk (link)

-It's surprising that people are finally recognizing the good aspects of K-pop. Are we living in the 90's?

And even before this reaction was translated into Korea.

The reactions of viewers who had even the slightest knowledge of KPOP were united by the trailer for the next episode that appeared at the end of episode 1.

[Look at that our most senior mentor appears!]

[Mentor: Hello.]

A close-up shot of VTIC Cheongryeo appeared.

The production team intentionally did not show KPOP idols in their first appearances but only showed them in the trailer.

-Wow it's cool.

-Mimimmimimichi | nijal

-What did you do?

-Return to Korea immediately.

[Mentor: I hope you learn a lot from this camp.]

Cheongryeo digested the script in clear English.

[Mentor: Ah the name of this evaluation is… 'Learn VTIC.' It's probably meaningful training.]

[Mentor: We are famous.]

Cheongnyeo grinned.

The trailer ended with a short cut of the participants staring at each other along with a tense BGM.

-Producer: Look at the next episode. This is it haha.

In this way the new entertainment show by the production team of “Azusa” once again secured buzz.

It was a very smooth yet turbulent start.

However even though Testa who had pledged to watch this program ‘as soon as it came out’ was a party to the program no one could confirm this reaction.

There was a reason.

“Aaaah!”

“Do it again! Let’s do it again!”

“Oh no…! “This is right!”

“Wow Ah-hyun is such an active rejecter?? “Does it look suspicious?”

“You are more suspicious.”

“Guys… it’s our second hour.”

They were overly engrossed in the roommate assignment game overtime.

It was a side effect of the fan service content that I started lightly after moving.

Chapter 215

Bae Se-jin said calmly.

“Next… it’s your turn.”

“yes yes!”

Sun Ah-hyun swallowed her saliva with a very nervous look on her face and then shouted carefully.

“I will nominate the three Sejin…!”

“What? Ahyeon aren’t you being too quick to criticize me for being suspicious earlier? “I shouldn’t get into personal feelings about this~”

“Oh no!”

This is my first time seeing these two guys arguing.

What’s even funnier is that the people around them are watching the confrontation with sweaty faces.

‘How did it end up like this?’

I looked down at the remaining cards in my hand and fell into profound worry.

When I first entered the new accommodation the atmosphere couldn’t have been so warm.

“It’s so big! “I love it!”

“There are still three bathrooms right?”

“It’s a house that was remodeled inside and added plumbing to create an additional smaller bathroom. “There are four.”

“oh.”

Since people were coming from the cleaning company anyway the increase in the number of bathrooms was very welcome.

…I was a little concerned about the location of the accommodation.

‘In the end I came to SV Village… ’

That neighborhood where the VTIC accommodations are located.

There was no choice as it was leaked that we were going to E Palace. As we focused on security the pool of candidates became smaller and we ended up here.

However there is a difference in square footage so the distance is quite long even within the complex so you won’t have to waste time looking around.

‘Let’s check the bedroom.’

I pushed away my useless reluctance and looked around the accommodation.

“wow! There are a lot of rooms! “Do I use it alone??”

“There are four bedrooms. “Only one person can occupy a single room!”

“…!”

Bae Se-jin who must have been listening to the conversation between the two was suddenly startled and muttered solemnly.

“…You can write it alone?”

“yes! Alternatively it is possible for three people to share a large room and the remaining person to enjoy the benefits of a single room…”

No.

‘That’s a bad picture.’

In fact we could have rented two lodgings and each had a private room. However the reason I continued to use the same accommodation was to prevent gossip.

It’s not even our two-year anniversary yet but seeing as we’re already sharing a single room it’s easy to say things like “We’re not getting along very well.”

‘We have to wait at least another year.’

But why do they add one more single room while creating a three-person room?

There will be people out there trying to create a strange image for those who use solitary confinement.

I intervened at that point.

“There is no need to use it narrowly. As you said three double rooms and one single room would be better.”

“yes!”

Raebin Kim immediately agreed with a slightly proud look on his face but when I actually said it my taste buds were sour.

‘I want to write it alone.’

It’s a shame I kicked away the opportunity to double the odds.

“Oh this room is cool!”

“The size of the bed has grown a lot.”

Anyway as the accommodation got bigger and the rooms got bigger it seemed like I would have more room to live.

“Oh that’s right.”

And here comes the decisive sound.

Liu Chengyu grinned and said this as if joking.

“Should we give the biggest room to someone who will be using it alone?”

“…!”

And surprisingly this opinion was passed with strong support from the majority.

“oh! “That’s nice~”

“Well I think fans will find the reward compelling when they watch roommate-related content!”

“Haha really?”

Ryu Cheong-woo himself seemed a bit surprised but it seemed like everyone was trying hard to draw a picture of what it was like when he was in a solitary room.

So the result is that the room assignment game has become ridiculously overheated.

“Even if we examine it rationally Cha Yu-jin’s statements over the past two turns were contradictory so Cha Yu-jin is the impostor!”

“no! “Think again!”

“that’s right!”

“now. So Ravin thinks Yujin is lying?”

“Yes! “I will ‘verify’ the proposition that Cha Yu-jin could not have accepted a bribe last turn!”

“no I do not want!”

As soon as Cha Yu-jin is singled out she makes a fuss as if she is drinking some kind of poison.

‘The problem is that he’s not the only one who does this.’

Everyone is doing that throughout the turn. I gave up and clenched my chin.

Actually this was a simple board game that was a mix of a mafia game and a card game.

The actions you can take are determined according to the job card secretly drawn at the beginning and the person who collects the most money through them wins.

However there is one thing that sets it apart.

‘Just do whatever you want as long as you don’t get caught.’

I was able to do things I couldn’t do because of my job through bluffing.

In other words it was inevitable that all kinds of lies would spread.

‘…I chose it because I thought it would be funny.’

The problem is that in the first game Keun Se-jin won with complete bullshit.

-Sejin… aren’t they members of the National Assembly…?

-… A flower shop owner?

-That's right~ Ah 'Are you fooling me~' is the phrase used in situations like this right? Hahaha!

-Ugh!!

Keun Se-jin who quoted lines from his own music video must have been so impressive that from the next game lies became the meta that dominated the game.

Everyone started telling lies to raise money and it ended up being a mess after the third round.

"Now Eugene let's 'verify'. "Show me your card."

For reference if someone's job was 'verified' by someone else that person could not make money for a while regardless of whether it was true or not.

So first of all those who were singled out for 'verification' defended themselves fiercely but…

Well didn't I say it earlier? It's shit.

"Hmm… Eugene's occupation was 'police officer'! "Because he took a bribe last turn Eugene is eliminated!"

"Boo…"

"also!"

Now everything that goes into 'verification' is being taken into account.

'It's ruined.'

This has been filming for over two hours now and it looks like it will all be edited and condensed into about 30 minutes.

Fans will be sad to ask for the full version but when the full version is actually released the atmosphere will become solemn… That's such a boring and boring thing.

'Now that it's like this the guy who won't lie will have to win to get out of the loop.'

It won't work.

'Next game… it would be better to drive Sun Ah-hyun.'

Isn't he the person who can't lie the most?

So in the fourth round we gave Sun Ah-hyun a little push to do well.

-I'll buy this…!

-Well I think taking over the store pays more.

-Is that so? Then with that…!

And Sun Ah-hyun steadily made a lot of money and surprisingly she did not get into an argument with Keun Se-jin and succeeded in singling out the guy at the time of 'verification'.

"I made this decision after really thinking about it… Sejin please verify it…! Construction of the building last turn!"

"Okay Ahyeon."

Ryu Cheong-woo who volunteered to be the host because he didn't feel the appeal of solitary confinement immediately checked Keun Se-jin's card.

I crossed my arms.

'Is one person eliminated?'

Of course I thought so but the words that came out of Liu Chengyu's mouth were unexpected.

“…! Sejin… it wasn’t a lie!”

“…!!”

“Really?”

“okay. “It’s a job that allows you to build buildings.”

This bastard hit a double bullshit.

“Oh if you lie again this time that’s right. “I have a conscience too!”

There are so many lies coming out.

Thanks to this Sun Ah-hyun who failed the ‘verification’ took 3 turns off due to the penalty.

“Ahyun is not allowed to act this turn either.”

“yes yes…”

“Sejin won’t be able to make money for one more turn.”

“I understand~”

Thanks to this an unexpected winner emerged.

“First place in this edition is… Mundae!”

It’s me.

“Yes thank you.”

Please note that this is all meaningless.

This is because there was a difference in the total amount due to being intensively marked by a strong player in the previous game.

‘Fuck you.’

Maybe I should have just had fun and wasted all the money.

Anyway who is the final winner…

“The overall first place winner who can freely choose a room is Lee Se-jin!”

“ha ha ha!”

In the end that bastard won.

I think it will be fun for people to watch but… it somehow makes me feel sick.

‘Shall I stab you?’

I smiled and opened my mouth.

“Congratulations.”

“Oh~ Thank you Moon University!”

“It would be more convenient to have a private room.”

“…??”

“This was about choosing who would be in solitary confinement.”

“That’s right I’m jealous!”

“I hope you have a pleasant life as a single person in a spacious room.”

When the use of solitary confinement was treated as a fait accompli Keun Se-jin’s expression twitched for a moment but quickly returned.

“Haha no! Well that’s not necessarily true~”

Oh you’re trying to avoid it.

I was active in the game to extract some space from this content but I don’t think I wanted to spend time alone.

If you use it alone there is a high probability that you will suffer a slight loss in the amount of appearances in your own content.

‘I guess I’ll go with a picture that naturally gives in.’

Well then there is only one candidate.

“Hey I want to use it too but… well I want to give Chungwoo a private room! “Our leader has really supported this team since our debut!”

“Huh me?”

“That’s right brother~ Aren’t these things usually used by older leaders?”

“Oooh!”

“What a great choice!”

Just like that Liu Chengwu was taken to solitary confinement without even getting a drop of water on his hands.

‘I’m jealous.’

As I clicked my tongue I heard a small voice next to me.

“…I am the oldest…”

Bae Se-jin seemed to have no intention of speaking out loud but when their eyes met he hurriedly closed his mouth.

Now that I think about it Bae Se-jin has the earliest birthday. Isn't this why images are so important?

'…Of course if you think about it I'm really the oldest.'

I whetted my appetite at the opportunity of solitary confinement gone by.

Well there is no problem with a double room. First of all my roommate was also a quiet guy.

"Then Moondae and Ahyeon are in the same room."

"Now please take care of me…!"

"okay. "It's been a while."

This is because I ended up sharing the same room as Sun Ah-hyun. As soon as the place was closed with this number of people Sun Ah-hyeon's face lit up.

'Could it be that this guy was working hard to avoid Cha Yu-jin instead of being in solitary confinement?'

A fairly convincing hypothesis crossed my mind but it's not important so let's move on.

For your information Big Se-jin was blinded by the amount of content and took the karma that shook the game up.

The problem is that the innocent guy gets hit too.

"Oh then… Brother Sejin two are in the same room!"

This is because Cha Yu-jin and Kim Rae-bin chose the same room while yelling at each other to leave.

In the end Keun Se-jin who had no choice by giving up his choice to Ryu Cheong-woo… automatically joined Bae Se-jin's room.

“Please take care of me brother!”

“That’s right.”

The two exchanged friendly greetings a beat later. Be thankful it’s not a live broadcast.

‘We won’t fight.’

After a fight they don’t interfere with each other except for necessary conversations.

And even if it’s the same room it’s the size of the living room in my previous accommodation. I think it’s okay to look at it even though we won’t collide with it.

‘If you notice something just change it.’

The external excuse would be to say something funny like how we both suffer because our bedtimes are so different.

“Okay then let’s unpack in our respective rooms and see you again with another roommate story!”

“See you again Loveviewer~”

The roommate game filming ended with that ending comment.

I shrugged my shoulders and went into the designated room to unpack.

‘The quality is definitely better.’

They said it had gone through a lot of remodeling and it really looked like that.

“It’s radish. Let’s have fun…!”

“Okay then.”

I'm already looking forward to a comfortable bedtime without noise pollution.

-I go out to have fun. I go there a lot.

-I only accept your heart.

This conversation was a bit ominous but I still wonder where it got away from Cha Yu-jin's roommate.

'That bastard talks too much.'

I sighed and stretched out on the bed.

All that can be heard is the sound of Sun Ah-hyun arranging her French embroidery and scrub brush.

'It's peaceful.'

I guess this is what it feels like to move here.

…For your information this sentiment doesn't last one day.

The very next day.

Because I had to get on a plane and leave for LA.

The reason was the additional filming for that damn entertainment show and the content was like X.

It looks like we will be doing a one-time special performance with Mentor Jin in the mix.

The problem is that there is a blueprint on my team.

'Fuck you.'

It all started with episode 2 of 〈K-NOW〉 where that guy appeared.

Chapter 216

Hellfire K-Pop Camp which really caught the attention of the public was able to be broadcast with great interest from episode 1 to episode 2.

And it was an undeniable fact that Cheongryeo's appearance played a part in this topicality.

This is because of the law of scarcity.

This is because VTIC has been refraining from light and enjoyable content such as entertainment since the member withdrawal incident.

-It's been a while since this was a variety showㅠㅠ

-It's a shame that only Jaehyun showed up but it also makes me feel bad because he feels like he's the leader so… you guys worked hard.

-If you just look at the trailer it's the foundation of K-pop

And in episode 2 of This Bastard the impact that the mentor cast could have was all lost.

'We were fortunate to have hit and run in just one episode.'

During monitoring it appears that he has served as an important judge instructor and counselor.

– Cheongnyeo showing kindness to the world (video)

-Hey this is a K-dol!

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠOur leader is always a warm-hearted person (capture)

-I don't understand why I can't do this but Shin Jaehyun will watch the practice for now hahaha. It's still the same.

Even though the amount of filming is not that much for a busy top tier it seems like only the crucial parts were left out.

'Is it cost-effective?'

After all fucking people should open up and watch it. I guess the mentors who came out with me lost at most by missing filming time.

'Now that I think about it there were Golden Age guys among them.'

That group with gold 1.

After the industrial espionage incident we stopped contacting each other but after seeing our faces again on the <Azusa> production team's variety show we occasionally contacted them at the level of networking.

[Golden Age Ha Iljun: It was good to see you after a long time Moondae! It's a shame we didn't overlap filming this time. See you next time!]

I responded appropriately to Gold 1's message and boarded the plane.

[Yes see you next time]

That's neat.

When people work it's perfect for a relationship like this where they don't blush at each other.

In particular it's best not to get involved with a crazy person who turns people off but it's quite annoying to find out how many times you secretly continue to work together.

I'm glad the guy I'm going with listened to me.

“It’s radish. “Did you get your passport?”

“okay.”

It’s Sun Ah-hyun.

There was not only one special collaboration stage between the mentors but the special stage involving Sun Ah-hyun was also filmed at this time.

‘It looks like which group said they didn’t have time.’

If we had known it would be like this we would have said hello to not doing a special performance.

“Get on the plane and get some sleep. “Even if the team got the choreography in advance they would not have time because they would have to adjust their movements anew.”

“Ugh!”

Sun Ah-hyun and I boarded the plane safely ignoring the data pals and some Homma cameras that were following us.

‘They gave me good seats.’

I guess I made the right investment. I closed the curtain next to the seat to prevent any possible invasion of privacy.

The manager… I don’t know. The second guy came along and will sit behind him on his own.

‘Let’s get some sleep.’

Then it was time to push the seat down to make it almost like a bed and open a bottle of water.

Sun Ah-hyun spoke in a low voice.

“It’s over there.”

“uh.”

“What is it? Is that senior VTIC Cheongnyeo uncomfortable?”

“Phew.”

Bottled water almost came out of my nose.

‘How did you know?’

“Are you okay?! Massage…”

“Okay that’s it.”

I threw up my hands and shook out my hair. Sun Ah-hyeon looked at me with some concern and carefully spoke the next word.

It seemed like he had thought about it in advance.

“If it’s inconvenient for you… should I trade with you?”

“what?”

“I thought it would be okay since our team’s stage teacher already knows the choreography…”

“…”

“For me people who live here are uncomfortable… so there’s not much of a difference…!”

“It’s okay.”

I smiled and closed the water bottle.

I am indeed. Still it’s still quite touching. Does that guy even worry about interpersonal relationships anymore?

“And when are you going to learn the choreography again?”

“Ha I’ve got one day… so it’s okay.”

“…”

Talented people are pissed.

“Anyway… I don’t like him but it’s not to the point where I can’t work. “He’s not a big deal to begin with.”

“I see. But still… if you have any thoughts please tell me!”

“okay.”

I don’t think that will happen but it would be okay if you just say it obediently.

I lay down on a seat that resembled a bed.

And after a while he asked as if he were passing by.

“But is it obvious like that?”

“Hmm?”

“I don’t like that senior.”

“…A little bit of Joe?”

“When did you do that?”

“Every time we meet Mundae keeps clenching his fist…”

“…”

I have to be careful.

And 11 hours later I found out that I really had a fist.

“hello.”

“Hello senior!”

‘It was real.’

A large choreography practice room where the production crew has already installed cameras.

When Cheongryeo who arrived one step late smiled and greeted me my hands were truly expressing their will on their own.

‘I guess it’s because I have memories of grinding.’

Anyway thanks to Sun Ah-hyun I found out one thing. I have to be careful when there are cameras around.

‘Anyway the VTIC name definitely has value.’

Regardless of whether I was paying attention to my fists or not everyone around me was greeting Cheongryeo with their bodies tense.

“Nice to meet you. Shall we start practicing right away?”

Among those who constantly expressed admiration or feelings of inferiority Cheongryeo elegantly got to the point.

‘This is comfortable.’

I have no intention of opposing the idea of not wasting time before practice.

And then the movement work began.

“Here we go one more time!”

We shared all the parts in advance and learned our own route through the video.

However when we all worked together there were bound to be differences in spacing height and size of movement.

It’s a task to reorganize it but usually a choreography trainer is hired…

“Please raise your left elbow more.”

“yes yes…!”

This time at some point the trainer just shouts ‘I’ll play it one more time.’

Because that bastard grabbed everything.

“Please come in a little faster during the pre-chorus. “Just stop moving when you lower your arms and come in.”

“Ah… Yes!”

Of course it’s Cheongryeo who is the one who gets the most shots here.

It’s comforting to see that even people who would otherwise be left out are becoming intimidated and following along thanks to their age and popularity.

“Then let’s take a break for a while. “Um 10 minutes?”

“yes!”

It seems like the break time will be cut off like a knife.

Hoo.

‘This is really useful.’

Indeed this guy who lived as an idol leader for several decades is different. Efficiency is extraordinary.

‘It will be over quickly.’

It was a moment when I was about to slightly revise my evaluation of the guy.

“Junior.”

“…yes.”

Canceled immediately.

Since the camera was maintained there was no need to talk to these guys so I went to the corner but they insisted on talking to me again.

However surprisingly there were no crazy remarks like usual.

Cheongryeo lowered his voice and simply gave advice quietly.

“It’s good to make bigger movements but I’m moving my joints incorrectly.”

“…”

“Now look.”

A neat demonstration followed.

An action that gives a bounce to the upper body by bending and bouncing the whole body.

“This is where my elbow and thigh touch.”

“yes.”

“Why do you think it’s touching?”

“It seems like they are trying to give a sense of rhythm to the movement of bending and straightening the body.”

“that’s right.”

Yes came out immediately but the conversation didn’t end there.

“But you can’t just think about it.”

“…!”

“look. “This has to be done by taking into account the bending of the upper body in the next movement.”

Cheongryeo moved her elbows to the side as much as she didn’t need to and then pulled her upper body up.

“This increases the movement line of the arm joints making the movement faster when bending down.”

Then tension appeared somewhere in the movement.

It was what you would call ‘chewy’.

“That’s how the lines look good.”

“…”

“If you pay attention to the ‘why’ of the back and forth movements you will be able to show all the skills you have in the future.”

I almost chewed my tongue.

oh my god.

This kid is ‘really’ helpful.

Because I have just come to understand that advice is extremely useful.

'…Compared to the increased stats I somehow felt less like I was dancing better than my peers.'

This was a realization that required time or talent.

You can either know it instinctively like Cha Yu-jin or you can realize it by thinking and practicing countless times like Keun Se-jin.

And to polish it into language and convey it in a way that even the uninitiated can understand… was something only someone who had tried similar things thousands of times could do.

'It's not like I've been eating it raw all these years.'

I clearly admitted it.

"yes. thank you."

"…!"

Cheongryeo became silent for a moment probably because he hadn't expected it.

But soon he seemed to understand it and smiled and nodded.

"yes. After all it's better to listen to these things separately right? "It hurts your feelings if you get pointed out when we're all together."

"…"

"Oh I'm not saying that your junior is not particularly good at it. haha."

This really hurts my pride.

'I only dance but my singing sucks.'

It's a shame but I can't help but say this.

"I'm not offended by that. I don't think your senior will feel bad if I give him advice during recording."

"…aha. yes."

Cheongryeo's eyes narrowed.

But he shrugged as if he would admit it soon.

"Well I guess that's the limit of talent. "It doesn't work anymore."

"…"

It must have been so. I saw that a guy whose vocal growth limit was B + had come a long way to B+.

Just as I was about to admire it a little I heard a low voice muttering to itself as if it were talking to itself.

"So every time… I was so annoyed by the search for a sane young guy who was good at singing."

"…"

"Well this time… I can't say it's really a success even now. You withdrew right? haha."

…Now that I think about it VTIC's main vocalist was the club guy.

It won't work. I quickly changed my mind before any more crazy noises came out.

"Still you seem to be doing well."

"I guess I've gained my own know-how. therefore…"

Beep beep beep!

At that moment a loud alarm rang.

“Ah time is up.”

It meant that recess was over.

Cheongryeo immediately went to the center of the practice room stretched his neck and spoke.

“Now then let’s fix the details.”

And the work to unify the choreography details began so persistently that one wondered if this was even necessary for a one-time special stage.

Thanks to this I will say that the only ones who died were the production staff.

* * *

“Did you come up?”

Cheongryeo’s personal fan was refreshing Net Plus and constantly checking to see if episode 3 had been uploaded.

And that action was soon rewarded.

“It’s up!”

You can’t miss the entertainment show where Cheongnyeo appears after a long time! Cheongryeo’s fans watched episode 3 with excitement.

But… this time almost no Cheongnyeo appeared.

“hmm…”

It was definitely still stimulating and it was nice to see the participants purifying and refining themselves while going through a hard time getting rid of their tears and snot.

However since the most important Cheongryeo almost did not come out the excitement completely cooled down.

‘That’s right… there’s no way it took that long to film.’

Since he appeared as a mentor rather than as the main MC it was quite a feat.

“I’ll have to look at the cut version.”

Cheongryeo’s fan shrugged his shoulders and decided to stop wasting time.

But at that moment.

[In a moment!]

[KPOP mentors’ spectacular demonstration stage unfolds!]

[Participant: Oh my god!]

[oh my god. Will the participants be able to recreate this stage?]

Suddenly a special stage notice appeared.

“Crazy Shin Jaehyun!!”

And the fan didn’t miss Cheongryeo’s face.

‘what!!’

Cheongryeo’s fan couldn’t resist and immediately skipped the playback bar to the end. Seeing that it was put in like this I assumed it would definitely come out at the end.

And the prediction was correct.

“Ugh!”

The video atmosphere suddenly changed to resemble typical WeTube stage content.

The fan checked the seven idol mentors standing in a formation.

And there was a real cheongryeo in it!

“Huh.”

It was almost the first time since her second year of debut that Cheongryeo performed on stage with another idol!

‘Wow there’s Park Moon-dae too.’

The fan’s mind was spinning.

And the moment I thought that the formation of the idols posing or crossing their arms with their chins raised looked somewhat familiar.

The intro has started.

-ShhShhShh Shh…!

“…!”

This… was a hot idol hit song that was released only half a year ago!

It’s not even just a hit song.

‘That’s Mirinae’s song!’

A hit song by a new female idol who debuted less than a year ago was playing on the screen.

Chapter 217

Cover stage.

It refers to a stage where a song by another group or singer is performed rather than one's own song.

And of course there was an implicit line to that as well.

'I don't necessarily do my junior's songs.'

This is because if you don't do as well as your juniors your drawing will look very awkward. Moreover even if you did well it was easy to hear that you had 'no business morals'.

In a situation where a cover stage usually involves performing someone else's song with only a few days of practice the risk was quite fatal.

Moreover many of the idols who appeared as mentors in this entertainment show produced by the Azusa production team were already on the rise.

'No there are a ton of people who aren't ready to do a cover stage at the end of the year!'

This means that no one knew that they would be watching a video of them doing something unexpected covering a rookie's latest hit song.

'omg.'

For reference related SNSs in similar time zones also use '??' It was plastered with things like that.

However Cheongryeo's fan immediately came to enlightenment.

‘Well if I choose Jaehyun’s senior song wouldn’t the number of options be reduced too much?’

This is because there are only a handful of idols who are older than VTIC and have had hit songs in the past 5 years.

However it wasn’t fun to cover old songs too much. This is because I have tried it many times already.

‘Rookie female idol song… It’s definitely fun!’

Come to think of it it was truly the first time since my debut year that I saw Cheongryeo perform a female idol song!

The fan’s heart started pounding at the thought that this was a rare treat that had suddenly exploded.

It was a possible reflex because it never occurred to me that Cheongryeo would not be able to do it.

And all these thoughts passed by in a matter of two or three seconds.

-We gonna fly high

The screen stopped showing close-ups and the stage began.

Floating Floating-

Above the bass drum a soft string instrument Wood was transformed and laid like the electronic sound of a synthesizer.

Then the idols who were wearing well-fitting leather harness costumes parted the formation and started choreographing on the purple stage.

The sense of incongruity that came from coming from different groups was gently melted away and masked.

The skills that were well-honed over many years of activity played a part but most importantly… the center was unique.

Of course it was Cheongryeo.

-You shout high up

Fly up there

Shoot up of bondage

Get out of the paradox

‘Ouch!’

A strong chorus hit from the very beginning. Cheongryeo’s fans automatically fell silent.

“Ha I like it…”

Cheongryeo on the screen ended the introduction by flowing and connecting several tens of seconds of choreography as if it were one movement.

It felt like an instant without even having time to recall the original song.

It was an incredible capability.

‘Gwaaagh!’

Except for the inexplicable screaming and calling out the member’s name similar posts were also posted in the fan community.

– Cheongnyeo fuck you.

-World Class came

-Oh I just changed the key but the atmosphere changed.

It wasn’t just the height that changed.

The nuance has changed.

Mirinae's debut song 'high up' was a song containing the metaphor of a caterpillar caught in a spider's web being caught in a cocoon hardening and eventually escaping as a butterfly.

In part it seems to have a slightly retro and sad taste but its sophisticated and rhythmical taste fits the recent trend and was a box office success.

It was a flawless debut song with intentional emotions here and there in a song that stood out as a rookie… but it also meant that the color was that strong.

This is because the metaphor itself meant to soar by shaking off the public controversy and noise caused by Season 4 of Azusa.

And established idols who already had a history of doing this did not fall into this trap.

This means that their unique sensibility was not clumsily chosen for this cover stage.

-Tear off the skin

Take off take off take off

I'm taking off right now

It was just powerful.

"Wow."

There was no stiffness that inevitably comes out as is usually the case with debut songs by rookies. Instead the expressive power that comes from leisure was maximized.

Moreover the choreographic angle established by Cheongryeo prevented this leisure from being seen as wantonness.

As a result the stage became so intense that it felt like it was going to eat you up and it had a different feel from the original song.

In short it has become a good example of the ‘powerful and talented concept’ that is loved by the global KPOP fandom.

Moreover since they were not originally in the same group the atmosphere of not wanting to give in to anyone maximized this.

Especially the refrain.

-You shout high up

(high-up up up up)

Go further and higher

“Hey!”

It was a rush.

The formation led by Cheongryeo was elegant and had exquisite control of strength and weakness attracting attention.

The rule of choreography that if the person standing in the middle controls it well the overall quality increases was faithfully followed.

Some people who skimmed through episode 3 as soon as it was uploaded and pulled out the performance scenes are probably already endlessly pulling out GIF files.

‘Ah it’s confirmed that there is no commercial morality!’

Cheongryeo’s fans couldn’t help but smile even as they imagined an aggro-tangled future. It was the magic of the stage.

The lyrics ‘I will soar’ were so full of spirit that it sounded like they were going to destroy everything and use it as a base.

-high up!

And the second verse.

This was the part where a dramatic melody suddenly came in and the vocal capabilities were emphasized.

Of course Park Moon-dae was in charge.

And this was originally the part played by Mirinae's number one center.

'She dances well too.'

Cheongryeo's fan thought for a moment about the incredible all-purpose hexagonal character who was number one in season 4 and then reflexively felt a strange sense of anxiety when he saw Park Moon-dae on the screen.

Park Moon-dae has now become a fairly good dancer but many non-fans still have doubts about his dancing.

…The 'POP☆CON' when 〈Azusa〉 first appeared was so strong.

"Hmm."

But that worry ended up being just a guess.

-Pain and wounds

I can never stop

〈THE WAY OUT〉

Can't let us down

"oh."

This is because Park Moon-dae's dance was sticky.

The feelings I felt when I bent down and drew were unusual.

'Are you good at it?'

The freshness was even greater because there were not many cases where the center was in the middle of such full-scale choreography in Testa's title song formation.

Cheongryeo's fan nodded perhaps wondering if it was a shame to be in a group with so many people who were good at dancing.

'But what's wrong with the dance line here… '

Doesn't he look like our child?

However before Cheongryeo's fans felt that strange sense of déjà vu the song caught their attention first.

-We gonna fly high!

Against these chains

Say goodbye

It was obviously post-edited but it had a more dramatic development than the original song.

"Wow."

The difference between the balance members and the vocal specialized members was felt to be significant.

'You're really good at it.'

Cheongryeo's fan looked at the screen again and suddenly felt a strange attraction to Park Moon-dae's shiny young face.

And at the same time anger rose up.

It was because of the shabby guy that reminded me of him.

‘Considering that the kids must have had a hard time because that incompetent bastard was crushing his butt…!’

That bastard didn’t have any talent so he was busy storing things up!

‘Knock off the all-fan policy! ‘I should have cursed him a long time ago and fixed his head!’

Cheongryeo’s fan gritted his teeth remembering the overseas fans who still leave comments like ‘V-Tik has 5 peopleㅠㅠ’…

Anyway the stage I was watching was mesmerizing so my anger subsided quickly.

“phew.”

I was happy because it had been so long since Cheongryeo performed such a typical conceptual rookie idol song.

-We gonna find

〈THE WAY OUT〉

After her idol practically flew across the stage the song ended with Park Moon-dae briefly taking center stage for the final chorus.

“hmm.”

Considering the distribution of ability points I thought he should have been given a green light but Park Moon-dae was still quite impressive so the fan decided not to complain.

Of course it was possible to appreciate it because there was enough audience content.

“It’s fun…”

Cheongryeo’s fan was satisfied by saving the photos and GIFs of Cheongryeo while lying on the bed. It’s been a long time since we had this kind of meal without any sense of distance.

And I secretly saved a few of Park Mun-dae’s too.

‘Well it’s cute.’

The fan ended the day satisfactorily guessing things like ‘He seems to be close with the kids so he might sign with LeTi after the tester.’

And when the behind-the-scenes video was uploaded a few days later he was proud to see Cheongryeo teaching Park Moon-dae the moves and said ‘As expected my eyes weren’t wrong.’

* * *

-Mundae when did you become a dance lineist without your sister’s knowledge? As expected you’re a genius dog with an IQ of 300.

-I recommend the best Husky (Park Moon-dae GIF file of the chorus choreography scene)

-Park Moon-dae’s ability to digest concepts is truly unrivaled. It is rare to find a performer who can show accurate expression no matter where they are placed. And Park Moon-dae is definitely one of those few. (picture)

-Hey it’s not like he won first place in season 3 for nothing. The winners from the show’s heyday are different haha.

‘The reaction is okay.’

I nodded while monitoring the reaction of the first public performance.

Because it was a song from a rookie group promoted by T1 there were no comments like ‘Why did you choose a junior’s song?’

‘No matter who sees it it’s the production team’s influence.’

Moreover on the contrary there were not as many stories as expected about ‘T1 pushing Mirinae too much’.

‘Because the stage reviews are so good.’

Once the results were good and satisfactory the tendency to justify detailed processes was inevitable.

However because they had so many unrelated people grouped together to perform on stage there was a lot of fighting over who did better.

Of course usually the most popular guy wins or something like that.

– Look at Shin Cheong-ryeo’s face. It’s already been 10 years. I’d believe it if you said she debuted yesterday.

-Cheongryeo is still Gatgi

He’s an old man at that age.

You don’t have a good face ㅠ You’re an old idol… I feel bad. Fighting!

-Cheongryeo is a millennium stone

‘I don’t know for a thousand years but I might be an idol for fifty years… ’

I hesitantly took down the SNS page.

This time… I hate to admit it but the ‘most popular guy’ had the biggest role on stage so I have nothing to comment on.

‘Anyway it was successful.’

It is said that not only domestically but also separately uploaded WeTube videos are gaining views at an alarming rate.

The entertainment show will be popular Mirinae's reputation will be raised and the company will be delighted.

'Actually we didn't lose anything either.'

As the overseas awareness of this entertainment show has steadily increased it has also helped to increase the overseas awareness of Testa members who were well-received as mentors in the beginning.

'The special performance I appeared on this time was also very well received.'

And since Sun Ah-hyun is next she will probably continue this momentum.

Younglin was also in the lineup there.

Although not as good as Cheongryeo Sun Ah-hyun will also benefit from synergy since she has good overseas recognition.

Moreover the two are so far apart in age that there is no risk of unnecessary romance rumors.

'It was a mixed group song.'

From what I heard they covered a mixed unit song from a popular agency that was quite popular overseas.

I know because I tried it on an impromptu stage once while on tour. It is a famous song and the atmosphere suits Sun Ah-hyun well so it will come out well.

At that moment the person who was monitoring my performance next to me asked me if the video was over.

"It's radish. "You did a really great job…!"

“Are you okay with dancing?”

“Ugh! “Wow I like your strength!”

Oh I guess you’re sure.

“thanks. “I think you’ll do well too.”

“Is that so?”

Sun Ah-hyun laughed. I think I did a pretty good job.

‘As expected not changing was the right answer.’

Even if I don’t look at it I think I did well but I’ll have to monitor it next week.

While thinking that I turned off the smartphone I was looking at.

However contrary to expectations the process to get there was not as smooth as expected.

A few days later a second special stage trailer was uploaded.

[Post posted on Coolit Choi Ki-woon Inheart’s private account.jpg]

[Choi Gi-woon’s scaffolding is all taken away]

This is because the secret account of an unknown kid who performed this mixed unit song with Sun Ah-hyun was leaked to the world.

‘Honestly he was someone I didn’t even think about considering only Youngrin in the lineup.’

To be honest up to this point it was none of our business. Wouldn’t it be beneficial if he received less camera time because of the controversy?

The problem is that without fail people who use attention methods have begun to appear.

-Isn't this the story of Sun Ah-hyun? (capture)

-Isn't the timing perfect? It seems like a shooting day.

'…It's almost time for the cooldown time to come back.'

This meant that the time for pest extermination had arrived.

Chapter 218

In fact what was revealed in the robber's private account was an obvious repertoire.

[Yeah I'm so fucking bored]

[When will it be done? (flaming emoticon)]

[I'm dying of annoyance with these things… Hugh Starr's life and the weight of the crown]

This means that it is filled with lamentations and curses about their work like an office worker cursing his or her job.

Still if it had ended with him swearing at the company it would have ended with just 'getting a little upset' but this guy freely criticized his colleagues and even his fans.

Naturally the Internet went crazy.

-Resign you crazy bastard.

-LOL I'm sorry I foolishly spent all my time on you without realizing it was such a bother. Now live comfortably as a godbanin.

-Isn't it wrong to leak someone else's private account? It's crazy as if everyone has never cursed twice while working. Yes swearing at celebrities is fun isn't it?

Are you a party? I'm going to retire by the time I leave a comment.

-I don't think that momentary emotion is everything about the stone. Couldn't I have been more careful? My head hurts so much…

-He had an attitude like X I knew it would be like this haha.

Everything from his past actions to his verbal mistakes were brought up and combined with posts on social media creating all kinds of speculations and suspicions.

-This seems to be a reference to the fans who came to the radio when they saw this. At that time the radio made them feel uncomfortable (video link)

-Shouldn't we check out the kids of the same age who are close to this person? hmm…

-The life of a star is so crazy haha. It's the day after the fansign. Wow. (Schedule capture)

Well half of it might have been speculation but people excitedly began to gather all kinds of details as if they couldn't miss out on the once-ignited fun.

Meanwhile Sun Ah-hyeon was also pointed out.

[Club Jukdol is acting like he's being nice again haha Was the water yesterday so good?]

When I checked the capture it turned out that this post was posted on the day I filmed a special stage with Sun Ah-hyun.

And it seems that Sun Ah-hyun was immediately singled out for the keywords 'male' 'overlapping schedules' and 'pretending to be nice'.

-Honestly if you subtract all the cases there is only one left.

-This is so blatantly ㅅㅇㅎ? LOL. The schedule is perfect ㅅㅇㅎ. There isn't even a schedule the day before the shoot. It's creepy.

-First of all I'm putting it in neutral gear but honestly it's a bit harsh. I've always managed my image too much that pretense…

Since Sun Ah-hyun has a very gentle image there was a small portion of public opinion that doubted it by saying 'It can't be real.'

In addition I've seen some posts being made about it almost as if it's a fait accompli so I'm guessing this is intentional.

-Ah stuttering now you know that women are crazy you poor losers ㅠㅠ

-It exploded. It exploded. Whoever has more information please bring it quickly and spray it haha.

-Whew I'm so happy that I can finally get rid of the gloomy horse disease (applause emoticon)

'These are the bastards that have been around since Azusa.'

Those bastards who seem to have staked their lives on belittling or putting down Sun Ah-hyun.

Most of them left after <Azusa> ended or switched as soon as a new survival program of interest started but it seems that some are still left.

'Others of course have persistent antis… but the ones that are attached to Sun Ah-hyun have a different vibe.'

It wasn't just 'I want her to fail' there were a lot of bastards who were obsessed with ruining Sun Ah-hyun's image and destroying her spirit.

As Sun Ah-hyun receives counseling her attitude at public appearances becomes less passive so it seems even more damning.

'What's the point in guessing what crazy people think?'

The answer was to file a complaint but it would be better to resolve the matter quickly once it has occurred.

I rubbed my chin with my hand.

'…It shouldn't be difficult to organize.'

If we just leave out evidence that contradicts the 'circumstantial suspicion' these guys are talking about it will clear up the public opinion of fans.

Right now Sun Ah-hyun's fans are fiercely beating up public opinion in places that are not under the water and cannot be touched.

-LOL It's such bullshit that it's embarrassing. A club for a girl who knits and embroiders with a scrubber. LOL.

-Wow there are a lot of complaints. I'm following the PDF. Get ready to meet the legal team of a large company~

-Ahyun is a girl who doesn't have any social ties outside of the group so this is crazy???

-Oh why don't you go to the club? My kid is a professional kid who doesn't have a controversial schedule and punk attitude that deceives fans. Haha.

I really liked how they worked to divide public opinion so that there would be no problem even if they actually went to the club. Of course there's no way someone like Sun Ah-hyun could be a club killer.

Here for defense there are a lot of things to post as evidence such as news about moving at the time roommate content etc.

It's before there's a lot of talk so if you post something within today it will be sorted out right away.

However Sun Ah-hyun's mental state is something to consider.

'There is a possibility of being scared or panicking.'

Due to Seon Ah-hyun's personality she won't even try to rest properly so it's even possible that the counseling she's received so far will go to waste.

‘…It might be worth checking out the next activity.’

My temples are already throbbing.

After all it would be right to proceed quickly and finish it at a level that doesn’t bother Sun Ah-hyun’s eyes.

I immediately called the company and tried to control the timing of content release.

But inevitably a problem arose there.

“Ahyeon made unnecessary noises while filming. Wouldn’t it be better to just reveal it now?… Ah it’s not finished yet. Then even if it means spending a little more money we should push it to be completed by midnight…”

“Mumundaeya?”

“…!”

Of course Sun Ah-hyun came to the veranda to look for me.

This was the downside of camp life. Damn it.

* * *

“I thought it would be good to keep this next to the bed…”

“Um okay.”

The reason Sun Ah-hyun came to see me was to deal with the interior design of the room. I took the dog doll that Sun Ah-hyun gave me and put it aside.

‘…Should I have taken more into consideration that this guy was my roommate?’

Anyway there was nothing I could do since I had already heard the story.

‘Seon Ah-hyun is the type of person who thinks a lot.’

If you don’t hear the exact facts there is a high chance that you will assume a worse situation.

‘Turn lightly.’

I spoke in a tone as comfortable as possible to Seon Ah-hyun who was stiff.

“It’s no big deal. “Some idol is getting criticized and since it has nothing to do with you I thought it would be better to prevent them from getting involved as a precaution.”

“I see…”

“okay.”

“okay.”

Sun Ah-hyeon nodded her head quietly.

‘I don’t think it will go on like this.’

“By the way.”

I thought so.

“What kind of story is this…? Just because my story is coming out…”

Did you hear that far?

Anyway don’t hesitate and speak lightly.

“It’s nonsense. “I was wondering if you were going to a club.”

“Big club??”

“uh. Everyone doesn’t believe it but they are saying that the dates are similar. So I wanted to show you that you did something else that day.”

“Ah aha…”

Seon Ah-hyun calmly agreed this time too.

‘Is it over?’

I thought it would be okay to just stop using my smartphone for a few days so I wouldn’t have to look for strange noises.

“It’s not like it’s a big deal so you don’t have to look for it.”

However Sun Ah-hyun’s words did not end with an agreement.

“Over there. “So you’ve searched all of the gates…?”

If I said I didn’t look for it here it would sound like the situation has grown to the point where I’m seeing this nonsense everywhere.

I shrugged.

“Well while monitoring there are times when I go a little deeper.”

“Hmm.”

And Sun Ah-hyun paused as if she was watching but eventually continued talking again.

“You know what?”

“uh.”

Sun Ah-hyun clenched her hands.

“Ah from now on can’t we just stop looking for people who say things like that?”

“…!”

“It’s so hard. Those words… if you see them often they don’t become dull they become more difficult…”

“…hmm.”

I’m a little embarrassed. I never thought I would hear something like this not even during a lull but in a situation where I can immediately benefit.

I crossed my arms.

“Wouldn’t you feel better if you responded quickly?”

“It’s okay.”

Sun Ah-hyeon spoke quite firmly.

“That’s not true and not everyone believes that…!”

“…!”

“Ho if there are more people who believe that way I think it would be okay to talk about it then.”

“…”

“So… I hope you don’t worry or care too much.”

It was an unbelievable statement coming from Sun Ah-hyun who had said in “Azusa” that “I’m used to it because I’ve seen so much criticism.”

Is this where the power of steadily receiving counseling comes from?

‘Amazing.’

Thanks to that after keeping my mouth shut for a moment Sun Ah-hyun was the first to open her mouth.

“I… I feel like I get anxious when I look for a car.”

“Is that so?”

“Ugh. I didn’t do it before but somehow everyone seems to believe that… I’m worried that no one will listen to my explanation…”

“…”

Is this an experience?

“I was worried that even if the explanation came through it would become a problem again later and cause a big problem… I kept checking and worrying.”

I think the experience is correct.

‘Is it a peer relationship problem?’

I listened silently. Sun Ah-hyeon swallowed her saliva.

“Ha but the likelihood of something like that actually happening is very low right…?”

“that’s right.”

“Uh huh!”

Sun Ah-hyun’s expression became relaxed at the immediate answer.

“That’s why I don’t want you to worry too much about your doorstep!”

“…”

Wow. I feel like I should be a bit sarcastic when I’m told to restrain myself even when I’m helping but I don’t even feel like it because it’s such a straightforward argument.

‘Are you worried or something?’

I uncrossed my arms and chuckled.

“Well I don’t look at it that much these days. “This time I did it because I happened to see it.”

Still after hearing similar words from Cha Yu-jin last time I stopped trying not to miss every single thing.

Sun Ah-hyun’s face brightened slightly.

“I see!”

“uh. And actually this is kind of fun.”

“…! “Are you having fun…?”

“Not just looking. “It tastes so good when it’s completely swept away.”

“Ah aha.”

Sun Ah-hyun shook her head intently. My pupils seem to be shaking but I guess it’s just my mood.

“Oh okay. “If it’s a college entrance exam…”

“okay. “I’ll do it in moderation.”

“Ugh.”

In fact Sun Ah-hyun became calmer after hearing that her stress was relieved.

‘Once we became roommates we started talking about all kinds of things.’

And only then did the standard response come out.

“And… Mundae. “Thank you so much for taking care of these things.”

I shrugged.

“Well this time I knew it anyway so I just responded.”

“Oh okay… but! If other people are having a hard time it’s okay if you don’t do it…”

“No no one else will.”

“Huh?”

There’s something I’ve been thinking about ever since I received the reply ‘I think it will take some more time to edit.’

“You and I do it.”

“Uh…?”

And that means that on that evening when my schedule was empty I diligently spent four or five hours glued to my laptop.

Thanks to this I was able to upload the content as scheduled at midnight.

Of course it was not the official content I discussed with the company earlier.

* * *

Fans felt that Testa used his SNS account effectively.

Photos and recent updates were uploaded almost every day and occasionally members would bicker or compete in uploading cute scenes.

But it wasn't that common for a video to be uploaded.

It was also the first time since the surprise release of a fan song that a fairly long video rather than a short video was uploaded.

-Video length 6 minutes and 27 seconds?

-Who is this filial son?

– Hahahahaha I don't know just click on it.

People quickly clicked on the video of the text which did not express anything in particular but simply said 'Good night'.

"…!"

And I reflexively smiled broadly at the scene that came out.

-Hull Vlog

-I love you Heo Eok

What was played was a crude video of the members sitting freely in an unfamiliar living room!

There were even small subtitles included.

[Popcorn Lover Cha Yu-jin]

[Yum]

Instead of roommate content or moving content that did not fit the schedule Park Moon-dae quickly edited and uploaded personal photos he had taken.

He also didn't forget to aim at deliberately using a 90's film camera style filter to make the shooting date and time appear.

[19:11:21]

[Today's evening duty]

[Seon Ah-hyun is not allowed to approach the fire]

In the dark yet warm old colors.

The members chatted while eating dinner with the kitchen in the background where their belongings had not yet been completely unpacked.

Also things like playing games among themselves looking at the camera saying V or saying hello were edited out briefly.

[Pajamas were comfortable]

[Good night!]

Even the sight of him brushing his teeth or going to sleep.

The languid BGM created a comfortable atmosphere.

The emotion which felt quite raw even without the filter was somehow different from the official video content.

-So cute

-The kids are still wearing the animal pajamas they wore when they debuted I love them

People enjoyed this friendly content that felt a bit personal.

Of course the effect of the imposition was steadily achieved.

-That's not the dormitory over there.

-What did you go to MT for??

-Awesome they must have really moved!!

-So is this a roommate game? It's so tantalizing to reveal it so quickly.

-Is this really a photo of the door? (Capture of Moondae cut seen by turning the camera)

-Please let's be Mundaeng Chagoyoung's roommate one more time. It's my dream.

It also kept expectations alive with the trailer feel of two content directors and roommate games that have not been released yet.

Of course the most important goal was also immediately achieved.

[Ahyeon's embroidery is completed]

Since not a single member appeared on screen in all time zones Sun Ah-hyun's innocence was naturally proven.

Because it was raining intermittently there was no way I could go to the club and back in 30 minutes.

-ㅅㅇㅎ What happened to the club? ㅠㅠ I think that's right?

Yes at that time he was doing a Harley gun to commemorate the move to his dorm.

The doubts that had been suppressed due to the fans' push were met once again and subsided.

-Smart bastard

-Haha Gommer designed it?

-Are you covering up the club guy? I didn't learn anything from Piktik.

It was a time when I realized that it was no longer a common idea behind the scenes and was struggling in a meaningless manner.

Once again a wave came to push away the useless gossip.

-Hey there's something on WeTube too.

-What day is today?

-I finished sleeping.

An hour after the Vlog was released.

Around 1 a.m. a notification appeared on T1 Star's official WeTube channel.

[TeSTAR 'Enchanted?' [Concept Film]

In the black thumbnail Ryu Cheong-woo wearing an outfit somewhere between the two music videos "Traveling" and "Spring Out" was sitting with pine trees in the background.

-omg

It was a concept film to connect the worldview that Testa had prepared to conclude this activity.

What was originally supposed to be released three days later was brought out by Park Moon-dae through a group meeting. This was possible because the editing had already been completed.

It was a blatant volume offensive.

Thanks to this the fans' reaction was like this.

-Suddenly?

-I don’t know what it is but thank you guys.

-Oh it’s a good restaurant. They serve a lot of food too.

The moment when fans excited by the outpouring of content click on the video in a hurry.

“…!”

The atmosphere of the video instantly engulfed the screen causing their lightly heated hearts to sink.

Chapter 219

The video started with Liu Chengwu sitting motionless under a pine tree.

[…]

The pine forest in the background was a clear night. The moment when the bright blue eye light disappears beneath the eyelids.

Peeing-

The screen flickered merging the past and future as if reminiscing.

A dazzling day. It was the moment when Ryu Cheong-wu who had sent the arrow retracted the bow with a smile.

Suddenly the cut changed to an expressionless Liu Chengwu holding a black musket and bullets came out from the muzzle.

bang!

And the scene where the fired bullet was slowly reflected suddenly changed to a cut of a gold coin of similar size bouncing in front of Lee Se-jin's face.

Tiding-

And Lee Se-jin's hand which was flicking the gold coin was suddenly transformed into a cut of the fancy hand movements used to dance in the palace.

Swish.

Next the five-colored fabric fluttering in the air turned into a faded string and Park Mun-dae who was tying the string like a bracelet was revealed.

Cuts that looked like something out of a music video were pieced together like a stream of consciousness and passed across the screen.

The melody of the train arranged in a slow classical style was used as BGM.

-??? what

-I think it was taken during a walk-in and a shoot-out.

-Awaiting interpretation

Although people were confused by the unexpected video they primarily enjoyed the excellent visual beauty and the members' new cuts.

It should have looked like a collection of B cuts but a hint of symbolism was felt through the exquisite arrangement of the cuts.

And as things progressed a little further some people noticed the composition.

-These teasers are posted in reverse order.

Huh

Crazy Sooreum

That's right.

The members' cuts appeared backwards from the order in which each solo song appeared in the teaser.

It wasn't just once either.

When the cut of Sun Ah-hyeon reaching out to the surface of the water which appeared at the very beginning of the teaser appeared it changed into a cut of Ryu Cheong-woo spinning the musket and snatching it away.

The beginning and the end are connected.

The cuts continued as if the reminiscence was continuing.

Whi profit!

Over and over again.

Faster and with a tremendous sense of speed.

The artistic cuts that were running like a chase stopped as suddenly as they had started.

Click.

The moment when Cha Yu-jin held the hand of Ryu Cheong-woo who was trapped and lifted him up and a close-up of the citizenship application form in his hand was shown.

[Ding-.]

Suddenly the cut was fixed.

And instead the face of Bae Se-jin who was standing behind Cha Yu-jin suddenly appeared.

With relaxed fixed close-ups like in a movie.

[…]

That face revealing thoughts seemed to indicate who the subject of the reminiscence expressed in the numerous cuts just before was.

[Wahahahah!]

Eventually Bae Se-jin slowly moved away leaving behind the members who were excitedly running around holding citizenship applications.

The steps became faster and faster. The sound of laughter faded away.

Crash!

And soon the place where Bae Se-jin was standing changed.

It was the huge window through which he overlooked this gorgeous city in the last music video.

The vast and exotic city was still the same.

However there was a document attached to the window that was not shown in detail in the previous music video.

-Guidelines for responding to requests for citizenship certificates (Yokai)

On top of the crumpled document were numerous red circles indicating 'active refusal in case of emergency.'…

Meaning that the citizenship certificate was a useless bait.

[after.]

Bae Se-jin sighed and opened the document.

Then with great hesitation I looked at the documents and out the window. In a corner outside the window the still excited members briefly passed by…

So his conflict did not last long.

[…]

The theme melody of 'Spring out' was played by a single string instrument.

Bae Se-jin slowly threw the documents on the floor. Then he took an old cloth out of his pocket and began to cover his eyes.

Just like when traveling.

A natural and clear voice narration flowed above it.

[If I were born again]

[I want to be born as a person like you.]

Bae Se-jin on the screen stretched out her hand toward the window without hesitation with her eyes closed.

Slow close-ups and increasingly heightened music.

And the moment my hand touches it.

Tuk.

The music was distorted and the vision was reversed.

Shhh.

Darkness and white noise.

And the screen came back to life.

Instead of Bae Se-jin the black-haired Park Moon-dae stood in his school uniform and took his hand away from the window.

It was school.

He turned around looked at the camera and smiled.

The sunset was setting.

[…]

It was a very familiar scene.

And then I heard a very familiar chime sound.

♬♪♩♪- ♬♪♬♪- ♪♩-

Magical boy's melody.

With that the screen disappeared as if melting.

[Still enchanted]

[See you in that dream]

Leaving only the text behind.

That's how the video ended.

-??????

-What did I just see?

Of course after that Testa's fandom was completely covered by a huge worldview connection story for about three days.

* * *

"That's great."

Releasing personal daily life and official worldview videos in succession was also extremely effective. I skimmed through social media posts full of all kinds of theories.

Let's see there are all sorts of stories coming out.

-The taste of a parallel world

-I think it has a kind of Inception-like structure. A dream within a dream? It probably looks like a plane from “Training Train” “Magical Boy” “Baramy”)

-If you think about it didn’t all the music video scenes strangely overlap during the picnic? Was that really a piece of cake…?

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠMy kids wanted to be people not monsters. But since they were originally monsters they kept showing off their supernatural powers.

-Do you think the worldview will return with the next album Magical Boy? (Kimchi soup drinking

Perhaps because it was made so meaningfully people seemed to be more excited to be able to talk about it in various aspects starting with Bae Se-jin’s role and up to the order of the worldview.

‘I’m glad it seems like it’s fun but… ’

Of course there are many fans who don’t really like the worldview itself. These people must have been a bit indifferent these past few days.

-Guys let’s not freak out.

-It’s gone too far but how far are you planning on taking it?

-Just put on a suit and do a sexy concept. If you T1 bastards play around with the world view it’s endless.

-I thought it was a group with a lot of concepts but I was a little tired because the scale was so big.

-I need to see Moon Dae brush his teeth one more time.

So for this purpose moving and roommate game content will be released soon. Then within a few days the fan community will run smoothly.

‘I don’t think there’s any more story to tell about Sun Ah-hyun.’

If you do this I think you will kill two birds with one stone.

I shrugged my shoulders checked the inside of the car and immediately took down the tab on my smartphone.

‘Well I guess I’ll stop watching soon.’

I’ve already told you something so I’m consciously planning to not watch any stories being talked about under the water for a while.

…In fact when we had a short meeting to solve the contents of this world view a little faster a related story came up.

– So… I decided not to use the Internet much from now on…!

-good job!

-okay. I was a little worried because it seemed like Mundae was visiting too often.

-I heard that limiting the time you use electronic devices is good for your health. Great choice!

Raebin Kim seemed to have misunderstood it a bit… Anyway since it was like this even Keun Sejin just shrugged his shoulders with an expression like ‘what can I do?’

I had no idea that these people were so unanimously concerned about my mental health.

‘If anyone sees him they’ll think he’s a reclusive loner who’s addicted to the Internet to a dangerous level.’

Anyway that means I had no choice but to nod in the end.

‘I could live by watching animal videos on WeTube for a few days.’

I thought to myself and logged onto WeTube.

Because they did not leave viewing records and refused to collect related information no algorithm was created. I was thinking of just sorting them by popularity and seeing what they were like.

…But somehow this video was ranked 5th most popular in real time.

[Testa's big picture? Discovering the route that puts Americans in K-pop ant hell!]

…The thumbnail says 'Azusa?' I saw Westerners holding their heads with speech bubbles saying 'What is a worldview?'

The aggro of Gukbong was so overflowing that I was almost suffocating.

However looking at the YouTuber's name I've seen him a few times.

'The content itself was composed quite well.'

You can roughly think of him as someone who summarizes the overseas Internet in a biased way.

"…"

Then as for real-time popular videos… it doesn't really matter if you watch them right? Isn't this a thumbnail that even people who aren't interested should look at at least once?

'Looking at you it looks like you've been praising me.'

There is no need to get hit. I immediately came to a valid conclusion and clicked on the video.

Let's skip the obvious filler story that starts with 'Hello WeTube viewers'.

Let's play at 1.5x speed from the main point.

[Everyone in the last video I told you why Testa's popularity in the English and American markets has increased.]

[The interest that went from the survival audition meme to 'Idol Inc.' was linked to the number of views of the 'Spring out' music video.]

They are making a fuss because the 'reminds me of the old days' statement became a hot topic because it was combined with an East Asian meme.

[This Asian steampunk worldview thrilled the hearts of many good people. And what was thrown here is the new K-pop entertainment ＜K-NOW＞.]

[It was said that it was made by the production team of ＜Azusa＞ and it was even a self-produced entertainment show of Net Plus that was highly accessible. Naturally Americans who became interested in the Testa-Azusa line began watching this program.]

It's not like 'rumbling'. There was an influx of people who were interested in KPOP to the point where they even watched 'Azusa'.

The moment I thought it was too obvious the next sentence that was quite useful came out.

[But it doesn't end here. 〈K-NOW〉 was a bigger hit locally than expected!]

Oh this is right.

I heard that the Azusa production team's hell K-pop camp has become quite successful in the United States.

That said it did well considering it was produced by Net Plus itself so it wasn't at the level of a truly popular channel but it did become a talking point for the general public on the Internet.

Of course this YouTuber completely omitted that story.

Still the next words were quite sharp.

[The hit entertainment show attracted a wide range of public viewers and this is where the oldies who rode the Testa-Azusa line triggered by memes come into play!]

[This is because they highly recommended ＜Idol Inc.＞ and Testa to the American general public.]

“…!”

Oh this is a bit new.

‘Was there such an analysis?’

I thought it just benefited from overseas recognition through entertainment but it seems there was some movement within it as well.

[Viewers who were impressed by 〈K-NOW〉 ended up watching Testa’s music video and 〈Idol Inc.〉 and were introduced to KPOP!]

[It can be seen as a smart and influential move that not only increases the interest of existing KPOP fans but also the KPOP pie itself.]

The production team said that it was not their intention and that the company did not even take this into consideration so I will bet that the settlement will be made this quarter.

Because we haven’t even drawn a picture up to this point.

However the YouTuber seems to be completely confident in his theory.

[So what is the big picture of Testa?]

[Even just yesterday a new video of Testa’s world view was uploaded. The video connects the chronology of Testa’s activities to date.]

[Eventually there was even an indicator that their debut song ‘Magical Boy’ was receiving an influx of people!]

[※Based on video production date※]

…Is that so?

The graph attached to the video was a bit exaggerated but it sounded correct.

[And last Monday Testa wrapped up this activity and went on a break. What other moves will you surprise us with in your next album?]

[Today's video ends here.]

Hmm.

I rubbed my chin.

There is a lot of exaggeration and fuss but even if you strip it all away and look at it there is some discourse worth considering.

'The next album will be important again.'

It hasn't been like that before but this time too we should choose a song as the title that will attract attention from the fan base… and that will be popular both at home and abroad.

It's nice to grow steadily without stagnating but there's no time to catch your breath.

'Should we look at it in more detail?'

Isn't it wrong to go beyond the needs of existing fans just to create new fans? The more data the better.

So it was a moment when I reflexively opened the Internet tab and started searching in detail.

"That's radish. "Search?"

"…! "Just a little."

Sun Ah-hyeon continues speaking in a low voice.

“Oh I decided not to watch it… Oh no. If you want to see Mundae go see it. “But I don’t want you to see too much…”

“…”

“Hey I promised…”

Are you coming?

“okay.”

“Ugh!”

I turned off my smartphone. And I sighed inwardly.

‘Is there anything else to do?’

Since it will soon be a period of inactivity there is no need to keep track of the schedule. Why are my hands and feet itching?

It was then.

Grumble!

Suddenly the smartphone vibrated and a text message arrived.

“…?”

[Information on precautions for applicants for the 1st qualification examination in 202X]

Oh right.

Come to think of it I applied for this during my inactivity period.

‘I guess I’ll just take a quick look.’

I grumpily put down my smartphone.

For your information I didn't know until now that the people sitting next to me had also seen this text message.

Chapter 220

To be honest I had no great intentions in taking the qualification exam.

I just thought it wouldn't hurt to have at least a high school diploma just in case something happens.

'There's no way those people who criticize me for being a middle school graduate even though I used my brain like that in entertainment will quiet down just because I passed the qualification exam.'

So when the time came I just solved the past workbook and finished it without thinking too much like I was renewing my TOEIC exam.

I even prepared for the civil service exam after graduating from college but I thought I wouldn't be able to pass the qualification exam.

And just as I thought when I looked at the scores on the previous exam I was easily passed.

"I just need to leave quietly."

This was the conclusion I reached after covering the graded workbook.

Activities ended yesterday and it wasn't at the level of a vacation yet but it was leisurely enough that the official schedule came out every other day or two.

Yes I will have to prepare for the next album again after resting for about two weeks but this means that there will be no problem with taking the qualification exam the day after tomorrow.

I crossed my arms.

‘Let’s not make a fuss.’

There was nothing good about the news of my qualification exam being lost to public opinion.

Unexpected situations are only increasing ranging from unnecessary public sympathy to the worst case where a stalker becomes attached and causes a nuisance in the exam room.

Since monitoring is already restricted wouldn’t it be just a nuisance?

‘There’s no need to tell the others.’

It’s our long-awaited day off so let’s each play on our own.

[Like these damn KPOP bands!]

“Whahahaha!”

Immediately outside the door the sound of Cha Yu-jin bursting into laughter was loud.

I think I’ve been binge-watching 〈K-NOW〉 since episode 4 and thanks to that I was able to effectively practice for a mock exam in the noise.

However I don’t know why Cha Yu-jin bursts out laughing.

‘The mood changed a bit from episode 4.’

Unlike the beginning where it felt like ‘troublesome non-responsive fanatics with a KPOP hell camp’ from episode 4 onwards the story of the participants was highlighted and a consensus was formed.

[Since my parents passed away I haven’t really felt like other people ‘care’ about me.]

[I really need the prize money. For my family.]

And naturally the editing of the participants' attitudes changed to match the atmosphere.

Unlike before when I was in pain at camp and was thrown out like an extra villain by the KPOP bombing I showed that I felt a real sense of reward by completing the stage one by one.

[I don't think I've ever lived my life pushing myself 100% like this.]

[They are real. Factory-style training? Everyone tells me to eat shit! The effort is real and they train like athletes train!]

Moreover we even formed a consensus with KPOP mentors.

For example 'Park Moon-dae's' family history was also used a bit by interweaving it with the participant's story.

Oh as if the scene mentioning me was passing by I heard a sound outside the door.

[My parents passed away and I lived as a junkie who did drugs and other things but my mentor went to an audition and won.]

[This really means a lot to me.]

It was just a scene that gave tips on how to find the camera during a performance but it was well combined with the interview.

Maybe it's because overseas people haven't felt it's boring yet but it seems to be working well with the impressive new wave code so it seems to be gaining more popularity.

'I'll share some with the cast so… shall we pass on?'

Now that I think about it I've already heard that season 2 production has been confirmed.

'I hope there will be a lot of inflow for the next album.'

I grumpily opened the door and came out. Cha Yu-jin immediately turns her head flashes her eyes and shouts.

“brother! “My brother is an amazing wonderful person!”

“Oh thank you.”

He looks like he’s going to shout ‘love yourself’ at any moment. He is indeed American.

I went to the kitchen poured some water and asked.

“Has everyone gone out?”

“I don’t know! “I’m awake now!”

It’s 2 PM and I’m really proud to say this.

Well during my active days I slept for three to four hours so even if I sleep for twelve hours for a few days I’m considered lazy.

“Hyung let’s play games!”

“Later.”

“Do it now!”

“You saw something. “You have to report everything.”

“aha.”

One term has passed. There’s a half chance that I’ll forget that I said let’s play a game while watching that entertainment show.

I sat down at the table and drank water slowly. After a while Bae Se-jin quietly came out from the next room.

“Did you still sleep? “So did I!”

“Oh no I just read a book.”

“no way.”

Bae Se-jin looked at ease for the first time in a while.

After being in the same room as Big Sejin I sneaked out to the living room and saw him sitting in the corner but I guess he’s not in the room right now.

‘Now that I think about it Sun Ah-hyun wasn’t in the room either.’

Even if Keun Se-jin and Ryu Cheong-woo are like that Kim Rae-bin and Sun Ah-hyun who don’t go out often also went out so it was indeed an inactive period.

“…excuse me.”

“yes. Would you like some water?”

“uh? Uh…”

I gave water to Bae Se-jin who walked into the kitchen.

Bae Se-jin was holding a glass of water in his hand with a puzzled look on his face and then asked without even drinking it.

“…Don’t you have anything to say?”

“…? “Not really.”

I guess I wasn’t expecting an offer to change rooms.

Sorry but favors end with water.

“Um okay.”

Bae Se-jin seemed to be twitching his eyebrows but he calmly drank some water and went back to his room without saying anything.

‘What is it?’

There was a hint that he had something to say but looking at the atmosphere it didn’t seem serious so I passed it on.

‘If you’re scared you’ll say it yourself.’

It’s the beginning of my inactivity period so let’s get some rest.

I shrugged and put away my water cup. Since I had nothing else to do I thought I would solve the problem one more time.

“brother! “I saw it all!”

…And after a while I played a few games with Cha Yu-jin who hadn’t forgotten the game even after watching the entertainment show.

To be honest I was bored because I had nothing else to do so it was worth the hassle.

[How about playing Hover Knight? Last time my friend said it was fun!]

“Do whatever you want.”

When I think back I shouldn’t have skipped it over like this.

Because two mornings later I received something I never imagined.

* * *

The morning of the day I take the qualification exam.

I set the alarm to vibrate just so I could wake up.

‘Everyone is probably sleeping.’

I quietly got out of bed and went to the bathroom to wash my face.

But when I came out of the bathroom I saw that the bed on the other side was empty.

'…?'

Where did Sun Ah-hyun go?

'Did I use the bathroom here and go out to the living room?'

Thinking the best guess I put on my street clothes and carefully opened the door.

The first thing I felt was… the smell. Quite a savory smell of food.

And then a loud voice was heard.

"Park Moon-dae came out!"

"…?!"

When I looked up I saw that the bright living room and kitchen were filled with my housemates.

'what's this.'

Just as I was trying to think about what day it was today Keun Se-jin approached me and slapped his palm.

"Oh my gosh I heard you're taking an exam today!"

"…!!"

Big Sejin was grinning. And when I look around other guys are no different.

It means that knowing everything is a given.

“How did you know?”

Big Sejin shook his head with exaggerated pity.

“Mundae let’s not forget that we live in a group… The smartphone screen you see… you can clearly see the people next to you.”

“…!!”

“How can you go through such a serious situation? “Have you not even said a word to the members? Isn’t that too heartless?”

“It’s not a college entrance exam so there’s no need to say it…”

“Such sad words!”

“that’s right! “I’m sorry!”

“…”

These guys are deliberately pretending to be sad. Did you have fun?

The only reasonable explanation came from Ryu Cheong-wu.

“Since everyone has time and is staying at the dorm anyway… I thought it would be nice to at least give them a surprise send-off. haha.”

“…yes.”

This… was a bit unexpected. You don’t have to do that.

“Considering my brother’s wish to take the test quietly we decided to refrain from seeing him off at the test site.”

That is an accurate judgment.

But it didn’t end here.

“So… we made this together.”

Sun Ah-hyeon who was standing last quickly moved the ladle and set the dishes on the table.

What was inside was… chicken porridge.

“…”

“I want to make chicken soup! But everyone was against it!”

“I thought it would be good to be familiar with it since it’s before the poetry exam.”

“Chicken soup is delicious…”

The burnt chicken soup that looks like it came straight from hell comes to mind.

It’s almost unbelievable that it evolved into this perfect chicken porridge through two processes.

“Ahyeon worked hard… and Sejin I mean Bae Sejin did a lot. “Out of all of us the only ones who know how to cook are Raevin and Sejin.”

“It seemed like Bae Se-jin definitely had more knowledge than me!”

“Not to that extent.”

Bae Se-jin cleared his throat. okay. Raebin Kim and you are both having a hard time.

‘You managed to make it.’

I was speechless as I looked at the delicious looking chicken porridge that seemed to have been made with a lot of care.

I’m a bit… embarrassed but I also feel sorry.

“How are you Mundae? I’m so thankful that I’m speechless.” “I know everything enjoy it~”

Excellent. The feeling of regret disappears.

“What did you do?”

“Hey we all went grocery shopping together~ If you order delivery you’ll get caught. “Where could the ingredients have fallen from thin air?”

That’s why everyone was suddenly absent yesterday. I think they managed to put it in the refrigerator without being noticed.

“How do you understand?”

I sighed and eventually smiled bitterly.

“Okay thank you.”

“…!”

“Thank you everyone.”

“Thank you.”

“Eat quickly!”

Anyway I ended up sitting among these grinning guys and eating chicken porridge.

“…Does it taste good?”

“yes. “It’s delicious.”

I thought you were pretending.

However I didn’t know what else I would hear if I left it so I cleaned it out.

…It was also something I was thankful for.

“Would you like another bowl?”

“it’s okay. “Big Sejin don’t take pictures.”

“Huh? Don’t you want to share this important moment with your Moon University fans? The members worked so hard on cooking～”

“…”

Yes do whatever you want.

It’s not like they’re giving notice right now that they’re taking the qualification exam but it would be okay for Park Moon-dae to post later that he got breakfast.

“Do you want to pack the rest for lunch?”

“Um okay. thank you.”

Actually I roughly prepared something to eat for lunch yesterday… but I guess I can eat that when I get back.

I left the dormitory at a reasonable time carrying a thermal container filled with chicken porridge and seeing the others off.

“Get full marks～”

“Eat something delicious for dinner!”

I felt strange.

‘Even when I took the college entrance exam I brought a packed lunch with me.’

I never thought I'd be eating something like this while taking the GED in someone else's body.

'…I'll do well on the test.'

I think it would be really funny if I didn't pass like this so it's unlikely to happen but I'll have to pay more attention.

After putting on the mask and ball cap I went out.

The test site wasn't far and I could get there easily and quietly by taxi.

And of course no one was interested in me. If I had requested security personnel from the company I would have been criticized for interfering with the exam.

'There are more than one person dressed similar to me.'

There were so many different age groups that people wearing normal clothes like me were buried.

Thinking that I had done well not to leak the news unnecessarily I sat down at my desk and took out a pen.

It was a test that had been a long time coming.

* * *

Inside a qualification examination center in Seoul.

As Park Moon-dae said different people of different ages were sitting at their respective desks.

However there was something that Park Moon-dae did not expect.

What's more there were people who were such huge fans that they could identify certain idols just by looking at their bones.

'Bar Park Mun-dae??'

That's right.

A test taker who was putting his bag on the seat behind Park Moon-dae's desk froze when he saw a familiar lantern in front of him.

That skeleton that hairline on the back of the neck.

All of the behind-the-scenes images of Park Moon-dae's fancams that I had looked up countless times were reflexively overlapped.

And then an instinct-level realization hit me in the head!

'Wait a minute I'm inactive now… And I dropped out of high school!
'Couldn't you come to take the test??'

Thoughts came flooding in like a bombardment. Of course the test taker's ego was also screaming that it was an absurd delusion.

"…"

However after a while the test taker who was freed from the whirlpool of all kinds of thoughts had a hard time thinking.

'You have to be careful!'

The possibility of that happening is extremely slim but even if Park Moon-dae is right it's rude and even if he's not it's rude. In any case you should never interfere with the exam!

The test taker with a firm resolve carefully sat down at his desk.

And so the thrilling qualification exam began.

Chapter 221

Even as the bell rang and test papers were distributed three or four sentences appeared and disappeared simultaneously in the examinee's mind.

'Now that I think about it Mundae probably has silver hair now but black hair? what? Is it a wig? Isn't it also a literary school?'

'Even though I'm not a graduate student I feel like I'm born with a sense of wisdom when I see someone who feels so similar to me.'

'for a moment! Won't your face be visible when checking your identity!?'

'Uh oh! yes! When I turn the test papers around I look back… no. The supervisor will share it with you.'

Some of the assumptions were correct but some were incorrect.

For example Park Moon-dae used colored spray to cover up his silver hair and when checking his identity he slightly lowered his mask to show his face to the supervisor.

However he was not clearly visible to the test takers sitting behind him and because the supervisor was an older man he was unable to recognize Park Moon-dae right away and remained calm.

'Ugh!'

So the test taker in the back seat had no choice but to scream internally tormented by frustration and curiosity.

However an unexpected opportunity came soon after.

"Now please give me back the test paper."

“…!”

This is because the test paper was distributed by the person in front of you!

And the test taker… finally saw it.

‘Huh.’

The man in the front seat turned back just slightly handed me the test paper in an instant and then straightened his posture.

Moreover even though he wore a mask the test taker was confident.

Those wide horizontal eyes with clear lines!

‘Baba Parkmundae!’

Park Moon-dae was right!

The test taker received the test paper with the feeling of almost fainting.

My heart was pounding so hard that I couldn’t tell if I was receiving an album or taking a qualification exam at the fan signing event.

No I have never won a fan signing event!

“You can start solving the problems after the bell rings.”

‘Please save me.’

The test taker shouted inwardly without a subject but thanks to his extensive experience taking mock exams he opened the test paper and began to solve the problems.

However due to the shock my head turned white and I could not see anything.

Still after a while.

'…If you solve it quickly you can see Moon Dae's back that much sooner!'

A strange idea gave a wrong realization to the test taker who was unable to raise his head and had his nose buried in the test paper.

So the test taker began to solve the problem furiously. It was the moment when failing the qualification exam was one step away.

'Ugh!'

And to Park Moon-dae's surprise it wasn't just the test takers in the back seat who were aware of him in this classroom.

* * *

'It's okay.'

I finished my final elective 'Morals' and put down my pencil.

The test went smoothly without any problems.

It might have been a bit dangerous during lunch time but I ate by the window in the far staircase hallway where there were no people around.

'It was easy because it was porridge to begin with and easy to eat.'

And the most important thing is that the test itself was easier than the previous exams.

I was worried that social studies and science would only be asked in parts I had forgotten but it turned out to be unfounded.

'It's not like I didn't see it.'

I stretched a little almost confident that I would pass with ease.

“Sigh.”

I guess it was a bit bothersome to hear a sound from behind that sounded like something was unwell. I just lowered my arms.

‘The remaining time is… 10 minutes.’

And I patiently waited until the test was over.

I had already called a taxi on time for the way back so all I had to do was quickly go down and catch it.

‘That’s it.’

However the reality that came 10 minutes later was not quite as expected.

After taking my smartphone I was waiting for everyone to leave when someone in the same classroom spoke to me.

“Hey student!”

“…”

“Student by any chance… isn’t it that school? “Mundae who makes hotteok?”

I thought about it briefly here.

Will they shout ‘You’ve got the wrong person’ and run away?

However I stopped because I thought there might be more than one witness.

Moreover seeing that this woman was whispering softly and speaking softly I thought we could finish it quickly.

“yes. “I’m here to take the test.”

“oh my! I see Damn… if it’s okay can I just get one autograph? “My daughter is such a fan!”

“sure.”

After briefly signing the admission ticket I quickly tried to leave.

But it was already too late.

“Hey if it’s okay with you I’ll…”

“Oh yeah.”

“excuse me! “I’m really sorry but can I get it too?”

The few people still remaining in the classroom immediately began lining up. It was also orderly.

And no one was frightened by the current situation.

A strong hypothesis came to mind.

‘Could it be that these people were already suspicious?’

For some reason six or seven people didn’t leave class and loitered around so maybe it was because of me.

I guess I may have been too complacent in ruining Testa’s public awareness.

‘I’m breaking into a cold sweat.’

What’s most surprising is that so many people didn’t make any gestures during the test.

If even one person had made a fuss and talked about it there would have been a high probability that it would turn into a nuisance controversy.

Then I must have already escaped by lunchtime.

'…Thanks to you I enjoyed it.'

Well there's no way out. It's like covering up for my failure in prediction.

I signed without saying anything.

"thank you!"

"Wow thank you…"

After signing autographs for the crowd of people I was about to leave.

'Let's get out of here quickly before we get asked for photos.'

However as I picked up my bag I noticed that the person in the back seat was still sitting like a stone.

"…?"

Moreover he is looking at me with his eyes shining brightly without moving a single inch and when our eyes meet he opens his mouth.

That's an expression I often see at fan signing events.

"Do you need an autograph?"

"…?! yes Yes yes yes!"

It wasn't that I was overly self-conscious. It was fortunate.

"I love you."

"thank you."

I hurriedly signed the exam slip of the person sitting behind me and left.

“Enter safely!”

“Fighting activities!”

It was just a good thing that the classroom at this testing center was at the end so no one in the other testing center could see this.

I ran quickly across the crowded hallway.

‘Are you going to post a review?’

There won’t be any big problems.

Since no one bothered me I guess they’ll just pity me or scratch me.

I shrugged my shoulders and went out to the playground and immediately got into a taxi.

It was as quick as getting to the accommodation.

“Welcome~”

“Well did you have a good time?”

“huh.”

“How about eating porridge for lunch?”

“I ate well. thanks.”

And under Cha Yu-jin’s strong insistence who used my exam as an excuse I ordered and ate pig’s feet.

Thanks to this I was able to do the strange thing of hearing a toast without alcohol.

“Thank you for your hard work on taking the college exam today… Let’s recover well until our next activity and show you our best side again.”

“Of course~”

“Yeap!”

“I hope you had a good preparation period.”

“Now wait a minute. Park Moon-dae put down your smartphone!”

“…It’s a video of a dog eating meat.”

Well it was a day of inactivity.

Dinner was also… delicious.

* * *

News of Park Moon-dae’s qualification exam spread slower than he expected.

There were many fans who were skeptical because none of the people who got autographs took pictures with them.

So it was recognized as an orthodox theory only after three or four people authenticated the autographed test results.

The final blow was this review.

————————= =

[I went to take the test yesterday and got the best result]

I think there are a lot of people who came in thinking about who they are now haha.

Yes my favorite is Park Moon-dae!

(Authorized autograph photo)

I even sat in the seat right behind the gate. I thought my heart was going to explode. Just looking at his back he was so handsome. Even his bones were so handsome that I couldn't raise my head.

The posture is so good and the shoulders are just beautifully wide ㅠㅠ

(…)

————————— = =

It was the certification of an examinee sitting in the back seat of Park Moon Dae.

And behind those people there was a friendly anti-aggro message.

————————— = =

I just took the exam really quietly and when I left people pretended to know me so I signed autographs for them all.

Even though I was so frozen that I couldn't even speak I just sat and looked and he asked if I needed an autograph so he gave it to me.

I wasn't going to post it because I was afraid of avoiding it but since everyone already knows… I'm posting it because I want people to know how good Mundae has been…

I decided to hold onto my admission ticket until I die haha.

————————— = =

It was a cute and heartwarming review. Even fans who were a little disappointed by the news of Park Moon-dae taking the qualification exam happily checked out this review.

It was not to the extent of being seen as an invasion of privacy but because it automatically reminded me of what the situation would have been like.

-I wonder if our dog likes people so much that he even gave us autographsㅠㅠㅠ

-Park Moon-dae is really guilty of asking for an autograph and giving it to him… He must have gone home and couldn't sleep.

-ㅠㅠIf I had seen him when I was looking at him I would have hit him all and only looked at his back. ㅅㅂI'm jealous.

The cute anecdote made the rounds on internet communities and social media without being too close to becoming a personality salesman.

However as Park Moon-dae expected the 'scratching' reaction naturally followed.

However it was slightly more severe than Park Moon-dae's guess.

-Park Moon-dae Honestly you don't need to take the GED it's just your greed.

-Is there really an academic complex?

-I was lucky that the people at the same exam hall were good people. What if a crazy guy was involved? I wouldn't have done something like that;

-I can't stand the lust for fame but even so I'm a high school graduate so what can I do?

-Sook-yeon asked if I would sign first.

It was intentional.

As Park Moon-dae continued to use exquisite timing to end or prevent controversies serious antis were ready to rise.

Of course since Park Moon-dae's response was often less explicit there was little credibility as to whether Park Moon-dae really cared too much about public opinion.

It's just that swearing tastes better when you think that way.

The sentiment was that Park Moon-dae after seeing the excessive behind-the-scenes reaction was hoping to show that he was paying attention.

-Gom1mer Search

-Oh don't even think about using it as a piece of cake~ I'll beat you up~ haha.

-Yes yes Gommer you know that all of this is scraped off right? Are you going to move on quietly?

-If I post something like this it'll be really funny. It's like fighting and being an idiot haha.

But unfortunately for them Park Moon-Dae was distancing himself from the Internet.

The only thing I could see was the fan community or WeTube. If I tried to see more than that the members would barge in like ghosts so Park Mun-dae couldn't do much.

In other words Aggro was just fighting a lonely fight.

Thanks to this a member who is completely anti and doesn't care will respond instead.

"brother! "Show me the chicken porridge lover!"

"Sure."

Park Moon-dae who thought the rumor was over anyway coolly agreed and Cha Yu-jin enthusiastically uploaded the photos from the time.

[I have chicken porridge because I have an exam for Daehyung Moon. Everyone works hard to make it. Best Teamwork! (Tiger emoticon) (bundle of photos)]

From photos of various members shopping and cooking to photos of Park Moon-dae looking embarrassed at the sight of chicken porridge or smiling while eating it.

These were everyday shots with a story.

-?

-Oh what?

-Are you really posting this?

And while the aggro people were confused for a moment.

“hmm? “Did Eugene post a picture?”

“yes!”

“Oh I see.”

Keun Se-jin who saw the situation even uploaded a video he had taken.

[It’s been a while since I’ve seen a smile like this from Moon University College of Education… After all eating well is the best right? Haha Lover is also delicious♡ (Video)]

There were few fans who would dislike seeing their favorite group getting along well and being friendly with each other.

Naturally fans were ablaze with this unexpected additional warmth that warmed their hearts.

-Our kids are serious about Testa. Let's stay like this forever. The answer is a dinner show.

-I didn't want to be fooled by the idol family business again… but shut up Testa is family.

-ㅠㅠIt really warmed my heart. Thank you guys for the good news.

The volume of photos and videos was enormous and Park Moon-dae himself did not take or upload them.

Thanks to that Aggro went away while punching me alone.

– Haha the fight is over.

-I guess you asked other kids to upload it didn't Hyeonta come?

-It feels like I'm clenching my teeth but maybe it's just me.

Remarks continued to try to rationalize it somehow but it was just a mental victory anyway.

In the end the story of 'Parkmoon University is a search bug' faded away due to that ambiguous shyness.

For reference the person involved Park Moon-dae was watching a red panda video in the corner of the room.

"…hmm."

He suffered from intermittent boredom but had nothing special to do.

However there was one thing to look forward to.

'I'm going on vacation starting the day after tomorrow.'

A three-day vacation is just around the corner.

It was a very meaningful time for Park Moon-dae who had never had a proper vacation before.

‘This is truly an amazing vacation.’

The plan was perfect. So the plan is.

Chapter 222

I had heard about Testa's decision to take a three-day vacation for quite some time.

This is because surprisingly the director's statement that 'an artist's condition must be well managed to demonstrate his or her skills' continued without being withdrawn.

'For that matter he's the type of guy who doesn't invest in the management office.'

In fact it seems closer to the stubbornness of his management philosophy rather than caring about the singers he is affiliated with… Anyway it is for my benefit so I have no intention of opposing it at all.

Thanks to you I will be able to spend three days quietly alone.

Plus I have some expectations.

'I can do some monitoring then.'

It's scary because the only thing I've seen on the screen recently is a four-legged beast with fur.

"…hmm."

I said I would moderate my usage but that didn't mean I would be monitored for Internet browsing throughout my inactivity.

When it comes to dereliction of duty it's not honey it's high fructose corn syrup.

So I plan to use the time they have to go home to do my own thing.

And rest quietly alone.

…Of course I've never really enjoyed a vacation thinking like this before.

'Because I've never taken a vacation in the first place.'

This time after blocking out all variables I will definitely be alone. I had that idea but…

An unexpected situation occurred.

So… maybe in a good way.

"Brothers what do you think about MT…!"

This is because Kim Rae-bin said this the week before her vacation.

"MT?"

"As an abbreviation for membership training it means a short trip that strengthens harmony and teamwork among colleagues."

"Hey Ravi you know that~ I was just asking if you wanted to go to MT!"

"Oh yeah!"

Kim Rae-bin nodded enthusiastically at Keun Se-jin's name.

The funny thing is that Cha Yu-jin next to me was doing the same thing.

'Did you two conspire?'

The following statement seems to be correct.

"I hope this helps make up for the disappointment of having a busy schedule and not being able to share topics other than work!”

“Let’s go have fun. I want to go to the Korean sea!”

Support fire is active for once.

Liu Qingyu answered softly with a slightly embarrassed expression.

“okay? “It’s vacation. Is it okay if I don’t go home?”

“3 days? Uh-huh I can’t go to America! “My parents are busy!”

Cha Yu-jin answered quickly.

‘Well I guess I know what’s going on.’

Cha Yu-jin cannot go to the United States after three days. And since it is not the holiday season it will be difficult for my parents to come.

‘I’m probably bored because I can’t go home so I should at least hang out with the members.’

I’m sure the calculation is correct.

I silently closed my mouth and suddenly had a flash of realization.

‘…If this fails will Cha Yu-jin stay in the dorm for the entire vacation?’

Hey no way.

“I’m not advocating for taking full vacation time. “The only plan is to conduct MT in a remote location for 2 days and 1 night starting the day before the vacation and then return home on the morning of the first day of vacation!”

“Oh is it good? How are you all?”

“I think it would be good for me too…!”

“…It’ll be okay for a day or so.”

Vote in favor pours in from all over. It seems that Kim Rae-bin’s opinion to preserve the vacation as is and go on a short trip was quite reasonable.

“…”

“What do you think Brother Moon Dae?”

I answered quickly.

“Good. let’s go.”

“…! yes!”

I waited until the end to put emphasis on ‘let’s go’ so that no one could say anything else.

Everyone had an idea.

‘Someone needs to make Cha Yu-jin take him away.’

During MT they somehow manage to escalate the situation and send Cha Yu-jin to one of those guys’ houses for vacation.

“Oh~ Mundae is so active!”

“Yeah it’s good to go once. “Is there a place Ravin has in mind?”

“I am there! Let’s go to the sea too!”

“It’s Ganghwado!… Yes bro. “I’ve looked at a few places I would like to stay.”

I considered touching my chin.

‘Well Ryu Cheong-woo and Kim Rae-bin are the candidates.’

The possibility of the other two is extremely low because they do not match Cha Yu-jin's code or are burdensome to the other person.

'hmm.'

As I watched the guys talk about their destination I came up with my own plan.

And after a while.

"Then considering the location and interior I will make a reservation here in Ganghwa Island. "Everyone is okay?"

"Yes yes~"

"Shall I tell the company?"

"Then thank you."

The preparations were completed by asking for the company's understanding and establishing an emergency contact network.

Since the game was to be decided within a few days there was not much concern about leaks.

The car will also be rented from the manager and only the driver Ryu Cheong-woo will be registered so there is less worry about being tracked.

'And he said he would stand by so that the manager could come if necessary.'

The manager has become noticeably more cooperative recently. It seems that the sense of crisis has been alleviated well as the plan to form a dedicated team is in full swing.

Anyway the final reservation for the candidate pension was completed easily. It seemed like prices were high even in the off-season due to security and facilities.

“Okay reservation complete. “Let’s have fun!”

“Wow!”

“Rae Ravin thank you for the great suggestion…!”

“This is too much to say. Thank you for your willingness to agree!”

Everyone is excited.

I lay down on the sofa with my arms folded.

‘…It’s not even content but this is the first time we’ve gone somewhere with this number of people.’

Traveling rather than work was refreshing.

Actually from the perspective of coworkers going together I think it’s closer to a workshop… but since no one is particularly uncomfortable it’s not something I should bring up.

Even Bae Se-jin seems secretly looking forward to it.

What’s so funny is that this guy even said something like this in the rental car that day.

“…This is my first time going to something like this.”

Bae Se-jin sitting next to me looked like he was regretting why he said it even after he brought it up but he had already reacted.

“Really?”

“Have you ever participated in various events such as school trips?”

“…I don’t like that kind of thing so I didn’t go.”

“I see! Certainly traveling with dozens of people is often limited in choice and inconvenient.”

Kim Rae-bin nodded cheerfully perhaps taking it as an honest expression of likes and dislikes but the others seemed to have noticed the subtle nuance.

‘I guess I didn’t mix well with the school group life.’

It’s not particularly surprising.

At that time Sun Ah-hyeon raised her hand.

“I haven’t been there much either…!”

Bae Se-jin’s face which was full of criticism at himself for saying something useless improved a little.

“…okay?”

“yes!”

Would you like me to help you?

“I haven’t been there much either. “You just have to have fun when you go.”

“…! That’s right. “I’m looking forward to today’s trip because it looks like it will be fun…!”

“…me too.”

Bae Se-jin turned his head and muttered. It’s strangely vague.

‘Why is the atmosphere like this?’

Fortunately this cringing atmosphere was extinguished in the next moment.

“I also have high expectations. The options were perfect!”

“I love the sea!”

“Haha the atmosphere is really warm isn’t it? “I just have to select a song here~”

This is because Big Sejin played a song behind the bright remarks of mindless people.

Thump thump thump thump thump!

This is… the Magical Boy EDM version.

‘When did you get it from Kim Rae-bin?’

“Ah today~ Let’s stop thinking about work and just have fun by ourselves~ Let’s go testa!”

“haha!”

Liu Chengwu in the driver’s seat laughed.

‘It takes an hour and a half to Ganghwa Island.’

At that level since Big Se-jin is sitting in the front seat he will be in charge of talking to Ryu Cheong-woo.

‘It will take care of itself.’

I leaned my head against the backrest among the guys singing along.

Since these guys would definitely arrive and do all kinds of things from playing games to running I was thinking of enjoying the peace of my body even now.

“I met you tomorrow! “You you you!”

“Hahaha!”

And this judgment was correct.

* * *

It was past midnight that day.

“Cha Yujin!!”

“Whahahaha!”

The two youngest ones are running along the beach.

‘I’m not tired.’

Maybe it’s because it’s not work but these guys never get tired.

-Barbecue! BBQ!

-Is there a karaoke machine here?

It’s been like this from the moment I arrived at the pension and I’m full of energy even after using everything from grilling meat to the heated pool.

‘I thought everything would have been covered by this point.’

If I do well I’ll be like that all night long.

What’s even funnier is that I was doing the most static work right now.

It’s fireworks.

“Yes it’s pretty.”

“I know.”

Of course it's nothing grand just grab a few sticks and wave them near Eunsu Pool in front of the pension.

'Because if you do it on the beach you might get into an unnecessary illegal fight.'

This is illegal at the beach.

And just now Cha Yu-jin is being chased after being caught by Kim Rae-bin while trying to take a picture of fireworks with the beach in the background.

I hear a voice from far away.

"Sprinkling water is nonsensical… Uph hoo!"

Well you're having a good time.

I pulled out the burnt-out stick fireworks I was holding and tried to organize them.

It was then.

"Mundaemundae~ Beer?"

"…!"

In the hand of Keun Se-jin who spoke was a can of imported beer covered in thin ice.

…It is a type of fruit beer with low alcohol content.

"I came here to have fun. "You've been abstaining from drinking for several months so I thought you could have a drink when you're in a good mood~"

"…"

That's right.

I took the can and opened it without saying a word.

widely.

Then I hear a sound of laughter next to me.

“Are you funny?”

“Hey that can’t be possible~ It’s just because it’s warm.”

Keun Se-jin chuckled and lay down on the sunbed next to him.

“Ah the atmosphere is nice~”

Looks like this guy drank some too. I slowly sipped my beer and enjoyed the night breeze.

…I definitely felt fine.

Still I didn’t particularly want to drink like crazy or desperately want to drink more.

It was calm.

“…”

It was clear proof that these few months of abstinence were effective.

The habitual connection was broken.

‘I guess I should say thank you.’

I briefly glanced at Bae Se-jin who was picking the second stick firecracker over there.

And then Big Sejin suddenly said something.

“We’ll be fine like this right?”

“…”

“Wow really… if you went back three years and told me you would sell 1 million albums I wouldn’t believe you.”

“Everyone is like that.”

“Really? yes!”

Big Sejin laughed. Sun Ah-hyun who was watching was seen laughing along with him.

“Anyway~ I really like this team. “I love my friends so much~ Let’s do well this year too!”

“Ugh! Let’s do our best!”

For now let go of your shoulders. If the three of us do this I’m going to fall off the sunbed.

Still it would be okay to say this much.

“Let’s go hard.”

“good!”

The hand that had been hitting my back as if encouraging me fell… Well I don’t feel bad.

I decided not to laugh.

“Oh it’s Mundae. But actually it’s non-alcoholic?”

“…!”

“The package was the same. Oh but I think it’s okay ~ I didn’t even know it was non-alcoholic. “Can I have a can or two from now on?”

“I think I’ve improved a lot…!”

I think this is a bit too much of a line to laugh about.

Hmm I guess I’ll skip it anyway for the sake of the good results and to make it easier to turn over Cha Yu-jin later.

It was a time when I was contemplating the verdict.

Tada-dad-dad-dang-!

Suddenly a strange ringtone rang.

“Oh it’s not mine.”

“Me too.”

I immediately checked the smartphone in question on a nearby sunbed.

[Sister]

This is Raebin Kim.

“Ravin. “I will bring it to you.”

“Okay～”

“Should I go and come back?”

“are you okay.”

I stepped onto the beach. Fortunately the two guys who were being chased came back near the pension.

“Cha Yu-jin you lack social skills…!”

“Ravin you call.”

“Oh thank you!”

Raebin Kim huffed and puffed while getting wet in the sea water but bowed his head politely. And then I picked up my smartphone which was still ringing and answered it.

“Sister. Yes I’m fine…”

Having accomplished my purpose I was about to return to the front of the pension.

The feeling came without warning.

“…uh?”

“…!”

Kim Rae-bin’s question suddenly took on a strange tone.

A determination that I would immediately recognize.

So… like the dumb sound a person makes when they hear a very shocking sound.

My feet stopped reflexively.

I looked back.

“Uh… no what…”

“…”

“Raebin Kim?”

As if she couldn’t hear Cha Yu-jin’s voice Kim Rae-bin just stood on the dark beach holding her smartphone.

There was nothing that didn’t make me tremble.

“I don’t know… why?”

“Ravin?”

“…!”

Ryu Cheong-woo saw a strange atmosphere nearby and stepped in to grab Kim Rae-bin’s arm.

It was only then that Kim Rae-bin hung up the phone and her hands were shaking.

“Grandma Ha… I think she’s going to pass away too…”

“…!!”

At that moment the atmosphere on the beach changed completely.

“Wait are you my sister?”

“yes yes…”

“Where did you get the call?”

“Rice Hospital…? So… at home…”

“Is it a big hospital near your house?”

“yes yes…”

Kim Rae-bin had a face that could not even cry.

Of course at another travel destination.

As if the past situation was repeating itself…

“what.”

“What’s wrong Ravin?”

Other members came running from around us.

Ryu Cheong-woo immediately patted Kim Rae-bin on the back.

“Ravin take a deep breath.”

“Yes yes…”

“Let’s change clothes first…”

I immediately ran to the pension.

“Mundae?”

And right away I grabbed my car keys from the front door and ran back to the beach and told Raebin Kim.

“Get in the car.”

This is not the time. I can just put on my clothes and take a deep breath and do it as I go so right now…

“…Park Moon-dae you don’t have a license. calm down.”

right.

I handed over the car keys to Ryu Cheong-woo after hearing Keun Se-jin’s words in a low whisper.

“…Okay Ravin. It would be better to move right away. “Let’s change our clothes in the car.”

“…”

Raebin Kim nodded.

And people walked straight across the beach to the parking lot and got into their cars.

I was stuck in the corner of the back seat of the car.

“Everyone got on right? “It moves.”

“yes.”

The car started right away.

…And so the first day of vacation began.

Chapter 223

The inside of the car was deathly quiet.

No sometimes I could only hear Kim Rae-bin sobbing as if he was going to run out of breath.

Even those who would normally have comforted me by saying things like ‘You’ll be okay’ just drove in silence or patted me on the back.

Because it was a situation where comfort would be more uneasy.

“Your brother… Yes you should come ‘this morning’. “We are moving right now so please wait nearby as soon as possible.”

After relaying the story to the manager who was finally able to connect I hung up the phone roughly.

Now ‘this morning?’ Are you going to make the same statement? You have a moment to claim work-life balance you crazy bastard.

“…”

What have you been doing since then?

Like X I couldn’t do anything.

And I’m just thinking.

No matter what you do it will take more than three hours to get from here to Gangwon-do where Kim Rae-bin’s family home is located.

‘In that case it may be late.’

…But let’s imagine what it would have been like if we had departed from Seoul right away like we usually do right before our vacation.

That time would have been shortened by more than an hour and a half.

A difference of an hour and a half.

I can't help but make that calculation.

'Fuck you.'

Because the guy sitting in front of me will be thinking the same thing.

Raebin Kim still can't let go of his smartphone. Unconsciously you are waiting for another call and are afraid of it.

And yet I can't bring myself to call back first…

"…"

I'm out of breath.

'stop.'

It was funny. Even though I'm not the person involved and I'm not in a situation where I can provide any help I got absorbed in it and fell asleep.

I laughed at myself and decided to stick my head against the window and keep my mouth shut.

I didn't think that would be a hindrance at all.

After about three hours passed in the car where I felt like I was going to faint.

I had just passed the last highway toll gate leading to my destination. Liu Chengwu opened his mouth in as calm a tone as possible.

“We’ll be there in thirty minutes.”

“…”

Bae Se-jin struggled to talk to Kim Rae-bin.

“…change your clothes.”

“…”

Kim Rae-bin who had been stiff from tension and worry for too long slowly began to change his top.

Clothes that were already about to dry fell under the sheets losing salt.

And Kim Rae-bin who was wearing new clothes did not move as if in a daze but soon began to shed tears.

“I… I asked to go to MT for no reason… so I’m late.”

“no.”

I answered without realizing it. Without any thought.

So in fact I had to come up with a plausible reason now but there was no time to add an explanation.

Because there was someone who intervened.

“that’s right! “It’s because of me.”

“…!”

“I said let’s go first. “It’s not Kim Rae-bin’s fault!”

Cha Yu-jin spoke quite bravely but she herself looked like she was about to cry.

Raebin Kim let out a hoarse sound.

“Oh no! MT was planned together… and I also organized the location…”

“Think about it later.”

I cut him off.

“I’ll think about it later but now go see grandma.”

“…”

Raebin Kim barely nodded.

Don’t make me think now. This was correct.

From experience.

Soon the car’s navigation system stopped providing guidance.

“let’s go.”

“…yes.”

Raebin Kim stumbled out of the car and headed to the hospital.

The rest of the people followed as far as they could.

This means that I sat in the waiting chair next to the hallway of the hospital room and waited for Kim Rae-bin to come out.

“…”

“Oh my mom…”

In front of the hospital room people who seemed to be our relatives and medical staff came and went but of course we just sat there without pretending to know or talking.

However looking at the atmosphere fortunately… it seemed like it wasn't too late.

I don't know if I can call this fortunate.

It was about the time when a bright dusky day appeared outside the window.

"Mundae."

"…"

"Park Moon-dae why don't you go to the car and lie down for a bit?"

"Not me Liu Chengwu… he should go."

Does it make sense for a person who drove all morning without sleeping to still be awake?

It was morally correct for that guy to go to sleep.

But Liu Chengwu shook his head.

"I'm not that tired."

"yes. "Me too."

"…"

The short conversation ended there. The members waited quietly longer no longer talking to each other about taking a break.

And after a while Raebin Kim stumbled out with a pale face and relayed the situation.

"Ravin."

“are you okay?”

“Yes yes… talking about grandma… she’s sleeping right now…”

The critical point has now been passed.

‘under.’

Funny enough it seems like all the tension in my body is draining away.

Raebin Kim… Because it means it’s not too late.

However I was able to guess it from Kim Rae-bin’s expression and nuance.

It doesn’t look like a relieved face.

‘…There will continue to be hardships in the future.’

I thought it could be the worst vacation for Raebin Kim.

* * *

After relaying the story to the company people who arrived a little late the members who had homes to return to went home.

This is because Kim Rae-bin’s older sister who came out of the hospital room late gently encouraged her.

-Thank you so much for taking me to Lavin.

-no. It’s natural…

-I heard it was vacation time. Thank you for spending your precious day… I hope you are safe on your way back.

It was a reasonable remark since he must have felt sorry and was in no situation to care about so many outsiders.

It was a great act of loyalty for these guys who only have time to spend with their families once or twice a year to come along here.

However Cha Yu-jin flatly refused saying that she was going to her dorm anyway.

-It's okay. I can't go home! It's here.

-Eujin…

Perhaps because he was familiar with Kim Rae-bin's family thanks to his time at his previous agency the atmosphere here seemed to be accepted.

But I couldn't just leave Cha Yu-jin alone.

'This guy isn't the type to take complete care of someone.'

If he wasn't careful Kim Rae-bin's older sister could have taken care of this guy too.

Besides isn't it so funny that out of the two guys who are in the same dorm only one of them is going to stay here and that the one who is left out is the older one?

So I decided to stay too.

-I'm fine too. I was planning on staying at the hotel during my vacation anyway.

And after several refusals and reassurances we moved to Raebin Kim's home at the insistence of Raebin Kim's older sister and grandfather.

And in the process I was able to hear a reasonable explanation of the situation through a conversation with Kim Rae-bin's older sister.

-They say they will monitor the situation for a few more days and then undergo surgery when conditions allow…

-… the probability is not high.

-But rather than suddenly hearing something like this time… I think it would be better for Ravin to prepare mentally in advance.

I couldn't do something crazy like asking what kind of disease it was.

Just listening to the conversations my relatives were having it sounded like a pituitary gland problem.

And this is what Raebin Kim said while crying after coming home and feeling relaxed.

"I discovered it when you were hospitalized last time… I work in Seoul and you told me not to tell you because you didn't want me to worry about you…"

"…"

"I didn't even know that… I didn't care and I felt so foolish."

"no! "You're not stupid."

"No that was stupid! Oh today too… I couldn't come to my senses and couldn't do anything properly…"

"You did well enough."

I cut off Raebin Kim.

"You did well to stay calm. You also met your grandmother and did everything. "No one is good at this."

"…"

Raebin Kim slumped his shoulders.

And I… had a strange feeling that my words had made sense.

‘that’s right.’

What kind of party could be good at something like this?

This is good enough.

As I received prior permission from Kim Rae-bin’s older sister I got up opened the refrigerator and took out an electrolyte drink.

And after handing it to the guy who was obviously lacking in hydration and making sure he was drinking he spoke slowly.

“I was sorry for pushing you… in the car. great job.”

“Oh no…! Thanks to you I was able to come without being late…”

In fact even if it were later the worry wouldn’t have happened but it might be a psychological issue.

And I realized that this psychological problem would continue.

‘…No matter how the situation progressed it became difficult.’

Even the conversation between the company and this guy after the vacation.

“Eat something delicious Raebin Kim. “Delivery!”

“The delivery of the boat… is what I ordered.”

“okay. “Do it!”

Kim Rae-bin who regained her usual demeanor by talking back to Cha Yu-jin managed to order food but did not eat much.

The vacation went by while maintaining a normal atmosphere and waiting for emergency calls from the hospital.

And then… that difficult moment came.

* * *

The morning of the last day of vacation.

“They say your grandmother is having surgery.”

Raebin Kim received a call from his older sister in the morning and spoke quite calmly. Although I was holding my smartphone upside down.

“Speak while eating.”

“Raebin Kim’s seat is here!”

“I know it’s my house!… yes! “They say that the grandmother’s condition has improved and she can undergo surgery!”

This meant that there was a chance of recovery.

But again it also meant that there was a greater chance that this surgery would not be successful.

I don’t know.

Should I hit the guy who is trying to be hopeful or hit him back?

So I brought up a practical problem instead.

That ‘difficult’ problem I’ve been thinking about since the first day of vacation.

“Do you plan to nurse by my side?”

“yes…?”

“You know but my vacation ends today.”

I put the spoon in the bowl.

“I have to return tomorrow morning.”

“…!!”

“I need to think carefully about whether it’s okay to go back to Seoul.”

…If you return to work and stay in Seoul if your grandmother’s surgery progress suddenly worsens you may not be able to survive her death.

I recalled the conversation I had with Raebin Kim when my grandmother first collapsed in the early days of my debut.

-In that case… Is it right for me to stop and go while filming during the performance? But then… it seems like I lack professional skills.

Family or work?

It’s that damn either-or moment.

It’s not just a moment it’s the entire 4 weeks to see how the surgery progresses.

‘The situation seems like crap.’

Of course it was the same back then but what I had to say was decided.

“I’ll tell you in advance it’s okay if I don’t return for a while. “It’s all about living well but there’s no need to be in pain.”

“…that’s right. are you okay!”

“Don’t worry we’ll take part in persuading the company.”

Cha Yu-jin knows how to provide support fire. I heard you've been good at reading the mood these past few days.

And actually I thought that if I said this Raebin Kim would close her eyes and shout 'I'm really sorry but I'll do it.'

But no.

"Well… I think it would be painful to do that…"

"…!"

"It's an important full-length album but I haven't completed even one song yet… and I'm also working on the title…"

Of course Kim Rae-bin also had a dream and a sense of responsibility.

"I won't be able to contribute anything to the music video choreography or stage."

Raebin Kim was even a member dedicated to producing. So it was also the musicality of the group called Testa itself.

Raebin Kim astutely realized that if he completely left out the group's identity would be damaged.

"If grandma doesn't die and recovers… that's not what I've done that's what I hope for."

"Okay I understand."

I stopped him.

That was right. If the grandmother recovered without any problems Kim Rae-bin might regret that she rested for no reason.

And you will feel disillusioned with yourself for having regrets.

'…Am I biased?'

I misunderstood it because it overlapped too much with my past situation.

I tapped my fingers on the table.

‘The best option is to postpone the album release for a month or two.’

But this was a problem for me.

If this happens the tour schedule may be distorted and problems may arise in clearing status abnormalities.

‘I’m going to go back.’

It was then.

“Do both!”

“…!!”

Cha Yu-jin shouted.

“We have a lot of good ways! “With the phone… uhm.”

“Do it in English.”

[right! I speak English right?]

Cha Yu-jin’s eyes lit up and she knocked on the table.

[This is an era where we have email video calls and even video chat! Kim Rae-bin tells me to work on the song here! And then we prepare other elements!]

“…!”

It’s surprisingly reasonable. I opened my mouth right away.

“Cha Yu-jin said you should work remotely from home while working on the song here.”

“Working from home??”

“It sounds good to me.”

Sure enough Raebin Kim’s complexion instantly improved.

“That’s what I heard too! Then other than the song…”

I clasped my hands together.

My head started to move smoothly within a few days.

“Do it like this. I’ll make two versions of the choreography just in case. A version without the version you have.”

“yes??”

“great!”

“And the same goes for filming. First we select our individual cuts and group shots and then postpone the four individual filming dates as much as possible.”

“Oooh!”

“We are going to push back your joining time as much as possible and also complete a version for if you couldn’t join.”

Raebin Kim opened his mouth.

“…I’m sorry for my sin.”

“What are you sorry for? “I’m just saying that the later you join the more difficult it will be for you alone.”

I asked.

“Do you still want to do it?”

“…yes!”

good.

Raebin Kim nodded eagerly.

Still he seemed quite brave and soon started rubbing his eyes.

There seemed to be a surge for various reasons.

“Okay let’s do as much as we can.”

“yes…”

I added.

“And if you don’t succeed you can stop midway.”

“that’s right! “It’s not Kim Rae-bin’s fault.”

That was right.

So began the four weeks of trying to balance work and family.

Chapter 224

After the vacation is over.

“Are you here?”

“okay.”

As soon as I returned to the dorm I delivered detailed information about Kim Rae-bin’s work from home.

In fact you said it would be difficult for Kim Rae-bin to do it alone but it is not normal to prepare two versions of activities conditional on Kim Rae-bin’s presence or absence.

‘Actually it’s hard labor.’

Wouldn’t it be obvious to do this assuming the comeback schedule remains the same?

This means that there is nothing to say even if you protest that the decision made by the three of you is unfair.

Of course I didn’t think these guys would protest and they did.

“…So we ended the conversation with Ravin working on songs from home and preparing the album remotely.”

“Ohh.”

“Good job Phew.”

As we gathered in the living room and had a brief briefing sighs of relief came from all over.

While on vacation I couldn't ask them outright so I took turns asking them how they were doing and it seems like each person was worried in their own way.

"Then Ravin can continue to stay by Grandma's side."

"I know. I'm glad~ So Ravin's work will be given feedback on Mondays and Thursdays at 9pm?"

"that's right. And intermediate contact should be made in real time as much as possible."

It was a compromise that satisfied those who focused on Kim Rae-bin's comfort and satisfied those who cared about Kim Rae-bin's absence.

"Nothing has changed just the method is a little different. "Let's make this album well together."

"Let's fight~"

"Fighting!"

In the process the amount of labor increased in just a day or two so it was naturally pushed down the priority list.

I had a hunch there.

'The reactions of the working-level staff will likely be similar… '

There was no need to think of incentives.

…I need to check to see if the company pays for overtime.

However there were no exceptions.

Because one member's face was pale.

"…Good Raebin Kim."

Of course it is Bae Se-jin. Even after the topic had passed the response came a little late.

'The words themselves seem sincere.'

It was just that my eyes became dark as I imagined a future in which I would learn the two choreographic movements separately.

Still the recovery was surprisingly fast.

Let's see what Bae Se-jin said in the discussion about large-scale choreography immediately afterward.

"Then shall we talk about the choreography first?"

"Oh since the number of people is different how about I ask you to plan a separate formation?"

"Hmm… But wouldn't it be better for the vocal members to change their movements as little as possible?"

Although Liu Qingyu was vague there was no one who could tell who he was trying to be considerate of.

And the person's reaction was like this.

"…No there's no need for that. "Do the same."

"Is that so?"

"…okay!"

"Ooh! "It's awesome!"

"Hmm."

Bae Se-jin seems secretly pleased with Cha Yu-jin's response.

'…I guess I get it roughly.'

The reason I had so little confidence in that guy.

Perhaps it's because of its up-to-date reputation.

I recalled that right before my vacation he was secretly watching a WeTube video in the corner of the living room titled 'Escape from the hole of Bae Se-jin.'

[As if the controversy over 'Azusa' was a lie Bae Se-jin has shown surprising step-by-step growth since her debut.]

[Beyond simply not standing out in the group dance they surprised fans by not missing any detail of the choreography from start to finish even in the fancam.]

[Isn't this an example of what needs to be like this to be labeled as 'growth type'?]

Even if I wore Bluetooth earphones the subtitles in those videos were so large that I could just see them.

Most of the comments seemed to be surprisingly favorable.

– Bae Se-jin was really surprised. When I watched the entertainment show he looked cute and worked hard so I wanted to cheer him on haha.

Hmm I also remember Bae Se-jin's face as she couldn't control the corners of her mouth as she secretly clicked 'like' on a comment like this.

In any case since his debut his public reputation has been on the rise through the hotteok baking reality show which means he seems to have received positive motivation as well.

Maybe… I'll decide to finish the reevaluation by making a proper serving this time.

‘But if you overdo it unnecessarily I’ll be in trouble.’

I don’t want burnout during the promotional period to interfere with the tour so I need to help take some of the pressure off my shoulders.

“Then we will proceed with the request for the choreography movement without any special comment…”

“I like it.”

“Huh?”

“It would be nice if there were fewer changes to the entire route. “It’s good to be considerate.”

I deliberately looked at Bae Se-jin and Ryu Cheong-woo alternately.

Why what? Aren’t I also a vocal member?

Liu Chengyu lowered his head pretending to tidy up with a slight smile on his face.

“Um… okay. Then Sejin would it be okay if I ask you something simple? “Because that’s what the door says.”

“…I see.”

“Yes yes then let’s decide that way.”

When Keun Se-jin made eye contact he raised and lowered his eyebrows.

It seems like he’s asking me to take care of him instead of leaving him alone but he’s also a pretty consistent guy.

“Have you contacted the company?”

“yes. “I asked for a double filming schedule…”

I rubbed my chin.

“Now… we just need to quickly start materializing the album concept.”

“…That’s probably the period.”

“Maybe a week is enough?”

“okay.”

There was a sense of sadness in the living room.

The more experience I gain the more I suddenly feel the absence of Kim Rae-bin who was amazing at working with Excel.

Moreover this concept is expected to stand out in the overall flow of activities.

Clear organization was essential.

“Let’s quickly check in with the relevant people today and start in earnest tomorrow.”

“great.”

“I will work hard…!”

And so the final work on the album began.

* * *

Planning a schedule for a busy freelancer is a task that is more cumbersome and requires more considerations than you might think.

The freelancer must not overextend himself while coordinating the schedules of all involved parties appropriately.

What if the freelancer is an idol group?

The things to consider increase several times.

So what we need is a management office…

‘They’re the type of guys who don’t like how to handle things.’

I just felt comfortable watching myself.

For example contacting Raebin Kim.

[Title Work_Verse 2 Verse_ (1)]

[Title Work_Verse 2 Verse_ (2)]

[Kim Rae-bin: Today I worked on the rap part of the second verse. Please listen and respond with the version that received more votes.]

[Kim Rae-bin: Thank you always.]

Raebin Kim sent the work on time. I sent a reply.

[It was hard. I will send you feedback quickly]

Then we receive this usually collect the members’ opinions by mid-morning the next day and receive a review from the AR team.

Then if you send it to Raebin Kim in the evening the work will arrive again on the next contact date.

Originally Raebin Kim would have directly communicated with the AR team… but given the circumstances.

After thinking about it I added a text message.

[Tell me if there is anything particularly difficult or worrying about you while you are there]

Because of this problem it is necessary to adjust flexibility outside of work to some extent.

Fortunately this time too the answer came quickly without any hesitation.

[Raebin Kim: No special exception occurred.]

This means that there were no symptoms of worsening or rapid recovery after the grandmother's surgery.

'…Still this period shouldn't be too long.'

Just as I was thinking about the answer messages arrived in quick succession.

[Kim Rae-bin: Thank you for always worrying!]

[Kim Rae-bin: (image)]

The attached image is… The phrase 'The power to live today comes from a smiling face and courageˆˆ' was flashing in rainbow colors on a picture of a rose.

[Kim Rae-bin: My grandfather sent it to me and I really like the phrase so I'm sharing it. I hope you have a cheerful day.]

I chuckled.

'There's not much left today you idiot.'

It's already 10 o'clock at night.

Still I understand that this means that you should have a good day even for the remaining two hours.

[okay. Sleep well too.]

After checking the polite reply Raebin Kim sent I turned off the smartphone screen.

In front of me I could hear the loud sound of shoe soles slipping.

“Let’s go again.”

“yes!”

This is why even though Kim Rae-bin uploaded the file in a group message room no one except me could reply in real time.

This is because the six members excluding Kim Rae-bin were learning the choreography movements.

It’s impossible for no one to react so I was left out for a moment.

“Mundaemundae Ravin did you check the song well? Which part is it?”

“Section 2 introduced.”

“Okay~ Is that the end?”

This means to quickly rejoin practice. I stood next to him before the refrain.

“Let’s just take a look at the gate.”

“yes.”

The entire composition of the song had been released and arrangements and some recording-related work were in progress so a tentatively edited demo song was coming out of the speakers.

For reference I recorded it.

…When recording each part I tried to make the singing style similar to avoid confusion and it reminds me of the kids who burst out laughing.

-Hahaha! Is that me? Is the literary school quite good??

-Let me try again! I'm doing it!

-Moon Dae-ya why don't you try your vocal imitation skills?

If I go on a variety show this time I think I'll talk about it and say it's an anecdote.

…Well you're pissed off again. Let's stop thinking.

I focused on the choreography movements.

"One two…"

The choreographer checked my movements and movement once and nodded.

"You dance well. "I especially like raising my head."

"thank you."

"Also it's okay to say this but I like the song when I listen to it. "It went well."

It was a compliment that any idol about to release an album would be happy to receive.

Bright responses came from all over.

"thank you!"

'That's fun.'

For reference this choreographer is the same choreography trainer I met in Azusa.

Although he pretends to be natural his harsh attitude has disappeared and he has become much more careful and kind.

Look at how Bae Se-jin sometimes reacts slowly or makes mistakes but you can't even ignore them let alone get nervous.

'This is society.'

In particular he is almost polite to Sun Ah-hyun who was verbally abusive to her heart's content during the audition.

I can't say that this is a very good method but when it comes to work there is no etiquette tool that works as well as social position.

"…Ahyeon let's look back there just once."

"yes yes!"

'Sun Ah-hyun herself doesn't seem to care.'

Well the choreographer is also more overbearing because of show business so there is no need to treat him as someone with a particularly bad personality.

Moreover the most important choreography came out well.

There was a reason why this choreographer's draft was chosen as the main work.

'It's almost my first time seeing this style.'

"End of verse 1."

"Thank you for your hard work~"

"thank you!"

The guys falling here and there looked like they were having a hard time but they didn't look too anxious.

This is thanks to the sense of stability that work is progressing smoothly step by step regardless of being busy.

‘good.’

“It’s radish. water.”

“thank you.”

I drank water while schematizing the remaining schedule in my head.

There is no problem either way.

‘Still it would be nice to go with the best scenario where Kim Rae-bin joins.’

Because this album image suits Raebin Kim very well.

I came to that conclusion and took a well-deserved short break.

“10 minutes over.”

“Yes~”

However there was one point that was not taken into account during this process.

I mean I haven’t been monitoring the internet in depth for a few weeks.

And underneath the water the message Al-eum-aleum had already spread.

[Kim Rae-bin will likely miss this activity]

Of course that doesn’t mean I found out about it too late and ended up hitting the ground.

“Ahyeon.”

“Huh?”

I succeeded in persuading my roommate that day.

So… this means that the season of only watching furry things on WeTube is over.

Chapter 225

Convincing a roommate wasn't as difficult as I thought.

"It's been a while since I stopped using the Internet and I haven't had any withdrawal symptoms or anything like that."

"Ugh. I was fine. "Mundae…!"

"So I think it was right to view it as a stress reliever rather than an addiction in the first place."

"Uh huh?"

"Like you said if it gets too much it can be stressful… but I figured it out after taking some rest."

Sun Ah-hyeon couldn't keep her mouth shut as if she didn't know that words would connect like this.

"Now I think I can control it before it gets too stressful."

"Of course the liberal arts school will do well but…"

And here's where the breaking ball comes in.

"Thanks to you. thank you."

"…!! Oh no the door sill was well adjusted but what…!"

"okay. "I will continue to control it well and monitor it in a stress-free manner."

It was over.

Afterwards Sun Ah-hyun was dragged around her schedule in a daze looking like she had been cheated but she recovered soon enough.

In this way we succeeded in resuming free monitoring using the break time.

“We’ll start preparing for the concept photo shoot at 7 o’clock tomorrow so let’s not sleep in late.”

“Yes yes!”

And at night today’s work is finished.

‘It’s been a while.’

As soon as I lay down in bed I started browsing through related communities.

Slowly from the past.

First of all 〈K-NOW〉 which was filmed in droves in the beginning was slowly breaking away from the K-pop hell camp and was also serving as a healing camp.

The smooth route change seems to have worked well with viewers and thanks to that Testa was still scoring quite a few points.

-Seon Ah-hyun’s special stage was mixed so there was a difference in size. I thought it was a deer but it’s an elk.

-ㅠㅠ I’m suing Lee Se-jin. He was kind to foreigners and made Lover’s heart flutter.

-Have you seen Bae Se’s sunglasses pictorial American bastards? This is the dignity of K-Doll a former actor (photo)

First of all after comparing the abilities and leisure with ordinary participants it seemed like the editing was done to really fill the mood.

My screenplay is concentrated in the beginning so there isn't much change but as the behind-the-scenes scenes unfold… there are a lot of people saying that it's cute.

-Moondae really studies hard. If you are serious about becoming an idol you never miss an opportunity.ㅠㅠ

-Standing cutely thinking about something aloneㅠㅠ (Capture from a corner during break time)

-It's so cute how your ears prick up every time you speak.

yes? You can't see it? That can't be possible (GIF file with dog ears composite)

Everything would have been great except for the fact that the behind-the-scenes footage was a special stage practice camera conducted with Cheongryeo.

-The two of them did entertainment together and they seem to be close. What line should they call it? The Daegenjae Myeongseok Idol line? (Kimchi soup

'…crossing the line.'

It's not the fans it's the behind-the-scenes editing of entertainment. I quickly passed this date reaction.

And the qualification exam.

Perhaps this is thanks to the people who uploaded the visual data but surprisingly the overall response from everyone was that it was heartwarming…

"…?"

What are these guys?

-Gommer are you watching this too? Haha the fight is starting.

I don't know why it was fighting alone but in any case there were clear traces of the cubs trying to scratch and failing and being exhausted.

'I ate my first win.'

…It seems like Sun Ah-hyun's advice really worked well at the right time.

I turned my eyes to the bed next to me. Our eyes met at that moment saving us the trouble of calling.

"Do you want to eat something?"

"Hmm?"

"For a late-night snack."

Sun Ah-hyun seemed to think about what this meant for a moment but then a '!!' appeared on her face and she straightened up her upper body.

"Hey would you like to have a late-night snack?"

"…"

It's a symptom of 'I have no ability to relate to peers and can't immediately understand what it means to be hungry.'

I guess I can feed him something in return tomorrow morning. I moderately calmed down Seon Ah-hyun who was answering questions and resumed road monitoring.

Let's see. After that there wasn't any big topic for a while.

Since it was an inactive period the main focus was simply fans' reactions to roommate and moving content.

But more recently the atmosphere behind the scenes has completely changed.

It started with a certification letter.

————————— = =

[I saw a strange thing at the hospital it was a great benefit]

: On the way back from going to the emergency room because of a stomachache I saw several men with long legs getting out of a van in the parking lot.

From the ratio to the number of people I heard that idols were kingly gods so when I looked closely it was an island. I confirmed it because Kim Rae-bin wasn't wearing a mask. Haha it's sloppy.

But your complexion looks bad. Is there anyone in your family who is sick? It was exactly that angle.

(shaken photo)

————————— = =

Since it was posted on a community that believes that celebrities' private lives are public property it was met with no criticism and just received a lot of reactions.

I held back a sigh.

'…I was complacent.'

But there was no way that there would have been anyone at that time who would even consider such a thing.

You never know who might be on the deathbed right now.

"…"

After that post I checked various results by appropriately combining search terms such as ‘Ravin’ and ‘hospital’ in the search terms.

-What is Ravine’s witness story at the hospital?

-I’m blocking related stories. I don’t plan on finding out until Ravin says it himself.

-All the kids went together… I shouldn’t spend money like this but it makes me cry for no reason.

The guess that one of Kim Rae-bin’s grandparents was sick was almost certain.

Still in most fan communities mentioning it openly was prohibited.

‘It spread faster than I thought.’

It seemed like it was because the original direct verification post was spread widely before it was deleted.

‘The company’s response was a bit slow.’

It was clear that I had missed this part because I was concentrating all my energy on reorganizing the album preparation schedule and preparing for media response.

So it was perfect for stalker-style crazy guys to run amok under the water.

He seemed to feel a strange sense of superiority as if he had gained access to information that many people were curious about.

-I rented a van in the name of the manager. Are these guys playing around with each other? LOL Where is the content and where are they practicing? Where are their original intentions?

-Are you calling a woman? Calling a woman? Isn’t it true that you didn’t invite a girl? Someone please find out quickly.

-He said he had to cut off his entire vacation because of Ekanu's eyes so he went to Gangwon-do to soothe Gomer's eyes~

-I make songs it's annoying.

It seemed like some people who heard the news from the company or officials or copied their cell phones were reproducing the information and installing it.

Moreover there are even those who claim to be Kim Rae-bin's fans and make all kinds of speculations and nonsensical nitpicks.

-Ah Myoreppang I feel like I'm going to have a mental breakdown. What's happening on a regular basis? Shit

-No one has died so why did you give up on work? Why is there no news of anyone returning to the dorm? LOL.

-Rebun please put your career first right?

– Skipping the regular album to spend time with a sick family haha? How did I catch such a domestic stone?

It's a sight to behold.

'…This side hasn't been cracked down either.'

I… I didn't have the mental capacity to care about this at the time so I let it get to this point.

"…"

Let's stop fucking. Self-criticism is not a nuisance if you do it when you have time.

'Shut up and use your brain.'

A few useful patterns immediately popped into my head.

‘First of all it would be most cost-effective to disclose the message room capture first.’

The comments made regarding Kim Rae-bin’s work are posted on social media as a kind of comeback notice.

Then we will be able to put an end to speculations about Kim Rae-bin’s current status and anxiety related to her participation…

Even in the worst case scenario it will work.

So… even if Kim Rae-bin cannot participate in this activity in the beginning.

There will be less needless criticism.

Still there will be biting and stretching cubs but this time we are ready to handle it neatly.

‘You should hit me first before filing a complaint.’

This is the first thing to do as soon as you form a dedicated team. And the dedicated team will be completed within this activity even if it means I don’t sleep.

‘Before that let’s do what we can right now.’

I immediately selected and captured the most appropriate conversation about Raebin Kim’s work.

And I tried to quickly obtain consent for uploading to the group message room.

Raebin Kim is nocturnal so if possible he would still be awake.

[I think you might like it if I capture some of our work and upload it.]

[Keun Se-jin: (I agree with that emoticon)]

[Cha Yu-jin: I have to come out!]

As expected the ones who don't sleep well jump out and react right away.

And Kim Rae-bin's response arrived in time.

But the content was a bit strange.

[Raebin Kim: It's okay]

"…?"

It was a typo that did not suit Raebin Kim at all.

It looks like he slipped while trying to write 'I think it's going to be okay.'

'…Did I make a mistake because I was sleepy?'

I crossed my arms. And I waited for a reply with as conservative an attitude as possible.

However… no corrected answer came even after several minutes.

"…"

So this means that 'he' Kim Rae-bin lost contact without correcting the typo.

It was nothing to laugh about.

'The expected situation is… '

It's like

I tapped my fingers on my arm.

‘…Is it an obituary?’

If that is the case you should not call now. Even if you call it will only interfere with the emergency situation.

I barely came to a reasonable conclusion.

‘…I’ll check tomorrow morning.’

By then… everything would have been sorted out whether it was porridge or rice.

[Big Sejin: Ravin?]

In the message room messages from other guys calling Raebin Kim appeared a few times but it soon quieted down.

Everyone seemed to have caught the mood.

About what might have happened.

“…”

I kept turning my brain to come up with as reasonable a response as possible.

‘The timing of the obituary and SNS upload should not overlap.’

I decided to hold off on uploading.

And then I immediately put my smartphone down and lay down on the bed.

“It’s radish. ruler…?”

“uh.”

‘Let’s stop thinking about useless things and go to sleep.’

There is no time or space for this.

I didn't sleep very well but I used my fatigue as a sleeping pill and was able to fall asleep reasonably well around dawn.

However even after dawn Kim Rae-bin was not contacted.

* * *

It was after 8 o'clock in the morning.

"Let's get in touch."

"I don't know what the situation is so why not wait a little longer…

"I want to call you!"

"wait for a sec. We're already behind schedule. "Let's talk while we move."

The living room was noisy with people giving different opinions about the current situation.

It was already past time to leave for the practice room. I sat down on the sofa and tilted my head back.

'Damn it.'

My head doesn't turn.

'Maybe it's because I can't sleep.'

This guess may also be an excuse. Bacchus 500 is running well. This isn't a matter of fatigue it's a matter of my mental state.

I exhaled.

'…I'll have to check.'

…If you put it off any longer it's avoidance. Now I really have to make a phone call.

It was then.

Drurrrr

And then went on a rampage.

I don't know if it's good. However I couldn't control my voice.

"Then you should have contacted me right away…!"

-I'm sorry! He was supposed to be going to bed in the middle of the morning but I thought it would disturb him so I tried to wait until 9 a.m.!

"…"

The answer was so bastard-like that I was speechless.

I relaxed and took the smartphone away from my ear. Members gathered around.

"Are you Raebin Kim?!"

"Are you okay?"

Liu Chengyu asked quietly.

"Mundae should I take it?"

"…yes."

I handed over my smartphone.

The voices of people rushing in and talking excitedly into the phone rang in my ears.

"Ravin you have a nice voice?"

"How about it?"

I… I don't know.

It was just strangely refreshing.

I don't know if it was because of Kim Rae-bin the phone call or this damn situation or the status window… but it was just like that.

Fatigue goes away.

'Are you crazy?'

I sighed and pressed my eyebrows.

"Ravin is coming up this evening!"

"Oh you set the date just right~"

I know.

Sometimes it seems like it's just like this.

As soon as I got my smartphone back I logged onto SNS.

'Let's do our work quickly.'

My head and hands were itching.

* * *

That morning.

It was less than an hour since Kim Rae-bin called Park Moon-dae.

A short article was posted on Testa's SNS.

————————= =

My heart flutters (photo)

————————= =

The post which was uploaded without any introduction was accompanied by a capture of a friendly group message room carefully selected by Park Moon-dae.

-Hey guys.

It was a signal for a comeback.

Chapter 226

The public response to group message room conversations was well received.

-Is this really a comeback??? The title song is Ravin's own composition?

-What is the group chat room announcement lol?

(Capture with underlined 'No more than 10 emoticons allowed yes you Lee Se-jin')

-Have you seen Mundaeng who just talks about work no matter what happens? He's a dog so he's used to shit.

-No Bae Se-jin is really crazy about using hamster emoticons ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

As long as there are no particularly problematic subjects wouldn't small and friendly content like this be a steady seller? Plus there was a hint of a comeback so it was sure to be fun.

…However before uploading this it underwent an unexpected inspection at the last minute.

-Um do you want me to capture it and upload it?

-okay.

-Wouldn't Chungwoo be better at this? You're the leader.

-…!

-I think fans will like it more since you don't usually post things like this~ Don't you think?

…That was correct.

It might be more natural than mine which has already used similar patterns a few times.

So I accepted Keun Se-jin's feedback and posted the article on Ryu Cheong-woo's side and handled it neatly.

-Wow it was Cheongwoo.

-Ah Ryu Cheong-woo's younger brothers' names were saved with animal emoticons after them. Are you crazy? This guy.

The results were good so it was right for me to keep my mouth shut and like it but I have doubts in my head.

'I can't believe I didn't think of this before that guy.'

Didn't he seem like an impatient child with only one motivation?

I feel like I need to at least do a self-diagnosis to see if my form has dropped.

I clicked my tongue and crossed my arms.

'Do the next thing properly.'

Of course preparations for the comeback had to be completed properly before that.

Even if one person joins separately it is planned to proceed step by step but the process of harmonizing with each other on stage is still essential.

Still the other members including me have some time to spare. We have completed a lot of filming that can be done without Kim Rae-bin.

But not Raebin Kim.

‘That guy has to do all that from now on.’

Thanks to this Raebin Kim was so busy that almost as soon as he joined the team he started talking about work.

But in the meantime he didn’t forget to say hello.

A few nights later as soon as I finally had time he sneaked into my room.

“My sister asked me to deliver it to my brother and Cha Yu-jin! I tried my best to do my best. “Thank you very much.”

What Raebin Kim presented was… Yakgwa and pumpkin sikhye purchased at a local restaurant. I think it was probably sent by courier.

But the amount is enormous.

‘I guess Cha Yu-jin clearly knows what I like… ’

Since the two give different things it is reasonable to at least match the tastes of the person whose tastes you know.

Because I don’t particularly like or dislike food.

‘I wonder when I’ll eat all of this.’

Still I have to say what I have to say.

I accepted the box wrapped in a huge cloth.

“thanks. “I will eat well.”

“thank you! “I will definitely pass this on to my sister.”

Raebin Kim smiled and nodded. It wasn’t of much use to me because I had a gloomy look and hadn’t slept well in days.

I was a little conflicted and eventually asked a question.

“…Grandma are you okay?”

“yes! “We are in constant contact with him and he says he is recovering his physical strength smoothly.”

It was fortunate.

I nodded silently.

“And in the future if you experience any physical discomfort such as illness I asked you to tell me honestly…”

“good job.”

I tapped the guy on the shoulder once or twice.

Now that you have gone through this process you will be able to accept it more calmly even if the moment that Kim Rae-bin was worried about comes someday.

‘…Even if you can’t avoid it you can probably deal with it.’

That’s it.

I shook off my useless thoughts and picked up the bag he gave me.

“Then… this should be refrigerated.”

“That’s right… Oh bro! “I’ll take it!”

“It’s done. “I got it anyway so what?”

It was just as I was about to take the contents of this bundle which would need to be refrigerated anyway to the refrigerator.

“Oh by the way there’s something I wanted to ask you!”

“What is it?”

Raebin Kim followed and raised his hand.

“I’m curious as to why you opened the message room related to remote work for this album to your fans!”

“…!”

“Since there hasn’t been an official press release related to this album yet I was worried that there might be a risk of it being leaked…”

Raebin Kim’s eyes sparkled.

“I’d like to ask what kind of efficiency you expected to be worthy of taking that risk!”

“…”

I’ve never thought about that kind of risk…

I looked at him a little incredulously.

‘Unless the KakaoTalk server is hacked there is no way the song will be leaked.’

I’m worried that the song and album are so sincere that there’s a risk that they only exist in theory.

Still I think it may take a while for the group to personally reveal the possibility of a comeback before an official statement is made.

However it would not have been appropriate to directly point out those comments that crossed the line.

‘Should I take out only the least irritating parts and tie them together?’

I opened my mouth calmly.

“Some of your fans noticed that you were at home. “I told them to be calm.”

This was also the real reason. There were quite a few people who were anxious and worried about Kim Rae-bin’s mental condition and condition.

Of course the primary goal was to make the people who were talking bullshit shut up.

– Hahahahahahaha Lebung is more serious about his career than you guys~

-Where has everyone disappeared?

-What if God took care of it before you even beat him? Beating him must be the joy of life.

Seeing that reaction made me feel at ease.

‘This is the correct answer.’

“Is that so?”

But… Raebin Kim still had a puzzled look on his face.

“But you will automatically feel relieved when the official comeback press release goes out next week.”

“…!”

“The pleasure that Message can provide would have been valid even then so it would have been safer and better to upload it later… Oh no! “I’m sorry for talking back to you.”

“…”

I was devastated.

Is that correct?

right.

This does not mean that Kim Rae-bin's hypothesis about the risk of leakage is correct but it does mean that there was no need to be conscious of underground public opinion like X and respond directly.

Anyway everything will be resolved once the comeback teaser comes out.

Posting a screenshot of the group message room in a hurry was just a hint that he was aware of the bullshit.

The only good thing is that Ryu Cheong-woo posted it not me so it passed naturally.

My initial judgment was… wrong.

"You're right."

I muttered.

There was a voice that came to mind.

-But don't worry too much bro. How can I change someone else's mind with my own?

-That's not true and not everyone believes that…!

While listening to the people around me complaining I acknowledged that I was focusing more on controlling public opinion than necessary and then repeated the same thing again.

Even this time didn't I commit something that had no utility like a headless bastard?

It was obvious.

It's just that… it was hard for me to bear the sight of my family dying and being criticized for it. Fuck you.

"I made a mistake because I was oversensitive."

"Oh no! "I'm asking a question that doesn't need to be asked…"

"No this is correct."

I kept muttering.

"I guess it was because I was needlessly thinking about the past."

"Yes you mean before…?"

"okay."

My speech was slurred as if my spinal cord had frozen.

"I'm late."

"yes…?"

"When I got there other people's families had already completed identification. "Only my parents stayed until late at night…"

Are you crazy?

I bit my tongue.

"Tongue hyung."

"I'm sorry for saying something unnecessary. Anyway your guess is correct. "It was my mistake and there was no big meaning or efficiency in it."

"I'm sorry…!"

Kim Rae-bin… looked like she was going to shed tears and snot at any moment. Damn it.

I put down my luggage and rested my forehead.

“What are you sorry about?”

“I chose the wrong topic to remind me of a difficult experience…”

“No.”

I told the truth.

“It was difficult because I didn’t deal with it properly at that time…”

“no!”

Raebin Kim cut off his words.

And he clenched his hands into fists clearly nervous.

“From what I remember my brother contacted me while he was studying at the academy at the time… so I received it after some time had passed. Is that correct?”

“…okay.”

You even said something like that.

Kim Rae-bin shook his head intently.

“But isn’t a student’s duty… studying?”

“…!!”

what?

I looked at him as if I had been hit in the back of the head.

“My brother was just doing his best in his position. So… it was just an accident.”

Raebin Kim swallowed his saliva.

“As if it wasn’t my mistake to go to MT.”

“…!”

“Is that so? Of course each case is a little different…”

okay.

you are not me

But aside from that I did my best at the time… it’s true.

I just felt like my best wasn’t enough.

And no matter what I did to deal with it I just couldn’t admit that there was no way that wouldn’t be difficult.

-No one is good at this kind of work.

As I said directly to Raebin Kim no one is good at this.

“…”

I held my head.

The shock was strong but the answer was clear.

I finally saw it when I judged Raebin Kim as a reference.

‘What great things can a middle school student do?’

I thought he was too young to have experienced such trouble but he couldn’t bear to see me in my situation when I was younger.

So… is it time to re-evaluate?

‘okay. It’s worth watching.’

That was enough effort for a middle school student.

“…”

Somehow I felt relieved.

…I had an unfounded feeling that my sleep quality would be good today.

“I think there is a basis for making a similar emotional judgment based on Hyung-hyung and my recent situation but…”

“okay.”

Still let’s confirm this first.

This poor guy was watching me and kept trying to persuade me.

Kim Rae-bin’s complexion brightened.

“…! That’s right! So it’s my fault for reminding you of a difficult experience!”

“No that’s not it.”

You’re being too clear about saying it’s your fault. I think I was inverted because of the joy that persuasion was successful.

I lifted the box of herbal medicine and sikhye again and spoke as softly as possible.

“…Thank you for your kind words.”

“Huh!”

Kim Rae-bin bowed his head again.

“I really thank you brother. In the meantime… Thanks to my brother I received a lot of help and was able to participate in the album safely.”

They say it is beneficial to the group itself so they are doing this again. There is no end to this.

‘I need to lighten the mood.’

I asked lightly.

“Is that why you gave Cha Yu-jin something in return?”

Raebin Kim looked with a straight face.

“no. “I gave it to you as a courtesy.”

“…”

I don’t know if they are just friends or if they are treating each other like fools but I hope fans see it the former way.

I shrugged and put the yakgwa and sikhye in the refrigerator.

“Eat well.”

“yes!”

For your information let me just say that this gift was picked up one by one by those who lost their sugar while preparing for the comeback and had to manage their weight at the last minute.

‘It’s a good thing to be self-employed.’

…The mysterious thing is that Cha Yu-jin was not involved in this case.

Anyway such a funny incident was short-lived. The album release date was getting closer by the minute.

The first signal was the release of a teaser.

* * *

“What are you doing?”

“I won’t. go away.”

Kim Rae-bin’s personal fan gritted his teeth and pushed his snooping younger brother.

‘I’m so damned because I don’t want to admit that I can just find it myself!’

If you were interested in Park Moon-dae you could have just looked for him but it was quite annoying that he tried to sneak a look at it as if he was arguing with him.

Of course even taking that into account her current reaction was more intense than usual.

Because there was something to worry about.

‘Are you sure Kim Rae-bin is okay…!’

There was a rumor going around that my grandparents had collapsed and had to join the preparations late.

Kim Rae-bin’s fan ripped off his fingernails.

‘First of all after seeing it posted on social media it seems like the family problem hasn’t gotten any worse.’

Still since the preparation period was relatively short I had an ominous feeling that there would be little Kim Raebin in the album…

‘Oh it’s noisy! Then protest for an increase in the length of the next album!’

Why worry about buying it!

After yelling once she grabbed the mouse.

I’m sure it will come up at midnight…

‘It’s up!’

[TeSTAR ‘Call’ (Nightmar e) Official MV Teaser]

And she covered her mouth.

“Huh?”

The thumbnail is Raebin Kim!

Chapter 227

Raebin Kim's personal fan froze the moment he checked the thumbnail.

Kim Rae-bin with colorful chains wrapped around her ears and arms was making eye contact with the camera while wearing an all-black knit.

"Ugh!!"

It was a great atmosphere and face but there was more emotion than that…

This is because Kim Rae-bin's fans have been waiting for this moment for quite a long time.

Activities with Kim Rae-bin as the center!

'They've been eating too much among themselves! Honestly even people who were less popular than Kim Rae-bin were chorus center!'

Whenever the list of parts for each member came out for each active song Kim Rae-bin hovered between 4th and 5th place.

And there were individual fans who poured out double insults every time they looked at the statistics.

'Isn't it the rule of the country to criticize producing members for monopolizing the volume?… '

They keep grinding their teeth and asking why these are the only exceptions.

I certainly thought it was attractive that Kim Rae-bin had no talent for politics but it was also true that I was upset.

But finally this moment has arrived!

‘It looks like this we should have ordered it to the center a long time ago.’

The individual fan immediately clicked on the video without even thinking about it further. It was almost a reflex action.

“…”

Dark black and white screen.

Testa’s new song teaser began with slowly rising hazy smog-like smoke.

Black letters appeared.

-CALL it.

Beyond the smoke lights hanging from black wires could be seen being shaken by white hands with distinct bones.

The moving lights left blurry afterimages and smoke.

But there was no sound.

“…??”

Black cuts containing only letters like dialogue are inserted between mysterious scenes with an aspect ratio similar to that of a black-and-white silent film.

A contradictory situation in that there is no sound in the song’s preview.

-Sometimes.

It will CALL you back.

Then suddenly the video took on color.

Pale and colorful colors of light bulbs such as turquoise and purple flickered and colored the smoke.

And in it the members appeared one by one.

All of them were wearing strange accessory parts with chains applied to their body parts as if they were being restrained.

Bright yellow or blue primary-colored eyes flashed through the dark hair of the loose top.

Short expressionless cuts in different poses passed powerfully with symbols of a cunning feeling.

And the last thing that came out was the cut in the thumbnail.

Raebin Kim with purple eyes staring at the screen.

But suddenly six hands came out from outside the screen and grabbed Kim Rae-bin's body.

"Huh."

However Raebin Kim remained calm.

Instead of reacting I opened my mouth slightly and whispered something.

[…]

But the video still had no sound. Because it was a silent movie style.

Instead dialogue cuts from silent films appeared one after another as before.

"…!"

And the sound actually came from here.

A low resonant voice and an octave higher voice heard on a black screen.

-Welcome welcome

This is the sound calling you

The airy whisper-like melody line had a slightly ominous feel to it.

And more than that I felt that there were definitely elements that were trying to appeal.

'It's sexy!!'

Raebin Kim's personal fan threw the mouse.

The short teaser was already over but that was enough. Anyone could see that this was a decadent and sexy concept!!

From the explicit close-up of the hand in front to the members' outfits everything screams that this concept is languorous decadent and sexy!

'Is this why Kim Rae-bin was the center…!'

Kim Rae-bin's fan hit his head on the desk because of the choice which was so excellent that there was no room for refutation.

And at that moment reactions began to spread like an active volcano around the fan community.

-Crazy just teaser

-What is the teaser?

-〈Gyeong〉 Testa After 3 years of debut finally sexy
〈Congratulations〉

-It's early summer so there's a bit of fear mixed in. I'm scared but it's okay. I'll enjoy it.

-No it's a costume ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-Ravin is holding on to the members' 6 hands. There's no way it's not true. First of all I believe that guys.

-Is this… the taste of sexiness?

As Park Moon-dae thought during the preparation for the 3rd team match of Azusa there are few concepts that are as powerful and effective as long as they are done correctly.

In addition the teaser which mixed artistic references so as not to be too explicit calmed the hearts of those who wanted to be a bit pretentious.

Thanks to this the teaser instantly became a hot potato not only in the fan community but also in various entertainment-related communities.

[Testa's new song teaser went viral as soon as it was released]

[Collection of reactions to Testa's new song 'Nightmare' teaser]

[Tester teaser that seems to have a sexy concept this time]

[Testa member who reacted with black hair and body chain]

There was even a review video on WeTube analyzing 'why the response was so good.'

It was the first time since the 'Training' teaser that a teaser alone had such an enthusiastic response.

At the time it was almost embarrassing to even compare as it was no different than an 8-minute solo song introduction music video made by each individual.

However as always opinions were divided once it left the fan community.

-It's so blatant it's chilling.

-Ugh it looks like the concept will work this time.

-V-Tik also did something like this in their 5th year haha. Well they were in a hurry because it was a 5-year contract…

-I'm a little worried that I'll become solemn.

-These guys really can't lose their concept. Just a black suit and a sexy concept would get them halfway but I think they're going too far.

It was half a lie.

Even excited overseas KPOP fans are clicking the teaser like crazy showing signs of an unprecedented hit and there are forces trying to beat the odds in some way.

Of course there were people who really didn't like it.

The main reason was that the concept was too heavy and mature to be digested after three years.

-That kind of thing is a completely double-edged sword. If you can't digest it it's just a meme of ridicule.

It was a situation that even fans would talk about. However most fans had some faith.

This is exactly what Testa has been doing up until now.

'If the company gives us money our kids will do well!'

That belief which was close to inductive reasoning was felt as a bit of pride among fans overall.

Thanks to this Testa released various pre-comeback content according to schedule and absorbed expectations without any backlash or noticeable public concern.

– Conformer appeared.

-ㅠㅠㅠThe white confetti taken with dried flowers is really the best. Park Moon-dae is such a beautiful flower but I can't even think of the groom in May.

-Wow what should I do? It seems like I'm expecting too much. It doesn't work. Calm down.

-Idols who even look good with black nails are making a comeback now the best opportunity to become popular.

If it succeeds it will be great but if it fails it will be a bigger blow than expected.

And on the day the music video was released.

'Come out quickly.'

'Come now.'

A short and bold 5-minute music video was released before the bloodshot eyes of fans whose expectations were already high.

Drurr.

The video began with Park Mun-dae dragging a white bed into the screen in a format similar to a CCTV screen.

That was the moment when he let out a small sigh and lay down on it.

[after.]

The bed sank down.

And without warning the screen's colors flipped to black and then turned upside down.

Tuk.

The black-haired Park Mun-dae fell from the black bed on the bronze ceiling and sat on the lightly cracked floor.

And the moment you tilt your head a classic silent movie-style dialogue cut appears like a teaser.

[…Dream?]

Park Moon-dae smiled and fell backwards.

Diiing-

Diiing-

Dididididididi-

The song started like that with a strange riff melody filling the screen as if an alarm bell was ringing.

[Take a good bite.

slightly sweet

[Your last thoughts]

There was no special storyline.

The camera just slowly moved around this bizarre space like an amusement park attraction focusing on each and every member that suddenly appeared.

And the members simply appeared in a fascinating or powerful manner and played their parts.

However the way the focus changed was mysterious.

Swish.

The member shown on the camera was dragged by a white hand that appeared from somewhere and disappeared.

And as if in a connecting motion the focus changed as if cutting and pasting the cut of the new member who seemed to be the owner of the white hand in the smog.

When the dream-like and chaotic composition combined with the dark and lush appearance of the members it felt somewhat dizzying and strangely stimulating.

[Dreams can be horrible

But not now

Call me can you hear me?

voice]

And choreography that uses a lot of interspersed lines bold props costumes and even vocal directing.

As everyone guessed it was a concept aimed at sexiness. However it was not too heavy as some people had worried.

[Call-it

Call that name now

Sticks like honey and won't fall off

Nanananananana-name.]

This is because they mixed the right talent in the right place.

It may sound a little languid due to the singing style but because the beat and bass stand out the sticky feeling is not excessive.

Based on that the members' characters popped out every time in the cut so the bizarreness of a space where reality seemed to be inverted was not excessive.

However this did not mean that the eerie and languid heaviness that appeared in the teaser was completely ignored.

They were short and deep pushed into the latter bridge.

To satisfy those who would have expected that kind of enjoyment.

[Welcome welcome

This is the sound that calls you]

The strange whisper-like refrain was the same.

And then there is the bridge in the style of an intense teaser video where you feel as if you are about to collapse and suffocate in the black and white smoke that suddenly blows in front of the camera.

Tup.

A large hand holding the face in a harsh tone like a beast or a ghost. And even the eyes sparkling between those fingers.

It was decadent even slightly sensual.

Moreover at the climax a gorgeous choreography cut full of visual beauty was added without mercy as if asking people to forget about the bridge.

As if trying to hold his gaze.

Thanks to this the viewer was completely focused on the wonderful sight that was generously provided and was completely captivated by it.

The choreography stopped and the song ended.

And everyone looked at the camera at the same time like a painting as if they had been interrupted.

Swish.

At that moment the screen suddenly turned black without any lingering effect.

The sound of breathing heard in silence.

[Huh.]

Bae Se-jin wearing a white round tee opened her eyes in a white bed. And then he gasped as if he had been shocked by a nightmare.

But soon the close-up expression disappears and turns into a faint smile.

As if I was caught up in something.

And the video ended with him slowly tapping his slightly sweaty ear with one finger.

[Call me]

This can be interpreted symbolically but if you accept it intuitively it is very easy to interpret.

It was a music video that resembled a set of primal stimulation.

-What did I see?

-You crazy people.

-Testaaaah!

-It's so good I can't believe it hahahaha

And fans whose high expectations had been met began pouring out comments like lightning.

* * *

"I heard that Testa's latest activity is already causing a great stir!"

"Oh thank you!"

This interviewer was a very lively person. Thanks to this the voices of those who were dying from lack of sleep also became louder.

And the good news was actually real.

'…I never thought the response would be this good.'

Only half a day after the music video was released.

First of all I felt the power of this concept when I saw all kinds of songs vocals and edited GIF files being shared one after another and posted on popular posts.

There are some concerns that the song may take a backseat but it wouldn't be too late to consider that on stage.

Anyway in the current schedule let's start with the interviewer who was excited by the good reaction.

"…So is there a meaning to the music video and these piercings?"

"It doesn't have any special meaning but I managed it consistently because the one who drills a lot has a wider range of choices when digesting multiple concepts!"

"I see~"

I glanced at Raebin Kim who was enthusiastically participating in the interview and nodded with a silent smile.

‘I said I was taking a video.’

They say they plan to focus on internet articles as it is a suitable media interview but there is no harm in managing the behind-the-scenes information as well.

Well at any rate the questions I’m getting are at the level of ‘You all had a lot of piercings in this album. Did you really get pierced?’

Ah finally it was my turn.

“Now then what about Mr. Moon Dae?”

“It was all earrings for me.”

“So any personal beliefs…?”

“No I’m just scared of being sick.”

“yes? ha ha ha!”

Actually it was difficult to manage and it was a bit awkward to carelessly puncture someone else’s body so I gave up but this would be a more appropriate answer.

“Mundae is surprisingly scared~ He can’t even watch horror movies!”

“Really? No this music video is quite creepy. How are you going to monitor that…?”

“yes. “I watched it blindfolded.”

“ha ha ha!”

When I give up and just acknowledge it people are laughing and laughing here and there.

Yes I hope people who watch the interview also think like this.

In fact I've become so used to this little schedule that it's not a big deal.

Surprisingly many of the questions people ask are standardized and routine.

What excites me the most is the stage and entertainment.

And… there is something special to do just for this activity.

'Now is the time to implement it.'

I laughed a little remembering the 'official letter for the formation of a dedicated testa team' that I checked in the morning.

I will somehow intervene and control it.

Chapter 228

Establishment of a dedicated team of artists just for Testa.

On the surface it is supposed to be carried out by the Planning and Coordination Office but in reality it was expected that the head of the department would also have input.

‘There’s no way he could fall into something like this with his personality.’

Even if it was just a message from headquarters they probably wanted to somehow adjust the direction to suit their own tastes.

So I was considering ways to gently instigate the management office once more to intervene in the name of mediation.

I was thinking of creating a gap there even if it meant accepting more people…

There was no need for that.

‘He just does it.’

-Oh of course! Of course the opinions of testers should be reflected…

Just by expressing its intention it was a declaration of surrender that Testa’s intention would be reflected as much as possible in the planning of the dedicated team.

‘What is it?’

I wondered how on earth this was possible but it turned out to be simple.

This was because the signal for this activity was so good.

Even though it's only been one week since the activity the response has been beyond imagination.

This goes beyond simply measurable factors such as album sales and music charts but in terms of experience.

[Is this how you do it…? Testa call challenge!]

[Nail Copy: TeSTAR (Nightmare) | Personal customization and interpretation added! :)]

Even if they are not fans people who see them follow them or comment on them spring up all over the place and stories emerge in communities and daily lives that have nothing to do with idols.

WeTube entertainment shows belonging to broadcasting stations that are good at following the trend quickly pick up music video elements and use them.

If I were to summarize this in one word it would be this.

'It's the beginning of a trend.'

Actually I felt it even on stage.

Yesterday the stage of a culture and arts promotion event was broadcast on the public airwaves and it was a live broadcast.

-Oooh…

This is because I got the feeling that fans of other groups were particularly excited to watch our performances.

Even VTIC fans.

Until now I had the feeling that fans of other idols responded with appropriate restraint while watching but that hesitation has disappeared.

This meant that a consensus on the trend had already been formed.

No matter how close idol fans are to the Internet they can die in just one week.

'…Of course the response from our fans was above average.'

The tearing moans and shouts that were constantly coming into my in-ears come to mind.

-Quaaaaa!!

-Aaaaaaa!!

Well… this may be due to the nature of the concept.

In any case this means that overall the tremendous performance and explosion of topicality were unusual.

To top it all off the kid standing on stage at the end of this event began his greeting with these words.

-congratulation. Are you going to take the grand prize?

-… I don't know what will happen.

-haha. What do you not know?

-…

-It's clear how it will flow.

With those words Cheongryeo went up to the stage.

'Fuck you.'

I don't think he'll ever hit my head with a hammer anymore but why does that bastard still have a flaw in his head?

'The dog looked fine.'

Anyway that guy's solo performance is as good as that of the group so he can't blame Testa for his slump.

And actually… I was right.

'I think I could win the grand prize.'

If the activities continue like this without any controversy based on the results and momentum so far the target audience has been confirmed in at least one or two places.

'Usually the division is divided into 2-3 categories so even if you remove the VTIC position the angle is still there.'

And if I were to summarize all of this in one sentence it would be this:

The ransom price was soaring through the roof.

"Mundaemun University have you seen the unit price of this advertisement?"

"okay."

It was twice the highest amount during the 'Travel' activities.

It seems like the agency is only picking out the ones with the best image at the highest price possible but it was still an incredibly encouraging thing.

'The first-team treatment started even when we were on the road.'

Now it seems like even the story of VTIC Daehangmani's generational change is starting to become more credible.

So the agency also thought that way.

‘It’s going to be a long-term battle so let’s calm them down and maintain a good relationship.’

Since it is unclear whether or not the contract will be renewed the signs of trying to get rid of all the backbone that can be removed within 5 years have suddenly disappeared.

Because it’s too much of a waste to just use it for 5 years.

Of course at the same time it seemed like a crazy effort would begin to try to find weaknesses until the contract renewal season but we’ll talk about that later.

First of all let’s pay attention to the fact that even though Testa comes out hard the agency employees act like Eul to please him.

‘When Raebin Kim was working from home the fact that he handled progress issues with his agency rather harshly by notifying them also seems to have had an impact as a precedent.’

I think they even asked me if there would be a dedicated team issue out of concern that they might make a fuss about not doing anything this time.

Therefore internal group meetings related to the dedicated team were able to be held through this busy schedule.

However it was of little use.

“First of all… I would like people from the AR team who have worked with me since ‘Magical Boy’ to come.”

Raebin Kim raised his hand.

“I completely agree with that! And they also said they were willing to come.”

“…??”

Suddenly an impromptu spokesperson appeared.

“Ravin when… um did you ask?”

Raebin Kim said proudly.

“In fact as soon as word of the dedicated team spread we talked to him and he said he would come!”

“…”

“Ravin you better be careful because there is a security problem…”

“Oh sorry! “The AR team brought up the topic first…”

Because it was like this.

Those who already wanted to come have heard the whole story and appealed to the relevant people.

And since the company is trying to make a sudden friendly gesture toward Testa it looks like everything will be OK.

I touched my chin.

‘This has already been tacitly agreed upon.’

Therefore there was nothing to agree on other than asking for someone who the company would not provide for the existing working-level staff and would instead turn to a new person.

“Okay then let’s tell them that we want to be together.”

“Yep.”

However as the silence passed Bae Se-jin noticed and opened his mouth.

"…Then shouldn't we just look at the people who are getting new jobs? "Well… like that interview."

Oh that's a pretty reasonable opinion.

It is true that we decided to add new personnel to about one-third of the dedicated team.

Especially the personnel on the management side.

Liu Chengwu nodded.

"Well it would be nice to have time to get to know the new people."

However there is a practical problem.

Before I could speak Big Sejin opened his mouth first.

"But I don't know if we'll have time for that~ do we?"

okay. right.

How can I have time to watch someone else's interview when I barely made time for this meeting?

I crossed my arms.

'At the very least it takes time to ask questions in advance to see if your work-handling style is right… '

ah.

I thought of a method worth trying.

I muttered to myself.

‘Status window.’

I think it’s time to try the slot machine one more time.

‘Well I’d like to pick ‘Sleep is Sleeping When You’re Dead’ one more time.’

Or the ability to extend the day to 30 hours… well increasing work speed is also good.

First check the status once.

[Name: Park Moon-dae (Ryu Geon-woo)]

Level : 19

Title: None

Singing: S

Dance: B+

Appearance: A-

Talent: A+

Characteristics: Infinite Potential Time of Indulgence (S) Bacchus 500 (B) Snatching Ears (A)

!Status abnormality: If you are not an audience member you will die.

Points remaining: 1

‘There is natural increase.’

S- became S as if it was worth the strain on my neck. Somehow the reviews have been better lately.

I can't deny that there is quite a sense of accomplishment.

'good. Then next.'

Other changes… You can level up once and draw the accumulated characteristics twice through the pop-up.

'Because the term hasn't lasted that long since the last check.'

In fact it was amazing to have accumulated this much in just a few months. That probably means that the spring out and this activity are impressive.

So… I'm thinking of putting the points aside for now and squandering them on drawing the necessary traits.

'It's funny to call it a waste of money with number 2.'

Last time I tried it 5 times and only ate an S at the end.

But now I know for sure.

'It's obvious that I'm giving you the characteristics you need right away so spit it out.'

I glanced at the flashing 'Click' text in the pop-up window and pressed it while pretending to raise my arm.

Number 2 will change soon while these guys are talking.

As the lever in the picture turned the compartment flashed in color.

After passing through the candidate sites I had seen several times… what stopped was a golden compartment.

Grade B.

It may seem like a normal hit but if you read the words inside the box your thoughts will change.

Papa pang!

['Bacchus 500 (B)' acquired!]

"…!!"

[Attribute: Bacchus 500 (B)]

-Clear mind and healthy body!

: All fatigue accumulation speed -50%

The fatigue recovery totem that has been so useful has reappeared.

And as expected a pop-up appeared.

[Check the same characteristics!]

Would you like to synthesize 'Bacchus 500 (B)'?

'also!'

The time has finally come to strengthen this essential characteristic…!

I clenched my fists without realizing it.

"Mumundaeya…?"

"Are you okay?"

It was so good that it was awesome.

"I'm looking forward to it and it feels really good to hear that we're forming a dedicated team."

"I see!"

"I guess it's really true. It's been a while since I've given such a long answer to a question.”

You can stop making excuses and let’s go.

I immediately clicked ‘yes’.

A round indicator appeared in the status window as if it was loading and then a colorful fanfare erupted.

[Synthesis success!]

Obtain ‘Bacchus 1000 (A)’!

A clear mind and strong body!

-All fatigue accumulation rate -50%

＋100% to all fatigue recovery rates

It turned.

‘There are more recovery options.’

Isn’t sleeping like this once every two days enough?

What is certain is that it will not interfere with your activities and you will be able to squeeze in time to prepare questions and answers for interviews.

‘It’s a huge long-term benefit.’

The rebound while on vacation… Well it happens all the time but it doesn’t matter if it gets a little worse.

There are no aftereffects so I lay in bed for three days. No since it also increases recovery you may not feel like you are on vacation.

‘Now that I think about it I didn’t make a fuss during this vacation.’

I think it may be that caring for Kim Rae-bin was treated as a type of work so the status window did not judge it as a vacation.

Anyway I had no idea that this questionable game system would spit out something so useful this time.

‘good.’

I hope we continue to be this cooperative in the future. I might get frustrated if I keep doing this but I have to do this much.

I nodded looking at the updated properties in the status window with satisfaction.

“Is Mundae nodding his head now?”

“Aren’t you imagining the people on that dedicated team…?”

Let’s just say it’s similar.

The launch of a dedicated team was already anticipated.

To be exact this is the effect that the launch will bring.

* * *

Testa’s first manager was on his way to work frowning.

‘Fuck you.’

The kids have grown up and become arrogant making work increasingly difficult.

They say that when you get star disease you start by treating the staff poorly. Isn’t that exactly what happens?

He was even parachuted in and took away the position he had worked on and his opportunity for promotion was also pushed back.

In his judgment there was no such thing as X-small entertainment. The manager was furious at this unfair situation but was frustrated because there was no response.

‘But you just have to hold on for a little while.’

In a few days Testa will be celebrating its second anniversary. This means that his career will soon complete two years.

Since the number of digits was different I was thinking of going somewhere with experience with this.

‘I’ll kick everyone in the back at that time.’

The manager who shouted out loud even though he knew about the confidentiality clause half-heartedly headed to the company.

Because we worked all night all of the testers were in the company conference room.

But the moment you enter the lobby.

He was suddenly called to the human resources department. And then I heard the shocking news.

“yes?”

“So… it’s not a joke. “You don’t have to come out starting tomorrow.”

It was news of a layoff.

The manager looked at the team leader in bewilderment and exchanged a few words but soon realized that there was no room for negotiation.

“Just take out your luggage okay?”

Immediately the emotions that had been suppressed by the fear of being fired rose up.

It was anger.

“No team leader. “What… isn’t this unfair dismissal?”

The team leader was so embarrassed that he didn’t want to talk any further which further incited the manager’s anger but he soon became stiff as he listened to the recording being played by the team leader.

-Brother Ravin’s grandmother has collapsed so we are moving…

-what? At this early morning?

-Yes you should come ‘this morning’. We are moving right now so please wait nearby as soon as possible.

-… Oh okay.

And a small curse sound is heard as it cuts off.

“…”

If the tester wasn’t very popular if there wasn’t much connection to the head office or if the manager had connections it was a situation that could have been passed over.

Because we were close friends I don’t know how I could have blamed it on being rude.

But unfortunately for the manager it wasn’t for all three.

“Yesterday the artist’s phone cloud was hacked and almost spread. know?”

“…uhh uh.”

“Hey just… go out gracefully. uh? “If this blows up in the media you will have to leave Korea. Look at the current atmosphere.”

It was a sentence of no recovery.

The manager left the company on his own.

And Park Moon-dae who heard the news from upstairs by the AR team who was excited about the gossip chuckled.

‘Stupid bastard.’

He had never turned off call recording since high school.

‘I sent one.’

I felt refreshed.

He continued preparing for the next step with his body running quickly due to his characteristic.

‘…2nd anniversary.’

Testa’s debut date June 18th was just around the corner.

Chapter 229

Testa's second debut anniversary was planned to be celebrated with a fan meeting. It's a classic method but it's guaranteed to be fun.

And to ensure a friendly feel as a fan meeting the venue is smaller than a concert so paid real-time streaming is also provided online.

'It's obvious that there will be a lot of illegal broadcasts on WeTube.'

It doesn't happen for a day or two so it's not new. I will report it diligently on paid platforms.

'Isn't it better than not broadcasting it online and enriching scalpers?'

And by determining the number of people paying to see fan meetings you will be able to see how much the popularity of this activity has been linked to the fandom.

If you ignore the voice of conscience for a moment it's a shame that people pay for something even though they can watch it for free.

So if you compare price to time compared to VOD…

'…I guess I'll have to pay for the concert as expected.'

Instead of thinking about useless WeTube let's just mind our own business.

And fortunately the fan meeting that day started smoothly.

-It has nothing to do with the weather forecast.

It's the day I want to meet you

Wow!!!

A blue opening stage with countless colorful balloons floating into the sky.

The subtitle of this fan meeting which started off lightly and brightly with ‘Picnic’ was ‘Daydream’.

It can be said that the English subtitle of this song ‘Nightmare’ has been turned on its head.

‘If you have this kind of connection a theme will arise on stage.’

Wouldn’t it be fun to see that again?

And it will be held in a playful and warm atmosphere.

Since there have been frequent incidents over the past year I thought it would be okay for the fan meeting to be like this.

The overall concept was set in a fairytale-like atmosphere.

So the talk and entertainment in the middle… I tried to cut it out in a cute way but I don’t know.

Because the route changed in the middle.

First of all the start was okay.

“Hello everyone!”

“Today is Testa and Loveure’s anniversary. 〈Tesversary〉! “Thank you so much for coming.”

“Let’s have fun!”

The current status talk and post-it questions were almost the first fan meeting rules and the expected answers were well compiled.

Of course the confident guy started with ad-libs.

Yes it's a big deal.

"uh? 'Who is the most adorable?' You have to see this to know! Now everyone get ready to show some aegyo~"

You are freely spreading things that were not agreed upon. Be thankful that the fan meeting is live.

As soon as the camera came on I adjusted it accordingly and shamelessly performed the latest trend of cuteness.

Shock and screams were heard everywhere… even screaming?

"No Mr. Moon Dae when do you practice something like that??"

"I don't sleep because I'm an idol. "In my spare time."

"Ah ah~"

The audience bursts into laughter.

Still after about three years even embarrassing things start to become less exciting. It's going smoothly.

However Keun Se-jin who was joking with the nonsensical bullshit skit grinned and slapped me on the back.

And brought reality.

"No you still have to sleep Mundae! Oh everyone! "Mundae really doesn't sleep at all these days??"

"…!"

"Mundae-hyung is just working in the early morning! "It's too much work!"

“It seems to me that he only sleeps once every two days.”

I don’t know how this guy with so little insight can handle something like this.

‘I’m sure I’ve been sleeping just like that these days.’

It was thanks to Bacchus 1000.

Thanks to this I was able to quickly complete the interview questionnaire organize the dedicated team as desired and secure new management personnel so I am very satisfied.

‘Still it seems unusual to those who can’t see the status window.’

What is certain is that there is no need to take it seriously.

‘It’s a pain in the ass if it’s used as a subject for something like ‘Park Moon-dae doesn’t sleep so why are you a wife?’

Let’s pass it off as a joke. I shrugged.

“Well… Idols usually don’t sleep.”

“Wow~ Idols are people too~”

“Aren’t we idols?? “Huh?”

Amid playful jeers Bae Se-jin muttered with a gloomy face.

“It just seems like a violation of labor law…”

“…”

I avoided the camera’s eyes conscious of the audience members who were screaming strangely half laughing and half worried.

‘I can’t show Bacchus 1000.’

Meanwhile Keun Se-jin chuckled and put his microphone on Sun Ah-hyun.

“Now what would you like to say to your roommate at Moon University Ahyeon?”

“…that’s right! “I don’t sleep much…!”

“…!!”

Sun Ah-hyun spoke earnestly with a stern face.

“If you tell me to sleep a lot for my health…”

These guys…

ruler!! Come on Mundae!!

You really need to sleep well!!

‘…I was pushed.’

At the comment from the audience I was silent for a moment and then changed my stance.

“…sure. Just kidding. “I need to sleep well.”

“I swear! “I swear!”

“I will sleep well so as not to damage my health.”

“Waaah!”

It’s not a lie it’s a lie.

“Okay then everyone! “While we’re talking about sleep aren’t you curious about what kind of pajamas we wear?”

I'm curious!!

I'm so curious!!

"Let's meet on this stage!"

The animal pajama version of the performance prepared for the trip with a gentle discussion of topics was a success.

-Good luck!

People had fun and the stages and events continued without any injuries or mistakes.

…The pleasure of showing a good performance as planned was still there. There was no time to think about anything else.

And the last stage before the encore.

It was only after presenting the classically arranged version of the title song 'Call' that I had some time to think.

Encore! Encore!

A now familiar shout rings out from above.

"VCR starts in 3 minutes!"

I took a deep breath and looked at the clothes I had changed into and then I remembered the last talk and suppressed my voice.

'From now on every time I open the Dub app at night I'll be plastered with comments about my nose growing… '

I may not be able to fully use Bacchus 1000 for a while…

At that moment I realized.

“…!”

for a moment.

As a result… Isn’t this what made the fans keep an eye on me?

And if you think about who the person who spoke was it is obvious.

‘You were aiming for it.’

After changing my clothes I looked at Keun Se-jin who was getting her makeup touched up.

Big Sejin narrowed his eyes.

“You look really handsome today~ I know it.”

“…”

See you after the fan meeting.

* * *

The fan meeting ended with the performance of the fan song ‘The Magic Is You’ arranged with an exciting band sound.

“You are in the car. “I’ll get some feedback and come back soon!”

“yes.”

I wiped my wet face and got into the car following the new manager’s guidance.

And I briefly looked at the online reaction.

-It’s been a while since I saw the bonus book on stage… Overwhelming thanks to the coordinator (capture)

-What is Moondaeng Idol Drip? Why do you say it so naturally? This soft apple rice cake puppy is moist and moist ㅠㅠㅠ 10 hours of sleep!

-2nd Anniversary Cake Cutting Ceremony LOL Cha Young Caught Stealing (GIF File)

-Testa Fan Meeting_Talk Other Idol Song Medley (1)

'No problem.'

It is clean with no incidents or accidents. As for the reaction behind the scenes… I decided to refrain from doing so so I omitted it.

I immediately turned off the smartphone screen and opened my mouth.

"Lee Se-jin."

"huh?"

"You said that on purpose when you talked about sleep."

Keun Se-jin who was chatting excitedly with Cha Yu-jin in the front seat immediately turned around and grinned.

"Why are you asking the obvious?"

"…!"

"No~ Mundae is not some kind of terminator~ He doesn't sleep and just works. And then he suddenly dies in his 30s!"

'I won't do it you bastard.'

In fact she may die suddenly next year due to her condition.

However Big Sejin instead looked around the inside of the car and raised his hand and said.

“Who thinks Mundae here gets enough sleep~?”

“…”

“So who thinks I should sleep more?”

The hand quickly comes up.

Their expressions range from quite nervous to obvious but they all seem to think that I went too far.

“That’s right~ It’s a group life. “Please protect me Mundae!”

I held back a sigh.

Okay… I know you’re worried.

“okay.”

“exorcism!”

Anyway since the formation of the dedicated team has been completed it can be sealed for a while.

‘It was a fruitful few days.’

I shrugged and rested my head on the backrest.

Liu Chengwu gently took control of the situation.

“Yes and Mundae too… everyone worked hard until the second anniversary. “I think we did really well though.”

“I think so too…!”

“This is a translated word~”

Okay 2nd anniversary. Has so much time passed before you know it?

“I like this team. “Our teamwork is the best!”

“…Thank you so far. Let’s continue to work hard.”

“That is a fair statement. “I will not let down my guard and do my best for the remaining three years!”

I could hear the voices of each person talking about their feelings.

I didn’t feel bad.

‘…Yes there are three years left on the contract.’

It’s longer than it’s ever been. Still it would be nice if we could continue at that level…

“…”

It was a moment when I was trying to figure out a route for when all of this would work out best.

“Mundaemun University.”

“why.”

“Is there anything you want to say?”

“…? Not really.”

“Uhm I see~”

Big Sejin spoke as he passed by.

“Okay if you remember anything let me know.”

“…”

Isn’t that… something I should only say when I’m sure I have something to say?

‘This guy isn’t the kind of guy who would say something like this for no reason.’

I got up from the backrest.

“What are you…”

It was then.

Shake!

The front door of the car was opened.

And a staff member wearing a hat got into the driver’s seat. I couldn’t check properly because I got on board so quickly but if you exclude everyone only one person remains.

‘It must be the manager.’

No wait.

The manager earlier… wasn’t wearing a black staff uniform.

Liu Chengwu next to me called.

“hey?”

However the staff did not respond and the car started immediately afterward.

“…?”

What is that guy?

I checked ahead again.

‘…There was no member in the passenger seat.’

They put their luggage in the passenger seat and everyone rode in the back.

But without even showing my face and without answering I started the car…

“…!!”

This can’t be possible.

I immediately whispered to the seat next to me and in front of me.

“Get everything down.”

“what?”

“Open the door right now…!”

It was that moment.

“older brother? “Aren’t you Manager Kim Jun?”

“…!”

The person in the front seat spoke calmly and conveyed information.

And that means… the guy in front of me is my former manager.

I got fired from my job a few days ago thanks to a recorded phone call.

‘Fuck you.’

No matter how much you think about it it was definitely not a good intention.

Woooooo!!

Moreover the problem is that this bastard started the car.

And at an incredible speed.

“Sigh.”

“Brother brother? Just a moment… calm down.”

“Why are you calming down?!”

The former manager suddenly let go of the steering wheel and glanced back.

Good!

As I was leaving the parking lot the car stopped.

In the middle of the road this night.

‘You crazy bastard.’

Baaaang!

Late night. A car running right behind me passed by leaving a loud horn sound.

“…”

A cold sweat broke out.

The car is still running. If you try to open the door and get out right now and that bastard starts you could be seriously injured and be hospitalized.

I immediately checked to see if there was anything I could throw from the back seat to the front.

We need to pull that bastard out right now.

“You guys. uh? Is it okay to threaten people with a recording? uh?”

The former manager spat.

“I came just to get the answer so tell me. Is this my fault? uh? “How can you cut a person for saying one wrong word…”

“I was wrong.”

“…!”

First we need to calm that fucking bastard down. I immediately jumped in and answered obediently.

“There was a hacking attempt on my cloud account so I handed it over to the company and I think I saw it while the company was checking and playing the recording…”

“…”

“It was definitely not what we wanted. Perhaps while creating a dedicated team… the company told me what they wanted.”

“…”

I feel agitated. I’m glad you’re a stupid bastard.

Big Sejin came in from right next to me.

“Brother we are sorry that we were not able to make a strong claim. Until now we thought you went out because you were scouted. “I’ll tell you as soon as we get back okay?”

Liu Chengwu sitting next to him deliberately kept his mouth shut. In the end it seemed like he knew that he was the one who provoked that manager.

Just holding a book in your hand. It seemed like he was planning on throwing it if he had to.

'If it doesn't work this time I really have to throw it.'

I watched carefully the reaction of the crazy bastard in the driver's seat.

The guy took a deep breath and eventually took the bait.

"…So you're asking me to reinstate you?"

"sure!"

"We will make a strong claim to the company unconditionally."

"yes yes."

The members seem to be showing signs of a slight relaxation in the atmosphere as they eagerly add their words.

And in the corner of the front seat Bae Se-jin was texting 112 in silence with his hand turned behind his back.

"…"

It was the moment when the former manager quietly put his hands on the steering wheel again.

'That's it.'

If only I could stop on the side of the road like this and ask to speak to the company…

It was that moment.

"…uh?"

Quaaaaaaaaaaa!

…A huge noise was heard from behind.

With vibration.

No can we call this vibration?

This… was shocking.

The tremendous shock that started with the vibration made my body jump forward.

‘Fuck you!’

It was a collision accident.

And I saw that fleeting moment.

Broken car body and seats. Something that looked like a broken part had fallen between the rising airbags and was about to hit someone’s head.

Sharp and huge.

‘…!’

Without even thinking I tried to throw my body away and hit the part.

I think I can do it.

Of course it was crazy.

Deep.

Instead of snatching the part it stuck into my chest with the seat belt on.

A shock went through my chest.

“Huh.”

And then everything went dark.

* * *

When I became conscious again.

A small light flashed in my head where the black vision roared.

Ting-.

Something round and shining gold bounced through the black air.

And then it slowly fell… revealing an outline.

gold coins.

‘…coin.’

[Insert Coin]

The status window that appeared… swallowed the coin like a slot.

and.

“Huh!!”

I am… I am.

I opened my eyes looking at the moldy motel ceiling.

Like one day two and a half years ago.

“…”

I know… it was a ceiling that was hard to forget.

‘no.’

It couldn’t be like this.

I raised my head and looked around. A musty-smelling blanket fell at my feet.

The scenery I saw once was right… no.

‘Is it a hallucination?’

There is room for a different interpretation… to understand something in a different direction…

“okay.”

I stumbled out of bed. And then almost crawling I went to the dressing table.

And… I saw it.

“…!!”

What was reflected in the mirror… was not Park Mun-dae.

It was me. Ryu Geon-woo.

…Seeing you like this for the first time in two and a half years.

I laughed out loud.

“no.”

Even if you come back it will be Park Mun-dae.

Why did I wake up in the motel room where Park Moon-dae was? It doesn't make sense. It's not natural and doesn't fit together…

'It makes perfect sense to open a status window and enter someone else's body right?'

"shut up."

I hit my head on the dressing table.

And muttered.

"Status window."

But nothing happened.

I shouted again.

"Status… Window. Status window Status window…"

Anything…

Tiring.

"…!"

A window appeared in front of me.

However it was not the status window I was familiar with.

[Name: Ryu Geon-woo (Park Moon-dae)]

-Enjoy your daydream :) –

It was over.

"…"

I sat back on the bed.

And I reviewed the situation a few more times as calmly as possible and in a way that was not as rational as possible.

After that a conclusion was drawn.

‘This… is a dream.’

I think I’m in a coma.

Chapter 230

There are several reasons why this situation was concluded as a coma after a car accident.

The first is the extent of the injury.

‘The fragment entered his chest at least 5cm.’

I had seen it with my own eyes just before and I thought about it a few more times to see if there was any exaggeration but I was certain.

It will definitely be a fatal wound.

From what I remember… the bleeding was also severe.

The fragment was not removed and if it gets stuck the prognosis is not likely to be good.

But it won’t be instant death.

‘It’s not like it went straight to the heart.’

It’s a late-night road but it’s in the middle of Seoul.

Since Bae Se-jin reported it if the police had checked an ambulance would have come… then at least he would have been on the brink of death.

‘There’s no way I could die right away and start over.’

…That can’t be possible.

The second reason is because of my face seen in the mirror.

"…you're not 29."

I couldn't recognize it right away because I was embarrassed because it was Ryu Geon-woo's face but when I looked at it again slowly I understood it.

I was too young.

'This… was at least long before I graduated from college.'

However this is the motel where I first woke up as 'Park Moon-dae' and it was the same date as the calendar I checked at the time.

[202×December]

In other words the time zone does not match.

Just in case I also checked my wallet on the dressing table.

It was the number of 'Ryu Geon-woo' with only the last digit of his resident registration number changed to 3.

A chill ran down my spine.

[Ryu Geon-woo 0X1208 – 3XXXXXX]

Ryu Geon-woo 20 years old.

"What is this…"

However there were no suicide pills or a suicide note on the bed.

…Isn't it as if they just took Park Moon-dae's situation and tailored it to Ryu Geon-woo?

'It's not at the level of inconsistency… '

It doesn't come off cleanly.

When you get to this point you will think again about the phrase that appeared in the status window.

[Name: Ryu Geon-woo (Park Moon-dae)]

-Enjoy your daydream :) –

‘daydream’ means daydreaming.

And the fact that ‘Park Moon-dae’ is written in parentheses instead of just ‘Ryu Geon-woo’…makes me think about this possibility.

‘What if it’s because I’m still in Park Moon-dae’s body?’

This leads to suspicions that I may be in a coma and dreaming something absurd.

‘Besides the system intervened here.’

…that coin.

If what I subconsciously saw was the coin I received after clearing the previous condition then this situation occurred because of that coin.

Until now I assumed that it was used in stores considering the cliché but now I have a different guess.

‘…Isn’t it an extra life like an arcade game?’

This one too… suits the game system. I was so dumbfounded that I laughed at myself meaninglessly.

“under.”

Anyway if you put all of this together…

I clasped both hands.

"…There must be a way to go back."

If this situation is given as a way to wake up from a coma just wake up.

And usually the best way to wake up from a dream is -.

"Should I jump?"

This motel isn't a particularly high-rise building so you won't die if you fall from here.

I don't know if that will be enough.

Moreover since Park Moon-dae's real body may die it is dismissed for now.

Next… I'm going to be shocked but honestly I don't think I'll be shocked enough by anything right now.

There is already a lot accumulated.

'What else could there be?'

I tapped my knees with my fingers.

The most standard method remained.

'…Wait until your body recovers.'

External recovery.

But I don't know how long it will take. I don't know if I can recover.

"…"

Given the given circumstances I chose the most moderate method first.

‘First look for hints.’

If this is a system intervention there may be a hint to wake up while understanding this dream.

‘The status window may respond.’

I stumbled out from under the bed. Then I took my wallet and left the motel room.

First let’s check what kind of situation ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ is in in this coma.

* * *

“…”

I gritted my teeth as I brought out my newly activated cell phone.

‘It’s the same.’

I had the same financial situation as my 20-year-old enemy. The only difference is that I didn’t go to college like Park Moon University.

However there was no contact with relatives.

‘It’s organized in a way that’s completely convenient… ’

So that no contradictions appear.

Moreover I realized a crucial point.

‘You sing well.’

This body has all the abilities of the real-life ‘Park Moon-dae’.

Just like when I first woke up to ‘Park Moon-dae’ I realized this after going to a karaoke room and singing a song.

All the stage sensations I experienced in Park Moon-dae's body remained in this body as well.

'Are you encouraging it?'

In reality we should follow the same path that 'Park Moon-dae' took.

So as if digesting all of that as the real 'Ryu Geon-woo'…

"…"

Let's put aside useless thoughts and move forward with our dream.

'The next thing I did… participated in <Azusa>.'

He is going to a nearby karaoke bar to be invited by writer Ryu Seo-rin.

'It's not a difficult task.'

I wonder what I would do if I were to actually participate… Although it was a pain in the ass the attempt itself was not difficult.

'Because my face doesn't look bad to begin with.'

First of all the song was S-tier so the chances weren't bad.

Since I couldn't think of any other options I decided to give this another try and immediately headed to the karaoke bar.

But it failed.

"…"

I don't know if the dates were off or if it was a dream so I don't know what the difference was… Author Ryu Seo-rin didn't come to the karaoke room for a few days.

‘Fuck you.’

And I knew.

‘The audition is already over.’

That there is no other way.

There is no way for me to squeeze in between them… realistically there is nothing.

“…under.”

I ended up in the same place again without any hints.

‘What are you asking me to do?’

Should I pretend to be crazy and go up to the rooftop somewhere?

However the judgment that it was too much of a risk as the body would already be unhealthy did not change.

‘Then what you can do is… ’

The best way for me to debut is…

there is.

“…!”

I knew one sure way.

But it was dangerous.

‘…If you do it wrong you could fall down here.’

Still if there is nothing you can do anyway there is no harm in trying.

‘I even thought about jumping off the roof but this is it.’

I took out my phone and typed in a contact number that was familiar to me since I had only seen it through text messages.

There are some numbers with one or two confusing digits but you can just send them all and that’s it.

[I used to raise a different breed of dog every time but this time I’m not raising one. Is it because the last time it went bankrupt due to rumors of schizophrenia?]

Because there is a certain number of people who will react to this phrase.

Only the parties concerned cannot ignore it as spam.

There is no need to talk about the future or the past or restarting. I’m not the type of person to contact you because I’m agitated by such obvious things.

It has to be this specific to be agitated.

“…”

I spent some time sending the texts and waiting for them to be confirmed.

And after a while.

Drurr.

-What are you?

I got a call right away.

I responded calmly to the words that came out without any escalation.

-People like you

I guess you understand this much.

And after a short and bloody phone call I saw him in a conference room inside LeTi's agency.

"…"

"You're here."

Perhaps because it was the break season you managed to find time to meet even though it wasn't late at night or early in the morning.

If this were the case even in the first week of activity he would have found out the details first.

Even now I contacted them to get a clue but it was clear that they would have left it to me to do some background research on my number.

I nodded at the guy sitting with the cap on.

"As I said… it's restarting."

"…"

The guy looked at me without an expression and suddenly spoke.

"How many times?"

"The third time."

Then the atmosphere changed completely.

"I guess I couldn't go very far."

Cheongryeo responded gently then released his arms and placed them on the table.

'…I finished the calculation.'

Since I've only done it a few times I think I can shake it off.

And seeing that he didn't know him even though it was the third time… he thought that they couldn't go back to the past together.

'I leave it to be misunderstood.'

There is no need and you shouldn't say useless things like coma or anything like that.

Whether this bastard is reconstructed from the knowledge in my head or the system intervenes and is identical to the real thing this bastard at this point is a crazy bastard suffering from reset syndrome.

I spoke quietly.

"First of all I apologize for any rude comments I made through text. "He told me to do at least that much because he wouldn't respond with harsh words."

"Oh did you even say that to me?"

"yes. "It just so happened."

Of course it's a lie you idiot.

"Hmm… I guess it came from a few years later."

"It's three years later."

"Oh it's been 3 years… How am I living?"

"You are living well. "The overall public opinion was that VTIC was the target again this year."

"I see."

It may not be as long as the period you turned it over but 3 years is a fairly useful number. It's enough to make you roll your eyes.

'…Let's not talk about solo.'

This guy is not in a position to be considered right now.

Once you start wondering there is no end to it.

Cheongnyeo grinned.

"I guess we got along pretty well."

"Even after I realized that it wouldn't go back even if I restarted it it was okay."

"That sounds plausible."

Cheongryeo nodded.

And he asked without any agitation and with a smile.

"So why did you contact me?"

"I'm here to make a proposal."

I spoke as naturally as possible as if I had already done it once.

"I want to debut here. "As quickly as possible."

"Oh that's the mission."

"…"

Cheongryeo responded with a smiling expression.

"And… can I call you my junior?"

“yes.”

“is it so. “I guess what you’re saying is that you will provide me with information about the future.”

“Yes.”

I thought lines like ‘How can I trust you’ wouldn’t come out right away.

Isn’t it a situation where someone is willing to somehow take control and watch over you?

However there was no positive response right away.

“But… how do I debut?”

“…!”

“LeTi does not support solo activities. “The current trainees… there are none who are ready to debut.”

“…”

“Oh you already know. “I heard you came back from the future.”

I think you’re blocking solo or rookie debuts.

The former is afraid of being negligent in group activities and the latter is afraid of interfering with group activities.

Instead of saying that I said what I had in mind.

“…I have some members in mind. “We debuted together last time.”

“ah. which?”

“There is an audition program starting soon and I am a member of the cast.”

I thought about the guys that came to mind for a moment.

“…There is an opportunity to be officially recruited by another agency during the program… I would like to bring you in.”

＜Casting Call＞.

…No matter what you do here all you have to do is debut with those guys right?

I swallowed.

“So that’s why you need my help.”

And this bastard in front of me is going to hit me on the back of the head at any moment to nip the threat in the bud so let’s wake up before that happens.

* * *

“…”

The first thing Liu Chengwu heard was the notification sound coming from the device.

And when I opened my eyes what I saw was the hospital ceiling.

“…!”

I got up right away.

Then I felt hands around me trying to help me lie down again.

“…I have returned to consciousness!”

“You must not move. “I’m going to lie down.”

Having become accustomed to trusting the words of medical staff due to his long career as an athlete he reflexively relaxed his body.

Then he lay down and checked his condition.

My feet were fixed. It probably wasn't cracked or broken.

'…I'm glad it wasn't an arm… '

No he no longer needed to care about Palman as his highest priority.

However I should be thankful that the wound was not serious.

"…after."

Liu Chengwu let out a long sigh and tried to come to his senses.

The surroundings were loud and noisy. He put the situation together.

'…There was an accident.'

That former manager.

First of all it appears that the passengers were safely transported to the emergency room.

Since he was a celebrity it seemed like some privacy was considered but I could still hear the sound.

"…It's okay…"

"Guardian here…"

Everyone would have been surprised. Still I was glad.

'…I was last so everyone is probably better off than me.'

It seems like I came to my senses even before my parents arrived.

Probably everyone…

It was that moment.

What had happened before he lost consciousness came back to his vision like a flash.

The shoulder that pushed me and the huge fragment that pierced the flesh underneath…

“…teacher!”

“yes?”

“Mundae… How about Mundae?”

“…”

“Mundae Park Mundae. “You know right?”

“…I think I should check that part too. “First of all the patient please rest assured and rest.”

Liu Chengwu also knew.

…It’s a lie.

Sweet. The door was closed.

Liu Chengwu was suddenly overcome by an indescribable emotion.

Chapter 231

The emergency room was still busy for this purpose only. This is because the news did not reach reporters.

Sejin Lee looked at the floor and thought silently.

‘I contacted the company so that’s over now.’

Even though he couldn’t calm down and calm down he had already screamed so all sorts of things would soon come out from the officials who were aware of the situation.

Still I couldn’t not do it… in this situation.

Aside from Liu Chengwu who was unconscious he was the only one who could contact the company but he couldn’t keep calm.

“…Hueup.”

Sejin Lee held her smartphone and took a breath.

My hands were shaking.

Most members were okay. The degree to which a joint is sprained or fractured.

We will have to check the aftereffects as time passes but Lee Se-jin only suffered minor abrasions.

The person who caused all of this was not wearing a seat belt so he was ejected and passed out. But even that was merciful compared to others.

‘I should have died.’

However Lee Se-jin held her breath due to overwhelming emotions rather than anger toward her former manager.

It was fear.

-Everyone is okay…!

When he checks the condition and checks on the members immediately after the accident.

What I saw next to Liu Chengwu in the back…

'…No it'll be okay.'

He must have been so embarrassed that he perceived the injury as more shocking than the reality…

Everyone had minor injuries but even Ryu Cheong-woo who was closest to where the car behind him crashed only suffered a cracked leg but Park Moon-dae… that's impossible.

It was because of the bleeding. I received a blood transfusion and underwent surgery so I will be fine.

Uncharacteristically Sejin Lee tried to calm her mind by guessing about a field she did not know much about.

This is because Park Moon-dae almost signed the consent form for surgery just before that.

-The patient's current condition…… is dangerous… so the tube needs to be inserted right away…

I tried my best to listen but I couldn't concentrate.

It didn't feel real.

'We… just had our 2nd anniversary performance.'

No matter how many accidents happen without warning does it mean that they happen without us being able to prepare for them?

So helpless?

Yeah this was ridiculous.

'It was going well for a while.'

Isn't it so unfair? What did Park Moon-dae do wrong?

This is not an industry where talented sincere energetic and hard-working people are common so why choose Park Moon University?

A guy who didn't have an easy life.

-Parental consent is required.

-The guardian…

There wasn't. Sejin Lee's blood ran cold.

-Can't I just sign it? just…

-wait a minute.

It seemed like the cause of death was coming and going quickly so instead of getting Lee Se-jin's autograph the medical staff re-confirmed the patient held a meeting and started the surgery right away.

It was possible because it was an emergency but anyway Lee Se-jin sat dumbfounded and waited for the results.

"…"

And I thought.

The other members who were already in a state of panic would have already received treatment so they would have known about the situation.

Lee Se-jin could immediately recall the crying screaming and uproar.

‘Soon sightings will appear… and as soon as articles appear rumors will emerge… ’

No what is the use of all that? First of all all members must be fine.

Sejin Lee gritted her teeth and squeezed her hands.

‘It’ll be okay.’

Still having surgery means there is room for recovery.

So if Park Moon-dae comes to his senses soon…

-And then he suddenly dies in his 30s!

‘Fuck you said that for no reason… ’

Se-jin Lee hit his knee with his fist. My vision is blurry.

‘He’ll wake up.’

It had to be that way.

* * *

“…This is Ryu Geon-woo.”

“Ah yes. Nice to meet you. Best of luck in the future! “This is Sejin Lee.”

I looked at the guy who greeted me politely with a strange feeling.

Even though he was in a coma he still looked like a bad guy but there was one difference.

‘This bastard’s eyes… ’

The taste went away.

He smiles and acts like he’s going to seize the opportunity somehow but I can’t erase the doubt and wariness in his eyes.

‘…Was leaving the show due to rumors a fatal blow?’

Moreover I don’t know why LeTi brought him back after he left the show due to rumors of school violence and I even don’t know why he was able to provide a detailed explanation.

“By any chance how old are you? “I’m 21 years old~”

“I’m 21 years old too.”

“Oh we’re the same age.”

First of all I don’t even dare to talk about it perhaps because I as a senior have judged myself to be higher in rank.

This means that my mentality has been shattered because of the rumors to the point where I can’t even take into account the recognition I’ve built through ‘Azusa’.

I said while holding back a sigh.

“Shall I stop talking?”

“Oh really? Good~”

Afterwards Lee Se-jin left to meet an agency official after having a formal conversation to obtain information.

“…”

Is this right?

I tried to bring in people I could scrape together before ＜Casting Call＞ but it strangely left me with a bitter taste.

Moreover Sun Ah-hyun's side… has not yet given a response to her agency.

…After watching the broadcast of "Azusa" I understand why.

'Fuck you.'

My head was pounding.

…I guess I should have used any kind of force to participate in 'Azusa'.

In fact with LeTi it wouldn't be a problem to kick out a participant from such a ruined program and replace him with his own trainee.

The problem is that the agency strongly refused.

-〈Idol Inc.〉? Why are you there…

'…There is absolutely nothing to gain from this.'

Adding two or three people as trainees was possible because they had not yet debuted.

However an unverified trainee with this agency's name tag cannot participate in a low-quality program.

At this time everyone thought Azusa Season 3 would fail spectacularly.

'Persuasion didn't work.'

It seemed like it would be possible to encourage Cheongryeo a little more with future knowledge bait but with Azusa's first filming coming up right around the corner it was simply impossible due to time constraints.

‘It’s like X.’

The only positive thing to note is that this agency treats me quite well.

-Geonwoo have you really never taken separate lessons? really?

I was a trainee for the past two to three months and after about the first 15 days he figured out my skills and his attitude became much friendlier.

It was worth it. 3 years since debut main vocalist Jjam has not gone anywhere.

‘It looks like they’re even making plans to have him join the debut group.’

Since there is no news of their debut even after 3 years I would like to tell them to throw it away.

“…after.”

I sat down and looked at the mirror in the practice room. My familiar face which I had seen for 29 years was reflected in the mirror.

…I’ll be honest the process itself is much easier.

My abilities are already almost complete the company is smart and the treatment is good. Besides I already know which song and concept I should debut with.

If they gather only members with proven abilities they will definitely achieve success after debut.

And since you can’t see the status window it would be best to bring in people who have already worked together.

‘…I think it’s only a matter of time before Sun Ah-hyun gets in touch.’

It would be perfect if we could bring in a few more guys through <Casting Call> and debut them. If this is not possible you can add at least one existing trainee.

So even though it is much easier than the reality of going through all the terrible things that happened with <Azusa>…

Strangely I was reluctant.

“…It’s not reality that’s right.”

I ended my thought by saying that it was inevitable because my goal was to wake up.

“You mean it’s not reality?”

“…!”

When I turned my head I saw Cheongryeo opening the door at the back of the practice room and walking in.

‘That bastard didn’t even learn to knock.’

I answered hesitantly.

“I just did it.”

“Well it was time to think about that.”

“…”

“But it’s reality so don’t think like that. “Because it’s a waste of time.”

It didn’t work out but it was a dream bastard.

I just nodded without saying a word. Cheongnyeo smiled and continued speaking.

“Ah I heard <Casting Call> will follow. “That was filmed three days later.”

“…”

“You can’t appear on broadcasts. “I’m just taking it with me.”

“That’s enough.”

Did you really want to appear?

Anyway after his future knowledge was verified a few times the guy became creepy and friendly and even willingly agreed to manipulate the <Casting Call>.

“Um… this question is coming up?”

“yes.”

This is a reverse use of the method of ‘receiving a transfer offer from the agency with the most similar answers to a given question.’

Raebin Kim knows that even if he goes ahead anyway he will receive recommendations from LeTi.

And Cha Yu-jin and Ryu Cheong-woo… I also know that no matter what they do they are not the kind of people who should be passed over for work like this.

So I plan to catch the remaining one.

“Since I told you I’ll probably do it.”

Bae Se-jin.

If you do it right it is the easiest to catch at this point.

* * *

And a few days later on the set of Azusa.

“Move this first!”

I checked the situation among the staff by running errands toward LeTi wearing similar attire.

‘…the probability is high.’

First of all we confirmed that the agency contacted and talked with the two members before the <casting call>.

‘Kim Rae-bin and Bae Se-jin.’

It was through the advice of Cheongryeo who received my instigation.

The timing was such that “Azusa” was such a hit that they were happy to pull off a trick like this.

Both advised the deal in the most pernicious direction.

‘For Kim Rae-bin work support is the focus.’

-Among domestic entertainment companies we are investing the largest amount of our budget in production-related facilities.

This agency’s AR work was very systematic. Moreover Raebin Kim is someone who was curious about the recording program used by VTIC so there is quite a possibility.

And considering his moral tendencies he didn’t even mention the question leak story.

I only emphasized that all of this is an ‘official method’.

-I would be very happy if we could meet through an official transfer method in the program.

However I did add that if it were possible I could persuade Cha Yu-jin to come with me.

‘Cha Yu-jin is someone who pays attention when necessary.’

If you like this proposal you will notice what is going on and will give an answer like Raebin Kim would. Although the possibility is very low.

‘And Bae Se-jin… is safe.’

-The legal team is fully staffed and is actively working with large law firms to protect artists.

The contact was made openly with the answers to the questions with a subtle nuance that it was strong against disputes within the agency.

He’s already a bad guy but this should be enough.

And in this process surprisingly Cheongryeo played the role of influencing the agency externally on my behalf quite faithfully.

‘You did well to use the composer as bait.’

So now is the time to see the results.

I continued pretending to be a staff member and checked the filming location.

First of all… Kim Rae-bin.

[Well… um sorry. Since I am appearing I want to do my best in my work.]

Although I thought about it more than I did in real life I ultimately declined.

‘I knew so.’

But the important thing is what happens after that.

[Here.]

[Oh yes! thank you.]

I took a business card.

In other words if this program falls apart due to an unfortunate accident or if I withdraw from the program I will contact LeTi.

And don't we know what will happen in the world?

'This is enough.'

I've been watching this production team for 3 years and there are three or four ways to crush 'Azusa' from now on.

Moreover after the filming was over Ryu Cheng-wu took advantage of the confusion and took a business card from a LeTi official who sneakily approached him.

The results were better than expected.

'What can I do with Cha Yu-jin… We can get everyone together and debut as is.'

Suddenly my head felt tingly.

I swallowed.

But not everything could go as expected.

[…no. it's okay.]

"…!"

Bae Se-jin… refused.

I didn't even receive a business card.

'Are you crazy?'

Why are you kicking the rope? Even in real life I know for sure that I was worried a lot during this time.

[yes. I hope you win.]

However the results did not change.

Bae Se-jin has been confirmed to remain in Azusa.

* * *

"…"

I kept my mouth shut and walked away.

'It feels like I've been slapped in the face.'

I was planning on skipping the ones that didn't work anyway but I don't know why I did this.

Suddenly.

I roughly entered the staff restroom intending to throw cold water on myself.

"…!!"

"…!"

And then I made eye contact with Bae Se-jin.

He clearly looked embarrassed as if he had been dragging his feet with the water running.

‘If that’s the case why refuse?’

I couldn’t hold back my irritation and spoke impulsively.

“How about agreeing now?”

“what?”

Bae Se-jin responded blankly.

“LeTi is a good agency.”

“…”

Bae Se-jin’s face turned red then red again and finally white.

‘Did I stab him too directly?’

“What… you LeTi…”

“yes. “It’s the staff there.”

Bae Se-jin looked at me with a bewildered face and suddenly became extremely defensive.

And he responded sharply.

“You guys… do things like this to take away celebrities?”

“…!”

“Contact me in advance… and steal the questions.”

‘Fuck you.’

Did it get twisted here?

This guy was scared.

He sent the questionnaire and even brought up the legal team in advance.

Bae Se-jin felt that it might have felt similar to what his agency originally did.

"…"

bang.

Bae Se-jin left the bathroom as if running away.

And I had no choice but to admit my mistake.

* * *

In the car on the way home.

I crossed my arms trying to clear my head.

'Let's pretend it never happened.'

Still I felt dirty.

Cheongryeo on the other side checked that the member next to him was sleeping soundly and opened his mouth.

"Junior?"

"yes."

"No I don't understand. "I'm asking because I didn't join anyway."

"…"

"That last actor wasn't even a good contestant so why did you bother to take him? "If it were me I would have taken this opportunity to cut it."

"…what?"

"It's not cooperative and it seems useless."

"…!!"

I feel like I got hit on the head.

Why did you try to bring me here?

'That's it… '

Because I was conscious of it unconsciously.

If Bae Se-jin debuts here there will be drug rumors and his career will be over.

'That guy's life… fuck.'

I gritted my teeth.

Actually I know.

It's not even reality so what does it matter whether Bae Se-jin covers up the drug rumors or dies?

I don't know why I even care about this damn thing.

"Don't worry about your past relationships for nothing. "It's a loss."

"…"

"Everyone just takes business cards anyway so the number of people isn't confirmed. Instead of doing that how about something like this?"

"What?"

Cheongryeo smiled.

“Um joining VTIC?”

“…!!”

What kind of crazy nonsense is this?

‘Is it a trap?’

He has a knack for telling people in a unique way that he should commit suicide for joining a top-tier group that is past the contract renewal season.

“No listen carefully.”

And surprisingly he started talking about a pretty plausible route.

Chapter 232

The ridiculous plan to add new members to VTIC started out as fresh bullshit.

“First of all my junior is making his free debut. alone.”

“…”

Is there a solo story all of a sudden?

“If there is no special incident this year… it will be rather easy to win the Rookie of the Year award in the male solo category. “Because there will be no competition.”

It’s a natural thing to say.

“Didn’t you say that this agency doesn’t support solo activities?”

“I think pre-debut is worth persuading.”

Cheongryeo calmly gave a positive answer.

‘No matter how much of a preview it is before your official debut are you that confident?’

As expected the reason this agency excludes solo artists to an extreme level is because of this guy’s influence.

I crossed my arms.

“Even if you debut like that what guarantee is there that you will achieve success as a male soloist?”

It has been a long time since a male idol without a group achieved success as a soloist.

But Cheongryeo laughed haha.

“Ah not a performance-oriented idol but a vocal-oriented singer.”

“…!”

“You are the first junior to come out of LeTi after VTIC. It’s sure to be a hot topic right? “Because the fields are different we will be able to avoid some checks.”

It’s as they say.

Moreover traditional male solo ballads and indies that are aimed at sound sources rather than dance-type solo singers like idols… have a good batting average.

As long as the song is good.

“And we will be releasing a collaboration song with the VTIC unit early next year. “It would be nice if it was the kind that showed some kind of performance.”

“…”

Is this something that appeals to me that performance is possible and ties me up with VTIC?

“There are many examples of collaboration songs from the same agency so even if there is a backlash it can be easily overcome. “If your grades are good and your role as a junior is clear the opposition from fans will subside.”

At this point I know what you mean.

I opened my mouth.

“…And if the main vocalist incident breaks out are you really saying that you will accept bullshit like ‘It would be better to add Ryu Geon-woo’ and have me join the group?”

“You’re smart. that’s right.”

This means that Ryu Geon-woo will be introduced as a replacement for VTIC’s main vocalist as naturally as possible.

‘That’s crazy.’

It was natural.

The reason I told you about the main vocalist incident was because it was the most expensive information that he wanted.

‘Furthermore although it is an incident that will occur one to two years later it occurs precisely at this time.’

In other words verification was easy. I thought it would be easy to build trust by proving that I came from the future.

However instead of trying to prevent controversy and maintain his form this guy is thinking of replacing him with me.

I furrowed my eyebrows.

“I don’t know why you’re suggesting that when you can prevent something from happening.”

The guy’s expression disappeared.

“Because people can’t be rewritten.”

“…”

“Remember this. Because this is a fact that will be useful in the future.”

It’s pure parts handling.

‘He’s definitely crazy but… ’

Let’s move on.

In any case to put it bluntly even if it means risking damage to the group I will not leave behind any seeds of disruption that I cannot control.

And instead of those who listen well and are desperate they will also include those who are useful and need to be monitored.

“So you’re going to try it?”

Me.

‘This is what happens.’

I never thought I’d get a chance to be in the same group as this guy.

I opened my mouth.

“no. “I decline.”

“…”

No matter how much you think about it if you mess up the plan it will end up being X.

And isn’t it like completely handing over the hilt of the sword to that guy?

‘This bastard is trying to coax me but if the situation changes he could put me in a situation after my pre-debut.’

Besides I don’t know if it’s just a dream but my actions right now are all about trying to find a hint to wake up from my coma. Let’s not take risks for nothing.

‘We go as close to reality as possible.’

…Even Bae Se-jin who couldn't catch it will have another chance to be cast if the <Azusa> program collapses.

I squeezed my hand.

But there was no need to fight this guy so I came up with a very plausible excuse.

"I'm not sure if the Solo Rookie of the Year award will fit the mission. "If I were to win the idol group rookie award I would just die."

"aha."

I thought this would work. Cheongryeo crossed her arms and smiled cheerfully.

"Haha then you can try a different method next time. "You still lack the sense of challenge."

"…"

Let's not talk too long with this bastard.

Afterwards Cheongryeo did not immediately withdraw the proposal saying 'I will give you a month's time' but left without leaving room for room.

'I'm pretty sure I'll give up within a month.'

He was a bad boy. If I'm bored I'd rather just see a picture of a dog or a guy in real life spraying flowers.

I sighed and got up.

'Let's just move on to the next thing.'

Now that I've laid the groundwork I'm going to have to pull out this reclusive guy.

…This is the Sun Ah-hyun of this dream.

* * *

The hospital room was quiet.

Only the white noise of medical machines and people moving across the hallway softly filled the single-person hospital room.

The private room was not chosen solely considering his status as a public figure.

This is because the patient using this private room has not yet woken up.

“…”

Sun Ah-hyeon quietly sat on the caregiver’s chair.

Park Mun-dae had no relatives. Even after Testa became so successful not a single person came forward claiming to be a distant relative.

So other than the hired caregivers only people he had known since he started his career in the entertainment industry came into this hospital room.

People from the company especially the members who came to their senses occasionally opened the door.

However numerous gifts sent by fans were still being inspected. Thanks to this the hospital room was completely empty.

“…”

Sun Ah-hyun placed a fluffy crocheted doll on the table. It came directly from me.

The hand that fell from the doll trembled.

‘Let’s come to our senses… ’

Sun Ah-hyun held her breath.

Of all the members he visited this hospital room the most often and was able to pretend to be a caregiver.

Because Sun Ah-hyun… was barely hurt.

Unlike members who needed action for reasons such as fractures or who were busy fighting with the company they were able to move around from the beginning.

And I felt a burning sense of guilt about that fact even though I didn’t need to at all.

‘I couldn’t say a word… ’

When the other members tried their best to persuade or report the former manager he couldn’t bear to say anything.

It wasn’t that I was speechless out of fear.

It was because he was worried that he who couldn’t even speak properly would get in the way if he stepped forward.

“…”

Sun Ah-hyun quietly put her hands together on her knees and froze on the chair.

My younger brothers are okay. Because he’s my younger brother.

However there was clearly a problem in that he could not do anything while the two people of the same age were persuading the former manager.

It was the same even after the accident.

Even if you had an ingenious or brave idea your lack of speaking skills meant that you needed someone to cover you when dealing with public opinion and the company.

‘Even if I get angry at the company I don’t think it’s working properly… ’

There was no separate side.

However it was not like he suddenly had medical knowledge and could help with Park Moon-dae’s treatment.

All he did was lead the members to the ambulance that was dispatched after receiving the report. Because my body was fine.

But even that was half-crazy.

Sun Ah-hyun clenched her fists.

‘Pathetic.’

So he was really useless. At least that’s how I felt.

However due to concerns about the bigger reality self-loathing was pushed down the list of priorities.

Park Moon-dae… has been unconscious for five days.

Although I heard that the surgery was quite successful I thought it was because the shock was so severe and there was a lot of bleeding.

‘I should have sat in the back seat at that time… ’

That would have been a much better result. The door handle hurts less…

“…”

Sun Ah-hyun wiped her face.

I couldn't cry shamelessly over something like this.

I had to at least pray during that time.

'Be healthy… nothing happens and no aftereffects.'

I hope you come back soon.

* * *

"Wow it's nice to see you again!"

"Ah ah hello… how are you…"

"…"

Lee Se-jin who is almost artificially sad and Sun Ah-hyun who cannot even raise her head say hello.

I kept my mouth shut and looked at it.

My headache was throbbing.

'…I didn't even say anything.'

I thought there was a high probability that it was the same gold tooth.

This means that Lee Se-jin did not feel the need to force himself to be close to Sun Ah-hyun.

'If you have that face Lee Se-jin might take a stab at it for networking purposes.'

To that extent it also meant that something was wrong with the quality of Sun Ah-hyun's performance and the editing of the broadcast.

Actually I watched the broadcast so I know what happened.

‘…I was under too much control.’

It’s because in the first team match he forced the other guys to do parts they didn’t fit in and mistreated him like hell.

At least the editing wasn’t very friendly to Sun Ah-hyun who did this.

-Seon Ah-hyun is a real developing cancer;

-Just because you stutter doesn’t mean you can’t convey your opinion. I was so frustrated that I cursed.

Sun Ah-hyun’s teammates also received all kinds of criticism but there was also a lot of public opinion that said they ‘deserved to be mistreated’.

Thanks to this comments like ‘A kid like that shouldn’t be on Survival’ were uploaded with the most recommendations and it was crazy.

And here Sun Ah-hyun… was directly affected by the negative votes and was narrowly eliminated.

I pressed my temples.

“…”

‘I took it out first but… ’

Since I already knew this guy’s house it wasn’t difficult to go and talk to him.

Fortunately while I was cleaning up my room I visited and convinced my parents that I was a ‘LeTi trainee’ and brought this guy with me.

They were so worried about Sun Ah-hyun’s condition that they fell for the name of the agency that managed her image well through artist care.

Of course it was conditional on my own persuasion.

-We are not debuting right away but I thought it would be good if we stayed together while practicing.

-The student said “Thank you.” But if Ahyeon says she doesn’t like it I won’t recommend it any further.

-… Is it okay if I try to persuade you?

In that way I persuaded Seon Ah-hyun to talk to her in the room.

-The agency says that the group can debut only if you are included.

-…

-I was wondering if you would ever consider coming out to practice. I think you’ll do well.

Sun Ah-hyun didn’t react or kept her head down but eventually nodded.

He looked really sick… but if I feed him well and let him sleep well he will get better.

‘If I can practice and debut properly my mentality will be fine.’

Even though Sun Ah-hyun looks like a mentally unstable person at times like this she is a person with good resilience.

‘…I’ve seen it many times.’

Well… all you have to do is comfort him. I made my judgment objectively.

And after a while.

“Ahyun wait a moment.”

“…”

With her head down Sun Ah-hyun left with her parents to meet agency officials.

And Lee Se-jin asked me in a coy tone.

“They say that friend is also included in this group?”

“I think so.”

“Hmm I see. “I heard earlier that you persuaded me yourself. Is that true?”

“…”

“Hey you’re good at it~”

Sejin Lee sat down next to him. I suppressed a snort.

‘But has your mentality returned?’

Roughly speaking it was a moment similar to the first time we met in Azusa.

Sejin Lee who was sitting next to me spoke in passing in a sociable tone.

“Hmm… I heard you don’t have any other friends at work in mind?”

“…Why is that?”

I wondered if you were curious about another member. However Lee Se-jin waved his hand and responded lightly.

“uh? No that guy could leave~ just in case!”

“…!”

I felt a strange nuance… that I was sure it would go out.

I asked immediately.

“Why do you think that?”

“uh? “He came all the way here because he was scared of you.”

“…!!”

“If you look at it like that but… wasn’t it intentional to scare you and motivate you? Haha sorry~”

“…”

I… looked like that?

‘That can’t be possible.’

I tried to persuade him in the mildest way possible. I was never forced or bullied.

‘I’m just saying that I need Sun Ah-hyun… ’

At that moment Sun Ah-hyeon’s condition came to mind.

My self-esteem has hit rock bottom and my mentality has been shattered.

And the words I used.

-The agency says that the group can debut only if you are included.

…It might have sounded like it was your fault if I couldn’t debut because you didn’t come.

So Sun Ah-hyun couldn’t even reply and came with him.

“Well anyway you don’t know who will come right? Okay~”

“…”

Sejin Lee finished the conversation appropriately and walked out of the practice room while fiddling with her smartphone.

I thought.

Was the Sun Ah-hyun I knew like that?

Was the Lee Se-jin I knew the one who said things like this?

‘…no.’

It wasn’t.

At that moment the accident suddenly began to fall apart.

I stood there in a daze and looked back at my course of action.

‘It doesn’t make sense.’

What was I talking about when I started doing this trying to debut just like in real life?

Looking for a hint to wake up from a coma?

There is no guarantee that you will find it and there is even no clear reason why it should be the same as reality.

‘It’s just my guess.’

So the reason why I tried to make this guess with some certainty…

Fuck you. Because I just wanted to.

Because I want to embody the life I lived at Park Mun-dae.

“under.”

I sat down in the practice room out of breath.

And then I remembered the message in the status window.

-Enjoy your daydream :) –

'Is this why it was a daydream?'

The meaning of daydream is a vain fantasy.

…So this was my desire.

I guess I wanted to keep the life I lived as Park Mun-dae. With mine.

But I already know the answer.

This is what I said directly to Cheongnyeo.

-Even if we start over and build the same team it will never be the same as it is now. Because the events and stories shared will be different.

That is impossible.

It could never be the same…

But why have I rationalized this shit?

"…"

I thought as I stuck my head in the giant mirror.

And I eventually admitted it.

'I guess it's because Park Mun-dae has been my life for the past two and a half years.'

Although I experienced it as Park Moon-dae all choices and thinking experiences are mine.

Because it was something my mind experienced directly. That couldn't change.

Even if all this shit ends and I return to my original body Ryu Geon-woo… that won't change the fact that it was my experience.

Now I understand.

"after."

I lifted my head from the mirror.

The mirror was foggy and I couldn't see my face.

"…"

Even though the face that should be shown over there is the face of 'Ryu Geon-woo' this dream was not my life.

'stop.'

I've been here too long. Now I wanted to return to reality.

To 'my reality' where I live.

It was that moment.

Tiring.

"…!!"

[Function unlocked!]

[Function: Draw (Consumable)]

A pop-up… appeared.

And one more thing.

What I left behind in reality.

[Remaining Draw: 1]

[Treasure Trait Draw ☜ Click!]

I raised my hand and struck it repeatedly.

Chapter 233

Raebin Kim walked down the hallway of the hospital room adjusting the box in one hand.

The other arm was still in a half cast and could not be moved freely so I had to move it more carefully.

Raebin Kim kept his mouth shut.

‘Unfortunate things like missing a box shouldn’t happen!’

Still after the accident the number of media officials waiting around the hospital was reduced considerably so they were able to enter here easily.

This is because quite a bit of time has passed since the shocking traffic accident was reported.

As the title ‘Recovering from surgery in a coma’ lasted for more than 10 days they left to find other prey.

It was a typical case in the entertainment industry where incidents occur every other day.

However the Internet was still in chaos with all kinds of pessimistic speculation article column fans’ worries and anger swirling around.

[Testar Park Moon-dae… Is there a risk of brain death?]

[Accident suffered by ‘The Groom of May’ <Reconstruction of the Day>]

[Prayer for Park Moon-dae’s recovery 7 days after surgery]

And Kim Rae-bin only occasionally checked these things on the search engine main page and did not have the knowledge or time to look closely at the detailed responses.

Therefore I only understood the simple facts based on the comments fans left on the official account.

‘Everyone is very interested in whether Moon Dae-hyung wakes up.’

Basically that was correct.

It was then.

“Raebin Kim!”

“…! “It’s a hospital. Be quiet!”

Cha Yoo-jin who ran out of the next hospital room used crutches brilliantly and chased after Kim Rae-bin at breakneck speed.

He was still hospitalized because his injuries were so severe that he suffered a bigger bone injury than Kim Rae-bin.

“Are you going to see Moon Dae?”

“…huh.”

“I want to go too.”

Cha Yu-jin answered steadfastly and walked at the same pace as Kim Rae-bin.

The calmness was unexpected for someone who cried profusely and said a quick unintelligible prayer in Spanish during the surgery.

‘I hope Cha Yu-jin is stupid.’

Kim Rae-bin briefly envied Cha Yu-jin and then silently walked away again.

Park Moon-dae's hospital room was right nearby.

"brother."

"We are here."

"Uh uh welcome…"

Sun Ah-hyun who had been sitting quietly like a stone statue in the hospital room quickly got up and answered softly.

"Mundae-hyung are you comfortable?"

"…Yeah you said there wouldn't be any uncomfortable places."

"all right!"

Cha Yu-jin bravely sat next to the bed and began to explain the current situation to the unconscious Park Moon-dae in a mixture of Korean and English.

"Are the fans like paper? I'm sending you a new one. [It's fascinating. I guess there are similar stories in every country. Anyway it's good that you hope for a full recovery right?]"

His general opinion was that 'he might be listening' but because it was true that it strangely gave hope the members did not stop Cha Yu-jin.

"It looks like the other brothers have already come and gone."

"…Oh I went to work earlier."

"okay."

Kim Rae-bin nodded and waited for Cha Yu-jin to finish her turn.

Because what he brought was very important news he couldn't be bothered by Cha Yu-jin's voice.

And as I watched Cha Yu-jin talking persistently for a long time I suppressed the urge to shout 'Don't waste the meeting time with repeated stories!'

'You have to be quiet in the hospital room!'

Kim Rae-bin advised herself that she would show a refined appearance in front of that great Mundae brother.

And in the end I was able to quietly take over the baton without arguing with Cha Yu-jin.

"Hello brother…"

Of course there was no answer from Park Moon-dae who was lying down.

Raebin Kim somehow felt like crying. It may have been because it reminded me of my grandmother's time but I just held on to it anyway.

"I have something prepared for you."

Trying to stay calm he lifted the box and opened it.

The inside of the box was full.

Several sheets of paper with all kinds of lines and notes drawn on them iconic props and… a laptop.

Sun Ah-hyeon who was standing quietly's eyes widened.

"This is…"

"…This is concept material for the next album."

Raebin Kim answered bravely.

"We are working hard to prepare so don't worry about your future schedule and just wake up comfortably!”

This is what he did as soon as he was discharged from the hospital.

“…”

Even Cha Yu-jin was speechless and looked at Kim Rae-bin.

In fact it is a very irrational behavior.

Even if Park Moon-dae woke up right away no one knew whether rehabilitation and return would be possible immediately.

Moreover it has been longer than expected since Park Moon-dae failed to regain consciousness.

It is said that there is even talk among medical staff that a full-scale re-examination should be conducted.

Despite this Kim Rae-bin has been ‘preparing’ her next activity in detail as if it were possible at any moment.

To report to Park Moon-dae who was asleep and couldn’t see.

‘know.’

Raebin Kim thought.

It was almost unbelievable that I wasted such a ridiculous amount of time predicting an uncertain future in a positive light.

‘But… I experienced it.’

Since the grandmother has woken up I am sure Brother Mundae will wake up soon as well.

“I’ll be waiting while getting ready!”

Raebin Kim thought back on his illogical conviction and sat down bravely on the chair next to the bed holding the box.

Then a loud noise erupted from the side.

“that’s right!”

“…!”

“Hyung wake up and we’re having another concert! “I do it a lot!”

“That’s right! “Mundae I’ll prepare it…!”

Following Cha Yu-jin even Seon Ah-hyeon who was downcast seemed to have been stimulated and shouted while holding on to the yarn she was knitting.

If someone else had been here they might have clicked their tongues or looked at me with pity wondering what kind of blue monk this was.

Still they persevered.

“…”

Of course Park Mun-dae still had no answer.

Because reality was not a cartoon there was no way a person in a coma would wake up when called by a colleague.

But they decided to wait.

Instead of making plans for a future without Park Moon-dae I chose to do so.

And for Park Moon-dae who was sleeping the moment of choice was coming.

* * *

The ‘Click’ phrase in the status window that I repeatedly typed flashed like in real life and brought up a new pop-up.

A now familiar picture of a slot machine.

When I pulled the lever… the compartment started spinning.

Platinum-colored cells are occasionally visible between the golden-colored cells.

However the spaces were not filled with all kinds of embarrassing phrases like in reality.

All the spaces were empty.

“…”

But I just waited for Khan to stop. Cold sweat dripped from the tip of my chin.

The moment when the slowly rotating slot stops.

Papang!

[Slot machine jackpot success!]

: Draw legendary characteristics!

We arrived at a platinum-colored empty space.

[Attribute: Obtain _____!]

The blank space in the pop-up was stark. As if you could fill it with anything.

‘Is it because it was a dream?’

I couldn’t figure it out. But one thing was certain.

Platinum Legendary Trait.

‘It’s grade A.’

What do I know about Grade A?

When I thought about that a flash of premonition suddenly passed through my mind as if I had been hit on the head.

And without realizing it I opened my mouth.

“Bacchus… to 1000.”

[Enter Bacchus 1000 (A)?]

[Yes/No]

I raised my hand and said yes.

The additional effect attached to Bacchus 1000 which has been upgraded to A grade…

-All fatigue recovery speed +100%

So what if you move up to S rank?

[Check the same characteristics!]

Would you like to synthesize ‘Bacchus 1000 (A)’?

okay.

At that moment colorful lights exploded like firecrackers before my eyes.

And the pop-up was updated to a sparkling rainbow.

[Synthesis success!]

Obtain ‘Nectar (S)’!

The sweet taste of life

-Full vitality recovery (one-time use)

“…!”

This is it.

I sat down on the floor.

‘I did it.’

You chose the right option.

My body which was already standing up is sweetly absorbing the rest.

I was tense my limbs were shaking and my mind was full of unresolved questions.

But I understand one thing.

‘You can go back.’

It felt right that the moment I activated that my body would fully recover and wake up.

Instead of reality there is a possibility that ‘Ryu Geon-woo’s body in this dream may recover… no shut up. That won’t happen.

‘The status window didn’t work here in the first place.’

Moreover wasn’t it a combination of the characteristics I originally had in reality as ‘Park Moon-dae’?

This is unconditionally a real body object.

My mind felt thrilled.

And at the same time… I got nervous.

‘We need to do this quickly before the status window becomes inactive again.’

I didn’t know what else would happen in this damn dream. I tried to immediately activate the attribute ‘Nectar (S)’ that appeared in the pop-up.

And I muttered without realizing it.

“Let’s go back.”

“already?”

“…!!”

…When I turned my head the guy who had gone back saying he had a schedule was sticking his face into the practice room.

Cheongryeo.

I instinctively prepared myself for crisis. There were many excuses.

“I didn’t think there would be any more practice so I meant to go back.”

“lie.”

He walked into the practice room with great strides.

‘If I press it right now… ’

If you feel uncomfortable while pressing the air for a moment could this crazy bastard attack you?

While I was quickly weighing my profits and losses Cheongnyeo stood across from me.

And… he opens his mouth with a sour expression on his face.

“Well I don’t have as much grit as I thought.”

“what?”

“You said it was the third time? “I thought it would be a somewhat hasty decision to try to start over with something like this at this time.”

Oh was that the story?

Well this bastard has no way of knowing that this is a dream I had while in a coma.

I guess he understood it as ‘going back to the beginning’.

I responded in a much lower tone.

“No restart. “I thought about it for a moment and said it seriously but what I really mean is that I’m going back to the dorm.”

“is it so. Then listen.”

The seeds aren’t even working.

He spoke casually with an expression on his face that convinced me that I had decided to start over.

“First of all the two that my junior has collected… are in an awkward state to handle. They won’t always cooperate. “Did you see it this time too?”

“…”

“From now on it would be better to wait about a month before deciding to join. I think I was a bit hasty this time. “It was pretty good just before that.”

“that’s right.”

I laughed.

“I just chose it because I wanted to be with it.”

“…!”

Cheongryeo… became a mysterious face.

It’s as if the distant past has suddenly come to light.

And muttered.

“…Well since it’s the beginning it doesn’t matter once or twice.”

“…”

I didn’t bother to reply.

Instead after a while he deliberately spoke lightly.

“But if I restart please let the kids debut. “I will give you some good information.”

“Um those two?”

“They said it wasn’t very good. “I don’t think it poses a threat to VTIC.”

Cheongryeo shrugged his shoulders.

I don’t understand but it means positive. If you do this there is a good chance that you will do it if you feel like it if there are no problems.

I sent him off after he had calmed down.

And I sent him a few reservation emails.

[August 202X.txt]

Future knowledge arriving every two weeks.

And… the prosecution investigated the gambling house that Bae Se-jin's father operated.

-It is an illegal gambling house that deals drugs in large quantities. Please be sure to check.

I'm not going to be here anymore anyway so it doesn't matter if the reporter turns out to be me.

'…This will make things a little better.'

Lastly I searched for and sent the hospital contact information of Sun Ah-hyun's current counselor in real life to Sun Ah-hyun's parents.

-This is the teacher I received counseling from and it helped me a lot.

widely.

After finishing everything I closed my smartphone and felt refreshed.

'…Is there nothing left?'

It was then.

"Oh~ Are you close with senior Cheongryeo?"

When I turned my head the guy who had gone out looking at his smartphone was coming back to the practice room.

I looked back at the pop-up for a moment and answered Sejin Lee.

“…It’s not like it doesn’t exist.”

“okay?”

“Oh but I have no need to introduce you.”

“…!”

“That bastard is crazy. “Be careful in the future.”

“…what?”

The guy looked like he was wondering if he had heard something wrong. It’s the first human face I’ve seen in a while.

“…”

Maybe this damned dream will disappear the moment I leave.

So it’s just self-satisfaction but whatever.

I reopened my smartphone and spoke quickly to him.

“I’ll introduce you to a composer instead of that bastard so listen carefully. “I will put it to good use once I debut.”

“what?”

I sent a text message to that guy. It was the contact information of a composer who was still unknown.

Jiiiing!

The vibration was loud but Lee Se-jin looked dumbfounded.

“Now call here… After listening to the samples choose number 3 or number 7. Because that will work out well.”

"…What suddenly?"

I chuckled.

"Actually if I just listened to it I think you would choose that too. "I said it once."

"…!"

Because you were like that in real life.

Lee Se-jin's eyes were filled with embarrassment. Then after rubbing his face with one hand as if choosing his words he finally opened his mouth.

"Oh thank you but I don't know what you're talking about. Let's talk after we calm down a bit shall we? "Why are you such a crazy person?"

When I saw one of the skins peeling off a thought occurred to me.

'…If there had been a little more time it might have been resolved.'

It was somehow pleasant.

I looked at him for a moment then turned my back and headed toward the door.

"Hey wait a minute."

"See you again."

In reality.

There is nothing more to do here.

I waved one hand back and walked out of the practice room without hesitation.

The pop-up is still floating in my field of vision.

[Do you want to activate ‘Nectar (S)’?

(※Warning※: Consumable characteristics/single use)]

“okay.”

And my vision burned bright white.

Chapter 234

Bae Se-jin looked at the smartphone with wide eyes.

Most articles that intentionally incite anxiety were taken down by the company.

Or at least that's what the company was claiming but Bae Se-jin had a different opinion.

'It's just… isn't it because it has already risen enough?'

This means that since the company has completely blocked out the details of the accident there is nothing more to worry about so the articles have become dull.

That's right. The company was desperately trying to block the media from telling stories related to the former manager.

In the end the article simply reported that it was an 'accident caused by the negligent driving of a former manager who was close to retirement.'

'This is ridiculous.'

Bae Se-jin clenched his hands.

As a result of some members gritting their teeth and persistently interrogating the working staff they also found out how the former manager broke in.

-I didn't hear about the change of manager from the performance company… They thought I was doing something else during the day and passed it on.

-…!!

So this accident… was also the fault of the company which failed to properly notify the relevant people that it had fired the former manager!

Since they knew this Bae Se-jin intuitively knew that they had even requested the headquarters and were desperately trying to crack down on the media.

Even now the company was being criticized on all fronts for neglect of its management personnel.

However if the facts become clearer they will suffer a huge blow so they are taking as long as possible until the incident subsides.

‘At that time… focus on Park Moon-dae’s recovery.’

Of course I had no expectations.

If some members had not strongly opposed the company they would have secretly mentioned the 6-member system activities.

‘It’s disgusting… ’

Bae Se-jin covered his mouth.

I know it can’t be helped but Bae Se-jin is completely fed up with the low-life capitalist view that only sees the group as a business foundation.

Since it is none of their business they act like they are insensitive to the schedules of their celebrities.

I’ve seen it so much since I was young that I’m almost sick of it.

‘In this industry accidents like this don’t happen every day or two…!’

Why does the same thing repeat itself every time?

This way apart from the superficial justification of being part of the system… it is no different from my previous agency.

Bae Se-jin gave strength so that the hand covering her mouth turned white.

'…I need to find a more proper agency.'

There are certainly agencies that protect human ethics and are run by decent people.

It had to be that way.

'If I just last three years… '

Bae Se-jin almost fell into an endless stream of consciousness. But I barely managed to get out.

Because I was thinking of Park Moon-dae.

…still hasn't woken up.

"…"

Bae Se-jin weakly dropped the hand holding the smartphone.

I also know that no matter what plan you make this will only work properly if you have Park Moon-dae.

'What… I treat it as if I've been doing that all my life.'

Bae Se-jin had never seen such a superhuman peer.

That shining talent confidence and boldness. That alone makes him seem like a natural entertainer… He was even skilled in social life.

There was a time when I felt a sense of relative deprivation during the idol audition program but after my debut I no longer felt that way.

Because I didn't even feel like comparing.

'I… received a lot of help.'

There was a time when I shouted out loud that I would definitely pay it back but it is true that it was too far off.

'I wondered if there would come a time when Park Moon-dae would need my help.'

In fact he himself coldly assessed that what Bae Se-jin did to help him was clumsy because he was only thinking ahead.

But this time Bae Se-jin really had to make a move. Something had to be done.

Park Moon-dae could not wake up and the other members were injured or mentally and physically exhausted so they could not perform at their usual level.

'But… I've always been like that.'

This is because in the past he always lived in a state of mental and physical exhaustion and sensitivity.

So in this situation it was Bae Se-jin who had to act more actively.

"…"

Bae Se-jin removed his hand covering his mouth. My eyes were sparkling.

'let's do it.'

Bae Se-jin picked up her smartphone and checked a contact number somewhere.

Then I took a deep breath and started writing the email.

“…”

My hands were shaking.

‘But I’m the only one who can do it!’

Bae Se-jin gritted his teeth and pressed send.

He didn’t know if this would be an effective choice. But when I thought about it I was right.

“…Whew.”

Bae Se-jin sat back down in his seat.

And he tried to stay calm while fiddling with the hamster-patterned case that a fan had given him as a gift.

It was then.

[♫♪♩~ ♫♫♪♪♩]

“…!”

I got a call.

Bae Se-jin hurriedly checked the smartphone screen.

-Seon Ah-hyun’s younger brother

Bae Se-jin answered the phone without even taking a breath.

“What happened…”

Several excited voices rang out on the other end of the phone.

“…”

Bae Se-jin who had been waiting calmly was shocked by the completed sentence.

"…Now wait a minute! Soon…!"

Bae Se-jin stuttered and ran out of the conference room without even finishing the sentence.

My heart was racing.

* * *

After activating Nectar (S).

Suddenly my vision turned white and before I knew it my mind was floating in empty space.

No rather than floating… it feels like I'm being sucked into somewhere.

'Is this the exact opposite of when I entered the dream?'

At that time everything turned black.

To put it in perspective I would like to guess that I am waking up.

I tried to fold my arms and realized that I couldn't feel the shape of my body. And it's been quite a while.

'How long should I wait?'

That moment.

Color came into the pure white space.

'…!'

No it's a wave rather than a color.

From far away.

Strange shocks came over me as if I had sensualized abstract things like emotions or thoughts.

Piing-.

'…!!'

A powerful experience passes by as if my whole body is shaking.

and.

The first thing I noticed was Park Moon-dae's home master looking at his smartphone.

He is the person who has been taking pictures of Park Moon-dae since his pre-debut program days.

From the moment she heard the news about Park Moon-dae's car accident she was almost out of her mind and was glued to her smartphone.

I couldn't even cry.

And at 3 am.

After checking the article about Park Moon-dae's surgery on his smartphone he was posting about it on his social media.

-Please pray a lot.

My trembling fingernails hit the screen.

What on earth is this?

The next to appear were brother and sister.

My older sister whose eyes were already red and swollen was fighting fiercely with people on the Internet who were arguing about Testa's car accident.

Instead of arguing or joking around like usual the younger brother is sitting next to his older sister and joking with her.

And using a lack of medical knowledge from the Internet he quietly suggested that there was a much higher chance that Park Moon-dae would be okay…

The waves were hot.

A graduate student who saw the breaking news spilled coffee while making coffee in one corner of the lab room.

And I cried out loud not caring that the floor was a mess.

Lab colleagues who rushed around were embarrassed but soon understood the situation and worried with us.

There were some people who thought it was pathetic but the sadness was so strong that even if they talked behind their backs they couldn't help but comfort it now.

The story didn't end.

Homemaster an office worker who takes photos of Lee Se-jin and Park Moon-dae clicked his tongue at the industry's practices saying "I still haven't learned anything" upon hearing the news of Testa's car accident.

However unable to hide his nervousness he used his physical condition as an excuse to take annual leave from work the next day and reported the news about Park Moon-dae…

Why this stuff is pouring in… I don't know.

A person who went to see an idol concert for the first time in his life.

A person who became interested in Park Moon-dae after working with various idols. A person who liked ‘The Groom of May’.

A person who cheered for Park Moon-dae in an audition program and then forgot about him for a while. A person who likes other members of Testa and also has a crush on Park Moon-dae.

A person who doesn’t really like Park Moon-dae but is worried about him. A person who buys albums in bulk and collects all of Park Moon-dae’s photo cards to decorate them…

Piing-.

The experiences and thoughts of all kinds of people who knew Testa’s Park Mundae twinkled everywhere like stars in the country sky on a summer night.

Numerous worries sorrow thoughts complex thoughts and simple powerful emotions filled my heart.

And gently squeezed it.

‘…’

I had no idea how I could feel such a strong sense of connection with people I didn’t even know in person.

I thought without thinking.

‘Is Park Moon-dae me?’

No this question was not correct.

‘Testa’s Park Moon-dae… Am I the right idol?’

How many celebrities are active by changing their real name to their social status and appearance?

But does that celebrity think he is a different person when he sees himself on TV?

Is Park Moon-dae just a character I created like ‘The Groom of May’?

‘…no.’

That wasn’t it.

Park Moon-dae may not be everything to me.

But it was definitely a part of me.

All of these emotions and thoughts… may not all be directed directly at me but there was definitely something they shared with me.

So this definition is correct.

These are… that’s it.

-People who want me to wake up.

‘…’

I felt like I was going to be overwhelmed.

All those emotions and thoughts pass over my head like waves leaving behind wet traces.

The pure white space was suddenly dyed with all kinds of colors dripping with color.

It tasted salty like tears.

I was ecstatic.

It was a sweet taste of life.

I was sucked into the color and ascended.

It seemed like light was leaking from above.

[Nectar (S)]

-Activation successful!

* * *

“Huh!”

I let out a sigh.

My limbs felt numb as if I had fallen into mud.

But the air was so hot that it killed me.

‘…Is it daytime?’

Perhaps because I hadn’t opened my eyes for so long my vision was blurry.

But my ears seemed to be fine.

“Park Moon-dae!!”

“Mumundae…!!”

I understand these voices well.

These guys should be receiving proper treatment so what on earth are they doing in someone else’s hospital room?

‘…Still I’m thankful.’

I screamed until my ears dropped and endured hands pouring down on my shoulders and head.

Very willing.

It was a while later that I regained my vision and the medical staff removed the devices they had attached to my body.

Surprisingly all six were in the hospital room.

'A single room is nice.'

It's amazing that even with all 7 grown kids inside there's still room to move around.

And the reason for this situation is… The people who came to visit at that time seem to have witnessed something.

"I thought Mu Mundae opened his eyes for a moment… I called him just in case. Ugh I'll also contact the medical staff…"

"Okay… thank you."

"Oh no…!"

Then I thought what would you have done if I hadn't woken up but I didn't say it out loud?

'I have a head too.'

It's impossible to wake up from labor pains in a bath of emotion and celebration that brings tears to your eyes.

…and it's nice to see you after a long time.

Instead he was expressing his gratitude to the members as gently as possible.

The guy with the open nose shouted.

"Would you like to eat Mundaemundae melon?? "The sugar is the best~"

"Oh yeah."

As expected the eyes are different. I once again glanced at the big guy.

"…Oh Mundae are you really amazed that you have such a true friend?"

"It's similar."

"…!"

After hearing that bullshit I finally feel it.

It feels like returning to reality.

Big Sejin looked at me with a puzzled expression then dramatically raised one arm to cover his face and made a black noise.

"It's so touching!"

It looks like he's really crying and pretending to cry on purpose but my condition must have been really serious.

'First of all considering the scenes I saw earlier surgery is confirmed…'

I thought there would be an obvious scene where the medical staff said it was a miracle but there was no such story in particular.

Actually my physical condition is not that trashy. So I wondered if it was because I activated 'Nectar' that it was so fine.

'…Could it have been a wound that would have healed even if I just stayed still?'

Maybe I just overdid it.

But I'm back anyway so I'm satisfied with that.

I like myself now.

I ate the first melon I received as a special meal for patients and tried to figure out the situation.

I felt a little sluggish perhaps because I had just regained consciousness.

Then I saw it. Cha Yu-jin looks like she's drooling when she sees the melon.

"…Give it to me?"

"are you okay! "You need to eat a lot and be strong!"

You're brave. At first it seemed like it was almost strangling my neck but it seems to be still the same.

And Kim Rae-bin looked like she had a lot to say but she looked busy crying so I left her alone.

What we're going to talk about now…

"Now that I think about it what day is it? "What happened to the former manager who caused the accident?"

"…!"

This is the person who can answer this.

"…Park Moon-dae."

"Oh yes."

Surprisingly Bae Se-jin spoke with a stern expression.

"First of all… before that listen to this story first."

"yes."

Bae Se-jin took a deep breath and slowly began to explain.

“The company… didn’t want to talk about the former manager properly.”

“ah.”

I roughly expected it up to that point.

‘I think I’ll be able to use that later.’

What’s important is whether the bastard sitting behind the wheel is ready to eat beans and rice.

However Bae Se-jin clenched one hand and said something unexpected.

“So I anonymously reported it to the Human Rights Commission…!”

“…??”

“All the work so far!”

“…?!”

What… what?

Chapter 235

Human rights… above?

The atmosphere in the hospital room was chaotic when the Human Rights Commission suddenly appeared… I thought it would be chaotic but seeing that everyone else was calm it seemed like everyone except me had agreed on this.

‘At least they talked before and after reporting it.’

I was trying to press my forehead but stopped when I realized there was an IV in there.

“The… National Human Rights Commission.”

“…okay!”

Isn’t that… an organization with no judicial enforcement power?

At best you’ll end up scolding the company.

I wonder if they will take seriously reports of idol human rights violations that originally came in anonymously.

However Bae Se-jin does not look embarrassed by my explanation.

“know… Those people can’t solve all of this.”

“…”

“But it won’t be in the media! “I also received recommendations for city administration!”

“…?”

Bae Se-jin still clenched his fist and eagerly explained the principles of his actions.

So to summarize this guy's judgment is as follows.

"Since the company is blocking media coverage of the entertainment side I tried to have the article published by reporters in the social side… Is this what you mean?"

"that's right."

In short it is a route change.

Bae Se-jin… I can't believe she had this kind of ambition.

'after… '

Smoking… no it's okay.

I almost bit my tongue so let's clean up our mouths.

I quickly checked in my head what kind of repercussions would occur.

'If it's anonymous there's a high chance that it won't have the effect Bae Se-jin is aiming for.'

Is an entertainment company trying to cover up an artist-related accident?

The likelihood that the Human Rights Commission of its own would carefully find out where this place was was extremely low.

'If you scoff at the reporters who got your sources here you could end up damaging the company's temper.'

However the company will be nervous so it's 'Do you dare to report it?' There is an aspect that becomes easier to negotiate once you outgrow the annoyances of things like that…

“And anonymous… doesn’t mean we didn’t say the group name.”

“…then?”

“Only the anonymity of the informant was maintained. “Uh I used it in the name of my mother’s friend…”

“…”

Bae Se-jin swallowed his saliva.

“…If we do this they won’t think it’s us. “I was wondering if they might think of competitors or people who left the company or something like that.”

It turns out that this guy organized all the employment and labor-related issues that have occurred at the agency so far and sent them to me.

This ranges from non-payment of overtime pay to illegal searches of personal information related to industrial espionage.

‘How far did you increase the board?’

In fact I have a sneaking suspicion that this might just be a daydream.

“…”

“I’m not saying I’m proud of this either! Still I have to do this…”

I suppressed a bitter smile.

“no. “I think you did well.”

“…!”

Bae Se-jin’s eyes widened.

“Really??”

“yes.”

Let’s just say it’s okay since we’ve already gotten over the part I’m most worried about.

‘The parent company T1 took a tester and got over the situation where it would have to be ruined.’

It’s a shame that I can’t use it as a hand but…

I was not the only one in the car accident and there is no justification for benefiting only in the direction I want.

‘Those guys must have accumulated a lot over the years.’

You can act in your own way.

‘The scale… seems to be growing a lot in a different direction.’

This is rather good. The moment it stands out as a social issue such as abuse of power in the workplace it turns into an issue that must be handled by superiors and headquarters not by subordinates.

And from our perspective no matter what hardships the higher-ups go through it’s okay as long as the working-level staff can work.

It doesn’t matter as long as there are no problems with group operation.

‘If I do well I’ll see the status of the payment bot again.’

Just imagining it is comfortable.

I nodded feeling more at ease.

“yes. “I’m looking forward to the results.”

“…okay!”

Bae Se-jin’s complexion brightened. The members nodded and nodded but no one was shaken.

‘I guess you’ve had a big fight with your agency since the accident.’

I clicked my tongue and once again asked the question that had not been answered before.

“So what day is today?”

“…”

Then they exchange glances.

‘What is it?’

Liu Chengwu who had been quiet until now slowly opened his mouth.

“…Mundae.”

“yes.”

“Today is July 6th.”

“…!!”

The months are different.

‘I lost my mind for a moment because my debut anniversary was June 18th… ’

So that means I was in a coma for 18 days.

“…”

No… June just melted away.

While I was confused for a moment Liu Chengwu added in a low voice.

“So don’t think about anything else and just rest. “I think about work and activities later.”

“…”

“From now on… think about your body first.”

ah.

I looked up at Liu Chengwu.

The guy had an unusually dark complexion.

‘Now that I think about it he almost got a rebar stuck in his head so I hit him in the chest instead.’

Honestly isn’t the exchange fee better than following someone else?

I’m not some kind of psychopath but the guy sitting next to me is having his head pierced so it’s not like I’m just watching.

I looked at him quite incredulously but I roughly understood his feelings.

‘Did you think he fell into a coma instead of you?’

Well it could be a trick of the system so you don’t have to feel sorry… but if you think of it as a debt I hope you agree with my opinion later.

I shrugged and got up.

“I will take good care of you. “Actually I feel like I’m still feeling fine… I guess I’m just so tired that I can’t wake up.”

“This shouldn’t happen…!”

“Sit down Park Mun-dae!”

“I think it would be better to get re-tested.”

“…”

Wow… they’re in trouble.

And after a while.

The medical staff had to return to the hospital room sooner than planned due to their earnest request.

And I was shocked to hear that the patient happily forgot the fruit as soon as he recovered from a coma of more than 15 days.

“Melon?? “Patient please tell me how you feel inside your stomach right now!”

“…!!”

“I’m fine.”

“teacher! “The patient here…”

And all kinds of calls continued.

‘…yes.’

It’s only natural that a guy who stayed in bed for 18 days ate the sweetest melon.

The face of Keun Se-jin who offered me the melon turned blue but fortunately the results showed that there was nothing wrong.

If it had been in a normal state to begin with I wouldn’t have suffered pain as soon as I swallowed it.

“I will eat it!”

Let’s ignore Cha Yu-jin’s regret that she had to just put all the melon in her mouth.

‘This looks like a medicine of nectar.’

I think my digestive system recovered quickly thanks to the characteristic of ‘complete recovery of vitality.’

‘Now that we’re talking let’s check.’

After all the fuss was over I brought up the properties item in the status window.

[Characteristics: Time of Infinite Indulgence (S) Nectar (S) – Activated Snatching Ears (A)]

It’s also marked as activated.

He is currently recovering rapidly and will likely disappear once the wound on his chest is completely healed.

‘…Then is this the end of Bacchus?’

It will make you lose your appetite. What a shame.

Of course there are expectations that Bacchus will be picked again in the next lottery. Because I use it so much for my activities.

I swallowed my regret and turned off the status window.

‘Anyway… it’s the 18th.’

Although there was a lot of waste I’m glad there won’t be any major problems with the tour schedule.

‘You will fully recover in a month.’

I think the guys over there who are still wearing braces including me said they would recover within 3 weeks.

If I prepare for one more month and leave… I'll probably cover everything except a few episodes in Japan.

'That's it.'

I nodded inwardly.

And after all the medical staff left the members breathed a sigh of relief and came to their senses.

"Mundae… I'm really sorry."

"No it was delicious."

"Let's make sure to get permission from now on…"

And after a while.

It seems that it finally occurred to these guys that it would be a good idea for me to get some more rest.

"I will visit again tomorrow!"

"If there's any problem you can call me anytime… Wow it's near my house…!"

"I'm not being discharged from the hospital."

"Why Cha Yu-jin let's go out!"

"Hmph."

"…Rest Mundae. "It was really… a lot of hard work."

"thank you."

Liu Chengyu seemed to be smiling faintly but that expression soon disappeared.

‘You don’t seem to have any energy.’

I guess I was more worried than I expected.

The moment I tried to catch it and dig it up.

“…Park Moon-dae.”

“…? yes.”

Bae Se-jin said with a serious face just before leaving.

“Once the Human Rights Commission investigates… I’m going to see if I can file a lawsuit against T1 Stars based on that.”

“…yes?”

“So if you succeed you will go to a new agency…!”

“…?!”

What crazy talk.

It feels like I got hit in the back of the head.

‘Could it be that the idea was to bring it to the forefront of society and then use public power to take it to trial?’

Regardless of whether it will work or not why are you trying to pick a fight with a large company that owns broadcasting stations and studios?

Are you planning on kicking down one of your huge platforms?

I looked at the guy who couldn’t believe he had agreed to this.

Big Sejin avoided his eyes.

'hey.'

"Hmm if this happens T1 will also try to reorganize their agency and if the possibility of a lawsuit comes up I think the deal will get a little better."

"…"

"Even if it's not necessarily a new agency isn't that okay?"

So I passed on to this bastard…

"It's not something we need to do right now so we'll discuss it later… Let's leave the door to rest for a while."

"Of course~"

"…good."

I'll have to think about it myself.

I waved my hand with my head and the members left the hospital room smiling or waving.

Sweet.

I sighed in the hospital room which suddenly became quiet.

"Whoa."

It's a lawsuit.

I guess I'll do everything I can but that's not a good decision to make in this industry for a long time.

Until now I have rarely seen a case in which a person's career turned out well after filing a lawsuit.

Whether you win the case or not you will be remembered in the industry.

‘In order to gain popularity it is a realistic decision to solve the problem as best as possible.’

Above all even in the best case it takes too long to win the case and until then activities are almost completely halted…

‘for a moment.’

Suddenly a shiver runs down my spine.

‘…Then what about the tour?’

I can’t do it.

“…”

Hey you bastards…!

If I can’t go on tour I might lose out!

They say the road to hell is paved with good intentions but suddenly the threat of sudden death is just around the corner.

* * *

While Park Moon-dae was in confusion breaking news was popping up on the Internet that he had regained consciousness.

[(Breaking News) Testa Park Moon-dae regains consciousness]

[Park Moon-dae’s consciousness returns…”The fans’ earnestness has reached me”]

[Recovery from coma after 18 days of traffic accident Testa]

-What are the articles just now?

-Is it true?

-Is this true? (link)

-Please oh please

Fans tried to calm down fearing that it might be another misinformation but fortunately a confirmation article appeared from the agency 30 minutes after the first breaking news.

[T1 Stars “Testar Park Moon-dae regained consciousness around 2 p.m.”]

Only then did congratulations and tears of relief begin to pour in from all social media and community comment sections.

-I’m scared that it’s a dream.

-What should I do? I really can’t stop crying.

-Mundae thank you for fighting for 18 days and coming back. I will support you no matter what you do really.

-I am so grateful and happy to be able to upload this photo. (2nd anniversary photo by Park Moon-dae)

-I love you Mundae! I’m so happy that I can continue to support you at 24 you at 30 and you at 40… ㅠㅠ

Because a young celebrity who almost died in an unfortunate accident came back alive the public’s immediate reaction was extremely warm.

-It would be a waste of a young man to leave like this so I think he has been given a new opportunity. I hope he recovers in good health and shines Korea with great songs~~

– It really went well. I'm not even a fan but I was so sad.

-I hope you live well

-You regained consciousness after 18 days? Awesome.

At such a dramatic moment even the malicious comments could not be suppressed.

-Isn't this also Gommer's design? In fact what is the probability that I came to my senses on the first day and unplayed it? Haha.

I was out of my mind because of the criticism.

I'm saying this is crossing the line.

-Still I won't be able to be active for a while so I'll have to be satisfied with that.

Amazing personality

K-hater criticizes even a 23-year-old who was in a coma on the 18th

– Haha I don't like this guy but the Internet is all over the place. There's no mention of people around me.

I'm sorry but is there anyone around…?

Kkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkk

I didn't know what would happen after this atmosphere subsided but for now everyone was happy and congratulated the singer and the fans.

So a few days later the content Bae Se-jin submitted to the Human Rights Commission suddenly exploded with emotion and warmth.

[The shadow of the entertainment company… Will the truth behind the Testa traffic accident be revealed?]

['Series of cases of human rights violations within the company' filed with T1 Stars to the Human Rights Committee]

-???? What is this?

-wow

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Wow is T-One crazy?

So things started to go quite interestingly.

Because it was a revelation that came after extremely happy news it was immediately treated as good news.

-Fuck everything is going to be stolen haha.

-Let's implement justice!

In the end public opinion shifted its emotional direction toward the desire for a perfect happy ending instead of the easily tiresome resentment.

Also known as Cider Meta.

It was Bae Se-jin's first win.

Chapter 236

Bae Se-jin's summons to the Human Rights Commission was a jackpot.

'Did this work like this?'

I was almost speechless when I saw the internet atmosphere of people excitedly beating up T1.

First of all what worked best… of course was covering up the cause of the Testa traffic accident.

[A tragedy caused by complacency… The true face of T1 a large entertainment company]

["It was an incident not a traffic accident" The agency that covered up the terrorist attack]

Just before I recovered from the coma after 18 days 'Testa's car accident' became the hottest topic on the Internet again.

But there is a story behind that incident and it is even extremely provocative?

People were so excited that the conspiracy theory seemed to have become a reality.

Articles also excitedly fueled public opinion by using words such as 'terrorism' 'backdoor work' and 'crisis of a large-scale disaster'.

As the embargo broke out not only in the entertainment field but also in the social field no matter how large a company was it was impossible to pick up the spilled water.

-The company's singer is on the brink of death and all he wants to do is silence him! Wow big company class~

-Manager Jeon: Intentional terrorism? The company is scary so you're being mean to idols.

ㄴㄹㅇ Did they pick this guy without even going through the interview? He made this guy the first-tier idol manager.

-There were a lot of parachutes lol. It must have been a mess inside the company. Maybe Testa went bald?

-'Recommended resignation due to numerous verbal abuse' 〈- I didn't notice for a while and then cut him in a hurry but the security was also bad so it was X. Haha T-One is amazing!

-They are dirty servants who are only good at hiding and behind-the-scenes work. They must be firmly rooted out for the survival of the country. They must be severely punished.

Moreover because Bae Se-jin gathered everything he could to attack the frugal Human Rights Commission there was enough justification for it beyond stimulation.

[Serious violation of workers' human rights by T1 Stars a major corporation]

["The overtime hours were manipulated" and even resignation from the company… a lot of revelations]

[T1 faces criticism for not being involved in T1 Stars management]

Isn't it an element that arouses much sympathy that a popular idol who makes a lot of money is complaining about the company's abuse of power?

If you come across an all-purpose answer like 'But they make a lot of money at a young age' their momentum is bound to wane.

However if the conclusion is simply that 'this large company is trash' the story is different.

This is because hunting becomes more fun when you have a common enemy.

So in July when the rainy season was late and the weather was sunny people were using the stress of the heat to have fun beating T1.

Since the parent company T1 has greater recognition than the newly launched agency 'T1 Stars' they are getting a lot of excitement.

A national petition even appeared.

[We demand an investigation into T1's human rights violations.]

Of course this is just a guess but of course T1 headquarters is the flagship.

'They aren't a company famous for good employee welfare either.'

Honestly it's a blessing to be self-employed.

It was unfortunate for the people in charge but it was really fun.

In any case as Bae Se-jin thought it seemed like they were pursuing them through whistleblowing or a competitor's work.

The Testa incident was structured so that anyone could see that it was used to increase the reputation.

'…Good.'

No matter how hard you dig it comes out.

The more time is wasted the more paralyzed the company will be and the more influential the group will be.

I laughed and changed the smartphone screen.

This time a fan community.

[I boycott T1 (175)]

[Naughty bastards my teeth are really shaking (24)]

[Can’t the kids go to another agency?? (798)]

[I can’t believe it was because of my agency lol… (13)]

[I wish I could wake up and only see ♡good things♡ㅠㅠ (151)]

Although the related article was posted with this feeling the atmosphere was not gloomy.

It seemed like it was because I was so… happy to wake up right away.

And the public opinion itself was favorable and it didn’t seem like there was much stress because it was slightly different from Testa.

Seeing as there were so many people saying ‘I knew that would happen’ it seems like similar speculations were already circulating among fans.

‘…I’m glad.’

I swiped the screen to close it.

I’d like to post something soon but just in case I’ll post it after discussing it with others.

‘A survival report would be fine.’

…And I also have to make a very important suggestion.

‘The tour really goes on no matter what.’

I had my own plan for this.

I decided to wait calmly with my arms crossed until they arrived.

And at 2 p.m.

Bae Se-jin who burst into the hospital room was red-hot with excitement.

"…I think it went well!"

"yes. "The response is good."

"…!"

I was just about to get to the point leaving the guy who was trembling at the taste of cider with both hands clasped together.

"Once the results of the complaint to the Human Rights Commission come out… let's file a lawsuit like this!"

"…!!"

"As long as you have the evidence you can win! "I'll pay all your legal fees!"

Bae Se-jin strongly insisted on pressing the accelerator harder once more.

'no.'

Is this guy too drunk on cider?

The results are good so it's worth it but in this world lawsuits are an extreme loss that should only be used when all hands are dry.

But before I could open my mouth a large force came out first.

'I guess there hasn't been any agreement up to this point.'

It seems he has finally come to his senses.

“older brother. “So the plan is to change agencies after winning the case right?”

“…okay.”

“Well then wouldn’t it be difficult if we couldn’t get all the broadcasting love programs that T1 invests in?”

“…There are many other broadcasts. And these days there are many other ways to be active such as WeTube.”

Bae Se-jin swallowed his saliva.

“But if we can’t come out now we’ll have to stay with this agency for three more years… After three years we might do something else to try to renew our contract!”

“…”

“So what I’m doing now… I think what I’m doing now is right.”

Big Sejin twitched his eyes. However he soon responded in a moderately cheerful tone.

“It would be great if the lawsuit goes well~ But right now if we can’t perform for more than a year our careers will be completely dead.”

“…!”

“Then… even if we win I don’t think any agency will bother to sign with us.”

Big Sejin finished his speech softly.

“We need to be so successful that other agencies have to pretend to be T1 and bring us in but that’s not possible.”

“…”

“I think it would be good to just use this to make a good deal with the agency add more staff to the dedicated team and add clauses to the contract… How about that everyone?”

Bae Se-jin seemed to have a lot to say but his complexion worsened as he remembered various expected answers and seemed to have been hit in advance.

‘This is how it happens.’

I said holding my head.

“First of all… then let’s look at the show of hands. “Who wants to file a lawsuit right now?”

Bae Se-jin slightly raised his hand.

And flash. Cha Yu-jin raised her hand.

“…”

“We win!”

I’m afraid someone might think he’s American so he really likes hiring a lawyer.

“Hey Cha Yujin. What about taking a year off?”

“Even if we take a year off we do well. are you okay! “You can do it again!”

It is a very positive and confident answer but also unrealistic. thanks.

“So who wants to stay at the agency and try to improve the environment?”

Of course Keun Se-jin listened and surprisingly… Kim Rae-bin followed along.

“There are a lot of great people in the company so I think it would be good to work together to make improvements…”

“…”

In another sense it’s very positive and unrealistic. thanks.

Then the only ones left are Ryu Cheong-woo and Sun Ah-hyeon.

“Ahyeon what about you?”

“I… well either way it’s all good if everyone can stay comfortable and safe…!”

“okay.”

It’s like Sun Ah-hyun.

“…Then Chungwoo hyung.”

“…Similar. “I wish we could file a lawsuit but since we are a group we have to respect the careers of people with different opinions.”

Liu Chengyu answered slowly.

“What do you think Moon Dae?”

me? It’s simple.

“…Wouldn’t it be difficult to file a lawsuit right now?”

Even if it is not a matter of my tour the lawsuit is against it.

‘Things have become too big.’

The moment it becomes an issue of violation of workers’ human rights rather than a group issue large corporations will never want to leave a case where they lose the lawsuit.

This is because Testa's lawsuit remains as a precedent.

'If the labor union files a series of lawsuits after that I'm going to go crazy.'

So at this time it is better to take advantage of what we can take by snatching it without damaging our friendly relationship.

'The company needs to feel sorry for Testa.'

Even if you don't actually feel sorry you can make the most of the moment when you pretend to be.

But since Bae Se-jin is credited it's okay to say this out loud… let's turn it around a bit.

"Public opinion is that we don't know how things will change tomorrow. "How about we wait a little longer and collect data so that we can file a lawsuit if conditions are favorable."

"Secretly?"

"yes."

Bae Se-jin looked lost in thought as she listened to the conversation but soon nodded.

"…okay. okay. Just my opinion… I can't assert it… Because we are the tea team!"

"…"

It seems like this guy is finally starting to taste the mulberry of his age like Sun Ah-hyun did in "Azusa".

'What a good thing.'

"Team~ Testa Come on~!"

“That’s what I said bro!”

I shrugged and managed to get back to what I was trying to say.

“And how about taking a look at the atmosphere and handling the already scheduled schedule?”

“uh?”

“Why why…?”

“There is an issue with cancellation penalties and I think the atmosphere will be better if we show that the group is alive and well.”

“…”

“you also?”

“yes. Oh of course after my body fully recovers. “If I receive a cure.”

I mean it literally without any bluffing. Thanks to Nectar I can say things like this without hesitation.

“hmm…”

“Especially for the tour there are many people who have already booked tickets so it’s best to go around as much as possible…”

“Oh no!!”

“…!!”

What?

…Seon Ah-hyeon screamed.

I looked at him but Sun Ah-hyun remained steadfast even though her face turned red.

“The radish bite needs to rest!”

“So after resting…”

“You need to get a lot of rest!”

No something doesn’t make sense.

“Ahyeon is right it’s Mundae.”

“I said something but what about the tour… enjoy the bed at Mundaemundae more.”

“…??”

“We will steadily prepare for the next album and report back to you so there is no need to worry.”

“Live long brother!”

If you do this you won’t live long.

However they were resolute and maintained their stance that there would be no compromise.

I think this is because the impression of being in a coma for 18 days is too strong.

‘I can’t even say nectar… ’

If I pretended to be crazy and talked about the status window I could see a future where counseling and admission to a mental hospital would actually be added to the schedule.

While I was suffering from pain in my temple Liu Chengwu said with a faint smile.

“And Moon Dae-ya the internal approval to cancel the tour for the second half of the year has already been completed.”

“…!”

You crazy people.

These damn bastards tapped me on the shoulder and spoke kindly.

“Fans would like it better if you don’t overexert yourself and look healthy… and only post posts or photos from time to time.”

“…”

“Let’s keep it that way for a while.”

“Yeah you’re right bro.”

“I will support you as you focus on recovering your health!”

Just like that… the tour flew by.

* * *

“…”

I lay in the hospital room they left and replayed this incident.

And came to a conclusion.

X is done.

‘How can we fill 400000 audiences without a tour?’

Do we have to do 40 guerilla performances in Myeongdong or Neverland?

My head is starting to tingle.

‘…I know you have good intentions so I can’t even be angry.’

I sighed a few times and tried to come up with various plans but then I gave up.

‘I guess I’ll have to find out more about the audience’s conditions.’

And before that let’s do what we have to do.

I turned on my smartphone and took a few pictures of myself choosing the best ones.

And then I accessed SNS.

————————= =

Hello lover

I am Mundae (dog emoticon)

I am eating well and doing well.

thank you for your patience

I’ll see you soon in a better way.

————————= =

Then I attached and uploaded a photo.

‘…It’s been 21 days.’

I’m a little nervous.

Sure enough soon social media notifications started updating like crazy.

-Mundae!!!

-Thank you so much.

-♡♡♡♡ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-You have to stay well Mundae. Eat well rest well sleep well…

Don't sleep too much again haha.

I will sue you no matter what happens

-You must stay healthy and happy for a long time.

"…"

It was just letters but it felt like it had a temperature and it felt like I could hear a voice.

'It's reassuring.'

I smiled and looked at the comments.

And I also had some expectations.

'If the fans like it when I say I'll see you soon let this be proof… '

-It's okay if you don't come soon Mundae-ya's health is the most important.

-Mundae please cherish your body.

"…"

Even if you say this you probably want to see it in person…

That's how it should be.

'I'm going crazy.'

I shook my head and threw the smartphone next to the pillow.

Ji-ing ji-ing ji-ing!

Then as if on cue the smartphone rang several times.

‘I just turned off notifications on SNS.’

I picked up my smartphone a little puzzled.

I checked… and it was a text message.

[(picture)]

About 20 photos of familiar dogs arrived in succession.

“…”

Wow this is nice.

‘Hey try spitting out something.’

If you’re going to fall anyway grab at the rotten straw.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo]

I called the guy.

Chapter 237

The call to Cheongryeo was connected after a few rings.

However common-sense greetings such as ‘hello’ were not used.

-It’s alive.

I knew it would be like this.

“It just so happened that it happened that way.”

-Oh I’m not saying I wanted you to die.

“I don’t think he particularly wanted me to be alive.”

If I fall behind one of my competitors will lose out so I guess I thought it would be a huge advantage.

But the voice on the other end of the phone did not laugh.

-They said they couldn’t restart.

“…”

-Then you have to be alive. That sounds strange.

What the hell.

The situation of being reprimanded by this idiot for an unusual way is truly bizarre.

However I will not deny that there was a somewhat pleasant side to it.

It seems like time really is a medicine when the crazy guy we saw in Coma talks about the preciousness of life.

Of course the reset button has been taken away.

“Well thank you for your concern. Anyway I’m fine.”

-is it so. But why did you call me?

“I have something to ask you.”

I spoke immediately after finishing the payment.

“Are you free the day after tomorrow or the next morning?”

-Why are you asking?

It’s simple.

“Because I can visit the hospital.”

Because of the circumstances I can’t go out so I guess I’ll have to call this guy.

Only then did I hear laughter on the other end of the phone.

* * *

After several deals and coordination Cheongryeo said that he would visit three days later on a weekend morning.

Planning was possible because the other people who had been visiting almost every day in rotation due to their future activity plans were returning home for the weekend.

Oh except for one guy.

“When do you eat melon?”

“If the hospital allows it.”

“I want to ask!”

“Be patient.”

Cha Yu-jin feels sorry for herself and is staying in the hospital even on weekends.

It is said that his parents came to the country after hearing that this guy was injured but it seems they returned last week.

In fact it is difficult for an office worker to stay in a foreign country for more than two weeks. Even in the US it would be more difficult to take a vacation.

Instead of melons I threw several large improved tangerines to him. Sun Ah-hyun bought it.

I think I bought fruit that can be eaten right away when dietary approval is given because it keeps well but… I don’t think there will be any left until then.

“Eat.”

“Is the sugar the best?”

Did you learn from Big Sejin?

“uh.”

“and!”

I saw Cha Yu-jin forgetting a tangerine.

Actually this is a kind of bribe.

“…Someone will be here in about 30 minutes so don’t tell the other members.”

“Are you a guest?”

“It’s similar.”

“who are you?”

“VTIC Cheongnyeo.”

“Ouch.”

Cha Yu-jin swallowed the tangerine in one gulp and shrugged her shoulders.

“Okay～”

That’s it.

This kind of thing was comfortable because he was a neat guy. To Anda’s individualistic tendencies shine through.

“But why are you coming?”

It’s because this is annoying.

“I have something to ask about our next activity.”

“Ask me!”

“…You have to ask someone who has been active for a long time.”

“no way.”

Fortunately the barrage of questions ended here but it was obvious that a similar situation would repeat itself when Cheongryeo arrived.

And thirty minutes later.

“I want to listen too!”

also.

“Go get some snacks.”

“Boo…”

Still thanks to my dealings with him up front my firm orders worked.

Cha Yu-jin left while grumbling. Still I didn’t forget to give a Korean-style Confucian greeting to Cheongnyeo.

“Hello senior!”

Tatang!

The guy who bows his back confidently closes the hospital room door and leaves.

Cheongryeo glanced at the guy leaving and then smiled.

“He’s a picky type but the team atmosphere seems to be good. “It’s controllable.”

“…”

“I’ve dealt with a similar guy before… He broke his schedule after 16 months. Um was that the 6th time? haha.”

He’s really talented at making the atmosphere cool.

Anyway I crossed my arms and got to the point.

“The reason I invited you today of course is because of the emergency situation.”

“yes.”

“I think the mission will fail.”

“…”

There is no need to hide it. It’s just an unexploded bomb with a blocked reset that can be used in the right place.

“This mission?”

“Mobilizing 400000 viewers.”

“…”

Cheongryeo was silent for a moment as if lost in thought.

And then he tilted his head to the side.

“That’s very specific?”

“…”

“How can you be so sure… That’s funny.”

also.

‘Something was pressed.’

I’ll have to postpone the status window story just in case.

However this is unavoidable because the discussion must proceed without knowing the specific conditions.

‘We need even a little more precise forecasts.’

Since the tour has been canceled the probability of sudden death is skyrocketing.

You may think that the difference between you and me who was heading to the ground is unfair but we need to stop the idea from going any further than that.

‘Ventilate.’

I shrugged.

“It’s not a bad thing to know something in detail. “It’s already been a mission and I went all the way to Hwangcheon because of a car accident.”

“…This job has a lot of variables.”

“Yeah thanks to you I’ve already almost died twice in the two years I’ve been active.”

“Twice?”

“Uh the first one is you.”

The guy started laughing but then smiled and nodded a little apologetically. I think I’ve come to my senses.

It looks like the gamble he took with 20 dog photos paid off.

‘As expected there remains a bit of a sense of indebtedness… and a sense of comradeship.’

This means that it would be kind enough to send me a picture of my dog when I woke up.

Still this kid is not normal so let’s move on quickly before we think about anything else.

“Anyway thanks to you the tour has been canceled and I’m stranded in the hospital. But we need to meet 300000 more audiences.”

“Hmm it must be difficult to schedule a new dome tour at the end of the year.”

“okay.”

The year-end and New Year holidays are the highlight. Most of the test-sized concert halls have already been rented out for the weekend.

Besides I can't tell this guy but if a lawsuit is filed the tour and all entertainment industry activities this year will be in vain.

And Cheongryeo presented the most common sense and feasible alternative.

"What about non-face-to-face performances?"

"…that's the problem."

I pressed my eyebrows.

"The counting standards are vague."

"…"

The fan meeting I held right before my accident.

The performance was broadcast simultaneously online but both real-time paid and illegal visitors were not counted.

Only the on-site audience was counted as 'audience'.

Looking at this point it seems like non-face-to-face is useless right?

However some performances that were planned entirely on a non-face-to-face basis were partially counted.

'The number of live comeback shows conducted through real-time paid W Live was counted.'

Text messages and feedback from the audience watching were displayed on the electronic display board.

And considering all these tendencies one very ambiguous standard emerged.

“Within the performance… it seems like they only recognize me as an ‘audience member’ when I recognize them.”

I have to be aware of the audience. Not the number but the thing itself.

That passion and energy.

“ah.”

Cheongryeo narrowed her eyes.

“Was it an audience in a theatrical sense?”

“theater?”

“The existence of reaction is also a part of the performance. “Well it’s a bit… tacky though.”

“…”

It seems like he has lived a life of some ink in his own way. You can explain concepts quickly.

Cheongryeo stroked his chin.

“Anyway… then this might be a bit tricky.”

“that’s right.”

I clicked my tongue.

“We need to gather about 300000 audiences who can communicate in real time at the same time but it’s difficult.”

Rather than simply purchasing VOD you need to keep 300000 people in front of their computers at the same time.

‘…even if you increase the number of times there is a limit.’

Even if the performance composition continues to change the real-time attendance figure counted as soon as two performances are exceeded will continue to decline.

According to the laws of marginal utility and scarcity.

Busy modern people just pay and then postpone watching.

And through the self-issued indulgence ‘I paid for one thing so it’s okay to watch the rest for free.’

Cheongryeo saw my agony and smiled.

“Well then would you like to be a guest on the VTIC tour? “If you only have to work hard for a month or two…”

“Did it turn?”

“haha!”

You shamelessly ask this even though you know it is nonsense.

Guest appearance at a VTIC concert?

Hell is truly coming.

As soon as I recover from my injury if I make a guest appearance at someone else’s concert the Testa fandom and VTIC fandom will heat up like hellfire in the nether regions.

However Cheongnyeo remained calm.

“I think it’s better than dying. Think about it. Because it might be the last time.”

“…”

Of course VTIC will have more excuses than Testa so it will be worth holding on to.

‘But still a loss is a loss.’

And this guy who is paranoidly obsessed with flawless top-tier idols would make such a crazy proposal?

I almost remember the offer to join VTIC’s main vocalist that I received while I was in a coma. I answered hesitantly.

“I don’t know why you want to take the loss.”

“Um I’m sorry?”

“…”

I looked at his expression to see if he was joking with me but he didn’t look deceptive or crazy.

Instead it was quite calm.

“I’ve seriously disturbed you once or twice so let’s just say I’m paying back my debt. how is it.”

“…hmm.”

It seems like this guy looked back on his past actions after seeing me almost fall over in this accident.

‘I guess owning a dog really helps me mentally.’

However I have no intention of investing in such a low-cost plan. Let’s review the discussion so far again.

‘The resources I can use… ’

My abilities connections time money…

‘…money?’

“…!”

I almost bawled my eyes out.

I found it.

“No I won’t use that method.”

“then?”

“…We will perform non-face-to-face.”

I finished speaking firmly.

“Completely free.”

“…!”

I don’t know about other limitations but I can cover the entry barrier created by money.

‘I guess I can at least pay for the cost of holding a concert.’

I have a lot of money left unused. You don’t need support from others.

“Oh at least the settlement money?”

So this proposal as well.

I chuckled.

“no. “I’d like to get something else.”

The biggest obstacle to free concerts is not money.

This is an existing contract.

‘Testa signed a three-year exclusive contract with W App.’

And W App does not support free performances.

However since Testa’s online concert transmission had to be broadcast through the W app I needed a detour.

“Let’s borrow your platform.”

This is the exhibition and performance platform created by LeTi in collaboration with an overseas funding company.

‘The member’s solo not Testa was not specified in the contract.’

The rest is a matter of commercial morality or public opinion so you can adjust the performance method and it will be much easier and faster if you do it with this guy. Because it’s the company’s sign.

‘This seems like the most winning combination right now.’

Sure enough Cheongnyeo smiled and nodded.

“That’s a good idea.”

It’s better than your suggestion. I refrained from almost clicking my tongue and answered calmly.

“Of course it’s better than following the VTIC tour.”

“yes? haha. Of course it is. “Why would you do such a ridiculous thing?”

“…”

“I just meant that I could do something like that but it sounded reasonable.”

You bastard were deceived.

I'm sure the bastard I met in Coma would have been exhausted by just drinking sweet water let alone being the main vocalist of VTIC.

* * *

Park Mun-dae was extremely angry for a moment but soon regained his composure and quickly concluded a detailed agreement with Cheongryeo.

And I immediately contacted the company and talked in depth about 'contacting a new platform.'

'It's easy.'

Calculating that they could divert attention and calm the chaotic atmosphere the company quickly sent an OK sign despite being in a devastated state.

This is because the payment was received immediately on Monday morning after the weekend.

"Yes thank you."

Of course it was an unavoidable misjudgment but Park Moon-dae happily tolerated their misjudgment.

'I hope it goes smoothly like this.'

Park Moon-dae said that now he only had to persuade the members so he adjusted the members' visit times on Monday afternoon so that they overlapped.

'It would be better to discuss it all at once.'

So a few days later.

Park Moon-dae breaks into a cold sweat and is forced to spend time in self-reflection and reflection from the members.

“Sit down and listen Park Mun-dae.”

Somehow all the members had already heard the news.

This is because Cha Yu-jin could not stand it.

“I asked the company!”

‘This guy.’

Of course it was my own karma.

Chapter 238

I'm a little embarrassed.

"Park Moon-dae is planning a concert on his own just because his tour is canceled? You are currently hospitalized. "You know why the tour was cancelled."

"I'm sorry to tell you this but you need to rethink your balance between leisure and work!"

"…Have you ever thought about consulting before doing it alone?"

So you are not giving us the opportunity to discuss it.

I held back a sigh and looked back to see why the situation was like this.

-… Moon Dae-ya Yujin said she heard something at work…

The moment the people who came started talking like this without even sitting down I thought they had leaked information.

'So I was going to let these guys talk as much as they want and get to the point once they calm down a bit.'

Isn't this a tyrant who only listens to complaints? The more I listen to it the more I feel like a bad guy.

'…You can be sad.'

Yes I will admit that.

Activities have come to a halt because of the guy in a coma but if you say that he is actually planning his own solo concert it would be eye-rolling.

Besides… he seems worried.

“It’s not too late to think about it after your body has fully recovered…!”

“okay!”

“…”

So for the past 18 days I listened to them patiently taking into consideration the fact that they must have had complicated feelings with thoughts such as ‘Is this guy going to wake up?’…

‘It’s been about 30 minutes.’

I think this is enough. Now the same words keep repeating themselves. I sighed and started organizing.

“First of all… I was planning to meet you today and talk to you.”

“Ah after everything is decided?”

This bastard is doing this again.

“No nothing has been decided yet. “What I told the company was just an idea.”

I pressed my temples.

“I wasn’t planning on doing it right away. “I thought it would be a good idea to commemorate the resumption of Testa’s official activities.”

“…”

This may sound quite realistic but the hospital room became quiet as if each person was lost in thought.

After thinking about it for a bit I added an afterthought.

"…Still it must have seemed like I just brought up my solo story to the company. sorry. And I'm sorry."

"…!"

I was then trying to put together words to better explain 'but that's fishing'.

But Liu Chengwu opened his mouth first.

"…Mundae. "You probably want to get active quickly."

"…"

yes. If you don't do it you'll die…

Liu Chengyu nodded calmly.

"If you want to do a solo concert it's okay. "Sue the company… If you don't want to do it it's okay to just be active."

"…!"

"There's no need to apologize for something like that."

Bae Se-jin's face turned red but surprisingly he did not refute Ryu Cheong-wu and silently shook his head.

"But you have to take care of your health. "That's what we've been talking about so far."

"…"

"You're overdoing it now. That's… I hope you understand. "I say this every time."

Liu Chengyu's complexion was not good as he spoke.

It seemed like the scene of iron being stuck in my solar plexus left quite a bit of trauma.

'Whoa.'

It's back to square one. I nodded.

I am in perfect health and a complete recovery is just around the corner.

How can we convince of this mysterious resilience…

"I care enough about my health. "He is following all the medical staff's instructions and I heard he is recovering at an incredibly fast rate."

"…So you want to return as soon as you are completely cured?"

"Well when I say I'm going to become an expert it means I'm considering it."

Big Sejin chuckled.

"Hey the fans will really like it."

"…!"

"You think that will get a good response but your fans know that you are the same person. "They would send a truck to the company to use someone who was in a coma."

"…"

"Oh is this the big picture for Sue? "Then what's so great about it?"

This guy is real.

I gritted my teeth.

“Do you really have to say it that way?”

“…!”

“Don’t be sarcastic. “I’m speaking honestly.”

It looks like someone died suddenly and I’m getting angry because they keep scratching me. No matter what you have to do it in moderation.

Sejin Lee opened her mouth and closed it again without speaking. I focused on my thoughts in silence to calm down.

And a person with the same name suddenly took action.

“That guy…! “I’m doing that because I’m worried!”

Bae Se-jin came out with his fist clenched.

“usually! “You talk like that!”

“…”

Is Meg… a gun?

“That’s right… Sejin would want to apologize too right…?”

Seeing that Sun Ah-hyun was giving support I guess it wasn’t Meg.

Big Sejin was looking at the floor with a smileless face.

“…Sorry.”

“…”

I nodded.

Okay I was a bit oversensitive.

We managed to come up with a way to clear the status abnormality but it took so long to discuss it that we ran out of time.

‘I guess it wasn’t my intention to start a fight.’

I guess he just thought that since he was a bit upset about this situation I would come to my senses if I gave him some insight.

‘…I can’t help it.’

Yes not just Keun Sejin but the other members as well.

As long as I am contributing to this team and since the car accident occurred these guys have no choice but to care about my health.

Well since we lived together in the camp for two years we must have grown fond of each other.

So ultimately the difference is in the amount of information.

‘These guys don’t know that if I don’t mobilize 400000 people they’ll die.’

So priorities are bound to change.

‘…I wasn’t going to end up like this.’

I held back my silence and finally opened my mouth.

“…Actually I miss my fans.”

“…”

“Suddenly I opened my eyes and saw that it was next month. “The Internet is so crazy I thought I would feel less anxious if I did something about it… so I decided to at least talk about concerts.”

“…okay.”

“Mumundaeya…”

It was a somewhat cringe-inducing remark but it seemed persuasive and the atmosphere became damp.

‘…That’s not wrong.’

That might be exactly my condition except that the reason for my anxiety is a status abnormality.

I continued talking feeling a little abandoned.

“I don’t plan on staying up all night doing anything like before.”

I can’t do it anyway because I don’t have Bacchus.

“Still I think it would be good to resume activities quickly without overdoing it.”

This time the answer is no.

This would be good.

“The concert we were originally planning wasn’t anything grand.”

“uh?”

“I just thought of a simple talk concert. I want to show you that I have recovered my health. “I keep dancing to a minimum.”

“So a solo concert…?”

“No because of the W App contract. “Free concerts cannot be broadcast under the group’s name.”

“oh…”

We're starting to make sense now.

I ended the explanation up to the point of agreement with Cheongryeo.

Then he took a pause and spoke.

"But in the first place… Solo is a gimmick."

"…?"

I chuckled.

"I was going to invite all of Testa as guests. "Then it's okay isn't it?"

"…!!"

Honestly isn't this an obvious trick?

If there was someone who said they wouldn't come the picture might get a little weird but I was confident I could convince them all.

But one guy's face turned blue and he shouted.

"So isn't that a violation of the contract?"

"no. "After all I am the subject."

"But… it's a scam!"

"It was a good use of the contract provisions."

"…"

dump. Bae Se-jin sat down on a chair.

And he seems to mutter something similar to 'I feel like I'm going to get criticized… ' but he doesn't object.

‘I guess I looked pretty desperate.’

I guess he’s trying to control himself since he started talking so loudly in front of him.

Or maybe Bae Se-jin is trying to organize his language so that it is less aggressive.

Of course that statement itself makes sense.

‘If you do it this way it will spread dirty rumors in the industry.’

It’s not just an industry W App is run by a fairly large search engine company. There will definitely be retaliation.

‘So you have to choose the shape well.’

And I have already chosen the format of the concert.

If this is the case it’s difficult to retaliate… I feel like it will just be treated as a ‘different type’ of performance.

I said with a smile.

“And one more thing.”

“…?”

“I want to create a separate purpose for the concert.”

“purpose?”

I explained my idea.

“oh.”

“Mumundae always seems to have good thoughts…”

“It really is!”

The response was very good.

Can we explain this by saying that Bae Se-jin who was sitting on a chair in a white-faced posture has recovered his complexion?

“…That’s okay!”

“Of course.”

‘Is this half the meal?’

I don’t think I need to persuade you anymore. We can continue the build-up like this and confirm it around the time of discharge.

I shrugged.

“Now get some rest…!”

“No I rested enough…”

“Shh rest!”

“…”

And only then did I hear some trivial news from the guys who had returned from a hospital visit.

“The AR team created a commemorative sound source for Moon Dae’s comfortable sleeping time… but it was lost before it could be saved due to a program error…”

“really?!”

“…Please tell me that you are well received.”

Quite a long time.

As time passed it was soon time for the hospital meal.

“Let’s come back after eating.”

“Yeah… it’s time for that already.”

“I’ve eaten early so I’ll stay behind and act as a companion!”

“me too! “Eat fruit!”

No it’s okay… whatever happened.

I shrugged my shoulders.

However among the people rushing out Big Sejin hesitated but did not make eye contact until the end.

It seems like he’s been doing this ever since the atmosphere got tense when I talked about it earlier.

“…I’ll be back~”

“okay.”

Your mouth is still talking.

…It’ll be okay.

And the next one.

“brother! Enjoy it…”

“You come here.”

“Ahhhh!”

The guy who snitched and ate some tangerines was trying to sneak away.

I squeezed Cha Yu-jin's forehead and let her go.

"Aww!"

And he gave Kim Rae-bin a big peach right in front of him.

It felt a little funny because he was feeding himself what he had brought but I also ate some so it must be okay.

"It tastes great!"

"I know."

Cha Yu-jin drooped.

"Brother this is too much!"

"what."

"I didn't say anything else!"

"what."

Cha Yu-jin spoke softly.

'VIC senior!'

"…!!"

After a short silence.

"Eat."

"wow!"

I put a peach in his mouth.

It is a kind of bribe. This means that you should keep your mouth shut in the future.

* * *

Afterwards Park Moon-dae recovered smoothly and was discharged from the hospital faster than the medical staff expected.

And again a few weeks later.

After the agency was brutally beaten and the Human Rights Commission recommended a complaint Testa began activities in a small group.

He appeared at TaKon a KPOP joint concert.

Of course he did not appear at the scene in person but a separately recorded video was broadcast only.

Still because it was his first activity after the accident Testa's appearance became quite a hot topic.

Amidst the internet reaction which was plastered with phrases such as 'I love you Testa our magic forever' several explicit or rude reviews were also quickly exchanged.

-I haven't lost my form.

-After all Stone needs to lose weight. Coma diet is the best. Bulk up is dying.

-Wow everything is correct it looks like you practiced really hard;

-Gommer looks fine? Hahaha. You idiots watch Gomer and learn something. Even though someone is dead and awake they put on a performance like that. You can't even keep an eye on them. Haha.

-They say they are boycotting T-One but they are not boycotting Testa? I'm tired of logic~

Testa is an exception because he was in a car accident. Anyway haha.

One thing is certain: Testa hasn't lost his star quality which allows him to command both sympathetic and likable attention.

All sorts of questions such as 'Will Testa continue with his next activities' 'When will he make a comeback?' 'Will the agency continue as is?' swept the internet.

And quite suddenly a notice appeared on the social media of a performance reservation platform.

-Is this really a testa?? (link)

A platform from another company that Testa has never used and is not related to T1.

However the words that appeared on social media were enough to attract aggro.

[what? Are national stocks holding ☆free☆ concerts?]

National stocks.

A buzzword from a few years ago.

A few people quickly joined in and started talking.

-National stock historical modifier; It just seems like aggro

-Azusa's next season won't start with a concert haha.

-Isn't this hacking?

It wasn't everything.

A few days later. Because the next upload on that SNS was this.

[Watch Kookmin Stock's ☆Free☆ concert and give strength to sick children!]

[Host: Moon Dae Park Guest: Testa]

That's right.

What Park Moon-dae planned was a fundraising concert to help the less fortunate.

Chapter 239

A concert in which Park Moon-dae invites Testa as a guest.

There was a possibility that this question would be raised.

-Why is Park Moon-dae the host and Testa the guest?

-Park Moon-dae pushes me a lot haha.

However it did not become public opinion.

Park Moon-Dae already knew how to avoid controversy in this format.

‘All you have to do is reverse the relationship between succession and succession.’

[All of the audience’s valuable donations raised during the concert will go to pediatric patients in long-term hospitalization.]

If the donation theme is long-term hospitalization Park Moon-Dae will naturally become the right candidate.

‘Because I was hospitalized the longest due to a car accident.’

The donation concept was not included in Park Moon-dae’s solo concert but rather ‘Park Moon-dae suits this concert format best.’

Naturally people thought that Park Moon-dae was appointed as the host to further emphasize the meaning of the donation concert.

[Online concert held for Testa child patients]

[“I thought a lot while I was hospitalized”…Testa’s meaningful donation concert]

And once the press release was centered around the Testa Group everything was bound to fall into place in this structure.

-We support the great actions of top star young people^^

-Testa you are really amazing I respect you bb

-I really like the good influence~ It's great~

A good deed that is traditionally easily accepted received a fairly good response from older age groups as well.

It was a good signal for mobilizing audiences.

However as the image of a charity event became stronger than that of a concert criticism of this format itself naturally followed.

-He must have made a lot of money but it seems like he's trying to show off with fans' money. Am I the only one who doesn't like it?

-The donation is made by a fan and the name of the donation is Testa? Haha you're so smart.

The rebuttal was clear and simple.

-Testa Concert's daily sales exceeded 2 billion won…

ㄴㄷㄷㄷㄷ

Wow awesome

Are they giving up 2 billion to do this? LOL

-The entire tour was canceled due to the accident so the loss would have been huge but it's great.

-You guys are such idiots haha.

In capitalist society there is no phrase that quantifies sacrifice as well as ‘giving up profits’.

Fans circulated through communities and social media by writing promotional messages about how meaningful this concert was and how they would like everyone to see it.

Yet I was filled with great emotion.

– Moon Dae-ya… Ah I can’t do personality sales but I really want to scream to the whole world that Moon Daeng is an angel.

-It was disappointing that he couldn’t meet his fans due to the tour being canceled so he planned it for free… ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-Testuta you soft rice cake goblins are really going crazy how can you do this?

Fans were filled with fear and worry for over two weeks but then saw a miraculous recovery and the revelation of the company’s corruption.

Moreover a successful return and stage.

Fans were completely immersed in Testa’s situation due to the flood of events and upward trajectory.

Still I couldn’t stop worrying.

-Is it okay to hold a concert at Mundae already? I guess I’ll have to adjust it well by adding a lot of Sanok.

-Even at Tacon I stumbled during the interlude of Mundae. To be honest I’m worried I think I’m overdoing it.

-The kids are also playing dub apps these days and while it’s good it’s still a bit disappointing. If you listen to what they say it seems like everyone is obsessively taking care of their health these days.

ㄴㄹㅇ I’m worried that they’re being pressured for their activities. I think they're trying to change their image with their kids since they're getting criticized by T1's bastards.

As a performance-oriented male idol group Testa had many title songs with extremely intense choreography such as 'Training'.

And these songs often decorate the core stages of concerts.

Naturally fans debated whether it would be okay for Park Moon-dae who had just recovered from an injury to perform on such a stage in a row.

However public opinion soon shifted to one side.

-The concert cover hasn't even been opened yet so don't worry about buying it.

Don't you have to tell me before opening the lid to make changes?

No why are you trying to modify the set list that the kids made lol?

-No matter what you do bad things keep coming out. Can't you have some fun? It's so tiring

-It seems like the kids are all excited because it's been a while since they last performed so please don't lose count…

-The atmosphere is good so this concert is going to be a big hit. Everyone stop talking bitterly and just say ㄹㅇㅋ.

This was because it had been a long time since the performance had been performed and public opinion was very positive after the news was spread. Fans also wanted to ride this momentum.

In addition promotional banners containing the concert format appeared on social media to prevent worried people from being further offended.

[Talk Concert with Testa 〈As Your Heart Takes〉]

[♡Thank you for your participation♡]

In the poster the seven stool-shaped chairs on the stage were corrected to receive the spotlight.

-Wow talk concert hahaha

-Surely the College of Arts is going on?? Is Mundae the host??

-The feeling of a donation event suddenly came to me haha.

-Talk concert? Isn't this just a lecture and a performance in the middle?

ㄴㄴㄴ Perhaps it will just be a format where you talk a lot and perform on stage in between? Solo singers often

Aha ㅇㅋㅇㅋ

Even those who were worried were somewhat reassured because the nature of the concert seemed quite different from the previous Testa concerts which focused on intense performances.

And the platform's strategy to attract audiences did not end there.

The point is that people will say 'everything that needs to be said has been said' and no one will reproduce stories about the Testa concert other than fans.

[Oseong shoots!]

[☆The number of donations increased in proportion to the number of viewers of Testa's 〈As Your Heart Goes〉!☆]

(※Based on real-time maximum simultaneous connection)

Articles about corporate sponsorship have been popping up all the time.

It was just a week before the concert.

-Whahahahahahahahahahaha awesome

-T-One somehow didn't put a spoon on it.

Words become seeds Shhh

-Let's donate 1 million people and 100 million people at the same time~ hahahaha

-Hey what is 100 won per person? I'll give you 500 won. Where did Gao a large company go? (I ask other companies to join us quickly)

-Only simultaneous connections are counted? Let's scold them with 10000000 hits.

A corporate sponsorship that promises to donate in proportion to the number of people watching the Testa concert.

Even the ambiguous amount and the shameful warning phrase stimulated the interest of netizens.

Thanks to this posts promoting the Testa concert were once again circulating on the Internet.

[Free donation added to free admission to Testa Concert haha]

[Testar Concert Drug Ban Advertisement.jpg]

[☆★Testa Talk☆Con★☆ When viewing all $$ is donated ☜☜ 100 won per person given ※ Free admission ※ ★Legitimate opportunity to steal 5 stars★ ©Saturday 14:00]

It was so funny that some people joined in even if they weren't fans of Testa.

Moreover public opinion was soft because the intentions were flawless.

So the one remaining question was also smoothly passed.

-But how are you going to hold a talk concert non-face-to-face?

-Are you not accepting questions in advance?

-It looks like the testers are just playing drums and playing around with each other haha.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋ That might be cute in its own way right?

The question is how can a talk concert be held properly if there is no audience at all?

Idols were not professional MCs or instructors. If you're not careful it's easy to get ambiguous results.

Of course Park Moon-dae was not an idiot so the answer to this was being prepared from the moment of signing the platform deal with Cheongryeo.

However he was struggling with a different kind of worry at this moment.

* * *

"10 minutes break~"

"Whoop!!"

I need to bulk up and bulk up.

'My stamina doesn't keep up.'

I took a sip of the lukewarm sports drink and took a deep breath.

'…It's a waste after all.'

Not being able to use Bacchus meant that my available time was reduced by about 4 hours.

I was only able to control my condition by sleeping when I needed to monitor practice and plan.

Time passed by in an instant.

However if you don't sleep your stamina won't keep up and you won't be able to be efficient. Ultimately it is the origin.

'…should I increase my exercise time?'

I gained some muscle through anaerobic exercise but honestly it wasn't at a level I was satisfied with. When I was in college…

No let's think about it after the concert is over.

If I finish this online concert properly I think I will be able to overcome the status abnormality within the period so I will have time to think about other things.

'The publicity worked.'

Looking at the current internet momentum it's okay.

In any case if I do my best to put off the lawsuit and go to Japan early next year… I think it will be okay.

…and as things were going well according to plan another problem began to come into view.

"10 minutes are over~ Back in formation!"

"Yeap!"

I smiled and looked at the guy who hit Cha Yu-jin on the back.

"…"

I still sat down in my seat and looked at him.

Big Sejin seemed to flinch for a moment but then asked with a still smiling face.

“…Would you like to rest a little longer?”

“No I’m fine.”

“Okay～”

Words are good.

But attitudes have definitely changed.

The facial expressions and gestures that were used to make jokes right before crossing the line or in irritating situations have completely disappeared.

Instead all that was left was something like a reaction robot.

‘It wasn’t like this when we first met.’

In short it’s extremely uncomfortable.

It may seem like they are trying to please others or it may seem like they are protesting.

And since when has it been like this… I’m too sure.

-Do you really have to say it that way?

-…!

-Don’t be sarcastic. I’m speaking honestly.

I’ve been doing this ever since I received an apology from him after this conversation in the hospital room.

‘Fuck you.’

So I can’t tell if they’re doing it because they’re upset or because they’re sorry.

‘I’m not the kind of person who will criticize you.’

It seems like he’ll just keep doing that until he gets better but the problem is that he can’t communicate every time it seems like there’s going to be a conflict of opinion.

-… So I want to do these two regardless of the choice. What do you think?

-If you think that way you can go that way～

-What do you think? You said earlier that you would do one of the two.

-… me? What am I? Everything is okay? Take it easy take it easy～

Does he lower his tail first or is he euphemistically expressing that just dealing with him makes him feel stressed?

Anyway since this happens every time it means that his speed is definitely not normal.

The guy who likes to lead situations according to his own will always throws away his options whenever he bumps into me.

“…after.”

After the concert… no I don’t know.

Isn’t there an actual conflict? Rather I think we can fight with scratches.

‘Is it just time?’

“end! Thank you for your hard work~”

“Yay!”

“It was perfect no mistakes!”

I finished the choreography for the last song and did some stretching to shake off unnecessary thoughts.

I heard a voice talking behind me.

“…Mundae~ Is your back okay?”

“Oh I’m fine.”

…Looking at things like this it seems like there is a desire to get along well.

When I looked back I saw that Big Sejin was just smiling vaguely.

After standing for a moment he immediately took his towel and headed to the back of the practice room.

“…”

What the fuck are you saying?

Do I have to rejuvenate and worry about interpersonal relationships which I never had to do when I was a minor after 3 years of preparing for the public service?

I sat down on a chair in the corner of the practice room and raised my head to look at the ceiling. There is no answer.

It was then.

“Mumundaeya.”

“…why.”

“Hey… I may be saying something for nothing but…”

Seon Ah-hyeon who had quietly approached and started talking suddenly got to the point.

However it was a bit off.

“To Sejin… are you still angry?”

“…? no.”

If that guy was mad at me he would be mad.

However Sun Ah-hyun seemed to have taken my words as a good sign and sat down next to me and began to defend the guy.

“Sejin worked very hard when there was a school traffic accident…”

“…”

“I talked to the raw fish company… I kept coming to the hospital and talked about the surgery… I worked really hard! “I can’t even eat well…”

Sun Ah-hyun’s explanation was not detailed and specific. However the emotions at the time were somewhat evident.

Desperate efforts when ‘Park Moon-dae’ does not happen. And sadness.

So I realized.

“When Mundae woke up Sejin cried a lot in the car on the way home. Everyone did the same but I think he was that worried about Mundae that much.”

Even more than I thought… these guys cared about me a lot more.

I was speechless.

“So… I wonder if you can think about it in a positive way too. “I hope you can feel at ease at the university…”

“…”

I opened my mouth with difficulty.

“…okay.”

“…!”

“I’ll talk about it.”

“Ugh!”

Seon Ah-hyun smiled faintly then at Cha Yu-jin’s call she staggered to her feet and went to check her luggage.

“brother! “I’m eating this!”

“huh? “Just sleep for a moment…!”

I sat there for a while and finally decided.

And that evening.

“Big Sejin.”

“uh?”

I asked for Bae Se-jin’s understanding and changed rooms for a while. He smiled happily packed his things in the living room and went in.

“…Mundae?”

“okay.”

So in other words I am Big Sejin's roommate today.

Chapter 240

Big Sejin looked a little embarrassed but immediately changed his complexion and smiled.

“Are you looking for something?”

“no. “I switched rooms with Bae Se-jin.”

“…a room?”

“Uh just for today.”

I sat down on Bae Se-jin’s bed right across from him.

“Let’s talk.”

“…”

A brief moment of tension passed through Keun Se-jin’s movements.

But the words came out well.

“…Um what are you talking about?”

‘That’s your attitude these days you bastard.’ The thought came up to my uvula but I held it in well.

‘You shouldn’t talk like that unless you want to fight.’

Instead I sat down with my fingers crossed and calmly said what I needed to say.

“First of all… thank you.”

"…!"

"I heard you had a hard time while I couldn't wake up. "I heard you dealt with both the company and the hospital."

I continued calmly.

"I feel like I couldn't talk about it separately… so I think it's right to say it now. "Thank you for your concern."

"…"

The guy looks like he just got hit.

"And thank you for your concern… are you crying?"

"uh? Oh no… uh."

Big Sejin shamelessly shouted with his eyes wide open.

"I'm so moved!"

…I think it's closer to relief than emotion.

'Not the reaction I expected… but.'

As expected this guy seems to have been going through a hard time of his own over the past few days.

Although he was embarrassed he seemed to have relaxed and laughed in a less formal way.

"Ah I'm a little embarrassed?"

Okay I'm glad you've calmed down a bit. I crossed my arms.

"There's nothing to be embarrassed about. by the way…"

Now there is something I need to hear too.

“Are you mad at me?”

“…what?”

“It seems like it’s been a while since whenever I say something you just hear ‘You’re right~’ and move on.”

“…”

I tapped my finger on the edge of the bed.

I can see the tension coming back to this kid’s face again so it’s a bit weird but it’s better than covering it up and then having it explode later.

“Let’s shake this off when we have the chance. “If when talking about the concert you felt unfair that I received a one-sided apology and ended the situation…”

“Would that have been unfair?”

“…!”

“…No I think I was too short-thinking back then. “I think it was just because I was trying to be careful with my words~”

I don’t think so.

Just now this bastard got so angry that he started attacking me and stabbed me in an aggressive manner.

I said exactly what I thought.

“I don’t think so.”

“…!”

“I know you just want to move on but I’m saying this because I don’t want you to endure it for a long time without expressing your opinion.”

I held back a sigh.

“So I apologize for planning a solo concert without saying anything even though the team situation was not good…”

“It’s not like that.”

Big Sejin gritted his teeth. And in the end I couldn’t bear it anymore and gave up with a straight face.

“Park Moon-dae do you think I’m some kind of sociopath?”

“…!”

“Do you think I’m upset that you’re doing a solo concert? “Is it a problem for the team?”

“…”

…isn’t it?

Keun Se-jin took a few deep breaths as if to let off steam and then cleared his voice.

“Have you ever thought that the guy who was in a coma just now was worried that he might overexert himself?”

“…I thought there might be a reason for that.”

“I thought about it but more than that I thought he was annoyed that I would cause trouble with the team. no?”

“…”

I think this is the first time I’ve heard this guy speak so bluntly.

Keun Se-jin seems to have gained momentum and is now speaking almost as if he is venting.

“You always say that. It happens every time someone gets hurt or there is controversy. It’s true that I risked my life on this. Yes I want to do well. But I also… worry about my friend.”

“…”

“Aren’t we friends? You… I honestly don’t know. “I really don’t mind not being able to do activities with you so I just thought it would be nice if you would wake up.”

“…!”

“I did but you barely woke up and then you said something stupid again… right before I did anything…”

Big Sejin stopped speaking as if he was choking. It was only after I listened to him in silence that I realized why he did that.

This guy is just scared.

My close friend almost died and we even got into a fight so I was just trying to be careful.

‘He took his mistake of speech… to an absurdly serious level.’

And I thought I was that close to Park Moon-dae.

“…”

I realized something again.

Sejin Lee is still in her early 20s. This is the age when people are usually in the middle of doing nothing in college.

Since I usually have good backups I unconsciously judged myself more strictly than others. As if he were really a co-worker of my age.

I kept trying to analyze this guy's actions based solely on his career and profits.

'This… is my mistake.'

That was a bit harsh wasn't it?

I hesitated for a moment and then nodded.

And he said it seriously.

"okay. You were trying to be considerate but I took it too crookedly because I was also worried. sorry."

"…no."

"Nope. And… you are my friend. "I never thought it wasn't."

"…!"

I thought of the status window and all the questions still unresolved.

"It's just that I… I didn't have enough time so I was in a hurry to get results right away."

"…"

"sorry. "This isn't about a solo concert it's that I'm sorry for making you disappointed."

Big Sejin nodded without saying a word. But I saw water dripping onto the blanket on the bed.

Still the air became much cooler.

"…after."

I lay down on Bae Se-jin's bed. The owner of the bed will be shocked if he sees it.

And I thought.

‘There is no such thing as a cartoon… ’

It’s not some kind of adventure cartoon but I never thought I’d be proving to be my friend by having a hard time with this guy. It’s something to see and live in this world for a very long time.

It was a strange thing. Still it wasn’t meaningless.

“…”

Although we were a little shy we remained silent for a while in the now more comfortable atmosphere of the room.

And after a while. As if he had finally calmed down Keun Se-jin deliberately started his luck again in a cheerful voice.

“Ah now I’m really embarrassed.”

“I’m more embarrassed doing this in someone else’s room.”

“Hey that’s enough. “I cried alone!”

Big Sejin smiled. It’s a condition that’s perfect for growing horns on your butt.

“But it’s Mundaemundae.”

“why.”

“…Why can’t I have so much free time?”

“…”

“I’m not saying this but it’s past time for us to worry about performance. Isn't it okay to go a little slower?… We'll still be in this group 5 years from now."

"…I want to do it."

It was easy to admit it now.

But at the same time I thought about reality.

"But I don't know what will happen. I don't know if I'll be able to do what I want to do now. "There are so many variables in this world."

"…"

"So I'm trying to do everything I can now so that I can still do it five years from now."

…Details that were plastered with unrealistic elements were excluded but it was the clean truth.

I briefly heard Big Sejin sigh and laugh.

…laughter?

"Is Moon Dae-moon University really the National Intelligence Service?"

"…??"

"No that sounds too agent-like~"

Why are you suddenly biting back on the rice cake you just ate?

When I looked at him with a puzzled look on his face Big Sejin chuckled.

"Did you know that you have amnesia and sometimes talk about the past in very specific detail?"

"…!"

"But strangely the year doesn't match?"

"…!!"

…Now that I think about it I forgot that there were no people specifically asking about 'Park Moon-dae's' past over the past two and a half years.

So this is… I guess I let my guard down sometimes and speak in a 'Ryu Geon-woo' base.

Cold sweat flows.

'Fuck you.'

However Big Sejin did not inquire further. Instead he lay down on his bed.

"Ugh~ Well everyone has their own secrets that's it."

"…"

"Still… tell me if you feel like it. Sejin's mouth is really heavy? "It's rare to have a chance to make friends like this."

I looked at the guy lying on the other side of the bed.

With his personality he wouldn't even think about things like status windows and restarts. At best I'm probably lying about my real age.

'still… '

Still somehow I feel a little more at ease.

I chuckled.

“okay.”

“…!”

“I will when I can talk.”

Once the condition is over there may come a day when we can drink and talk heartily for about 2 nights and 3 days.

…And that might work.

I added as a joke.

“…Please wait until then. please cooperate with us later.”

“…”

Big Sejin was silent for a moment as if he was having some complicated thoughts.

And he answered slowly.

“National Intelligence Service work?”

“hey.”

“haha! Okay~”

It was like joking around and laughing but I can see that they wanted to end it on a good note in a less awkward way.

“Oh it’s already 12 o’clock in Mundaemun University~ I have to go to bed early to practice tomorrow!”

“Are you coming?”

I shook my head and stood up to turn off the light.

“Oh~ Are you taking the initiative to turn off the light? One-day roommate is cool~”

“Let’s get some sleep.”

“yes.”

The lights were turned off in my roommate’s room with the same name.

And I quietly went to bed without saying another word but I knew that from the next day I would return to feeling less awkward with this guy.

The only side effect was that Bae Se-jin returned to the living room with a rather lonely face.

…I’ll consider changing it occasionally.

“The costume has arrived~”

“omg.”

“Is something like this okay…?”

“Given your experience so far I think you’ll love it!”

“That’s right~”

Anyway preparations for the concert proceeded step by step without any problems and soon the broadcast time of the day was just around the corner.

* * *

The day when Park Moon-dae host of Testa Guest’s talk concert ‘As Your Heart Takes’ is broadcast.

For the first time in a long time the graduate student sat in front of the desktop at home instead of going to work in the lab.

It was an endorphin moment that had been a long time coming for her who had been contemplating her career path while suffering from the sophistry that 'there are doctors of Cheokcheok but not masters of Cheokcheok'.

"Ah… I love it."

It felt like it was the first time in a long time that I was meeting a student at a university with peace of mind.

When I saw Park Moon-dae who recovered after 18 hellish days I was so emotional that life was a bit difficult but now he seemed to be feeling better.

I just felt excited.

'It's a talk concert so I don't think it's too much of a stretch!'

More than anything I liked the atmosphere where everyone was excited and looking forward to it!

'I'm sure you're looking forward to it too right?'

The graduate student laughed and exchanged a few excited chats with her Homma friend before logging into the platform where the concert was being shown.

'You have to sign up to post comments in real time!'

It was a bit unfamiliar to her… and a less popular platform but it was user-friendly and seemed to do a lot of good things so she had no hesitation in signing up.

No even if I felt reluctant I really wanted to leave a comment about this concert.

'I may not be able to see you but I still want to support you…!'

I wanted to say that I am so glad that my mundae recovered and that I am very grateful that he came back healthy.

'Wow I'm a fan too!'

The graduate student shook his head when his friend Homma heard it put his hands on the keyboard and waited for the concert to start.

Soon a rainbow line appeared on the black screen and a countdown began.

-3333

-I love Testaㅠㅠ

-ㅋㅋㅋ There are so many people.

-I like the donation concert~

-3!

-Aaaah I see Cheongwoo ㅏㅏ

The comments flew by in an instant and soon the screen lit up with a rather exciting classical accompaniment.

A performance hall with 7 chairs.

It was the same scene as the poster.

In other words there was no tester yet.

-Ooh

-Where is Testa?

-Has it not appeared yet?

‘Is it appearing now? I guess it starts with the doorstep right? Is Mundae the host??’

It was a moment when a graduate student was excitedly tapping his knees and looking at the screen.

Suddenly I heard a voice.

[Welcome the audience to the audience participation talk concert.]

“…!”

It was Park Moon-dae.

-Moondaemundada

-Only the voice comes out?

-Where will it appear?

“Wow I guess it comes out first!”

It was when a graduate student quickly left a comment saying ‘Lungu University is the best!’

[Before the performance begins your choice is required to ensure smooth progress.]

A message appeared on the electronic display board behind the concert hall.

[Testa]

1. Cool

2. Cute

“…??”

The graduate student's eyes turned into peas and he stared at the screen.

'what's this?'

The real-time comment window was also filled with question marks and laughter.

I could still hear Park Moon-dae's peaceful voice.

[If you post the number as a real-time comment by combining it with the # button on the keyboard the selected number will be counted on the electronic display board.]

[Please choose <whatever you like>.]

While listening to the story several people quickly typed the combination in the comment box.

-#1

-#2

The moment it goes up as a comment.

Numbers also started running next to the text on the actual screen.

[Testa]

1. Cool (25)

2. Cute (31)

It was a clear reflection.

-omg!

-Hey I'm using this for a concert haha.

That’s how the 21st century non-face-to-face talk concert began.

Chapter 241

Real-time comments increased tremendously.

-It's a concert so let's go cool.

-#1

-#2#2#2 Please make it cute ㅠㅠㅠ

-Does it count even if I use this together??

– Hahahaha that's really funny haha.

There are people who try different numbers as a test people who genuinely push for one option and most people who choose one just for fun.

Various stories were updated so quickly that the comment section exploded.

And the count on the electronic display board went up quickly.

[Testa]

1. Cool (2017)

2. Cute (1992)

Park Mun-dae's mumbling which had not yet appeared was heard again.

[Hmm… It's a very close match. Thank you for your quick support.]

[Time limit is 3 minutes. Forward… 120 seconds left.]

Perhaps he didn't know that the count would go up so passionately and there was a hint of embarrassment in Park Moon-dae's calm voice.

'Aw it's so cute!'

The graduate student typed on the keyboard with both hands and quickly added up the count.

-#1 Testa is the best!

'At the concert Mundae probably wanted to do something more cool right?'

The graduate student was happily satisfied with his choice. It just so happened that there were slightly more people who took number 1!

But unfortunately for her there were some imaginary numbers mixed in here.

First of all there were many people who took the test and chose number 1.

Moreover the people who signed up before the concert started and then logged in right away… a significant number of them were very passionate fans.

And the more people there were the more often they made choices that were slightly different from the general public.

-Hit 2 right now.

-Lovers who are watching Testacon now please give strength to number 2 quickly. It's #2 quickly.

-ㅅㅂ Let's take a look at the Godgis' joke partyㅠㅠㅠ

Testa's cool appearance on stage is because there are already numerous databases.

The cute stage can only be seen sporadically at surprise stages at concerts or on social media so I couldn't miss this opportunity.

'Official cute stage!!'

Fans pushed for number 2 like crazy and the result.

[Testa]

1. Cool (10286)

2. Cute (15601)

achieved an overwhelming victory.

-Hahahahaha

-I pity those of you who don't know how cool Testa is!

-It's cheap~~

-Okay I won. Cuteness conquers the world!

Park Moon-dae's voice was still calm as if he couldn't confirm the comments filled with bullshit and laughter.

[The audience's choice is… <Testa is Cute>. Thank you for your participation.]

However there was a bit of laughter mixed in.

[Well I didn't know it would be this bad.]

'cute!!'

It was a moment when even a graduate student who was a little disappointed that he didn't get number 1 willingly accepted number 2.

[Then let's meet the 'cute' Testa.]

The moment those words ended the screen changed.

"and."

What appeared… was a new stage.

The stage at the concert hall that Testa rented was not just one.

And this newly appeared stage… looked like a very high-quality kindergarten performance stage.

'Panel?'

Stage props depicting trees the sea tile-roofed houses and the sun were all cutely gathered together to decorate the stage.

On that bright stage as if it were a children's fairy tale unfolding.

[I… like to sleep after having fun!]

Cha Yu-jin's Korean narration was heard which was considerably more lively than the original.

And as sparkling helium balloons burst onto the stage testa poured out.

Children's shouts were included.

[Wow!]

The testas who came running were all dressed as if they were suitable for a children's fairy tale play.

The coordination of the woodcutter scholar tiger magpie and goblin was exaggerated in a theatrical way and finished in a cute way.

It’s truly a children’s stage.

However Testa did not care and began the performance resolutely.

Their powerful title ‘Spring out’ was based on the concept of Joseon steampunk.

-The sense of today seeps in

Enjoy this moment I can feel the gaze

Now without notice

Spring out

In the meantime even the choreography was slightly changed to give it a sense of movement.

It was an incredibly powerful opening in another sense.

– Haha are they serious?

-Testa is so softㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-It’s really the best. It’s cute. It’s the best choice.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Meanwhile you are so good you are secretly the king.

The audience burst into laughter and left comments at the bright and honest stage worthy of a real charity event.

However some fans felt a little nostalgic.

-Reminds me of an impromptu concert stage…

-They’re trying to make us feel the same way about our kids’ tour being canceled. It really makes me cry.

-The kids are cute but I feel overwhelmed alone.

All of that mixed together and the real-time comment window became complete chaos.

And similar things were repeated on social media and in communities enjoying great advertising effects.

-What are you all talking about?

-Testa plays?

– Come see the free concert guys. It's a full-fledged hilarious comment-participatory concert.

-What are you talking about?

Even people who were not particularly interested in things like idol donation concerts end up clicking the link out of curiosity.

Meanwhile Testa was performing well on stage.

The fun included not being overly cute and showing off a bit of embarrassment.

-Hey Testa really worked hard haha.

-You guys are really sincere about your donations.

-I should have chosen number 1 ㅠㅠ (It's a lie)

And after seeing this anomalous stage people wondered what the other options were.

-Then what is cool?? What on earth did coolness come from? ㅠㅠㅠ

-Are there any other options?

-It looks like it will appear on the next stage or something haha.

With some anticipation people waited for a ‘standard’ great stage to follow.

But there was no point.

[If you choose one side of the crossroads you cannot go to the other side.]

[So as for the one who is not chosen it never happened!]

This was said after the members’ awkward personal greetings after the performance.

Lee Se-jin grinned raised his index finger made an X and held it up to the camera.

And the members also laughed at the absurdity of it but they couldn’t laugh at the comments.

-??

-really?

-Hey I heard there is no such thing? Haha.

[Ah~ I’m so sorry! I prepared hard~]

[Still the performance continues. Go to the next option!]

The people in the comments slowly realized what was going on due to the members’ lively voices.

-This means giving up one thing unconditionally.

-Hey Testa crazy people do you have to do this much for a donation concert?

-Will they release it on the other side of the internet?? yes.?

Everyone tried to think rationally saying ‘There’s no way we can just throw away what we prepared’ but anyway what we saw in front of us was a tester who neatly performed only the choices and moved on.

Either choice is the end!

Thanks to this voting gradually began to heat up.

[This winter]

1. Going to the sea in snowy winter

2. Drink warm cocoa at home

The voting electronic display stage is back again.

Now comments have begun to actively persuade others.

-Oh it’s definitely cocoa haha. That’s crossing the line.

-Let’s go to the sea in winter. The stage looks like shit.

-Do we have to watch boring work from home at a concert? Of course it’s the sea.

-I think I’ll find a place to stay. Please make me some cocoa. Please.

This time after a close race with over 50000 total votes Winter Sea ultimately won with 30000 votes.

[Oh what a result!]

[This is a great choice.]

And a change of scene.

The members sang while sitting on the floor in a dreamy swaying silver gray stage.

It was ‘Picnic’ which had a more delicate sound and was arranged to suit the vocal performance.

-It has nothing to do with the weather forecast.

It’s the day I want to meet you

If you walk lightly

Today is a blue sky

It was a cool and beautiful a cappella.

Taking advantage of the non-face-to-face concert gently undulating silver-blue waves bathed the screen along with the beautiful song.

The stage ended in a lingering way with dramatic chords led by Park Moon-dae at the climax.

-It was good…

-Ah haha it was a good choice.

-There are a lot of good Testa songs.

As each interesting or impressive performance piled up people became more immersed in the concert bragging about their choices or wondering about other options.

Even people who used to watch illegal broadcasts on WeTube because they were tired of unpopular platforms became interested in voting and came in.

-ㅠㅠChoose the 2nd choreography video the music video is cringy #2

-If you choose a dog it’s Mundaeng and if you choose a cat

Chagoyoung is the center? Haha.

-# Just put it in and upload it right?

-No fun

-Wow I really hit it this time haha.

There were people trying to make a fuss but it was actually meaningless.

In any case the comment was not visible to Testa and had no effect other than choosing one of the options and adding the numbers.

However it was just very fun because the real-time reflection and choices were stimulating.

People chose a variety of options such as ‘Dog VS Cat’ ‘Hotteok VS Yakgwa’ and ‘Magic VS Baseball’.

Some options seemed to blatantly push the side connected to Testa and other options made me wonder what they had to do with the stage.

But no matter what you choose watching the stage will answer any doubts and make you burst into laughter or admiration.

-I was choosing a cover song. It’s soft and sweet so it’s uplifting haha.

-Baseball = got a high five. Ah Cheongwoo in baseball uniform is great as always. ㅠㅠㅠ

-
Hotteokkekekek

And Testa didn't forget about commercials.

[Please give Somang who has never left the hospital room a tomorrow where his dreams will come true.]

Through cooperation with the Children's Welfare Foundation there were occasional talks requesting donations with a hopeful feel.

The purpose was to remind people that this was a donation concert and it was quite effective.

Since there was a set timing for receiving donations donations came all at once.

And the firecracker effect that appears every time it explodes constantly covers the comment section encouraging participation causing even people who wouldn't normally donate to donate.

-awesome

-Hey we are cultured.

-Saturday's leisure life~ Big

That was when people became completely accustomed to this system and flow.

[This time… the drill options are about special stages.]

[i look forward to…!]

The phrase on the electronic sign that appeared after Sun Ah-hyun's soft voice was something the audience had never expected.

[My prediction is that the special stage will be]

1. VTIC covered by Testa

2. Testada covered by VTIC

Suddenly another group from the first team appeared in sight.

-???

-What is it?

-Hey is this really true?

-Why is V-Tik here?

But soon people figured out what was going on.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋ If you choose number 2 Testa will pretend to be V-Tik.

-Oh I thought it would be funny haha.

-Are you listening to Testa's VTIC-style arrangement? I'm so happy lol

-Will Testa come out and apologize to the public?

Anyone could see that the choice was cute. Didn't they tell me to take number 1 instead of taking number 2?

Since most of Testa's fans are watching they naturally expect it to be number 1.

The problem was that as the game got bigger the audience pool also increased.

There was no way the audience who were already entertained by the choice format would miss such a funny treat.

-Hey let's go number 2.

-I wonder what to do haha.

-You seem really embarrassed? Hahaha #2

-#2 The answer is number 2~~

In addition fans who wanted to make fun of Testa joined in turning the trend towards number 2.

Of course some fans were restless due to the cold feeling.

'If I do this wrong I'll be criticized for using VTIC…?'

'Ah this is breathtaking… '

But only 3 minutes.

The conclusion was reached without time for public opinion to overturn.

Testada covered by VTIC (71432)

It was two wins.

– Hahahahahahaha awesome

-Now what are you going to do with Testa?

-Wow it actually came out twice haha.

-I look forward to it guys.

When those mischievous expectations are inflated to their maximum.

[Ah… this is how it ended up.]

[Sure.]

As soon as we started talking a narration started flowing.

However it was not the voice I heard before.

-?

-Do you regret Testa?

People who weren't Testa's fans laughed and commented but Testa's fans were a little embarrassed.

'this… '

The voice was not Testa's.

And after a while.

Instead of changing the stage shown on the screen an electronic display board suddenly opened.

"…!!"

And from the black backstage four figures walked out from between the dry ice.

-omg

-Hey wait a minute.

-no way

'No way' was correct.

In fact VTIC made a cameo appearance at the Testa concert.

-crazy

The audience's reaction began to explode at this unexpected and dramatic development.

Chapter 242

A few hours ago. Behind the stage set up for Testa's non-face-to-face donation concert.

"Do you need water?"

"it's okay."

Cheongryeo was familiar with the backstage.

From a small local festival at the time when 'things weren't going well' to a stadium filled entirely with VTIC staff.

He repeatedly experienced all stages of the industry and layer upon layer of familiarity formed a deep layer within him.

Therefore the members of VTIC were also accustomed to the leader's calmness.

It seems as if he was born to do this job never showing signs of agitation or awkward response in any situation.

So after their debut they quickly became calm as if they were contagious.

"Wow I feel a bit nervous."

"I see. I guess this is the burden on the guests."

"that's right. "You have to do better at other people's parties!"

VTIC talked slyly in front of their WeTube upload camera and waited for Cheongryeo to strike at the right time as usual.

It was an appropriate decision.

“This is a meaningful project so I hope it will be helpful to Testa juniors.”

“That’s right~ Thank you for inviting me to such a great place Testa junior!”

The members smiled and waved at the camera and Cheongryeo thought with a smiling face.

‘No it’s a loss.’

How can you honestly say such an absurd thing?

It was inevitable because the members were selected based only on the accident rate and stage quality but no one was quick to notice.

If things continue like this we will most likely end up enriching others.

‘If you do well if you don’t do well you’ll be a waste of money.’

Not only are all the guests at the juniors’ concert but they are also top-notch seniors in the same industry who sing the juniors’ songs.

Of course we couldn’t just blame the members.

‘The trap looks so good that I can’t help it.’

Cheongryeo recalled the conversation that occurred when Park Moon-dae was visiting the hospital when this appearance occurred.

Park Moon-dae’s first proposal for a donation concert.

-How about co-hosting?

-well.

At this time VTIC's schedule was on the verge of becoming murderous.

This is because they were preparing for a full comeback.

After Cheongryeo's solo album achieved great success VTIC's scope of movement became greatly freed.

This means that the attitude of the board of directors who were hesitant about releasing domestic albums out of concern that VTIC's downward trend was becoming visible has disappeared.

Thanks to this preparations for the album gained momentum without Cheongryeo having to make any special adjustments.

And like all idols who were usually at the VTIC level they were scheduled to tour overseas after appearing on domestic music shows for a week for the sake of fame.

But rehearsing for a stadium tour and preparing for a new concert at the same time?

'It's impossible.'

There will be no time to sleep. Even now just by visiting Park Moon-dae's hospital room Cheongryeo's sleep time has decreased.

It was like this even during the preparation period but there was nothing to say after the comeback. It was a future so determined that it would be embarrassing to even call it a prediction.

Cheongryeo told the truth.

-I won't have time because it's an active period.

Park Moon-dae was not too embarrassed.

-Then what about as a guest?

-hmm.

-Anyway if you see something that will do well you'll want to step into the platform.

Park Moon-dae's explanation was clear.

We will make an exclusive contract with LeTi's platform for the format of this donation concert.

Then as a gesture of friendship and publicity LeTi invites Cheongryeo who happens to be close friends with Park Moon-dae to appear on the show.

-So all you have to do is set up any stage and put a spoon on it.

Cheongryeo knew at that moment.

'You already knew?'

Knowing that joint planning was impossible due to VTIC's current schedule Park Moon-dae led the discussion to this structure.

Cheongryeo narrowed his eyes.

'Use me as a guest… la.'

And he asked me to perform on any stage.

At first glance it seems like they were considerate of the senior's busy schedule but in fact it means that you can come without the car or the bag.

While Testa performs a special performance for a separately trained concert Cheongryeo performs a regular performance alone.

It was a matter of weight class.

If anything happens the status of Cheongryeo will suffer.

Although it may not be as risky as Park Moon-dae appearing as a guest on VTIC's tour it was a risky act.

-how is it.

However unilateral refusal is also a dangerous situation.

He didn't forget.

'Recording.'

A recording of the conversation at the time of the kidnapping will be in Park Moon-dae's cloud.

The main vocalist has already graced the social scene once. The moment this explodes it is safe to say that VTIC's career is over.

However Cheongnyeo judged that there was little chance of Park Mun-dae releasing the recording.

'It's going to be a mud fight.'

Park Moon-dae's activities will also be greatly disrupted. Therefore it is a card that can never be used when there is still a mission left.

However… Park Moon-dae's survival is at stake right now so if necessary he could threaten Cheongryeo by mentioning the recording as a bluff.

And at that moment this friendly relationship was a catastrophe.

Cheongryeo didn't want that either.

So after making a quick decision I smiled.

-great. Guest appearance.

-then…

-Oh the VTIC power is about to go out.

-…!

-Are you okay? I think the audience will also increase.

It was crazy.

If Cheongryeo appeared alone even in case of an emergency the damage could have been minimized due to the image of a ‘guest invited thanks to friendship’.

Park Moon-dae probably thought that was the worst case scenario for Cheongryeo.

However Cheongryeo had no intention of unilaterally tearing off his flesh like that.

-…

Park Moon-dae was silent for a moment but then calmly nodded.

-okay.

-yes. Then let’s do that.

So this was a kind of game.

If VTIC comes out there is a risk that it will be a much bigger blow than if Cheongryeo comes out alone.

But if you get the benefit at the same time it’s even bigger. Because the two groups are directly compared.

And because Cheongnyeo knew VTIC’s stage quality he judged the odds of winning clearly.

‘More than 70%.’

And the board was made bigger.

-I think it would be fun to switch songs.

Wouldn't you make sure to fill the number of people at Park Moon University as well?

"…"

After finishing reminiscing Cheongryeo smiled.

In the end it was a plate he had laid his hands on.

It would be natural for the members to fall for it because they thought it had a good purpose and seemed fun. Because he chose the members that way. With things that are easy to handle.

However their strength lay entirely in their main job.

Cheongryeo recalls Park Moon-dae's conditions again.

'400000 people.'

Do you know what the daily audience figure was for their online concert last year?

There were 610000 people.

This is a masterpiece that is only paid for on this platform.

So as long as VTIC's group appearance has been decided there is no problem with Park Moon-dae's survival.

'We will have to endure some leakage of Testa's fandom.'

Isn't that something you brought upon yourself?

He couldn't take responsibility for Park Moon-dae's regrets.

‘Hmm should I let you meet Kongi?’

Cheongryeo thought of his dog and briefly thought about ways to comfort him.

“Let’s go.”

“V-TIK wins today too! Ah Victorious～”

At the time of debut the members used an old-fashioned cheering slogan chosen by the director as if it were a joke.

Even after so many restarts somehow that didn’t change. Maybe it was because he didn’t really want to change.

Because he always wanted to win.

“VCR ends in 10 seconds!”

Cheongryeo felt a strange tingle crawl up her back as she watched the stage structure open in front of her.

It felt unfamiliar because it had been so long.

The sense of taking risks and running toward uncertain results.

It was a challenge.

[ah.]

A short test sound heard through the in-ears.

And then the stage began.

* * *

The moment when VTIC walked onto the stage and formed a leisurely formation.

The comments were filled with all kinds of question marks exclamation points and exclamations and were replaced without even being read.

It wasn't just the comments here.

-Hey V-Tik

-The real V-Tik comes out

-Tikas wow haha.

-crazy

After seeing real-time viewings on social media many people were surprised and logged on to the Testa concert.

And the pop-up notification sent by the platform to people who had subscribed to VTIC in a timely manner caused many people to click in confusion.

[VTIC has appeared!]

In front of the pop-up notification was VTIC's logo which was even made into an emoticon.

And at that moment of confusion VTIC started the stage.

Weeing- weeing- weeeeee!

Along with the sound of the siren low drums begin to sound like formal applause.

Harsh fast and intense percussion and brass instruments that heighten the tension.

And the iconic riff melody that goes down.

-Travel

-Are you coming?

It was Testa's representative song.

However the classical oriental feel of the train disappeared without a trace.

Instead technical electronic sounds and an orchestra run over an intense trap beat.

And VTIC dressed in a tight suit with a black harness and padded gloves interpreted the parade's choreography in a faster and more modern way.

-He is coming. today-.

Even if you struggle you can't avoid it

I'm sorry. He is coming.

And the rap becomes slower and more groovy deftly supporting the performance.

There was no room for choreography that seemed to embody a giant beast. Instead it is covered with precise group dance that feels authoritative like a commando unit in formation.

Like capturing an animal.

Then there is the saluting gesture and the rising bass.

-He has now appeared. Warning warning again.

Slow and thrilling approach me me me me

-Take off

The tempo of the rap changed. It pours out as if running encouraging aggression. And the refrain.

-The day finally arrived!

Oh Oh Oh…

The accompaniment was suddenly dropped at a different moment from the original song.

-Never get away from me Yeah

A languid wave choreography full of intimidation. And again quick group dance with each angle

In front of dancers holding flags who moved like jockeys VTIC went crazy pushing the stage movement to the limit.

They no longer have a main vocalist.

However the absence of vocals was offset by rap and performance.

It is absent and naked so that those who see it are overwhelmed and hold their breath.

-and

The comment window suddenly became slower. The extreme state of concentration makes one forget the action equivalent to applause.

VTIC went wild amid red lasers blue lasers and a lower more majestic riff melody.

And the introduction of verse 2 is omitted along with the performance. The accompaniment jumped right into the part where the bridge of the train was supposed to go.

The members pause and turn back to form formation.

However instead of the promised melody a familiar rap refrain comes in.

-Sangun

Their claws are hella sharp

Readily tear you apart

You can’t catch it like that

No you can’t.

And the iconic choreography using hands and waist.

-??

-Sangun

– and here

One of their representative songs. It is 〈Sangun〉.

The melody and bass are intertwined according to the context and the group of mountains grows bigger and bigger.

With the addition of the song’s most iconic traditional instrument reference.

-Make me a Boss

That’s right isn’t it?

VTIC put together two songs with the keyword ‘beast’ and pulled the keyword ‘traditional style’ towards themselves.

As if to show who did it first.

It's as if <Training> was completely arranged and freed from its imitation.

And the attempt was very plausible.

-I'm so cool

-Sangun! Mountain army! Mountain army!

-Look at the quality of the grand prize song.

This is because the public and VTIC's fans who were excited by the appearance of a major hit song responded enthusiastically to Sangun taking over the performance and dominating the second half.

The stage had all the persuasive power in its funny moments.

-Sangun

Their claws are hella sharp

Let me prove it

An explosive final dance break.

And the stage ended with VTIC forming a four-person formation among the giant flags.

However the comments were endlessly filled with sentiments.

-torn

-It's crazy of course it's V-Tik

-Why are the kids here?ㅠㅠ

-gooseflesh

-Wow it’s really cool.

VTIC took a deep breath waved to the dancers as they entered and smiled at the camera.

Then we sat down on a chair brought by the staff and even talked a few words.

[Thank you for choosing a good choice everyone!]

[It was really fun~]

Even if they chose number 1 they were going to show up anyway but they slyly applauded and praised the intention of planning the concert.

Of course I didn’t forget the jokes.

[Oh come to think of it! We are also in the middle of a concert~]

[If you are interested please come take a look! haha!]

People cried in the comments.

-Guys there are no tickets…

-This kind of deception is too much.

-I understand why I became friends with Testa.

And some fans with tickets also cried under the water.

-ㅠㅠㅠYou crazy people if you are going to do something like this please give me a noticeㅅㅂ

-You’re doing well. You can’t defect even if you try to stop him from defecting… For a thousand years ten thousand years enjoy the 1st team mugglesㅠㅠ

-I bought a resale ticket. Damn I can't believe I bought something like this.

-Letty How long are you planning on using these kids to expand their business? They do this all the time because the kids are good at it.

– Hahaha but it's a bit refreshing. It looks like the idiots are going crazy haha. Of course Tikas who missed the real-time show will be upset but I watched it in real-time^^

The atmosphere was completely gone.

I couldn't find any posts disparaging VTIC right now other than things like 'You're clenching your teeth to win over your junior.'

It meant that Anti could not be brought down from this stage without a mental victory.

And Park Moon-dae was watching this from backstage.

* * *

If it had been a real performance there would have been a lot of screaming.

I put the water bottle in my mouth.

Scary bastard.

'It was like calling a real tiger.'

Of course I plan to peel off the leather and dry it before using it.

'I can't let the flow go on like this.'

Testa's next stage was just around the corner.

Chapter 243

The monitoring equipment showed that VTIC on stage continued the talk fluently without any awkwardness.

[In fact the longer you are active the less likely you are to cover fellow idols' songs.]

[That's right~ The concert will also be filled with our songs!]

[That's a really cool thing. Still it was really fun preparing for the cover stage after a long time.]

Even if you don't look at it there will be a lot of people in the comments saying things like 'That must have been unfair when they could have taken off the rank insignia and replaced it with an X. Haha.'

I tried to cross my arms but held back. This is so as not to interfere with the staff adjusting my microphone position.

Those two guys can't use their energy on professional entertainment shows but they can speak quite convincingly among themselves.

"Sat talk… you're good at it."

"I've been doing it for over 8 years so of course I should."

"Is that so?"

Bae Se-jin responded awkwardly to Sun Ah-hyun's admiration. It seems that Cheongryeo is not happy that she came here.

Well that was expected. He was shocked when I first mentioned it.

-Why does that crazy person hold an event like this…!!

-Because the platform belongs to that agency. I think it would be difficult to refuse.

-Ugh…!

-So… I think it would be better to just call the whole group. What do you think?

-… okay. It's better that way though.

After that a long discussion ensued that changed to 'Should this concert be held on that platform in the first place?' but Bae Se-jin ultimately lost in the majority vote.

For your information the other guy who knew that Cheongryeo was the bastard who got into a dog fight with me while on vacation… Well he happened to be a reaction robot who only shouted yes.

-… okay? Okay I guess I'll have to work hard.

This was the end of Keun Se-jin's reaction at the time.

The problem is that now you're making a pretty disrespectful gesture… Hey don't pretend to behead someone by fanning them.

Looking at it this way it seems like everyone is nervous and on guard but of course there are some who are just excited.

For example Raebin Kim.

"It was a quite adventurous yet sophisticated arrangement. Next time I think it would be fun to arrange our seniors' 'Sangun' in a more modern way. What do you think?"

"…"

That's not it.

‘If it goes that far it will be a real fight… ’

‘How dare you use Haengcha like this? It will be seen as ‘I will do the same to the mountains’.

It looks like we’re going to end up with a warm atmosphere on the water just in the nick of time in the name of a donation concert but if we get there there’s really no answer.

It’s not a contest program so there will be angry issue YouTubers asking what kind of diss battle this is and then a real mess will break out.

Fortunately before I could open my mouth Ryu Cheong-woo gently cut off Kim Rae-bin’s words.

“Let’s do it if we have the chance.”

“yes!”

It’s a face that can’t even guess that that opportunity will never come.

“…”

Still… I guess I’m happy at least one thing.

No there is one more guy.

“We use the flag too!! “The flag is cool!!”

Cha Yu-jin is ready to create at least a new song. Bae Se-jin asks the guy with a shocked look on his face.

“…Aren’t you nervous?”

“Why are you doing this?”

“Because… the people in front of us did a good job.”

“are you okay. I’m good! Well we’re good!”

“…!”

Bae Se-jin suddenly has a sad look on his face.

“That’s right!”

“that’s right!”

Yes put your energy into it.

I nodded and spoke.

“Let’s work hard.”

“Ugh!”

“Yes Mr. Moon Dae who strongly insisted on this concert~”

“Mr. Moon Dae hired a choreographer just one day after being discharged from the hospital.”

“…”

Even Liu Chengwu?

I need to perform well on stage. I feel like the moment I fail these guys will hang me upside down and pour red ginseng down my mouth.

Of course I have no intention of ruining it.

‘Let’s just do what we prepared.’

I smiled and got up and followed them.

Soon it will be Testa’s turn again.

* * *

“wow!!”

The graduate student sitting in front of the computer was admiring the VTIC stage he had just seen.

There was no disagreement that it was a truly amazing stage!

‘Well I still like the original song performance better… but I can’t help it! ‘Because it’s Testa’s original song!’

She once again felt proud of Testa who had beautifully performed such a famous song as the title song and also applauded VTIC.

‘Korean idols are really cool～’

This was the opinion of someone who had not tasted the abyss of the industry.

Unlike the general public who excitedly praised both of them die-hard fans were holding their heads and talking about whether this might be a good thing.

-Fuck you you little bastards can’t control their spoons but they come to your junior’s concert and become your main tactic.

-It would have been enough for the kids to just be together… The abuse of power is truly disgusting.

-When I came to the donation concert as a guest what was all that? They brought all the dancers… Wow I got blood.

-I need to disconnect from the internet.

VTIC wasn’t much different but as the initial confusion and anger subsided some people became happy.

Because the stage was so overwhelming.

-It would have been better to send entertainment while doing things like this but Victory Ging won so it's okay.

Kkkk

-?

-Mime number 2

-Why is there a question mark?

Of course the comments gained momentum again due to the feeling of not being able to understand the meaning.

Their fans who logged in because of VTIC also held off on going out for a while because the name was mentioned again.

-Hey this is number 2 again.

-I wonder why there is a question mark

– If you think something funny will come out quickly type #2.

– Hahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahaha so funny

With numerous comments from the audience expressing their enjoyment of the unpredictable viewing votes were cast for the viewing in an instant.

2. Is this VTIC covered by Testa? (179557)

The result was two outright victories.

‘Is this okay?’

‘It doesn’t matter because I feel like the VTIC story will continue to come out.’

Testa’s fans were anxious at the sight itself but they couldn’t make unnecessary noises to the excited audience so they quietly waited for Testa’s next stage.

And as usual the screen suddenly went dark.

Changing the stage like this was the typical start of the stage so far but…

This time instead I heard a sound in the darkness.

-Sangun

Their claws are hella sharp

Readily tear you apart

“…!”

These are the lyrics of Sangun which VTIC performed just before.

-Are you buying Testa too?

-It’s crazy.

-omg

Beyond the embarrassed comments a spotlight came down on the screen stage.

Pot.

What was illuminated… was a table placed on one side of the dark stage. The camera took a quick close-up of it.

On the table was a red retro-style radio with an antenna.

Given the circumstances it was as if the song was coming from a radio.

But suddenly a sturdy hand came up to the table and pressed the button on the radio.

-No you can’t…

The song went off with a crackling noise.

And then the head of the hand's owner popped up onto the table.

It was Cha Yu-jin with a mischievous face.

[hum hum hum~]

Cha Yu-jin hummed along to Sangun's melody with an excited expression and even shook her shoulders to the rhythm.

It was obvious that the fans were excited.

However just as the audience relaxed Cha Yu-jin suddenly stopped humming and without warning grabbed the table and did a somersault!

BBA-BAM!

A cheerful brass sound erupted.

To the sound of the brass the stage lights around Cha Yu-jin seemed to explode and sparkled brightly.

And on the stage in front of the audience… it was a teenage party filled with gold purple and red balloons and LED lights.

Testa members are sitting or holding drinks at every sofa and bar table.

A brief silence with no movement as if the tape had stopped and…

BBABAM BAM BBA-BAAAM!

The brass contains chords full of splendid technique.

And Ryu Cheong-woo and Lee Se-jin of Jeans come running around Cha Yu-jin as if they are seeping into them and form a formation.

The moment they started the choreography by holding on to a dizzying pillar with stickers and banners and spinning around a fast-beat electro swing accompaniment burst out!

[Hey partner

Are you thinking about me?

I'm curious My Owner

[Where our communication will go]

These lyrics are sung cheerfully by Cha Yu-jin with a smile.

It was a song that everyone in the audience knew.

-Nassa

-Night sign!!!

-???? This?

That's right.

The song Testa selected was "Night Sign" which will remain as VTIC's immortal hit song.

The title of a monster album that sold 1.8 million copies in the first week.

And it was also a song that was KO'd by being released simultaneously as soon as Testa debuted.

This song boasted a very difficult stage intensity with sexy lyrics and a strong instrumental and performance that contrasted with the languid melody.

However Testa was not called 'that'.

-Wow I didn't notice.

-Awesome hahaha

-Was it such an exciting song?

This is because Testa raised the tone to the fullest with an accompaniment full of cheerful electric guitar and drum disco-style electronic sounds.

The lyrics sounded like childish flirting.

[Two hands held together

When mixed and twisted

I remember again

[Night after night]

From the sofa straight from the bar to the table.

Testa moved the formation and naturally handed over the center to a member of the next part.

There was no frontage on the stage without a physical audience. So the performance freely changed its center depending on the angle of the camera.

When filming Park Moon-dae lying on the sofa the camera came down from the ceiling and for Sun Ah-hyun who was sitting at the bar the camera came from the perspective of a bartender.

And the members smiled mischievously and stood on the sofa or bar and joined the center in the big choreography.

[Until the end of this night

remember my eyes

Like a night sign

drag you into a trap]

The colorful luminous mirror ball sparkled and pollen exploded.

The members showed off their energetic choreography to the camera using disco movements using their hands and feet in a crackling rhythm.

It had a definite retro teen vibe from the early 80s.

-Oh I'm so excited haha.

-It's cute ㅠㅠ

-Hesitating in his seat

From the junior host's point of view Testa did not choose a head-on confrontation as if he was fighting at all costs.

Instead VTIC which has a lot of experience in the industry chose a direction in which it could no longer show itself more effectively than Testa.

It was the heat and freshness of childhood.

[Whoo~

Whoo whoo whoo

Like a night sign]

The members took turns jumped around and sang until their cheeks turned red. They performed the song neatly and with a sense of respect without being too extreme.

In addition the main vocal part performed by Park Moon-dae aroused strange feelings.

Now even VTIC won't be able to sing that part like that.

– and treble;

-The song is truly excellent.

-Of course the main vocalist is the one.

That alone slightly dampened the hearts of the audience who were excited about the VTIC stage. This is because my overwhelmed head has cooled down.

Testa carried the stage neatly and excitedly without sacrificing his overflowing energy.

And the difference between numbers 2 and 1 was only revealed at the end.

The moment when the members dressed in colorful clothes formed a final formation on the stage that seemed to be ending as an exciting party.

Suddenly the lights changed to black and white.

Kiiiiig.

And the members stopped moving with their heads down.

On the black and white stage.

The narration rang.

[Welcome welcome

This is the sound that calls you]

It was the refrain of their song 'Nightmare' concept 'Call'.

A gloomy voice.

A huge banner behind the party suddenly came loose and fell revealing a huge text in gothic letters behind it.

[To be continued…?]

Quagwagwagwang!!

With the sound of thunder the members tilted their heads and looked at each other.

Like a trailer for a classic American teen horror movie.

And… the stage ended with the lights disappearing.

[—-.]

Instead when a peaceful progress set with seven chairs naturally took up the road screen.

-????

-Hey if you hang up here.

-Okay I'll vote haha.

-Show me your calling!!!!

-You have to make a donation to show it?? Call the standard amount

Of course after a moment of confusion comments naturally started asking for a voting window.

Digesting the curiosity to compare into the curiosity to look forward to the next stage.

Testa dared to use VTIC like that and kept the audience's attention on the screen.

It was a successful plan.

* * *

After a while. A break time with commercials.

We quickly changed our clothes without any time to rest and then started socializing with VTIC.

“and!! “I loved it!”

“…thank you.”

“Look at the dance we can’t dance like that anymore. Everyone please take your joint nutritional supplements quickly. “In this job knees are life.”

“Wow that’s right! “I have a product that I take would you recommend it?”

“…Good.”

These bastards act so… friendly.

I glanced back at Cheongryeo seeing that people I had only seen once on a variety show were giving me personal advice.

“…”

While talking to Kim Rae-bin he looked at this and laughed heartily. Okay I know what kind of guys they picked.

“Oh I just sent you a text message with the product name. Please take a look.”

“Um yeah.”

I suppressed a sigh and took out my smartphone.

The two guys' eyes lit up.

"Oh~ How can we save our names…"

[VTIC Shinno senior]

[VTIC Senior Chaeyul]

"oh…"

"You classified it very professionally…"

What did you expect?

I roughly mumbled a thank you for the nutritional supplement recommendation and then got out of this swamp of conversation.

"It's been a while brothers~"

"Oh Sejin!"

I won't deny that it was convenient to have that guy backing me up.

And shortly before VTIC leaves for its schedule.

Instead of saying goodbye to Cheongnyeo who was still in her stage costume I asked her a question.

No confidence disguised as a question.

"You got what you wanted right?"

"…"

I brought up the status window.

Chapter 244

A fanfare was erupting from the translucent pop-up that appeared.

[Successful meeting!]

You succeeded in reaching an audience of ‘400000 people’!

!Time limit: met (success)

!Status abnormality: ‘Audience or death’ removed!

The status abnormality of having to reach 400000 viewers in just one free online concert has been removed.

It was worth it.

Since the emergence of VTIC the number of votes has reached nearly 300000.

And I personally saw the count go up on the electronic display board. It was like seeing the real-time audience reaction with your own eyes.

‘I knew this would be recognized.’

Additionally you can watch videos on this platform without signing up. People who wasted enough time watching it would have watched it without signing up.

It is said that among VTIC’s overseas fandom there are many who have not subscribed to the platform so the actual viewing figure must have been enormous…

Among them it would have been very difficult to reach 300000 subscribers who would actively participate in real-time performances with Testa alone.

“…”

So the basic plan to attract VTIC was largely successful.

Although the results came out a little different from my prediction.

: Check the ‘truth’ ☜Click!

The coin option has disappeared.

‘I thought it would be given as the default now.’

This means that the last coin was an irregular choice.

‘…Did you predict the accident and give it to me?’

I have a strange thought.

To be precise the system was aware of the risk that the former manager might commit a foolish act and guarded against it.

‘I think it’s true that the same ‘audience’ status ailment reappeared with only a numerical value.’

Since the value that should have originally been only ‘Truth Confirmation’ came out with the value ‘Coin’ doesn’t it seem like the same status abnormality was performed one more time to get back to its original state?

I recalled the anomaly of the status window where various status abnormalities appeared and crackled and disappeared.

‘Something like an error clearly occurred.’

To interpret this it means that the status window deviated from the path in order to somehow give me the coin even if an error occurred.

‘But why?’

So far I have never found any traces of emotion or intelligence in this system.

But starting with the manipulation of the draw probability what is the big trend that could be interpreted as favor?

“…”

After thinking quickly I came to a conclusion.

‘Do you want me to clear the status abnormality?’

I wonder if this status window was implemented so that I could somehow survive and clear this crazy situation.

Because the guy who didn’t have a status window did it a few times…

“What are you looking at?”

“…!!”

When I raised my head Cheongnyeo was looking at me closely.

I answered reflexively.

“I thought about it for a moment.”

“is it so?”

He responded casually and then turned his eyes to look in the direction of the sky where I had briefly looked.

So… the place where the status window is.

‘Fuck you.’

I inadvertently sent the pop-up back.

However as if it couldn't be seen the guy was smiling without much agitation.

He just read my gaze.

'I glanced at it did you read it?'

He was a man with an extraordinary sense of humor as he had lived many times before.

'…I asked if you got what you wanted.'

I gave up unnecessary tension and gave a standard answer.

"I think it worked out well. "It's a performance."

"is it so. "That's good."

Cheongryeo nodded as if he understood the implied meaning.

And held out his hand.

"I had fun today."

"…I am."

That means you are confident.

I held out my hand and shook his hand. The gloves were cold.

"I hope you do your best for the remaining performances as well~"

"go for it."

The VTIC guys smiled and joined in the handshake. He seems to think that his friendship has deepened through this opportunity.

And it seems like some of our guys have similar thoughts.

For example Kim Rae-bin who discovered the Gearco arrangement program.

“I hope you seniors have a comfortable journey home! Thank you so much for your guidance!”

“Oh my you said we told you something~”

“Even though I’m going abroad thank you. “I’ll go in safely!”

“yes! Thank you~”

“thank you!”

It ended on a warm note with several handshakes.

Well it wasn’t a fight and it doesn’t end well for people in the same industry who don’t know when they will see each other again.

If there is a problem it is only between us and the fandom is another problem.

‘The Internet… is going to be crazy.’

First of all both of them made sure to break even. One side will not be able to win unilaterally.

So even in the worst case scenario it would be nice if it just ended with the two having a fight at a charity event.

“Sejin the electronic display says there are 4 minutes left to vote.”

“I’m going!”

Bae Se-jin who is in charge of guiding the next vote runs down the hallway. Now that VTIC which was like a thorn in their eyes has disappeared their actions have become more aggressive.

I was roughly anticipating the reaction to the performance and when I saw that I just shrugged my shoulders.

‘Let’s do well on the remaining stages.’

The next stage was where you had to spit fake blood out of your mouth. Let’s take care of quality first.

And it soon turned out that this decision was a good one.

* * *

Testa’s donation concert ended with a great success.

[Total donation amount for this concert]

[!! ₩252 096 000 !!]

[Thank you for your enthusiastic participation and warm affection.]

The amount of real-time participation donations exceeded 140 million and the highest number of concurrent users in real-time exceeded 1.12 million.

The platform wiped away a cold sweat saying that the investment in temporary server expansion was not in vain.

Public reaction was also very favorable.

-oh my god

-It was a lot of fun really haha.

-I donated 10000 won and it feels really good. I feel like I saw a good performance and did something good ㅠㅠ

-I wish we could do this more often.

-Testa the kids were really good. Do they have any in-hearts? I want to follow you ㅠ

Everyone who saw it was happy and they were even more excited to hear that the stages would be uploaded one by one on WeTube.

Selling full videos as VOD on the platform was also possible without much resistance. Because you can watch individual performances for free.

-Yeah I have to do that to make a living.

-Testa had a hard time~

-V-Tik was really cool. Support the friendship between the two groups! ^^

The purchase rate was also good because fans wanted to see all the interesting details included in the entire video.

Moreover one more news appeared on social media.

[Testar donates as much as the audience donates! (picture)]

[All funds raised will be safely delivered together in the name of ‘As You Like’.]

Testa added an additional amount equal to the amount donated by the audience.

In the photo Testa who had just finished a performance was smiling with a sweaty face holding a money board that looked like it had been hastily scrawled with a mark.

It was a clean blameless ending that could be used to quell comments such as ‘Why are you getting a deduction for the audience’s money?’

No in fact the additional donation was a bit too ‘nice’ an act to the point where it seemed unnecessary.

But there was a reason for this decision.

This is because in communities with a deep interest in idols there was already a lot of talk about VTIC and Testa.

At first it was a compliment to the stage.

VTIC made a surprise appearance without warning and showed such an overwhelming performance that it almost monopolized popular posts and dominated the Internet.

[9-year idol cover level]

[Idols who truly showed the dignity of the first team]

[VTIC – Coming]

Numerous comments were made reaching nuances of direct comparison such as 'It's better than the original Testa' or 'But Testa is still better'.

But then the testa came out and the atmosphere changed slightly.

-Wow testa is good

-I like this feeling haha.

-Both of them are really good. The planning is also good.

-Mebo… Ha… This is what it tastes like ㅠㅠ

Testa performed VTIC's songs in a fresh way while eliminating the nuance of head-to-head competition and giving more of a 'connected set list' feel.

Thanks to this the atmosphere that was about to burn with comparison died down a bit but instead fans who were offended and aggro people trying to take advantage of it suddenly popped up.

-Is it just me? It seems like they were aiming for something like Testa to turn off the V-Tick song playing on an old-fashioned radio…

It would be petty not to mention that I sang along to that song haha. Anyone can see that it was respect.

It's an 80's concept so the clothes the kids wear are old-fashioned. What are you talking about?

Fans why are you silencing me like this? I said I felt that way.

Uh I felt like you were being aggressive.

-Honestly if you look at the scale of the stage V-Tik was bigger but it felt uncomfortable because it felt like they were trying to outwit me too much.

People who would have said it was insincere and uncomfortable if they had just done it.

I'm sorry. Our kids performed so well on stage that the Testa fans must have been very offended.

From now on I will tell my juniors at the fansign to refrain from showing off their skills so as not to embarrass them!

Wow it's a bloody mess haha.

Please stop. Everything was fine. Why are you doing this? Please…

This is because behind the scenes there were all kinds of excessive interpretations and ridiculous speculations about Testa's intentions and VTIC's intentions.

The atmosphere of wanting to somehow bring about a fight between two large fandoms and the atmosphere of trying to calm it down were in tension.

The two fandoms who were already conscious of each other could not help but find the other extremely annoying even though they liked the stage.

“Oh that’s so annoying!!”

Here too a college student was furious after fighting with a VTIC fan in the comments section of an article.

He was a fan of Kim Rae-bin who admitted that he put Park Moon-dae in second place.

– I was the one who invited him as a guest even though I couldn’t handle it so I didn’t accept it… ㅠㅠ

Eng I guess the person who came as a guest suffered a loss for no reason even though they had all the dancers they were a bit behind.

No eyes? Anyone can see that the guest side is good;

“It’s all obvious you bastard.”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan gritted his teeth and commented ‘Why are Tika bastards so obscene?’

Because the guest is about to jump out aggro is inevitable. It’s amazing that they naturally made that part of the performance.

But at the same time I felt that I was commenting on this ‘skill’ aspect.

‘This changed the atmosphere a bit.’

In fact Testa’s recent image was closer to that of an ‘unfortunate victim.’ The image of being active was one that would be commented on as ‘magnificent’ rather than ‘cool’.

The story of that accident was bigger than Testa’s status as an idol.

And it was the same with VTIC.

The memo that appeared on the social media page and the image of the poor remaining members or the group in a suspicious downward trend were attached.

However all the images gained through social aspects were blown away by this topic.

Instead both groups heated up with their main business.

Everyone interested in these groups had an opinion about ‘who did better’.

It has become hot in an idol-like sense.

All of these conflicts were typical of extremely popular first-tier idols.

‘That’s kind of fun but… ’

ㄴㅋㅋㅋ Love viewer too much~

“You bastard!!”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan immediately canceled his comment and added a comment underneath it.

‘Oh was it Tika? The fan base is still the same. Aren’t you embarrassed?’

And I felt it.

‘If you get one thing wrong you’ll get a real fight.’

Right now the two fandoms are going to be extremely annoying to each other.

Kim Rae-bin’s fans had a hunch that someone somewhere would be trying hard to dig up dirty rumors about the other group.

‘Oh my bone is going to hurt!’

The moment she clicks her tongue.

Diriling!

[Hello I am Mundae…]

“…!?”

A notification appeared on SNS. This is Testa’s account.

“Hey Park Mun-dae!”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan abandoned the keyboard battle and immediately clicked on the notification.

————————— = =

Hello I am Mundae (emoticon)

It was a fun concert. There are a lot of great photos so I’ll share some of the ones I took.

Thank you to the lovers and all the audience who watched.

♡

————————— = =

The photos attached below the article are… VTIC.

“hey!!”

she screamed.

‘If I do this I feel like I’m losing! Wait until VTIC uploads it first… ’

And immediately calmed down. In the next article Park Moon-dae also released photos of Testa themselves all at once.

“Kim Rae-bin is handsome.”

She saved a photo of Kim Rae-bin winking clumsily while wearing bandages for the ＜The Calling＞ stage.

‘Um okay. Rather VTIC will become more magnanimous and petty than their juniors.’

She looked through the photos of VTIC with utmost calmness.

‘Ah Park Moon-dae you took really good pictures of them to my annoyance!’

In particular Cheongryeo’s solo photo seemed to be better than some of the home horses!

Of course thanks to this I was able to avoid giving VTIC’s fans the accusation that ‘I think I uploaded a bad photo on purpose.’

‘I’ll upload some more selfies.’

Even though she grumbled for no reason she was looking forward to saving photos that had been retouched by various fans.

And something similar was happening to many fans.

It was no longer an era where the proposition “I like my idol so I like it too” was accepted but it had the effect of brightening the mood.

This is because the opinions of people who shout ‘Hey don’t skip a great event and a great stage!’ can now be given power and emotion.

Even behind the scenes there was a reluctant acknowledgment.

-What does Gommer know?

-I feel secure when Eumseupdaeng is on my side.

-Photo ㄱㅅㄱㅅ

The Internet went into a truce for a while because it was busy eating rice cakes.

In addition a notice was posted on the official Testa account.

This is the highlight of this performance. About ‘abandoned options’.

[We prepared this for those of you who are curious about Testa’s other options.]

[Last Wednesday of September 11 p.m. Stay tuned to CVN!]

Although the specific details were not revealed it was clear that it was also used as a promotion for Testa’s new program!

“…You’re good at your job.”

The agency was incompetent as fuck so things can’t go well like this if they lie down and leave the group to take care of itself.

Kim Rae-bin’s personal fan was rarely left speechless and alternately looked at the photos taken by Rice Cake and Park Moon-dae.

However the person who planned all of this was not as relaxed and focused on monitoring as usual.

“Because you have to make a choice.”

“…Of course.”

“Is it a lawsuit or the next move?”

Instead he was engaged in a heated discussion with the leader about his next move.

Chapter 245

It's been a while since I had a chance to talk to Ryu Cheong-woo.

'Is this the first time since I woke up?'

No. Before I woke up I was maintaining an appropriate distance thanks to that damn bastard confirming the truth. I guess it could take a little longer.

'…It looks like I need to confirm the truth again.'

I thought about the pop-up briefly and then erased it from my mind. There is still time.

Anyway… After it woke up it looked like it was in a bad state so I left it alone on purpose. From experience if you scratch at a time like this you get angry.

So it means that I didn't know that Ryu Cheong-woo would be the first to prepare an event like this as soon as the concert was over.

"Would you like me to give you something non-alcoholic?"

"…Um yeah."

I accepted the non-alcoholic canned beer he handed me.

Click. Gulp.

The sound of opening the can and the tingling feeling of the drink down my throat were refreshing.

"…You drink well."

“It’s a bit like that.”

It’s not that I want to drink like crazy but I can’t say that I don’t think about alcohol from time to time.

I don’t know if Ryu Cheong-woo was trying to accommodate or out of courtesy but he also bought a non-alcoholic beer.

The conversation started in a fairly gentle atmosphere and it was not difficult to get to the point.

“Have you ever thought about filing a lawsuit?”

Okay now that the suddenly scheduled concert is over it’s time for this topic to come back. I answered honestly.

“I’ve thought about it but honestly I think it will be burdensome for more than half a year now. Because the momentum will be lost.”

“That also makes sense.”

Liu Chengyu drank beer quietly.

“The value of a year now… and a year 10 years from now will be different.”

That’s right.

This is a concern for those in occupations whose uncertain heyday ends briefly at a young age.

-Is this job worth throwing away a year of your prime?

This value judgment may be more familiar to Liu Chengwu because he was originally an athlete.

The guy smiled bitterly.

“It looks like Sejin hasn’t given up yet. I was looking into something a lot. “I also met a lawyer.”

“…a lawyer.”

“okay. “It’s like consulting via text.”

When did you find the time to do that while practicing so hard?

I was amazed and at the same time a bit bitter.

He must have wanted to prepare for a lawsuit not a concert but he must have been frustrated because he changed his mind and suddenly held a donation concert to save his life.

It looks like the guy who died and woke up has endured a lot because of his wish.

“…”

Liu Chengwu and I just drank beer in silence. And I opened my mouth first.

“First of all… shall we call Sejin?”

“okay.”

The story will only progress if there are opinions actively in favor of the lawsuit.

I messaged Bae Se-jin.

[Brother Cheongwoo can you come to my room? We are talking]

1 disappears and without a reply a rushing sound is heard from there followed by a cautious knock.

“…”

This guy is very easy to understand.

“Please come in.”

“Uh oh!”

I opened the door for him and the situation changed to a three-way face-to-face.

“We were talking about a lawsuit.”

“…! That’s right.”

“yes. “My brother still wants to file a lawsuit against the company.”

“…yes.”

There was tension on Bae Se-jin’s face but his answer was quite calm. No more yelling because your face is red…

“Despite the recommendation from the Human Rights Commission they just cut corners and the head of the headquarters did not change…! If things continue like this it won’t be long before things return to their original state!”

“…”

“Now I’m just waiting for it to quiet down!!”

no. You’re already pissed off enough.

Well… the company is currently lowering itself and trying to protect themselves but Bae Se-jin was also right. The head of the department didn’t change either.

But actually it’s better not to change.

“Brother I think it would be more convenient for the general manager to remain.”

“what?? why!”

I said calmly.

“Because you must have been scared.”

“…??”

“Maybe they won’t be able to do anything and they’ll just look at us. “The incident has become so big that we can’t help but do that.”

In short it means that the hierarchy has changed.

A singer almost died due to the company’s mistake but the moment those singers have grounds to sue it’s over.

It’s probably been ruined to the head office so we’ll have to work hard to preserve our position.

I lightly crushed the beer can for recycling.

“So even if this company feels like a bit of a piece of trash it means that our future will be much more comfortable.”

“Even trash…”

“Well I’ll change it to say it’s immoral.”

“…”

Bae Se-jin became speechless for a moment. I don’t know if I’m speechless or stunned.

However he soon answered in a depressed voice.

“Yeah… if everyone thinks so.”

If this happens will the situation of Bae Se-jin having to give up after being pushed out of the majority vote be repeated like the last time the lawsuit was postponed in the hospital room?

Bae Se-jin seemed to hesitate for a moment but then continued speaking.

“Actually I kind of thought that way. “If we file a lawsuit over this and win it will set a good precedent…”

“…”

Have you thought about it that far?

“But that’s right. “If I have time to think about such things I should do my part properly on the team.”

Bae Se-jin lowered his head.

“I’m giving up the lawsuit.”

“no…”

I didn’t mean to put pressure on you like this.

I just tried to persuade them in a positive way or try to get it over with in the shortest possible time even if it meant filing a lawsuit.

I thought about my words for a moment. However Liu Chengyu opened his mouth gently first.

“Not everyone thinks that way Sejin.”

“uh?”

“I’m okay with the lawsuit?”

“…!”

what?

Bae Se-jin raised his head.

“…Really??”

“huh.”

Didn’t you you idiot agree with what I said earlier about lawsuits being burdensome?

…for a moment.

I recalled the sentence that Ryu Cheong-woo responded to.

-That also makes sense.

…’That too’.

I endured the silence. This guy was neutral.

‘Come to think of it it was like that in the hospital room too.’

Liu Chengyu continued speaking in a calm tone.

“And Sejin I think you’re doing a good job as the eldest member of the team.”

“…”

This… should I add a little more to it?

“I think so too. “The lawsuit is just because I’m not sure so don’t worry.”

“you guys…”

Bae Se-jin seemed moved for a moment but soon came to his senses and cleared his throat.

“Hmm then… should we all ask the other kids too? “I wonder if you haven’t changed your mind!”

“yes. “Of course.”

“good.”

And after a while.

“A lawsuit? Uh… didn’t you decide not to do it? haha.”

“If I file a lawsuit will my next album be postponed indefinitely…?”

“I want to do activities! “I like the activity!”

“…”

It was KO.

Even Cha Yu-jin who was in favor turned around because she enjoyed the concert.

Bae Se-jin sat on the floor with a lonely face and began to ponder his defeat. That’s a bit pitiful.

Sun Ah-hyun who remained neutral was restless but soon raised one hand and spoke cautiously.

“Um… will I get a break if I file a lawsuit…?”

“That’s right Ahyeon.”

Liu Chengwu answered on his behalf. Then Seon Ah-hyeon noticed and answered quietly.

“Well as long as it’s not too long… I like it.”

“…!!”

What does this mean?

I asked right away.

“Seon Ah-hyun did you want to rest?”

“eww? Ugh…”

Sun Ah-hyun avoided eye contact. This guy…?

“Wait a minute wait a minute Ahyeon are you saying that you want to take a break and file a lawsuit?”

“Ugh the concert went well and the bar response was good. “I thought it would be good to take some rest… and take care of my body…!”

Big Sejin quickly caught up with the horse.

“Okay then you can rest~ Before preparing the new album let’s skip the schedule for a couple of weeks and go get some treatment somewhere!”

“Oh~”

“What is nursing?”

“Eat delicious food and have fun~”

“great!”

Approval votes pour in. Bae Se-jin is seen trying to glare at Keun Se-jin but holding back. Even if Sun Ah-hyun agreed to the lawsuit she would not have won the majority vote anyway.

Is the problem me?

After thinking briefly I took a sip of a new can of beer and answered.

“The treatment is good.”

“oh!”

“Really…?”

“okay.”

Anyway the big trouble is over.

There is still a grace period until you press confirm the truth so you can take your time in the meantime.

Because it was a big accident.

‘…I made some things too much.’

Not to me but to these guys.

As soon as I was discharged from the hospital I pushed for a donation concert plan and a plan to have the most popular senior in the event as a guest.

‘I was desperate but these guys were just giving in to me.’

Still the logic I made during persuasion worked effectively.

I briefly recalled the conversation.

-I think it needs to be topical.

-Topical?

-yes. Not because of an accident or a mess at the company but in the way idols are originally consumed. And it will only get hotter if it is accompanied by conflict.

-hmm.

This means that it is rare for that method to work as well as rival positioning.

And at first glance this seems to have motivated the members. That was fortunate. Because the results were good.

‘Follow-up measures went well after the concert.’

Since donations and photos have been widely used public opinion will be good for a while.

VTIC seems to have made some gains as well so I’m nervous but it seems like the composition of champions and challengers has been established in a way that is acceptable to the public and the parties involved.

‘Anyway I just created a composition that would naturally be captured as Testa grows larger.’

I’ve gotten everything I could from this concert so now if I have a conscience I should make some concessions.

Even if we can’t file a lawsuit let’s stop thinking about disturbing him when he says he wants to rest.

‘After looking at the lawsuit… I think Bae Se-jin can achieve the desired effect.’

I slowly turned my brain around. Liu Chengwu across from him grinned.

“I like it too. I need to take some time to recover. “What about Sejin?”

“…That’s okay.”

“Okay everyone agrees.”

The atmosphere became peaceful. Big Sejin snatched the beer in front of me and opened one. Let's be patient.

"Ah since it's Chuseok soon shall we get together and get some rest before I go home?"

"I like it…!"

Among the guys talking excitedly about where to go Kim Rae-bin's hand sneaked up.

"Why Ravin?"

"Oh it's none other than… So are you telling the company that you will stop all schedules and preparations for the next activity?"

That was okay.

"Anyway our schedule will be almost non-existent for a while. "I understand you're just filming a few videos to show your fans."

"okay! Then just cancel the video that the fans will see… hmmm."

Yes if you do it that way the meaning of the sentence becomes more mysterious.

Fortunately a plausible opinion emerged.

"Then shall we show you how we are taking a break? Make it a little easier~ I asked you to install an unmanned camera!"

"…I don't know if you'd want to see that."

"Well it might be a bit boring but… what do you think? "Healing travel entertainment is like that so I guess it'll be okay since we've also put together a donation concert right?"

That was correct. Not bad for content for a break.

Similar opinions of approval emerged here and there.

However I need to change the theme a bit. I emptied the can and opened my mouth.

“But don’t the concepts of travel overlap a bit? “We also traveled in reality.”

“Oh that’s right.”

“That’s an excellent point.”

Idol working holiday. Everyone has a mysterious look on their faces as they reminisce about making and selling hotteok.

I crossed my arms.

‘Other than that isn’t there any other representative healing entertainment? ‘I guess it suits Yoyang.’

Aside from traveling something to eat raw… Oh that.

Chicken feet.

“How about making a mukbang theme?”

“Mukbang?”

Isn’t it proven content? I remembered the time of Azusa.

And I wasn’t the only one who thought of that. Big Sejin burst into laughter.

“As expected it’s Tibetan chicken feet~ Ah Tibet? That’s right let’s mix animals there too! “Are there any other keywords??”

“Now natural scenery…?”

“…that’s good.”

It is said that a variety of healing keywords were combined in a haphazard manner to create a hastily prepared entertainment show.

〈Testa recuperating in the countryside〉

…And up to this point I had no idea how far this improvised entertainment would go.

Chapter 246

The entertainment production went more smoothly than expected.

I was planning to install only a moderately unmanned camera and release it as an episode on WeTube but the head office contacted me right away to see if they had heard the story.

-I heard there's an opening at CVN. How about going there?

After doing some research it seemed like a certain drama had been on hiatus for about two weeks due to a problem with the cast. The idea is to put it in its place.

Of course this is not a general suggestion.

"You seem more authoritative than I thought."

"I see~ You're paying attention!"

The judgment of the other guys was similar.

Anyone can see that this is a strategy of bending over backwards to restore a smooth relationship with Testa.

However Bae Se-jin was not pleased saying it seemed like a bait-and-switch appeasement measure.

"It's like eating this and wiping your mouth. "Not as a singer but as a variety show…!"

That may be true but I couldn't strongly assert that opinion.

"Of course… I decided not to file a lawsuit so it doesn't matter if I take it."

Because it was decided not to file a lawsuit.

“Oh brother. “I mean that.”

“uh?”

“I would like to collect and organize the data we have collected for the purpose of litigation. Would that be okay?”

“That uh! It doesn’t matter but… why?”

“There’s something I want to check.”

“…?”

Bae Se-jin looked puzzled but obediently handed over the data.

And I was a little surprised.

‘…I looked up all the precedents.’

From the situation with the former manager to legal advice. It was clear that the data had been collected more realistically and meticulously than expected.

If I added the call and text messages I had recorded it could have been a really worthy lawsuit material.

I admitted it.

‘That’s amazing.’

If Bae Se-jin had been given a chance he might have actually won.

It would take at least a year and even if we won it would be a problem because there would be no agency or mainstream broadcasting company that would accept us due to the industry atmosphere.

If as Bae Se-jin said winning cases like this pile up the atmosphere will change.

“How about it?”

I gave an honest answer. This proof of effort and focus was well deserved.

“Actually I’m thinking that it could have the same effect as a lawsuit in a different direction.”

“…! “Is that possible?”

“I’m not sure because I’m also worried… but the material you prepared is really good. “Once I get my thoughts together I’d like to get some advice from you. Would that be okay?”

“Of course it’s okay!”

Bae Se-jin seemed a little embarrassed after speaking but he seemed to feel somewhat better anyway.

‘…I guess I’ll have to do some more organizing.’

I put it on my smartphone for now.

So we skipped over the lawsuit-related story and accepted the head office’s proposal anyway. TV programming is good.

And the fact that professional entertainment talent has rapidly increased and the scale has ballooned… I’m not sure if it’s just a positive thing.

This is what came out of the first meeting which was immediately organized.

“We’ve invited an island!”

“…yes?”

“Hey there are Testa fans everywhere in the country~ If you’re a little extreme you might follow me!”

The production crew smiled and displayed the data on the screen.

“So there was an island that was used in a completely different entertainment show and we captured the whole place.”

I heard that it’s a private island owned by a rich man and he’s built a pretty nice villa on it.

In addition since an escape entertainment show was held earlier this year it is said that the place has quite a variety of broadcasting-related facilities.

I also heard that thanks to this I was able to save a lot of time.

“It’s just right right? “It will be suitable for pictures of testers enjoying themselves comfortably in a natural environment.”

The members were a bit embarrassed by the production team who were proud that they were able to solve the problem within the production budget.

‘I wonder if this can create a relaxing atmosphere.’

The scale has become so large that I feel like I will have to work on it individually.

But the production team was adamant.

“Have fun! Have fun!”

“Oh is that still okay?”

“Of course~ In healing entertainment the amount of story broadcast is handled by editing!”

It was a very self-directed production team.

“Tell me everything you want to do! yacht? massage? Yoga?”

“Eat snow crab!!”

“It’s usually good!”

And Cha Yu-jin was the first to move on and before we knew it it became a place where each person could criticize what they wanted to do.

They even showed up to campfire swimming meditation and hiking and eventually questions came back to me as well.

“What about Mr. Moon Dae?”

“I… I don’t know. “I’m thinking of trying cooking.”

It’s suitable as a popular content and it’s not that bad in reality so it’s worth watching.

However from the production team’s perspective it seems like they naturally planned to include cooking as a basic feature.

“Because you’ll do that naturally~ Is there anything else you’d like to do during your break?”

Cha Yu-jin intervened.

“Mundae hyung take good pictures! “It’s the best!”

“Oh then it would be nice to go around the island and take pictures together!”

Your activity level is increasing dramatically.

I gave up planning for maximum indoor living. Because it seemed like it would work properly.

And after many twists and turns the first day of filming arrived.

“…?”

“Is this really the end?”

The production crew placed us in a nice villa with unmanned cameras installed everywhere.

Literally without any direction or touch.

“Uh… um isn’t there a game or something?”

“I thought you would at least give me a mission…”

There wasn’t.

Seven people just stayed in a large three-story villa on an island with a spectacular view of the beach and wildflower paths.

“…”

“…”

The guys who were quietly sitting in the living room soon understood the situation.

“It really means we should do whatever we want.”

“Wow this is your first time doing something like this?”

And soon as was his duty he started walking around the villa excitedly.

“Wow this room is nice!”

“The standard room is 2 people per room… Ah this looks like a room where 3 people can sleep together!”

“It’s really big!”

"…Mundae what are you doing?"

"Check the water pressure."

The villa building was nice. I don't know how they built and maintained it on this remote island but it was fully equipped with gas and water pipes.

'Is there a water tank on the roof?'

Anyway except for the fact that since it was a broadcast one room per person was not guaranteed it was truly an environment suitable for nursing.

[Welcome food for testers ^^]

The kitchen even had a flower necklace and a snack basket with these cards on it.

When I opened the refrigerator it was fully stocked with ingredients.

'It's amazing though.'

To be honest the video didn't seem interesting at all. I quietly closed the refrigerator containing the large chicken meat for samgyetang.

"I want to eat black chicken! Let's cook and eat together!"

"okay."

"Yeeeees!"

Cha Yu-jin was the most excited.

Anyway after looking around the house people who were curious about the outside of the villa started snooping around outside.

"Is that… a stable?"

“I think that’s right.”

“Mundaemundae look at that! That escape entertainment! I guess it’s the set frame used there~”

“It’s fascinating.”

I don’t know if the container had not yet been removed or if the owner had asked him to leave it alone but the wall with the broadcasting logo still remained.

Well if you don’t have anything to do on the third day I think it would be okay to go in and have a look around. Since it’s the same broadcasting company it will be promoted and people will like it.

‘Honestly I think it would be amazing if I could last just three days.’

Is there anything else to do here other than eating three meals a day? After exploring the island for a day or two you will run out of things to do…

“brother. that?”

“Oh I thought it would be nice to go hiking.”

“…”

That… I guess I’ll have to avoid it by being in charge of cooking.

I took my gaze off the seven pairs of hiking shoes that Ryu Cheng-wu had brought remembering the persuasive logic that such mountain paths were dangerous in places that were not properly paved.

“There’s a chick in the pen barn…!”

“Wow it’s so cute?”

After that it was roughly like an expedition.

The barn next to the first villa we visited was filled with chickens and chicks. Looking at its appearance it seemed like it was built this time.

They were the ones who rolled their eyes when they saw the chick and screamed that it was cute and their roles were roughly guessed.

'It looks like they left it there to frost the eggs.'

Isn't this the rule for entertainment like this?

We then looked around the beach took a walk along a nearby road filled with wild flowers and had a quick meal.

The easiest menu item is kimchi stew.

"The rice was already prepared. "There's also canned ham."

"…the stew is delicious."

"Well shall we get some eggs from the chicken coop?"

At this point I started to feel it.

'It's no different from real country nursing.'

To be honest I almost forgot the camera existed. Even when I went out for a walk a camera followed me not a person but a drone.

I wondered if this was done to create a natural-looking picture but I concluded that the content would not be much.

However by the time I felt moderately hungry after lunch.

Ding-dong!

Suddenly the doorbell rang.

"Oh~"

“Is it finally a mission?”

It wasn’t.

“hello! “Are you the ones who signed up for today’s meditation class?”

“omg!”

“yes yes…!”

The things I asked for at the meeting actually started pouring into my mouth.

From meditation classes to aroma massages.

Experts and equipment arrived in front of the villa every time.

“Please lie face down on the sunbed~”

“yes!”

“Uh huh huh.”

At this time I think it would have been a bit funny for Bae Se-jin to make sounds like she was dying while receiving a massage.

In any case the true realization of ‘Do whatever you want to do as a tester’.

I wonder if I’m tired of watching other people being favored on TV again but I feel reassured to some extent because I think it will provide vicarious satisfaction.

Besides we had to do the housework ourselves at least to keep the line.

This was worth it. No matter what it’s not good to see pictures of people just playing around and running away.

Since there were 7 people it ended quickly so it wasn't too much of a bother. Even people who don't have the energy to make a living are trying hard so it won't look bad.

"I'm good at cooking!"

"No you can't cook and you're good at carrying things so I'd rather do the laundry…"

"Raebin Kim can't cook."

"no! I have been recognized in the past few cooking videos…"

I don't know if this will be used as content but even if something comes out there won't be rumors of discord every time.

Three sweet days passed by in an instant.

"Huam."

"In your heart~ Papang Papang…"

When the guys slowly let loose they started doing things they would normally do when there were no cameras such as oversleeping or running around the house singing.

The production team was contacted.

I guess this was a broadcast picture in mind but it came as a text message rather than a phone call.

"uh? "Are you the PD?"

"huh."

The text message sent to Ryu Cheong-woo's smartphone was as follows.

[It is said that the weather environment is worsening. Please pay attention to safety especially during indoor activities!]

Big Sejin who read it out loud shrugged his shoulders.

“Oh that could be true. “Because it was sunny for three days.”

“I know. Should we reinforce the barn?”

I looked it up and it said it was rainy and windy with strong winds so we spent the morning doing the pastime of reinforcing the barn.

And that night.

Kwakwakwagwagwagwang!!!

“Wow!”

“It’s really loud.”

In reality the guys who were holding out their tongues due to the rainstorm accompanied by thunder and lightning spent their time quietly playing board games indoors.

But the next day.

Quagwagwang!! Quagwagwagwang!!

“…”

“…are you still coming?”

The rain and strong winds did not stop. Rather it got stronger.

“Look at Mundaemundae.”

When I looked out the window I saw waves crashing like crazy on the beach.

If the villa had been built a little further in front it would likely have filled with water.

[Everyone it is currently impossible to launch a boat or walk from the island so please wait a moment. We will take action soon.]

The smile was missing from the PD's text message.

"Mmm."

"I originally said it would be clear today but I guess the weather forecast was wrong. "Oh my."

And looking at the revised weather forecast attachment it looked like it would be like this until at least the day after tomorrow.

'It's ruined.'

I can already see the future of this broadcast. I'm going to end up being lazy as I'm trying to save a lot of the photos I took when the sun was shining.

Of course other concerns besides broadcasting also emerged.

"I guess we should all feed the chickens…"

Cha Yu-jin asked a question about Sun Ah-hyun's words.

"Is our food okay??"

"…!!"

"for a moment."

I calculated it right away.

The original deadline for supplying fresh ingredients was today.

In other words the supply is slowly running out.

“I have instant rice and canned food. “I’m not that hungry.”

“Boo.”

Cha Yu-jin drooped.

‘No not just food.’

Because the camera’s recording capacity needs to be replaced occasional visits from staff have also stopped. Overall it’s as if everything has come to an all stop.

I came to a conclusion.

“…I guess we’ll just have to stay like this for the next two days by ourselves.”

“…”

“oh…”

Among the people who were speechless Raebin Kim swallowed his saliva and spoke.

“Then… aren’t we actually shipwrecked on an uninhabited island?”

“…!”

Unimaginable content has arrived.

Chapter 247

Day 1 of shipwreck on an uninhabited island.

Quagwagwang!!

Outside the villa the rain and wind are still blowing like crazy.

‘It’s a good thing that the guy who built this is so focused on his own safety.’

Still I was glad that the villa was fine.

I lay down in the living room holding back a sigh.

Cha Yu-jin lies down next to her in the same manner.

[It’s good to think of it this way. It’s a zombie apocalypse outside! That’s why we stay in this comfortable shelter by ourselves.]

“okay. “It is very comforting.”

“Hee hee!”

Don’t laugh you idiot.

I laughed out loud but my mind was still a bit complicated.

‘What about filming?’

If a few days pass by like this I think I’m really screwed…

[Brother we can’t film right now anyway. Relax and have a good time.]

“…!”

[There is no need to worry about things that humans cannot do.]

…You speak very definitively.

I was silent for a moment then looked outside at the pouring rain and admitted.

‘What can I do about the weather?’

It was a make-shift program anyway so it wouldn’t be a big deal if they ruined a variety show. Just do the next thing well.

“okay. “You are right.”

“that’s right!”

I lay in the living room watching the rain and passed the time until meal time without thinking about anything.

And lunch time.

With all seven of us eating the same preserved food it really felt like we were in some kind of disaster movie.

“Um shall we go to the barn and see if there are any eggs?”

“Sejin you are being swept away.”

“yes.”

After two uninspiring meals time flies.

Moreover smartphone data service which was already slow began to stutter even more.

‘I feel really isolated… ’

Thanks to you there really is nothing to do.

Since I was in charge of preparing today's meal I was exempt from cleaning up afterward so I sat in the living room where I had the best view of the weather and got lost in thought.

I'm out of board games to play and I can't go out and get food…

Jiyiing. Tuk.

"…!!"

at that time.

Suddenly the surroundings became dark.

"Huh??"

"Is everyone okay?"

There was a power outage.

Because it is an uninhabited island there are no other sources of light outside at night. Completely pitch black.

I immediately raised my upper body.

At that moment someone grabbed my shoulder.

"…!"

"brother!"

"okay."

…It's Cha Yu-jin. I was bringing laundry into the living room.

After checking the voices I recognized the voices of the other guys.

“Guys let’s first stop moving and adapt to the dark.”

This is Liu Chengwu.

“yes yes…!”

“Wow if I had been 5 seconds faster I would have stopped while washing the dishes.”

This is a big deal with Sun Ah-hyun.

Cha Yu-jin is next to him and Kim Rae-bin is on the sofa.

What’s left…

‘What about Bae Se-jin?’

At that moment I heard the sound of someone falling from below and the sound of someone suppressing a scream.

Ugh!

“…!”

“brother!”

Fortunately the voice I heard again was fine.

“…are you okay!”

However I was a little trembling. I shouted in the direction from which the sound was heard.

“What’s going on?”

“I saw this strange thing… No don’t come! “I’ll go.”

“no. “Please stay.”

You really shouldn't move.

I turned on the flashlight function on the smartphone in my hand and got up.

"Let's go together!"

It's okay to go together but don't strangle others.

I put on Cha Yu-jin and moved quickly joining the other guys who saw the light and ran.

"Sejin are you there?"

Bae Se-jin was lying on the floor in an awkward position. When the smartphone flashlight light comes on the color becomes bright so I guess I was scared of the darkness.

"Are your legs okay?"

"…are you okay. "No problem."

Bae Se-jin held Ryu Cheong-woo's hand as he said and got up from his seat without any problems but he looked a little nervous.

"Hey… I think I pushed something when I fell."

Bae Se-jin swallowed his saliva.

"Something like that… came out."

I immediately moved the smartphone light in the direction the guy was pointing.

Cabinet half-pushed.

And behind it… the door?

What was revealed by the light was a dark-colored fire door.

“omg ”

“what’s this.”

I think the reason Bae Se-jin was able to find it was because there was a subtle luminous glow on the floor. It looks like they used luminous paint or something.

“Wow is this some kind of secret room?”

“I think you’re using it for evacuation!”

“That sounds plausible.”

The guys who were wandering around soon made the very common sense decision that ‘It’s private property so it’s best not to go into it carelessly.’

‘…It seems to lead underground.’

Based on the structure it appears that the area beyond that gate was a wild flower road.

Big Sejin muttered eerily from behind.

“Isn’t this just like that? Why am I isolated in a snowy mountain cabin but an incident occurs at a hidden door… Billion!”

“no.”

It’s terrible… no don’t be ridiculous.

I patted Keun Se-jin on the back and returned to the living room.

The others followed suit stopping by their respective rooms to find their smartphones.

“phew.”

“Should we use this to find a flashlight?”

“It was in the pantry by the front door. “I’ll bring it.”

“Oh~”

After securing a flashlight thanks to Ryu Cheong-woo’s performance life became a bit more manageable.

The problem is that there is no way to recharge your smartphone.

‘I should use it sparingly.’

The electricity went out so there was nothing we could do. I clicked my tongue.

“Well since it could be dangerous shall we sleep together?”

“I totally agree~”

“Tell me a scary story!”

That day we gathered together in the living room and went to bed.

Cha Yu-jin said she was going to tell a scary story in English so it took extra effort to get over the request for translation.

And the next morning.

The situation progressed even more spectacularly.

“They’re all in chicken coops…!”

“Huh? “I’m floating away??”

Because it rained for two days water filled the front yard.

Thanks to this the chicks that spilled out through the open barn door due to the strong wind were floating around and were on the verge of being swept down the yard.

The yellow lump on the flowing muddy water is gradually moving away…

Go go go go go go!!

The rooster cries pitifully.

“No!!”

“We have to save Gu…!”

In the end out of urgency they all ran out to the barn together in their pajamas without umbrellas or raincoats.

‘I’m going to be amazed.’

“Hold it! Grab it!”

“Guys be careful not to fall! “Humble yourself!”

Fortunately they were people who exercised regularly so there was no one who stuck their head in the mud.

And after many twists and turns the chicks were all rescued.

Let me just say that Cha Yu-jin and Ryu Cheong-woo played an active role.

“thank god!”

“Phew…”

Holding the wet yellow lumps in both hands they waddled to the barn and attempted to restore it to its original state.

“Phew I’m glad.”

“While we’re here let’s take some eggs too!”

I wondered if there was any use in squeezing the moisture out of my clothes when the rain was pouring all over my body but anyway they were proud of cleaning up their faces.

And… eggs.

‘hmm.’

I said shaking my head.

“Would you like to eat one?”

“yes?”

“Uh huh??”

“Since there are five hens I thought I could kill one.”

“…!!”

There are 7 adults so it’s not like we can’t catch even a chicken.

Raebin Kim nodded.

“That’s a good idea. Consuming too much preserved food is not good for your health…”

“No!! No! “No!!”

“Oh my god Mundae how could you say such a thing about these little chicks that you just rescued!!”

“I don’t understand what they’re saying. And aren’t they originally raised to be eaten?”

And it's funny that the people who would like it the most if you kill a chicken are the ones most opposed to it.

Cha Yu-jin was the most opposed.

"I'm not eating it!! "You are raising them well!"

This guy passionately explained the parable of 'The Little Prince and the Rose' even mixing it with English.

[These chickens are special to us just as the Little Prince's rose is special?!]

Oh I got it.

"Haha yeah. "Let's get some eggs."

After finishing Ryu Cheong-woo's arrangement Kim Rae-bin secretly whispered to me.

"If you catch a chicken I strongly recommend not distributing it to Cha Yu-jin."

"…"

Anyway it means that after going through that mess we returned indoors holding the egg.

But another ambush awaits.

"…the water was cold."

"Sure."

Perhaps because of a power outage there was no hot water so I suddenly started rubbing with cold water. Bae Se-jin who showers with hot water even in the middle of summer seems to have had quite a shocking experience.

‘It can’t go on like this.’

It was fortunate that the kitchen ran on gas rather than induction so we could at least keep the rice warm but this also has its limitations.

So after eating I spoke to the guys who had filled their stomachs with white rice soft-boiled fries and red pepper tuna.

“First of all what should I do with electricity?”

“…yes.”

“That is correct… but I have no particular expertise.”

okay. The problem is that everyone’s occupations overlap. An ambiguous silence fell between those who devoted their lives to arts and physical education.

At that time Bae Se-jin spoke with a serious expression on his face.

“Wouldn’t it be okay to post something like a toad nest?”

“oh.”

“Oh that could happen!”

okay. There is also a possibility that the problem may be caused by a circuit breaker tripping.

While I was making a rather pessimistic reasoning ‘I have been receiving electricity through solar power but the sun has not shined for the past few days so the electricity has been cut off… ’ I stopped for now.

‘Then it might be easier to solve than you think.’

Liu Chengwu crossed his arms.

“Hmm where is it? “I couldn’t see it under the entrance or on the outside wall.”

“Would you like to ask…?”

As I said I tried to send a text message to the PD but failed frequently. I don’t seem to be able to get a good signal.

“Was the device damaged by the strong wind?”

“It could be because it is such a remote place. “Even now we haven’t been able to catch it a few times.”

“Hmm.”

I thought about it for a while but soon came to one conclusion.

“I have nothing to do anyway so let’s look for a toad nest.”

“Please do so~”

So the guys roughly divided into two or three each brought a flashlight and began exploring every nook and cranny of the house.

Well I’ll find it before the sun goes down.

* * *

“Well I don’t have any?”

“…”

Why can’t I see it?

-There is a high probability that we will find it right?

-okay.

I was in charge of searching the first floor together with Kim Rae-bin a big hitter.

And these things were usually located in the corners of the first floor.

However even though I walked around for quite some time I couldn't see the distribution board.

"Isn't it possible that it's on another floor?"

"That may be true but…"

Aren't houses usually on the lower floors?

At that time Raebin Kim raised his hand.

"Could it be inside the secret door that Bae Se-jin discovered last time?"

"…!"

"Oh that could happen."

I thought of the dull-colored fire doors hidden behind cabinets.

'Definitely… there is a possibility.'

It seemed to lead underground so there may have been a boiler room and a distribution board installed there.

"Shall we go?"

"…okay."

I and them headed to the corner of the hallway where the cabinet was.

The further we went in that direction the darker it became as there were no windows. Even though it was daytime I had to turn on the flashlight.

“I brought it well~ It was almost scary!”

“Visibility is also important.”

We arrived in front of the cabinet quickly. As I pushed the half-pushed cabinet away a fairly large fire door was revealed under the light of the flashlight.

‘…It’s a bit excessive for a boiler room entrance.’

“Shall I open it?”

“…are you okay.”

It would be better for the person holding the flashlight to open it.

I grabbed the fire door handle and turned it.

The door wasn’t locked.

I’m sorry.

The door opened with an odd sound as if it was not opened often.

It was dark and quiet inside without any lights.

When I shined the flashlight inside I could faintly see the stairs going down.

“…”

“…”

“…is it a little scary?”

No it’s because of my mood.

“let’s go.”

“for a moment!”

“How about we join the people who are searching other places and move together?”

“Mundae you’re scared too~ I can see it all on your face?”

Because the two fearless guys were so active I had to wait a while before joining the search team on the second floor.

“Oh here.”

“WOW it’s dark!”

They are Bae Se-jin and Cha Yu-jin.

I doubt that the union has even finished searching the second floor… I joined anyway so let’s go in.

The five of us secured the fire door open and walked down the stairs relying on the light of our flashlights.

Perhaps because it was underground the temperature was low and there was a rusty fishy smell.

Step by step.

“Why on earth was this place made like this?”

“I guess it’s the owner’s preference.”

“Of course.”

Step by step.

“…I was just thinking about it.”

“yes.”

Bae Se-jin stopped.

“Why did this person build a villa like this on a deserted island…?”

“…”

The atmosphere suddenly became cold.

“…I guess it would have been better if it was quiet~”

“But you provided it for entertainment purposes.”

Bae Se-jin said with an expression that seemed to break out in a cold sweat.

“If you liked being quiet I wouldn’t do that.”

“…”

Everyone became quiet again but soon desperate defenses emerged from all over the place.

“I’m a person who likes entertainment!”

“There may have been a very close acquaintance at the broadcasting station!”

“…yes. sorry.”

Bae Se-jin quietly kept his mouth shut.

I turned my slightly stiff neck and pointed forward.

“It seems like everything has come down.”

“ah.”

Before I knew it the stairs ended and I reached the bottom.

The huge cavity… seemed to have wooden boxes piled up everywhere.

“Oh is it a warehouse?”

“I think so.”

Perhaps because they were a little relieved the other guys’ voices became brighter.

‘Distribution panel… ’

And as I continued to search the wall with my flashlight I discovered something unexpected.

“…!”

“Huh?”

It was another door. Even double doors.

There was nothing unusual. But what leaked out from under the door was…

Big Sejin said in a trembling voice.

“…Isn’t that blood?”

blood?

A thick dark red liquid was dripping down onto the floor under the door.

“…”

After recognizing it I realized what I had thought was a rusty smell until now.

‘iron content.’

bloom

“…!!”

“Aaaah!!”

“Ugh!!”

A horrified scream filled the cavity.

I stumbled back.

‘declaration… ’

Where the fuck am I supposed to report this? what’s this?

[Oh my god what on earth is this XX! It’s blooming!!]

“I told you I was weird!! “Ahh!!”

“Go up come up now…!”

at that time.

Sweet.

Suddenly the light came back.

In an instant my vision became clear.

“…??”

“uh?”

It was a very subtle lighting. In an instant the atmosphere changed.

What I thought was a gloomy warehouse… turned out to be a very sensuously designed cellar.

"…?!"

The wooden boxes we saw earlier seem to have been piled up for pure atmosphere.

Anyone can see that the storage room has a nice interior.

And the door I saw…

"…It's a freezer right?"

That's right.

What I thought was a door… was a modern gray shiny freezer.

"…"

I walked over and opened the freezer door.

My nose felt refreshed as if there was still some cold left in it.

And various sausages and meats were melted and blood was seen flowing down.

It was the source of the fishy smell.

"…"

"…"

There was a long long silence.

"Oh I guess it was right here."

“It’s radish. “I found the toad’s nest…!”

“…Guys?”

“Over there…?”

Until the 3rd floor exploration team that found the distribution board came down here the others stood there in vain contemplating their foolish actions.

I won’t necessarily deny the fact that I was included among the rest…

* * *

“But there is still a lot of meat.”

“The problem was that they mistook it for human meat.”

Be quiet.

After coming to my senses I took out the meat that had not yet thawed and was edible from the freezer.

I will have to ask the owner of this villa for his understanding later but since it is due to a natural disaster he will be able to understand to some extent.

“Look! “It’s a good thing I didn’t catch it!”

“…I know.”

I silently agreed when I saw the frozen native chicken that Cha Yu-jin was holding up.

“The refrigerator above is starting up again so let’s move a few things to eat.”

“Yes~”

‘Still I’m glad that that idiotic image doesn’t remain… ’

I was relieved but soon realized that my relief was in vain.

…These days the cameras’ batteries last longer than expected.

Chapter 248

A villa with electricity back.

After washing well in hot water and drying their clothes in the dryer they sat down and ate boiled rice. Boil a pot of porridge.

“This is it…”

“I ate really well!”

“Hyung your cooking is always delicious!”

“Okay thank you.”

To be honest since there were almost no vegetables I didn’t think it would taste better than eating outside but due to the situation the two native chickens were quickly reduced to only bones.

‘It’s okay.’

I anticipated the meal ahead.

A seller of that size would probably have not only meat but also other ingredients that are good for storage.

Given the circumstances I may be able to ask for your understanding if I eat one or two more items as long as it is not excessive.

…I couldn’t look for it properly because I was so embarrassed that I had to leave quickly.

‘Damn it.’

-Ugh!!

-I told you it was weird!! Argh!

I feel dizzy again with the dizzying nonsense rushing through my brain.

Let's forget it. It's not good for your mentality.

"Hmm I still can't contact the production crew?"

"I see. Should we go out and give it a try?"

Other guys are holding fully charged smartphones and trying to find contacts.

'Well the electricity has been restored and there's a place to eat so there's no need to rush.'

The revised weather forecast is not very reliable but it will be resolved in the next two or three days no matter how long it is.

Now I'm just going to focus on having a comfortable time here as much as possible regardless of the amount of broadcasting. Honestly I crossed a line.

I suggested putting down my spoon.

"Would you like to check if there are any vegetables in the basement? Since this is an emergency I think we can use it to some extent."

"Is that so?"

"I agree~ Oh and I'll clean up the blood too! "If the production crew comes they'll be as cold as us."

"I'll come find a U.S. rolling pin…!"

So as soon as I finished cleaning up the meal I went down to the basement again with cleaning supplies.

I also didn't forget to bring plenty of flashlights in case there was another power outage.

'It's probably good for preservation… I think there's something like spices or pickled olives for snacks.'

And as expected we found a few additional items.

"Oh wine~"

"Is it possible that this cheese is so expensive or limited that if we consume it we will not be able to provide sufficient compensation to the owner?"

"…Let's just eat something else."

But that wasn't the only thing I found in the basement.

"Hey look at this."

"…!"

While I was cleaning up the blood stains in the freezer.

I found another door cleverly hidden in the shadow of the huge machine.

Even this one was quite small. At my height I would have to bend slightly to move around.

Liu Chengwu looked at the door carefully.

"Um this is…"

"…Isn't this the boiler room in this building?"

This is a possible statement.

“Open it!!”

“There was a power outage and it would be difficult if the gas was suddenly cut off. Let’s check right?”

“Yeah that would be a good idea.”

“oh!”

“Then let’s open it.”

It seems like there’s an agreement. I turned the metal door handle and pulled it keeping the push bar upright.

Grumble.

The door opened gently… revealing an unexpected view inside.

“…passage?”

“Flashlight!”

When Bae Se-jin illuminated the inside with a flashlight a curved concrete passageway appeared in the distance.

It was not a structure that could be found under a family home.

hook.

The wind that smelled like an underground structure was sucked in and passed my nose.

“omg.”

“Wow what is this??”

“Uh is it okay if we go…?”

They seemed to have completely forgotten how scared they were because of the blood stains and they started whispering excitedly about the unknown distance to explore.

I understand. I was stuck indoors doing nothing so something like this would be interesting.

Liu Chengyu narrowed his eyes slightly and pointed inward with his finger.

“It looks like an emergency escape… Look over there. “It’s like a guiding light.”

“Ohh.”

As expected a faint green light was coming out from inside.

‘Did you make it in preparation for disaster?’

Then I think I should have told the people filming here but that’s just my opinion.

Liu Chengwu shrugged his shoulders.

“Since we’re in trouble… I guess it wouldn’t be a bad idea to check.”

“song! song!”

“…I guess it’ll be okay.”

So I entered the passage with the entrance door secured with a push pin.

Of course those who had learned their lesson from the last incident turned on all the flashlights they had and walked down the aisle comfortably.

However this passage was much longer than I expected.

Eventually I passed about three or four emergency guidance lights.

“Does this seem to have come a long way outside the villa?”

“…I know.”

Since they had no idea what kind of passage this was people started to get nervous.

I said with a sigh.

“Wait here. A few people quickly check the end of this passage and come…”

“NONONO!”

“What are you talking about? We should all go together!”

“…”

It’s a mess.

Anyway the result was a few more turns around the corner.

“It looks like a door over there…!”

Finally the passage ended and a door appeared.

There was an oddly designed lock on the door but it didn’t seem to be working.

“Oh the owner seems to have good sense.”

“I know.”

I waited until the others started talking and then put my hand on the door handle again.

“Then will you open it?…”

“Uh oh wait a minute! “Shouldn’t we all do this together?”

“that’s right! “I do it too!”

“…I see.”

okay. Do whatever you want.

Even though there were no cameras thanks to the people who were very active in proving the community a strange picture of seven people hanging on one door emerged.

They even shout slogans. It’s like a school retreat… but it looks fun so there’s no need to say anything.

I saw Bae Se-jin extend a hand and slightly moved my hand away from the handle.

“Now let’s all open it together.”

“One two… three!”

Sweet.

The first thing I felt was a strange feeling of resistance.

However when seven men opened the door at once the door opened wide without any particular pause.

and.

Uddangtangtang!

“…!”

“What is it??”

What appeared before my eyes was a dark indoor space but I had no time to notice it.

“Aaaah!!”

“Wow!!”

A scream very similar to the one I heard in the basement a few hours ago made me want to leave this space.

“…??”

“Uh huh?!”

There were people outside the door.

They even have facial faces.

They are the production crew hesitantly holding the camera equipment support as if they are about to hit them at any moment.

what.

‘Why are you out here?’

“Why are you there!! “Where on earth!!”

“It’s mom!”

It seems like the other person had the same thought.

The production crew fell forward making a sad sound.

“Uh huh huh!”

* * *

The two groups looked at each other in extreme confusion and shouted but only calmed down after some time.

“So… you were on emergency duty.”

“Yes… that’s right.”

The production crew with haggard complexions looked like they hadn’t washed properly for several days.

“Who would have thought that the weather would suddenly become like this and we would be trapped?”

When I heard that story a sudden thought came to mind.

‘That text.’

-Everyone we are currently unable to launch a boat or walk from the island so please wait a moment. We will take action soon.

When I asked why there was talk of ‘moving around the island on foot’ I found out that there were people living on the island full-time.

Now that I think about it no matter how much I want to create a natural picture it’s crazy that there are times when the entire production crew is absent leaving only the cast on the island. I knew something would happen.

However it seems that such a natural disaster was not expected.

One member of the production team was fed up.

“At most there was only a shower forecast… ugh.”

So the production crew was stranded here without any preparation. They seem to have gone through quite a bit of hardship due to lack of water and food.

And here an obvious question arose.

“But this place…?”

“Oh this is the set of that entertainment show! container.”

“…!”

I recalled checking out of the villa on the first day.

“The container with that logo?”

“yes yes.”

It is said that the production crew used the escape entertainment container that was not demolished as a base for filming.

“I tried to use it as tourism content when the weather got bad but… yeah I failed.”

“Hahahaha…”

In any case it is said that thanks to this the level of comfort and intensity that a person can stay in for several days was maintained.

So the production crew was using it as a temporary shelter and suddenly we burst out through the wallpaper and attacked it.

“It’s rice wallpaper right?”

“yes. “You don’t even know the location so how did you get here?”

And the production crew was stunned when they saw the aisle we came from.

“Wow was there something like this??”

“I really won’t leave PD Park alone…”

The secret story I found out later was that it was actually a structure that was intended to be used in a previous escape entertainment show but was not revealed due to the travel routes of the cast.

The main PD and others were well aware of this but the youngest members on duty who remained on the emergency standby team did not know.

Anyway there was one reason why they didn't bother to contact us and were left shivering here.

"Oh you probably don't have much to eat and you're anxious… I think it would be a burden to say that we're isolated here for no reason."

I already brought him here to let him enjoy healing content to his heart's content but now that it's gotten to this point he's been shamed.

I read the context.

'I guess I thought Testa was going to be terrible… '

In fact from the production team's perspective we were in a situation where we had nothing to say.

However there was a small unexpected side note.

"I think the picture I took will be ruined…"

"…??"

"A picture taken…?"

I wondered what was going on when there was a natural disaster and all the cameras died.

"Oh that… maybe some of the fixed cams are still alive today?"

"yes??"

"It's a new piece of equipment. "The infrared camera is probably alive too.”

“Wow I see~”

“…”

It’s okay. There’s no way there’s a camera in the basement anyway. It won’t show that way.

In any case common-sense rescue proposals followed.

“There are quite a few ingredients in the villa! Don’t worry let’s go together. Oh my you worked so hard…”

“is it so. “Let’s first take a shower and eat before we talk.”

“Are you okay…?”

“It’s okay… sob.”

“thank you.”

The production crew moved to the villa thankful that there was an indoor passageway instead of a dangerous windy and windy dirt road.

And as soon as I came through the door I shouted.

“Oh it leads here!”

“…??”

What is that… familiar reaction?

“Writer Choi said he originally planned to use today’s content about some kind of treasure hunt here.”

“We don’t have any installers here do we? that’s right. Anyway this is everyone’s first time here… Ah there are a lot of ingredients here.

Thank goodness.”

The production crew shouted brightly.

…And then they immediately dispersed in all directions and found hidden cameras somewhere and checked them.

“That’s a good thing. “Can we save these cuts?”

“…”

Is it true?

I opened my mouth without realizing it.

“…Wouldn’t the story be a bit disconnected? “There are no cameras in the aisle.”

“Oh don’t worry.”

The production team brightly crushed our hopes.

“Just in case we also turned on the camera to record it. “I’m sure your appearance was captured well!”

“Of course it will be edited well so don’t worry about that.”

“…”

Okay let’s give up on this part. No it would be nice to have content. My worries eased.

‘In case of a power outage all you have to do is get over the basement.’

But an even more surprising fact is revealed later.

The production crew who were walking around the villa and checking cameras here and there were expressing mixed feelings of admiration and sighing.

“Ah Main is dead…”

“Is this the end?”

“Um… do you need this too?”

Raebin Kim suddenly took out a camera.

“…!”

That… is the camera I brought because it was chosen as my hobby.

I understand that they were given one for each person to walk around the island for about half a day in the latter half of filming.

‘I thought everyone put it aside and forgot about it.’

Even I almost forgot about the situation but it looks like this stubborn guy took pictures of something.

First of all the production team was grateful.

“oh! thank you.”

“Okay let’s take a look.”

I shrugged.

Well no matter what it’ll only be a few shots…

[9:11 a.m. on the first day of the shipwreck. The recorder is Kim Rae-bin 21 who is in charge of producing and rapping in the group Testa.]

[I’m trying to record all of these incidents just in case…]

“…”

At first glance the camera captured Kim Rae-bin’s serious face.

This guy explained the background of each person in distress and gave briefings every three hours.

There is no such thing as a first-person camcorder perspective disaster movie.

[12:00 AM. Canned food and instant rice were distributed. I hope nothing falls before this storm passes.]

[6 am. Yesterday everyone slept together in the living room. Cha Yu-jin told a strange story that created unnecessary anxiety. Surprisingly Liu Chengwu was happy.]

And the record on the day of the power outage incident.

Raebin Kim clenched his fist and shouted into the camera.

[We… will save the chick!]

“…”

“Hahaha! oh my god!!”

“Mr. Lavin is the best!”

“Is that so?”

I had a hunch.

‘It’s ruined.’

And sure enough.

This camcorder record will be exported as a trailer…

Chapter 249

Go back in time a few weeks ago.

Immediately after a subtle announcement was made about ‘a broadcast that will reveal the stage that was not selected at Testa’s donation concert’.

The excited fans were a little puzzled after checking the broadcaster.

-Is it CVN?

-Eng it’s not even Tinet it’s suddenly CBN.

This is because it was not only a stage show on a popular music channel like Tnet but also a cable channel famous for entertainment and dramas.

-Should we do entertainment for the kids?

-How do you plan to come out? Are you going to do another reality show?

-The timing is ambiguous.

Idol reality shows often use their own Internet platforms except in rare cases.

It was rare for a full-fledged program to be scheduled on such a large channel. And at an ambiguous time neither the comeback season nor the tour season.

-What did T-One do?

-You’re not trying to make a story out of an accident.

The accident occurred (X) T-one caused the accident (0) ^^

ㄴㄹㅇThis is correct

-Attempted Murder

Although it was an exceptional situation that some people doubted or worried about the majority still waited for the new rice cake with only a little doubt.

And a few days later.

[Let's go to a villa just for Testa!]

[〈Island Life in Testa〉 9/30 Wed]

A preview image of a beach and a hammock and a cool drink crossing under a blue sky.

This new promotion which appeared through official channels and articles pointed to one fact.

Testa's rest and healing!

-Oh thank goodness.

-Of course it's best to rest in a place without cameras but… thank you kids.

-ㅠㅠIt's been a while since I've seen you in peace. I hope you guys eat a lot of delicious food sleep well and have fun…

-You didn't have to leave the country so you chose a place where there were no people.

Fans were relieved and delighted by the very typical and common sense reality format.

Even after filming the atmosphere became a little softer as an article leaked that Testa was taking a surprise vacation during the Chuseok holiday.

-Guys let's eat a lot of delicious food and rest well.

-You really really worked hard. Thank you for taking care of Loveviewer until the end. Take care of your health and see you in good health♡♡♡

This is because public concerns about whether people may not be able to rest properly due to filming have subsided.

Words like 'Testa can rest well even after filming' and 'The damn company is finally paying attention' were the general public opinion on fans' SNS and communities.

Of course not everyone was like that.

'Didn't you watch Reality Deal on vacation?'

The office worker who runs the account where Park Moon-dae and Lee Se-jin's photos are posted had a very realistic pessimism.

'I'll let you rest well during the holidays so please do just this. I won't ask you to do anything all you have to do is play… I think he said something like that.'

It was assumed that this was a work to revamp T1's image.

But Homma an office worker soon shrugged his shoulders.

'Well it's not that important.'

The important thing is that if it is a program that only focuses on healing being included in CVN is actually a handshake.

'Healing isn't fun.'

The testa which became hot due to a car accident and a donation concert was already attracting a lot of attention and we can already see the reaction of the general public who watched the first episode and then left.

-I'm sorry but it's boring…

-The kids were cute haha. I'll watch the clip later!

So if it was truly healing I had to think that only the fans would actually be counted in the viewership ratings.

'It would be damned if the viewership ratings went down like that.'

-Shocking Testa reality episode 2 viewership ratings

-Testa entertainment is a bomb vs. not that bad

-The results of this testa reality show leave a lot to be desired.

The lineup was already good.

Tika a fan of VTIC said she would run wild with excitement and office workers predicted that the frustrating and tiring situation would last for about two weeks.

Still there was no choice.

'Well unless T1 goes crazy I won't make this situation difficult.'

Now public opinion has barely moved on to idols' main profession through donation concerts but it has barely covered up the shock caused by the car accident.

If it weren't for this format it probably wouldn't have been able to avoid a huge backlash.

'If I had sold hotteok like last time to pay off my travel debt… I would have tried to kill him.'

Looking at the current atmosphere it would not be surprising if an article was published saying that the company committed the grave sin of plastering its members.

Of course office workers thought that this was a public opinion that was quite divorced from the reality of the company.

‘I guess I’ll just be working. Anyway I’ll just go to this entertainment show.’

She thought deeply and this thought was further solidified after seeing the next trailer.

[Do whatever you want to test!]

[Testa: Wow are we using everything here?]

When I looked at it it seemed like a type of healing that allowed me to do everything I really wanted to do from food to hobbies.

And the first episode that actually aired was like that.

Beautiful and gentle islands and colorful villas in the South Sea. And a simple chicken coop and wild flowers in full bloom.

[Cha Yu-jin: Chick! It’s really cute!]

[Lee Se-jin: Wow I don’t know if we can enjoy all of this.]

The members had fun wandering around the island and villas eating health food and enjoying luxurious massages.

[Bae Se-jin (Massage Mania): Ugh]

[Park Moon-dae: (embarrassed)]

[Ryu Cheong-woo (hiking enthusiast): I bought some hiking shoes.]

[Park Moon-dae: (turns away)]

There are some funny scenes here and there but they are minor.

Overall it was a vicarious satisfaction type of reality that allowed testers to come or go.

-Cha Goyoung I'm just eating a few chicken drumsticks haha Let's eat a lot and sleep!

-Warms my heart

-Did you see Ahyeon meditating? There is no prince in the forest. He is X-Zuni Prince.

-Yes this is what I wanted.

Fans were happy but office workers gave up.

Because it was something only fans would see.

'There are some sections that are a bit slippery.'

The office worker whetted his appetite saying that they are smart guys and will prepare their next album well.

However everything was turned upside down in the trailer that came out at the end of episode 1.

[The next day…?]

[??? : (Jijijijik) — Day 1 9:11 a.m.]

[??? : The recorder is (Ji Ji-jik) — 21-year-old Kim Rae-bin.]

"…!?"

The newly released trailer… suddenly became spectacular!

[An unusual weather change that no one expected]

[Announcer: Heavy rain accompanied by strong winds in the South Sea…]

[Isolated crew!]

[Youngest Writer: We barely have any water left?]

[Assistant director: Hahahaha (real voice)]

[Mental breakdown]

Bam bam bam bam bam bam follow me ↗

News cuts and an island with a crazy storm raging against the background of strong BGM were edited.

And the faceless side and back views of the production crew who were mentally upset were cross-edited and appeared rhythmically.

The last person to enter was Raebin Kim who appeared again in a camcorder-like edited screen.

Raebin Kim clenched his fists.

[Kim Rae-bin (21): We will save the chick…!]

[Testa: Ahhh!]

The trailer ended with Testa in pajamas running towards the chick floating on the water.

"…"

SNS is already filled with question marks and laughter.

'…Play it like this?'

The office worker laughed uncharacteristically and then stopped searching for a moment in embarrassment.

And after a while.

The response exploded even in communities used by non-fans.

[Testa entertainment Gapbun is in trouble haha]

[Isn't it killing not healing?]

[Please watch this quickly crazy hahaha (trailer link)]

"hmm."

They say that a person who will rise will rise no matter what they do but it seems that her idol cannot tolerate stagnation.

The office worker looked at the situation with satisfaction and chose an edited shot of Park Moon-dae and Lee Se-jin to post on his account. It was a cut of Lee Se-jin playing a prank on Park Moon-dae during meditation.

However I had a premonition at the same time.

'There will be people who say it's uncomfortable right?'

Sure enough by the time she uploaded the retouched GIF file new comments were being shared.

-Did you press ahead with filming even though there was a typhoon?

-I guess they pretended it was healing and only made the kids suffer again. It's really annoying.

-Are you sure they are airing something that was shipwrecked as content? I must be crazy

'Ah the instigator again.'

In fact it was a morally appropriate request but the brain of an office worker consumed with the desire for social success felt that it was all a first step.

‘I said I already took the fucking shot. ‘Why should I throw away the footage?’

What can we do about such a sudden natural disaster?

Why don’t they know that the idols they like would have tried their best to save something from the disaster?

“really.”

She secretly gave strength to the public opinion that dismissed all the opposition as ‘serious’. Anonymously of course.

-Oh please let’s just look at it. It was like this during the donation con and it’s like this again.

-It seems like they are a mix of people who want to invite the tester entertainment show because it seems like it will do well.

As a result the news of Testa’s amazing vacation was reported and the controversy ended without controversy.

‘it’s okay.’

She scoffed when she saw Park Moon-dae’s first post about Homma who was still worried on her personal SNS account.

-I hope the filming ends well in good health without any major incidents and with a smile… I hope you don’t overdo anything.

‘In the first place being an idol is a demanding job.’

The prime time is not long but it is a job that requires rowing when the water comes in.

The office worker thought so and waited for the next episode of Testa Reality to air.

And episode 2 aired with more interest than episode 1.

Surprisingly the starting point was not Testa.

It was the production team.

[Unprecedented filming suspension in history]

[The youngest members of the production team lost contact and became isolated… ☆]

[Assistant director: Ah the rain and wind were crazy;;]

[Youngest PD: Aren't we in trouble like this?]

[Youngest Writer: Looks like we've already been shipwrecked… haha]

The production crew lamented their situation in a dark indoor space littered with filming equipment writing tools and water bottles.

However the editing atmosphere was not that dark.

[※Sea route cut off※]

[※Helicopter is not available※]

[Youngest PD: This won't work. It won't work. I can't even go to the villa. It is impossible to contact the cast]

[Youngest Writer: Wow…]

[※Can't even walk (!) ※]

Seen from a distance even tragedy was a comedy. With funny BGM and editing their hardships were edited in a humorous way like a surprise camera.

However I felt sad.

[Youngest writer: We haven't washed our hair for three days now… (speechless)]

This is because lines like this were exchanged. Even people who were concentrating on Testa's situation became solemn without even realizing it.

Of course fundamental questions remained.

'But what about Testa?'

And it's just the right time for these questions to grow in people's minds.

[Jeeeeeeek!!]

[Producer: Ahhh!!]

Suddenly the dark wall the production team was leaning against was torn apart and the door opened!

And what popped out from there was… Testa.

At that moment the screen stopped with a close-up of Testa's surprised face.

[Testa: Argh!!]

[????]

It even included huge red subtitles.

And insert your voice.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Are you all okay?]

[Youngest Writer: Heo Eo Eok]

[Testa… came to the rescue!!]

The angels' choir BGM was played. It was a directing where there was absolutely no hero. They even added a CG halo to the back of Testa.

"no…!"

It was such an impactful appearance that even office workers were left speechless.

[Assistant Director: You don't even know the location so how could you…]

Testa looked at each other intermittently and then smiled as if he had lost some air.

And subtitles again.

[How on earth did Testa appear here?]

[◄◄◄]

The screen started to go back.

[Day 1 of the shipwreck]

And then the story of the disaster from Testa's point of view began.

[Park Moon-dae: It's too windy. I can't go out.]

[Lee Se-jin: So~ Did you hit the ball today too? Ugh!]

[Kim Rae-bin: 12 a.m. The brothers discussed the future direction of their lives. The ban on going out is likely to become a new rule.]

Kim Rae-bin's camera played a big role. Kim Rae-bin's self-camera sound was quietly inserted into each important scene like a commentary.

And it made the situation funnier.

[Bae Se-jin: No! Since sweet potatoes are easier I went first…]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Sejin they say beans grow faster? I will take this card.]

[Bae Se-jin: (shocked)]

[Cam: During the board game something about grain came up. I checked carefully to see if it would be cultivated.]

This is because the overindulgence was enormous.

– Hahahaha Kim Rae-bin really.

-You were such a character. I thought you were a medieval rabbit riding a snail in a clearing but it was just a rabbit.

-No what is this? Why are you recording a distressed diary by yourself?

-Who gave the kid the camera? Turn yourself in.

And even though it wasn't such a humorous element it didn't feel like the hardships were being glorified or glossed over.

It was thanks to the impact of the first appearance editing.

This is because Testa's good-natured and challenging aspects were emphasized more than the hardships he faced.

In fact Testa did not panic or complain about the weather but instead found things to do and played hard.

[Cha Yu-jin: Hide and seek?? do!! Hide bro!]

[Park Moon-dae: (shaking)]

[Seon Ah-hyun: Okay…! Should I hide?]

-The kids are very diligent and want to try something.

-It's so sad that the food was poor. The production team must repay with Korean beef and snow crab.

The broadcast which progressed steadily entered the long-awaited blackout episode.

Chapter 250

Raebin Kim's voice in the camcorder recording which was serious yet spirited was strangely subdued.

[Cam: Phew now… 9 PM.]

[Cam: three hours ago now]

[Cam: The lights in all villas are turned off.]

And on the screen all the lights in the house suddenly turned off.

[!!!!]

[Kim Rae-bin: Is everyone okay?]

[Cha Yujin: Brother!]

[Sudden blackout]

From that moment on the mood of the episode changed completely.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Let's first adapt to the dark without moving.]

[Testa checks each other by relying on smartphone light]

[however]

[There is… one person?]

[??? : Ugh!]

[Park Moon-dae: Brother!]

A strange sense of tension began to form in the distress episode which was closer to an adventure with premature abdominal pain.

In addition cross-interviews began to be included.

[Sun Ah-hyun: Suddenly I heard (Bae Se-jin) brother's screams…]

[Park Moon-dae: I was embarrassed. Everyone would be surprised.]

The format somehow smelled like a horror movie.

-Gapbun thriller ㄷ ㄷ ㄷ

-Wow what is so scary?

-There was a power outage. It was a bit severe.

-Bae Se-jin injured?

The infrared camera turned quickly. and…

It shined a light on Bae Se-jin who was lying face down in a strange position as if he was about to roll over at any moment.

[…??]

[Mr. Sejin… he's fine…]

The body gag created an entertainment-like atmosphere for a moment but it didn't last long.

Infrared camera moving closer.

[Shhh]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Yes. There was a strange door behind the cabinet.]

[Park Moon-dae: But at that time it seemed to me… there was no space behind it.]

[Park Moon-dae:… So there is no way. Except for the one that leads to the basement.]

This is because the basement door they found was close-up on the screen with quite an eerie silence.

-omg

-Oh I'm so scared.

-Who is the owner of the villa? Why is something like that hidden?

-Wow the atmosphere is scary haha.

-Isn't it Suzaku?

Testa hesitated and fell from the door.

The interviews crossed again.

[Lee Se-jin: It seemed a little creepy didn't it? (wry smile)]

[Bae Se-jin: A strange feeling…]

And the point of view shifts to Cha Yu-jin who solves the ghost story that night.

[Cha Yu-jin: Moon Dae-hyung! Please speak in Korean!]

[Park Moon-dae: (Save me)]

[Cha Yu-jin: (English)… So a crazy doctor performed a frontal lobotomy in the basement of that house…]

[Park Moon-dae: Once upon a time in America there was a house that was haunted by a doctor's ghost.]

[Lee Se-jin: Are the door lengths different?]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Hmm.]

In reality it was quite a warm and funny atmosphere at the time but the feeling was slightly different in the edited video.

It was implemented with the feeling of foreshadowing the future as if trying to laugh it off.

Viewers were restless.

-What is the basement door?

-Let's quickly block that door with the cabinet again.

-Guys why are you leaving it like that?

-Is it true that they are still in a power outage?

-Is everyone overly immersed in healing entertainment?

I moved on to the next day with that uncomfortable feeling.

And finally Testa was seen dividing into teams and starting to look for the distribution board.

[Q: I heard (Bae) Se-jin was the first to voice his opinion?]

[Bae Se-jin: (Ears popping) I was just talking about Toad House…]

[Bae Se-jin: Yes I felt like I had to do something… It feels strange.]

As the interview ended Bae Se-jin's nervous face appeared on the screen.

And finally in the scene where he walks into the basement to find the distribution board Bae Se-jin's remarks are illuminated as if they were continuing.

[Bae Se-jin: Why did this person build a villa like this on a deserted island…?]

[Stairs filled with momentary silence]

-Ughhhhhhh

-Oh don't do that why are you doing that?

-The production team is faking it. Say so quickly.

-It was ordered by Sejin. Anyway then.

The stiff faces of the members captured by the infrared camera slowly passed by.

And then we arrived at the basement.

What the members discovered on the dark screen relying on the light of a flashlight rather than infrared rays -.

[Lee Se-jin:… Isn't that blood?]

[blood?]

[!!!!]

The frozen screen was distorted and zoomed in and out repeatedly and a creepy sound like a child laughing was heard as background music.

[Ugh!!]

The tester on the screen was in a panic letting out all kinds of screams and reactions.

By this time viewers were also pouring out their doubts by screaming and yelling in the comments.

[Tiriring~]

[????]

The fire is back in the basement.

In a bright and white cellar that had been intentionally filled with filters the five testers were stuck together shivering.

However one of the lumpy guys with a confused look on his face stood up and walked away.

And then I trudged out and opened the freezer.

The sound effect of cute houses exploded.

[Porolong!]

[☆Meat Party☆]

[The identity of the blood that the members saw↘]

The naked arrow moved in an obnoxious way. The extreme rainbow CG sparkling above it was brilliant.

[Park Moon-dae:…]

A faint BGM was played on the idols' dazed expressions…

And the cruel production team even took close-ups of the members' past reactions one by one and played them repeatedly.

[Cha Yu-jin: (flamboyant English)]

[Kim Rae-bin: (silent scream)]

[Bae Se-jin: I told you it was strange!! Ah!!]

[Lee Se-jin: Go up come up now…!]

[Park Moon-dae: (falls)]

[~List of fishermen who caught themselves~]

There was an interview cut of the five members covering their faces and looking embarrassed.

[Park Moon-dae:… I was a little embarrassed. I wasn't scared.]

[LOL]

Park Moon-dae's last interview in which he pretended to be calm even had subtitles that made him laugh out loud.

And the viewers also burst into laughter without mercy.

-Kitchen hahahahahahaha

-Of course only the scary people went there haha.

-Oh Park Moon-dae don't act like you're scared~~ Interviews are useless~~

-No it was scary. A sudden power outage on a deserted island… But you guys are scared.

Kkkkkkkkkkkkkk

Even after two members came to the five members who were stiff with a sense of self-destruction the editing did its best to make people laugh.

[Seon Ah-hyeon: I found the toad house…!]

On the screen the friendly images of Ryu Cheong-woo and Sun Ah-hyeon operating the distribution board switch and high-fiving were inserted with a dim effect.

[Rest assured members we have eradicated the scary power outage!]

-Only those who aren't fearful are shocked haha.

-This… is the fault of the palm that tore the team up like that… Dedenchi is the source of all evil.

Kkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkk

-I should have shared the archery master's and X's prince (gum smile)

Moreover even though Testa was very shy he eventually became excited when he saw the meat.

They eagerly found the frozen chicken and almost danced around with it and the laughter doubled at their raw reaction.

-The kids are so cute

– Hahahahahahahahahahahahahaha

-I worked really hard haha.

As I was carrying the meat up the stairs I secretly said something like this.

[Bae Se-jin:… Still I'm glad there's no camera.]

[↑ Yes]

[PD: Originally I was planning on going on a treasure hunt but that ended up happening…]

[Testa receives the blessings of the entertainment fairy]

[Thank you for your sincerity… ☆ by the entire production crew whose filming was ruined due to shipwreck]

It was once again emphasized that there was no manipulation.

The broadcast which was full of laughter until the very end ended neatly with good reference comments.

[※The person who rented the villa is an elderly couple with a dream of returning to farming※]

[※Thank you once again to the villa owner and his wife for their generous understanding of the broadcast and remarks※]

And this episode ended in a heartwarming and refreshing way with Testa boiling boiled rice and having fun filming a mukbang.

Of course as soon as the broadcast ended viewers' comments exploded.

-Crazy big fun

-It's been a while since I laughed.

-Quickly check out Testa's Island Disaster. It's hilarious.

I thought it was island life but when did you change your name? LOL

-Did Testa really get an entertainment fairy? Oh it was so funny haha.

Moreover the production team did not forget to post plenty of notices.

It is not yet clear how they came to rescue the production team so they aimed to increase the viewership ratings for the next episode by dragging this piece of cake for a long time.

Plus the trailer looked very interesting.

Testa rescuing a chick Testa carrying a flashlight and even putting on hiking boots and giving a high five.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Wow what on earth is this?]

[Lee Se-jin: I never imagined it would really be like this! ha ha ha!]

Survival and adventure quest.

The finale was a bright and active trailer that seemed to pursue more genre fun.

Because Testa looked lively and happy it offset the criticism that this painting was a ‘sadistic format.’

[Testa is going to save the production crew?]

[How grand will the production crew’s healing in return be!]

And in the end it shed light on how much healing Testa will enjoy after this disaster and also emphasized that there is still a ‘healing part’ left.

In addition there are social media uploads of excited testers coming up one after another.

————————————=

Mundae the next crybaby king (photo)

(laughter emoticon)

————————————=

□Stop it Lee Se-jin

□Quit Mundaemun University

———————————=

Hello Lover. This is Sun Ah-hyun.

(picture)

This is a scented candle I made. I was thinking about taking it with me on my trip to the island but I left it behind but when I watched today's broadcast I felt a little sad. Could it have been a source of strength when the members were scared?

———————————=

No bro I wasn't scared!

Eujin if you lie horns will grow on your butt.

(Tiger emoticon) I'm not flying!

Thanks to this fans were swept up in the powerful entertainment vibe and even forgot their complaints or worries. Because the members looked really happy.

And while waiting for the next episode I was excited and guessed the content.

-It seems like Ravin would have been the first to save the chick. Looking at the editing it seems like that's exactly the case.

-Why do you need a flashlight again? What can I do at night… or is there a power outage again?

-You might want to wear hiking boots when you go to rescue the production crew.

Or he could have actually climbed a mountain lol.

Hahahahaha crazy

For reference the last guess was correct.

* * *

“Refreshing.”

“…yes.”

I sat down on the rock trying not to gasp.

The morning air is nice but I feel like the oxygen is sweet from just moving my body.

I turned my head. Liu Chengwu briefly muttered something like an exclamation.

“The scenery is nice.”

As the saying goes the sea and land beyond the villa and the coastline look quite nice.

It’s worth it. Because it’s the top of the mountain.

‘Damn it.’

I never thought I would actually go hiking.

I recalled the contents I took with me after rescuing the crew.

Even after the rain stopped the waves were so strong that the boat could not float so we did several activities that were connected to the feeling of disaster.

‘Receiving vegetables from a helicopter was quite fun and the pictures were great.’

At that time when I started hiking I had no idea that it would lead to actual mountain climbing.

I slightly regretted handing over the note to Raebin Kim during the last treasure hunt.

‘I didn’t know the penalty was like this.’

Of course I don’t think it’s a punishment for this guy.

I glanced at Liu Chengwu.

“…”

The guy’s expression looked quite relaxed.

Maybe it’s because of the mountain climbing but the feeling of being somewhat gloomy and oppressive after the accident has disappeared.

‘…Ryu Chengwu also went through quite a bit of trouble.’

I feel like I should bow down a little more from now on.

I think it’s past the point where it feels like it might explode if you touch it so it might be okay to talk to it and treat it better.

“Please have some water.”

“Oh thank you.”

I quietly drank warm scorched rice with him.

However this does not mean that I expected this conversation after the drone camera moved away just before the descent.

“Yes Mundae. If it’s okay… How about going to the members’ houses instead of the dorm during this Chuseok holiday? Oh my house is fine too.”

what?

Chapter 251

It was a good thing that the Chuseok holiday was guaranteed after this island distress entertainment ended. Because I have a place to use it.

'…I was planning to click 'Check the truth' then.'

Even if my condition wasn't very good it was advantageous to be able to recover during the holidays and it was also nice that they were all going to their families because it was the holidays.

'I guess I can clean it up by myself.'

But now out of the blue what kind of proposal is this?

'Do you invite your co-workers to your house for the holidays?'

Did they decide to make each other uncomfortable?

In particular when Ryu Chengwu was young there was a high probability that he would go back to his hometown every holiday like me…

"…"

'That's it.'

That's all… Let's not speculate unnecessarily. It's meaningless.

Trudging.

As I was slowly walking down the mountain path I just asked out loud.

"I don't think it would be a good idea for me to go during the holidays.”

“are you okay.”

Liu Chengwu answered calmly.

“It’s not much different from usual. We already talked about just staying as a family. “Why don’t we have some holiday food?”

“…”

Liu Chengwu smiled bitterly wondering what he interpreted my silence as.

“Actually… I feel a bit uncomfortable meeting my relatives.”

“…!”

“I received a call from ‘Idol Co. Ltd.’ that way.”

Liu Chengwu continued calmly.

“There was even an article about it… After that my parents said they wouldn’t go to the holidays either.”

“…”

okay. The author of ‘Azusa’ wrote a chance for a relative.

Ryu Cheong-wu’s parents also seemed to refrain from interacting with relatives for fear of becoming prey to knights.

I chose my words.

“You’re wise.”

“Haha I see. Anyway so it’s just me and my parents at home. My younger brother said he was going on a trip with his friends. “Oh we have a dog too.”

“…”

“Think about it. “It’s probably going to be difficult for you to stay in the dorm alone this time.”

“yes?”

The bitter smile on Liu Chengwu’s face disappeared and a hint of mischief appeared.

“I don’t know? “The members and the company say that strange things happen every time you go on vacation so you shouldn’t be left alone.”

“…”

That’s… worth it.

I was speechless as I recalled my record from my last vacation.

‘No wonder I got rid of it all.’

I will also monitor if any of my team members get upset every time they get a vacation or get involved in a dog fight.

If you try to find a hole to escape on your own but that’s not possible…

‘Then… isn’t Liu Chengwu’s bad too?’

Since I’m not that close to this guy I could probably just get a room and live comfortably.

It won’t be a very pleasant time to see Ryu Cheng-wu’s parents but it will be bearable.

‘and… ’

I took a breath.

There may be a photo of your parents.

So when you go on a big family trip… isn't there someone who always leaves photos or videos?

'If only I could at least take a look at a group photo.'

If I tell you well even if 'Ryu Geon-woo' is not here I can confirm that my parents are here…

'What nonsense.'

I shook off my thoughts.

Here… even if there is a record of my parents being there what I see now is not helpful at all. It will only cause further agitation unnecessarily.

'Don't fall for the bullshit in your head.'

I resisted the urge and gritted my teeth. A crackling sound rang out in my mouth.

The problem is that the guy next to me heard it too.

"Are you that uncomfortable?"

"…!!"

"No… that could be true. Because it can be uncomfortable to hang out with adults you don't know."

I guess that's not what I meant to say.

I understood its nuances for the first time.

‘You meant to ask if you were uncomfortable.’

Liu Qingyu looked a little bitter but soon his complexion changed and he spoke comfortably.

“Well think about it anyway.”

“…”

It might be right to move on from here.

But I opened my mouth.

“It’s not because my brother is uncomfortable. “It’s not something I feel uncomfortable about.”

“…hmm.”

Liu Qingyu seemed to be looking at me as he walked down and answered easily.

“okay.”

“No it’s not a lie… it’s the truth.”

“I said I understood. thank you.”

I don’t think I understood a thing.

I kicked a stone that caught my foot.

“That’s not the case so I hope my brother doesn’t have a strange feeling of debt.”

“…!”

Isn’t it an easy decision to invite a coworker over the holidays?

If he were a normal person he would probably have suggested going to the houses of people of the same age who seemed very friendly.

'Instead of explaining your house in detail like this.'

But the reason he does this… it means that this guy has the thought of 'I have to be nice to Park Moon-dae' firmly embedded in his head.

And there must be one reason.

"I was not injured in the accident on behalf of my brother. "I just had really bad luck."

I got hit by a rebar instead of this guy in the car.

Liu Qingyu was silent for a moment but then answered firmly.

"no."

"That's right. Due to the seat location…"

"Mundae I have eyes too. I saw you pushing me… You almost died from that. And I don't know what the aftereffects will be."

Liu Chengwu continued speaking without hesitation.

"I quit my job because of the aftereffects of a car accident. "I heard it wasn't like I almost died."

"…"

Yeah I saw that too.

I reflexively recalled the scene of the guy's accident that I saw on 'Truth Confirmation'.

The guy who was crying with a broken arm.

‘…Maybe that affected me too.’

It’s true up to that point.

I listened to him quietly as I processed the next scene of Liu Chengwu’s accident in my head.

“And you… your physical strength has already decreased due to the aftereffects. “In the past I wouldn’t have felt so out of breath climbing something like this.”

“…”

“I guess being seriously injured and lying down for so long affected my condition.”

Nope.

Hey that’s because I don’t have Bacchus.

‘I’ll draw you again in the next lottery you bastard.’

And there will be no other side effects from using nectar. I recovered at an incredible speed but what?

It’s just a problem that will end if I bulk up a bit.

‘I’m breaking into a cold sweat.’

However Ryu Cheong-woo a civilian who did not know the setting of this web novel was holding his brow.

“It’s as if that happened instead of me. “But how could I not be sorry?”

“…”

okay. Anyway Ryu Cheong-woo had to quit archery due to the aftereffects of a car accident and went through a difficult time so I guess he felt a huge debt of debt to me who took the blame for him.

“Whoa.”

Well I don’t think accidentally putting a belly button on a rebar will work anymore.

I thought for a moment and then opened my mouth.

“is it so. “Then let’s say I saved my brother’s life.”

“…!”

“You can continue to thank me a lot. “I will call you without hesitation if I need you so please make sure to repay me.”

I think it would be more uncomfortable to tell him not to be thankful so let’s just use it until he feels less sorry.

“Oh it’s okay because I’ll cover my physical strength with exercise.”

“…”

Liu Chengwu stopped walking with a dumbfounded look on his face for a moment. I guess I didn’t know that this change in attitude would happen so quickly.

But in the end I burst out laughing.

“…haha!”

Don’t laugh. It’s affectionate.

I heard Liu Chengwu speaking refreshingly.

“Okay I’ll repay you.”

“yes.”

The air became a little lighter. I shrugged.

And as he continued his descent he added another word.

“But I won’t be going to my brother’s house for the holidays. “I’m going to the house that won’t interest me the most.”

“Okay rest well.”

I shrugged my shoulders when I saw Liu Chengwu answering clearly.

okay. If you must go to someone else’s house go to the quietest place.

Of course the exact opposite of the quiet holiday vacation I was hoping for was happening outside of where this entertainment show aired.

* * *

– Absolutely awesome!! Testa is the best!

“…thank you.”

I received a phone call from the production team making a fuss.

And I completely understand why they make a fuss.

‘The program went better than I expected.’

The viewer rating report card for episode 3 came out to 6.1%.

‘Idol entertainment shows on cable are outside the standard.’

It was a figure as high as CVN’s flagship regular entertainment show.

I later got a PPL for the frozen chicken I ate on the island and it was obvious how good the response was as sales of that also skyrocketed.

The voices of the production team who were unable to revive the article and found it to be a huge success could not have been so bright.

-We really want to do season 2!

“Good.”

Of course the higher-ups inside the broadcasting station would also be smiling brightly.

From what I heard there is even talk of getting rid of the pilot program for the next generation after ours and organizing a behind-the-scenes special instead.

‘Well it’s a lot of coincidence that I was lucky in filming.’

It must have been exciting and fun because there were a lot of accidents and it was unpredictable. Honestly it will be difficult to bring back that taste so next season… I don’t know.

‘Still let’s just say something nice.’

The production team kept their promise.

As soon as the distress time was over we spent all the remaining production costs and created a luxurious vacation.

At that time there would be three snow crabs per person. Well Cha Yu-jin has five.

“We would like to appear again if our schedule allows. “It was really fun.”

-Ah~ Thank you. Mr. Moon Dae!

This should be enough. That’s where I ended the conversation with the PD who was excited and called all the members.

“Are you a PD?”

“yes.”

“They keep calling.”

Bae Se-jin grumbled. I shrugged.

“I see you are in a good mood. “Because the program is going well.”

“That’s… right.”

Bae Se-jin muttered darkly.

“…even though it all came out.”

“…”

okay. There really wasn’t any special comedian.

Bae Se-jin and I were silent in the car for a while remembering how the stupid things we did in episodes 2 and 3 were highlighted one by one on the broadcast.

‘I’m afraid of fan signing events… ’

The silence was broken a moment later by words coming from the steering wheel.

“Sejin you are here right?”

“Oh yes! “This apartment.”

It was an instant for Bae Se-jin to regain his complexion after looking at the navigation screen.

‘Are those who don’t take out a loan the power of an apartment?’

Probably so.

“It’s on the top floor over there!”

Bae Se-jin said with a slightly flushed face.

“I heard your mother was at home.”

“yes.”

That’s right.

I decided to spend this holiday at Bae Se-jin’s house.

I heard that he wasn’t going anywhere and was planning to quietly spend time with his mother.

The cause was good too.

-You can come here thinking it’s those houses!

-Of course.

-…?!

-Thank you for the invitation.

The story is that Bae Se-jin robbed the base like that.

‘I’m sorry if those words were empty.’

Just in case I bought some expensive fruit and meat.

If anything happens I’ll just stay for a day or two and leave for show so it’ll be okay.

“Welcome~ This is Mundae!”

“hello.”

“Come in come in~”

Bae Se-jin’s mother was a bright person with a soft expression.

“Did I just watch your entertainment show again? Wow our babies have worked really hard…”

okay. Bae Se-jin must have been an only child but it wasn’t very pleasant to see his only child go to an island and suffer…

“But it was so much fun!”

“…Um yeah.”

Well I’m glad it gave you some enjoyment.

Anyway as expected Bae Se-jin seemed to be quite at peace with her mother.

“The gatehouse is really tall. “My child has been talking about liberal arts school a lot since the program came out.”

“When will I be mine?”

“Why do you say I have a younger brother who is really good at singing?”

“Ugh!”

Bae Se-jin suffered from shame and sank. Bae Se-jin’s mother laughed and hugged her son tightly.

“…”

Well it’s a nice looking hat.

After a while Bae Se-jin recovered from the shock and stood up shakily after being patted on the back by her mother.

"…I'll show you the room."

"yes. thank you."

Let's not make fun of it.

I was quietly introduced to the room I would be staying in and while I was there I started looking around the house.

"I chose the wallpaper. sky blue."

"It's nice to see. "It's neat."

"…It's pretty good. Oh if we do this for this cabinet here too!"

"oh."

Perhaps because he was very proud of the house he had built Bae Se-jin also came to life completely in the latter half of the year.

And after spending some time eating the fruit I bought it was dinner.

"thank you for this food."

"I don't prepare much but I eat a lot~"

Dinner was mung bean pancake and bulgogi japchae.

Bae Se-jin who was worried that his mother would prepare it alone entrusted delivery to a restaurant in advance.

'It feels like a holiday.'

Anyway I can't deny that it was a really good time.

“I…!”

“Okay give me the bowl.”

I cleaned the rice bowl and robbed Bae Se-jin to wash the dishes.

And only after a while did I return to my room.

widely.

“after.”

I sat down on the bed and crossed my arms.

Since I have places to contact here and there I said I would be alone until night so I have plenty of time to spare.

“Status window.”

It’s time.

It’s high time to press ‘Check the truth’.

Chapter 252

※caution※

This episode deals with topics about depression and death.

In fact there is more time left until the Maginot Line when ‘confirmation of the truth’ must be reached. Because the status ailment countdown hasn’t ended yet.

However the problem is that there is no time to leisurely look at this until after the Chuseok holiday.

‘After preparing the new album it’s time to prepare for the end of the year.’

In order to show that the group’s ability to promote albums was intact the end of the year could not be wasted. There is no time to use the side effects of ‘confirming the truth’.

‘I don’t know what will happen but… I can’t miss the right time.’

I made the most reasonable judgment based on the assumption that I could continue this activity.

…If I go back to my original body I might regret trying for a few more months but for now… let’s not think about that.

Because we agreed to first consider a future where we can continue this.

I exhaled.

‘I’m going.’

[Check the truth’ 〈- click!]

I clicked on the words in the pop-up window.

Sweet.

As expected the vision disappeared.

And my consciousness sank as if I was being sucked down.

* * *

“Twenty years old.”

“…yes yes.”

I am sitting in a familiar restaurant.

This is a regular soup restaurant that I come to quite often after I started studying for the civil service exam. This is because it was cost-effective and easy to eat alone.

However I was not alone now.

Right now across from me a child with a sad complexion is sitting and making soup.

I was going to report him because he was lying dead in front of the motel next door without a coat so I came to give him some food.

‘Useless nonsense.’

A guy who was busy taking care of his own life seemed like he was doing all sorts of things but there was nothing he could do about what he had already done.

I sighed. The guy sitting in front of me flinched and spoke in a hushed voice.

“I… I don’t have money.”

“…”

Would you have thought to ask for it after looking at your condition?

“You bought it while I was eating so eat it all.”

“…thank you.”

You’re acting like a criminal for getting a meal that costs less than 10000 won. Maybe it’s because I don’t look like I’m going to buy anything for anyone.

I took a moment to check my reflection in the mirror next to the cash register.

He is a civil service exam student wearing only a robe a hat and glasses. Still the limbs look fine.

It means that things seem better than the guy in front of me.

‘hmm.’

I glanced at the guy picking up the radish radish.

He’s 20 years old so he probably didn’t run away from home… He’s just like me but he probably didn’t go to college.

“Is there anyone I can contact?”

“…”

“What about part-time work?”

“…because it was cut.”

I pretty much know what happened. I took a spoon and scooped up a spoonful of soup.

And said:

“Go first from the community center.”

“yes…?”

“The Administrative Welfare Center. First check if there are basic living supply conditions there. If that happens you will get money every month. Even if it’s not that there’s probably something worth taking care of so be persistent and ask about anything.”

I just continued to recite the method to him and continued eating. The child across from me seemed embarrassed but did not object.

‘It must be uncomfortable.’

At that age it was worth it. I quickly drank the remaining soup and got up.

“Then I’m going. “Eat and go.”

If you have an idea I’ll go.

“Now wait a minute!”

However while I was putting on my padding I heard a panicking call.

And the trembling voice.

“Hey… thank you and I’m sorry.”

“…”

I paused for a moment and blurted out something without realizing it.

“Have you ever worked part-time at a meat restaurant?”

“yes? “I’ve never tried it…”

Actually it is difficult for a minor to work part-time at a meat restaurant. Unless they are relatives they are usually not accepted well.

I crossed out the top of the candidates and pulled out the next one.

“I’ll introduce you to a part-time job at a convenience store so contact there. They say a former part-timer told them about it. “I’ll give you my number.”

The owner of the meat restaurant was the weakest in the story but the convenience store owner was also a person who knew how to maintain business ethics so it would be okay.

However the person on the other side looks even more embarrassed.

“Because I don’t have a phone…”

“…”

I held back a sigh looked through my smartphone and wrote down my number and the convenience store owner’s number on a piece of tissue paper.

“Get a deposit and get a free phone. “Because I can’t work without it.”

“…”

“Take it.”

The guy took the tissue with a blank face.

And he muttered without raising his head.

“Thank you… I really appreciate it.”

“…”

He probably looked like he was crying.

I just turned my head away. And it was the moment when I was about to leave.

“That name is…”

Yes since we’ve come to this point it’s probably right to make a clear statement.

“…Ryu Geon-woo.”

okay. You’re really good at this Ryu Geon-woo.

Look at how you are wasting your time and thoughts by projecting your situation onto a child you just met.

“What is your name?”

The young guy across from me raised his head and answered quite bravely.

“This is Park Mun-dae.”

It was an unusual name.

I nodded and left the store this time. To escape from this strange situation.

After that I occasionally contacted this guy named ‘Park Moon-dae’.

[I don’t know if you remember but this is Park Moon-dae the person who got the meal. Thank you for introducing the convenience store.]

Like receiving a text message offering to buy me food after receiving my first convenience store job stipend.

But we haven’t met much. There is no reason to meet and it is difficult to take care of my life.

This guy said he would pay me back but I don't have any expectations. Other than one meal I didn't do anything for you.

It was okay to just meet up and have a meal once in a while. I guess this is okay because I always feel like my social skills are ruined by not meeting anyone and just reading books.

But separately my report card was not good.

"Are you crazy?"

I never thought I would fail the interview. I even thought I saw it objectively well.

'You sound like blinds you bastards.'

There is no indicator to guess other than the fact that he received a minus in his family affairs.

'You covered that damn family situation well too.'

It worked well during the professor interview too.

Normally it would be a plus but it looks like I didn't have much luck with the interviewer this year.

"…after."

I lay down on the mattress. I feel like my brain is broken.

'Shall we have a drink?'

Other than that there was nothing special to do.

After three years of civil service examination and failing that damn interview I drank alone…

The next morning.

I gave up.

“Let’s break it off.”

The reason was simple. I ran out of all the money I earned.

From the beginning I tried to only go this far with the plan. Once in the second year and once in the third year.

I wonder if Datapal could pay for it if it jumped even further… but considering my age it was safer to get a job.

‘It was initially prepared for employment security but the purpose and means should not be reversed.’

Because I wanted to have a job that would give me work and pay even if something terrible happened and in the worst case scenario I wouldn’t starve to death.

“…”

I thought about lowering the water supply for a while but held off because that would also incur new costs.

‘When I’m 29 I’ll catch the last train.’

I got a job at a decent mid-sized company that year.

And I thought I adapted quite well but… I don’t know.

“You just have to do it by tomorrow.”

“yes.”

I wonder if I’ve exhausted all my mental power in just 29 years of life or am I just a social misfit?

I often thought about this on the bus on the way home from work after working overtime.

“…”

It just didn’t taste good.

I was unimpressed.

Life was one-sided and tiring.

Nothing particularly bad but nothing good either.

Surviving at the company itself wasn’t a big problem but office politics was also boring. Even promotion doesn’t give me much inspiration.

‘I don’t think this is a typical case.’

What is the meaning of the helplessness that seems to have accumulated throughout this life?

I briefly thought about psychiatric counseling but it was a no-brainer. Is there anything that needs to be cut?

I thought about changing jobs but I wasn’t very motivated. First of all this company didn’t give me time to prepare for a job change.

“…”

Even after thinking about it for some time I couldn’t come up with any particular answer.

Is there anything else I can do that interests me other than having a drink every now and then?

There was something that came to mind.

picture?

‘It’s too much.’

It was a very expensive hobby. I don't have the time or money for that.

However making money as a data seller is not a sustainable job and is not something you should do after quitting your job. There were numerous cases where the investment did not pay off.

"hmm."

I ordered rope and painkillers online from my studio apartment. It was interesting for a moment.

Still I thought about it for several weeks. Because it's not an easy decision.

However even after going through that process it ended up not being very good on the last weekend night.

Immediately after the implementation I had a brief thought while kicking the chair.

'Was this depression?'

But that thought did not last long.

I'm out of breath…

* * *

"Huh."

I stood up like I was jumping out of bed. And then he brought his hand to his throat.

'Breath… '

It was fine.

"under."

I draped my upper body over the head of the bed. My pajamas were soaked with sweat.

What I just experienced… or is this really what I experienced?

Until now it was a form of checking other people's memories but this is…

'That's me?'

This was an experience that felt like I was 'recalling' a memory.

But the problem is I don't remember doing that at all!

My last memory is failing my civil service exam and falling asleep while drinking. I have no memory of getting a job after that or even that crazy suicide attempt.

Besides once…

'I've never met 'Park Moon-dae'.'

From this first scene things are different.

If I had done such a foolish and costly act there was no way I would have forgotten it.

However this was the first time I saw him in the body of 'Park Moon-dae'.

Plus the time zone was strange.

"Park Moon-dae is not dead."

Apparently in the first 'truth check' I saw Park Moon-dae made an extreme attempt with sleeping pills at that motel…

At that moment a strange realization came to my mind like a flash.

An attempt is just an attempt.

‘Couldn’t Park Moon-dae be dead?’

Let’s think about it.

Park Moon-dae bought a sleeping pill without a prescription… that is he just bought a sleep-inducing drug at a pharmacy.

‘Can a person die from a drug without a prescription?’

When I started to doubt it became clear. When I searched it on my smartphone it turned out that no matter how much I consumed it at most I would suffer side effects and not die.

Then if you combine the seasons and dates seen in this ‘Truth Check’…

‘Park Moon-dae met me right after he attempted suicide.’

The guy who was in a daze in front of the motel.

That was… the back and forth was correct.

“…”

And if this guess is correct it also means that I came into the body of Park Moon-dae who did not die.

“Then where on earth did you go?”

But there was no answer. It’s never happened before and it can’t possibly happen.

I called up the status window and asked.

‘Are you Park Mun-dae by any chance?’

However there was no response in the status window. Instead only strange words appeared.

[-Settlement in progress-]

I don't know what the fuck they're talking about but anyway there was no sign of revealing Park Moon-dae's whereabouts.

No it's not just Park Moon-dae's whereabouts that are important. What is the meaning of this crazy thing I just saw?

Did I really say that?

'I've never thought of myself as that crazy.'

But even if I did it why on earth did the memory disappear? Is 29 years old an idol's Maginot Line?

"I'm going crazy."

I laugh out loud.

I'd rather not know if it was Park Mun-dae. In the first place there is no 'Ryu Geon-woo' here so there is no room to explore anything.

As soon as I first entered Park Moon-dae's body I looked through my cell phone number social media and university but there was no account…

'…for a moment.'

The data I took remained.

I ran my fingers through my hair.

So… what if we change the proposition to 'Did Ryu Geon-woo exist here in the past?'

There is a way to find out even if there are traces of it.

-Yes it is Mundae. If it's okay… How about going to the members' houses instead of the dorm during this Chuseok holiday? Oh my house is okay too.

Liu Chengwu's house.

There is a possibility that traces of me and my parents remain whether in a family travel album or a video.

"…"

dripping.

At that time a knock was heard outside the door.

"Park Moon-dae? Are you okay??"

This is Bae Se-jin. Did you hear me talking to myself?

"…yes. "I got a rat for a moment…"

"Oh can I at least give you that massager?"

"it's okay. It's resolved. wait a minute."

I got up and changed my clothes.

When I opened the door Bae Se-jin who was sitting at the kitchen table looked delighted and then paused.

"Your clothes…"

"yes."

I dressed in street clothes nodded.

"I'll go out for a moment. "Because I have someone to meet."

I'll have to check it out.

* * *

It was a particularly peaceful first day of the holiday.

"Kam come here."

"king!"

Liu Chengwu placed the black toy poodle that was running towards him on the sofa. The smell of rice cakes and the sound of holiday special programs on TV brightened the mood.

However since it wasn't my grandfather's house full of people the feeling was relatively soft.

"Oppa I'm going!!"

"Okay have a nice trip."

"Miss come a little late!"

"Haha of course."

The younger brother left the house grumbling about not being able to get a big meal from his older brother who came home after a long time. Liu Chengwu smiled and saw his younger brother off.

Although we were a family with only four dogs we did not feel empty. Warm words were exchanged.

"So how are your younger siblings who are with you?"

"They're still good kids. Nice and…"

Ryu Cheong-woo who had thought of inadvertently putting Bae Se-jin in the younger group hastily promoted Bae Se-jin to the same age group.

Then I thought of a member who seemed quite mature even though he was my younger brother.

“Yes they are good kids so my son wanted to invite them to our house for the holidays~”

“ha ha ha.”

At that moment my parents brought up the story.

The most mature younger brother. These are Ryu Cheong-woo’s words about inviting Park Moon-dae to this house for the holidays.

Of course my parents readily agreed to this idea but did not welcome it enthusiastically.

Even if you are Liu Chengwu’s close younger brother it is not comfortable for strangers who are not family members to be at home during the holidays.

‘Well I guess it would have been better if Sejin went home.’

Ryu Cheong-woo reflected that he may have felt uncomfortable because Park Moon-dae was quick-witted.

‘I’m sure you’ll be fine.’

Ryu Cheong-woo posted a picture of a dog in Testa’s group message area and saw all kinds of holiday food posted in response.

“Everyone is doing well.”

It seemed like a peaceful day passed by like that.

But that evening. The time zone just before turning into night.

Ding dong-

Someone rang the doorbell. And the figure outside the door doesn’t leave whether it's a delivery or not.

"I will see."

"I understand son~"

Liu Chengwu got up from the sofa.

'Are you a stalker?'

Liu Qingyu had a somewhat negative premonition and immediately checked who was standing.

"…!"

An unexpected person was standing outside the intercom.

Liu Chengwu immediately opened the door.

"…Mundae?"

"Yes brother."

As he said Park Mun-dae was standing in front of the gate.

Without any warning. However not with calm eyes like usual but with colorful eyes.

"Like I said I came to have fun. Can I come in?"

Liu Qingwu somehow felt creepy.

Chapter 253

Park Moon-dae came to my front door without warning at 9pm on the first day of the holiday break.

It was a situation Liu Chengwu had never imagined.

‘I posted it in the group room saying you can come and hang out but… ’

It was just a joke saying the food was delicious.

However it was very strange that the person who had flatly rejected his offer to spend the holiday with him suddenly appeared in the middle of the night without prior contact.

‘Is that also Park Mundae?’

Isn’t he the younger brother who is cool-headed has good judgment of the situation and is well-versed in self-interest?

But now Park Moon-dae standing outside in the dark…

“brother.”

“…Oh sorry. okay.”

Ryu Cheong-wu paused for a moment and then moved his feet to make way for Park Mun-dae to enter the house.

In any case I couldn’t leave him standing outside at night.

However an unknown reason made my body tense.

‘what?’

Park Moon-dae's calm voice was heard.

"I'm trying to wash my hands."

"…over there."

Liu Chengyu thought as he showed me the bathroom. I think we should talk calmly when Park Moon-dae comes back from washing up.

'Let's tell our parents in advance.'

By now you must have guessed from the voices coming and going that the visitor was an acquaintance of yours.

And Liu Chengwu tried to close the door but…

I faced the embarrassed face of Bae Se-jin who was following behind Park Moon-dae.

"…??"

Why are you out there?

"Hello."

"That's right. hi."

Bae Se-jin quietly lifted the fruit.

"This… is an apple."

"Oh thank you."

Liu Qingyu hurriedly accepted the fruit. The strange tension had disappeared.

'hmm.'

He then asked.

“I’m glad you came to visit. But you two… for what reason?”

“…I just followed Park Moon-dae.”

Bae Se-jin glanced toward the bathroom where Park Moon-dae was entering.

“I said I was going to your house but it was a little… something. curious.”

‘I followed because I had a strange feeling.’

Ryu Cheong-woo asked while reading Bae Se-jin’s worries.

“Have you ever heard why you want to come?”

“doesn’t exist. Um but…”

Bae Se-jin whispered softly to Ryu Cheong-woo.

“I think I remember something.”

“…!”

“You suddenly remembered that every time you were sleeping. until now.”

Liu Chengwu immediately recalled what happened in the United States last summer.

-In the face of fear and pain… people tend to get a little angry and blame others but that’s okay.

That’s what I said to Park Moon-dae who finally revealed my true feelings after drinking.

Later as he noticed the symptoms of Park Moon-dae's alcoholism Ryu Cheong-woo secretly regretted his approach back then.

'Wasn't there another way?'

Anyway it was a separate and shocking experience.

Wouldn't anyone have felt the same way when their calm and clear-headed younger brother suddenly became unable to control his rejection of me and became painful?

It was even worse if my previous memories were blurry and then suddenly came back and I knew that it had happened.

'Is it… a similar feeling?'

Ryu Cheong-woo felt a sense of déjà vu due to the strange tension he felt from Park Moon-dae whom he had seen earlier.

So I mentally prepared myself but when I saw Park Moon-dae coming out of the bathroom I changed my mind.

"Brother I have a question."

There was no sign of rejection towards Ryu Cheong-woo on Park Moon-dae's face.

It just seemed like the right way to describe it was that my eyes rolled over.

'this.'

Ryu Cheong-woo quickly exchanged glances with Bae Se-jin.

"Well first… shall we first say hello to my parents and then have a chat?"

"yes."

Bae Se-jin hurriedly washed his hands and came out to sit next to Park Moon-dae. And Liu Chengwu introduced the two to their parents.

For some reason I felt like I was breaking into a cold sweat.

“Here… they are my younger brothers and they came to play with fruit for a while.”

“oh!”

“Welcome~”

The parents seemed a little surprised but welcomed them anyway.

“hello.”

“…hello!”

The two greeted each other politely but Ryu Cheong-woo checked Park Moon-dae’s eyes just in case.

And then I found Park Moon-dae with his sad eyes.

‘Why… like that?’

It was because it wasn’t the target.

Ryu Cheong-woo became more confused but anyway he sat Park Moon-dae and Bae Se-jin in the living room.

Kkam-i came running and sat on Park Moon-dae’s lap and Park Moon-dae skillfully scratched the black dog’s ears and said

“brother.”

“That’s right.”

Park Moon-dae’s eyes shone brightly again.

“You said you would reward my hard work.”

“…I did.”

That kind of… I don’t think it was a good choice of words but Liu Chengwu answered honestly anyway. Next to him Bae Se-jin’s pupils are shaking.

“I have a favor to ask you to listen to.”

Park Moon-dae spoke quickly without any facial expression.

“I’d like to see some pictures of you when you were younger.”

“…??”

A word came out that I had never even thought of.

“No if possible video. “Isn’t there a record that includes the times of a large close-knit family?”

Liu Chengwu asked an obvious question.

“Why that?”

“Just like that.”

It was an invincible answer.

Bae Se-jin shouted from behind.

‘Remember when I was young!’

“…!”

okay. You may want to catch clues related to memories from your childhood and be stimulated by seeing similar scenes.

‘Was I the closest to Sejin’s?’

Liu Chengwu thought vaguely and smiled. It was a smile of relief that he had roughly guessed the situation.

“Okay then shall we take out what we have?”

“yes. please.”

Liu Chengwu quickly went to the living room and took out the album and video.

And what I saw on the way back was Park Moon-dae who was mechanically stroking Kkam-gi brilliantly and Bae Se-jin who was nervous.

“…”

Ryu Cheong-woo thought for a moment but decided to take into account that although Park Moon-dae may be a bit dazed he is not as shocked as last time.

“Do you want to look at this album first?”

“It would be nice to watch the video while looking at the album. Also if possible I would like to see my brother when he was in the lower grades of elementary school. Would that be okay?”

Seeing that the request was specific and the age range was accurate Ryu Cheong-woo also thought that Bae Se-jin’s guess might actually be correct.

“Haha yeah.”

Liu Chengwu relaxed slightly and played the video. A picture of myself as a child was shown on TV.

[Cheongwoo~ Wave your hand here!]

My younger self with a shy face appeared on the screen. At the same time Liu Chengwu himself was a little embarrassed.

It was probably Chuseok at this time as well and I remembered that all of my relatives rented a car and went to have fun together.

"…What grade are you in? "You're tall."

"Probably second grade."

A slight sense of defeat appeared on Bae Se-jin's expression but Ryu Cheong-woo did not notice.

This is because Park Moon-dae was scratching the dog's chin next to him.

"also."

"…?"

Anyway the three people who sat like that watched the album and video and talked about various things.

My parents gave me happy looks as they walked up and down the hallway but they also seemed a little burdened. 'Why do you have to show it?'

Perhaps it was because he became defensive towards others after being harassed by all kinds of media after retiring due to injury.

Liu Chengyu smiled bitterly with a faint sense of guilt.

'Still I have to tell you that Mundae saved my life.'

I was originally going to tell you if Park Moon-dae was coming for the holidays.

Liu Chengyu thought so and continued watching the video. The atmosphere wasn't bad.

[Wow!]

Home video has been replaced again.

Bae Se-jin sees the puppy on her lap and doesn't know what to do.

'It wasn't a big deal.'

Should we just sit like this and talk for a while before heading back?

Although late-night snacks are not good for the body Ryu Cheong-wu thought that since it was a holiday he should feed them something healthy.

It was then.

Park Mun-dae who was sitting next to me suddenly stood up.

"…!!"

"for a moment."

Park Mun-dae picked up the remote control and stopped the video.

And then walked towards the TV screen.

With a somewhat confident face.

* * *

'grow.'

I knew it as soon as I saw it.

The guy sitting on the corner of the pension sofa in the screen holding a book and making a sad face… was Ryu Geon-woo.

"…"

Somehow the tension eases.

I feel like blood is rushing to my head. It was cool.

‘It was here too.’

This video is still in its early stages. I don’t know if my parents will be able to see it if I turn it a little further… but let’s be patient for now.

I picked up my smartphone and took that cut.

Click.

At that point Bae Se-jin asked with a puzzled look on his face.

“Is that… someone you know?”

“…”

right.

I was so anxious right now that I forgot to make an excuse.

‘Is my brain rotten?’

I clicked my tongue and answered.

“I know this person but I have been indebted to him before.”

“ah…”

The longer an excuse is made the more it seems like an excuse. As I answered quickly I remembered the scene where I bought food from ‘Park Moon-dae’ and these words came out naturally.

Bae Se-jin was pleased.

“Then did you come because you remembered this person?”

“yes?… yes.”

It creates a story on its own. thanks.

I followed up the clues and fleshed them out.

“His name is Ryu Geon-woo so I was wondering if he was related to Cheong-woo. “There aren’t many Ryu’s.”

“I see… hmm. Looking at it like this I think they look a bit similar.”

Is that so?

Anyway the poor excuse that the names were similar seemed to have worked thanks to the appearance and Ryu Cheong-wu nodded his head.

And he spoke kindly.

“Should I ask my parents? “Do you know any relatives?”

“…Thank you.”

To be honest I don’t think I would know since we are such distant relatives and have only seen each other once every few years but it wouldn’t be a bad idea to try.

‘If it’s like this but I’m already in the afterlife due to an accident in middle school… ’

I was a little dizzy as to what misunderstanding I might get but I decided to press on. There’s nothing left to do when it’s like this.

And the answer I expected came from my parents.

The phrase ‘I don’t remember very well’.

“Uhm…”

It’s not me who’s in trouble but these two guys are worried.

However Amnesia has an outstanding impact.

There was even a suggestion like this.

“You can ask at the door. “I think I can look it up since I know their age and name.”

“…! “Then… thank you.”

“Thank you for this.”

Liu Chengyu called with a smile and after a few words he gave quite positive news.

“They said they would look into it quickly and tell you.”

“It’s the holidays so I’m thankful.”

“Haha I’ll tell you that too.”

In this way ‘Tracing Ryu Geon-woo’s traces’ ended quite successfully.

And the only conversation topic left was dogs.

Bae Se-jin asked quietly.

“…Is that the end?”

“Of course.”

Bae Se-jin is probably worried that her mother is home alone.

I’m just surprised that they followed me even though I didn’t ask for it. Of course earlier I didn’t even care whether they came or not.

“Don’t worry I’ll tell you over the phone.”

Ryu Cheong-woo also euphemistically expressed his intention to ‘go back.’

After saying hello to Ryu Cheong-woo’s parents one more time we returned home together to Bae Se-jin’s house.

Of course I didn’t forget to say hello.

“Thank you for bringing me fruit.”

“I bought it while I was living it…!”

It sounds like you’re quite proud of yourself for saying that.

Anyway now that I’ve received some help to avoid being labeled as one of those people who don’t have a clue I’m planning on making some holiday food tomorrow.

“after.”

So I changed back into my pajamas and lay down on the bed.

However I couldn’t sleep well perhaps because of the sight I saw to ‘confirm the truth’.

“…”

Let’s hit the fuck out. Anyway I don’t remember that so what am I thinking about now? There is no answer.

I shook off my thoughts and called someone who could take my place.

“Status window.”

Well it seems like the ‘settlement in progress’ thing is still floating around…

Puff buff bub bung!

“…!!”

Suddenly pollen exploded in front of my eyes.

The holographic pollen came out of the pop-up and scattered beautifully scattering over the bed.

And the status window flashed with rainbow light in an ecstatic way.

[great success!]

User: Park Moon-dae (Ryu Geon-woo) succeeded in removing all status abnormalities!

Reward: Permanent status window title

[Create title!]

: Successful person (idol)

I hope you have a sweet life.

“…”

what?

Chapter 254

Glitter and pollen are still falling from the pop-up in front of you.

But no matter how surreal the scene was the content inside the pop-up was the problem. This is the end?

‘what’s this.’

It feels like I got hit in the back of the head.

Of course I wanted to stop doing this crazy thing where I was threatened with sudden death if I didn’t become an idol after giving it a year.

But this way this timing… are you kidding me?

“What the fuck are you doing?”

He showed his friendship with ‘Park Moon-dae’ which he had no recollection of and his life after failing the civil service exam which he had no recollection of and even committed an insane act at the end.

They are ending it arbitrarily without any explanation or process as if they are cutting it off.

“Then why did you show it?”

If it hadn’t been for that damn ‘truth check’ wouldn’t I have been able to accept my success happily and continue living?

Well ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ has already given up on life once so don’t worry about that life?

Park Mun-dae should I just live a good life?

“Then where did the original guy go?”

Where on earth did Park Moon-dae go? And what is ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ in the video of Ryu Cheong-woo that I checked?

It’s ‘confirmation of the truth’ and nothing has become clear. And I didn’t understand anything.

However there was no change in the pop-up.

“…after.”

okay.

Instead of stupidly yelling at the hologram first understand the situation.

I took a deep breath and looked at the contents of the pop-up in more detail.

First of all let’s start with the first title that pops up.

[Title: Successful One (Idol)]

-You succeeded.

: Permanent removal of status abnormalities

“…”

What I meant was that I wouldn’t make people go crazy because of a ‘status abnormality’ suddenly appearing again.

However the person who guarantees this cannot be trusted very much as it is a system that causes the ‘status abnormality’. pass.

And… one other thing besides the title in the rewards tab.

[Permanent status window]

This means that in the future I will be able to check my status and the status of others by statizing them.

"…hmm."

I crossed my arms.

After seeing this far my head cooled again.

Because it was strange.

'Aren't I at too much of an advantage?'

There was nothing bad about me. There will never be a skill this useful in the industry. It's a winning ability that won't fail even if you start an entertainment agency.

Oh… leave me a supernatural reward and be done with it.

Without any prior notice?

"…"

I was so angry that I tried to cut off the service or something but this… seems closer to the end of the service rather than a cut-off.

This system is just a burden since I have finished all the status issues I was assigned.

There is no reason to explain my curiosity or the cause of this situation.

"…Damn."

I don't know.

I looked at the pop-up in despair and then just lay down.

Okay fuck anyway the status abnormality is graduation. What a good thing it is that even if you live as you please there is no longer any chance of sudden death.

Even if I tried to think like that the bitter aftertaste did not go away.

I was able to fall asleep only after some time had passed.

The damn congratulatory pop-up stayed up until morning.

* * *

Since my head was busy it was easier to move my hands.

“It’s okay!”

“I’m fine too.”

I made seafood and green onion pancakes and donggeurangttang. And I even made seasoned ribs which I didn’t plan on doing. Among the meat I bought there happened to be raw ribs.

The owner mother and son were restless but after tasting it their mood subsided.

“Does it taste good?”

“…huh.”

“It’s really delicious but oh well for the customers…”

Because you are a guest.

Now that I think about it unlike Bae Se-jin I have never purchased any real estate other than a lodging.

The other members have their own houses so there is no need to buy them but now… I might have to go look at the houses. Because I have to continue living in this body.

However even though I thought it was a reasonable plan I was not very interested in it.

'I'm going crazy.'

It's even more surprising knowing that it sounds like you're full.

"Thank you I enjoyed it."

"Don't even think about doing the dishes just watch TV~"

Still the meal was okay. It was also suitable for a holiday meal.

And while I was watching TV blankly my smartphone rang.

[Brother Ryu Cheong-woo]

"…!"

I said I would find out about 'Ryu Geon-woo' in the family.

'It's fast.'

I got a call right away.

"brother."

-Oh it's Mundae. I received it quickly.

Behind Liu Chengyu's voice the faint sound of a dog barking could be heard.

Of course that doesn't matter. What is important is the main point of the phone call.

-I'm talking about the person you saw called 'Ryu Geon-woo'.

"yes."

-Well we haven't had any particular contact since college.

"…"

oh.

Ryu Cheong-woo said he was sorry for not being able to provide contact information but it was already a big enough clue.

'So this means that 'Ryu Geon-woo' went to college at least.'

I crossed my arms.

This… is true to what I originally did.

After high school when I was dependent on some relatives I stopped going here altogether. Even if I try to contact you I only end up with useless thoughts.

"okay. "Thank you for letting us know."

-It's a bit disappointing isn't it?

"no. Still it's refreshing to know that this is a real person. "Thank you for noticing."

-It was just a phone call.

Liu Chengwu added somewhat jokingly.

-I have to do better to repay you for saving my life.

"…"

Yeah well… if you feel comfortable thinking that way.

I gave up on correcting her and just talked about the holidays before hanging up.

And I decided on the next route.

“What are you doing?”

“I want to use my laptop.”

Now I guess I’ll have to approach it from a different direction.

As soon as I entered this body I had already checked all about myself ‘Ryu Geon-woo’.

This means that I verified the various portal site accounts phone numbers and school accounts I used.

So this time we go in the opposite direction.

‘Is there any trace of a dead account not a living one?’

This is to find out the accounts and traces that I may have already deleted or returned to dormancy.

‘The data and videos from the fancam account that I deleted… still remained.’

Videos from ‘gun1234’.

Things like Youngrin’s Rainy Day Legendary fancam.

That’s where it came from.

I immediately turned on the search engine’s advanced search function and adjusted the search date.

To the past.

"…"

After more than two or three hours of searching and browsing.

I came to a conclusion.

'there is.'

All accounts and records written by 'Ryu Geon-woo' in the past remain.

For example things like questions I left in a photography-related cafe when I was a freshman.

Since I don't like leaving posts or traces on the Internet it took me some time to search but I knew it was there and was sure to find it.

All that is missing are traces of Internet accounts and phone numbers that were alive in real time.

So 'Ryu Geon-woo'…disappeared from all places including the Internet and the real world starting from the moment I entered the body of 'Park Moon-dae'.

'It evaporated.'

That's right. It was a supernatural evaporation.

"…after."

I closed the laptop.

And I summarized the story again.

I actually had this assumption from the first time I came into this body.

This is not the world I lived in and there is no Ryu Geon-woo.

But no.

'It's the past I lived in.'

This means that this Ryu Geon-woo that I found on the Internet which I saw in Ryu Cheng-wu's video is me.

So… in the process of returning to the past through an unknown process I became Park Moon-dae instead of Ryu Geon-woo and 'Ryu Geon-woo' disappeared.

'I don't know why it happened like that… '

I don't know. I don't know the mechanism of why people return to the past in the first place.

At least Cheongryeo who returned to the past before me didn't know the reason.

"…"

'Is there no way?'

Should I really just live in a house and prepare to settle down without really knowing anything?

It was when I was staring at my folded laptop with a strange sense of helplessness.

Grumble-.

The smartphone rang. Without thinking I picked it up and checked it.

There were dozens of messages floating around.

'It's accumulated quite a bit.'

I've only seen it for about three hours. I first checked the new messages in the group message room which was especially active during the holidays.

It was Sun Ah-hyun.

[Seon Ah-hyun: Moon Dae-ya are you doing well? When my parents tried to contact me they said they might feel burdened so I contacted them as their representative.]

Sun Ah-hyun's long sentence begins like this starting with her holiday greetings and then moving on to the group's later activities.

It was a story worthy of Sun Ah-hyun.

[I think Moon Dae is a really great person. If you just keep doing what you originally did it will definitely be a good album…]

But this part was somehow stuck.

"Just like I used to do…"

I knew it was just an expression used to say good things but I ended up reading it again for no reason.

Like a clue that something will come to mind…

"…!!"

okay. i get it.

[Thank you for your concern. Have a nice Chuseok and see you at your accommodation.]

I immediately turned off the smartphone screen after checking the reply.

Then I sat down on the bed looked at the wall and thought.

– Just like I used to do.

Forget all other random thoughts.

Stay calm. Let me just combine the knowledge I gained from my experience with this damn status window.

The first is a daydream I experienced while in a coma.

‘The system and status window weren’t working properly.’

-Enjoy your daydream :) –

This was the only thing that popped up and it completely failed. Because no achievements were achieved at all.

‘Still… it was possible to draw.’

It may have been because it was a pop-up that was obtained in advance and not deleted.

And now like in that daydream there is no response from the system.

Not a single pop-up that I saved just in case has gone away yet.

[Legendary Trait Draw ☜ Click!]

this.

A raffle obtained by updating performance achievements after completing an online donation concert.

There is just one.

And since I was able to draw in my daydream I already know that I can still do it now.

‘The second is… ’

The point is that this status window that only appears to me is favorable to my success.

Cheongryeo did not have a status window. The old man from the future that Cheongryeo met probably did the same.

I think I'm the only one who has this. I don't know why.

'And… what makes this particularly evident is the draw.'

As if they were manipulating probability they always gave me what I needed.

However there are cases where this is not the case.

'Time of Indulgence and Bacchus were chosen differently.'

After I figured out this 'need' mechanism I picked them with intense hope in front of the lottery.

In other words if you desire something specifically and strongly you can receive what you want.

I paid attention to this point.

Pingrrrrrr-

Illustration of a spinning roulette machine.

I hoped.

'What I want is… '

It's one.

'An effect similar to a status abnormality reward!'

A fanfare erupted from the roulette wheel.

This will probably be the last roulette effect I will ever see.

Khan shines in rainbow colors.

[Attribute: Acquired ‘Mission Constitution (S)’!]

[Attribute: Mission Constitution (S)]

-Equivalent exchange for those who take on challenges

: ‘Mission’ can be performed

Done.

I banged my head against the wall.

And a new pop-up was emerging before my eyes.

[Mission occurs!]

target: target

Mission Deadline: D-_ compensation : ____

Penalty: ____

I raised my head and saw a hologram.

Perhaps because it is a ‘characteristic’ the degree of freedom is incomparably higher than that of a ‘status abnormality’.

“good.”

I have already met the deadline. 500 days.

[If it exceeds D-365 the penalty is strengthened.]

There are only three months left in this year so are you kidding me by setting a grand prize? next.

‘What’s important is compensation.’

You cannot include anything that is not specific such as ‘truth’ or ‘reason’. Think about being stabbed in the back every time.

However you cannot include anything specific such as ‘an explanation of why and how I came into this body.’ I couldn’t write it because there were too many spaces.

‘That’s funny.’

I smiled and crossed my arms.

In that case I guess we have no choice but to approach it from another direction.

A candidate who can answer questions about all of these situations.

A man whose whereabouts are unknown.

“Conversation with Park Moon-dae.”

What are you going to do?

[Reward: Conversation with Park Moon-dae]

The item was entered correctly.

And the penalty was automatically filled.

[Penalty: Delete status window]

“oh.”

Hang a status window?

I deleted the contents of the reward tab for a while and added something like ‘Dance EX’.

The penalty was a decrease in dance stats.

‘After all they ask for equality.’

In that case it means that ‘conversation with Park Moon-dae’ is a reward so strong that it requires ‘deleting the status window’.

“That’s it.”

There is no separate evidence.

I returned the reward to ‘Conversation with Moon-Dae Park’.

When I clicked OK an unfamiliar pop-up appeared.

[Do you want to accept?]

[Y/N]

“okay.”

Take it and let’s go.

Chapter 255

After accepting a crazy deal where the status window disappears if you don't win the grand prize within 500 days.

The rest of the holiday went by peacefully.

Actually I went back to my hotel a few days early and tried to conduct a large-scale analysis of global and domestic trends in popular music for my next album but…

When I came to my senses I found myself producing holiday food.

"…?"

"Oh my Mundae makes songpyeon so beautifully~ Our Sejin doesn't have any special dumplings?"

"mom!"

"…thank you."

It seems that there is some influence from the fact that everything from 'confirming the truth' to missions has been put to shame. I felt like I could do something without even thinking about it.

So I just wrote 'Testa's Island Life' and spent time watching entertainment programs called 'The Disaster'.

[Cha Yu-jin: Whoa whoa!]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Guys watch your steps!]

"You edited it so spectacularly."

“…I know.”

The sight of carefully preparing equipment climbing up a hill and receiving supplies via helicopter somehow reminded me of a passionate sporting event or expedition.

And predation given like a reward.

[Yum yum yum]

[Enjoy enjoy testa… ☆]

I actually liked drawing more than just doing healing. Is it because it looks better in contrast to the hard work that went into supplying supplies?

‘The reaction must have been good until the end.’

And when I took a quick look at the internet reaction that was indeed the case.

-I thought it was going to be a fun and entertaining entertainment show but it was surprisingly fulfilling.

-The kids are healing but I am healing them all. Rest well kids.

-I hope this continues on a regular basis. Is it like a reward for escaping from the set in a distress setting?? It’s a format that would have been fun even if it wasn’t a tester haha.

If it hadn’t been Testa in the first place filming would have stopped as soon as it was shipwrecked.

ㄴㄹㅇHonestly it was only possible because it was a tester. Realism played a part.

?? I know you’re a Testa fan but don’t you look down on other idols and broadcasters too much?;;ㅠㅠ

You are ignoring Testa.

The fact that there is such a spirited fight means that it was really exciting.

‘I can’t suppress the public opinion that it’s fun so I’m pushing the side that it’s not because of Testa.’

It was a good thing.

However what was unexpected was that this ripple effect did not end domestically.

‘Selling hotteok wasn’t like this.’

I had no idea that a domestic pilot like this would be successful as it was not an entertainment show that inevitably reflected the opinion of the head of the division who was openly targeting the United States to some extent.

[TeSTAR in a deserted island and- DISASTER? (astonished emoticon)]

The broadcast summary clip uploaded by the broadcasting company quickly grew in number of views and within a few days English translated titles and subtitles began to be provided.

Shipwreck and luxury vacation.

It seemed like overseas fans were actively recommending the summary to WeTube reaction channels because it was originally a fun composition and easy to understand.

[Americans overwhelmed by Testa’s distress entertainment!]

[This is K-pop idol entertainment! Reactions from overseas YouTubers who are surprised by the explosion of fun (Korean subtitles)]

It naturally flowed into the Translation Gukbbong channel creating a virtuous cycle of new content being created.

…It was a bit cringy though.

[Wetuber: Oh my god are they stuck in a hurricane right now?? On a desert island??]

[Wetuber: No I thought it would be sweet and cute since it was a K-pop idol real variety show…]

[Wetuber: Oh my god! Look at how surprised they are haha]

[(As soon as I saw it I automatically fell in love with it~ Welcome.)]

Adding subtitles like this may be one of the selling points but it is inevitable that viewers will feel embarrassed.

“hmm.”

“…What are you looking at?”

“Ah the overseas response to our entertainment show.”

“that…! “Did you see it too?”

Bae Se-jin’s eyes flash. As a guy who was looking for ways to escape his own body he seems to have deep knowledge in this area.

“Ah other than this person… there is someone who is good at choosing videos. for a moment.”

Bae Se-jin turned on WeTube on TV and went to one of her subscribed channels. It seems like he is enjoying his life on WeTube more than he thought.

And the video played by Bae Se-jin was quite good.

[Hello this is K-pop!]

In fact there is no distortion or exaggeration and the backstory of who the YouTuber he translated is is well taken care of. There are no subtitles to force the story.

“It’s fun.”

“…greatness! yes.”

I think I managed to find something like this among the similarly solemn titles and channel names. This probably isn’t something you can find with keywords.

I watched videos on that channel for quite some time after that. Because it’s nice to look at without thinking.

However in the process I discovered a strange pattern.

‘There’s a flow.’

For example if there are foreigners who have encountered Testa for the first time through this entertainment show they are usually asked to recommend music videos which is Testa’s main business in the comments.

[If there are any videos of these people I should watch again please recommend them in the comments. Don’t forget to subscribe!]

Then KPOP fans flock to leave recommendations mainly for “Spring Out.”

-Oh my god you’re reviewing Testa! (laughter emoticon)

-Their true talent is not in entertainment but on stage???????????? Please watch this music video first! (link)

-‘Spring Out’ is a must-see work. I can’t wait to see his reaction. (Emoji wearing a birthday cone)

It is a taste of Joseon steampunk where capital was invested. I thought it would work well because it has the feel of a blockbuster movie without any particular likes or dislikes.

‘I made it with that in mind in the first place.’

It’s rewarding to see overseas fans really using something that was intended for overseas response.

And if the response is good here they offer a ‘trip’ next time.

-The two songs are connected in a kind of series! I bet it will definitely be your taste☺

They also don’t forget the meticulousness of letting people watch the teaser which includes all of the members’ solo songs before watching the main episode.

‘And if you ask me to recommend something similar I’ll show you the ＜127 Section＞ game collaboration trailer video… ’

After going through the same worldview ‘Better me’ we eventually come to ‘Magical Boy’.

It was a magical circle where everyone volunteered to be a ‘lover’ after one turn.

[Hello subscribers! As you all know… I’m completely obsessed with this K-pop big star Testa these days! I’m just a lover!]

[Today I will be reacting to their latest song ‘Nightmare’. 1 2 3 Play!]

Many YouTubers may be exaggerating because K-pop reactions are a business that gets a lot of views but it was a great thing anyway.

‘Most first-team players have this route.’

For example VTIC also seemed to have such a route. Usually starting with 〈Sangun〉.

In any case Testa was having a more significant influence on the global WeTube flow than I expected.

And that wasn't the end.

[Testa's Overcoming and Emergence]

Similar sales videos with English titles that translate to this meaning were circulating with an unusually large number of views.

"…"

I checked the one with the most views.

[One of the eldest brothers and leader Ryu Cheong-woo was originally a gold medalist in the men's archery team event at the Olympic Games as a member of Korea's national archery team.]

[However he retired from the national team the year he came of age due to fatal aftereffects from a traffic accident as a child.]

This video summarizes Testa's backstory how he debuted after participating in a cruel audition program and how he achieved great results afterwards.

It was also a video showing how he recovered from a recent terrible car accident and held a donation concert.

In short it was a dramatic success story.

'I guess it's American taste… '

The taste of a self-made man and a twisted story was as strong as beef bone.

[Bae Se-jin the oldest member of Testa was a child actor who appeared in a very famous movie in Korea.]

[He played a traditional Korean child shaman and won an award at a film festival for his incredible acting skills…]

"her…"

Sejin Bae covered her face when she saw her younger self performing a ritual next to her.

“Aren’t you proud?”

“Are you kidding?? “I can’t do it at all.”

It seems like it’s a dark story because we’ve grown and our standards have risen.

Anyway even if it was a bit exaggerated it was definitely a well-made video.

In addition the traffic accident was cross-edited with the news to well recreate the feeling of the fandom at the time.

“hmm.”

“…Everyone was worried.”

[And finally when the last member is discharged from the hospital they come up with an amazing plan.]

[It was an online donation concert for long-term hospitalized children.]

And the donation concert… Well actually from these people’s perspective there will be a psychological distance from Testa because he is a foreigner so it doesn’t really matter if they focus on ‘good influence’.

Even if something unpleasant happens to celebrities from other countries isn’t the rationalization of ‘cultural differences’ a barrier?

‘Still I need to figure out the image.’

Just in case I even checked the comments on my mobile phone.

-A group of people who want to execute the former manager of this video.

-He should rot in prison for the rest of his life.

-Oh my god they stopped my car on the road in the middle of the night and threatened me? You are an evil seed that should not exist in the world.

"…"

The comment section was like a donation concert and it seemed like they were going to burn the former manager at the stake at any moment. Even though it's someone else's country it feels scary.

'After all is anger a universal emotion?'

Anyway it wasn't that bad. Because violent criminals are criticized for their crimes.

He's not a guy with a particularly heartbreaking story so there's nothing to sympathize with.

'Of course even if it weren't for this I think I would have already eaten enough.'

Moreover he had a bleak future ahead of him.

I heard that the former manager who faced enormous public outrage was charged with attempted murder due to negligence.

And as it was a case that attracted attention had no backing and turned a large corporation into an enemy the criminal trial was ruined.

"Now that I think about it I told my former manager that I was sentenced to 17 years in prison."

This was not a commuted sentence but a complete beating. The same will probably be true in the second trial which was appealed.

Bae Se-jin nodded bluntly.

“okay. In fact a guy like that should live there his whole life and then die not just 17 years.”

“…”

No… I probably won’t be able to live well even if I get released anyway.

While I was working as a manager I had already had my photos taken by all kinds of fans so if you just search on the internet you can find his face.

Probably like other cases even if he got out after spending about three or four years in prison he would have had to give up living and working normally in the country.

Besides now that I see it it seems like it would be difficult to live abroad.

The Testa sales video that shows the former manager’s face has 8 million views.

‘The more the test results the more difficult it will be to live after release.’

And so it will be.

I shrugged.

“He seems like a person you won’t see again in the future so feel at ease.”

“…okay. “It’s a holiday.”

Bae Se-jin nodded with difficulty.

Next to him the boy’s mother smiled happily.

Yes it is a nice sight to see.

‘Take a lot of rest before work.’

I plan to properly prepare for this album as soon as the vacation is over.

I was lost in thought for a moment.

What does the fan base that is mired in this testa adoption algorithm want right now?

‘It’s a good song.’

okay. The deep world view is good and the easy listening and musicality are good but I need to take a more primitive approach than that.

A powerful music video with great choreography that kills the visuals and exciting and expensive sound.

Just fun things to watch and listen to without thinking about anything else.

There is no miracle cure to solidify the global momentum that spreads like a virus.

‘In other words you have to pour out money like water.’

That’s the only thing the higher-ups at this company are good at so there’s no problem.

However it is no longer possible to appease these people who are trying to get their hands on the problem by interfering with the overall picture.

‘It’s a waste of time.’

I just happened to have to keep what I said to Bae Se-jin who handed over the data collected for the lawsuit.

-I'm thinking that it could have the same effect as a lawsuit in a different direction.

This is a company that almost lost all of the attention to the former manager and got caught trying to sneak out.

'I have to go see it sometime.'

I spent the rest of the holiday planning a fun meeting with the head of the department.

And I scheduled a meeting with him on the first day after the holiday.

Chapter 256

Accommodation on the evening of the end of the Chuseok holiday.

Members began to return one by one.

Actually I thought Bae Se-jin and I would arrive first but there was someone who arrived first.

“uh?”

“Oh~ Moon University has arrived! Welcome welcome! Brother Sejin too~”

Eun Se-jin whose lodgings are close to his home returned early and was lying on the sofa in the living room. What you are watching is the special episode of “Testa’s Island Life” with commentary.

From what I heard it looks like the first-tier idol enjoyed the holiday by handing out autographs to his excited cousins.

It won’t be long before social media will be flooded with eyewitness accounts and autograph verification from relatives.

“How are you doing cool-headed Mundaemundae? “My wife wanted to see you in person but she said that she was disappointed!”

The guy who went to my grandpa’s house speaks well.

“okay. “I guess I’ll have to make a video call next time.”

“haha!”

Big Sejin chuckled.

I don't know if it's good to take a break or if it's just a relief to check my recognition in real life but either way it's good to have some free time.

Now I can squeeze every last drop of energy into making an album.

"Ah a lot of people are already here."

"I've been there…!"

Liu Chengyu and Sun Ah-hyeon arrived almost at the same time. Sun Ah-hyeon said she went on a family trip again and even brought souvenirs from a small island in the South Sea.

I accepted the wild goose-shaped bread that Sun Ah-hyeon offered me. There was green tea cream inside.

"Oh it was near the island we went to! "My parents said they wanted to go there sometime…"

'Even after seeing all that hardship…?'

I don't know. But since it was fun let's leave it alone.

"Did you have a nice holiday weekend?"

And Kim Rae-bin who came with a bundle somehow looked a little chubby.

It seems like they fed their grandson a lot because of his hardships this year from his grandmother's hospitalization to his own car accident.

"Brothers?"

"…Well welcome."

"yes!"

Well I guess it's okay. Because it's inactive. It's not like I'm going to have any health problems… Once I prepare the album it will automatically return to normal.

Moreover it is revealed at dawn that this level was good.

This is because the person who underwent the most drastic image transformation appeared only at the end.

“Hey! Everybody say hello~ like hello!”

“Cha Yujin!!”

This is Cha Yu-jin who arrived on a plane from Los Angeles early in the morning.

This guy… his skin was mottled.

On the good side it looks healthy and on the bad side it is a true sunscreen destroyer.

Looks like you had a great holiday at the beach.

‘The stylist must be the flagship… ’

Wouldn’t they be locked indoors and made to only take vitamin D orally?

“hey! you! “What’s with your face!”

First of all Kim Rae-bin is shocked and slaps Cha Yu-jin on the back.

“Ouch! no! “I’m healthy and cool!”

“No! “This isn’t healthy tanning it’s just tanning without rules due to management failure!”

“Kim Rae-bin didn’t exercise either! “It’s a failure!”

"…! Oh no I will quickly recover the muscle loss through exercise…"

Anyway only after the mess was over was I able to get to the point.

It was 2 am.

"I'm planning to go to work tomorrow… no around lunchtime today."

"Huh?"

"Why why…?"

"Mundae you're such a workaholic. Get some rest. "You worked at Sejin's too right?"

"No just listen first."

If you say something it starts to pile up.

I spoke while pressing my forehead.

"I thought it was a waste that we especially Bae Se-jin collected lawsuit materials…"

I put into words the plans I had leisurely made during the holidays.

"hmm."

Bae Se-jin who had already heard it once before leaving nodded without reacting while the others made exclamation points and then turned into distressed faces.

"Is that possible…?"

"…It's possible. "I asked the lawyer."

Following Bae Se-jin's answer Kim Rae-bin raised her hand.

“Is this an illegal action?”

“No that’s not it.”

Afterwards a fairly productive discussion and Q&A followed.

In the end Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders.

“Well anyway we’ve agreed on everything we want right? “I think it might work.”

“okay. “Then let’s all go together tomorrow and have a meeting.”

I shook my head.

“No I think it would be better if I go alone.”

“uh?”

Such a person would rather feel intimidated by a secret one-on-one. If young people come in groups they will feel like they are the lowest class.

One representative was appropriate.

After explaining that part I added.

“Cheongwoo is the leader so if he were the representative I think people would think it was an official deal. “I think it would be better for me to go and catch them off guard.”

“Uhm…”

Bae Se-jin frowned and opened his mouth.

“But considering things like retaliation and threats…”

“it’s okay. “I have no intention of using such extreme measures.”

"…?"

Why is your expression like that?

I was puzzled for a moment and then burst out laughing.

"Oh the general manager to me?"

"…"

"I don't think I can do it. "What kind of guy is that?"

And after a while it was finally decided that I would be the one conveying the opinion.

It was smooth.

* * *

The third general manager of T1 Stars had a decent holiday break.

Although the crazy layoffs caused a lot of trouble recovery started to pick up momentum in its own way right before the holidays.

Still my head was still pounding when I thought about the damage caused to the company's image and the loss caused by the head office's intervention and cancellation of the tour.

'It was fortunate that I recovered.'

The good news was that the comatose member of Testa did not die but what happened next was not very satisfactory.

'In the meantime it's a donation concert.'

That too on other agencies' related platforms.

It was very suspicious.

‘Are you sure you’re going to try to transfer there?’

Due to public opinion and the atmosphere it was impossible to stop it but since it was his first time in the entertainment industry the general manager who thought of an idol’s agency as being closer to a sports player’s club was even more nervous.

Because I thought I was looking at the liver.

However there was no sign of Testa contacting the agency again and he put aside his suspicions.

‘As soon as public opinion recovers I need to gently appease them and start the tour.’

At the same time we planned to prepare the next album and launch it globally in time for the end of the tour.

In the meantime it was already stressful having to reflect the words of the idols who were throwing tantrums.

‘Those who didn’t even graduate from college will be able to do business properly.’

Didn’t the industry get to this point because of star marketing designed to sell tickets in the early days of Hollywood?

Anyway he clicked his tongue saying that the entertainment business lacks structure and dignity.

I jumped in with ambition but my spirit was lacking.

‘I need to expand my portfolio for a few years and launch another business line.’

Then I showed up for an appointment with a tester member that I had scheduled in advance for lunch.

“hello.”

“Okay welcome.”

Actually this was also a bit absurd. Is he in a position where he has to make an appointment based on a word from his celebrity?

Still I thought I could use it as a new hand so I thought I would give it a try.

It is true that the company was in turmoil due to the traffic accident.

‘Let me see.’

He guessed it by looking at Testa member Park Moon-dae who came out alone.

‘Is this a request?’

He was also informed that he was not the leader and was the person who contacted headquarters last time.

However I did not even consider that a dedicated test team was created for that reason.

That’s because he didn’t even suspect that Dantara who didn’t even graduate from high school would have such brains.

Still I had the intention of using it.

‘He’s the type that can’t overcome his greed if you provoke him a little.’

He seemed like a guy who had a say in the team and had a desire for success in his own way.

So didn’t he come to see me even after recovering from the coma?

However as soon as he sat down in the sushi restaurant room where the course menu was served Park Moon-dae took out the documents.

“These are lawsuit documents.”

“Whoosh!”

The head of the headquarters heard Sareh.

However the idol in front of him just stared at him without moving a single inch.

It is a face of indifferent observation.

“…”

The head of the headquarters felt like his eyes were wide with anger for a moment but he took care of practical reasons first.

Documents.

And I was shocked.

“…!”

“This is evidence of the agency’s negligence regarding the former manager.”

The documentation was meticulous in a legal sense.

In addition some details were intentionally deleted so even if this paper was checked it was difficult for the company to produce rebuttal materials.

Anyone could see that it was done by an expert.

‘Did you hire a lawyer…!’

The head of the department took a deep breath without being noticed and put down the documents.

“So why are you showing me this?”

“…”

“Looking at it it doesn’t seem like you’re trying to file a lawsuit right away. Is this because you want something?”

Park Moon-dae admitted it.

‘He’s got a brain of his own.’

Well this director was neither a paratrooper nor a relative of the executive. He was just a superior with an oversized ego.

And because of that it was easier to talk about.

The night before he returned to his lodgings. I remembered my conversation with Bae Se-jin.

-… Park Moon-dae You talked about taxes during your first settlement. This is a pre-tax amount so you’ll have to pay a lot later.

-yes.

-that’s right. That’s right. Celebrities were not workers.

At the time of writing the contract Park Moon-dae also knew it based on the legal knowledge he had gained through university and civil service exams.

Celebrities do not sign employment contracts with companies.

Therefore in many cases they are classified as individual business owners rather than workers and are not properly subject to the Labor Standards Act or the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

‘The agency’s power is too great to see it that way.’

It’s not something he can change right now so let’s just move on.

Park Moon-dae's thoughts were as follows.

'If you think the other way around does that mean you can write contracts more freely?'

Isn't this a contract between businesses?

So I make this suggestion.

"We add additional clauses to the basic contract. "It's a penalty and guarantee clause."

"It's a guarantee."

"Yes it's not serious but we're putting it in as a kind of bet. "The contents are…"

Park Moon-dae laughed.

"If Testa wins the grand prize at the annual awards ceremony in the following years we will fully support Testa's establishment of a new independent label."

"…!!"

"The deadline is set at two years… Of course the form is affiliated. What if the contract is broken? "I have to remain with T1."

The new paper presented by Park Moon-dae was filled with detailed information.

-'Annual Awards Ceremony' refers to an awards ceremony held by a music or music platform that broadcasts more than 70% of sales figures in the music market that year.

-… During the period of verification Party A guarantees Party B's proactive and safe activities. In this provision 'leading' means…

In short we will take care of it so please don't interfere and take care of it properly.

And Park Moon-dae knew.

‘This guy has no connections in the entertainment industry.’

What I do have is a connection with the board of directors at T1 headquarters that is enough to get me a position here. However you may not be able to bring this up to your superiors due to reputation issues.

‘Then I’ll have to take it alone.’

No actually it doesn’t matter if you talk about it.

‘Because it’s just a repetition of the claim that we have no intention of pretending to be T1 and that we only want to distance ourselves from this agency where you are the head of the company.’

This was the logic that had already been used when requesting a dedicated team. Even if the deal was discovered there was no reason for headquarters to be hostile to Testa again.

“…”

At that time the general manager also finished calculating similarly.

If you scold or act strong a bomb will explode.

So I clasped my hands and spoke more seriously.

“I know the artist’s opinion but… it’s not something I can give OK to right? “I am a working-level member… I have to tell the board of directors and the CEO.”

It was a lie. In fact the position of CEO is just a position given to a T1 relative to give a business card.

In reality the person who would discuss amendments to this contract was the head of the division.

“Oh I don’t know much about that.”

Park Moon-dae didn’t even blink.

“Just convince the general manager.”

“…! what…”

“No… I don’t know. If that doesn’t work I think it would be easier for us to just file a lawsuit. “The lawyer will take care of it.”

Are you crazy?

The head of the headquarters was at a loss for words and stared at Park Mun-dae but his smooth face showed no signs of agitation.

So he knew.

This guy was someone who would file a lawsuit without even blinking an eye.

And this kind of crazy person cannot be persuaded.

“There will be a new season of ‘Azusa’ in a little while and the people who debut there will also be affiliated with it so for us who don’t have much left on our contract… it’s okay for us to be a label. “Isn’t that right?”

“…”

“If you win the grand prize all you have to do is make a label. It doesn’t seem like it will be difficult.”

And at sunset that day.

Park Moon-dae returned home with all 7 revised stamped and stamped contracts.

‘It’s neat.’

I knew this would happen if I didn’t give it time and pushed it hard.

In this matter giving one or two more days would have been useless.

‘The answer is to deal with it quickly.’

And in any case the additional clause does not prevent you from winning the grand prize that you can win because your testa performance is also related to your career.

Anyone can tell that the head of the headquarters is a man with an extremely greedy desire for fame.

In addition just in case a compensation clause was included in case of double violation.

Park Mun-dae shrugged his shoulders.

‘I wasn’t able to create a legal precedent as Bae Se-jin wanted… but I hope he’s satisfied with this.’

In any case won’t you have complete freedom of movement until next year and even after that if you ride the grand prize?

What if I can’t win the grand prize?

‘At that time it didn’t really matter because the contract period wasn’t long.’

He shrugged.

There was nothing to lose either way.

“I should go prepare the album.”

He was prepared to put in all his time.

‘We’ll do it right this time.’

…And so the extremely high-intensity album preparation camp began.

For reference the first stage of Testa’s planned comeback was the year-end awards ceremony hosted by T1.

Chapter 257

The end of the year.

As it is the time to end the year and welcome the new year popular culture is abuzz with various events and anniversaries.

And people who are interested in KPOP are also slowly preparing to watch related events.

-The MBS collaboration story came out this year.

-Will T1 hold the awards ceremony overseas again? Are you crazy about Pyo Pal?

-I see a picture of VTIK and Youngrin each taking home the grand prize for the album.

Of course this year too there was no shortage of talk about Testa which was a hot topic in all sorts of ways intentionally or unintentionally.

[Testa also seems to win the grand prize]

At an awards ceremony that gives out multiple grand prizes you deserve it. Didn't you get one from ToneA last year?

It's such a hot topic this year that it seems like it's going to get picked up here and there. There's also an incident.

-?? After a car accident you feel sorry for me?? LOL

-The lover was a lover.

-ㅋㅋ I think you need to be objective and talk about the target…!

-Don’t act like you’re hooked. I’m a Testa fan. This is aggro;

The aggro was ‘Is Testa the target?’

First of all ‘Spring out’ released at the beginning of the year is a digital single and has no results other than the music so it is put on hold.

‘Nightmare’ released after that was a definite annual hit but the problem was that the activity did not last long and a car accident occurred.

The potential for further explosion of activity was unfortunately stopped short due to the traffic accident issue.

As one of the members fell into a coma and the airing of the previously filmed entertainment was postponed it was even more difficult to shake off the ‘somehow disappointing’ feeling.

So even though it was a donation concert it was true that it somehow felt insufficient to call it a perfect target.

Besides the aggro people also knew.

It is difficult for Testa to make a comeback in the second half of this year.

-You can never come back right away.

ㄴㄹㅇ I’m afraid I’ll get criticized again for thinking that my agency is doing something lol.

-I’d rather hurry up and replace all the cartilage and just turn it into a waste product.

-Even during the donation con I could see that he was acting like a bastard haha. It's better to be an old pitiful person.

Testa's antis actually cheered and enjoyed the news of Testa's sudden vacation.

This is because I thought it was a decision that 'could not be made up this year'.

However it was around that time that a rumor-like article began to appear.

[Countdown to Testa's holiday comeback?]

The article was that 'according to an official' Testa was preparing for a comeback with the first stage at the awards ceremony in mind.

According to the article it was an activity that would narrowly divide into the second half of this year or the first half of next year.

The behind-the-scenes reactions from die-hard fans were quite mixed.

-Ah it's finally a comebackㅠㅠ Since the island entertainment show I've been having a hard time finding rice cakes so I'm really looking forward to itㅠㅠ

– Are you serious about your first performance at the awards ceremony during this important time?

-There were a lot of stones making a comeback at the end of the year so why am I worried about buying them? And since there are many cases where the music albums are counted starting in December it will actually be reflected in the full number right?

Because the annual chart is cut in half

-All entertainment shows will be pushed to the end-of-year specials and will not be able to be properly promoted.

This is because from late November to mid-December the special holiday season takes away the popularity of the song.

Unless it was a carol aimed at Christmas vibes it wasn't a very good move at such an important time.

In particular I couldn't help but feel sad when I remembered that ToneA the awards ceremony hosted by T1 was held in early December.

-If they made a comeback just to fit in with the T1 awards ceremony I really won't let it go.

-After half a year of supporting activities I quickly lost my savings.

In the typical pre-comeback tension where expectations and anxiety intersect.

A new article has been widely published.

[ToneA From the end of the year to the beginning of the new year… announced to be held in January]

It was news that ToneA would be held in January.

There were a variety of reasons floating around ranging from recruiting award winners to disruptions in securing large overseas concert halls or reorganizing music sites but none were certain.

What is important is that the hearts of Testa fans have become at peace.

-Phew somehow

-The moment you see it -Comfort-

-Yes this is correct.

-I think it would be a good idea to go to all the remaining awards ceremonies in January and release some music shows starting at the end of the month.

At this point public attention returned.

This is because it is not a matter of making up for this year but whether or not he will hit a home run next year.

-It looks like Testa's comeback in January.

-Wow the annual chart is fully reflected haha.

-It's already a battle for the first team. What will happen?

Rather than focusing on whether Testa won the grand prize at this awards ceremony more attention was paid to the performance of this comeback.

Testa's latest comeback results after successfully hitting a home run on VTIC Aggro a successful donation concert for traffic accident issues and entertainment!

-If you pick a good song this is sure to be a hit and can't be refuted haha.

-Honestly Testa does a good job of selecting activities in every important situation. Even though T1 is a greedy bastard he is good at these things.

– Bye-byeol there was a regular this time. What do you think? What is the probability that it will go awry because it is too strict?

I enjoyed reading your wish list.

– Testa really works like a cow. To be honest I don't think I could rest for another half a year while taking care of my body.

And as Testa's appearance in various year-end music programs was officially confirmed fans were a little excited about their first real job in a long time.

-Stage Joa

-Never overdo it. Thank you guys for just coming out.

-I will definitely succeed in listening. How long has it been since I've been away? Seriously!!

In addition photos of members enjoying their vacation heading to the practice room were uploaded to Testa's account every day or two.

[Vacation is over! Now I feel great if I practice~ (bear emoticon)]

The members looked excited and happy.

-I saw all the posts the kids posted and everyone looked good so I was relieved.

Seeing the photo in person made me feel relieved. I'm just looking forward to it haha.

Fans waited for Testa's year-end performance with a strange sense of satisfaction and reward as they like 'idols who are serious about their profession.'

There was no problem with the comeback date and the atmosphere was calm and good.

-Just waiting for the stage schedule update

-How about a singing orchestra version?

-I will definitely bet my money that our Bomdung will perform a remix of a traditional instrument arrangement on stage.

If it's wrong can I take it? I'll stand in line.

Kkkkkkkkkkkkk

And Testa had a bit more planned than fans expected.

The first ride was revealed not long after.

Among the articles promoting the year-end program the most talked about special stages and compositions and among them one article even included a poster.

[Will the MBS Gayo Daejejeon collaboration stage list be revealed? [A brilliant line-up ranging from great seniors to monster rookies]

A banner-type poster image made up of black silhouettes.

There was also a silhouette familiar to fans.

-Isn't that the silhouette of Sun Ah-hyun?

-I think that's right.

-Wow Ahyun's special stageㅠㅠ

It was Seon Ah-hyun Testa's main dancer.

Testa was planning to spend this year actively advertising his next album.

And at the time the article appeared Testa had already started preparing for the end of the year.

* * *

"Eat a snack!"

"ruler."

"…"

Cha Yu-jin was shocked when she saw the carrot stick in her hand.

"This is not a snack!"

“Shall I give you an apple…?”

“yes…”

Cha Yu-jin who accepted the apple from Sun Ah-hyun chewed the apple sadly.

Crash clap.

‘Your teeth are strong.’

I clicked my tongue.

First of all… With the year-end season just around the corner this group is adjusting their diet to regain the muscles lost during Chuseok.

Even though Cha Yu-jin had a high basal metabolic rate she led a careless life so careful management was necessary.

Of course there are some who don’t need it.

“Not only apples… but also tomatoes…!”

A guy like Sun Ah-hyun who just takes care of his body inertially.

This guy didn’t blow even during Chuseok.

“Tomatoes are good for sugar!”

“That can’t be done…”

“Boo…”

Cha Yu-jin trudged over and sat in the corner of the practice room.

I’ll be like that for 10 days. Still I’m eating enough meat.

‘Should we also provide protein bars?’

While I was sorting out suggestions to send to the diet expert in my head I saw Seon Ah-hyeon looking disappointed while holding a cherry tomato.

“You eat.”

“Oh no! I’m okay.”

Sun Ah-hyun put the container of cherry tomatoes back into the refrigerator.

I looked at it without thinking and then checked the current time on the LED on the refrigerator door.

“I think you should leave within an hour.”

“Huh?… Ugh.”

That’s right. Sun Ah-hyun has a solo practice schedule for the past few days.

This is because there will be a special collaboration stage at the MBS year-end program on December 31st.

It’s obvious but it’s a stage where a broadcasting company pressures the agency to somehow select members of popular groups one by one and combine them.

Because everyone’s schedules are so busy we rarely meet each other but anyway we’ve already received all the individual parts on video and are familiar with them.

‘It took 3 hours.’

This is why people who are good at dancing benefit from this. To be honest it is true that learning choreography requires more stamina than learning a song.

In addition Sun Ah-hyun also participated in some of the choreography for this title song.

-Oh~ Is this okay?

-…! Really?

-Of course it is! Right Director?

-Yes I think it has a lot of impact… I'm sure the large format will be captured well on camera right? Ahyeon?

This time we received choreography drafts from more than seven sources and put them together but it was not normal for us to insert our own choreography in the process.

'You have talent.'

The movement style was not even the modern dance style that I majored in.

So it's just a collaboration… Looking at it I received a good part but there are no problems with the performance.

Testa has the best name value so you will get a good camera.

I nodded. There was no problem.

"Do well."

"…huh!!"

Seeing that Sun Ah-hyun is also in good spirits I think she will come out well.

Of course it's not just Sun Ah-hyun. Right now listen to Bae Se-jin muttering next to you.

"…I'm the award winner."

“hmm? It’s a child actor award ceremony. Does it suit you well? “It might be a bit cumbersome to move but…”

“I! “It’s an awards ceremony!”

“…Calm down Sejin.”

From film festival awards to entertainment award ceremony commemorative stages.

I just followed a schedule that was not excessive and had enough content to generate news.

Everyone has agreed that instead of skipping year-end events we should use our free time in this way.

‘…This quarter the settlement amount will be cut in half.’

Still there was some extra business. It was also an effective promotional method.

So after filtering based on name value I left one or two without filtering them out but… I’m a little nervous.

‘Is this offer really necessary for me?’

I think there must have been a more suitable member than me… but if you really want to use me.

‘It doesn’t matter.’

I shrugged and put on my road headset.

I was planning to check the third recording again. This title has to come out well.

‘Let’s do well.’

And the end of the year quickly arrived.

* * *

A few weeks later on a Friday night in early to mid-December.

Netizens were waiting for the first public broadcast song program of the returning year-end season.

-Anyone watching SBC Gayo Daejeon today? Oh so it's just me…?

– Hahahahaha today is it? Time flies

-Beep when the kids come out.

How old is your grandmother?

No I will correct it. There were a lot of people who just wanted to watch clips or people who only wanted to watch their idols come out late.

Still everyone could come out at least once for the opening so fans of the cast watched the beginning as a courtesy.

-Start

-Oooh

-Let's see how many newcomers we've sold this year!

A large broadcasting hall brightly lit with lights.

[☆Gayo Daejeon☆]

[Sangam Hall Live Broadcast]

And soon what appeared at the broadcast stand were male and female MCs dressed up in sparkling outfits.

However his face was different.

[Hello Gayo Daejeon viewers!]

Smiling slightly they were good-looking men and good-looking women but they were not the professions I expected.

This is because there were three active idols.

It's also the best.

[I'm VTIC's Chaeyul!]

[Younglin of St. U.]

[And the youngest MC Park Moon-dae of Testa.]

Park Moon-dae on the screen poked his cheek with a mysterious smile. The seniors standing next to me hastily suppressed their laughter.

-????

-Look at the crazy MC Jin.

-Hahahahahahahahahahaha

-Celestial world's most popular member combination hahahaha

The comment section flooded with the unexpected first-team elite party lineup.

For your information the parties involved did not expect this to happen.

Chapter 258

“everyone! Are you having a warm year-end?”

“The musicians who warmed your hearts this year are preparing a great stage once again.”

The two idols next to me did quite well.

‘It’s not like I wasted my annual leave.’

I also grabbed the microphone.

“Then shall we start with the first stage of the Gayo Daejeon where we will introduce the artists who have entertained us with the most brilliant activities this year?”

I’m the only one whose sentences are particularly long but I don’t think I’m mistaken. Is it true that script time is processed in order of seniority?

‘And who was the guy who made me stab my cheek?’

I can’t help it because of my position but why bother specifying something like this in the script? I will not forget this deliberate action.

“SBC Gayo Daejeon starts now!”

Anyway the camera rolled and the three MCs looked at the camera and smiled capitalist smiles.

And the moment the lights went out I took a light breath or adjusted my expression.

“Phew.”

“exorcism!”

The VTIC guy on the other side didn’t bother to extend his hand and pat me on the back. You really are an unnecessary senior.

“Mr. Moon Dae you did a great job!”

“thank you.”

Youngrin who was checking the script again smiled slightly and added.

“He’s still working hard.”

“thank you.”

I lowered my head repeatedly. Since there was such a difference in years of experience it was better to just be an audit bot throughout the filming.

There are fans holding cheering sticks right below the podium where we are.

Of course there are also a few camera lenses visible.

‘You hid it well.’

I glanced at the camera held by several familiar people and looked away. It’s a live broadcast anyway so it’s embarrassing to even call something like that a leak.

‘After this performance we will announce the theme of this broadcast… ’

I read through the extremely long script one more time starting with ‘Everyone enjoying the festival.’ It’s on the teleprompter but you might stutter.

‘But… Isn’t three idols a bit too much?’

To be honest this line-up is sure to be a hot topic but in terms of stability I think it would be nice to have at least one announcer to take center stage.

Since the award is not given like an acting or entertainment award I know that everyone is calculating that they will get away with it. Still I didn’t want to give it away.

And everyone seemed to have similar thoughts.

“Wow this is making me sweat! We’ve only been working on our own content but I never thought we’d suddenly be doing something like this at the end of the year! “I’ll work really hard everyone.”

First of all the guy with the longest experience boasts the aspirations of a rookie.

“Mr. Moon Dae is still a rookie so don’t be too nervous. If you get stuck while speaking just finish the sentence. “I will continue.”

This one almost seems like a professional MC. I’ve seen a lot of hosting here and there and I’m at the level of a semi-host.

“thank you.”

I looked at Youngrin.

“But the goal is to make no mistakes. “I’ll do my best.”

Youngrin smiled slightly. There is no team leader who is particularly pleased with a new employee.

“is it so.”

“and! Fighting idol!”

It’s a bit funny to see the three of them join hands and fight while holding the script but let's be satisfied that no one wants to just get over it and move on.

"How did you like the National Gugak Orchestra's special performance introducing this year's musicians?"

"It was really cool!"

"I really enjoyed watching the flashy movements because they seemed to show a bright new year."

And these three didn't make a single mistake throughout Part 1. Including me of course.

'good.'

[advertisement]

I drank water after confirming that there was an advertisement interlude at the end of Part 1. And I saw familiar faces waving at the singer's seats set up for reaction.

"Hyung you're cool! That's it!"

'I can't hear anything you're saying you guys.'

The sound and the cheering seats are so loud. Why are you having a hard time talking?

Anyway thank you for the support I waved my hand and passed the cue card again.

'If things continue like this I'll at least get an average hit.'

In the middle the VTIC guy covered up the situation where he was almost embarrassed by the self-praising script so the image of an incompetent parachute rookie idol wouldn't have stuck.

'Good luck with your driver.'

I shrugged and put down the water.

[Part 2 30 seconds ago]

And that was when the first stage of Part 2 ended and the broadcast began.

“Mr. Mundae!”

Suddenly something unexpected that wasn’t even in the script popped out.

VTIC Chaeyul thrust a large cupcake with a lit firecracker in front of my eyes.

“…??”

What is this?

“I heard that Mr. Moon Dae had a birthday a few days ago!”

“happy birthday. Mr. Moon Dae.”

Then the production crew pulls up a cone hat with dog ears underneath the camera.

“…”

I wrote it down in despair.

No I want you to tell me in advance you broadcasting stations. What is this on live broadcast…

-Smile!

There is no need to write such things down in your sketchbook. Because I’m already smiling from ear to ear.

“Haha thank you.”

-Please blow the candle!

I do it in a variety of ways.

I smiled brightly and blew out the firecracker. And pulled the dog’s ears.

It was really great to wear a suit and make fun of the public while watching the end-of-year program MC…

“thank you.”

I see guys crawling and stealing from the singer’s seats. Let’s meet when we get back to the hotel.

…for a moment.

‘Now that I think about it the opening script for Part 2 is… ’

“The next performance is a song about a beautiful birthday!”

“Isn’t this the song that made this summer shine?”

I barely managed to keep my composure as I spoke the last words.

“‘Birthday Boy’ by the 17-year-old band Gray Cable. We invite you to a special live performance.”

Was this staged for this purpose?

Are you an idol MC who loses his dignity to introduce the next song?

It wasn’t just a regular music room but I was dizzy with the idol’s duties continuing until the end of the year program.

…and this tone continues until the ending.

* * *

‘Park Moon-dae is so cute!!’

Park Moon-dae’s Homma who was holding the camera under the broadcast box almost cried with joy.

I heard a rumor from someone in charge that the College of Arts would be hosting an MC at the end of the year so it was rewarding to stay in this area!

‘This is it! This is it!’

It was really nice to see Park Moon-dae in person after a long time…

Park Moon-dae was wearing a black dress shirt underneath a neat navy blue suit and looked like an MC matching his slicked-back hair.

But he was the youngest of the MCs and wore a white ribbon tie and it was really… so cute!

Especially when receiving cupcakes!

Perhaps it was a surprise turn but Park Moon-dae was even cuter because he clearly looked embarrassed.

‘I got cream on my nose… ’

As soon as it was confirmed Park Moon-dae wiped it and the officials cleaned it up but Homma had already taken the cut.

‘ha ha ha…! ha ha ha!’

Homma who was completely excited about her first online and offline photoshoot in a long time let out her inner radiance and collected photos like crazy. You are the preview!

The fatigue that had accumulated after experiencing the extremely depressed time after the accident the crazy roller coaster-like situation and the worry-filled atmosphere of immediate activity disappeared.

I felt relieved and happy.

‘I’m really looking forward to this activity.’

It felt really good to safely return to my place. Homma smiled and adjusted his mask.

‘The condition of Mundae looks good too!’

Sometimes whenever the members made eye contact with Park Moon-dae in the singer’s box they would wave their hands and I liked how they would secretly wave at each other when the camera lights were not on.

Moreover it was clear that Park Moon-dae also found the fans’ camera lenses in the meantime. I made eye contact with this camera too!

‘Let’s be idols for the rest of our lives… ’

Park Moon-dae was clearly the anchor point in her K-pop life. Anyway that was it.

‘Transfer? There is no such thing.’

Homma’s bitter memories of drinking which saw her former idol’s advancement into society and vowed that she would never trust an idol again were shattered through a series of crazy incidents.

And part 3 in a moment.

‘Look at these guys soon! The cue sheet was correct.’

Park Moon-dae jumped up and disappeared behind the MC seat. And we also saw Testa moving around in the singer’s seat.

‘Because year-end programs don’t often provide official fancams…!’

Homma held the camera tightly with a sense of duty.

It was an extremely rewarding time.

‘It was so… good.’

And on the way home. She leaves SBC Sangam Hall satisfied.

I didn’t feel tired. No I can’t feel it because my adrenaline is rushing like crazy right now but I’ll be tired when I get home.

Anyway Park Moon-dae’s home horse was very happy.

“You’re really good on stage.”

Testa’s skills did not decrease at all.

Not even a single choreography had its difficulty adjusted or deleted.

‘No I actually felt like I had become more skilled!’

There was no trace of a traffic accident at all.

Park Moon-dae who briefly stumbled at a group concert right after being discharged from the hospital was flying around today.

The fact that he was fully armed and burning with the spirit of victory was felt both on site and through the camera lens.

Of course the composition of the stage itself was also good. The performance using shooting in ‘Spring out’ was splendid and grand fitting for the end of the year.

Homma guessed that it must have become quite a hot topic on the Internet.

‘Now… just this part!’

She excitedly got into a taxi and connected the camera capacity to her laptop to check some of the video she had shot. It was because I really wanted to think over some scenes that left an impression on me!

It was a time when I was watching the video at high speed.

'uh?'

Park Moon-dae is just finishing the stage and going up to the MC seat.

Under Park Mun-dae's black hair… bright strands were visible.

I was thrilled.

"wig…!"

Black hair whether sprayed or wigged was fake.

Park Moon-dae… escaped with black hair again!

'crazy! This album is dyed hair!'

This was a separate issue from her preference for black-haired Park Mun-dae!

'What color is it? What color is it? If I correct the lighting the color will come out better right?'

Homma could not have been this exciting and exciting. It was because this kind of pleasure was so rare.

"under…"

Homma briefly wondered whether she could tolerate spoilers until January and came up with some fun hypotheses related to the activity.

Meanwhile the captured video started playing again.

Park Moon-dae successfully returned to the MC seat by checking the cue sheet.

But when I looked at it again it was… a bit strange.

“Uh huh.”

She felt her imagination disappear for a moment.

Homma immediately enlarged Park Moon-dae’s upper body.

“…”

From the angle it seemed like I was watching Testa returning to the singer’s seat but his expression looked… bloody?

He was wiggling his eyebrows.

‘what?’

I watched Homma a few more times because it felt cheap but since only Park Moon-dae was taking pictures I couldn’t tell exactly what Park Moon-dae was watching.

And I was able to regain control of my facial expressions very quickly.

“Hmm.”

‘It must be an illusion.’

It was sick to do this with an expression that lasted only a few seconds. Homma shrugged and flipped through the video.

But it wasn’t an illusion.

* * *

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“The Mundae MC was really good.”

“thank you.”

“My brother’s dog ears birthday present… Wow!”

“Stop it.”

The long live broadcast has ended.

As soon as we joined we went by car. I was planning to go straight to the practice room and guess for another hour or two before going in.

‘MC was okay.’

The quality was as good as the stage preparation so there is nothing that bothers me.

Except for one thing I didn’t expect.

“Are you okay?”

“…I’m fine.”

“thank god…!”

This guy. Seon Ah-hyun.

When I was returning from the stage earlier I looked at the singer’s box and there were definitely a few people who greeted Sun Ah-hyun excessively.

‘It looks like they’re preparing for a collaboration stage.’

It’s okay up to that point.

The problem is that after that Sun Ah-hyun avoided eye contact and lowered her head. As if he was intimidated.

“…”

I feel uncomfortable.

I arrived at the practice room and grabbed the back of one of the guys getting out of the car.

“hey.”

“Huh? Why?”

It’s a big hit.

I saw this guy subtly cut off the people who were greeting Sun Ah-hyun when she entered the room earlier.

‘I think this guy noticed too.’

I lowered my voice a little so that the people walking in front could not hear me.

And it got straight to the point.

“I saw you… in the singer’s box. “Seon Ah-hyeon.”

“…hmm.”

Big Sejin seemed to immediately understand what he meant.

“that.”

“So did you see anything? “It looks like they are collaborating.”

The guy shrugged his shoulders.

“It’s obvious. “Ahyun must have scratched her head.”

“…!”

“Ahyeon is a good girl. “I’m just trying to press it because I’m not the type that’s good at tact.”

Big Sejin raised his eyebrows.

“There is such a thing. ‘Hey Ahyeon you get a lot of cameras. I’m jealous~ I guess you don’t have to practice much?’ “I’ll break it down for you~”

“…”

It’s so naughty that I want to hit its muzzle.

However Geun Se-jin’s tone quickly became serious.

“I guess there were one or two people who tried to act friendly? “Ahyeon was shy so he said behind her back that he was discriminating against people by classifying them so I guess that’s what happened.”

“…after.”

“Do you understand?”

“okay.”

The hierarchy is like X. Perhaps because they are similar in age these guys are no different from when they were in Azusa.

‘I thought it would be a long time since it was doing well.’

I forgot that human nature is worse when someone who is more successful than me looks easygoing.

Moreover it seemed like they were trying to win more by gathering only those with some reputation in the group.

‘I need to hear about this.’

I decided to check on Sun Ah-hyun's condition before entering the practice room.

And it was the moment when I was about to move my feet.

"for a moment."

"…!"

I was stopped.

I turned my head. Big Sejin who was holding my shoulder was shaking his head.

"Achacha Park Moon-dae you're not going to talk about this to Ahyeon are you? "I can't~"

"why."

"Hey people have pride."

Big Sejin smiled bitterly.

"Would you be able to tolerate a friend of the same age finding out about this situation? "Wouldn't you hate it more because we're close?"

"…!"

"Let Ahyun take care of it. "That's right."

Chapter 259

The night practice ended quickly and as planned. After returning to my dorm I recalled my conversation with Keun Se-jin while washing up.

Isn't that what he said after all?

'Seon Ah-hyeon's pride is hurt… la.'

I don't want to show my close peers the shame of being territorial.

"hmm."

I won't deny it. This is a perspective that has never been considered.

Maybe it's because he's the guy I've been following around since I first met him on Idol Inc. but I don't really feel like we're the same age.

'Honestly being the same age is only about appearance.'

If I had a conscience I'd say I'm the same age as him… right? Even though I don't know if I was an office worker I have clear memories of myself until I was 29.

At first it was ambiguous even if we considered them to be of the same age.

'I don't know if Sun Ah-hyun is the kind of person who cares about such things.'

I don't know if other people would know but Sun Ah-hyun is just a nice person who seems helpless so I think she would accept it gratefully.

However I admit one thing.

‘I can’t solve it every time.’

Although it was for the sake of smooth activities I always gave him a lot of instructions whenever a problem arose.

Is it time for Sun Ah-hyun to try it herself?

“Because he has solid grit.”

I shrugged.

Except for that brief moment at the awards ceremony his complexion didn’t look particularly dark so let’s leave it at that.

All you have to do is conduct an investigation to check for any signs that you may be overdoing things.

Sweet.

I got out of the shower and headed to the refrigerator. Since I’m losing weight I was thinking of drinking some ice water tonight instead of milk.

Sun Ah-hyun was not in the room.

‘It’ll be in the living room.’

And before I turned the corner of the hallway I heard a voice.

“So… if it feels like I’m praising you because I don’t like it… what do you think?”

“You don’t like me but are you praising me?”

“Uh huh. “It’s similar.”

It was a conversation between Cha Yu-jin and Sun Ah-hyun.

Cha Yu-jin was then heard answering without hesitation.

“Why do you praise me when I don’t like it?”

“I don’t know… Is it because I can’t get angry?”

“OK OK.”

The guy answered brightly.

“Then I say ‘I know~’! “I know I’m good at it!”

“Is that so…?”

“yes. “I like the compliment!”

It was an amazing mental victory method of digesting a compliment as a compliment no matter what the other person’s feelings were.

However I don’t think Sun Ah-hyun will be able to use that comfortably.

‘Why do you have to give advice to Cha Yu-jin… ’

It’s a strange idea.

For a moment I thought about waiting until the conversation was over but then I realized that was even funnier and just walked out.

As soon as our eyes met Sun Ah-hyun suddenly stood up.

“It’s radish. “Do you drink water?”

“uh.”

“here…!”

The glass of water was taken.

"…thanks."

'Is this guy's pride hurt because he receives my help?'

I still can't shake the feeling that this kind of thing seems like a voluntary thing… Anyway thank you and drink well.

I sipped my water and waited for him to resume his conversation with Cha Yu-jin.

But the conversation did not continue. Sun Ah-hyun was just confused and asked me back.

"Why why…?"

ah. Did I look at you two too much?

"Um no. "I wonder if tomorrow's practice is at 7 o'clock."

"Oh yeah. "It's 7 o'clock…!"

"Okay thank you."

I finished my sentence hesitantly.

There is no special abnormal behavior. I feel like I'm a little motivated but…

"Good~"

At that time Eun Se-jin walked out of the living room smiled heartily and patted me on the back.

…I somehow feel like that bastard is making fun of me.

'I don't know.'

Everyone take care of it.

There were so many things to do until a comeback. Let me mind my own business.

“7 o’clock is too early…”

“Go to sleep quickly.”

I went into the room checked the monitoring and stage configuration once again and then immediately lay down on the bed.

Sun Ah-hyun came home quite late and went to bed. The effort to not make a sound was virtual.

‘I’m almost crawling.’

I thought about telling him that I wasn’t sleeping but I thought he would freak out so I just left it at that.

And the next day.

After morning practice around lunchtime Sun Ah-hyun went alone to practice collaboration.

It is said that from now on the work will be done in short bursts every two or three days.

“Are you okay? “I think it would be better to eat and then go.”

“It’s okay to eat after you’re done…! “It will be soon.”

“Well then.”

“wait a minute.”

I threw one of the glucose candies to Sun Ah-hyun. I am taking this as an emergency under agreement with my trainer so I may spray some.

“Thank you so much…”

“Have a nice trip.”

“Ahyeon fighting~”

“I hope you have a rewarding practice time!”

Sun Ah-hyun hurriedly took the candy and walked out the door nodding her head.

“…”

That… It’s not like they were dragging their feet when they came in.

“brother! “Please give me candy too!”

“ruler.”

“Yay!”

I finished the remaining candy and crossed my arms.

‘As expected I’d rather look into it… ’

At that time Keun Se-jin suddenly started fanning himself with his hands.

“Ah it’s hot from practice. Shall we have some ice cream? “I heard they sell it at the health food store down here!”

“great!!”

“Oh that house. “It’s light so it’ll be fine.”

“Okay~ Then I’ll give this one more go and get it with Moon Dae!”

“…?”

Why am I here?

First of all I thought he had some kind of plan so I followed him.

And as soon as Big Sejin went out the door he burst into laughter.

“Hey Park Moon-dae! “Do you really care that much?”

“What are you talking about?”

“Do you know that Ahyeon is watching us every time we schedule? “It would be more natural to talk to you!”

“…”

No I just wanted to check your appearance before and after collaboration practice you idiot.

However Keun Se-jin burst into laughter and then stumbled.

“Ah~ Is Mundaemun University maybe a good thing? Really huh? “You have to know everything in the world and massage it to get rid of your anger?”

“Be quiet.”

“I just need to use that wonderful ability on my album talented Moon Dae~”

“…”

“That’s right if you use it to choose ice cream too… euchachacha!”

“Where?”

I sprinted to catch the one running away while the others received a mysterious delivery of ice cream bullets.

And I sat on the floor of the practice room and thought briefly.

I'm so obsessed with control?

'No I'm just trying to survive.'

Since it is about my survival right now I am concerned about the possibility of problems within the surrounding group. Isn't it some kind of biological instinct?

'And not even that much anymore.'

You wouldn't die if you flew out of the status window so the target was just a high-risk target.

'I don't waste time on unnecessary things.'

I ate an ice cream and focused on afternoon practice.

But this concentration was soon interrupted.

This is because Sun Ah-hyun's face was full of worry when she returned.

"I've been there."

"…"

That… I guess it didn't go well.

* * *

After returning Sun Ah-hyun quickly regained her complexion and joined practice but now the others were starting to notice the atmosphere as well.

"Didn't something happen while preparing for the collaboration?"

“I guess the preparations are more complicated than you think.”

However there was no signal that Seon Ah-hyeon was being overexerted. That means it’s not a big deal.

Thanks to this Sun Ah-hyun was quickly assigned ice cream and the topic died down.

Usually when it comes to things like this I just check the timing and ask about it when I’m taking a break.

And usually that’s up to the roommate or the leader… After all I’m the roommate.

‘For the sake of morality should I ask?’

But there was nothing in particular for me to talk about.

After I finished practicing I sat in my room and watched the video of my choreography practice that I had filmed earlier.

There Sun Ah-hyun spoke first.

“Hey… it’s a radish radish. “Can I ask one question?”

“okay. “What is it?”

no way?

And it turned out to be right.

“Ho if you bite me… if the people you work with are a little difficult to deal with… uh what do you do?”

“…”

It was a direct request for advice.

“It depends on the situation. “What does it mean to be difficult to deal with is it a superior?”

“Oh no that’s not it. “It makes me feel uncomfortable… It feels like I’m intentionally revealing something that isn’t sincere.”

As expected.

“Well then it’s okay to be sarcastic or ignore it as long as it’s not against etiquette. “If you do better they will bow down and come in.”

“I see.”

And at that moment I realized.

‘It’s cool inside my fucking feet.’

I think I need to know everything and be able to control it to be comfortable. Damn it.

I felt devastated about losing the first win to Keun Se-jin so I continued to listen to Sun Ah-hyun. To understand the situation in more detail.

But Sun Ah-hyun… seemed a little embarrassed.

No not much.

“I’m sorry. “I’m not good at doing things on my own so I feel like I’m always getting help.”

“…?”

“The other members are all good but I think there’s something wrong with me. Even after consulting and practicing it doesn’t work…”

Why does the story turn out like that?

“There’s no problem with you. what’s the matter.”

“I’m like this every time I meet people my age… It’s been like that from the beginning…”

“…”

Perhaps because she was so embarrassed Sun Ah-hyun forgot to ask for advice as if it was a third-party problem.

“When was the first time?”

“When I was in middle school… when I was doing ballet.”

Sun Ah-hyun hesitated and spoke briefly. My voice trembled.

“I hurt my ankle… but everyone was so happy…”

I got goosebumps all the time.

“They weren’t all mean kids but I think from then on I felt like I didn’t like being around that age group…”

“…”

I got up.

“First of all I’ve never seen a member who didn’t like being with you.”

“Because everyone is nice…”

“You are the one with the best personality in this group. And you were also a courtesy middle school student.”

“huh? “Ugh.”

“You were the senior.”

“And at least a few times…”

When Sun Ah-hyun says something like that it means that she ate it all the time.

I crossed my arms.

Sun Ah-hyun's parents who seemed cultured or professional counselors would not have talked about it this way so I'll just have to do it myself.

"Listen. "Everything you've been through so far was done by envious bastards."

"Huh?"

"I did it because I was pissed because the handsome guy was really good at dancing. Did you understand?"

"Ha but… oh okay."

Sun Ah-hyun seemed to be pushed by force and nodded. Good.

"So don't pay attention to those bastards who look in the mirror every day and shout 'I'm such a good guy' 10 times and turn their eyes away in jealousy. Do you understand?"

"I only did that at the beginning of the consultation…"

"Do it again."

Sun Ah-hyun's face showed that she was embarrassed in a different way than just before but in the end she nodded with difficulty.

And suddenly I picked something out of his words.

"Wait a minute so you got a criminal record…"

Was it because of bullying that you switched from ballet to modern dance?

However Sun Ah-hyun hastily shook her head.

“Oh no…! “You said that ballet… is a waste of your body type.”

“form?”

“Ugh ballet is so… it’s good for the insteps to be round. I’m not like that… I also have a small pelvis. So he recommended that I take a path that would allow me to do better.”

I get it roughly.

Sun Ah-hyun is talented in dancing but her body type makes her more advantageous in becoming a top dancer than in ballet.

So I quickly changed it before preparing for college entrance exams… I guess that’s it.

In the end this guy came to the idol industry not the dance industry but he is doing well and making a lot of money so that’s a good thing.

“And now I’m putting to good use what I learned about modern dance so it’s okay.”

“Is that so…?”

Sun Ah-hyun smiled. But soon he lowered his head with a slightly dark look on his face.

“Actually today… a story about modern dance came up.”

“At collaboration practice?”

“Ugh.”

Sun Ah-hyun nodded. And he spoke with a bit of resentment in his voice.

“Oh since it’s such a difficult move none of us will show up and only Ahyeon will show up.” “I’m jealous and congratulations…”

They are truly people in capitalist society who have a knack for saying things like crazy.

“…So you couldn’t answer?”

“Oh no. “I answered but…”

Sun Ah-hyun blushed.

“Now I’m not sure. I just said ‘Thank you for saying that I’ll do well.’ But…”

“…”

“Yujin said it’s okay to just accept compliments as compliments… Is that okay? “Everyone didn’t have an answer…”

I barely answered.

“uh. “Good job.”

Surprisingly Sun Ah-hyun might be the type of person who gets along well without any malicious intent.

Big Sejin was right once again when he said there was no need to worry.

…Still the conversation earlier was something worth having at least once.

“Just do it. “Because you did well.”

“Uh yeah.”

Sun Ah-hyeon’s face brightened.

And I readily admitted defeat.

'…Let's prepare the album well.'

And two weeks later on December 31st.

The airing of MBS's music program which marks the last day of the year is just around the corner.

And the stage where Testa members appeared for the first time was a collaboration stage in which Sun Ah-hyun participated.

Chapter 260

When Testa was busy preparing for a live broadcast on the last day of the year.

“You started early too.”

Homma an office worker who takes pictures of Park Moon-dae and Lee Se-jin clicked her tongue as she watched the second part of the MBS Gayo Daejejeon in which they were to appear almost come to an end.

It was funny that he could only rest in front of the TV because he was working overtime right before the New Year but it was also funny that a program that ran until past midnight started before 9 o’clock.

And actually she didn’t really need to see this from now on.

The tester won’t come out until a long time later.

‘Because I work overtime I’ve already requested upload data.’

So the reason I’m watching it now is because of mild interest.

‘I’m a bit curious about what the Sun Ah-hyun collaboration will be like.’

Of course it wasn’t a question of skill.

In fact in the group message room where some of Parkmoon University’s homeowners gathered there was some conversation about Al-Eum-Al-Eum.

About the bloody eyes that Park Moon-dae showed for a very brief moment on the day he saw the MC at SBC.

‘It rarely happens.’

Park Moon-dae was the type of person who refined himself surprisingly well in front of the camera.

Of course there were a few times when my eyes got worse during the summer package perhaps not as much as Lee Se-jin’s but… that was almost the only flaw.

This time too it was so brief that there was no need for controversy but the homemakers felt like they didn’t know why so they analyzed the angle and even found the singer’s seat at that timing.

And confirmed.

-Greetings from the collaboration kids and Sasumi…

– Hahahaha um

-It seems like it’s engraved but don’t say anything teachers.

So they had already reached an assumption that was quite similar to the truth saying ‘Ahyun seems to have had a hard time preparing for the collaboration stage.’

Of course conscious of the threat of capture and public discussion I deleted it without mentioning it in detail but office workers were there anyway.

‘Isn’t Sun Ah-hyun mentally broken?’

After guessing the story behind it I wanted to check out this stage. I was wondering if it would really be noticeable.

She updated her SNS account and watched TV indifferently.

[Coming up!]

[Gayo Daejejeon Special Stage]

[Winter boys]

The special stage arrangement was the end of Part 2.

It was a typical composition of gathering juniors and having them perform a hastily staged performance to the songs of legendary first-generation KPOP seniors.

‘It’s still tacky.’

She watched TV with considerable skepticism as she heard that half of the first generation seniors were killed by drunk drivers.

I felt a bit regretful that I was playing a song that a member I wasn’t interested in was playing a song I wasn’t interested in.

Soon mechanical accompaniment came out. It was music arranged for a dance performance without a song.

-Wee Oo Wee Oo

I guess I spent a lot of money on the electronic display board and floor which had LED effects like a water hole and it was quite nice.

‘Of course it will cool down the moment you start dancing.’

She expected a group shot that was sure to be a mess saying that the busy people must have practiced individually but the group dances were well coordinated.

But the moment the choreography starts.

-Oo-u Oo Oo-u Oo

It felt like decent quality.

“hmm?”

And she immediately knew the cause using her many years of KPOP experience.

‘The center is doing well.’

And the opening center was Sun Ah-hyun.

“oh.”

At the beginning the acrobatic movements using long limbs were different.

Even though the camera was terrible at capturing the scene Sun Ah-hyun’s movements almost created an optical illusion as if she was capturing the scene well.

There was no need for synchronized dance. The performer in the center was overwhelmingly good so it seemed as if everyone was doing well.

No wait.

“cancellation.”

However four seconds later she clicks her tongue when she sees the mess in the corner where everyone wakes up late or almost falls on the floor.

‘It’s ruined.’

Originally year-end collaborations where busy people gathered together for a one-off performance tended to end up like this but somehow it felt even more sloppy.

It was a stark contrast to when Sun Ah-hyun was at the center.

“Is Sun Ah-hyun the only winner?”

The office worker looked at the screen with interest wondering if this was a difference in competency.

Sun Ah-hyun seemed to be the only one who benefited from the fact that the choreography was closer to dance rather than general broadcast dance.

He said he majored in ballet and modern dance and it seems like he studied each aspect longer than the average in this industry.

A close-up of Sun Ah-hyun caught on camera filled the screen.

The shining eyes on her beautiful face as she placed one hand on the floor was unexpectedly strong.

I knew she had a pretty face but this was surprising.

'I thought I wouldn't be able to show my full skills because I couldn't show off my skills.'

She revised her judgment.

Since Lee Se-jin and Park Moon-dae are in the same group I thought they would join in as a favor but it seems like they have a strong platform of their own.

Without taking her eyes off the TV she watched Sun Ah-hyun's dance performance until it reached the end.

And if this reaction were changed to something more extreme it would be the viewer's reaction.

* * *

"Ahyeon is amazing!"

"It was really cool."

"Thank you. thank you…!"

Sun Ah-hyun blushed and returned to the waiting room.

“I’m saying this because there’s no camera but wow Ahyeon did the best job~”

“that’s right! My brother did a great job on his own! “Others didn’t do well…”

“Hey that’s a bit much.”

Any words that did not go through Cha Yu-jin’s brain were quickly suppressed. Sun Ah-hyun’s face looks like she’s about to break out in a cold sweat.

In fact the other guys also said they did well during practice. No matter how much personality they have they are also professionals with time.

The problem came from the field.

“That’s because the bar floor is a bit slippery…”

Because it was a live broadcast there was a time calculation mistake and the water sprayed as an effect on the previous stage did not dry properly.

However since only Sun Ah-hyun moves normally that will be the loser’s excuse.

“But you didn’t slip!”

“It’s because I’ve practiced before…!”

“As expected you have accumulated your past experiences to achieve your current skills! “I respect you!”

“Uh uhm thank you…”

Like this.

‘That’s too bad.’

Originally it would have been met with criticism but when the facts were revealed it would have ended with public criticism of the broadcasting station's poor workspace.

As things turned out like this Sun Ah-hyun ended up going up in rank alone.

-Seon Ah-hyun isn't a popular member of the first team for no reason. That's cool.

-It is a one-top line that is just like a man's stone.

-Even from modern dance and ballet auditions? Honestly I think it's a combination that can't be resisted haha.

Checking the current public opinion it appears that the trend is similar to what was expected.

'good.'

It was refreshing and everything was good. Everything is going well.

Except that this waiting room is not a private room.

"We had a good time too Ahyeon!"

"yes yes! Thank you…"

"We used to be similar… Ah Shinno didn't you cover Battle A senior's stage here back then?"

"It's not me it's Cheongryeo hyung. "My brother is our Medan."

"Wow that's right! Anyway I did something similar and it reminds me of that time right?"

"…"

VTIC shares this waiting room.

And you're even trying to participate in Testa's conversation.

'Why did it end up like this?'

Actually I kind of understand why we share a room.

Since VTIC is actually the top company in the industry they seem to have a tendency to make people uncomfortable by making them share it with their seniors.

However even if you put them in groups that are too radically different from each other they would be shocked so it seems that Testa who seemed close to them was ultimately chosen as their roommate.

They had managed to invite people who could go to the American New Year's program here so of course they had no choice but to pay attention.

'Damn it.'

I understand that much but these bastards seem to have not developed interpersonal skills in the 9 years they have been active so they keep trying to get involved in the kids' play.

'Stop it.'

However he is dragging other people into the conversation.

"Do you remember me too? "It's a special performance at the end of the year!"

"huh."

Cheongryeo who was getting her hair done by a stylist raised the corners of her mouth.

"I did a lot."

"…"

I can't believe I have to start the new year with this bastard. It would have been better to be exiled to an outdoor stage.

"Guys Sejin is coming out."

"Oooh!!"

At that time Liu Chengwu who was sitting on the sofa called the others together.

On the screen of the smartphone that Ryu Cheong-woo was looking at… there was an acting contest going on in the next town.

[hello. This is Ahn So-hyun.]

[hello. This is Bae Se-jin from Testa.]

Bae Se-jin entered with the only successful member of 'Soft and Sweet' as an actor.

He looked a little nervous but he was dressed neatly so he definitely looked like an actor.

"Oh a suit."

"There was very little time so you must have had a hard time setting it up."

"Hyung you're handsome!"

As expected Bae Se-jin on screen calmly continued the proceedings while people even made comments saying that she would have to wear a suit for her next album.

[We who have experience in idol activities are standing on the podium together. I think you must be thrilled to be appearing at the Drama Awards today. Sejin!]

[yes. It's been a while so I feel like I need to do better. Thank you so much for having me.]

“Young brother you are really good at it…!”

“I know.”

Bae Se-jin had good pronunciation and did not tremble.

[I started doing dramas after working as an idol but Sejin is against it right? How are your idol activities?]

[yes. I am a member of a group called Testa… It is a very enjoyable and rewarding time. I met a lot of good people.]

“oh…”

“Oh is this our story?”

“…I guess so.”

Bae Se-jin smiled faintly on the small screen. And there was a sense of awkward warmth among those watching the screen.

“Oh you seem so sincere.”

“Testa is cool~”

No you guys go back to your seats.

I tapped Keun Se-jin once who had a strange expression on his face without saying a word. The guy shrugged his shoulders with a sheepish look on his face.

‘After all time is the answer.’

It seems like they have come to accept each other. Looking at the way these guys live these days it seems like they have the worst relationship as roommates.

[The fields are different but I will do my best to show a side that is not embarrassing in either case. Now let me tell you about the categories we will be awarding today.]

Bae Se-jin finished the remaining awards well and gave a closing comment saying “I will see you again if I have a good opportunity.”

And a while later when Bae Se-jin arrived through the congested highway.

“…I’m here.”

“Oh!”

“You were really cool bro!”

“It was great.”

“Thank you so much… But because this was originally a short script!”

“No it’s cool! Thanks for talking to us!”

“…! “Oh no.”

“Not us?”

“No… that’s true!”

There was a rain of strong welcome greetings. Bae Se-jin’s face became bright.

But that atmosphere did not last long.

“Hello~ The award ceremony was great!”

“…Oh yeah. thank you.”

Bae Se-jin greeted VTIC who was pretending to know her but cast a suspicious glance and quietly retreated to the test section of the waiting room.

I guess you didn't forget that I had a dog fight with Cheongnyeo.

"brother. "Change your clothes first."

"…yes!"

I spent some time in the corner of the waiting room with him.

And it was still before Testa's performance.

"Yes everyone are you enjoying watching the Song Festival the last and most spectacular entertainment of the year?"

"It will soon be a new year."

We were called out onto the huge main stage to welcome the New Year.

On the way out it was nice to deliberately greet the poor people who were KO'd by Sun Ah-hyun but it seems that some of them had a different problem.

"cold."

"Be quiet Cha Yu-jin! "A lot of people will be watching the new year so let's start it off happily!"

"You're not even smiling!"

"I'm going to laugh now!"

"stop."

I caught two guys who were fighting and had them put their arms around my shoulders.

On a stage lined with all kinds of idols and singers we settled down in front of what seemed to be a number of familiar light sticks.

‘Even if it’s just a fancam it has to come out well.’

There was a place designated by the production team but the boundaries got blurred anyway as people flocked there.

“Wow a whole year has already passed~”

“Uh huh! It seems like it went by so quickly…”

We exchanged small words so that the people around us wouldn’t be picked up by the microphone. The countdown slowly began.

“3!”

“2!”

“1!”

As the pollen explodes the lights and sounds increase.

“Happy New Year!!”

pop.

Another strange thing happened as I entered the new year among people clapping and shouting.

“Testa shows something again this year~”

“I hope it will be a year in which we are healthy free of accidents and release great songs!”

Arms and encouragement were exchanged roughly. Likewise when I say hello to the wildly shaking light stick this time the light stick shakes like crazy.

‘My arm doesn’t really hurt.’

Yeah whatever. If it’s good it’s okay.

At that time an arm poured over my shoulder.

“Mundae you worked hard! From now on let’s just work hard and have less trouble~”

“Now please take care of me…!”

“…okay. “Happy New Year.”

I exchanged high fives and well-wishes with the members.

I felt a little strange.

‘But it’s a new year.’

There was a significant risk of falling behind in the middle but I somehow managed to get through it and face the new year as an idol.

This time last year I thought this might be the last time.

“…hmm.”

It was a bit pleasant.

“happy new year!”

The first stage of the new year was very cold loud lively and bright.

* * *

Next on the colorful New Year countdown. The main stage was being quickly cleaned up for the next stage.

And Testa was scheduled to wait right below.

Because the next stage was us.

The problem is that when I got off the stage and took a break to go to the bathroom I ran into this guy again.

“I’ll see you again soon this year. “Because there are always award ceremonies in January.”

“I guess so.”

Cheongryeo.

If this bastard is going to say such obvious things he shouldn’t disturb the few people left on standby…

“Your junior released a new song on January 5th… and the new song was performed at the awards ceremony right? “Well that’s a brave choice.”

“…”

I stopped.

‘A brave choice?’

This nuance is… Testa is losing money with the new song.

“Oh I don’t know.”

“…”

“You don’t know. There is no source of information. Right? “My junior that will be the biggest problem going forward.”

Cheongnyeo’s eyes sparkled slightly. And he spoke in a tone of advice to his juniors.

“I don’t have any connections.”

“…”

“Um… let’s just say it’s a New Year’s gift.”

Cheongryeo laughed.

“Do you know that Youngrin is preparing for activities?”

“…I heard it.”

I remembered something I heard from Youngrin in passing while preparing for the MC last time.

I thought I would do well whenever I came out because I am the one with the best music records among all the idols and former idol soloists.

‘…for a moment.’

no way…

Cheongryeo smiled bitterly.

“I didn’t know the timing. “That’s a breakthrough song to commemorate the New Year.”

“…!!”

“January 4th. So… it’s just one day from my junior’s group.”

Oh fuck.

Chapter 261

As soon as the live broadcast ended I called the company and spoke to the person on duty in the management office.

It seems like it will be released at the same time as Younglin.

And it is said that the company was turned upside down. It was worth it. If I were to summarize Younglin's recent performance it would be like this.

'Ranked 3rd on Korea's largest music site per year.'

To provide comparative data the annual ranking of Testa's latest song 'Call' is 37th.

Moreover there are only four Younglin songs in the TOP 50 on this annual chart. Two title songs one OST and one entertainment collaboration song.

It was a flagship figure.

'I can never win.'

Not only is it popular but it also has a fairly solid fan base so there's no room to delve into it.

In short the simultaneous release of music… was no different from an honorable death.

Of course it wasn't just the company that turned over.

"With senior Youngrin?"

"yes."

“under…”

The first meeting of the new year was also convened within the group.

I started the new year with a lot of work to do but in reality that wasn’t even that important compared to this situation.

I decided with utmost calmness.

‘You deliberately told me now.’

There were four days left until the comeback but it was impossible to move the date.

Cheongryeo was telling us to at least prepare our minds in a situation where no major response was possible anyway.

If it is a favor it can be seen as a favor so there is no need to expend emotions. From a competitive standpoint this may be a bit frustrating but it is beneficial.

…Yes it’s right to be angry.

“Mundae.”

“why.”

“Are you sure about that information? “Where did you hear that?”

“VTIC told me.”

Big Sejin looked at me with mysterious eyes. To roughly interpret it it means ‘Isn’t that what you’re saying is to fuck you?’

okay. Just in case I checked that too.

I threw my smartphone and said this.

“Just in case I asked Youngrin directly. that’s right.”

“Whoa.”

Since there were less than four days left and the comeback period overlapped Younglin didn’t necessarily lie.

However I was curious.

-It’s been a while since I decided but it’s surprising that Moon Dae knows.

I heard the staff talking but they said they asked just in case.

I’m sure the crew I work with will get caught up in the process but compared to our current situation there’s no time to worry about that.

‘I’m going crazy.’

I pressed my temples. At that time Cha Yu-jin raised her hand.

“hey! “I have a question!”

“Okay tell me Eugene.”

“Why can’t we work together with senior Youngrin?”

Liu Chengwu answered.

“…Senior Youngrin has a strong image of being trusted and listened to. “We will be pushed back a lot on the music charts.”

“You don’t know before you do it! Try it!”

Yes the ambition is bold and good… but it was a matter of atmosphere.

We’ve worked hard on our regular schedule like this but how much will our morale drop if we don't even get first place in the real-time rankings of music sources?

And as time goes by Younglin will gain more users so this situation which was released exactly one day after Younglin's new song was really the worst.

Younglin's new song was released when the popularity of her music was at its peak.

'You'll never get first place unless you're a site on the outskirts of town.'

The regular record has collapsed.

"…"

And Cha Yu-jin shrugged her shoulders when she saw the mood of the members who were still immersed in thoughts and worries.

"OK. It's okay if we don't win first place! We're good at it. All you have to do is put on a great performance!"

"…!"

"I'm going first on stage!"

It was a simple statement. However the atmosphere was somewhat refreshed.

"Yes it's our first album in a while so it's important to do well and finish it safely."

"That's right. W Because I prepared hard… wouldn't it be a fun activity if I focused on showing a good side of me…?"

Yes such positive thinking is good too.

However… I like winning after all.

Let's think.

I tapped my fingers on the living room floor.

'How to beat Younglin on the music charts?'

First of all it was clear that Younglin was not promoting this song at all and there was almost no word of it in the industry.

Younglin's reaction and this company's reaction are also the same.

'No matter what it's T1 and I know all the rumors about the comeback of quite a few major singers.'

Younglin himself said that it was only a few days ago that the new year was decided so in this case Cheongryeo has particularly good information but most people do not know.

'Then if Testa takes aim at that point and focuses its public promotion on entertainment… '

No this is not it. Everything that will be aired at the end of the year has already been released and there are already enough entertainment shows that were aired at the beginning of the year. Increasing it further will only increase image consumption.

'hmm.'

While I was rubbing the back of my neck I made eye contact with Kim Rae-bin who had a dark expression.

"…Do you really care?"

"yes? "Oh no!"

okay. You deserve more attention. Because you touched half of this album.

I was honestly embarrassed when I found out that even when the uninhabited island was shipwrecked they were working with that measurable battery.

“It’s just… I’m a bit worried that there are many listeners who don’t even try to listen to our songs because their desire to discover new songs has been satisfied by senior Youngrin’s new songs.”

Yes it means that you are worthy of worrying so much that sentences like this pour out after being nudged once.

And I was getting the point right.

“that’s right. “If a person with strong popularity gets all the attention those with a relatively stronger fandom than the public often end up in their own league.”

It was an inevitable trend.

“…”

I thought about it some more and finally opened my mouth.

“So for now I think we have to assume that no matter what we do we can’t win in music.”

“…I guess so.”

“Umm~”

“But I think we’ll win first place on music shows.”

Bae Se-jin who had a serious face was a little surprised.

“…how?”

“Is that because Senior Youngrin only releases music and we release albums? “There is an album score right?”

“ah.”

That's right. It's been a while since we last went to Jeongguk High School and Younglin is just a surprise single to celebrate the new year.

'The fans will try to somehow raise the other scores and give us first place.'

Because trophies are important.

I am grateful and sorry but the public reaction to this was easily predictable.

-Honestly Youngrin should have been first but Seombyeol pushed it with a fan.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Solo who didn't do any publicity VS a story-telling commercial Oji is a stranger ㅋㅋ aren't you embarrassed?

-Testa ㅊㅋㅊㅋ~ The fans worked hard.

-Wow it's really distorted. In reality everyone only listens to young songs;

With the first full-length album since the accident it is time to elevate the group's story.

At a time when the people watching the testa should be filled with mulberry Hong will cool off from a victory that only hurts.

So in the end there is a line that cannot be backed away from.

'Even if the music is given the topicality should not be lost.'

We must maintain the public perception that we 'deserve first place'. This is the Maginot Line.

"I would like to suggest that you only aim for average hits based on the loss of music and go all-in on topicality to somehow make your activities famous."

“…!”

“The order of publicity announcement mentions… everything.”

Extreme selection and concentration were required.

I spoke and each member seemed lost in thought.

And the first person raised his hand.

“I agree. It’s the most reasonable right? “There is no other way.”

“okay. “This is a time when strategy is important.”

Kim Rae-bin also nodded.

“I believe that as our activities become more popular more people will try to listen to our songs even if it is late.”

He’s a pretty steadfast guy.

I chuckled and then nodded.

Bae Se-jin opened his mouth with a nervous face.

“So do you have any ideas on how to make it topical?”

“We’ll have to discuss the specifics a bit more but… wouldn’t shock be the answer?”

This was the right thing to do if Younglin wanted to steal the spotlight with a surprise announcement.

“First let’s hit people in the back.”

“…??”

reversal. The unexpectedness.

* * *

Time passed and January 5th came.

Testa's new song music video was released smoothly at midnight that day.

The title is 'Wheel (Day)'.

-Spin the wheel

So that it flies far away

The melody resonates and is beautiful

It touches my heart let it pop

The music video was beautiful.

An amusement park in the middle of the day with sunlight shining through.

The dreamy filter and the overlapping effect of time and space gave off a mysterious atmosphere.

It boasted excellent visual beauty in an old amusement park as beautiful as something out of a novel captured by a fixed camera.

Also the strange and unrealistic scenery such as a member appearing in the foreground and another member in the corner of the screen created a strange feeling.

-Knock knock knock

A mixture of space and time.

A boy standing with his arms outstretched in front of a spinning golden Ferris wheel and the blue sky.

From anyone's perspective it was a spiritually authentic successor to the debut song 'Magical Boy'. It is a masterpiece that is faithful to the worldview and leaves you with a subtle emotion.

However… I was a bit bored.

-The song is really goodㅠㅠ

-It's good to hear as we welcome the new year.

-It feels a bit like a carol and I'm excited.

Even though fans said that they couldn't shake the cold feeling that they had been 'bitten'.

This is because the momentum of Younglin's new song which was suddenly released yesterday was enormous.

-Awesome Younglin hahahaha

-Wow if this is the case what should I do with the testa?

-Good fun (popcorn)

-The Testa sound source is kekeㅠㅠ I express my condolences in advance… Too bad they said it was regular.

It was not a lightning strike out of the dry sky but fans were shocked and puzzled wondering what kind of disaster this was just a day before the comeback.

Among the goals we were aiming for it was almost as if the music sector had been declared unachievable.

-Oh why?

-I prepared for each child but why is this happening? ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-I bet everything on him and liked him but now I'm so upset that I feel like I've been hit with cold water.

– Hahaha T1

-Please stop shouting before you open the lid… It's been a while since we've done a testa activity so let's enjoy it we just have to work hard.

Still I waited for the music video but what Testa brought was a sound source that was easy to listen to so I was lamenting.

In addition some of the elements I had expected were different which made me even less excited.

-Mundae has black hair.

-LOL… I think it was just reflected light.

-Ah hahahaha mmm

In particular fans who were excited while looking at Park Moon-dae's year-end photos and said that it was clear that his hair was dyed black were somewhat shocked.

The same was true for other members. It was all natural hair. The atmosphere was there but it somehow lacked impact.

A comeback with a music superpower that will never be able to win no matter what they do.

After failing so many times in the most important regular event I felt drained and defeated.

-Let's just stream hard.

-This time it's a new song so please let's do it properly. The kids worked so hard but it's a bit ㅠㅠ

First fans worked hard to stream the pre-released title song from the album on music sites but the results were as expected.

[Failed to rank first in real-time entry into testa]

[Comparison of Youngrin and Testa entry graphs]

[Somewhat shocking testa sound source]

For the first time in a while excited Testa aggroes were rampant on all kinds of sites.

Just as there were many people who wanted Testa to do better there were also many who were intrigued by their poor performance.

-The testa song is good but there is a limit to the number of people. There are quite a few differences between users.

-Fans clenched their teeth and streamed and followed this much. Muggle picks are always young lol.

-Did you try to concentrate your firepower by pre-releasing the title? If they had just lined up the included songs they would have been in good shape but they seem to be losing their shape even more.

Even though they made a comeback they were in a situation where they were losing energy.

It would have been nice if they could just close their eyes and ears and just enjoy the content but fans are having a bit of a hard time because of the minds of people who can't do that.

[202X ToneA / 01. 08. Fri]

The day has come when the T1A Awards Ceremony where Testa's first comeback stage will be held will be aired.

Fans still waited for the members' performance with anticipation and energy restored by being able to see the stage.

I expected that it would probably be a leisurely and light stage like 'Picnic'.

But their expectations were shattered.

-????

-Crazy beautyヘ;ㄴ

In a good way.

After a long wait of three hours what appeared from behind the stage were seven figures wearing giant doll masks that could be used by amusement park employees.

However the vague and clear feeling of the pre-released music video was nowhere to be found.

What took its place were intense luminous funk zippers and gloss.

Black gangster.

Wherever the light passed the luminous paint splattered randomly on the doll masks flashed.

[Wow.]

The guys dressed up in stage costumes like delinquents walked out without hesitation and took poses shaking their cute doll masks that made you feel uncomfortable.

And at the beginning the flashy movements that make you feel like you're riding a human motorcycle.

Drr Drr Drrrrrrrrrr-!

A bass that sounds like a racing engine exhaust sound.

The electronic sound mixed with the applause beat of snare and bell sounds on top heightened the atmosphere.

The lighting flashed between warm and cool colors.

The members achieved exquisite balance in an instant with choreography that quickly caught up with each other.

And the dog riding member popped out between the large pieces that were pulled from both sides and split apart!

He picked up the mask and threw it away.

[Hi?]

It was Park Moon-dae.

Her permed side-swept pink hair flutters.

-omg

The double title of this album which we deliberately waited for without pre-releasing.

‘Drill (Night)’ has begun.

Chapter 262

When Testa's new song music video was first released this was the stage style people expected.

-The dance style tickles you?

-It looks like a refreshing sweet jeans and white tees and school uniformㅠㅠ

-Refreshing and soft feeling that feeling you get at a picnic

And the stage unfolding now was exactly… the opposite.

The black costumes flashed under the fluorescent LED lights and white spotlights on the black stage.

Each member entering the intro center showed a proud face by roughly throwing the doll mask they were wearing to one side of the stage.

Swish.

The eyes on the doll mask glistened in the moving spotlight.

[Good luck! Come on in

Step on today and go faster

Run hurry up

Burning Giant

Night of Immortality]

The seven people wearing rider jackets and leather pants that fit their arms perfectly glided across the dark stage and put together an exhilarating choreography.

Whenever the LED luminous paint in the background scatters between movements and collisions intimidating walker boots cut the beat.

There was even a member who kicked the doll mask off with a walker as if it were choreography. It was Lee Se-jin's part.

The power and composure gave a bad feeling.

Not only Park Moon-dae who was the first hitter but each time the members took off their masks colorful colors popped out.

It was a strong color that contrasted with the black costume.

[Bouncing stroke

piston joint

[A burning engine]

The song only consisted of extreme elements such as extreme low-pitched or high-pitched melodies and rap but the hook and composition were good so it caught on at first listen.

[Run faster

split the sky

[This is a stunt that goes beyond the night]

And the rushing feeling that was building up until just before the drop of the pre-chorus changes face with a prolonged exclamation.

[Yeaaaaah—]

After the fading accompaniment and voice what breaks the short silence is… a whistle.

[Whee-Whee-Whee-Ik!]

And the iconic choreography of the chorus where everyone moves as one person.

The riff melody that sticks well to the song adds to the addictiveness and rhythm.

The playful mime-like choreography that uses whistle-like sounds and even zanpaku goes well together.

[Jump off]

Cha Yu-jin who was alone at the center with dark hair grinned.

What stood out was that he was the only member who was a hair dye agent and had pitch black hair.

In addition he had colorful scarlet-colored lenses placed on his eyes.

[There is no need for a parachute

just run

[Come in]

The sound of hard boots scraping against the smooth floor reached the microphone.

The whistle melody was fast and cheerful but the use of minor notes made it feel somewhat uneasy and mischievous.

[This night in the middle of the night

just wake up

[Come in]

The screaming siren became a beat along with the melody.

[Like a drill

Warning Warning Emergency]

The choreography of jumping over the members' arms and legs in exquisite poses as if riding an amusement ride and then falling was intense.

Regardless of whether you like it or not it was at the level of performance for a survival program.

[That's a thrill Ha!]

The ending arrived at a rapid pace.

The dancers came out with new doll masks and put them on Sun Ah-hyun the center of the last dance break as if it were a performance.

And in the meantime the members wearing identical doll masks form the ending formation.

It was a powerful yet comical movement that involved bending the neck of the doll mask crookedly like a wooden doll.

Kkeeeeeeeee!

A sound like a bike with brakes spread across the stage.

The lights suddenly turn off.

[Drill]

That's how the stage ended.

But the audience's reaction has just begun.

* * *

– and me

– Hahahahahahahahahahahaha

-Testa! Testa 1 Testa! Testa!

– Hahahaha that's crazy.

Screams admiration and laughter came from everywhere from the audience at the scene to live broadcasts on the Internet.

There was no noble interpretation or meaning on stage.

People were excited by the crazy performance and song which was aimed only at achieving the WOW point.

Because it was an activity song made to do that.

-I love it so much. As expected Testa is the best to watch on stage haha.

-This house is good at twists and turns.

-What is Park Moon-dae's rap? No what color is everyone's hair? I like it.

-When I take off the doll mask I get a little goosebumps and feel embarrassed but I'm sick of it.

It was a stage that possessed all three virtues: an intense and fun performance a personality that even slightly manic elements and the unexpectedness that fans love.

The more serious fans excitedly tore into the stage and enjoyed a taste of the new activity until the night.

The atmosphere in the fandom which had cooled down once due to the co-starring with Younglin heated up again.

Because there has never been such a pleasant and appropriate twist!

-Coloring your hair color

00:26 Park Moon-dae pink / 00:38 Lee Se-jin ash blonde / 00: 51 Kim Rae-bin silver hair / 01: 02 Sun Ah-hyun light purple…

-Bae Se-jin's blue hair is so good. It's a human summer school ticket ㅠㅠ

-I thought the blue-wool dyeing wouldn't suit me but there is no such thing as a Northern Grand Duke. The gray color is perfect. Let's stuffed the wolf mask and throw it away and become a wolf.

-I compared the pre-released song and the accompaniment and there is quite a bit of overlap. Is there something more related to the lyrics?

– Release the music quickly. The company is asking if you don't row when the water comes in.

And before the fun time is over. Testa immediately released a new music video at midnight that day.

[TeSTAR 'Drill (Night)' Official MV]

-omg

-No what is happening?

-Already??

-I released all the crazy music too haha.

-Are you finally going to row when the water comes in?

The buzz that arose on stage was carried over to the music video. So the buzz exploded once again.

The music video captured only the charm of visual beauty and group dance with extremely high purity.

Inside the night-opening amusement park which sparkled with firecrackers and glow-in-the-dark lights members dressed in exaggerated costumes continued their shooting and acrobatic choreography.

Wearing a doll mask and riding a wild motorcycle with a siren sounding I rode through the fairy square.

-It's a fantasy amusement park day/night concept.

-Of course idol music videos are like watching group dance.

Thanks to the outstanding talent of the members the performance was not shy and was simply full of attractive power. It was fun because it was a bit creepy and strange and most of all it was a fun picture for the eyes.

Of course there was nothing that was directly seen as a worldview element but it wasn't completely remote either.

————————=

[Is the music video crazy?]

The scenes of the drill wheel and music video are all connected by time slot.

(Link) Here in front of the carousel in front of the Ferris wheel and in front of the mirror it's all the same composition.

The more you look the more you'll find

————————=

-Goosebumps

-I can’t believe you connected it like this.

-Crazy Crazy I saw this post and tried it but if you play the drill in reverse the wheel chorus melody appears (file)

Awesome

The interlude was somehow unique… Wow… Wow…

ㄴㅠㅠㅠAhhhh it’s so much fun. I need to see my album as soon as possible. ㅠㅠ

This is because it was symmetrical with other titles.

It was quite fun to see the coolness and mystery of the day change into the extremeness and splendor of the night.

And Testa had no intention of using this pre-released title as a throwaway card.

On the second day of ToneA which was held for two consecutive days they also performed ‘Wheel (Daytime)’.

[Spin the wheel

[To fly again]

It was a beautiful and refreshing performance that used camera work to the limit on a large stage set that seemed to have been taken straight from an amusement park.

The reaction to this stage which would have originally been pretty good even attracted attention due to the contrast with the ‘Drill (Night)’ stage that was released earlier.

Moreover it raised Testa’s reputation to the next level.

-Testa has a really wide spectrum. It will be fun to be a fan.

-Wow if there are two original titles it's right to have different feelings. It's amazing that they are so drastically different.

-After all a singer has to be good at his/her job…

-Oh I lined up the music. It's hard to do this with a surprise release at midnight… ㅊㅋㅊㅋ

Testa's strategy of gaining all the buzz other than being number one in music was a huge success.

However the person in charge of planning this matter was biting his tongue with a somewhat disappointing aftertaste.

* * *

'Mission clear doesn't appear.'

I frowned when I saw the mission window still counting down.

In fact I won the grand prize once at ToneA. The Artist of the Year Award.

'It was possible because there were three categories in the grand prize.'

While VTIC took care of the album and Younglin took care of the song we also took care of one.

Even so VTIC fans feel that they have been 'lost' due to company issues so perhaps it is only natural.

This is similar to when winning the Rookie of the Year award.

'We have to acknowledge that the public is the target.'

In short it had to be the top of the current VTIC level. Testa was still in the position of a challenger.

Not yet.

‘This year we’ll have to go as far as hitting.’

Maybe it would be possible with this album.

The album sales were huge as fans were excited. Already 700000 copies have been sold through pre-order alone. It has increased since ‘Call’.

…The marketing strategy of releasing 4 albums and then selling special editions with limited reservations may have also played a role.

Still since the composition was good it would not violate commercial ethics. I even included a key ring in the shape of a doll mask as a Blu-ray bonus in the photo book.

‘The music charts are also going well.’

As if the aggressive strategy of using the stage had worked the pre-released song ‘Wheel’ was also performing well on the music charts.

This also did not surpass Younglin but the important thing is perception.

‘It seems like a trend.’

The more famous the song on this album becomes the less backlash it will be when it hits #1.

Even though the music score is lower than Youngrin’s it is the perfect result at a time when the reputation of being ranked first ‘because it’s deserved’ is needed.

Similar words are already being said.

-Testa I should have revealed the drill sooner. It would be a waste of everything.

-If the music source had been announced and released more it would have been ranked higher in line… It's a pity.

-In my opinion it was a failed promotional strategy. If you push the drill first and follow up with the wheel you will win the music as well.

222 This is it

The success of the strategy is highlighted by public opinion which believes that Testa suffered losses due to the failure of the strategy.

'good.'

After winning first place on a music show we will be able to attract public backlash. I decided to be satisfied with this.

In fact even if I wasn't satisfied I didn't have time to do anything else.

"Your mask is really cute!"

"Oh you too."

"My mask is a tiger so it's cool!"

No that's a striped cat. I passed over Cha Yu-jin who was making unconvincing arguments and took the formation.

Even in the spare time between schedules you have to use the interlude to film choreography videos or practice or familiarize yourself with the script.

"Have you seen all the smartphones?"

"okay. "The response is good."

I agreed putting my phone in the corner.

“Are you all satisfied with the song? “I wonder how many similarities you found between the two title songs!”

“You found it well. Analysis articles are already being posted.”

“…! Is that so!”

“Ravin would be nice~”

I saw Keun Se-jin and Kim Rae-bin happy to hear the good news tidying up their dyed hair and starting to wear masks.

To be exact their light colored hair.

‘That… will drain less water.’

Everyone’s hair roots were strong and their hair was still in good condition but the most important thing was that they were sweating in the dyed color.

There are seven of us so it’s a total mess every time we do something. It looks like the inside of the doll mask will be dyed before this activity is over.

‘Everyone must have a hard time managing it.’

For a while the bathroom seemed like a mess. Still it was a meaningful challenge so everyone seems satisfied.

‘Because people like it.’

That’s enough right? All you have to do is endure it for a month or two.

My head… well it’s prone to static electricity.

[Hi]

I shrugged my shoulders and performed the choreography neatly

according to the song.

As the busy and work-filled days were passing quickly a new schedule plan came out.

“Oh~ spring tour!”

“The concert is finally happening.”

“I’m looking forward to it…!”

It’s this year’s concert tour.

I understood up to that point. We canceled it last year too but it’s finally time to do it.

However scale was the problem.

“…Dome tour.”

“yes!”

In Japan a dome tour was scheduled for a large concert hall that could accommodate more than 30000 people.

I thought it was a joke.

‘Wouldn’t the arena be perfect for our weight class?’

But no.

“Starting with Tokyo and ending with Osaka episode 6…”

“oh…”

These guys really captured the venue.

…It turns out that the company’s higher-ups were biting their nails while looking at the financial statements for the fourth quarter of last year.

Due to the cancellation of the tour and inactivity profits were reduced.

So the head of the division made a decision… The demand for next year's Testa performance was excessive and the venue was set up.

One of them was the Japan Dome Tour.

'Well this won't work.'

Aren't we in the weight class for a dome tour?

however…

"Oh it's sold out??"

"…??"

It worked surprisingly well.

This album may have been well-received in Japan as well but like a lie last year's irrational numbers were right.

And it wasn't just Japan that did that.

'what's this.'

It all started with a promotional opinion made by Cha Yu-jin.

Chapter 263

In fact Cha Yu-jin's opinion was not an unusual promotional method.

"Let's create a challenge!"

"Challenge?"

"Try to dance challenge!"

In short it means 'Take a video of us dancing.'

It was a short video content that was popular a few years ago. Honestly I haven't seen a team make a comeback these days and not try this.

'The Gold 1 group also made quite a splash with this.'

But that's because the company does a good job and most of the time it ends up being just a matter of trying. People don't dance along because the song is good and the choreography is good.

I'm not sure but it seemed like there was a preference for enjoyment there.

However Cha Yu-jin had a surprisingly good sense of how to handle it.

[I put on a sky filter like this… then suddenly change it to a Halloween filter and change the song!]

"oh."

[After the feeling of things building up in the pre-chorus of Wheel…]

Cha Yoo-jin adjusted the music and added Drill's dark and intense whistle refrain to the end of the refreshing and powerful high-pitched part of Wheel.

[Whisk! And hit the bat! Insert the drop of the drill and you are done. It's good right?]

'Are you okay?'

It's a bit childish but the atmosphere and song choreography all change with a single whistle so it caught people's attention instantly.

Sun Ah-hyeon who had no interest in this nodded her head.

"So cool…!"

"I know!"

It just looked good. This means that even without prior knowledge a similar context to popular things was visible.

'If you do it well you will see some effect.'

"What do you all think…"

As I was immediately trying to confirm the pros and cons by raising my hand I saw a few people's faces saying 'I'm not sure if I understand this English.'

…Is translation a priority?

"I think we can bring out the unexpected charm by creating a dance challenge following the two title songs."

"Ah~"

And only then did an opinion emerge.

Most were in favor.

“Then both songs can receive promotional effects.”

“I guess our promotion and story will be similar? A taste of twist! Oh Cha Yu-jin~”

“Hehe.”

It was not a risky gamble and honestly it was a method that was close to standard these days so it passed quickly both within the group and at the company.

“They say they will also add arrangements through platform partnerships.”

“Yeah~”

“Then I guess I’ll have to film a video to announce the challenge. “One per person.”

Bae Se-jin swallowed his saliva.

“…alone?”

“yes.”

Due to the nature of these videos you had to push them in as much as possible to get a good view.

Bae Se-jin’s face was filled with worry.

“Mememe! “Start with me!”

Of course Cha Yu-jin had fun filming the video.

To be honest this one seemed the most plausible to me. It seems that he made the suggestion because he had a completed picture inside him.

It was perfect to include the head tilting and catchy choreographed hand movements of the Drill refrain.

‘Maybe it’s because I’m young.’

This kind of sense was instinctively good for a guy.

However there is also someone who is the same age as Cha Yu-jin and has failed to film about 10 times.

“If I do this…?”

“ha ha ha! “Kim Rae-bin is so bad!”

“…! “It’s my first time trying it but if I figure out the principles a few more times I’ll be able to do better than you!”

“No you idiot!”

And Kim Rae-bin barely succeeds and is mentally defeated by Cha Yu-jin.

“It’s okay…”

Cha Yu-jin enjoyed the leisure of the winner.

“You did everything well. “It’s because I like Kim Raebin’s songs!”

They give me a bottle and give me medicine.

“…”

for a moment. Now that I think about it strictly speaking Kim Rae-bin who has the slowest birthday is the youngest… but she has nothing to do with the latest trends.

Anyway the video we uploaded went quite viral as it aligned with our promotional strategy.

It even improved on its own from Cha Yu-jin's original plan and users even created a modified new trend among themselves.

[Testa Reversal Challenge!]

Bae Se-jin watched a collection of videos on WeTube and said with a mysterious expression.

"So you're wearing a doll mask and running around among butterflies… then suddenly you throw away the mask and pretend to be a villain."

"…Of course."

"…isn't it so different from what we did?!"

Bae Se-jin said it a bit harshly but it was the correct answer.

The Drill stage which was first performed at the awards ceremony became quite famous so it seemed to have been influenced by it.

'It's rather good.'

It was a huge success because it was even reproduced to an even greater extent. Videos will continue to pour in.

'Younglin will never be able to do something like this with this new song.'

It was a song that strictly focused on 'the pleasure of listening'.

As planned the winners and losers were divided in content beyond music streaming.

As things turned out like this the company was so excited that they even suggested a 'filter partnership for drills' but Cha Yu-jin was firmly opposed.

"There are a lot of people who hate this challenge because it's too cheesy. “You can’t use our music video because it’s cool!”

“Um okay.”

This means lowering the barrier to entry by only going viral with the song and its familiarity and not getting too deeply involved.

It was consistent with the argument I was trying to make.

‘It’s useful.’

He was a smart guy. The problem is that you only focus on things you are interested in.

With Cha Yu-jin’s promotional strategy playing a part the activities proceeded as scheduled as if the previous emergency had been a lie.

[New Testa song with great momentum]

[Drill music video view count trend.jpg]

[Drill choreography video appeared]

Articles and videos about Testa’s activities flooded the Internet. This means that the topicality is on track.

And as soon as the results began to be reflected they were immediately nominated for first place on a public broadcast music broadcast.

result?

“Live music! 1st place this week… Congratulations Testa!”

Of course I won the award. However the score was as expected.

‘It’s about 1000 points short of Younglin in terms of sound source.’

But it was okay. Unless you're an extreme music supremacist or anti-fan the atmosphere was that you 'deserved it'.

It was a victory for the strategy of creating a justification.

I nodded with quite a thrill of satisfaction.

won

"…thank you!"

"It's been a long time… Thank you so much for not giving up supporting me and waiting for me. Thank you so much Lover…!"

Perhaps because it was the first place on a music show for a long time there were a lot of people who were particularly upset.

"Is Lee Se-jin crying too?"

"Yes my brother is crying loudly~"

It was a bit funny to see even people who didn't think they would be so thrilled but it must have been much better than if they thought they would receive it of course.

'The country is in a tight grip with this.'

I sang an encore about five times along with the snoring guys.

It was a point where the saying 'It's a shame that Testa came out with Youngrin' changed to 'It's a shame that Youngrin's song came out with Testa'.

It was around this time that I spent about two weeks doing promotions through entertainment shows.

'I need to check the other boards as well.'

I slowly began to look at news from overseas. This was after confirming that the tour scale had increased tremendously.

‘In the first place Drill was launched with the fear of a global reaction.’

It’s fun to listen to without being complicated the visuals are amazing and the choreography is amazing… This is a sentiment that is accepted all over the world.

‘So has demand increased with this album?’

However the moment I performed the search I was a bit perplexed.

“…?”

‘Why are there so many?’

The results were more brilliant than expected.

Global. This is where Cha Yu-jin’s promotional strategy began to reveal its true value.

* * *

It is said that ‘Testa’s Inverted Dance Challenge’ created by Cha Yu-jin has deeply inspired overseas fans.

‘This is what works for muggles!’

So KPOP fans who have a crush on Testa bombarded all kinds of YouTubers and people around them with requests to watch this new song.

The format was simple. The child is made to watch ‘Wheel’ first followed by ‘Drill’.

In fact quite a few people liked just ‘Drill’.

It was a blockbuster comic movie + game cinematic trailer style video aimed at the tastes of nerds around the world.

However when I pre-watched the song ‘Wheel’ which is completely opposite the reaction was better because of the gap shown by the same group in the same background.

[Oh the background is the same? This amusement park promoter… what? Are these the same kids?]

[Oh my God! This bike riding bastard is fucking cool!]

[I’ll tell you now that the only people who can accept a man with dyed hair are K-pop stars like this cool anime character.]

This means that selling views has become better. This guy and that guy even people who weren’t reaction YouTubers took videos.

And since the videos and songs were selected to target global tastes as exposure increased the number of views for Testa’s new music videos skyrocketed.

In particular ‘Drill’ is said to have even entered the real-time popular video rankings in the United States.

‘…it’s coming to the mainstream.’

It was a triumph.

I admitted it.

Cha Yu-jin… I think I should at least grill some meat.

“Do you want to eat a cow or a pig?”

Like a ghost Cha Yu-jin answered from across the room.

“I like cows! “I like Korean beef!”

“okay.”

However it did not end here.

And when something becomes very popular gossip will naturally follow from anywhere.

I think it was Japan this time.

[It's amazing that this fits so well (video) (´ω｀) _]

Some animation fans used our challenge and music video while compositing scenes and a fight suddenly broke out over it… and it seems to have become even more famous.

It didn't even explode among Testa fans and animation enthusiasts but Korean critics asked.

– Since we can't use Japanese singers whose image rights are precious are we using Korean idols? Since the classes themselves are different it would be better to stop.

-Korean Wave fans always go beyond the topic and don't want to see it (laughter)

-Is this something to react to? So-called K-pop fans are too extreme.

-I'm not interested in K-pop that copies America and Japan. I wish I could go back to my country.

Testa never entered Japan in the first place? (´ ω ｀) ?

-Only the net right wingers are excited (laughter)

It is said that a dog fight broke out as K-pop fans clashed with forces that they absolutely dislike in Korea.

A YouTuber summarizing Japanese reactions summed it up in a lively tone.

[So is Testa being boycotted in Japan as the net right wing claims?]

[Testa's album was #1 on the Oricon chart this week!]

"…"

The Japanese viral success was achieved without any attempt.

Since the controversy wasn't caused by us there was less resistance so more people came in and thought 'What on earth is that?'

And since they are conceptual and well good-looking their number of fans seems to have increased rapidly.

'Come to think of it I haven't been to Japan since the visit.'

Because of the sudden public exposure caused by the controversy it seemed like the backlog of potential fans came in at once.

-The face of the light purple member with deer horns is so amazing that it can only be described as a prince.

-Is the black hair the center? He's really handsome. It's dangerous. I'm already watching the video for the fifth time.

-pink! pink! pink! I'm now a fan of the pink puppy! (Capture from Park Moon-dae)

And these people are the ones who filled the weight class of the concert that has grown from the arena to the dome.

In the end… the dance challenge that Cha Yu-jin started exploded like a branch spreading to all sorts of places.

"…"

This… isn't this album really going to win the grand prize?

'There is a possibility.'

I thought about wishful thinking for a moment and tried to end the monitoring.

I would have done so if it hadn't been for the news article that popped up in the search engine before I turned it off.

[VTIC's comeback confirmed in February… The top of the music industry is returning.]

"…"

These bastards… have no intention of resting?

After some time it was even confirmed that he was killed.

[VTIC senior Chaeyul: We'll be making a comeback next month Mr. Moon Dae! We ask for your interest~]

[VTIC Senior Shinno: (shooting gun emoticon with hand)]

I don't know why these guys invite people to group messengers to announce news that they can send individually. Are you scratching?

[Yes congratulations.]

I gave a standard answer. Then I received a private message from the guy who had been posting pictures of dogs.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: Really?]

This guy is real.

[sure. I wish you success during your activities. It's just a shame that I won't be able to see you if you go to the military.]

It means hurry up and go to the military.

The answer came only after a slight delay.

[hmm? Why me?]

what?

The next messages arrived one after another.

[I am only serving for 6 months because my mother is a person of national merit. Didn't you know?]

"…"

[Oh I see you didn't make a presentation this time. I'm sorry^^ junior.]

[You're active duty right? Have a nice trip.]

You bitch.

I turned off my smartphone and made a promise.

'Starting from this tour… all schedules will be used to increase weight class.'

I'll make sure this bastard enlists in the army next year.

And then a suitable offer came from Netplus.

"A documentary."

"yes! "They do it a lot these days."

It was a behind-the-scenes documentary of the concert tour.

Chapter 264

I put my hands on the table.

It was a small table placed in a hotel room to fit the bill but in front of it was a camera as big as the table.

The crew behind the camera said.

“Please introduce yourself.”

“yes. hello. This is Testa’s Park Mun-dae.”

I nodded at the camera. And he said with a faint smile.

“I am currently participating in Testa’s second concert tour.”

I am also participating in the production of a concert documentary.

This is what I’m doing now.

‘Actually I take a lot of behind-the-scenes photos of concerts.’

It gives you a sense of familiarity with individual idols and the stories behind the concerts you attended are also interesting.

However it is rare to produce a separate documentary. It’s encouraging that they launched it in front of the general public rather than treating it as a product that only fans can see.

This means that the production left a mark on the flow of popular music to the extent that it has public significance.

‘So to speak it’s like a symbol of a different class.’

For example VTIC has probably already released three or four documentaries.

So everyone acknowledged that this was an act of knocking on the threshold of heaven.

However whether everyone liked it was a slightly different question.

-… Wouldn't it be uncomfortable? The camera stays on for several months.

-Well I heard you come in appropriately under consultation.

-I don't have a very interesting daily life so I'm concerned that related content might not be interesting…

-Ah the experts will take care of the editing for you~ There's no need to be too thirsty for fun it's a documentary not an entertainment show! Will you do it nicely?

In the end with a majority vote and appropriate persuasion the documentary was filmed and there have been no major problems so far.

'It seems a bit… too sticky.'

For example something like this.

"What part of the tour do you find most uncomfortable?"

"Well it's probably an environmental factor like adjusting to time difference or finding a new performance venue."

"Ah I think you can do that. "Then… how about on a more emotional level?"

"Well emotionally…"

I can sense the production team's desire to film raw scenes.

Every camera shows an attempt to reduce the distance from my inner self.

If you lower the tension by asking a simple question and then give a refined answer you will gradually change your direction to reveal your true feelings.

It was a decision-making process that was different from the entertainment production team that sought stimulation.

Of course in this case it would be enough to come up with a more 'honest-sounding' answer.

"I think it's because I can't bear the thought of the audience not being able to fully enjoy the concert due to factors beyond my control."

I took a pause as if thinking briefly and then answered again.

"So I think that's the most sensitive and nerve-wracking thing. "The perfection of the concert."

If you do this you will feel satisfied that you have discovered the personality of the respondent.

Sure enough the production crew nodded and moved on to the next question.

"So what does the concert mean to Testa?"

"The closest thing I can do is to meet my fans…"

After that I think they gave a good documentary-like answer. An edited version would be nice.

* * *

"thank you."

The interview continued like that for about an hour. And it ended with the production crew leaving to visit the next batsman.

“…”

I lay down in bed.

The tour itself is more leisurely than the activity period.

Now that we have time we are given a private room in a hotel during the tour. And between concerts there is quite a long break to recover.

“It’s quiet.”

I closed my eyes. I felt a little awkward perhaps because I had lived among such noisy people for so many years.

“…”

Just before useless thoughts hit me.

Suddenly the question I had just heard from the production crew rang in my head.

-What does a concert mean?

Then there is a scene that suddenly comes to mind.

The first concert of this tour.

It’s been a long time since I held a concert at Gocheok Dome in Seoul.

-Waaaa!!

cry. flame. opening.

And high purity concentration.

If this huge psychological uplift and overwhelming feeling were the essence of a concert then the donation concert that was held non-face-to-face could just be called filming.

Perhaps because it had been so long since then I felt as if I was underwater.

The air is different.

Although concerts were a good source of income for the company there was no transcendent space for the performers.

If you do it right the reward is more than the burden. And it's been a long time since this group did that.

"after."

…I'm glad the documentary crew didn't arrive from Seoul.

'Because everyone went home in a hurry.'

I would never have been able to get an interview like that.

-Dream as blue as the day!! Sigh!

The guys who were holding hands and singing their debut song in the dorm were drunks themselves. I can see that if the soundproofing wasn't there there would have been complaints.

'Liu Chengwu cut the request well.'

I briefly credited the leader. And I fell asleep right away while checking the next W Live schedule.

…Remembering that there are 34 hours left until the next concert.

'It'll be soon.'

Because it's the United States the venue is smaller than Korea but it still feels like a concert. There will be a similar density of pleasure.

And after the hotel retreat and rehearsal the concert started again.

[Hello LA!]

[Wooooow!]

okay. The concert was still a special experience and fun to do.

However I need to further revise my impression of the documentary production team.

‘These guys are too much.’

“Mr. Moon Dae are you okay?”

“…it’s okay.”

I stood up and took off the ventilator. Then the camera hurriedly catches up and another production crew member hurriedly writes something in the background.

It was truly meaningful.

‘Do you make stories?’

However it would be faster to find an idol who doesn’t use a ventilator but if you focus on ‘passion’ with this you will only end up with a boring picture.

‘VTIC has already ate up all the bones.’

But after the concert ended I caught up with the situation in a restarted interview.

“Mr. Moon Dae have you ever felt any aftereffects since the car accident?”

“…? Car accident… Um no. “I am healthy.”

He started asking about my physical condition.

‘Oh I see.’

I think they wanted to capture the concept of a ‘perfectionist idol who does his best even though his body hurts.’

It’s fun to include narrative rather than just dry facts in a documentary so it’s a good attempt…

‘It’s a scam.’

Even by modern medical standards I was declared cured.

There are a lot of intense movements in this album so I even stretched my muscles so it would be deceptive to tell the story in that direction.

I am extremely strong.

‘If you spread this you’d be caught on a lie detector test.’

Even getting an interview regarding ‘anxiety after a traffic accident’ is the Maginot Line. I added a little more firmly.

“I wanted to show my fans a good side of me as soon as possible due to their concern but I am now completely healthy.”

Then there was a mysterious silence among the production crew.

What is this?

“Well Mr. Mundae. “It seemed like you were moving beyond your limits during the concert.”

“…Me?”

Were you at a different concert than me?

“yes. The same goes for oxygen masks. “The members also say that.”

“Members?”

What does this mean?

In the meantime these bastards are catching me in a panic and are having a good time. Is it that much fun?

“I see that Mr. Moon Dae is having a harder time than before after the accident but he doesn’t show it as much as possible every time so it hurts my heart.”

“…”

In an instant evidence passes by my head.

-You… have already lost stamina due to the aftereffects.

-I guess being seriously injured and lying down for so long affected my condition.

“It seems like you are feeling physically stressed but you said you would like me to lean on you a little more.”

No the corner I leaned on was Bacchus.

And even without that I’m fine now but the members kept remembering me from the days when I was receiving ‘Bacchus’ and comparing myself to now.

In fact I forgot that my physical strength was unrealistically good before that.

And contrary to my resolution I put ‘Mission Constitution’ in the empty space of ‘Bacchus’ putting an end to the peak of my physical strength that I could never return to…

In addition the system is leaving and you can no longer get lottery tickets.

‘It’s ruined.’

It’s a rumor.

I held back my silence and barely opened my mouth.

“…I didn’t know the members said that.”

I’m not moved so don’t laugh.

But I have to use that misunderstanding.

I paused for a moment and then answered slowly.

“I was injured the most. So the members paid a lot of attention. “I think it was said in a similar context this time… I’m just grateful.”

…It’s also half sincere.

So stop talking about the heartwarming friendship between members and give up on stories about overcoming injuries.

But these guys didn’t give up.

“here!”

“Are you okay?”

“…okay.”

‘under… ’

First of all I persistently took pictures of myself backstage. In particular it was clear that he preferred to be supported or out of breath.

‘I guess I’m completely hooked.’

I thought about giving a few serious warnings but then gave up.

‘Do whatever you want.’

As I watched it it captured interesting points well and the documentary itself seemed like it would be fun and based on facts.

However I thought it would unintentionally give the public a distorted fantasy about me but whatever… that was okay.

‘Injury and fighting spirit are common behind the scenes.’

Yes this job may start with deception and end with deception… Let’s get our money’s worth.

‘It looks like the rumor about the aftereffects from the member’s foot is spreading all over the world… ’

I gave up everything and focused on the concert.

But it seems that there are some who couldn’t do that.

“Stop! stop!”

“…!”

A slightly longer VCR is played before the encore. Suddenly a loud noise came from the backstage.

That was the voice of the least sensitive among us.

“Eujin?”

“Are you Cha Yu-jin?”

The guys who were waiting after changing their costumes were taken aback by the unexpected situation and ran.

It was a bit weird because the camera was chasing me but I included a clause in the contract that included disposing of the film anyway.

‘Confirming the situation is a priority.’

And as I turned around the hallway I saw the place where the sound came from.

It was a small backstage room mainly used to manage muscle spasms and joint pain.

Cha Yu-jin had a patch on her shoulder as if she was receiving emergency care but there were more urgent matters than that.

This is because Cha Yu-jin was in a confrontation with the documentary crew.

“…Eujin?”

Cha Yu-jin looked this way but then looked straight ahead again.

To be exact the production crew beyond the cameraman.

“Don’t do that. “I don’t like it.”

“yes yes. sorry.”

“Let’s go out. “Don’t come in here.”

And he decisively sent the production team out.

“…wait a minute.”

I also sent the camera that followed me outside. It was a bit annoying to try to take pictures of even the closed door until the end but Cha Yu-jin came first.

As soon as Ryu Cheong-woo confirmed that the door was closed he turned off the microphone and spoke to Cha Yu-jin.

“Eujin. There’s a camera. “If you have something to say it’s not too late even after the concert is over and the cameras come down.”

“…”

“For now even if there are complaints let’s just say let’s have a concert. “There are only 4 minutes left until our encore… no only 3 minutes.”

“…OK. all right.”

Cha Yu-jin didn’t look very happy but she nodded. I’m not the type of person who gets out of shape on stage so an encore will be fine.

‘I thought the documentaries were excessive.’

Still I didn’t expect Cha Yu-jin to be like this.

I don’t know what on earth scratched him to make him react like this. Still it seemed like the production crew kept the line.

I held back a sigh and opened the door. Immediately the camera popped in.

…This time it bothered me a bit too. That passion might be the cause.

‘I guess I’ll have to talk to you as soon as I’m done.’

But before this concert even ended shit broke out again.

Chapter 265

As expected the encore itself went off without a hitch.

[See ya!!]

Cha Yu-jin ran across the stage as if she had never screamed before looking for cameras and the audience.

And the tension was maintained until the moment we went backstage.

‘good.’

I calmed my head from the lingering effects of the concert.

I need to go down like this and talk to Cha Yu-jin then use that as a base to talk to the production team again.

I know you’re trying to draw a picture but let’s get on with it.

However there was no time for that when the guys with cameras from the backstage caught up with us as we came down the stage.

‘These guys really don’t know how to give up.’

I had a strong feeling that if I got angry I would secretly be happy that the boundary with real life was broken down.

“…”

Cha Yu-jin glanced at the documentary crew but took the water and drank it without another word.

‘It seems genuine.’

I guess I relaxed a bit while performing on stage. I cleaned up the situation by wiping my neck with a towel.

It was then.

The production team quickly approached me. The camera followed closely.

“Yujin you seem to be regaining your composure very quickly… Could it be that from the previous accident-”

“Stop it.”

“…!”

Cha Yu-jin suddenly intervened and pressed the camera with her hand.

It was an unexpected action.

“Uh oh!”

“I said it. “Why don’t you listen to me like this?”

“for a moment.”

Why is this guy acting like this all of a sudden?

‘If this happens we will have crossed the line first.’

The members who were catching their breath were startled and clung to the sudden action.

However Cha Yu-jin stared at the production crew without taking her hand off the camera for quite some time.

“Eujin put down the camera.”

“What are you doing now!”

“Wait a minute wait a minute. Director I’m sorry but we need to talk about it among ourselves. wait a minute.”

Keun Se-jin managed to end the situation beat the production team well and went straight to the waiting room.

widely.

“Let’s sit down.”

“…”

Cha Yu-jin sat on the sofa in silence. Liu Chengwu started his luck.

“Eujin it may be uncomfortable for the production crew but… you can’t get out of hand while working. “We need to talk.”

“You didn’t listen to me.”

“Wait a minute bro. “Listen to Cha Yu-jin.”

Big Sejin intervened.

“When you were on ‘Idol Inc.’ you cried and just endured it. “When we were filming a reality show in the early days of our debut you didn’t say anything even when there were cameras all over our dorm right?”

Perhaps because of the urgency and seriousness of the situation it was not as soothing as usual.

“But if you do this now do you think people will think about whether what you say is right or wrong? “You just float away and think that people have changed.”

“That’s different.”

“It may be different. But it’s of no use if the viewers can’t see it?”

“…”

“Eujin while working not everything can be reasonable and right in your eyes. If that is possible is it God or man? “First of all I apologize for touching the camera…”

But no sooner had he finished speaking than a backlash came.

“…No it’s true that those people were the ones who made the mistake first. “That was rude.”

“…!”

This is Bae Se-jin.

“I think we should definitely do that. “I endured it when I debuted so it’s strange that I’m still being asked to endure it.”

“Brother Sejin.”

Seon Ah-hyun called out restlessly but Bae Se-jin did not withdraw her words.

Instead a brief look of irritation flashed across Big Sejin’s face.

“brother. “When I talk about that now… no I’m not asking them to apologize for doing a good job.”

“Yeah I guess they’re just trying to get over it. But does it really have to be that way?”

“…Wow… wow.”

“stop.”

I raised my hand. And pressed his temples.

“There is no need for us to talk too long about something like this. “I just need to talk to the production crew and get the film removed.”

It is true that opinions are divided but there is no need to end the situation. You just have to be careful at this moment.

I summarized the whole situation in one word.

“Something like this happens when you work.”

“…”

The two kept their mouths shut. I tried my best not to hit it but it still didn’t hit me.

‘It almost went crazy.’

I held back a sigh. And then he spoke to Cha Yu-jin who was still keeping her head down.

“…You need to cool off.”

“…”

There was no answer.

After confirming that Kim Rae-bin was hesitantly remaining in the room I left the water in front of them and came out of the room.

I was planning on having a conversation with the production team with Ryu Cheong-woo but the camera caught up with me again… I need to do something about this.

I moderated the empty words of Ryu Cheong-woo who was worried about Cha Yu-jin’s camera and the camera director’s condition and then got to the point.

“I think the members should take a break today. How about meeting tomorrow and talking again?”

“yes yes. But I’m really sorry but is it possible for me to have a short interview right now? “I know you’re taking a break tomorrow but just for a little while.”

“…for a moment.”

Oh I don’t understand.

‘Is Cha Yu-jin upset about this?’

Since this is not an unmanned camera and is visible to the eye an American who lives in a den of paparazzi may be more upset because it looks overlapping.

‘And from the production team’s perspective this opportunity cannot be missed.’

If you talk while you are tired and emotionally shaken it is easy to lead to an honest answer.

Watching how we deal with Cha Yu-jin it looks like she’s the type of person who won’t say ‘Hey this is a fucking documentary and you’re a bastard so get rid of it!’

Fortunately the company staff who rushed to the scene immediately intervened appeased the production crew and sent them away.

“If you do this we won’t be able to do it we’ll be in trouble! “Please understand.”

And he asked us with a nervous face.

“Did Eugene have any friction with the documentary production team??”

“There seems to be a bit of a problem.”

Liu Chengyu looked around the room and sighed briefly when our eyes met.

“Let’s leave it alone for today. Cool your head.”

“okay. “That would be correct.”

I really had no plans for tomorrow anyway. After the concert they were exhausted and all they did was stay in the hotel and get some commentary on the documentary.

The staff looked nervous but eventually convinced themselves and decided to wait for Cha Yu-jin to come out of the room.

“I think it would be best not to touch it too much right now.”

“yes yes. “We will definitely be careful.”

The staff seemed quite unfamiliar and embarrassed by this situation as they worked with people who mostly solved things on their own or ignored them within the group.

Still I did quite a bit of work.

“Everyone go in quickly and rest. “We will wait until you two come out.”

“…”

okay. I’ll see you tomorrow morning anyway so let’s just go for now. It would be a loss if people with different opinions stick together and it turns into a useless fight like before.

‘It’ll be okay since Raebin Kim is with me.’

In this case it would be more comfortable to be of the same age rather than older.

“Let’s go in.”

“…okay.”

The members looked a little uncomfortable but eventually agreed and moved to the car.

“Shall we at least send a text message…? “In English.”

“Well wouldn’t it be better to have a slow face-to-face conversation while eating tomorrow morning?”

“Ugh…”

Comfort is good but you also need time to think about your actions.

I returned to my hotel room extremely tired. Then I washed up and went to bed right away.

“…after.”

I guess I’ll have to cater to Cha Yujin’s taste tomorrow morning.

And I was planning to hear in detail what happened with the production crew.

But the next morning.

While the others showed up until the usual breakfast meeting time Cha Yu-jin did not show up.

“…”

“It’s past 9:30 now right?”

“huh.”

I opened my mouth.

“Ravin.”

“yes!”

“How was Cha Yu-jin yesterday?”

“He was silent and seemed a bit lethargic but he didn’t seem particularly angry!”

“…okay?”

“yes. Perhaps the current situation is judged as oversleeping or some kind of protest!”

That’s right.

I adjusted my hat.

“I’ll bring you. “You go too.”

“I am…? No yes. All right!”

I left behind the guys who were waving with strange expressions and headed to Cha Yu-jin’s room accompanied by Kim Rae-bin.

And immediately rang the doorbell.

Ding-dong.

“…”

There was no response.

“Cha Yujin. “Open the door.”

Still not there. No matter how much we said we had all the lines in this hallway we would have screamed even more.

I’m sure you’ve heard this much.

‘Is this a real protest?’

It goes far. I sighed took out my smartphone and called Cha Yu-jin.

But the phone call… didn't go through.

[Your phone is turned off…]

"…"

This… is cheap.

"brother?"

I called once more and acknowledged the situation.

"Ravin."

"yes?"

"Call the manager."

I looked at Cha Yu-jin's door.

"It looks like Cha Yu-jin is not in the room."

"…!!"

After a while.

"It's true."

Cha Yu-jin's room which was opened by the hotel staff… was empty.

'Damn it.'

It was an unimaginable situation.

'Was it a mistake?'

Should I have sat down and comforted this guy right away instead of letting him cool off until morning?

'No matter what he's not a ninja and he escaped… '

I almost chewed my tongue and then managed to ask the manager.

"Did you ever receive a call last night?"

"no! "I've never been contacted by Eugene…!?"

The people at the company were almost in a state of panic. It was worth it. Because it was the first case of escape since I was active.

However it did not evaporate without a trace.

-I'm leaving.

Fortunately this note was left behind. It was written in large letters in Korean.

"I think Yoo Jin-yi was very hurt…"

"But it's strange to disappear like this… Wait isn't this like kidnapping?"

"If that were the case I think this room would have been even more horrible than this. "This idiot went out voluntarily!"

"I see."

That was right.

The condition of the room was too good to be called a kidnapping and it wasn't a hotel where anyone could easily break in in the first place.

However looking at it calmly I could guess what the situation was.

“…hmm.”

I looked around the room once and nodded.

“It didn’t go far.”

“Is that so…?”

“okay. I left all my luggage behind. “I only took my wallet and cell phone and left… I guess I did it on impulse.”

I guess there’s a high possibility that he went out because he was still upset when he woke up…

At that moment Raebin Kim raised his hand.

“I’m sorry about what you said but do you mind if I tell you my opinion?”

“…? okay.”

The guy swallowed and spoke slightly hesitantly.

“It’s just… I think I went out to have fun because I didn’t have any schedules.”

“…”

“…”

for a moment.

“That could be possible.”

“yes!”

Bae Se-jin hurriedly intervened.

“but! “Your smartphone was turned off…!”

“I think I just turned it off so I wouldn’t be disturbed while playing.”

“…”

yes. Since it was a day off anyway there’s a good chance they thought they didn’t need to ask permission from the company.

The members were embarrassed.

“That’s right. “It could have been.”

“…I can’t believe you could come up with such an idea…”

Liu Chengwu brightened the mood.

“Hmm but maybe not so let’s take a closer look at the situation and prepare.”

“okay. Okay~ Then shall we watch the CCTV?”

“I will check right away so everyone please wait. Someone else will come!”

The manager rushed out immediately taking the hotel staff with him. Working hard is good but I also understand the feeling of being hit by a bomb.

However when it came to the search itself it didn’t seem like there was much to worry about.

“I think I can find it with this.”

I took out my smartphone.

* * *

Cha Yu-jin tapped the sandy beach with her toe feeling the sea breeze.

It was quite leisurely to go out on a bright morning on a long-awaited holiday.

‘The weather is nice.’

But it didn’t feel very refreshing. He put his hands on the back of his neck to shake off his depression.

He came out to change his mood by telling him to ‘cool his head’ but the conclusion was that I don’t know if he did anything wrong in one way or another.

‘Well no apologies.’

Instead he decided he should talk to his team about why he wouldn’t apologize to the idiots with the cameras.

However I was a little nervous.

‘No one cares about my condition.’

Still he grumbled wondering if it made sense to not send a single text message all night in this situation.

There is really no one who can understand and acknowledge his thoughts…

“Cha Yujin.”

“…!”

Cha Yu-jin almost jumped from her chair at the familiar but unexpected voice.

“brother??”

“okay. grow.”

It was Park Moon-dae.

‘oh my god.’

His teammate ran towards him on the beach sand.

It was a very welcome sight but it was also surprising. What kind of magic did you do?

“How did you find me? “Did you find me?”

“Does that matter?”

Park Mun-dae was dressed lightly. And her pink hair blew in the sea breeze as if she had been searching for herself quite diligently.

But instead of getting angry he smiled and held out a paper bag.

Inside was ice cream sold at a nearby store.

“It’s obvious where you’re going. “I was looking for a place near the beach that sells sweets and found this cafe road close to the hotel.”

“…”

“I knew you would be around here.”

It was an accurate guess. Cha Yu-jin was a bit impressed rather than shocked or appalled.

“Brother you’re amazing.”

“uh. Well just eat some ice cream first. “Outside food is allowed to be brought in here right?”

[As long as there is enough tip. This isn’t even Disneyland is it?]

It was a very good joke but Park Moon-dae didn’t seem to understand it very much. Cha Yu-jin who was accustomed to this kind of situation just passed it over.

In the first place if we were just looking at culture the sight of a man of that age sitting around with his hair dyed brightly was not very American.

But Park Moon-dae's main point began when Cha Yu-jin ate more than half of the ice cream.

"Then tell me while you eat. "Why on earth did you do that to the production crew?"

[Sounds like an interrogation right?]

"It's not an interrogation I'm asking because it must have been done for a reason."

Park Mun-dae crossed his arms.

"You're a smart guy."

Cha Yu-jin was unusually a little moved.

So I shrugged my shoulders and immediately opened my mouth.

Chapter 266

Cha Yu-jin was accustomed to communicating in a language other than her native language.

However that did not guarantee perfectly rich expressive power. And there was always some misunderstanding.

So the words Cha Yu-jin chooses are always direct.

“They only ask bad questions.”

“The documentary crew?”

“that’s right!”

Cha Yu-jin nodded and put ice cream in her mouth.

And then he started muttering in rapid English.

[What traces did the traffic accident leave? How difficult is it to prepare for the concert? Are there any injuries or safety issues? In the end have you ever felt skeptical about this? It felt like I was interviewing some kind of guard?]

Park Mun-dae answered by snapping his fingers.

“You kept asking me if I was unhappy.”

“yes!”

I understood what he said. So I enjoyed chatting with this person!

“Why should I do that? [So we don’t have enough time to show our best selves. And I’m happy!]”

He wanted to bring joy not show pain or negative energy.

Cha Yu-jin had a philosophy about her job. He had no intention of living like some celebrities who sell their personal lives for fame.

So he crossed his arms.

Coincidentally he was in the same posture as the person across from him.

“So I don’t apologize.”

It was a remark of remorse but the pink head across from him chuckled.

“…I guess you were very disappointed with what Lee Se-jin said?”

It was the perfect answer.

[of course!]

“Lee Se-jin said it for you. If you get caught because you hit the camera it’s your loss. “People will misunderstand.”

“are you okay. “I don’t care.”

“Then mind your team. Because we care.”

“…”

Park Moon-dae used an ambiguous expression that meant both damage to the team and concern for Cha Yu-jin.

However Cha Yu-jin only understood the latter and nodded obediently.

‘You’re worried about me.’

It was a positive result of a linguistic misunderstanding.

“And the production team… I guess they wanted to show that we can handle unfortunate and difficult things. “Because we’ve already shown a lot of things that are going well and are cool.”

Park Moon-dae slowly changed the horse’s course.

“Everyone has pain and seeing it in person makes you feel more human. It appears genuine.”

Cha Yu-jin respected this clever team member and listened to everything he said.

And Park Moon-dae slowly respected Cha Yu-jin.

“But you can’t force them to show their pain.”

That was the correct answer.

“yes.”

Cha Yu-jin growled.

[And because they are all fucking liars.]

“lie?”

[When I first interviewed I spoke very clearly. He said he didn’t want to ask questions about his personal history with his injuries or pain. I told you to talk about that with my company!]

“…! hmm.”

[They nodded and said they would be careful. But you saw it too right??]

“Yes I saw it.”

Cha Yu-jin recalled the camera trying to capture his pain and confirming his ‘uncomfortable’ feelings throughout the concert.

And there are endless accident stories!

-I don’t want to do that.

-Oh I’m sorry. I will be careful.

The answer was obedient.

However we continue to try to ask similar questions whenever an opportunity arises.

That was no longer something worthy of respect.

“That was a lot! “More than ten times!”

“…”

Moreover once he got really angry it was mean to change the target.

-Eujin you seem to be regaining your composure very quickly… Maybe from a previous accident?

It was clearly his intention to ask Park Moon-dae about the time he was in a coma!

‘Are you telling someone during a concert that you were unconscious without understanding?’

How dare you ask such a thing!

“That’s so rude. It was wrong. “I blocked that.”

Cha Yu-jin used Korean again to make a stronger argument.

And Park Mun-dae seemed to be lost in thought.

“…”

But it didn’t take long before the answer came.

It was the answer I had been waiting for.

“You’re right.”

“…!”

yes!

“good. “I understand.”

Moon-Dae Park summarized it simply and clearly.

“Let’s go and get an apology. “They were wrong.”

“great!”

Cha Yu-jin bumped her fists and raised her hand to shake hands. Park Moon-dae thought ‘Why?’ but responded without showing it.

‘This is the joy of the team!’

Cha Yu-jin shook her hands and smiled coolly.

Of course there was work to be done ahead of time.

“I’m eating all of this.”

“okay. “Eat a lot.”

Cha Yu-jin spent the morning relaxing at the beach with Park Moon-dae.

It was a pretty pleasant holiday.

* * *

“Buy pizza! “The pizza here is delicious!”

“okay.”

While the sun was rising in the sky Cha Yu-jin fully recovered. And I’m in the process of ordering and buying pizza all the way back to the hotel.

‘That’s it.’

Today I was planning to listen to whatever this guy tried. I’m not the type of person who needs to lose weight so I’ll just eat pizza.

[It is $89.]

[Here.]

I paid for the pizza and sorted out the situation in my head.

As expected when Cha Yu-jin who was at the nearby beach was fed some sweets the before and after drinking situation came out.

‘Cha Yu-jin deserved to be upset.’

After listening to the story it was more than what they did to me.

It looks like the documentary crew filmed Cha Yu-jin and scratched her more.

I guessed the reason right away.

‘I guess it’s because Cha Yu-jin felt the least refined.’

Since he seemed the most unaffected and honest among us it would have seemed better to bring out more rawness.

And first of all they 'poured in' to select pictures that could be used for the documentary.

'Wow… '

I remember something I heard from an instructor in a general photography class when I was in college.

'Did you say that it is better to take portraits first and negotiate rather than asking for permission to take them?'

All photo opportunities disappear while permission is granted. I remembered that it was because of the controversy in the school community after I made this statement.

In any case if that is the prevailing sentiment even in some parts of the industry Testa's documentary may have had bad luck in selecting a production crew.

Because I don't know the extent.

'It's time to give a warning.'

At that moment Cha Yu-jin was walking happily with pizza and asked.

"brother! I have that question. "How do they talk?"

"We don't need to talk."

I spoke leisurely.

"The company will take care of it. Just accept the apology."

There are many circumstances in what you will talk about that could reverse this structure.

"Go up first and eat. "I'm going to talk to you."

"Got it!"

I contacted the company as soon as I returned to the hotel.

After the recent deal the management side has been completely replaced and things have become a bit more complicated so there is no need to worry about our image by taking matters into our own hands.

“hello… yes. “It is true that the circumstances in which I met Eugene were conveyed.”

-yes yes! We heard about the whereabouts of Mr. Moon Dae and Mr. Eugene.

“yes. “Well there’s something I heard from Eugene… I’ll pass it on to you now.”

I combined Cha Yu-jin’s words that I heard at the beach and brought them to life as a proposition.

“…But this is something the production team shouldn’t do right?”

-Ah~

The manager’s voice changed slightly.

-I know what you mean.

It was an expression of strange confidence. It means I understand.

‘I feel like I have some company now.’

Until now I thought that Liu Chengwu should also receive a salary but this was a welcome development.

I finished the call and went up to the hotel room.

And the moment I visited Cha Yu-jin’s room to check her condition and receive pizza.

“Hyung Moon Dae!”

“Welcome to Mundae~”

Guys with pizza are waving here and there.

Apparently he was waiting in the room for Cha Yu-jin to return home.

“Brother come!”

Cha Yu-jin is sitting in the middle with a grumpy expression on her face. It seemed like everything had already been said and resolved. It would have been somewhat possible since Sun Ah-hyun was the interpreter.

“Woah I put the door handle here separately…!”

“Oh thank you.”

I sat down among the guys waving their hands.

“Did the story go well?”

“Of course~ Oh my are you disappointed that our Eugene hyung apologized without even asking what happened?”

“yes!!”

“I did it because I was afraid I would get in big trouble if I didn’t apologize. “Of course I’m on Eugene’s side!”

“are you okay! I didn’t consult either. “I’m very sorry.”

“Okay okay let’s do better!”

As they are fast-moving guys they were quick to reconcile. Bae Se-jin seemed to be agonizing over whether something was going to happen so quickly but soon gave up and just ate pizza.

And Kim Rae-bin was still serious alone.

“Cha Yu-jin from now on make sure to leave the room after contacting us. “Even if it’s a holiday we’re on an official schedule so be careful how you move.”

“Um okay!”

“…! “Uh-huh.”

Raebin Kim was embarrassed for a moment but soon became proud. You’re playing well.

However Liu Chengwu seemed to be thinking about something as he watched this scene.

‘hmm.’

Judging by the relaxed expression on his face I guess it’s no big deal.

And the real surprises will come to the production team in a little while.

‘I’m looking forward to it.’

I anticipated that scene while eating pizza.

And dinner.

Before the members’ group interview began I could hear the company and production team talking in the next room.

“As far as we can confirm this is a complete violation of the contract.”

“No there is a misunderstanding about that.”

“It’s too clear a violation to be called a misunderstanding. “It was all discussed when we first spoke.”

“If you go so hard with filming afterwards…”

“No. I heard that the artist has already told me several times to talk to the company. “I heard it was all recorded. I’ll check it out.”

“…!”

okay. This part is the problem.

Cha Yu-jin had already brought up the topic of ‘company’. And that too several times.

The person in question refused to speak up about a specific matter and asked to talk to the ‘company’ but they ignored it and continued to stick with it?

It is a breach of contract. This is because this clause is included in the contract.

[If Party A requests a request during filming related to Party A’s sensitive personal information Party B agrees on the timing of the relevant information.]

There is also a provision for compensation for damages in case of violation of the provisions.

Since T1 is behind this agency the studio production team which is not a broadcasting company will have no choice but to say ‘no way’ if the company takes a strong stance.

The guy who was eavesdropping on the noise in the room with me tapped my shoulder.

“Wow Mundae has a good head.”

“what.”

I shrugged.

Now all we have to do is use this as an excuse to destroy the data by scaring them that the documentary contract may be terminated.

“yes. “Please do so.”

And it seemed like the deal worked.

In the end before starting filming the production team even apologized to Cha Yu-jin which was closer to an excuse.

“I’m truly sorry if you were offended.”

‘It wasn’t an intention to do malicious editing it was just a desire to create more honest and better content.’

“…Okay~ But it’s my content so please listen to my opinion.”

Cha Yu-jin coolly accepted the situation and the matter did not get any worse but the production crew’s actions became more cautious.

It was beneficial to all members.

‘That’s it.’

I stopped Cha Yu-jin from gently raising her thumb in my direction.

The remaining documentary filming was conducted with a greater focus on Testa’s expertise.

And the night after the interview was over.

Testa left his cell and gathered in a huge hotel room.

“It’s very spacious!”

“Oh the facilities are nice. “Is Chungwoo shooting you?”

“Well just for today.”

Liu Chengwu the person who pushed for this answered as he closed the door.

“I think the company will handle the expenses from now on.”

“Forward…”

There is a future?

“huh. “I wonder if it would be a good idea to stay together like this for about one day a week while on tour. What do you all think?”

Liu Chengwu had a rather serious face.

“I thought about it but on this tour since we live alone and have almost no schedule we don’t have much time to talk to each other.”

“That’s… right.”

The guys who had been living alone for the past few weeks looked at Liu Chengwu blankly.

“I think that’s why Eugene’s work has become more complicated this time. “We didn’t have time to know each other’s thoughts.”

Liu Chengwu finished speaking with a smile.

“I wish we had time to talk and check in on each other. “That’s my opinion.”

I felt sincerity. And in an instant the inspired guys came out.

“brother…”

“Wow this is so touching!”

“I like it…!”

“It’s not… that bad. “In one day.”

Even Bae Se-jin agreed. Even the guy who was cheering in solitary confinement did this so in the end it was almost unanimous.

“What about the gate?”

“…Good.”

It was a good decision. Because it will prevent unexpected behavior.

I nodded calmly but suddenly realized reality.

‘I said it nicely for a moment… but ultimately isn’t it a workshop once a week?’

In the end we’ll gather these guys together check to see if they’re wasting anything and talk about the album promotions and concerts…

no. It’s already spread on the floor.

“We have the best teamwork. “I was impressed.”

“I think it would be a good idea to bring a beam projector to the next meeting.”

“Shall we order room service?? “Why don’t we play cards while we eat?”

“…”

Yes we have come a long way to treat something like this as just a co-worker. What’s going on?

‘It’s like a club room.’

I admitted lying down on the sofa. Now these guys didn’t feel uncomfortable bringing up the workshop.

‘…No it’s more than that.’

I won’t deny it. Even though I was surrounded by so many people… I felt very comfortable.

I relaxed and thought.

‘I guess I’ll just have to worry about touring like this for a while.’

…But I overlooked one thing.

Cha Yu-jin’s sensitive filming was left out due to the company’s strong measures but my filming was left as-is as there were no protests.

The ‘perfectionist idol who does his best while overcoming the aftereffects’…was just around the corner.

Chapter 267

As winter passed Testa began a dome tour in Japan scheduled to follow the US tour.

And as always with performances in Japan the supply of fancams plummeted. Thanks to this fans who were starved of content welcomed the documentary that appeared at the right time.

Filling the gap and increasing the value of the name at the same time.

Up to this point everything was as calculated.

The fans were quite excited.

-It's time to take a tester.

-It may seem like a lot of fun but trust the rare idol tester who makes you laugh.

-I saw the preview. It seemed to focus on emotion and visual beauty. There wasn't much content like this so I was curious (emoticon holding chin)

That is… until the first reveal is over.

The reaction changed as soon as the early part of Testa's documentary was released.

-Oh fuck

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

-Guys…

Due to the nature of the platform several episodes were released at once so fans watched all three episodes at once to understand the story.

At this time I also saw the finished edited version for the first time… Well I can explain it like this.

[Staff: Please sit down…]

[Park Moon-dae:… (coughing) No. it's okay.]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: I want to do my best when I can… (Edit) Yes everyone is like that. No one will give up.]

The documentary continued to focus on how serious Testa was throughout the concert and activities and how eager he was to complete the performance even in the face of pain.

-I knew this from the beginning but I can feel how much the kids love this job. It's heartbreaking.

-The kids really worked hard…

-The more I watch the more my love for Testa and my hatred for T-One grows…

But it was too much. To the point where fans were agitated and depressed.

'…I knew it from the moment I asked the question.'

Still I thought they would restrain themselves by dealing with the violation of the contract due to the Cha Yu-jin incident but on the contrary Cha Yu-jin's 'that side' part disappeared and this vibe was brought out more in the other members' parts.

Especially me.

[Dance Trainer: Mr. Moon Dae's physical strength is not what it used to be. It can't be helped.]

[Manager: (After the accident) We are paying more attention to ensuring that the artist has sufficient rest during the trip.]

When was that interview again?

The dedicated team staff also appeared and the editing was done amazingly making it look like I was actually fighting from an injury.

'Did I conduct the interview too gently?'

My answer was appropriate but in synergy with the interview with people around me it made me look like I was 'acting calm'.

Thanks to this fans were seen to be more directly uncomfortable when they went under the water.

-What is the purpose of editing? Do you want to do business with this? Why is the official doing something like this? Oh really haha I have no idea.

-Putting PTSD back in after barely getting rid of it

-I honestly felt uncomfortable watching it. Did Moon Dae really want to show that? I don't think the kid who was clenching his teeth like that didn't want to show that he was in pain and was having a hard time but I was just in a bad mood.

But it wasn't a big reaction. At best the atmosphere that I had when I won first place on <Azusa> with 'Unfortunate Family History' has become even more intense.

'Is it possible to sum it up to the point that there are different likes and dislikes?'

What that means is that the general public reaction was good.

This is because this new wave-like emotional code created a big story and emotional line that runs through the content so that the documentary is not boring.

————————————=

[The story of Park Moon-dae's aftereffects in the Testa documentary.jpg]

(Photo) Looking at the interviews with the members it seems like their physical strength loss is more severe than expected.

(Photo) Scene of Sun Ah-hyun being supported as she comes down from the stage.

————————————=

-He was flying around on stage but I was surprised to see him fall down. (????9028 ????62)

-I heard that he took the GED because he didn't want to embarrass his fans but he is truly a true idol (??7241 ????417)

-The documentary was worth watching. It brought me many thoughts. Recommended (????3173 ????42)

…Thanks to this the image of 'Park Moon-dae who is too serious about being an idol' was strengthened.

It can be said that the production team's intention was successful as it ranked among the 'most viewed contents in Korea' but let's just say that it was quite embarrassing.

"Oh~ Mr. Jin-guk Moon-dae~"

"Stop it."

Keun Se-jin chuckled tapped his shoulder and sat down on the sofa.

The guy also had a smartphone in his hand. It seemed like monitoring was mainly done through Inheart and WeTube.

Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders.

“Everyone just praises me. And how long will our 8-part documentary story last? “Don’t worry about your image~”

“…yes.”

That is correct. Just as the image of ‘Park Moon-dae who endured an unfortunate family life’ from ‘Azusa’ became blurred as he worked after his debut this too was bound to be erased over time.

It’s not like he appeared on some kind of public entertainment show but at best it’s a documentary exclusively for OTT services.

‘It will disappear by the next comeback at the latest.’

First of all it also meant that the fact that this guy reacted so indifferently was not a big deal.

“Mundaemundae let’s choose some funny pictures. Should I raise one?”

“I see.”

I decided to use comedy to neutralize the atmosphere and to focus on the fact that the documentary was well-made.

‘I just didn’t want it to fail.’

But it was a hasty judgment.

Some topics are not naturally re-evaluated as time passes. It doesn’t wither.

…That’s why I’ve been more careful.

* * *

What happened two weeks later was when the documentary was in full swing.

Most of the public other than fans has declined but at least many people know that ‘Testa’s documentary has come out.’

The timing was right when the remaining documentary crew left after wrapping up additional filming.

I was grabbed by the back of my neck in a rented studio.

“Park Moon-dae!! “Did you see this??”

“Why are you doing that…”

I looked at Bae Se-jin’s stunned state and looked away.

Smartphone.

Popular posts on the bulletin board.

1st Place [Cha Yu-jin Cameraman Assault (692)]

Why is this… here?

“…”

I immediately clicked on the article.

A short video without sound was attached to the article. And the short word ‘inseongㅠ’ was all it contained.

However the response was warmer than ever.

It was worth it.

This is because there was a frontal close-up shot of Cha Yu-jin frowning pressing down on the screen roughly with her hand.

-????

-What is this? Where did it come from??

-Maybe it's someone else?

The clothes are the same so what? (Capture)

-omg

In the comments it was already revealed that this was the backstage of a concert by matching Cha Yu-jin's appearance in Testa's documentary.

And once I thought I had figured out the situation it was one-sided.

-The mouth shape says 'Stop it.' Wow that's real personality haha.

-If someone sees it he thinks there's a camera on him so he walks over and hits the camera and tells them to stop.

-Of course things change in an instant once you get your annual leave. Wow…

Let's stop pulling the hair of those who are cold with years of leave. The coldness has shown their temper so it's time to get into the water.

Cold hahahahahaha

-I was so shocked that I couldn't speak. I couldn't even imagine that Cha Yu-jin would be like this.

-I thought he was an insider but he turned out to be a member of the group leader.

In an instant the derogation ridicule and stigmatization ended.

The hand gestures were captured so clearly on camera that people decided there was no need to make a fuss about it.

Because Cha Yu-jin's existing image was very bright and friendly the impact was even greater.

"What about the company?"

"…you will understand. "Because I heard the staff talking."

"for a moment."

I immediately went out and started looking through the latest posts. You need to watch the atmosphere and adjust your explanation.

And now the situation is…

[Idols who act violently while the same member is sincere on stage.jpg]

[For some reason Cha Yu-jin is the only one who does not appear serious in the documentary but I never thought I would know the reason haha]

[Isn't it embarrassing to see Park Moon-dae?]

You started comparing yourself to me.

That wasn't all.

[Ryu Cheong-woo also said the same thing and it seems like he only gathered people who come out first.]

[Aren't you influenced by the leader? LOL]

I started to connect with Liu Chengwu. Because there was a similar controversy.

However Liu Chengwu was clear in the name of protecting safety and this was explained in a video from a different angle.

So Ryu Cheng-wu's personal fans got fed up and took action.

[Please leave Ryu Cheong-woo alone he does this every time]

[Cha Yu-jin = hitting Ryu Cheong-woo = blocking]

[How long do I have to avoid that side?]

Cha Yu-jin's side was cut off.

And this… is because of the incident and image that Cha Yu-jin's fandom has built up.

This is because the early days had a great impact when the voices of individual fans who especially liked 'Cha Yu-jin' were strong.

Even if this is not the case anymore the image is inherited even if completely different individuals make up the majority of the fandom.

The evidence was so clear that even friendly people fell silent and all that was left were the voices of many people.

-Yes Cha Yu-jin leaves and goes solo… I'm exhausted.

-We are not treated as Bunk members.

Beginning with "Azusa" and going through debut and various conflicts old evils finally broke out at the worst possible time.

It was easier because my image was so good through the documentary.

The atmosphere among individual fans has already been shattered.

Of course there is no such thing as a portrait of the group's fans.

"…"

"…Are you okay?"

“It’s okay…”

I stopped talking. Because it wasn’t okay.

I felt like X.

“Let’s start with the meeting.”

Of course the company turned over.

And it seemed like he was trying his best to contact the documentary crew and find out what happened.

So the conclusion is…

“…So someone on the documentary crew had a computer break down and had it repaired and it leaked from there.”

“yes. Since the owner seems to be an employee of a broadcasting station it appears that the previously deleted content was also restored.”

It was an explanation that the employee came up with after being unable to overcome the members’ persuasion with an expression that said ‘I don’t know if I can say this.’

“I have heard that personal information is leaked in this way but honestly since it was a crime it is difficult to hold them responsible for negligent management…”

Okay I understand after that.

A criminal who was trying to find anything related to celebrities caught a big fish but it seems that Cha Yu-jin’s videos were not his area of interest.

So they upload articles and videos to one of the bad Deep Web sites for the purpose of attracting attention and showing off.

And one of the site's users leaked this video again to a general website for interest.

It quickly spread through social media and communities.

"…"

But even if I know the fucking principle I can't find the answer.

This was not a situation where a normal explanation would work.

'Is it because the documentary production team made unreasonable demands?'

It doesn't work. They respond by saying 'If you're dissatisfied I'll take your hand first.'

'It was not a hit it was a press and it was to protect members who receive rude requests for documentary filming… '

Who would believe it? There is no evidence.

I already destroyed all the data.

It's just an excuse.

Meanwhile if you even use the frame of 'Idols from large corporations are abusive to small studio production staff'…there really is no answer.

No matter how you make your official position you will be caught.

Cha Yu-jin who was nodding quietly raised her hand next to her.

"Do I apologize?"

"Wait a minute. Eugene!"

“Let’s wait and see.”

The members all started to try and stop him.

I said without realizing it.

“If you apologize you acknowledge it. “Just don’t do it.”

I don’t know if this is the right thing to say. Would it be better to apologize? But should he apologize for what he did wrong?

I couldn’t see any other answer.

Yujin Cha’s video is so strong.

In that case a stronger truth was needed to turn this around.

And of course the original truth is not that impressive. I need to process it.

‘Unplay… ’

no. It won’t work.

No matter how detailed the situation is whether the company downplays it or apologizes it doesn’t work. It sounds boring and like an excuse.

We need shocking and intuitive evidence that can be understood at once but…

There isn’t any.

“For now I will wait and see if the situation calms down.”

“yes. Everyone don’t worry too much. We have a performance next week so take care of your condition…”

The meeting ended like that. But the company probably monitors all night and holds endless meetings.

I also spent most of the night monitoring with my smartphone.

-I'm closing my account. I can't do it anymore.

-There's no such thing as a good day… You shouldn't tire yourself out by saying you like me but you should cherish me more. I'm not coming in anymore. Thank you so much.

-I didn't know ㅌㅅㅌ would be this popular…

Because I couldn't sleep.

And the next day. I could see the faces of other guys who had done similar things to me.

Except for one guy.

"Don't look at the internet for nothing."

Cha Yu-jin. Surprisingly this guy had a better complexion.

"yes!"

Cha Yu-jin nodded. And then he added:

[Brother don't worry about me too much. Because the truth always works in the end.]

Blood spurts to the head.

What does this guy believe and be so carefree? I know you're being criticized for something.

"therefore! It won't work…"

I clenched my mouth.

…Are you crazy?

Didn't I almost say something useless and just lowering morale?

It's not my business it's someone else's business.

'…No because we are on the same boat.'

I saw enough of the group's fans leaving last night.

But… I know. Ultimately this will be a problem that Cha Yu-jin can handle almost on her own.

Once this topic passes the group will recover but for Cha Yu-jin it will remain a label that will not be overturned every time someone mentions the incident again.

Nevertheless Cha Yu-jin was surprisingly calm.

"Hyung I'm really fine. I don't care about that. "It doesn't mean you can't perform on stage."

"…"

[Also are you going to say that even if I am okay my teammates are not okay?]

"…that."

[Stop worrying about me!]

Cha Yu-jin laughed but in the end she lowered her head with a downcast face.

"[And I'm sorry. Because it is true that it caused damage to the team. I really wanted to tell you.] I'm sorry…"

“There’s no need for that.”

I answered calmly.

“I agreed that they were in the wrong. “That is the end of it.”

“Ooh… That’s sweet. Thank you!”

Cha Yu-jin seemed quite moved as if she didn’t have a hard time. I held back a sigh.

‘I’m sure I’ll continue to have trouble in the future.’

However there was still no correct answer.

Should I admit that sometimes misunderstandings arise that cannot be resolved?

I sat on the sofa with my back to Cha Yu-jin who was entering her room.

“…”

It’s not that guy’s fault. And I did everything I could so it’s no one’s fault.

okay.

‘It’s just… the situation turned out to be so bad.’

…Really?

I got up from the sofa. I felt uncomfortable.

It felt artificial somehow.

‘Is that really the answer?’

Is it true that Cha Yu-jin's video was accidentally leaked from a computer?

…let's go back to the basic premise.

'Why on earth did that video remain on that computer in the first place?'

As we took action didn't we destroy all of Cha Yu-jin's footage?

Even if it was restored at a repair shop only the critical parts survived so neatly?

During that long filming?

"…ah."

Only then did I fully understand the situation.

"It was cut."

I was worried that these bastards might use it for negotiations or something else later so I cut out a portion of Cha Yu-jin's film and stored it on my personal computer.

Since they are at a disadvantage when the context is revealed only the part where Cha Yu-jin takes action is cut out.

'Fuck you bastards.'

Even if the leak was unintentional these bastards were the cause.

'The bastards who are filming documentaries are only thinking about eating hammocks instead of having a sense of duty.'

"haha."

Suddenly my head started spinning.

I quickly checked their studio information and roster.

If Cha Yu-jin's image cannot be completely restored shouldn't these bastards also be able to prevent something from recovering?

'weakness.'

I needed information.

First I checked all the image files in the documentary contract that I had received and recorded.

Representative producer and writer…

And the contact person's email address.

-Moon Seok-chun

/

It's a company email but it doesn't matter. What is important is the ID in front of the email address.

'I don't change my ID often.'

After checking the history on the studio's website narrow the search criteria to before establishment.

Then if you search by combining the ID with a common search engine address and changing the combination with the name a few times…

A few old articles that are several years old appear. This is a story about launching a certain program.

Also there is the address and name of the 'newly joining' studio production team that appears at the bottom of the content.

It matches.

‘yes.’

It’s likely that there will be one or two articles that even list things like this.

“I found it.”

– Producer Moon Seok-chun of Studio Eoje ()…

And the title of this article?

[〈Idol Inc.〉 Season 2 production confirmed]

That’s right.

These bastards were the production team of “Idol Inc. 2” which had planned a mixed gender project but failed.

After canceling the program he left the entertainment department and moved to the studio in the liberal arts department.

“That’s fun.”

I smiled with my teeth showing.

Chapter 268

Let's make a proposition.

The production team behind this Testa documentary are the ones who left the studio after the failure of Idol Inc. 2.

And after cutting only the advantageous points of the contract violation video they tried to steal it and even leaked it.

"…"

You fucking bird… let's calm down.

Now that I've put it all together it's even more absurd.

'I need someone to give me feedback.'

My head may become heated and my reasoning may make leaps and bounds so I need to maintain balance in my thinking.

I tried to tell the fact to the person who could think the most coldly.

"…somehow."

Hearing the reasoning the calm look on Geun Se-jin's face was completely erased. He looks like he finally understands it.

"For an educational piece trying to leave out the story was excessive."

"okay."

Mixed with the real cultured workforce it was mistaken for documentary madness. That was for entertainment purposes.

Thanks to this the Testa documentary was fun but since the work got stuck in such a mess they have to deal with it too.

‘I have to smash the rice bowl.’

I have no intention of ever seeing what these bastards do again whether it’s entertainment or the culture of celebrities disguised as entertainers.

What should I do?

First of all there is the most convenient and simple method.

“Why don’t you tell T1?”

“Well didn’t the company already know that they were part of the Azusa 2 production team? “Looking at it now it seems like they entrusted our documentary to us because it was their line.”

I shook my head.

“That’s not what I’m trying to say.”

“then?”

“They’re trying to sow suspicion about the situation.”

If you change the perspective of this incident even a little it will become a sentence that the company will be sensitive to.

‘I think they were deliberately trying to separately upload sensitive videos of their singers and sell them to other companies or make deals with them.’

It is a suspicion of fatal betrayal.

That wasn’t a mistake either but a very deliberate attempt to gain advantage.

As was proven in the case of Gold 1's agency Industrial Espionage the larger the company the more enraged they tend to be when they feel they have been caught.

'Then just make him feel like he's been caught like that and that's enough.'

I quickly explained the matter and then continued.

"I think they'll be even more angry because they think I've been stabbed in the back for raising them."

Let's gently encourage people to think that they didn't know the favor and rolled their eyes after rescuing those who were crushed with "Azusa 2".

'Well it's not wrong is it?'

Then the headquarters will take care of this and cut off these production crew members so that they will never be able to enter the major industry again.

And even if it doesn't you probably think it doesn't matter. Just having doubts makes me feel embarrassed and uncomfortable. It's common for even a small studio to disappear.

It is a clean and powerful social despair.

"…"

Big Sejin seemed to be rubbing his chin and then smiled bitterly.

"Honestly… I think it will work? "Mundae is very good at speaking."

"however."

"yes. 'But'…wouldn't that be beneficial to our situation? "It's just revenge."

“…”

Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders.

“Well I think someone like Bae Se-jin will like it but… if we do this it will end up in the hands of the company not us.”

“…yes.”

I’m not sure if Bae Se-jin will like it but the second half is anyway.

There are side effects when using this method.

‘This has to end.’

It is difficult to directly mention these guys again in Cha Yu-jin’s public explanation.

T1’s pressure will naturally be seen as unfair abuse of power by the public.

And that overlaps with Cha Yu-jin’s controversy.

– Cha Yu-jin used the abuse of power to abuse the wrong documentary crew again haha.

-Wow that idol is in that company.

It will sound like this and have the opposite effect.

Only by quietly handling them behind the scenes can these guys’ careers be brought to an end smoothly without any defense.

And that would be a wise way.

“…”

But why the fuck do I not like this plan so much?

Big Sejin is just as he said.

I hit the armrest of the sofa.

“I don’t like that.”

“Yeah I knew you would.”

I’m annoyed because I can see the picture of these production crew members losing their game due to unfair pressure.

Moreover even if I don’t bring this up it seems like T1 is already thinking the same thing.

If they had brains wouldn’t they have made a similar reasoning?

‘It’s just a matter of blowing some air into the game. It’s not a big idea.’

And… it’s also true that Cha Yu-jin has no real benefit from doing this shit.

‘Damn it.’

I hit my head on the head of the sofa. I need to make it more X.

“Woah Mundae would you like me to bring you some ice water?”

“no.”

Let’s think.

Is there a way to help Cha Yu-jin while also punishing these bastards enough?

And then he said it without thinking.

“…Can’t we overwrite it?”

Is there any way to throw these bastards as Internet scapegoats instead of Cha Yu-jin?

Big Sejin's voice became mysterious.

"Oh then it's the best but… hmmm."

I mean it's unrealistic bullshit.

right. As for being from 〈Azusa 2〉 it ends with 'what should I do?' They would say that they are trying hard to sway public opinion.

My head feels cold.

okay. Let's stop with useless fantasies and make realistic decisions.

Production crew: You can always make it X. Since I have verified the possibility I will keep it for now.

'And the only way that benefits Cha Yu-jin is… '

…I've thought about it many times but it's not there right now.

So let's look a little further ahead and think about it.

When people get tired of stories about Cha Yu-jin's abuse of power we need to tell stories that Cha Yu-jin's fans can get some comfort from and remain.

'Someone who will talk about Cha Yu-jin's daily behavior.'

What you need… is a witness.

"I need to ask you to gather testimony."

"Testimony? Oh Eugene is a good kid~ Oh my?"

"uh. "It will work later."

"…okay. "I think that's the best thing for now."

It's obvious but if you catch the timing right now and explode quickly there is a chance that it will work over time.

Big Sejin smiled bitterly. Does that mean it's complicated?

'I think I'm on my way to mental victory… '

I clicked my tongue and threw my smartphone onto the sofa. Keun Se-jin pats his back.

"Mundaemun University worked hard. "Don't worry too much."

"okay."

…I was craving beer.

* * *

Four days passed like that.

And as expected public opinion did not reverse as time passed.

Since there were no other cases it was quiet compared to the first day but even now when people are bored they bring up Cha Yu-jin's past videos and say things like 'Now that I look at it it's cheap.'

As planned empty or meaningful posts defending Cha Yu-jin were posted from shops where Testa frequently visited and from people who worked with her.

However most of them were pushed aside with ridicule that 'the company is trying hard'.

'If Cha Yu-jin appears at the concert like this… '

I don't know. Even if Cha Yu-jin looks fine she will be criticized and even if she looks mentally unstable she will be criticized.

“phew.”

I put down my smartphone. My head was pounding.

It was then.

“I’m sorry Moon Dae but please call me.”

“…? yes.”

The manager sitting in the corner of the workroom took his smartphone and flipped through it.

‘There is no one worth contacting like this.’

When I was wondering despite my fatigue the manager spoke quietly.

“He… he was a member of Mirinae.”

“…!”

At that moment several theories about the reason for the contact crossed my mind.

no way.

I put the smartphone to my ear.

“I changed my phone. hello.”

-Hello senior!

This is the voice we spoke with last time.

‘Was he the junior who debuted in second place at Azusa?’

It’s been a while but the situation was too urgent to waste time saying hello. I got straight to the point.

“I think you called because I had some business to do. Is that correct?”

-yes? yes!! Well… actually I was asked to do it.

Reasoning gets closer to reality.

I couldn’t hold back and said.

“Did the Mirinae Concert staff ask you to do this?”

-…!! Yes yes? No that…

And in the end I got the answer I wanted.

-yes. That’s an accurate judgment…!

“…”

Mirinae’s concert staff.

Testa did not bring all the staff who worked with him in the United States to Japan. Because Japanese performances tend to have a large proportion of local staff.

Instead the staff went on a small American tour of Mirinae promoted by the head of the headquarters.

So the staff member the junior is talking about is…

‘There is a high probability that we worked with Testa when we were filming the documentary.’

The junior continued speaking steadily with a slightly trembling voice.

-Well… I heard that the girl who looks after our muscles also worked during our seniors’ concerts. I heard that you are seeking testimony from an official…

okay.

-This really guarantees your personal safety! I'm saying I want to give it to you with conditions…

"Of course I should."

-yes yes…!

After the junior swallowed his saliva the main topic came out.

-I heard that she… recorded it.

Fuck you.

I held the smartphone with all my might.

'If you give me a massage… I'm the staff member who was next to you when the documentary crew was scratching Cha Yu-jin!'

Done. Done! If this is presented as evidence half of the public opinion will support it…

-Senior?

…No let's calm down. Confirmation comes first. I regained my composure.

"What kind of recording is this?"

Tell them that the documentary crew was recorded talking shit.

-Uh… So…

The junior answered in a calm voice.

Something unexpected.

-I heard that senior Cha Yu-jin protected your sister.

…what??

* * *

The story of the staff member who reported the recording was as follows.

The documentary production team tried to interview not only Testa but also various people involved in order to draw pictures.

And among them was this staff member.

-But I guess she refused because her physical condition was a sensitive issue.

They asked her to get permission from the person saying ‘It’s okay to be interviewed’ but the documentary production team must have known that was impossible due to Cha Yu-jin’s attitude.

That’s why we persistently encouraged staff to repeat requests or accidentally spill their words.

It must have been quite stressful but it was said that it was not the right time to ask for help so he endured it for now.

-But that didn’t work either… I guess some people were just being sarcastic and threatening.

Cha Yu-jin witnessed it and immediately came to help.

-He was very firm.

Also due to the nature of my job there are a lot of people trying to do something foolish so I recorded it all the time and it is said that that was also recorded.

– He said he was really grateful and thought about it a lot before saying it.

'…At the same time it was an industry that was sensitive to recording so I had a lot of concerns about even revealing it.'

Still it is said that he was impressed by Cha Yu-jin's ability to act and that he couldn't ignore the current situation so he ended up reporting it.

I crossed my arms.

"You say…"

"Oh I remember!"

Cha Yu-jin answered brightly.

"I remember."

"yes! The big camera person scared the staff. I said no but you didn't listen! So stop it! I said… Ugh! Kim Rae-bin are you crazy??"

"If something like that had happened you should have told me a long time ago!"

No one stopped Kim Rae-bin from hitting Cha Yu-jin. Then Cha Yu-jin began to shout that it was unfair.

[Wait a minute! Does everyone believe me when I say that? This is a different topic than me blocking the camera!]

Innocent bastard.

"Just make it the same topic and that's it."

"What??"

"Just take a look."

I called the company with the members. The staff's recordings had already been secured.

* * *

Five days after Cha Yu-jin's video was leaked.

On the Internet Cha Yu-jin had already fallen into tatters.

And people found additional enjoyment in the controversy that had been chewed enough to remove the bitterness.

That was the source of this video.

-It's a staff leak haha.

I thought this too. Cha Yu-jin seemed to have gritted her teeth and revealed it after being hit so damn hard.

-Wow I pity how bad the abuse of power must have been to risk being sued to leak it.

-This is a typical controversy over abuse of power as if the agency had just issued a notice of complaint. I never thought Cha Yu-jin would end up like this.

Moreover because the agency still had not responded people saw this silence as a de facto admission.

-I have nothing to say so I'm keeping my mouth shut haha.

-You can't respond to this because you can't deny it.

-It's better to say it's a composite.

The vague advocacy messages posted by officials had much less impact than the short and powerful video.

The moment when Cha Yu-jin's controversy was about to be solidified as an image without any further discussion.

-This sounds like Cha Yu-jin's story (link)

Only then did the article appear.

However the focus was not on Cha Yu-jin.

[Controversy over filming of Testa documentary… Concert staff transcript released]

[Again broadcasting? [Reconstruction of Testa documentary production crew transcript]

It was an article accusing the Testa documentary production team.

Although it is famous for invading the privacy of celebrities it was a media company that implicitly spread the perception that its data was therefore more realistic.

————————=

[(Exclusive) Why the Testa Concert staff reported the recording…"A monster created by the broadcasting station"]

January 202X. Testa has started a world tour. And we filmed a documentary showing the behind-the-scenes moments of the tour. (picture)

The Testa members in the documentary were earnest and sincere.

But was the filming process of this documentary honest?

Not long ago a recording of a staff member was reported via email.

…

————————=

The article clearly showed how coercive they were in order to film the documentary and moreover how rude they were to the unsuspecting staff.

————————=

Production crew: Are you having trouble understanding what I'm saying? Why can't you answer like this?

Staff A:…

Production crew: He doesn't say a word about whether it's good or bad. Really uncooperative. If the picture doesn't come out well it's OO's fault. You know?

————————=

And he showed his true colors in the second half.

It is a compilation of Cha Yu-jin's video and the corresponding transcript. It wasn't originally a video derived from this but the description was added to make it look like it was.

————————=

Producer: Can't you hear me? this…

Cha Yu-jin: (Running up and pressing the camera) Stop!

————————=

It was the magic of editing.

However even the production team could not prove that this was a patchwork.

There is an original copy of the recording but there is no original copy of the shooting data.

Moreover instead of mentioning Cha Yu-jin further the article strictly maintained the tone of 'How severe was the abuse of power for the artist to rush in and stop it?'

So that it can be seen as an article for accusation rather than advocacy.

————————=

Through its own investigation the reporter confirmed that the production team in question was originally an entertainment production team not a documentary production team.

It's "Idol Inc. 2"…

————————=

And in the end the message was made clear by revealing that they were from "Idol Inc. 2" which failed due to excessive stimulation and unreasonable numbers.

These guys are enough to harass people just to get a picture.

'This production team has ample reason to criticize.'

It was no different from sniping.

It was someone's strong will to return the bomb that hit Cha Yu-jin back to the person who made it.

-Crazy Azusa 2 production crew;;;

-It gives me goosebumps.

And that will worked.

Chapter 269

The fun of criticizing controversies is bound to become boring and tiresome as time goes by if there is no new firewood.

In particular people who had already been fed up with the Cha Yu-jin controversy for five days and were bored were excited by the newly introduced anti-war elements and events.

This is because it was not an act of taking away the object of criticism but of providing a new object.

-The production crew must have gone crazy.

-Where on earth do people like this come from? They pop up every time. What are they saying to the staff?

-Mangjusa Impact ㅅㅂㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

-No it's not some kind of mafia game. What's the twist?

-The staff must have been really scared. I'm glad they recorded it.

Even if this production team was not a celebrity like Cha Yu-jin the topic was still the same.

〈Idol Inc.〉 is a very famous series especially because season 2 was such a spectacular failure.

People were intrigued by the revelation of the production team's history as if a secret had been revealed.

And to make it easier to blame the new target Cha Yu-jin was returned to the victim position.

Just like he did to Park Moon-dae when he cursed Cha Yu-jin.

-What should I do about Cha Yu-jin being criticized for no reason by these crazy bastards? If it were me I would have gone mental.

-I'm so pitiful I can't even speak.

-I doubt that the video was leaked by the production team. Isn't that why Cha Yu-jin is hated like that?

Wow ㅅㅂ

This is really creepy…

The production team was smoothly transforming public opinion into someone with a more terrible personality than Cha Yu-jin.

And with public opinion suddenly showing signs of a reversal many fans and people felt a deep sense of helplessness.

-First of all they started swearing and destroyed humanity.

-Even if you put it in neutral gear you say the video is the most convincing evidence? No just wait a little while… just a little while

To be honest I wasn't sure about the circumstances at the time so I can't blame the people who cursed.

I think I'm a fan but I just think it's a good thing right now and that makes me feel at ease. These bastards don't change…

Even if I couldn't understand the situation there was nothing I could do. It was too dangerous to pour cold water on the public opinion that Cha Yu-jin had finally won.

There were many people who wanted to somehow rationalize their criticism of Cha Yu-jin.

So these fans also kept quiet and accepted people's criticism of the production team to restore Cha Yu-jin's image.

And Cha Yu-jin's recovery took this backlash and spread with momentum.

This sentiment intensified further when the agency secretly released a statement.

["I'm afraid of harm to third parties"…T1 Stars tester Cha Yu-jin reveals her position]

-If I thought there was no recording and just entered the room I couldn't tell the staff right away because I was afraid they would be misunderstood and suffer damage.

└ㅠㅠㅠㅠOh I'm really crying.

-Eujin let's do better. You are so amazing and wonderful but I don't know why there are so many unfair things. I hope the future will be filled with only happy things…

-It's really amazing. If it were me I wouldn't have been able to wait that long.

-I'm glad the staff reported it. After all you have to be nice to the people around you.

Of course there were people who noticed a sense of incongruity between the lines.

Even if it is a reaction to the situation in which public opinion is recovering.

-But why did Cha Yu-jin press the camera? Did the production team bother to hold the camera and do that to the staff? hmm

It must have been done while filming a documentary so it probably didn't matter since they edited it anyway.

Wow they're really trying to criticize me somehow. Don't you believe me even if there's a transcript?

Did you get a part-time job at Manjusa Studio?

-There is a transcript. What did you do for 5 days? Didn't you make a transcript and hand it over to the media?

This person said he plans to file a complaint with T1 Stars.

Of course this was broken up mercilessly by Cha Yu-jin's fans who gained energy and started flying around.

Cha Yu-jin's fans did their best to spread the news everywhere and change the frame as if to relieve the feeling of defeat from the past five days.

-Azusa 2 production team… It seems like they haven't gotten rid of the habit of ruining people's lives.

– Cha Yu-jin was supposed to prevent abuse of power but he accidentally took the blame himself.

-Somehow no one gave an explanation. Is it because the studio from Azusa a member of the T1 family becomes

When the fandom which originally had many members who were strong in such matters actively joined in public opinion quickly turned around.

And whenever there was a backlash against the rapid pace articles and circumstances popped up one by one.

[Azusa 2 production team issued statement]

[Anyway the staff was mistaken.jpg (feat. statement)]

[T1 seems to have finally put an end to Gapjil Studio]

By the time the work was repeated three or four times the controversy had slowly cooled down and disappeared into the background.

Just like that Cha Yu-jin took off the tag.

* * *

I checked the latest article.

Comments on a new article related to the documentary controversy.

[Is “Gapjil Studio” closing… Film J homepage closed (21)]

The scale has been reduced to a few dozen and most of them are brief insignificant emotional expressions.

“hmm.”

I looked up from the screen and looked up.

“It’s over. “I think it passed.”

“after!”

“Ugh…”

“Thank goodness Eugene…”

The members fell down making noises here and there.

This was because I had barely monitored the internet so far to check the performance conditions while waiting for things to be resolved safely.

It’s the same atmosphere as always.

‘Those who are not involved are more upset.’

I looked at the guy who was sitting alone on the sofa cracking open a beer.

widely.

Cha Yu-jin put down the can and opened her mouth seriously.

“My brother is a genius.”

You speak well.

I guess this manipulation of evidence was quite impressive.

“Thank the masseuse. “The only thing I did was hand it over to his recording company.”

[Of course I am grateful! I would like to give you a gift…]

“Absolutely not. “Just be thankful.”

If you get caught giving a gift those novel writers will come out again.

T1 will take care of that staff for their own benefit so it is best for both sides to just send their thoughts.

“Umm Okay.”

Cha Yu-jin nodded.

And he very politely offered me a beer of his own choice.

“…?”

“No alcohol! Drink a lot bro! Thank you so much.”

“…okay.”

When I looked again it really had ‘0.0%’ attached.

Now this guy even takes care of my non-alcoholic drinks. I picked up the beer can feeling a little nervous.

“Mundaemun University! Let’s start!”

“Now wait a minute…! “I haven’t opened it yet…”

“…”

Wow.

After waiting for a while I clinked my beer to the guys who held out cans.

Only then do they come to their senses and cheer and smile brightly.

“It’s good~ The food is delicious because I feel at ease. yes?”

“yes! “The room service food at this hotel seems to be very delicious.”

okay. Now we are all in a hotel room together.

Today is the day when the members stay in the same room once a week.

That’s what Liu Chengwu suggested.

Now that the Japan tour is over we had an after-party and celebrated Cha Yu-jin’s recovery to liven things up a bit today.

I shrugged my shoulders as I looked at the food and drinks lying around.

‘Actually I think we were originally planning to hold an additional tour.’

It seems that the company had planned to hold another encore at Tokyo Dome but it was canceled out of concern due to the Cha Yu-jin controversy.

So I return home tomorrow.

Of course it's not about taking a break.

"Let's finish the encore concert well in Korea."

"Good~"

An encore concert will be held in Korea soon. It was a good thing for domestic fans who must have been tired for several weeks.

'If you think about it that way… I guess it was a bit of bad luck that the dome tour coincided with the controversy.'

Cha Yu-jin would have been able to perform more comfortably as there was almost no information about the Japanese performance and at most there were only testimonials and blurry photos.

It was just a relief that the article broke before the new performance.

I checked out the performances from the last tour.

'Well the tour itself was okay this time too.'

It is true that the taste of the hometown is special but overseas also has its own taste.

'It was refreshing because there was always a translation into the local language or singing of a famous local song.'

For the first time in a long time I enjoyed a beer while focusing only on the performance… Although it is non-alcoholic.

And then I heard other guys talking.

"Eujin must have been having a hard time but you did a great job and performed all the performances. "I'm sure the audience enjoyed it."

"…I had a hard time."

Even Bae Se-jin was awkwardly patting Cha Yu-jin on the back. Is it the power of alcohol?

I looked at it without thinking and suddenly heard a noise from the guys my eyes met.

“Moondae also had a hard time.”

“…that’s right. “You too… were amazing.”

“…??”

Next to him Keun Se-jin suddenly burst into laughter again.

“Hey why do you look like that when you mess up the most?”

“An uproar?”

“okay! “You were so flashy when you threw your smartphone and hit the sofa remember?”

“…”

I briefly recalled my past history.

‘That’s right.’

And moaned.

“…That’s because I’m annoyed.”

“Why would you be annoyed? uh? “Isn’t it because you’re so worried about our member Yujin?”

no. This time I’m really angry because I can’t seem to find an answer no matter what I do.

However the tall Se-jin who is shoulder to shoulder with Cha Yu-jin is laughing as if his mouth is splitting open.

“Ah our team has a really good atmosphere~”

“…”

What is it?

If you think about it that way… it might be true.

I never expected to feel this much sense of belonging to this group.

And emotions are always influential.

I eventually smiled and opened my mouth.

“okay. I was worried. “You can’t not do it.”

“…!”

Then he looked at Cha Yu-jin and said.

“You held on well. “It was hard.”

If this guy had escaped things would have been twice as difficult but since he was a resolute guy we were able to handle it.

“…”

Cha Yu-jin kept her mouth shut and made no reply.

‘Now that I think about it it seems like there was no answer to what the other guys said earlier… ’

Before the thought was over Cha Yu-jin began to sob.

“…!”

“Yu Yujin?”

Instead of answering again Cha Yu-jin this time grabbed the head of the person next to her.

Kim Rae-bin who was suddenly attacked lost the champagne and was scared.

“Hey Cha Yujin!”

“Ugh!!”

But even Sun Ah-hyeon did not stop him.

…Because it was the first time Cha Yu-jin cried over this.

“…hmm.”

Kim Rae-bin also eventually understood Cha Yu-jin’s situation.

“Hung…”

So Cha Yu-jin cried excitedly for quite a long time holding her friend’s head.

It was a cool night.

* * *

Return home the next day.

Raebin Kim said that he would generously forgive his friend considering the special nature of the situation.

“I understand Cha Yu-jin’s anxiety and concerns as it was a situation where she could not be able to participate in group activities.”

That is correct.

So I guess T1 has also completely abandoned the studio side. This is an issue that could have a serious impact on the group.

This means that it is more profitable to preserve an influential idol group with astronomical profits than to have a studio with no results.

Of course even if you do this Cha Yu-jin will get some arrows back after some time.

-Still it's cheap to get out of hand first.

-Isn't it hard to say that Cha Yu-jin did well? She seems to have an impulsive personality.

Perhaps… a statement like this will come out. Once this kind of controversy arises it never completely disappears.

This means that Cha Yu-jin will have to pay more attention in the future to avoid creating similar controversies.

'It's inconvenient.'

Moreover the biggest problem is that the unity within the fandom has been destroyed.

Among fans of the group itself most of those who criticized Cha Yu-jin are apologetic relieved or cautious.

This means that the tension is enough to be sealed with one good content.

The problem lies with individual fandom.

'This… I think natural recovery will be difficult.'

First of all Cha Yu-jin's fans seem to have been extremely shocked.

This is because there were quite a few opinions from other members' personal fans that Cha Yu-jin should be removed from the group as soon as the incident occurred.

-After watching my child's personality and behavior for years I was heartbroken to see him cut off as soon as something happened. Was it that hard to wait until he came out with a statement?

-Cha Yujin solo? Might be better to be solo than in this dirty world

-It's just too complicated… I'm not asking you to take sides. It's true that those who came forward and cursed went too far.

-Yukjin is a guy who has never had an issue before so he immediately started cursing me because he thought how much he had to keep in check before something happened haha.

To be honest I don't think we can blame only one side since it happened as a result of various negative factors building up but for the same reason everyone was in deep trouble.

'This… I'll have to work on it separately.'

…I think we should build up to this Korean encore concert and make good use of it. In many ways.

Chapter 270

The atmosphere in Testa's personal fandom was shattered.

To be honest no beautiful solution will magically work here.

Do you expect the idea of 'since the members are good friends let's have a sense of solidarity and get along well with each other as fans' will work? It's a vain hope.

Liking the same person may be a good start but isn't the important thing in the end direct experience?

In that sense the Cha Yu-jin controversy was like directly experiencing the implicit trust between them that had been built up after the end of Azusa being completely shattered.

'But I can't blatantly promote Cha Yu-jin in return for compensation.'

If this happens Cha Yu-jin's personal fans will feel a little better but those who suffered from Cha Yu-jin's malicious personal fans in the beginning will explode.

-Honestly Cha Yu-jin hasn't done anything good so why are you giving her food to show off?

-I'm tired… I'm really tired so I'm going to turn around.

Words like this will pour out.

In the end there should not be any nuance that one side 'won' over the other.

"…It's difficult."

Several methods came to mind but it is difficult to draw conclusions because it is difficult to establish balanced standards.

'Let's collect some more cases.'

I tried to open the internet and it froze.

'…I think it would be better to ask the parties involved.'

Even if you come up with a method anyway you need the consent of the group to use it. It will be easier to proceed if you refer to their thoughts.

I decided to ask the members about the situation.

If you explain the situation specifically 'Our fans will get along better in the end!' Since the same distorted hope may be included I used a different analogy.

"So how can group members who have hurt each other to the extreme get along?"

"okay."

Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm just a person I work with~ Isn't it best to think before going? "You just have to look good when you're working."

It is orthodoxy.

It seems like

The atmosphere in our fandom right now is just right… It also means that there will soon be people who see the defection.

'The answer is that it will be difficult to maintain the status quo.'

"But why is Moon University suddenly like this? "Is there a group that has a bad relationship?”

“No just.”

Anyway I think explaining it in detail to this guy will only stress me out so let’s talk about it after I organize it.

I asked the same question to another guy.

And then we lost in a row.

“Now I don’t know. Uh… listening to each other and moving forward with respect…”

Kim Rae-bin’s pass.

“…How to get along better?”

“yes.”

Bae Se-jin asked back with suspicious eyes.

“…Are you sure you’re asking me?”

“…”

It means that you are not confident in your sociability. Let’s skip this too.

Liu Chengwu who happened to be sitting next to him answered as if there was nothing to worry about.

“If we all work hard together we quickly become friends.”

“…hmm.”

That too.

‘What are you doing to people who have already suffered enough?’

Of course Liu Chengwu answered without knowing what the subject was.

And he himself added his own explanation with a slightly embarrassed expression.

“Oh I’m not saying you have to work hard all the time… There is a reward and if you all overcome the same obstacles together you become closer. “That’s what I was saying.”

“ah.”

It felt like it was my own experience as an athlete.

‘That’s true though.’

Rewards and obstacles.

I decided to just remember this and move on.

And next something similar to Liu Chengwu’s but better sounding came out.

“I! I know! Let’s do something fun together! Like Sports!”

“sports.”

“yes! Let’s run and play together. And if we win together we become friends!”

It’s a useful idea.

‘Certainly… isn’t fan activity similar to a kind of sport?’

In the sense that there are rules there is a difference between winning and losing and there is a sense of emotional accomplishment.

The difference is that it is less immersive than playing sports in person.

However it seemed like a very good point of view so I asked once more.

“What if we run together but our hands and feet don’t work together so we end up fighting more? “What if you are selfish to score or the opponent doesn’t pass the ball?”

[Hmm… Those people will need someone to encourage them!]

Cha Yu-jin answered without hesitation.

[Why do you know? It makes you feel ashamed of what you did. After that if you focus more on the game and win you have no choice but to reflect and become friends!]

“hmm. okay.”

Ultimately that’s what it means.

If they cannot solve it on their own an authoritative third party must intervene.

But Testa can’t do that.

‘We can’t teach the fans.’

It would be a strange structure as if the company was trying to teach its customers. It would be absurd. I can already see that I am being hit by a headwind.

So what’s left… is it an appeal?

‘Should we be weak-hearted and think that they will listen to us?’

I frowned at the solution I had come up with.

…I don’t feel refreshed. It’s too fragmentary.

“Mumundaeya?”

“ah.”

When I turned my head I saw that Sun Ah-hyun was hesitant unable to enter the kitchen. I think it was because I was blocking the road.

It just worked out well.

“Is it okay if I ask you something?”

“Okay then!”

I moved out of the way and asked Sun Ah-hyun the same question one more time.

“What do you think should be done to make the group better among members who have become so emotionally offended?”

“Hmm??”

Sun Ah-hyun seems embarrassed.

Cha Yu-jin looked at him with interested eyes.

“Uhm…”

And Sun Ah-hyun seemed to be thinking deeply and gave an unexpected answer.

“I think… wouldn’t it be difficult?”

“…!”

It was just ‘impossible’.

“Because our relationship is already so bad… I think there must be a reason. So I think it would be very difficult for our relationship to suddenly become better.”

It was the most realistic and cool-headed answer.

“Of course other people might come up with a good way but I think so.”

“…okay.”

I nodded.

Sun Ah-hyun laughed awkwardly and Cha Yu-jin firmly raised her hand.

“But I like my method!”

“Oh what method…?”

I left the two guys talking and got lost in thought.

‘We’ve finished gathering opinions for a round so let’s talk… ’

A conclusion has been reached.

‘It is impossible to completely resolve the emotions right away in our power.’

Sun Ah-hyun was right.

This is not something that can be resolved immediately just because Testa does something.

So let’s put aside vague talk like reconciliation and relationship restoration and get back to the basics.

What moves people?

‘It’s a benefit.’

Achieve victory reward. Joy Ultimately when they are given the process is rationalized.

I remembered Liu Chengwu’s words.

-There is a reward and if we all overcome the same obstacles together we become friends.

This ultimately makes the joy of the result positive for the ‘team members’ who exist in the process.

So we also operate on the same principle.

‘We need to show each member the benefits of being a tester.’

When these seven are together you can immediately feel that they are the best most successful and like a first team.

So that we know at an instinctive level that maintaining this group is in the best interest of each individual.

You should realize that the fun you get from maintaining this group called Testa is greater than the stress you get from other individual fandoms that you don’t like.

‘And it makes up excuses.’

The emotional part comes in only to help make this process run more smoothly.

‘The kids are close to each other and work very hard together… Because the group called Testa seems precious.’

It helps fans cite emotional and human reasons instead of blatantly weighing pros and cons.

Let’s pretend we can’t win and be moved by the warm and passionate atmosphere so that the fandom atmosphere appears to have calmed down.

-Those people will need someone to encourage them!

In a way this is exactly what Cha Yu-jin said.

However since we cannot lecture the fans we have to go in a different direction.

‘So what to do is… ’

Testa needs to show that beyond working hard as an idol he values the group itself and attaches great meaning to it.

And now that I think about it I think it would actually cool down if it were as direct as an appeal.

‘It’s not mentioned but it makes you feel it deeply.’

Is this a picture of laying groundbait like that and then making the mulberry cold with a testa?

“hmm.”

[…Is it resolved easily after a team fight like that? Why are there so many sports movies?]

“I think that could happen…!”

I looked at Cha Yu-jin who was still talking passionately and Sun Ah-hyeon who was being persuaded and then I smiled once and left the kitchen.

“Where are you going bro!?”

“To wash up.”

Let’s organize things.

There are a lot of things to discuss in order to capture content but among them there was a priority.

‘I should ask them to contact W Live.’

First the encore concert format needs to be rescheduled.

* * *

Testa is holding an encore concert in Korea after a successful dome tour in Japan!

Of course it was news that everyone would like.

-Finally I can taste life.

-Please take my place this time.

-You’re coming back to Korea right away like this? Why does T1 know how to work?

And this time the next good news was waiting.

The moment ticketing ended W Live posted a notice.

[Failed to get a ticket for the Testa concert? don’t worry! Real-time broadcast OPEN on W Live♡]

It is a live concert broadcast on the Internet. The intention was to attract as many people as possible to the site but those who failed to purchase tickets were relieved.

-Wow I guess I invested it because the response was good during the donation con. I was so happy haha.

-Phew I was so mad but it was at least some consolation… ㅠㅠ

“joy.”

Kim Rae-bin's fan scoffed after reading the post.

'I didn't have to broadcast it!'

There was a reason for this to happen. This is because she confidently succeeded in reserving standing seats for this concert!

So now when I come to the concert site I can leisurely look through old posts.

'Well the atmosphere is nice.'

She put down her smartphone and glanced around.

For a while the atmosphere among individual fans felt like it was on thin ice but once they were offline everyone was harmonious and happy.

'After all is online just the world they live in??'

She clicked her tongue among the people filled with anticipation but soon nodded when she saw posts about the concert scene on social media.

-I just gave you a Wolf Cheongwoo cookie but it was ignored? Looking at it I'm that fan. It's ridiculous haha.

It was riding a scary ride.

'They just don't show it.'

It was a mess. Kim Rae-bin's fan decided to turn off social media and watch the concert. Otherwise he felt like he would interrupt and say something.

'Let's go take a good look at Kim Rae-bin and Park Moon-dae.'

What remains is what you see.

She waited to watch the concert on the left block which she had carefully chosen based on her previous experience.

Anyway my heart pounded when I saw my idol in person for the first time in a long time.

And after a while.

[Hello Seoul~!]

Wow!!

The stage started with explosive momentum.

The performance which opened with the most recent song ‘Drill’ overlapped with the previous concert in Seoul and quickly drew in the audience.

‘Go to the next song!!’

Because it was an encore concert there was little change in composition from the last Seoul concert but knowing the set list was also an advantage.

Because there is a taste of having expectations met.

Above all Testa’s concert had a power that could only be felt at the scene so even if it was the same taste on screen the intensity was different.

[You sting

Swallow it to your heart’s content!]

Title song sub songs and solo performances.

“Wow!!!”

It made me scream until my voice became hoarse.

The concert which was so skillfully controlled and paced went by in an instant and eventually came to an end.

[Bye bye~]

The stage lights dim and return to their default state.

“after!”

Of course it wasn’t the real ending. Because I already know that we’ll do three or four more songs as an encore.

Kim Rae-bin’s fan wiped his forehead.

I was told he was handsome so much that I felt like I was about to have a gestalt breakdown!

So I calmly thought about the next song.

‘Was the first encore song a medley?’

During the tour this was the part where one local song was included but originally it was a short arrangement of a medley of songs from the time of <Azusa>.

‘I guess it will go the same way.’

Kim Rae-bin’s fan guessed that and looked around at the people singing the fan song.

Given the atmosphere these days when the song “Azusa” comes out it doesn’t seem like memories will come flooding back but rather it will bring back memories of the bloody fandom relationship back then.

‘I don’t know. Let’s just curse at each other.’

She grumbled and erased her thoughts saying that no matter what as long as you get good grades it’s okay.

“I feel good today like something good will happen”

Meanwhile people were singing the first fan song while waiting for the encore.

It was a national rule but looking at the SNS earlier it seemed like a quarter of them hated each other which gave her a strange feeling.

The reason everyone seemed happy was because it wasn’t a lie.

‘There is a concert mulberry.’

Just by myself I am indirectly experiencing the feeling of being a fan of the group by singing along right now.

‘Come out guys!’

At that moment sound and lights returned to the stage.

Ahhh!

The tour promotional VCR that came out before the encore while people were cheering…

“uh?”

It wasn’t.

What was heard on the huge electronic display board was not a grand intro but a thin and warm acoustic guitar sound.

The melody of the fan song ‘The Magic Is You’ that people were singing just now.

And the person playing that melody on the guitar on the screen was… Kim Rae-bin.

“Wow…?”

However Kim Rae-bin's outfit was unusual.

Sleep pants and t-shirt.

Anyone can see that she is wearing very comfortable pajamas and her hair is tied up in a ponytail.

"Hmph."

And when I looked at it again the video didn't look like it had been shot professionally it just looked like a phone camera with a filter in it.

It felt like a very personal video.

[Umm mmmm~]

Next to Kim Rae-bin are Cha Yu-jin who is lying down and humming and Bae Se-jin who is sitting on the sofa and choosing food with a serious expression.

Behind them Park Moon-dae brought drinks and Lee Se-jin waved at the camera while looking for a towel after washing up.

[Hello~ What are we filming?]

[It's just a memorial.]

Liu Chengwu's laughter was heard. Then I rotated the camera around as if recording it and turned it off.

"uh."

And subtitles appeared at the top of the black screen.

[Testa Documentary]

[Produced by: Ryu Cheong-woo Bae Se-jin Sun Ah-hyun Lee Se-jin Park Moon-dae Cha Yu-jin Kim Rae-bin]

[Sponsor: Ryu Cheong-woo! <-importance]

Instead of a failed documentary it was a behind-the-scenes tour of their tour made up of photos and videos taken by Testa while preparing for the concert.

Chapter 271

Make your own documentary?

‘omg.’

Kim Rae-bin’s fan who was so upset that he felt like his stomach would turn at the mere sight of the word “documentary” felt a cold feeling for a moment.

‘Hey… ’

Isn’t it just a pimple from scratching for no reason?

But this thought did not last long and disappeared beneath the surface.

This is because the testa on the screen that appeared again looked very friendly.

It may be morning but the photographer who was taking pictures of the members lying on the floor with shaking hands touches them.

[Let’s eat.]

[Wow… I’m sleepy.]

[…I want to eat meat.]

“…??”

So rather than saying they seemed close to each other… their actions were simple and realistic without any purpose or exaggeration.

There were many videos of Testa that were well-processed through the planning and editing of the producers.

Even there Testa was unique and revealed his personality but this was the first time I was faced with such a feeling of not being conscious of the public.

Dirririring-.

The slow accompaniment is… the acoustic guitar of Kim Rae-bin's 'The Magic Is You' that came out just before.

The raw live sound that went through little mixing resonated at the scene.

[hmm.]

[You're not sure right?]

[a little.]

A group of people monitoring in between cuts practicing concert choreography.

Eating ice cream in a hotel room and absentmindedly watching a foreign broadcast.

In hotels in other countries people throw cards at each other while playing board games.

[haha!]

The photographer's laughter echoes above the guitar. The screen shakes.

Short videos continued like that.

"…"

Kim Rae-bin's fan was already watching the video without thinking about anything else.

And I didn't even realize that I was like that.

The screen follows the members who dance throw and catch objects check their hair dye come off the stage and run around laughing.

And when the accompaniment passes the bridge and enters the climax.

Wow…

The concert preparation and after-party photos taken by myself passed through the video like a panorama.

Park Moon-dae grilling meat and Lee Se-jin shaking drinks at the after-party for a photo of everyone holding firecrackers on the beach.

Cha Yu-chan smiles as she climbs onto the rehearsal stage equipment…

It was countless hours of testa without even knowing when or how it was filmed.

In addition to their activities the fact that they share a lot of time on their own poured out like a huge meteor shower through one screen and one connection…

"…"

The audience became completely silent with the occasional scream gone.

And only then was Kim Rae-bin's fan able to scream internally.

'You… you shameless bastards!!'

The chairman was already drenched in melancholy.

The group's fans who generously sacrificed money on the documentary to save Cha Yu-jin are probably shedding tears while watching the broadcast.

And she also felt that her nose was getting cold for some reason.

The atmosphere at the venue was so heated that it was strange that it didn't.

"under…"

She admitted feeling unfamiliar with herself as she became more emotional.

'Okay I think it will work for now… '

It may not last long but adding this kind of spice to the magic of the concert was bound to have an effect.

'After the con is over the mood will get better for a while… '

However the members' preparations did not end there.

[Preparing for encore]

Under the subtitles that appeared in the video there was a silent scene of the members talking while ordering chicken in the studio.

And even entering the recording booth wearing comfortable clothes.

[In other countries they sang songs that were famous in that country. So… I think it would be good to do that in Korea as well.]

The screen where I recorded the short handwritten note turned black again.

The gently sounding guitar sound reached its climax and subtly faded away.

And subtitles.

[Commemorating the birth of Testa]

[200X]

[The song most people listened to the year Testa was all in Korea]

The stage opens and the dry ice is gently pushed out awakening the smell of the stage.

And instead of the medley from “Idol Inc.” a lyrical accompaniment with a rich melody began to flow.

“…!”

Familiar and good melody.

Cha Yu-jin and Kim Rae-bin This is a carol sampling song released at the end of the year in which the youngest members of Testa were born.

[Getting better]

The carol arranged as a Korean-style ballad resonated beautifully in the concert hall.

Then a lift slowly rose from under the dry ice on the stage floor.

The members dressed in neat winter casual clothes stood on top of it.

Bae Se-jin wearing a coat picked up the microphone first.

-When a trivial mistake hurts

When you feel like you’re falling apart due to a small wound

The voice without excessive technique somehow sounded sincere.

-I just sit quietly by the window.

Think about me next year

Sun Ah-hyun raised a clear bass note.

And Lee Se-jin adds harmony and sings the next verse.

-Same season same day

When I suddenly think about it and look back

The orchestra rang. The live band which had been making strong sounds throughout the concert stopped playing electronic instruments and used soft string and keyboard instruments to build up the sound.

A clear and strong voice rose above him.

-This is a gloomy day

Becoming fertilizer in my heart

Sharp pains

Be my strong screw

It was Park Moon-dae's voice. A solid sound comes from inside a pink head wearing a gray mustang.

A harmony that was pleasant to listen to was connected above and below. Ryu Cheong-woo's mid-bass voice took center stage.

-Go down there and end up

On the day I become

Cha Yu-jin sang the last verse with a smiling face.

-I won’t mind.

It was a sound that sounded somewhat reassuring.

“…ah.”

A video of the lyrics and mood dictionary of the song.

Everything came together and created a crazy synergy.

‘These kids… they really worked hard.’

A strange sound that suppresses tears can be heard intermittently from here and there in the audience under the acoustics.

Kim Rae-bin’s fan tried to think that she was trying to maintain her cool rationality saying it was too blatant.

I beat myself up thinking that it would be just like the internet meme where people hold back their tears and pretend not to be touched.

-You won’t mind.

The song was developed truthfully and affectionately without excessive embellishment.

Lights twinkling along with the movements of fans slowly waving their light sticks in all directions.

The sampled carol melody spread through humming.

-Du- dururururudu-

The audience was immersed in the performance between the harmony of sound and light as if immersed in the depths of the warm sea.

-Happy new year to you

I know you'I'll be okay.

The song ended with a moderate bass note.

"…"

'It's a fraud.'

Kim Rae-bin's fan muttered as he watched a close-up of the smiling members with their microphones down appearing on the electronic display board.

'It's just… it sucks the concert to its core… '

Perhaps because I was a personal fan I felt like I had been taken advantage of.

I felt like all the emotions had been sucked out of my body.

'Are you that good at Testa you guys… Ravin… '

She felt a complex sense of defeat as she watched Kim Rae-bin dressed in cute white padding holding hands and greeting the members…

Unlike before there are a lot of fans who win over their idols but at least not at this moment.

However Kim Rae-bin's fans made up their minds once again.

'But it's just a moment! And then next week all the buds will fall out… '

[Thanks for listening.]

[How did you like the song we prepared?]

"It was great!!"

“Waaaa!!”

I can’t help it. It was the audience’s reflex.

The members smiled with anticipation on their faces got off the lift formed a formation and turned around.

[The next encore song goes right away.]

‘With those clothes??’

The members were seen throwing their winter coats in front of Kim Rae-bin a fan whose thoughts stopped and a question arose.

Inside was a typical stage costume of leather pants and a white linen shirt.

“Ugh!!”

It was a typical production but it worked well.

The lights went out as screams poured in from the guys who took off their gloves and hats and threw them far away.

And the sweet resonating intro.

It is ‘Wheel (day)’.

-Spin the wheel

So that it flies far away

The melody resonates and is beautiful

It touches my heart let it pop

‘Hmph.’

That song… I did it earlier.

Well it was a good performance no matter how many times I saw it (perhaps because it was a song written by someone) but it was true that it was a bit surprising.

-Spin the wheel

To go to your dreams

Stay like this again today

It's not over let me in

And to say that the costume was for the 'Wheel' had a bit of a spicy taste to it.

It was unbalanced.

'Hmm.'

Did you rehash it because you were in a hurry to prepare?

It was a moment when Kim Rae-bin's fans were about to cool down a bit.

-Flying Now

Whi-whee-whee-whee!

"…!!"

Suddenly a familiar whistle entered the song.

And naturally a strong bass and beat came into the song…

It was dropped like a lie.

-Jump off

No need for a parachute

just run

‘It’s a drill!!’

That’s right. The chorus of their double title song ‘Drill (Night)’ instantly took over the song.

Meanwhile the stage where the members were standing changed from Wheel’s faint and refreshing feel to intense pinpoint lighting.

The luminous paint that was hidden in black on the leather pants they wore sparkled in the light.

And the point choreography of ‘Drill’ that goes in without any hesitation.

“what!!”

And only then did everyone understand the situation.

– Come in

(let me in)

These two titles were combined into one song and remixed!!

And subtitles appeared on the broadcast to those who were watching this scene.

Testa – ‘Daybreak’ (Wheel + Drill)

It was the title of a new song.

-I didn’t know that the ㅅㅂ challenge was a preview of a new song.

-Get rid of the genius idol

-Are you crazy? Are you crazy? Are you crazy?

-I like the song; What happened

Even while the people watching the broadcast were talking the song was racing like crazy.

And for the chorus the two songs were mixed together to create a new line.

-like a drill

Dig in and grab you

yes it's beautiful

It touches my heart let it pop

I don't know what they did but they were mixed amazingly without losing both their vibes.

The structures of 'Wheel' which was pleasant to listen to but a bit boring and 'Drill' which was intense but a bit excessive fit together like a puzzle.

Moreover the members maintained that delicate balance in an unbelievable way.

The stage was intense and had a somewhat refreshing carbonated feel but at the same time it had a humorous flavor.

-Turn my ferris wheel around

Light bursting like a star

The fact that only the scenes that received a good response from the two choreographies were selected and compiled together gave the pleasure of filtering out the ‘best’ ones.

“Aaaah!!”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan screamed but he couldn’t really hear it.

Because the surrounding area was already filled with screams.

The tension was maximized in the audience contrasting with the stage just before where the adrenaline rush of joyful surprise and satisfaction exploded.

-Enjoy the moment

That’s my thrill ha!

Cha Yu-jin’s satisfying chuimsae and tumbling in the group choreography that hit like a sword were refreshingly captivating at the concert hall.

Argh!

“Uuuuuu…”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan was sobbing as if he was going to die but eventually admitted it.

I think it will be a long time in the future that concerts will disappear.

* * *

Testa Seoul encore concert ends on the first day.

An hour and a half later the Internet situation was like this.

-After all your main job is important hahahaha.

-Testa How ridiculous this is. Usually combining two songs creates a sense of incongruity. It is not easy for songs that are so different to fit together well.

That's right and 'good + good = better' 〈- In this official song there are a lot of cases where it doesn't fit due to flow issues but how did they pull it off;;

-You're so good on stage. Those who did the damn challenge should be ashamed of themselves.

'Good.'

It seems like all the desired effects were achieved.

Now all we have to do is for those who are satisfied with the quality of the stage to maintain a truce mood by citing the poor documentary we filmed as the reason.

And it seemed like it was already being steadily realized.

-Testa… is family…

-Where is the guy who said he was going to shoot those who run a family business? I was shot dead. Not in me.

-How can these seven people come together? I'm so moved that I'm crying. Testa Forever… ☆

The voices of the group's fans grew louder.

'Because when people are satisfied they become relaxed.'

I shrugged and put down my phone.

"Did it turn out the way you wanted?"

"uh."

"Quickly sit down and eat the meat Park Mun-dae!"

I sat down and had a late dinner as Bae Se-jin who was drunk and brave said.

And I thought about the relief hitter who would come before this concert ended.

‘We did everything we had to do.’

It reduced fatigue and gave a sense of justification and satisfaction.

So what’s next? It is a battle with the enemy.

And just in time some very suitable people come.

An object of comparison that will make fans say things like ‘We are still better than them’ or ‘Seeing you again as a fairy’.

And at the same time… an external enemy.

I remembered the article I checked just before.

[〈Re-listing! [Idol Co. Ltd.] Season 3 first stage released]

It’s the new season of “Idol Inc.”

A season for male idols not female idols. Testa’s immediate junior.

‘If we can just prevent fandom leaks there are rare external enemies like this.’

I shrugged.

Let’s see what happens.

Chapter 272

We even had a brief promotion with a new remix song released at the concert.

The response was so good that an agreement was reached to row when the water came in.

-Crazy music comes out ㅠㅠ

-How on earth did Testa endure this until the concert was released? Was it really a challenge that he couldn't endure?

-Please give me more. I can't end it here.

Since it was a concert release I thought it would end up being talked about as a famous song among fans but there were quite a few other reactions as well.

-Wow was this really planned from the beginning?

□I think it would be surprising even if it was paid in a hurry. Either way there is no joke.z

-Idol agencies these days are of high quality. I like the promotion of national prestige.

Since I had the foundation built up from the last album and also won against Younglin in that promotion it seemed like the popularity of both songs was good.

Thanks to this Kim Rae-bin seems excited.

————————=

My name is Raebin Kim. Even though it was a remix for a concert and not a title I would like to thank you all for your interest in the song. This work starts with connecting the base…

————————=

…9 chapters of short sentences about composition that start like this were registered on Testa's public SNS.

For reference the hearts shared in the first post were cut to 1/5 by the 8th post. It's a tacit sign that you don't understand what's being said.

"Ravin what you just posted…"

"I think everyone has a lot of questions so I've summarized the arrangement process in my own way. What do you think?"

"Ugh that's really good."

He looked happy and moved on without saying anything more. Dark history is your responsibility.

Anyway it's true that this guy who even made a remix while on tour is amazing.

-… How on earth do you make something like this? No when?

-During my free time during the tour I refined the arrangement of the music used in our challenge as a hobby.

-That's… a hobby?

-yes!

I briefly recalled the conversation between Bae Se-jin and Kim Rae-bin. And then I thought again.

'Receiving multiple opinions… is helpful.'

Without Cha Yu-jin's challenge opinion this idea would not have come up.

I admit that although this brainstorming method is not time efficient the results are quite good.

Anyway for that reason we are currently in an active period.

"We need to move quickly."

"Yes~"

This short unplanned activity was not as intense as a full album.

It mainly consists of appearing on the WeTube stage video channel or uploading own videos. Or just advertising for profit.

In other words it means that it is close to providing content for fan service.

Since there was also the Cha Yu-jin controversy I planned to reduce my excessive public attention for a while and wait until my image stabilized by focusing on fan activities.

'I'm thinking of including this remix as a sub song in my next comeback.'

Still the activities were quite fun for the first time in a few months. It wasn't as crazy busy as it was during the official promotion period.

"What about tomorrow… what kind of WeTube channel interview was it?"

"that's right. "I heard it's a channel where we can meet kids and listen to our songs."

"Oh is it good? "I wanted to try something like that~"

Because it was not a large-scale activity or an activity where I had to prove anything I felt comfortable and it was a fun activity.

I think the fans felt the same way.

-Chungwoo who looks at the babies with honey-filled eyes is really guilty…

-Our Hamchi is doing his best to hold back laughter when he says that he is the most handsome (video) You can just smile Sejin… (laughing and crying emoticon)

-The stage studio cut version appeared. I like the outfit the best. The racing suit is the best.

Lee Se-jin: I promise I will wear something that sticks to me for the rest of my life.

I also really liked the effect of this activity slightly extending the afterglow of the concert.

Thanks to this the conflict between individual fans did not rise to the mainstream of the fandom atmosphere for a while and was subsided as a fight behind the scenes.

And 'Re-listing! It was around that time that news about "Idol Co. 3" quietly came out.

As we were moving from the Tnet building we saw an advertising video coming from a huge electronic display board in one corner of the first floor lobby.

[Shareholders! Do you remember your idol stocks?]

[We will list it for you this April!]

The color is so dazzling.

"Oh… you're doing it again."

“Sure.”

Obviously the word ‘necessarily’ would have been omitted in front of that word.

The video continued to show highlights from last season and eventually changed to the “Azusa” logo which included a large Roman letter III.

“But isn’t it Season 5? Why 3?”

“The season we appeared in was a renewal so if we make that the first it would be the third or fifth.”

“Ooh! I understood!”

okay. Even the media which inevitably wrote about the entire season until last season is now basing its standards on the season in which Testa was produced.

‘There may be a loss of momentum to Tnet which is working hard to maintain the re-listed title… ’

It may be because the tester was so popular. It has become a kind of symbol.

Because of that it was a bit bitter that I was able to continue with this sadistic audition.

In addition there was a lot of media play based on our name.

For example something like this:

[〈Re-listing! Appearance of the second tester of a new generation of idols shown by Idol Inc.?]

[“A new global male idol is coming to succeed Testa”…〈Idol Inc.〉new season]

Well it wouldn't have any effect on Tnet if we stopped or refused to do something like this so we gave up.

'It's been less than three years since we debuted but it's already a bit funny to see things like this.'

Anyone who sees it will think that it's an idol from VTIC's annual contract renewal season.

And the internet reaction… isn't it obvious?

-Stop giving another injection.

-Why is there another Buldak K-pop camp on Netflix Azusa?

-At this point the beef bone soup doesn't even come out. You crazy people please stop.

Something like this.

However it has become a bit sharper. Especially Testa's fans.

-LOL Why? Testa is alive and well but it's in vain. It doesn't work.

-How many times has Testa been mentioned in the article? It's already making me angry to be tempted to transfer.

-If you sell it to Testa just to promote Mangjusa I'll kill you. Take care of the first team you have. You bastards there's nothing I like.

This is because last season's male idol Testa is on a high and a direct junior appears.

It's different from last season's female idol 'Miri Nae'. This is because the target groups exactly overlap.

It's not even the time for a generational change nor is it time for Testa's five-year contract to come to an end. It's natural for fans to be annoyed and say it's stupid.

In addition there are other uncomfortable points from Testa's perspective.

"…I wonder if many of our fans will see this too."

"Well there are probably people like that."

"…"

The similarity is in positioning.

If the audition narrative is the same there are definitely people who will be attracted to the fresh taste. And you may end up feeling bored with the old one.

That's what makes the new season of Azusa more threatening than other groups.

But there was nothing to worry too much about.

"No no. Our team is doing well! I'm not worried at all. Fans it's okay to see this! We like it more. "I did a lot of cool things!"

"It's been a while since Cha Yu-jin is saying the right things. "I think so too."

It's just as the two youngest guys said.

'It's already been a few years since the testa was decided.'

Testa's already built world view and album image were strong enough to just blindly say 'the images from the audition program overlap'.

Perhaps conscious of that the members quickly smiled shyly or shrugged their shoulders.

"Yes that is correct. "Let's work hard."

"Hehe."

“Of course!”

For reference I thought of this the other way around.

This is not a problem we can overcome…

‘I think it would be beneficial.’

The fact that the narratives overlap is actually good.

There are benefits to the fandom atmosphere that offset some damage from the leak.

Normally when people have something to compare with openly they weigh the pros and cons more coldly and rationally.

The satisfaction of objectively judging that our quality is better than that.

And the same goes for fandom. Due to the nature of this program the fandom atmosphere for the new season is… what do you know?

‘It was always a mess.’

It will be six months of accidents and bloodshed throughout the airing and from the airing until the debut.

This is a condition that can never be defeated by comparison. You can gain an unconditional advantage over your opponent.

‘good.’

I had vaguely thought about it up to this point but I liked the new season of Azusa because it came out at a more precise time than I expected.

‘I can fix it like this.’

The fatigue was sufficiently reduced during the concert so it won’t be a feeling of getting bored and taking a break from fan activities.

You can have enough fun and only turn your anger outward.

‘Get your anger out. Satisfaction is within.’

Moreover no matter what this season did the chances of surpassing the heights of our relaunch season were extremely slim.

This is not arrogance but an objective fact.

‘It’s just that our season was incredibly timely and we had a good talent pool.’

It is difficult to have that kind of luck continuously.

“Anyway… it reminds me of the old days.”

“Hyung isn’t that the line we said when we were doing that hotteok selling variety show?”

“Oh really? haha!”

Sun Ah-hyun added her words carefully.

“I hope everyone does well without getting hurt.”

“that’s right! Cheer up guys~”

“As a senior from a season a few years ago I have a variety of emotions.”

That’s a really good thing to say but it probably won’t work.

I touched my chin when I saw the season 3 logo.

‘These guys… will break in all directions.’

The season is slowly falling apart due to the pattern but the results of the ideal idol audition are compared to the peak season.

‘We have to rise to a certain extent so that our weakness will last a long time.’

If this season doesn’t perform at an incomparable level it won’t be as effective as I want.

So I was hoping that this season would be at least average.

“Everyone please let us move…”

“Huh yep!”

“I’m sorry manager~”

We took our eyes off the screen and started moving again.

It was some time later that I checked the news of this new season again.

Testa was filming relay dance content for Tnet.

“I’m sorry but can you take a picture if you have a moment? “Just keep it short!”

“Oh yes.”

There I happened to be filming a sports cheering video in my spare time and I met an unexpected face.

“Huh! Hello senior!”

“Yes hello~”

It was Mirinae who had just finished her US tour and entered the country.

‘It looks like they’re filming a variety show or something.’

There was nothing to say too much so after saying hello we immediately started filming our cheers.

“I’ll get one each as quickly as possible!”

“yes.”

I finished my part first sat on a chair in the hallway of the broadcasting station and played some logic on my smartphone.

It was then. A member of Mirinae bowed his head and spoke.

Looking at his face… Oh he’s from first place.

“Hello senior Moon Dae!”

“yes. Hello…”

And the first place person sat down next to me.

“…?”

Why?

However he wasn’t sitting particularly close to me and he didn’t seem to think anything of it so I didn’t react any differently.

Instead I looked away and saw a poster posted in the hallway.

It was the new season poster for Azusa.

‘They put this all over the place.’

Although I was worried I thought there was quite a bit of support from within but suddenly someone next to me started talking.

“Senior are you watching this season?”

“yes? No I just caught your eye.”

“is it so? “We went filming here this time!”

I see. It wasn’t an awkward situation since we were also mobilized for Mirinae’s season. He probably came to give me some encouragement.

I nodded and first place was… a dissatisfied expression?

“But I think I went too far this season! Are you saying it’s severe? “I wouldn’t have been surprised if the contestants ran out crying.”

“…”

“I saw some bad contestants there so it seemed like the good contestants were going to have a really hard time. Hey we didn’t do that back then!”

Were we… going to have this conversation?

‘I think this is my first time having a one-on-one conversation.’

Well it was a conversation that would end in a minute anyway. I nodded again.

“is it so.”

“yes! Oh I thought it was completely crazy that they were asking the Platinum class to pick one contestant who didn’t deserve to be on the first stage? And I even really took it off!”

“oh.”

It was shocking. This must be really messed up.

‘It’s sure to be a hot topic.’

My skill at filling my stomach by being mean to my kids has not gone anywhere.

I was impressed and the first place person nodded his head loudly.

“I thought you would think it was too much!”

“…yes. hmm.”

He was a standout guy in many ways.

‘The person taking care of it must be having a hard time.’

Sure enough after a while the second place person finished filming and when he saw this his complexion changed and he rushed over.

And on behalf of the manager who was running around taking care of other members I started doing my best to resolve the situation.

This means that the mouth of No. 1 was blocked.

“Senior! In fact we can’t open Inheart… Up!”

“It’s not that I have selfish or bad intentions… Yes. “Yulgi is usually very friendly with everyone… Yes…”

I answered quietly.

“I understand so don’t worry and just go. Thank you for your hard work filming.”

“…yes!! thank you!”

After making eye contact with me the second place person must have realized that it was sincere so he became angry and disappeared taking the first place with him.

Although the first person was embarrassed he bowed rather politely and quickly disappeared to the end of the hallway.

Big Sejin was impressed.

“Wow you sure have a personality too.”

“uh.”

This may be a characteristic of the audition group.

* * *

While traveling in the car that day I re-watched the new season of “Idol Inc.”

I originally planned to monitor it but I planned to watch it after I accumulated up to 4 episodes.

‘It seems like the success or failure of a program is usually decided around the first team match.’

But since you heard the story it might be a good idea to check it out now.

I quickly flipped through episode 1 to check it out.

[I was really surprised…]

[The participant whose rank I will push out is the (bleep) participant.]

[Huh oh oh!]

Well it’s all the same from the obvious editing to the touching and cruel characters of the participants.

It just got a little more cruel.

‘You’re fast.’

But it was fun. And there is some buzz on the Internet as well. There were a lot of harsh reviews but that was a characteristic of Azusa.

It's inevitable that it will be cliché but I didn't think this program was going to fail.

No thanks to some reluctant contestants the buzz seems to be better than the last Mirinae season.

"…hmm."

It's also bad if it gets too hot than I expected. Let me check some more.

I checked the rankings that appeared at the end of episode 1. Then I entered the name and ran a search.

And I selected a few people who seemed most likely to debut.

'Gold 2 is coming again.'

A contestant with extremely good prior recognition a good-looking contestant a contestant with main vocal position a contestant with good talent…

And this guy is satisfied with two or three of these things.

[1st place Chaeseodam]

'This guy has the biggest reaction.'

He is 24 years old. Since he is the same age as Park Moon-dae he would be the older one at idol auditions. However it seems to cover it to some extent because it is young.

Above all he was the center on the first stage. It means platinum level.

-I found a video of Chae Seo-dam ballet and it turned around and I thought she was an angelㅠㅠ (video)

And a ballet major… d.

‘hmm.’

This is a condition that reminds me of Sun Ah-hyun.

At that moment Sun Ah-hyun who was sitting next to me slightly lowered her head to the side. I was watching a blurry ballet performance playing.

“It’s radish. What are you looking at…”

“…”

I heard the sound of someone taking a breath.

what?

I turned my head and checked on Seon Ah-hyeon.

“…!”

Sun Ah-hyun was stiff.

While looking at the screen.

“Seon Ah-hyun?”

I can only hear a faint sound like ‘Ugh… ’.

I immediately looked back at the screen.

In the video that was already on autoplay there was a close-up of the center smiling brightly on the first stage of the season.

Sun Ah-hyun saw this and now…

‘for a moment.’

This bastard… Being the same age as Park Moon-dae means being the same age as Sun Ah-hyun.

"…"

'Fuck no way.'

That's how I discovered it.

It's not a matter of whether or not this season will rise or fall but a completely different crisis.

Chapter 273

Let's organize it.

Sun Ah-hyun reacted quite negatively after watching the current #1 video of the new season of 〈Idol Inc.〉.

Because I was sweating and stiff.

-Are you okay?

-It's okay…

This was almost like repeating what I said.

"…"

I later heard excuses such as 'I'm not feeling well' but of course I can't believe it.

'Is it possible for a normal person to suddenly become unwell after watching a ballet video?'

However the reason was not asked on the spot. Because there was a reason I could already guess.

And I wasn't the only one who noticed Seon Ah-hyun's abnormality.

"Park Moon-dae what did you see earlier?"

"what?"

"In the car earlier."

"…"

After finishing the schedule that day and returning to the dorm Big Sejin immediately asked about the situation.

'Now that I think about it I was sitting right behind Sun Ah-hyeon.'

Perhaps the conversation was overheard.

I sat down on Bae Se-jin's bed which the owner rarely uses and said

"This season's 'Azusa' No. 1 video."

"Ah that participant…"

Keun Se-jin pretended to know if he had already been monitoring this season but then his face hardened.

He probably made the same guess as me.

"…You said you used to do ballet right?"

"okay."

The backgrounds of this season's No. 1 and Sun Ah-hyun are quite similar.

And in fact I have already almost confirmed my guess.

– Seodam went to court while doing ballet ㅜㅜ Did he become a ballerina?

-Chaeseodam Sehwa Arts Middle School? You seem to be friendly with ㅅㅇㅎ and there aren't many people there.

Because there was already a rumor going around on the internet.

The two are from the same middle school.

And looking at Sun Ah-hyun's reaction… it seems like this bastard contributed a lot to Sun Ah-hyun's trauma.

"Ah… shit."

Big Sejin was already doing his own search when his complexion changed.

"No… Isn't this guy crazy? "What kind of guts did you have to come to the audition?"

"I guess your way of thinking is a bit unique."

Or… your head works well.

I nodded.

"There's probably no evidence."

"There is testimony."

Big Sejin immediately came up with a logic.

"I've even been into synthesis but this guy doesn't exist? Even for one win."

"…"

"It's going to pop up here and there."

no.

"Then it should have popped up by now."

I spit out what I had researched.

"This guy's reaction was from the first performance of the theme song. Currently ranked first in the center position. Moreover it received good coverage on broadcast."

“…If there was something to explode words would have already come out?”

“okay.”

I threw my smartphone on the bed.

“But there isn’t one. “There aren’t even rumors going around.”

I looked through everything from anonymous sites to private accounts but there wasn’t a single rumor about it.

It was clean.

This means that he did not make any enemies other than Sun Ah-hyun.

“under…”

Big Sejin sighed.

And after being silent for a while he spoke with difficulty.

“…It must be difficult.”

“okay.”

If I was going to do anything I should have done it at least before the first broadcast.

Now this guy already has a pretty big fandom. Also the aggressive fandom that is unique to audition programs.

In this situation what if the school violence against Sun Ah-hyun is exposed and this guy leaves?

The anger of many of these fans is poured out on Sun Ah-hyun.

I think I can already see the word choice.

-말더듬이 찐따새끼 때문에 잘나가는 내 새끼가 X됐네 진짜 딥빡ㅋㅋㅋ 이래서 피해망상 오지는 유리 멘탈은 상대하지 말아야

Something like this.

And there are definitely people who are suspicious or displeased. In the current situation in the eyes of the public Sun Ah-hyun a first-tier idol is strong.

It's like 'voicing my anger about my unfortunate school days'.

-Honestly if Chae Seo-dam had really been abused would she have appeared in the same audition as Sun Ah-hyun?

-All the other kids are just Chae Seo-dam and Mi-dam but he suddenly claims school violence; Am I the only one who finds it harsh?

-They're doing that because they know that Chae Seo-dam's life will be ruined because they all have a lot of fans. There's no evidence… um.

And in fact in these interpersonal controversies it is very difficult to determine right from wrong and public opinion can be swayed by a single circumstance.

I ended up coming to an unpleasant conclusion.

"If it explodes now Sun Ah-hyun will definitely suffer loss."

"…"

Big Sejin opened his mouth to say something but just closed it. And smiled bitterly.

"But don't you think Ahyun will suffer a lot if we just leave it like that?"

“…”

“That’s what you’re worried about Park Moon-dae.”

That is correct.

If things continue like this I think someone will ask Sun Ah-hyun at least once during the schedule.

‘Are you two friends?’

‘…not good.’

It’s really bad. It’s not a matter of whether that bastard does well or not but whether Sun Ah-hyun can endure it without blinking an eye.

Will I be able to say hello say hello and laugh haha on music shows entertainment shows and year-end programs?

It was almost like a red flag for activity.

I pressed my temples.

“It’s difficult.”

It was then.

Sweet.

“…What are you doing?”

“ah.”

Bae Se-jin carefully came in with his luggage but hesitated when he saw the atmosphere in the room.

“no. “I have something to discuss for a moment.”

“Yeah yeah. It’s no big deal bro~”

“…If that’s the case.”

Bae Se-jin had suspicious eyes but without another word she just changed the book and the blanket and left the room.

“hmm.”

It can’t be helped that she noticed it herself but talking to others before speaking herself will only further destroy Sun Ah-hyun’s mentality.

Big Sejin shook his hands and stood up.

“Let’s think about this some more.”

“okay.”

We implicitly agreed.

However it was not that secret and there was nothing to worry about. It wasn’t long before everyone noticed.

“Guys in relation to this <Azusa>… has Ahhyun ever said anything to you?”

“yes?”

“I felt really nervous while watching TV.”

This is because T1 advertised the new season of <Azusa> on all the broadcasts they invest in.

The two youngest starting with Ryu Cheong-woo were sitting next to the depressed Seon Ah-hyun with their pupils shaking and were scared.

“Hyung your expression is so bad! “I feel sick!”

“It’s clear that the pain you felt when you participated in the audition program was revived while watching this exciting season… Right! Should I report this season to the Korea Communications Commission?”

“That’s not it so calm down.”

“Yes you idiot! “It’s not a broadcast it’s a person!”

“person?”

“Yes!”

Lastly Bae Se-jin.

“That’s ‘Azusa’ you guys were talking about last time right? That person! “I heard you did ballet but I guess Sun Ah-hyun…”

“yes. “Maybe so.”

“…That’s right.”

In this way the six people excluding Sun Ah-hyun came to the same conclusion and began to think about how to resolve this situation.

And on the day when Sun Ah-hyun went out for a personal photo shoot we gathered in the living room and started a discussion.

“First of all report it anonymously… No that won’t work. “Because I’m not living with the other person right now.”

Liu Chengwu who spoke nodded. The rest of the guys followed suit and nodded with serious faces.

However other opinions did not come easily. It was worth it.

‘There is no one with similar experience.’

Since most of them have no connection to school violence there is no answer.

Even Bae Se-jin who was less sociable seemed to have lived a life of being an outcast in class.

“Uhm then shall we spread the rumor first?”

“On the contrary I think the fans there will rally together. “Isn’t this giving them an excuse so that they can refute it even if a formal accusation comes out later?”

“Wow that’s persuasive.”

Big Sejin spoke as if he was complaining and tilted his head back.

Meanwhile Bae Se-jin opened his mouth with a nervous look on his face.

“…Do you have any SNS records?”

“Are you talking about that person’s personal SNS?”

“okay. “Those guys talk about it on social media because they really want to get attention.”

It was a good approach but… I shook my head.

“I pushed all of my social media accounts.”

“All of that?”

“yes.”

I closed all but one account. And that was half a year ago.

‘I organized everything as soon as the audition notice for the new season of ＜Azusa＞ was announced.’

This guy has at least some level of intelligence.

“Well… there’s little we can do in this state. “There’s no clue.”

“Of course.”

When the atmosphere calmed down slightly Cha Yu-jin raised her hand.

“Listen to Ahyeon’s opinion!”

“…To Ahyeon?”

“yes! Ask if there is anything they want to do. “Your thoughts are the most important!”

“Hmm.”

I avoided it because I thought it would be burdensome but in fact that was the accepted opinion.

It would be unusual not to say anything when all the other members have already noticed.

‘And if you want to do something it’s right to do it right away.’

As time passes this guy becomes more famous.

In the meantime the new season of “Azusa” is growing rapidly thanks to controversy and topicality.

As expected the talent pool was not as good as in previous seasons but the narrative was well woven by distinguishing between cards to be discarded and cards to save.

‘Ryu Se-rin.’

The author certainly seems to have talent. After going through 〈K-NOW〉 my senses got better.

The popularity of the program was better than that of the previous season ‘Miri Nae’.

‘I need to do something.’

It also had to be done quickly. Things can get out of control once the next ranking announcement ceremony gets underway.

‘…In the end the only way is to ask yourself directly.’

I nodded.

“Let me ask you a little question. “Because I’m a roommate.”

“Um okay.”

“And since Ahyeon might be scared if I only have the door I’ll be there too~”

“…”

what?

But surprisingly Big Sejin’s words were passed without any opposition. I wonder what my image is like among these guys.

Anyway I did that night. After returning from filming Sun Ah-hyun started taking action as soon as she went to bed.

“Huh? Sejin?”

“Yes~ Ahyeon come and sit down!”

Sun Ah-hyun had a puzzled look on her face but without any doubt she came over and sat on her bed.

“Did you take a good picture?”

“Ugh. “I think it was okay…!”

And after an introduction to lighten the mood the main topic finally began.

“Ahyeon. Do you know the current 1st place 〈Azusa〉 by any chance?”

“…Do you see it?”

“little.”

In fact it was said openly but it was said in a moderately toned down way.

Sun Ah-hyeon who was stiff seemed to not know what to do but slowly nodded.

“Uhm it was the same middle school.”

I threw a fastball.

“He likes it when you get hurt.”

“…!”

Sun Ah-hyun swallowed and admitted.

“That’s right.”

also.

“But… I don’t know.”

what?

“Uh maybe… maybe it’s because I’m weak-hearted. Wow in life there are people who dislike me. But I can’t stand that kind of thing well…”

“wait for a sec.”

I cut him off.

“If you don’t like it just don’t interact with it. Isn’t it strange that a person bullies you?”

“Maybe they were harassing me… I don’t know. “It’s not like hitting or anything like that…”

“What was it like?”

“They treat me with a smile… but it doesn’t seem sincere and strange things happen often…”

“…Can I give you an example?”

“I was in trouble because my shoes were gone… A few days later I returned them to say thank you for lending them to me… But I didn’t remember lending them to you but you said it with a smile.”

“okay.”

“I laughed when I failed a technique but when I heard it it seemed like I was just laughing while talking and maybe I was being sensitive…”

oh.

There are all kinds of babies in the real world.

‘They only took photos of Sun Ah-hyun and tormented them.’

Is there a need to hate others so subtly?

It would have been easier to catch him if he had hit him like a normal idiot and given him a scolding.

Big Sejin who had been quietly listening with a mysterious expression on his face asked quietly.

“Ahyun~ By any chance you were the chief and he was the second chief?”

“Huh? “Not necessarily but… how many times?”

“Uhm. “Has he ever been a senior?”

“Oh maybe?”

Big Sejin grinned.

“Okay~ It’s true that I bullied you. Ah Hyeon-ah. If you’re worried about something like that that guy was wrong! “It’s because I’m jealous of you!”

“Ugh Mumundae also said that.”

Sun Ah-hyun nodded quite calmly.

“And my counselor said that even if it wasn’t bullying it wasn’t strange that I was hurt…”

You are truly a person who realizes the value of the consultation fee.

“I’m feeling much better now! just. “I think I was a little surprised because I didn’t expect to see it like this…!”

“I see! “Of course it can.”

As Sun Ah-hyun spoke she made more and more promises to herself and her complexion became relaxed as if she was recovering.

However the remaining two were not in a very good mood.

“Oh then I’ll go to bed~ Don’t worry about Ahyeon because of such a mean bastard!”

“Ugh!”

“I need some water.”

I followed him out of the room.

widely.

When Big Se-jin came out to the living room he said something like throwing it away.

“There will be no evidence for this.”

“…”

“It’s a little embarrassing… Do you think I would have done that if I hated someone so much? You must have been nice to other kids.
“Unconditionally.”

“Go in first and sleep. “I’ll think about it.”

“…okay. You too go to sleep quickly.”

I slapped Big Sejin on the shoulder and sat down in the living room.

“hmm.”

Calm down your emotions and think again.

Chaeseodam.

He’s a very cunning guy. A kid who is good at interpersonal relationships and knows how to control his peers.

At the same time what can be seen from the fact that the photo was taken targeting Sun Ah-hyun…

‘Very competitive greedy for success… and a strong sense of inferiority.’

If that's the case then it's clear that you have an oversized ego and strong pride.

If you are that kind of person if you are in this situation.

'SNS is all over Aejinjak and there is no testimony from alumni.'

There may be a sense of pride in the fact that one has eliminated all obstacles that could hinder one's future.

There is something worth aiming for here.

'If you're overconfident mistakes usually happen.'

"…"

It's 11 o'clock at night now. It's usually late but idols who are active are usually awake.

I made a phone call.

The beep was short and came on immediately.

"hello."

-yes? Oh Mr. Moon Dae?

This is Mirinae's manager's direct number.

And the person I'm trying to call… is from the top spot in Mirinae.

What was your name?

"If it's okay could you please change the table next to you Mr. Jeong Yul-gi?"

-yes??

I managed to convince the astonished manager that ‘this is by no means a useless friendly call and that it is for business purposes’ and then I was able to talk to him on the phone.

-Hello senior!

“hello.”

-nice to meet you! But what’s going on?

“Do you remember the conversation we had about ‘Azusa’ a few days ago?”

-Ah～ Yes! sure!

I tightened my grip on the phone and asked in a lower voice.

“You said you saw some bad contestants back then… Were there any contestants who are popular now?”

-Wow yes!

good. It starts here.

Chapter 274

If a person with a strong sense of inferiority and competitiveness participates in a survival audition even if he reacts perfectly in the beginning his true feelings will gradually leak out.

‘Because it’s a program that deliberately encourages that kind of mentality.’

In particular by the time the first team match takes place you will have already seen the public’s first reaction to the participants.

Although we don’t know the exact ranking everyone knows it based on the number of views and mentions.

‘You know you’re at the top. And also contestants who may pose a threat to their positions.’

Basically the more possibilities you see the more obsessed you become.

There was a high probability that Chae Seo-dam was included in the ‘bad contestants’ that Mirina mentioned.

I opened my mouth again.

“If you ask me what kind of participant it was…”

-Oh but I might be biased! It’s a bit hard to say specifically who was at fault!

“Of course.”

I answered monotonously.

“I don’t mean to use it to slander anyone. I just have some concerns. “If you debut there you will belong to the same company as us.”

-Ugh that’s a bit like that!

“yes.”

I ask after a pause here.

“So… can I ask you about the most memorable misbehavior you’ve seen?”

A harsh voice was heard on the other end of the receiver.

-Oh what is that! It’ll be okay right?

Done.

“sure.”

-That’s right! What bothered me the most was that I deliberately pretended not to hear what was being said!

“Ah you mean you ignored it?”

This is a bit one-dimensional.

-No no! So… how should I explain this?

How would you know even if you asked me?

It was then.

-Huh?

-Sister!

The voice on the other end of the phone became noisy with exclamations that sounded like running screams.

"…?"

And there was no sound for a moment as if the phone had been blocked and then the voice changed.

-Hello senior! This is Park Min-ha from Mirinae!

It was 2nd place.

"Yes… Hello Minha."

-yes!!

I'm gasping because I changed it in a hurry. Did you misunderstand this as a romantic trend?

"I'm calling you because I have questions about the new season of 'Idol Inc.'"

-Ah if you have any questions please let me know and I will explain! Because I went too!

It's urgent.

"I see. "I thought only Jeong Yul-gi appeared because the painter who filmed the movie hasn't come out yet."

-Ah aha!

It's a lie. I just thought it would be easier to hear the answer from Jeong Yul-gi who was in first place.

-Yep… What story are you curious about senior?

I abbreviated the conversation I had with No. 1 earlier and delivered it. Then Park Min-ha took a breath.

-Oh… that's it.

"I guess Minha saw it too."

-Umm yes.

The junior spoke hesitantly with an expression of unwillingness.

-What my sister said was… a story about a false accusation.

oh.

"Falsely accused."

-yes. It was a way to make it seem like only the victim was the victim.

The second place became more and more calm as the explanation was given.

-So… I was told the new practice time when there were no cameras or microphones but in front of the camera I said empty-handedly like 'I've never heard of anything like that.'

"…!"

-My sister and I heard it while we were moving to get something. You probably didn't know we were there.

It must have been an independent scene in which the participants created their own edit points.

"If it was done that way I think there would have been a lot of backlash on the part of the victim. "It's a lie."

-yes. So just… 'Okay you said it but I may not remember it. 'I'm sorry I couldn't hear you' he said in a low tone.

"…"

-So it becomes ambiguous to say that we saw it…

You're smart.

It was an act of making fools of the other party making the argument. This is an action that takes the editing angle into full consideration.

then…

"The party that got hit wasn't ranked high. "I guess he wasn't the type to have many friends."

So that they can be immediately banned from the board at the next ranking announcement ceremony. It is to prevent trouble.

-… yes. hmm.

"What is the position of the person who was injured?"

-Dance.

I deliberately asked the next question without stopping.

"And the person who did that must have been Debut Kwon."

-…! That's right.

"Oh if it's sensitive you don't have to answer."

Perhaps because he was caught off guard his reaction was not refined. I'm sorry but that response alone was nothing short of positive. It will definitely appear on broadcast anyway.

'A clear right to debut in a dance position.'

There were only two or three people including Chae Seo-dam. And considering that it is quite similar to the case I heard from Sun Ah-hyun…

‘Actually it’s safe to say it’s Chaeseodam.’

As expected he was a guy with quite the brain.

A position within the team that could compete with you for a part. An easy participant was used as a sacrifice due to his low ranking and limited interpersonal skills.

And considering the production team’s editing style… I think it will be dealt with as a harsh blow to the victim just as he planned.

‘If you do this it will be difficult to snipe after being eliminated.’

Didn’t he already defend himself by pretending to lose on the spot saying ‘Maybe I don’t remember?’

When the image is fixed it only looks like a loss to the eliminated candidate who came in first place.

‘…That’s too bad.’

There is no way to save the victim.

I clicked my tongue but it wasn’t actually a bad situation for me.

Isn’t it true that he is demonstrating his personality here as well? It seems like it would be easy to catch the tail.

In fact didn’t you catch Mirinae once?

‘It would be difficult for us to do it ourselves… ’

I can’t help it but I guess I should use this call now.

“…Do you have any more schedules related to ‘Azusa’ this season?”

-yes? yes. Since we’re giving away a song I think we’ll probably go one more time! Well… the 2nd team has been confirmed and it’s about mid-term evaluation.

“Then can you take a look at the trainees’ mood at that time?”

Gulp.

There was a sound of swallowing on the other end of the phone.

-Can I ask the reason for this!?

“After hearing what you just explained… I felt really bad. “If he does something even worse I think I’ll keep my distance from him even if we debut under the same agency in the future.”

-ah. Well I understand!

Second place seemed relieved.

And after adding the words ‘I’ll try but please don’t expect too much from me’ several times he hung up the phone with a polite greeting.

Seeing that he is slowly adding self-ingratiating words to the thought of ‘I will work hard’ it seems like his rookie days are coming to an end here as well.

-Good night senior!

“Yes Minha too. “It was very rude at such a late hour.”

I hung up the phone.

“hmm.”

The situation was fine.

It seems like this guy’s head is spinning but I can see that he’s going to do something less prudent.

‘If it were me I would have bought it unconditionally.’

I understand that they were obsessed with ‘continuing the upward trend’ rather than ‘solidifying it’ since they didn’t know that they were number one.

And now that we’ve won first place… I guess I’m starting to let down my guard.

“…”

I might be able to catch something interesting so I guess I’ll have to make another string.

Right now it’s time to take a break from filming before the first ranking announcement ceremony.

After thinking for a moment I sent a text message.

[I watched the broadcast. I hope you have good results. I will support you]

The opponent is Gold 2 Kwon Hee-seung.

* * *

When I checked the next morning Gold 2 responded right away.

[Brother ㅠㅠ Thank you so much for your support. I couldn’t contact you because I was afraid it might be a burden!]

[I will work hard and I will definitely see you on stage! (heart-blowing emoticon)]

Thanks to the occasional exchange of greetings I think it didn’t feel like ‘I suddenly contacted you because it seemed like it was going to happen’.

And considering that that damn program was coming out again he looked quite hopeful and courageous. This guy deserved it.

‘I got platinum this time.’

Gold 2 escaped Gold.

Moreover it is receiving good editing ratings and is on a roll.

Normally the second participation in survival is often either a big hit or a small hit but I hit the jackpot.

-Heeseung does not have a separate icon for X or coup d’état

-As expected he’s a gangster but he’s still young. It’s amazing haha.

So the first rank I received was 3rd.

Even if there is an existing fan base the possibility of a debut is significant given that it is a good performance and did not cool down even after the broadcast began.

‘And if I had to pick the position of Gold 2 it’s closer to dancing.’

What that means is… there is a high probability that ‘Chaeseodam’ was filmed.

It is something that must be kept in check if circumstances arise.

“What text message is it from Mundaemundae?”

“Goal… I’m giving it to Kwon Hee-seung.”

“hmm.”

“I heard something interesting last night.”

I told him about my phone call with Mirinae. And added some reasoning.

“Ah I understand. okay.”

Big Sejin smiled and nodded. And then turned on his smartphone.

[Keun Se-jin: I hope everyone is alive and well (eye-rolling emoticon)]

[Keun Se-jin: You heard about Azusa's first team match. Doesn't that make you think of our team? Haha inside me it's completely… a legendary stage!]

He briefly activated the group chat room of 'Aktober 31' which was the team during the first team match of <Azusa>.

And after several days of effort we elicited active responses and participation from Gold 2.

[Keun Se-jin: Heeseung how are you doing? Are you showing off your legendary stage once again? (Splendid emoticon)]

[Kwon Hee-seung: Haha you don't know! (ashamed emoticon)]

Bae Se-jin was embarrassed by the sudden ringing of the group message.

"He does this… why?"

"Spying on this season of <Azusa>."

"Spying?… ah! That guy. okay."

Bae Se-jin quickly became cooperative.

And it seems like he also tried to write something.

[Keun Se-jin: Tonight I plan to eat an apple and watch the live broadcast of "Azusa." Don't you think the apples will taste spicy haha?]

[Kwon Hee-seung: Haha I give you 100% credit.]

[Sejin Bae: That's why it's better to eat apples in the morning rather than in the evening]

The message suddenly stopped and a reply came 2 minutes later.

[Golden Age Ha Iljun: Haha Sejin is still the same!]

"…"

thud.

Bae Se-jin hit his head and was thrown onto the sofa.

Well since everyone is saying that it's okay if you don't feel too embarrassed.

In any case since it played a part in lowering the tension and making people comfortable it was as if they had done their job properly.

And after a few weeks the time came.

[Chae Seo-dam participant who said he was not notified of the changed practice time]

[Frozen team atmosphere]

[Chae Seo-dam:… No I'm sorry. I probably didn't hear it. sorry.]

[Lee Ho-yoon: No that's not it (edit) So I said it clearly!]

[Chae Seo-dam: Yes you said it but I think I remembered it wrong…]

'That scene' was finally broadcast.

"Wow that's amazing."

"I know."

The members are watching the episode in the living room while Sun

Ah-hyun is playing punch needles in her room.

I have already discussed all the relevant circumstances.

[Q: What is unfair?]

[Chae Seo-dam: It can't be helped. I can't ruin the team atmosphere… so it's okay.]

It's typical of Azusa's editing right down to Chae Seo-dam's interview at an exquisite location.

"The probability that you really couldn't remember due to a fatal memory problem is…"

"no. "That's just a mean guy."

Bae Se-jin hardened his expression and glared at the screen. I guess I got a feeling.

Anyway the broadcast continued as is.

[The winning team is… 'Changer!']

[Wow!!]

[You will receive a survival lottery ticket! And… as a prize you can appear on Tnet's global music broadcast <Music Bomb>!]

And it ended with Chae Seo-dam's team winning.

"Now the right to survive is given out by random drawing."

"Sure."

These are the people who make people bleed. Of course there is something I need to do right away while I am thinking about these sentiments.

‘Because it’s confirmed that the guy Mirinae heard about is Chae Seo-dam.’

As the program ended I followed the guys who naturally dispersed and went into the room with Keun Se-jin.

It was time to implement what had been discussed.

“I do it?”

“okay.”

That guy is probably better at this than me. Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders and then made a call.

To Gold 2.

“What about recording?”

“You thought you couldn’t do it? “He uses an apple phone.”

good.

Soon enough the phone was connected cleanly.

“Oh Heeseung. “I’m calling you just in case… Actually I heard something.”

-yes?

Big Sejin carefully processed and explained what he heard from Mirinae. Of course the source was appropriately changed to another staff member.

Of course the tone is not slanderous but rather concerns about Gold 2.

“…Because. But when I watched the live broadcast today that scene really came out and I couldn’t believe it.”

-…

Gold 2 was silent for a moment. But soon a long long sigh was heard on the other end of the phone.

-Ah… Ah it was a bit strange somehow.

yes.

“Is there anything that bothered you?”

-yes! In our group chat… Ah anyway! After the rankings came out their attitude towards me became a bit strange.

“Surely they keep you in check?”

– That’s right! Now I understand… But I never thought that personality would be like this! Ah why does this situation keep happening to me? You did that last time too!

Gold 2 whined.

Come to think of it Gold 2 was exceptionally checked and ignored by Choi Won-gil last season. So this seems to be more relevant.

Big Sejin spoke softly.

“Once that person debuts he’ll be in the same group as you. So I thought it would be a good idea to tell them to be careful just in case so I called!”

-Ugh… your brother! Thank you so much… Ugh my life. Ugh.

Gold 2 grumbled sighed deeply and hung up.

Tuk.

Big Sejin lowered his smartphone and laughed.

“The ground rice is okay.”

“good.”

At this level Gold 2 will join as a helper in case of emergency.

I shrugged my shoulders gave the guy who asked for a high five a pat and left.

Sweet.

And then it was time to go into my room.

Seon Ah-hyeon who was sitting at her desk and organizing the finished rug asked quietly.

“Hey… did you see Azusa?”

“…!”

Did you hear a sound?

I nodded. Sun Ah-hyun spoke calmly.

“It’s okay. “Next time I want to sit down and watch it together.”

“…okay.”

Sun Ah-hyun’s face was a little pale but she smiled and got up after tidying up.

“I can’t continue like this… I want to get better.”

“okay.”

I tapped the guy on the back.

‘I guess I could start by showing a short video.’

However the opportunity for this ‘challenge’ came sooner than expected.

A few days later.

“Hello senior!”

Testa ran into this season’s contestants of Idol Inc. who were accompanied by a lot of cameras in the hallway of the broadcasting station.

It was a music broadcast appearance a privilege for the winning team.

‘Fuck you.’

Of course there is that guy among them.

“hello.”

Chaeseodam.

Chapter 275

Why did you have to bump into a contestant from “Azusa” in the hallway of a broadcasting station when you weren’t even appearing on the same program?

It was obvious.

‘It’s intentional.’

The staff led them here to select pictures for broadcast.

〈Idol Inc.〉 was well worth it. You can make up for Testa’s absence from the show with this trick.

And here when he says hello he flatly refuses to take his picture which makes him look funny.

Isn’t it unusual for them to ask us to make a mosaic of us who happened to run into them when they were just filming a video of their appearance on Music Bomb?

Ultimately the problem with this situation is this.

‘camera.’

The camera was laid out all the way.

Sun Ah-hyun ended up meeting Chae Seo-dam on the condition that she be broadcast.

‘Damn it.’

I winked at the other guys. The sociable guys come out and greet you first.

“Oh~ Hello!”

“I support you. go for it!”

This is enough.

There are 7 people but Sun Ah-hyun can just nod her head.

I bowed and greeted the participants conscious of the two or three cameras turning toward us.

I was thinking of ending it at this point.

But I guess they didn’t intend to do that.

“I’m really a fan of senior Testa!”

“What should I do… Wassi.”

“Sir I’m really really sorry but can I get your autograph…?”

Perhaps because of the value of Testa’s name about half of the participants sneakily approached us.

It doesn’t seem like he received any special advice from the production team but was just purely excited to see a popular idol.

And the camera moves forward accordingly.

“…”

It’s going to be long. It’s not good.

I checked Sun Ah-hyun’s face.

Fortunately no disturbance was revealed. His smile wasn’t as big as usual but he looked a little stiff but not to the point where it was noticeable.

This is probably because no special unexpected situation occurred.

Chae Seo-dam on the other side didn't bother to say anything and was quietly moving behind buried in the flow.

'…My head works as expected.'

He seems to know that there is no benefit to showing off his friendship by pretending to know Sun Ah-hyun and it only increases the risk.

'Even while appearing on <Azusa> I didn't say a word about Sun Ah-hyun.'

I guess he thought that at this level he would not provoke Sun Ah-hyun and that he would keep his mouth shut since it would be a loss for him anyway.

However that is his sole judgment.

The production team will be different.

"So aren't you two from the same school?"

I thought that as long as things were like this the broadcasters wouldn't miss this prey.

The friendship between famous idols is always a story that draws a lot of attention.

"ah."

Chae Seo-dam like the smart guy he is struck first and gave a calm and appropriate answer.

"yes. Sometimes I just say hello… It's been a while senior!"

The second is a bit shy as if speaking to a 'someone I know well'.

'This guy is quite abominable.'

I guess you guessed that if Sun Ah-hyun hardened her face here it would go into the frame of 'I changed as a person because I became famous'?

So it ended up like this anyway and I think I'm going to leave a video to prove that I'm smiling and saying hello to Sun Ah-hyun and that I'm 'somewhat acquainted.'

Unfortunately this industry doesn't work that fairly.

I looked at him closely.

'If anything goes wrong you can make a deal with the production team and have the data deleted.'

This is because Testa is not a contestant on Azusa but an idol who has already signed a contract with the company. Also under T1.

If it doesn't work out it's possible to get away with it by saying something outright so that this picture can't be used on broadcasts at all.

-hey. I wish you could give me back what I stole. Because it's not just one or two.

Something like this. It's just something I thought would spread some rumors.

It's better than this bastard taking advantage and Sun Ah-hyun having a mental breakdown and getting sick.

'Shall I throw it?'

It was a moment of contemplation.

"…yes. hello."

"…!"

Sun Ah-hyun responded calmly.

A feeling of victory quickly flashed across Chae Seo-dam's face.

And the production team quickly stepped in and secured the new broadcast.

"Can I ask you to say something encouraging?"

"Ah… that."

Sun Ah-hyun seemed to be taking a slightly deep breath. Chae Seo-dam smiled and waited for the situation to unfold.

"That…"

"for a moment."

I heard a small whisper from Ryu Cheong-woo who was catching Bae Se-jin from behind.

And Sun Ah-hyun slowly looked at Chae Seo-dam and spoke without any interruption.

"No matter what you do I hope you do it with more confidence in yourself."

Sun Ah-hyun smiled faintly.

"Now that I've come this far I think that's the most important thing. Instead of worrying about others focus on yourself… and trust."

"…"

A look of agitation flashed across Chae Seo-dam's face.

Sun Ah-hyun took a step forward. And then I made eye contact with Chae Seo-dam.

“We… weren’t that close. “I hope you can go through the remaining time with a good heart.”

“…”

“I will pray so.”

It was a compliment.

However depending on how you interpret it it could be as meaningful as it sounds.

And it must have sounded different to the person involved.

Well it feels like this.

-When you’re blaming others because of your inferiority complex take care of yourself and live a good life.

‘It’s hardened.’

I saw confusion and tension flash in his eyes. It was quite pleasant.

Seon Ah-hyun looked around and exclaimed as if she were a little embarrassed.

“And those other people too. go for it…!”

“yes! go for it!”

Seeing the other participants copying what she said Sun Ah-hyun raised her hand and made a fighting gesture.

He looked comfortable.

Chae Seo-dam barely seemed to laugh along but he didn’t look very comfortable.

Still I inevitably reach out.

“…Thank you for the kind words.”

“Ugh.”

Sun Ah-hyun received a handshake. And waved it like nothing happened.

“Oh should we leave a message too? “It was fate that we met like this~”

“We are so thankful!”

As soon as there was a gap Keun Se-jin quickly stepped in and turned the tide.

And a brief cheering photo shoot was conducted with the enthusiastic support of the participants and production crew.

Seon Ah-hyun took advantage of that opportunity and fell back.

“are you okay?”

“…huh.”

Sun Ah-hyun answered quietly and calmly. It was a voice that sounded somewhat reassuring.

“The manager said we really need to move now.”

“Yes thank you.”

“Hey what? Well then we’ll see you on stage next time~”

The other members resumed their movement only after taking short words of support for each participant.

And the moment we each parted ways in the hallway I saw Chae Seo-dam turn her head.

"…!"

Maybe he was trying to glare at me but he flinched when our eyes met.

'I guess it was a big shock.'

Since he is ranked first in the current season he must have been confident that this was a weight class worth competing for.

When I originally participated the programs were all the same.

'Did he have a feeling of superiority because his performance in the program was better than that of Sun Ah-hyun?'

So I thought that Sun Ah-hyun would be pushed out again and there would be an argument but it would be crazy to think that she was actually threatened.

I smiled at the guy.

And he said it with his mouth.

'Lucky bastard.'

"…!"

There is no need to make enemies but seeing what he does makes me more emotional than I thought so I don't think it will last long.

It's nice to not have any pressure.

I massaged the back of my neck and turned my head. I wondered how long that bastard could hold out in front of the camera.

Testa soon walked down the hallway and arrived at the waiting room.

“I will quickly check on lunch and then come back.”

“I understand manager~”

Sweet.

After the door was closed and only the members remained.

“after…!”

Sun Ah-hyeon seemed to have relaxed sighing and collapsing on the sofa.

Then a cool response poured in.

“Hey Ahyeon~”

“WOW!!”

“You did well to stay calm.”

Sun Ah-hyun looked embarrassed but she had a good look on her face as if she was proud on the inside.

Even Bae Se-jin spoke with an excited face.

“…I said something nice to that guy.”

“yes? “I didn’t mean to say that but… is that what it sounded like?”

Sun Ah-hyun lowered her head as her face looked like it was about to explode. Bae Se-jin was a little embarrassed.

“Oh really?”

“yes…! It was just an honest thought… but I… didn’t even know I would say that myself…”

Sun Ah-hyun sighed softly with a relaxed face.

"…It's fascinating. "I thought it would be scary."

I asked.

"How was it?"

"It was… better than I thought. huh."

Sun Ah-hyun held her hands together and muttered softly.

"When I met him in person I realized that it was really nothing."

"…"

Contrary to my concerns this meeting seemed to be a kind of awakening for Sun Ah-hyun.

I felt directly that it was no longer difficult.

"I was… fine."

Sun Ah-hyun finished speaking as if she was sure.

"…okay."

"Then that's enough~!"

Big Sejin tapped the guy on the shoulder. Other members also surround Sun Ah-hyun with happy faces.

At that time Liu Chengwu spoke with a smile.

"Now that you think about it didn't Ahyeon just speak comfortably and barely stutter?"

"…!"

“I know!”

Did it help that the trauma went away?

Sun Ah-hyun became a hot girl.

“Really? “I think it was like that… ah.”

As soon as I think about it I stumble back probably because I was conscious of it.

Then the members who were looking at each other began to shout hastily.

“What do you think Ah-hyun? You can talk comfortably and stutter!”

“It’s just between us let’s just take it easy.”

“That is correct. Cha Yu-jin simply chooses vocabulary roughly and speaks well.”

“I speak perfectly well!”

“Okay okay.”

Although the point was strangely blurred in the middle Sun Ah-hyun lowered her head as if the intention had been conveyed well.

“…yes.”

The voice sounded a little muffled. But right after he raised his head and spoke resolutely.

“But… practice more! “I’ll be able to speak better even when it’s convenient!”

“okay. “I will support that.”

The atmosphere in the waiting room has become so warm that it has never been so warm.

‘Good.’

I patted Sun Ah-hyeon on the back. He was definitely an extraordinary guy.

“Thank you thank you…!”

Sun Ah-hyun smiled with a more relaxed look on her face.

* * *

What’s interesting is that after that Sun Ah-hyun actually became more comfortable speaking without stuttering at public appearances.

It seems that relieving the pressure and tension helped.

“Teacher Seo said it would improve in steps but it feels like I’ve moved up one level…!”

“Okay congratulations.”

And this week we all watched “Azusa” together including the active Sun Ah-hyun. It was the ranking announcement ceremony.

[1st place is… Chaeseodam!]

“omg.”

It’s surprising. I thought so.

I looked at the screen with a sad face.

If there had been more momentum thanks to the inclusion of ‘Chae Seo-dam suffering because of a teammate’ in the last episode we would have stuck and not fallen.

[Chae Seo-dam: Really… thank you so much. I will work harder…!]

But the atmosphere in the living room wasn't that bad.

"Would you like some food?"

"okay."

"Thank you Ahyeon~"

Sun Ah-hyun's face was clean as she handed out dried apple chips to the members.

Even if Chae Seo-dam were to win first place and become successful as an idol I probably wouldn't worry too much.

'Well it's a good thing.'

I shrugged.

I feel bad about letting things go like this.

And it was that night that the pre-laid bait brought fish.

-Hello senior!

I mean Mirinae.

I entered the room and quickly got to the point.

"hello. "Did you call me because of something I mentioned last time?"

-yep! Well… I participated in the filming of this team match today and have now returned home!

Since the ranking announcement ceremony is coming out now it seemed like the filming period would be just a few days.

And the fact that you got a call… probably means there's something on your mind.

That's something I would call on the same day without hesitation.

"Did you see anything?"

2nd place in Mirinae over the phone… So Park Min-ha took a breath.

-This… Huh. That's it.

"yes. "Please tell me."

-That's the person we talked about last time. I think he naturally tried to get our number.

"…!"

I heard the sound of the jackpot popping.

Chapter 276

To be honest dating is a bit of a joke here but everyone does it.

However the number of cases is slightly different.

A kid who hasn't even debuted yet at an audition is trying to collect female idol numbers.

'It must have been amazing to win first place twice.'

I feel like I'm having trouble coming to my senses due to sexual harassment. Should I check for accuracy first?

"Did you ask for my number out of selfish interest?"

-Well… Well our members said it was okay to ask any further questions they had while giving feedback on stage.

The voice on the other end of the phone was shaky.

-Then he said 'Can you please check the interpretation of the song one more time?' and requested to follow the Inheart account.

I chuckled. I get it roughly.

"But we don't have personal accounts due to company policy."

-yes. Since we don't have personal accounts… As the story unfolded like that I guess exchanging numbers became a hot topic.

Your skills are good.

"So we exchange numbers?"

-no! I intervened and gave the manager her number!

There was a hint of pride in Park Min-ha's voice. I thought for a while about whether to give a compliment but I thought it would be weird so I decided against it.

-But now that I think about it I think he knew that I couldn't create an Inheart account and deliberately led the conversation in this direction.

"hmm. okay."

Even here the judgment is sharp.

'That's why you reported it to me right away because you felt uncomfortable.'

It's been a long time since I've been on the rise but it's annoying to be associated with a giggling bastard who hasn't even debuted.

However this… I don't think Chae Seo-dam was particularly interested in any member of Mirinae.

'It wasn't like I was filming someone it was like picking up a random contact.'

This is not for real love but for show off.

Proof that 'I am popular enough to be associated with a female idol of this level.'

There was a strange whiff of contempt in this sentence.

About the profession called idol.

'I guess I was someone who didn't have much purpose in this job.'

I can't believe you put this kind of romantic relationship in the option to show off. It was an idea that people who had been trainees for several years would give up even if they came up with it.

But this guy seems to have thought something along the lines of ‘I can do this.’

‘He’s definitely a guy who knows how to make realistic calculations.’

Chae Seo Dam launched SNS more than half a year ago. And if you look at his actions and the way he takes the angles into consideration while editing he is definitely a guy with a lot of brains.

Nevertheless doing something like this is no different from belittling your fans and the idols who may be your competitors.

‘Even if I do this it will work.’

And that trend seems to have intensified with recent events.

‘It seemed like everything was in her hands when she won first place but then Sun Ah-hyun beat her. But if we win first place again… ’

It seems that nervousness and pride have made a wonderful collaboration.

‘hmm.’

I thought of a few pictures then shrugged and opened my mouth.

“Just leave it alone.”

-yes?

I laughed.

“You can just leave it alone. “I don’t think you need to worry.”

Looking at the internet I see that other guys are also gaining ground but I’m really looking forward to seeing what kind of check a guy who got distracted by winning first place twice will have.

I decided to follow Sun Ah-hyeon’s example and move on without touching this bastard directly.

‘Let’s see how I fall asleep on my own.’

And a few days later. A post was posted on an internet bulletin board.

[Chaeseodam Love Heart Private Account (713)]

The article was a carefully organized article captured from a private account similar to the account name of Chae Seo-dam who disappeared in late fall of last year.

————————=

(capture)

Chae Seo-dam’s previous Inheart account. I think it was mainly for organizing recent events.

Account name is ‘ChatiD1130’

And look at this

(capture)

‘ChatiU0417’

This account was created a while ago

It is a similar pattern that the number at the end is the opening date.

And all the followers of this account are just one lol.

This is a model account

(capture)

Anyone can see that it is a love heart.

———————————=

The article said that the suspicious private account that was only linked to the account of a popular model belonged to Chae Seo-dam.

“Did you find it or make it?”

According to the explanation this model’s account recently secretly hinted that she was in a relationship with a contestant from Azusa so they traced it back.

-I got delusional again.

-Isn’t it just your own work?

– Hahahahahahahaha Chaeseodam guys are denying reality my brother said he was dating~

-There’s so much fuss about what kind of evidence this is… Anyway we need to be aware of Azusa’s overindulgence.

The Internet had become noisy but not many people believed it.

Most of the fans were cracked down on it and these speculations without evidence quickly lost credibility and disappeared.

Just when the harsh controversy was about to die down an additional article was posted as if it were salty.

[Act from earlier Chae Seo Dam (1415)]

A person who hacked a private account has emerged.

And there was no direct photo of the face in that account. There were quite a few photos of hands or shadows that could be identified as Chaeseodam.

Everyone was standing side by side or holding hands with someone else.

“oh.”

Opening such a private account in the middle of an audition program?

This is the expected direction of action.

“I let my guard down.”

And it was fun to confirm that my guess that it was ‘just for show’ was correct given that the other person was a model.

However the timing is more interesting.

‘Has the work begun?’

Looking at the speed at which it explodes it seems like they came from somewhere dug up everything in advance and then organized the frames one by one to explode.

‘Hmm… I guess it’s Gold 2.’

He was highlighted for his leadership in the previous team match so even though he is already at the top he is on his way up.

1st place is just around the corner.

This means that it was obvious what Gold 2’s fans would do if they showed signs of destroying the existing number one.

‘No matter who did it or whether it was a coincidence… the timing is perfect.’

-omg

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋ The truth is so scandalous that you even sold your private account because you couldn’t lose a relationship.

-Just live in a relationship as a godbanin and don’t become an idol.

-Dating is not a sin but swearing like this is really scary. It's not like Chae Seo-dam deceived you.

Yes it was a deception that I hid my love after appearing at an idol audition~

In the comments everyone was going wild as if the dating rumors were confirmed due to the provocative element of hacking and the photos.

Saying 'let's wait and see' didn't work as always. The same goes for things like 'What kind of deception is love?'

And the fans are caught in the act and seem embarrassed. Even if you didn't look at it it would have been a mess internally.

'I feel discouraged.'

I spent money and time to accumulate stocks and real-time dating rumors broke out.

If it were an incident of 'careless words and actions' we could rally together but this would cool down the atmosphere.

-and

– Hahahahahahahahahahahahaha

Finally I can already see the fans disappearing leaving only this behind.

'With just this level first place is overshadowed.'

There are always people who have cooled off because 'they don't seem that desperate when it comes to dating.'

It means that the momentum has been lost.

I quickly lowered the smartphone screen.

It's easy to guess Chae Seo-dam's current feelings.

'It must feel like I was struck by lightning.'

Best is deleting the account right now and announcing that the hacking was a manipulation…

Will the man with the wind in his head be able to reach that cold conclusion as quickly as before?

'It's going to be hard.'

As expected Chae Seo Dam released a 'groundless' statement about a day later.

However no specific mention was made about the photo.

'I guess I wasn't able to persuade the other person properly.'

They had enough shots to turn things around if they explained that it was a misunderstanding and manipulation but they seemed to be so nervous that they missed the timing.

"Oh my that's not a good friend~"

Big Sejin passed by looking at my smartphone screen with a hearty smile. It means that it was rolled up and eaten.

It will be difficult to rebound. I shrugged.

What I can believe is that they will make up for it by receiving cuts that will shake people's hearts in the second half of the broadcast…

'Seeing how my head is spinning I might try to come to my senses right now.'

But it didn't end here.

A few days later an article broke out.

[(Exclusive) “We were sacrificial lambs” The screams of those eliminated in a cruel audition program]

The interviews conducted anonymously by the eliminated contestants of this season of <Idol Inc.> came out in the form of accusations.

It was mainly about the cruel treatment by the production crew and the conflicts between the participants including ‘that incident’.

————————————=

B: Something like a high-ranking contestant deliberately framing another contestant and knocking them down… (It also happened.)

B: Since our positions overlap he takes advantage of the fact that he has a lot of say and tells lies to make people look bad. (crying)

————————————=

Originally this post would have been suppressed as a ‘rumour’ due to the onslaught of fans but it spread like a fire in a world that had already been devastated by romance rumors.

-Isn’t this a complete Toe Seo-dam (capture)

– LOL From the moment a woman is revealed to the dislike she recognizes she is amazing. Mangjusa ranks #1!

As soon as this speculation circulated on anonymous sites and went out into the open Chaeseodam suffered a huge blow.

Still there were quite a few people who rationally thought that Chae Seo-dam whose account was stolen was the victim.

However this was a clear assassination of the perpetrator and other fandoms that were keeping Chae Seo-dam in check never missed this opportunity.

-Honestly it’s true that I have doubts because the circumstances are so perfect.

-I think we need to think about it calmly. I feel like the eliminated people will be so unfair so I just don't shield them.

-Oh it was kind of cheap… ㅅㅂㅠㅠㅠ

"hmm."

After all he dug his own grave.

Chae Seo-dam's side soon put an end to the situation by issuing a statement saying 'this is the first time ever' and 'sue' but now the debut is… hmm no matter how hard you try won't it be difficult?

Now that controversy has erupted in both areas of passion and character the damage will be irreversible.

'It's over.'

I shrugged my shoulders and tried to turn off the smartphone screen but paused for a moment.

'But wait a minute… '

"Oh my it didn't work out this time it didn't work out~"

I looked at my smartphone again and caught a large force trying to pass by.

"hey."

"huh?"

"Isn't this exactly as we expected?"

"…"

Big Sejin looked at him and changed his expression as if he realized what he meant.

“no way.”

Big Sejin sent a personal message to Gold 2.

[Heeseung by any chance?]

The groundbait laid down was checked.

It didn’t take long for a reply to arrive.

[Kkkkkkkkkkkkk? I just gave you courage]

“…”

I feel like I can’t debut with this crazy guy. As I warned it seems like I felt a real sense of humanity while filming this.

“That’s awesome.”

Me and Big Se-jin laughed. It seems that Gold 2 was secretly encouraged as soon as an opportunity arose such as when a person who was eliminated came to consult.

“Wow… How did he happen to have everything exploded just as he laid it out?”

“I guess it’s because I’m excited nervous and conceited.”

“Well that’s an accurate decision~”

I gladly gave a high five to Keun Se-jin.

“Oh Ahyeon is here too!”

“Hey guys?”

And as Big Se-jin opened the door and walked out he also touched the palm of his hand with Seon-ah-hyeon who looked confused.

“Ahyeon-ah big news~ Is that bad guy finished with first place?”

“Hmm?”

Sun Ah-hyeon checked the text on the screen I showed her and nodded with a puzzled look on her face.

“I see. Still I thought he was a cautious person…”

“Because it is the place that makes the person.”

“that’s right. And looking at it it doesn’t seem like you really had any intention of becoming an idol?”

“Is that so…?”

Seon Ah-hyun seemed a little nervous at Keun Se-jin’s carefree addition but then swallowed and spoke as if she had made up her mind.

“You know…”

“ok?”

“Actually I… did that too. “Rather than wanting to become an idol I came out because I wanted to continue dancing.”

“…?”

Suddenly the conversation broke out due to a close situation.

I answered first.

“Azusa?”

“Ugh.”

“You were doing dance before.”

Sun Ah-hyeon bowed her head.

“I can’t be there anymore…”

“…”

“I was afraid that if I continued dancing I would keep meeting people I was scared of… I couldn’t bear it… so I quit.”

Maybe the market is narrower than you think but people of similar age will probably continue to clash with each other as they build their careers.

“Nevertheless I wanted to dance so much… I thought I would try this one last time and came out.”

I suddenly remembered that Sun Ah-hyun’s answer was particularly ambiguous when she was talking about the reason for participating in <Azusa> at the beginning of her debut.

…Maybe he was unable to speak properly because he judged his motives to be impure?

“Everyone came out seriously but I felt like I wasn’t… But right now… I really wanted to tell you that it’s really precious and enjoyable.”

“…”

I looked at Sun Ah-hyun for a moment and then shook my head.

“no.”

“…!”

“I just got cast and came out to have fun. “I don’t think you really need to think that way.”

This is a field that would have been unrelated if it weren’t for the fact that it was lagging in the first place. I massaged the back of my neck.

“You were serious enough. “You worked hard.”

“…”

Sun Ah-hyun lowered her head closed her mouth and nodded. Big Sejin grinned.

“That’s right someone who works hard like Ahyeon is in a different profession. So everyone who came to be an idol should quit?”

“…what?”

“Ahyeon is talking~”

Bae Se-jin who was shocked to hear that this was the case called from the other side of the living room. Keun Se-jin naturally got over the situation.

And then he hit Sun Ah-hyun on the back.

“I’m just happy that we’ve become a better group thanks to Ahyeon’s courage in participating. “Do you think so too?”

“okay.”

“…Ugh.”

Sun Ah-hyun nodded repeatedly.

He sniffed a few times but he didn’t cry.

“You had a hard time.”

The story is that like that he was completely relieved of a burden on his heart that he didn't need to have.

Even though we had plans the next day we drank beer and talked about the days of "Azusa" until night.

And after that I decided to stop paying attention to what happened to Chae Seo Dam.

Anyway I recovered all the ground food and saw all the balls.

'It won't matter anymore.'

Sun Ah-hyun will no longer be affected by that guy.

* * *

It is early May when the weather becomes quite warm after the incident has passed.

"Phew."

I am jogging along the walking path in my apartment complex at dawn to avoid people and sunlight.

There was a bit of fog but there was no problem moving around. No it's actually good because it blocks other people's view.

'I heard a dog barking in the distance so it seemed like there was someone else walking.'

Originally I mainly did indoor exercise using equipment but I thought I would change the pattern at least once.

'I need to bulk up when I have some free time.'

Because when the next album is released…

-Wow!

“…?”

Suddenly the sound of a dog barking that had been heard in the distance got closer and a dog wearing a harness at my feet jumped out through the fog.

“…!”

for a moment.

I know this dog’s face.

“Kong wait a minute.”

He was raised by Cheongryeo.

Chapter 277

I'm currently running along the apartment trail at 4 a.m. with my dog by my side.

"Heh heh!"

I don't know how I ended up jogging with someone else's dog. Even though I met him after almost half a year I was not at all happy with his dog.

I held back a sigh and looked to the side.

"Kong is running well. kind."

The guy who is praising the obvious is… a blue bird sticking out of the fog.

'Damn it.'

I recalled how things got this way.

The person who appeared was wearing light sportswear and was controlling the dog.

-I guess I got a little excited because I always went for a walk in places where there were no people and then I heard people pretending to be there. I'm sorry if I surprised you.

And he was overly calm. So I asked.

-I think he thought it was me.

The answer to this doubt is as follows.

-If it's a pink-haired man walking nearby at this early morning… doesn't the pool of candidates have been narrowed down considerably?

-…

-You could see colors even in the fog.

It's an explanation with no room for refutation. I groaned when I saw my head with only a hat on.

Of course it was 4 in the morning so I thought no one would be there.

There was a lot of talk about why I was taking a walk here out of the blue.

-I have something to do during the tour break so I'm staying in the dorm for a while. And there are no more people in this neighborhood at dawn.

It was true.

-I think your junior is here now for the same reason.

-…

okay.

To sum it up it's a coincidence because both he and I have similar occupations and situations.

'after.'

I acknowledged the situation and tried to quickly leave.

-okay. then…

-The route is the same anyway so why not walk a bit? I thought Kongi would bark if my junior ran by.

-…

-It’s a nuisance this early in the morning. Isn’t it?

I saw the yellow lump staring at me struggling with its front paws in its arms and reluctantly turned around…

“Wow!”

I don’t know how… a dog like that came out from under a bastard like that.

‘CCTV was installed so I won’t do anything in vain.’

I held back a sigh and started running down the trail at my usual tempo.

The dog and the dog owner who were running at similar speeds next to me didn’t say much while jogging.

The problem came after that.

“Any drinks?”

“That’s it.”

Near the end of the trail I drank water from the canteen I had prepared. Cheongryeo fed his dog a snack.

“From next time I’ll just wear a beanie. “Because it hides more of the hair color.”

I just don’t plan on coming here again during this time.

“…”

Instead of answering like that I just nodded. Cheongryeo patted the dog eating the snack and shrugged.

And what I could see under the hood of the guy lowering his head was… a head that wasn't black.

'for a moment.'

I opened my mouth without thinking.

"dyeing?"

"Oh that's right."

Cheongnyeo touched and removed her head under the hood with her hand.

Dark green hair disappeared beneath the cloth.

No is it gray? It's hard to see because of the fog… but the important thing is not the color.

"You haven't dyed your hair even once since your debut."

At least while I was working as a data pal I never saw VTIC Cheongryeo dye its hair.

I don't know what it is but there seems to be a cataclysm in the concept so I'll have to get a hint as to what VTIC is planning to do in their next repackage comeback.

I looked at the biggest obstacle to this year's grand prize.

'Let's admit it.'

These guys still have ridiculous staying power.

This is because VTIC's comeback career last February was still strong.

'I thought it was time to pass the congestion section and fall.'

In a section where it could no longer show an upward trend VTIC was dragging out its heyday for an infinitely longer time.

-VTIC initial closing: 1.92 million~~~~

Aren't you crazy?

ㄴㅅㅂ Are you sure you can maintain your form until you leave the military? Hahaha. This annual leave is so delicious.

-V-Tik's world tour resale is also sold out. Yes it's not a big deal.

-I wonder if he will really play in the first team until he retires.

The form of the group that has renewed their contract is unbelievable.

It is said that in this February's comeback the 50's Broadway feel was interpreted in a very sophisticated and dark way and fan satisfaction was very good.

I also checked. And I almost spilled my drink.

'The quality continues to exceed expectations.'

This couldn't be helped.

I hope this year's comeback ends with this but I don't have any expectations because it seems like it will take a year or two before anyone enlists.

'I dyed my hair so it's confirmed.'

I'm preparing something. And that too with unconventional changes and effort.

"I thought he dyed his hair because he wanted to show me some unexpected results."

I closed the canteen and crossed my arms waiting for his answer.

He… laughed heartily.

“Well I think it would be less surprising than pink.”

Fuck you.

“The fans like it.”

“is it so? congratulation.”

Without saying a word he quietly changes the topic. I nodded inwardly.

‘I’m conscious of not speaking.’

Likewise it is to keep Testa in check.

I sometimes thought of the texts and calls I received from the VTIC guys.

I thought I was being monitored for some reason.

[Everyone I watched the entertainment show ‘Dancing Over Flowers’. We are also going there this time.]

Was this a text message I received at the end of Testa’s January activity period?

[Wow combining two songs is so amazing isn’t it?? Mr. Ravin… Do you have any plans to give the song to another group?? (Exploding bread emoticon)]

[^^b]

This is the message that came during the concert.

[The documentary is so touching ㅠㅠㅠ]

Well this is… Cha Yu-jin's incident happened and she was in trouble.

In any case it was also a point that they were conscious enough to constantly check this year's testa content.

They may think it is for support but subconsciously there is a desire to check the growth of latecomers and understand the situation.

'…This year is going to be really intense.'

I nodded inwardly.

However the next topic that Cheongryeo brought up was unexpected.

"Okay this time I never dyed my hair."

The guy tilted his head to the side.

"But… I didn't know that you would know that."

"…"

"Did you do a lot of research? By any chance when you were in your original form you were our fan instead of Soft Sweet? Ah there are some people who like to group together under one agency. Men… seem to have been rare."

Just one guess gives me goosebumps.

'Damn it.'

I suppressed a sigh and put the canteen in my backpack. And I finished the calculation briefly.

'good.'

Since the situation arises I will say it.

“I was never a fan of anyone.”

“then?”

I spoke intentionally.

As if you were distracted by a dog running towards you and gave a vague answer…

like this.

“Actually I didn’t sell idols but I sold idol data to homemakers when I was in college. So as I often looked at kids who were making money I automatically came to know them.”

“ah.”

Information about ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ is leaked.

The fact that I was a data arm when I was in college.

It is an action with a clear purpose.

‘Trace it.’

This is the information about ‘Ryu Geon-woo’.

“That’s it.”

This guy definitely said it with his own mouth.

I remembered the guy who told me about Younglin’s surprise music release plan at the end of last year.

-You don’t know. There is no source of information. Right? My junior that… I think it will be the biggest problem going forward.

This means that I have sufficient sources of information.

In fact he has proven himself by finding out about Younglin's music which only his closest associates knew about.

'It certainly wouldn't have been limited to the entertainment industry.'

In order to control all external factors you need to know other circumstances related to people in the entertainment industry.

Then out of the cards I can use… this one is the best one to be able to track Ryu Geon-woo's whereabouts without being caught needlessly saying 'Park Moon-dae is illegally inspecting civilians'.

'As you said I don't have any informants so I'll have to use whoever I have.'

It was confirmed by video from Ryu Cheng-wu's house that Ryu Geon-woo definitely existed here so conversely we might be able to use this guy to check whether he is currently alive or not.

'It doesn't matter if you look for it.'

Anyway all this kid knows is nonsense based on the premise that his body has changed.

And realistically 'Ryu Geon-woo' could not be my weakness.

'You have to have something to have a weakness.'

From the time I graduated from college I had nothing other than enough money to last three years.

But this guy doesn't know that.

Then in order to keep Testa who is the most difficult enemy in maintaining his current form in check he will definitely dig behind 'Park Moon-dae's original body' to control any emergency.

Until now all he had was his name and three letters so it must have been impossible.

‘Because the only clues are name and age range.’

So let’s see… I hope I get a reaction from this guy when I add ‘data pal’ to ‘Ryu Geon-woo’s features.

‘Because it is a characteristic that allows for various inferences.’

If it’s as I expected this guy will do the math too.

I finished my sentence casually.

“Still it’s soft and sweet… I’m not a fan but I guess I’ll just call it a liking.”

“…”

I patted the dog and laughed. Cheongnyeo who was holding the leash connected to the dog looked this way with a mysterious look on her face.

“It was true that I worked in the industry more professionally than I thought.”

You’re talking about professionalism to a guy who sells idol data.

“I was just making pocket money.”

“Haha looking at what you’re doing junior I don’t think it was that bad. Well I guess that experience gave me a better understanding of expensive lumber. “It’s fun.”

He muttered to himself and placed his chin on the hand that was not holding the leash.

Because of the fog I couldn’t see his expression clearly… but I think it’s true that he was lost in thought.

‘okay.’

Get caught.

Soon a soft voice was heard.

“But if it’s a man in his 20s with a camera… it’s quite unique. Please explain at least once. You said you also filmed VTIC right? “I think I’ll remember then.”

Done.

‘They’re trying to dig up information in reverse.’

I thought to myself as I touched the dog behind its ears.

‘Here… we must not intentionally give the impression of being deceived by information.’

Because of this guy’s personality he’ll either demand a deal to the limit or try to stab him in the back. Or you can do both.

I shook my head because answering positively would have seemed suspicious.

“I just wore glasses and a hat. “It must be common.”

“hmm.”

This will probably feel like a reasonable amount of self-interest.

But there is enough substantive information.

-A man in his early 20s with glasses hat and camera.

Certainly if you watch the event videos stored by the agency according to the year you will be able to see the faces of the ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ candidates even if they are in low quality.

Because they usually hold a camera that stands out in front of the audience.

‘If you want to sell data to the level of making money you will naturally think that the university is located in Seoul.’

This is because the main broadcasting stations and performance facilities are mainly located in Seoul.

‘Then if you search by matching the year and the age group name and face of the university in Seoul… ’

“hmm.”

If you’re a very skilled person I think you can quickly tell me what ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ is up to.

‘That’s it.’

I shrugged and got up.

There is no need to say things like ‘I think I said something unnecessary’ here. That’s even more awkward.

It would be most natural to leave the room appropriately.

“king!”

The dog at my feet made a strange sound as if it was disappointed and stamped its feet back and forth.

“Stop going in.”

“Well yeah. Goodbye.”

Cheongryeo picked up his dog and spoke casually.

“I’m planning to go for a walk around here for about 15 days so sometimes I say hello to Kong when I see him.”

“…report.”

“haha.”

I held back a sigh left him behind and made my way out of the fog on the trail.

“…after.”

I think I handled it well but for some reason I felt tired every time I met that bastard.

* * *

A few minutes later. I didn’t feel uneasy until I entered the dormitory building.

‘Is there some kind of debuff in the fog?’

What are you talking about? Just look at the results.

In order for Cheongryeo to make a deal with me the moment they find ‘Ryu Geon-woo’ they have no choice but to give me at least information about ‘Ryu Geon-woo’s current status.’

‘good.’

That’s neat.

I shrugged and got into the elevator. The head starts rolling again with speed.

‘Is it because I went to bed early yesterday?’

This afternoon I had an active schedule for the first time in a long time so I slept a bit longer.

What is that schedule…

“Now let’s start assigning rooms~”

“Wow!”

The roommate assignment content to fill the ambiguous gap has returned.

Chapter 278

Testa's roommate assignment.

'Is this the fourth time?'

When it reaches this point fans also recognize it as content with its own history and tradition.

'Until now it was mainly done through board games.'

So this time I thought it would be a bit boring to proceed with room assignment in a similar type of game so I changed the field a bit.

"Hello~ Testa teachers."

"hello!"

It's about recruiting experts.

Now seven of us are sitting in a circle in the office of a research institute run by communication experts.

Why… It's a contrived daily drama table structure with only the front empty. Because there are cameras and production crew in front.

Still it all looks natural perhaps because I've done this composition so many times.

I checked the guys who were looking at the expert with anticipation.

The expert was smiling gently.

"I understand that you requested a roommate assignment today. Is what I told you correct?"

“yes!”

Bae Se-jin’s face is full of energy as she answers loudly.

It seems to be the most energetic voice in the past month and it seems that he is probably filled with hope for solitary confinement.

‘I heard living in the living room is worth it.’

Anyway being in the living room because you feel uncomfortable entering the room is different from staying there because you like the living room.

It seemed like Keun Se-jin glanced at Bae Se-jin with wide eyes but as he was filming the sign disappeared in an instant.

The director who walked out from behind the expert looked around at the smiling guys and spoke again.

“Our Communication Relationship Research Center conducts algorithmic analysis based on the personalities tendencies and lifestyle habits of group members…”

If we leave out this PPL introduction part and move on to the conclusion this is it.

“We will match you with the most suitable roommate through behavioral analysis and interviews.”

“Wow!”

Also known as ‘Roommate is Science.’

‘That sounds plausible.’

To be honest it seemed like the packaging of a venture company that followed the existing business but it was cool to hear anyway.

‘The fans will have fun.’

It would be better to highlight the character if the analysis presented here is placed together with the existing testa's life and habits.

It is the same principle as MBTI.

A feeling of homogeneity that comes from the same characteristics.

Image reinforcement from other characteristics.

Keun Se-jin makes a fuss once more perhaps trying to save the mood.

"Wow I'm so excited?"

"…"

I understand so don't hit me on the shoulder.

"Then let's start with group activities!"

"Oh!"

Soon the director disappeared and only the expert remained and a group interview was conducted.

'The personal interview was held before the opening ceremony.'

This is the main… um. First of all look at the first problem that pops up.

[Here is a farmer who raises ducks and cows. But one winter this farmer decided to raise only one type of livestock.]

[What kind of livestock is this?]

"Please feel free to answer."

"…?"

This is an IQ test and it looks like a quiz floating around on the internet.

No matter how good you look at it it's not a question of creativity for corporate interviews.

'Expertise… where has it gone?'

The personal interview was still professional… but it seemed like it was done for the sake of a broadcast picture.

'Well it doesn't matter.''

Because content is important here.

I watched other people talking and tried to figure out when to participate.

"I think it's a duck? Aren't ducks easier to care for? Since it's winter you can bring it indoors if you can."

"I see. But wouldn't it be difficult to raise them if the number of people increases?"

"I know! There are more foods made by cows! It's a cow. Go Cow!"

Everyone is very active.

I raised my hand and looked at the expert.

"Is there a right answer to this question?"

"no. "Teachers are free to use their imagination and thinking skills."

"Oh~"

As if the expert's words were a catalyst the members spoke one more word.

“Ugh because it’s winter… Ah! “Maybe you’re trying to make something like a duck down blanket…?”

“yes! Ah you are smart Ahyeon~”

“Ahyun you have a good idea?”

…No if you look closely you can see that half of the people are really excited and half of them are trying to save the content.

It seems like they are the ones who found a loophole in this format.

The composition is vain.

Is it attractive as content to just brainstorm among ourselves instead of giving model answers?

“I am a chicken.”

“ok??”

“There’s no saying you have to choose between ducks and cows so I chose the livestock that was most economical.”

“omg.”

“Hey look at the head of the door.”

Even though I answered appropriately I didn’t think the flow was very interesting.

The expert closed the question like this.

“I listened carefully to what you said. Thank you for your good comments and answers.”

“Hehe.”

“Oh my we are thankful~”

There is no organization.

Since this part is only going to ask fragmentary questions instead of expertise it would have been easier to see if they had been divided into types according to approach.

Well aren’t there a lot of type tests going on these days? They compare it to everything from drama characters to trees.

[You are the ‘strong pine tree’ type!]

Something like this.

‘At least there’s no time limit.’

I’m bored because there’s no stimulation that’s easy to feel.

I glanced at the production crew. I can see some of the people who worked together when I was making hotteok in a foreign country.

‘I guess I’m slowly falling into mannerism.’

This seems like a casting mistake you guys.

“Let me ask you the next question.”

The good news is that after several rounds of similar questions and answers a review was released during the mid-term briefing.

“Now I took a little look at the teachers’ attitude toward answering.”

The expert held up a piece of paper and began to speak eloquently.

“First of all our teacher Seon Ah-hyun! “Because he is careful and thoughtful when making decisions his response time tends to take a little longer than that of other group members.”

“yes…”

“I think it’s not a weakness but because you are very considerate of the people around you while still finding your own perspective. “Won’t you become a wise leader in the future?”

“That yes…! thank you…”

“Oh~”

Sun Ah-hyeon’s face brightens and she lowers her head. The guys around me slapped their palms.

“And Teacher Bae Se-jin.”

“…! yes!!”

Bae Se-jin who was smiling slightly when he saw Sun Ah-hyun was startled.

“I can see that the teacher’s intentions are clear and his will to do his best even in a slightly unfamiliar or uncomfortable environment.”

“that…”

This time Bae Se-jin’s face turns red.

“In particular he was very active in the ‘who has the key’ issue…”

In this way seven very positive behavioral reviews came full circle.

Past the youngest two and the older generation next to me…

“Our teacher Ryu Cheong-woo is the type of person who steps back and backs up other people’s opinions. I think it’s probably because his position is a leader.”

“hmm. “That could be possible.”

Liu Chengwu smiled and responded appropriately. I'm not a guy who's particularly interested in things like this so I figured he would.

And the last one was me.

The expert made eye contact with me and spoke.

"Teacher Park Moon-dae is a person with a very broad perspective. "Some people have a habit of saying 'look at the big picture' right?"

"ha ha ha! that's right! That's it~"

"Brother Moon Dae is truly that kind of person!"

A few people responded enthusiastically as if they had been lured by a swindler.

One guy in particular seems to have really come to trust this expert.

'Kim Rae-bin… if he wants to do business I have to stop him.'

That's how I feel. Anyway the expert ended his speech on a good note.

"The fact that you often come up with surprising ideas makes you seem like an essential idea bank for the group."

"thank you."

He puts words together quite well. And it was okay to speak gently without touching one's emotions unnecessarily.

He probably wasn't just looking at this but was basing his words on the data he had already received.

'It's still bland.'

There is no point in speaking because you only hear the story being told without technical terms or analytical explanations.

‘It was half-joking earlier but it might have been more fun to break it down into a real internet type test.’

Isn’t that a clear sense of sickness?

I looked at the expert with a somewhat vain feeling.

“Then on to the next question… I’ll take a break for a moment.”

“Yes~”

The expert receiving a signal from the production team cut appropriately.

People relax all at once.

Same goes for me.

“after.”

‘It’s a shame.’

be weak.

I shrugged my shoulders while anticipating the ups and downs of this content.

‘What happened?’

Filming has already begun so there is no point in worrying about it now. Let’s work hard on filming first.

“It was an amazing experience. I feel like I will learn more about myself!”

“I need to explain this! ‘With a strong will’? “What do you mean?”

…There are some really excited guys out there so fans will find it heartwarming.

If the fan service content is that good it's already a hit.

"wait a minute…"

At that time the production crew took advantage of the break and quietly got up and moved on leaving behind only the cameraman and a small number of people.

"ok?"

"They say you're going to see the director."

I see. Ryu Cheong-woo who was sitting close to the production team neatly summarized the situation.

'I think the production crew felt it wasn't very good while filming.'

And the expert standing in front of us also smiled and got up and headed down the hallway.

"Teachers please go to the bathroom for a moment."

"yes yes!"

The population density suddenly drops.

"Yes then…"

It was that moment.

"Ugh!"

The expert who opened the back door and went out into the hallway… grabbed the back of his neck and hesitantly took a step back.

And then I collapsed.

thud.

…squeak.

The expert's white coat was pushed through the door and was half-stuck.

"…??"

"Mr. Seo??"

"what."

Cardiac arrest?

I tried to move after the guys who were running away.

however…

Suddenly an iron door slams down right above the back door.

Tootong!

"omg?"

Suddenly the road became blocked.

'What the fuck?'

It wasn't just there.

An iron gate also came down from above the large door on the side where the production crew exited.

bang!

Kwakwakwak!

“what.”

fire? terrorism?

I tried to check the window right away… but the iron plate had already come down there too.

And the light changes.

Weeing-! Weeeeeee~!

Red and green lights in every corner of the space flash like crazy and sirens sound.

“Guys this way!”

At the sound of Ryu Cheong-woo’s voice the members instantly fall away from the wall and unite.

‘Emergency?’

You need to secure a smartphone right away…

“hey! excuse me!”

I turned my gaze when I heard Bae Se-jin’s voice.

A huge screen where questions were displayed just a moment ago.

That… has changed.

“crazy.”

[! AREA CLEAR!]

[Blockade completed]

Behind the red letters what looks like CCTV footage appears on a split screen of Usususu.

Video of people falling and doors closing.

And… people who had fallen staggered to their feet.

[Zombie virus leaked in lab]

[Until facility blows up 02:00:00]

“…”

what?

For a moment silence fell between the guys who were speechless.

I didn’t last long.

[01:59:57]

…starting the countdown.

“…”

The guys whose pupils suddenly trembled exchanged embarrassed glances. It seems to be shouting like this.

‘What is this!’

And a few seconds later.

We found a few guys deliberately hiding in a corner.

…The production team is holding back laughter.

“hey.”

“no way.”

“Camera director come out. “What is this?”

However the two or three members of the production team stubbornly sit in the corner refusing to make a statement.

But there is still a smile on his face.

And it was only after seeing that that people came to realize what was going on.

“Aaaah!”

“also! “I was fooled!”

This is all staged.

“Ughhhhh.”

Meanwhile the production crew grits their teeth with the determination not to let their laughter enter the microphone.

Bae Se-jin points vigorously at the screen.

“Zombies!!”

‘i get it.’

I held my head and smiled bitterly.

Here… I guess they can figure out your tendencies based on your ability to deal with unexpected situations.

‘I wondered why the research institute was so grand.’

And by mixing in absurd and unrealistic elements like ‘zombies’ they cleverly avoided situations that touched risk factors such as PTSD.

At the same time it was made for fun.

‘It’s so refreshing.’

The boring group interview just before was a build-up to blow this up.

‘I really couldn’t imagine it.’

I will take back what I said was obvious.

Very… I understand why the production team casted him.

I feel like blood is rushing to my head.

“Wait wait!! “There’s a door behind here!”

“what??”

“Is it a door?”

Just then Cha Yu-jin must have discovered something and hurriedly shouts pointing behind the production crew.

“Wait a minute~ Oh honestly if you have a conscience please move out of the way sister!”

Keun Se-jin skillfully guides the writer to get out of the way and places his hand in one corner.

“Ugh~”

The guy’s right hand revealed a square iron plate. Then a large vent appears beneath the red glowing back.

“Wow typical.”

“Would it be a good idea to move here?”

“I guess so.”

Those who were already immersed quickly began exchanging opinions.

‘hmm.’

The content seemed like it would be fun to choose. But looking at the current situation it seems like the time limit was barely given. Because it is the ability to respond to ‘disaster situations’.

[1:56:23]

Four minutes have already passed.

But in the picture how frustrating it would be if Testa couldn’t escape from here.

‘It’s best to not watch and leave in a clean state.’

As I think about this I suddenly remember what the expert said just now.

-People often say they ‘look at the big picture’ right?

‘Yes that’s right. ‘I’m a bit obsessed with the big picture.’

I chuckled and shook my hands.

“Let’s go.”

Let’s make it good.

I think this roommate content will be something worth celebrating.

Chapter 279

Five minutes have passed since I went to the psychological test and escaped from the zombies.

“Watch your head.”

“after.”

We’re crawling through the vent shaft.

This route seems to be correct as there are pre-installed cameras here and there.

‘The movement line is okay.’

The remaining production crew deliberately covered the vents giving the effect of making them look difficult to find.

But in reality it is a natural flow to seek out the production team in an unexpected situation so it is a good connection to the story.

‘The atmosphere is nice too.’

It’s a cliche but the inside of the vent is dark and the atmosphere is eerie so it’s good to concentrate.

Off…

Grumble! Squeak!

I can hear this sound beyond the wall.

“omg.”

“Wow sound.”

“This is definitely a zombie!”

‘There’s no one who can’t immerse themselves.’

After checking on the nervous guys I nodded inwardly and kept crawling.

And after some time.

After turning the corner two paths appeared. Liu Chengwu who was walking in front stopped.

“Should we be torn apart…”

“fizzle.”

Then it sticks to the corner of one passage and makes the others stick behind.

“Huh.”

The other guys pressed up against the wall at the unusual gesture.

That moment.

“Keeeeeeek!”

“Ugh.”

Kim Rae-bin hurriedly covered Keun Se-jin’s mouth.

A zombie was clinging to another vent on the other side screaming.

The suit is quite bloody with blood and wound makeup.

‘You’re acting passionately.’

It seems that the production team invested somewhat and hired more actors. It feels quite real… Wait a minute.

An ominous sound was heard.

Fighting.

"…!"

And the vent fan that the zombie is hanging on… falls off.

Ting ting tidi dedi ding…

Before the part bounced and reached my feet.

"To the right! side! side!"

"Wow!"

Cha Yu-jin jumped out like lightning into a passage in another direction. Then he pulls and pushes the members with his hands and head.

'Do you herd sheep?'

But the effect was clear. In an instant they ran down the side passage on all fours and reached the vent on the other side.

However at that very moment the zombie behind smashed the obstacle and the vibrations of the zombie trying to jump out rang loudly in the passage.

Quagwagwagwang!!

"Aaaah!"

"I'll open it right now!"

Next to the screaming Kim Rae-bin Sun Ah-hyun reached out and pulled the side of the vent.

It came off easily. And there is darkness ahead. It is connected to an unlit space.

I opened my mouth right away.

“I can’t hear any zombies from here.”

Liu Chengwu immediately received the message.

“Let’s go in. “Watch out for the person in front!”

“yes!”

One by one people exit the vent.

Relying on the faint light coming from the vent I checked that those who went down first were supporting the others and then came out almost at the same time as Liu Chengwu.

And closed the vent.

bang!

But it gets pushed out. Big Sejin shouted calmly.

“This isn’t fixed! Check to see if there’s anything worth fixing!”

“Wait a minute! “If you push this…”

Bae Se-jin pointed to something dark around where he was standing. Raebin Kim runs and shouts.

“It’s a cabinet!

“Move it!”

And just in case the personnel were immediately dispersed into three people holding the vent and four people moving the cabinet.

But there was no free time.

thud.

…Vibration is transmitted to the hand holding the vent.

“It’s open.”

A zombie smashed the vent and entered the passage. I checked the zombie that had appeared around the corner.

“There now.”

“Hey it’s coming!”

The atmosphere is created to the point of breaking into a cold sweat.

‘You’ll be adjusting your speed right?’

This is something that is done in a research lab that has even put in a PPL so they probably won’t give you even the minimum amount of time to implement the answer.

However the zombie that comes clattering and twisting its whole body at the end of the ventilation shaft is quite… no it’s fucking fast.

‘Damn’

It’s already right around the corner.

Just in case I put my weight on the hands holding the sides of the vent.

I appreciate you acting so passionately while filming but please adjust it a bit…

“Get out of the way!!”

I reflexively turned my body to the side. Steel furniture kicks in to the spot where Ryu Cheong-wu retreated in the same direction.

bang!

It’s a cabinet. A huge piece of furniture blocked and pressed down on more than half of the vent.

And at that moment a zombie stuck himself in the vent.

“Kyaaaak!”

thud!

It took four adult men to move the cabinet which was so full that the zombies were unable to penetrate it.

“Ah!”

However Cha Yu-jin who was in the front almost collided with the zombie in the vent due to the force of the push.

“…!”

“Kyaak!”

Ryu Cheong-woo and I reflexively pulled Cha Yu-jin. The guy jumped up and took a step back.

“are you okay?”

“No problem. Avoid!”

Cha Yu-jin smiled with a normal face. It doesn’t look like there was any special makeup blood on it.

“Thank goodness. “I thought Eugene had to be tied up~”

“haha!”

A few people finally laughed at Big Sejin’s joke. It seems like my overindulgence in a situation that was more bloody than I thought has come to an end.

And of course as soon as I came to my senses a hail of clay rained down on me.

I understand that it was more than just selling hotteok (hotteok) and making him part-time after offering to take him on a trip.

“Wow really… I never thought something like this would happen! “The production crew is really great!”

“I really didn’t expect it…”

“…Somehow they had to fill out some sort of consent form when they came in. “I thought it was because of the prosecutor.”

“fizzle!”

Meanwhile Cha Yu-jin seriously puts a finger to her mouth.

“There’s another zombie outside! “Let’s look here first!”

I’m excited.

It was clear that he was having fun as his eyes sparkled.

“Yes Eugene is right. Let’s first check where we are. “It’s dark so let’s go in groups of two… I’ll go alone.”

“All right. Leader~!”

Realizing that they were filming again they quickly resumed their search.

‘I’m going to edit it anyway so I think it would have been fun to talk about it more.’

I shrugged and started looking around relying on the faint light coming from the vents and past the zombies.

“Brother I am blind at night and my vision is limited but I can always do what you tell me to do so just tell me…”

“okay. “If there’s a problem I’ll tell you so don’t worry.”

“yes!”

‘If you see that there is no zombie actor coming while this is going on the room is sealed… ’

I quickly moved to the wall with Kim Rae-bin who happened to be nearby behind me. And the moment my hand finally touched the wall.

“…!”

I felt a unique texture.

…wood.

I stopped my hand.

‘A dark enclosed unfamiliar wooden space… ’

I’m feeling a little down.

“brother? “Maybe there’s some suspicious liquid on that wall…”

I moved my hand again.

“No it’s clean. “I slowed down because I was being careful.”

“okay! That’s a wise decision. “You never know where zombies might appear!”

okay. This was an overreaction.

‘It’s filming.’

It is already enough entertainment at the point where a zombie virus-like setting is added.

It’s obvious that they’re all dressed up anyway so it doesn’t matter if it’s sealed or not…

“Wait a minute this.”

“yes?”

My hands mechanically tracing the wall found something colder than wood.

“There’s something… like a metal box hanging on the wall but it’s a bit big.”

“…!”

It’s a suspicious box.

“What did you find in Mundae?”

“Hold on a moment.”

“I’ll check this way!”

Raebin Kim was heard shouting as he passed by and checked the other side of the metal box.

“There’s something like a lock on the other side! Shall I open it?”

“uh? for a moment! “Guys wait!”

Not long after Keun Se-jin and Seon Ah-hyun approached holding a flashlight wondering where they had found it.

“Is this okay?”

“That’s great!”

And then relying on the flashlight I unlocked the metal box.

Ji-ing!

The box opens by itself.

And a blue laser shoots out of the box.

“Huh?”

“damage!”

Even Bae Se-jin and Cha Yu-jin who were trying to look out scream saying they found something similar to a window.

“Get down!”

I first grabbed the guy next to me and lowered my head.

But right after.

Sweet.

Your vision becomes clearer.

“…??”

When I raised my head I felt a light stinging my eyes. The light came on in the room.

I really want it.

“It’s okay.”

“Yes yes?”

I suddenly patted the guy next to me on the back and made him get up.

And I checked where the box in front of me was hanging.

It was a huge maroon cabinet. Beyond that I saw a neatly painted wall.

‘Was it furniture?’

What I touched was not a wall but wooden furniture.

…This is not a wooden villa it’s just an office space.

“under.”

I laugh out loud.

And next to me people were laughing in a different way.

“The light was turned on…”

“I thought we were so funny?”

“The dynamic of the old composition is amazing.”

“…what on earth does it work?”

Bae Se-jin touched the box. Big Sejin laughed out loud and rubbed his hands.

“Ah the lights are connected with lasers… Wow!”

“why?”

When I turn my gaze towards Keun Se-jin… there is something that looks like a human corpse lying in the corner.

Holy shit!

“omg!”

“Ugh!”

“Guys it’s a mannequin.”

…I will correct it. It was a mannequin that appeared to be a corpse.

“What is this?”

The mannequin was dressed in a uniform that appeared to be a security personnel and in its hand was holding a strange object that looked like a combination of a gun and a stun gun.

And the gun is pointed at his head.

‘Is this a substitute for a pistol just as a mannequin is a substitute for a corpse?… ’

I immediately twisted it and carefully pulled it out. And I looked.

‘hmm.’

The muzzle is blocked by glass. This is…

“It looks like a laser gun.”

“yes?”

I remembered the metal box with the blue laser sticking out of it earlier.

“The shape of this end is similar to the one I saw in the box earlier and the pattern is also similar."

"Oh Moon Dae is smart~"

"wait a minute. "I'm sorry…"

"…Ahyeon is brave~"

Meanwhile Sun Ah-hyun turned the mannequin over and found the box and user manual inside the mannequin.

What was in the box was a firearm identical to the one I was holding… and four purple cylinders that looked like they might contain live ammunition.

"Ah there is also an article added here that looks like what this mannequin wrote."

Big Sejin read the user manual in an instant and came up with a summary.

A zombie virus that was mistakenly brought into this laboratory is leaked and the only thing that works against zombies is this weapon that came with the virus.

And since I am already infected with the virus and cannot escape I use a laser gun… This is how the content was summarized.

"Wow they say you can kill zombies with this?"

"oh."

Big Sejin pointed to the purple cylinder.

"Hey that's a rechargeable battery… It can be used three times on a single charge!"

"hmm. okay?"

Liu Chengwu picked up the laser gun and aimed it at the suit zombie hanging from the vent.

To be exact one arm of the zombie visible next to the cabinet.

And one quick step.

Ji-ing!

“Kiyak!”

When the laser was fired one of the zombie’s arms became paralyzed and stopped moving.

“Oh!”

“Hmm good.”

Liu Chengwu shrugged his shoulders and put away his gun.

And he spoke calmly.

“I’m sorry but could you pull the cabinet a little bit? “I’ll shoot you in the head.”

“…yes.”

From now on it looks like the genre will change from zombie escape to zombie shooting.

* * *

The prediction was only half correct.

Jiying- Bang!

I saw a zombie running down the hallway fall down after being hit by a laser gun.

This is Liu Chengwu's skill. For reference I saw a similar scene about seven more times.

"and."

"Brother it's awesome!"

"haha."

That admiration is also the eighth time. You can bet your hair color on the bundled and edited cut.

However Liu Chengwu looked at the cylinder and shrugged his shoulders.

"Now there are only two steps left… Well I hope we can escape soon."

"Ugh I guess so."

That too was saved.

Surprisingly he only used the laser gun for one shot one kill. However in a situation where there were only 10 rounds left in the first place there was no room to spend a lot.

'Maybe I shouldn't have shot that vent guy in the beginning.'

Still I couldn't help but write it already. I pressed my forehead.

In the first place the research institute probably included guns as an element of conflict between group members.

This is because movement mainly consisted of clandestine movement through cooperation.

On the contrary it took more time to kill him by shooting him so there shouldn't be a big problem with only two shots left.

'Well done.'

The root was chewy.

From a bathroom with zombies trapped in each cubicle to a private counseling room from a playroom with creepy BGM to a hallway… It was a pretty well-made course but there was a problem.

“phew!”

“Wow 2 hours is a long time??”

When I finished everything time was running out.

According to the map I obtained from the desk earlier the back door was at the end of this hallway and it felt like that would be the end.

‘And I’m sure there’s a trick there too.’

However when I checked Bae Se-jin’s watch there was less than 10 minutes left.

‘You have to escape to survive the last picture.’

It would be a perfect ending if it came out just in the nick of time.

“Let’s go quickly.”

“Let’s go and look ahead carefully. If there are any zombies hit my shoulder.”

“yes!”

We cautiously walked through the gloomy hallway with the flickering lights leading to the back door… but nothing happened.

“Ohh.”

“I guess this is the end.”

“great! “It’s our success!”

‘This is boring.’

I clicked my tongue but did not stop Cha Yu-jin from pulling the back door.

But… the door didn’t open.

Beep.

Instead a red light appeared on the doorbell screen.

[Please provide your pass.]

“omg.”

The final trick was revealed.

“Pass?”

The members looked at the back door with dumbfounded expressions for a moment but then a quick discussion took place.

“What about the production crew?”

“No I have never received or submitted anything like that.”

“and”

“Should I go to the desk?”

With less than 10 minutes remaining a trick that is too vague is presented and the members begin to rack their brains and think.

It’s worth being nervous. I closed my mouth and tilted my head back.

‘…There must be a hint.’

Since this is the final escape there will be a crucial hint from what we experienced on the way here.

That way the composition will be neat and you will feel refreshed when you escape.

‘I definitely need an idea… ’

-The way you often come up with surprising ideas makes you seem like an essential idea bank for the group.

“…!”

for a moment.

I restored my head to its original state.

‘…I get it.’

And then I started to run backwards down the hallway I had been moving forward until now.

“Mumundae?”

“for a moment!”

There is no time to explain.

‘9 minutes.’

It’s tight.

I ran first. And I calculated it in my head.

If you think of it as a straight line the path is shorter than you think.

‘There are no zombies on the route up to that room so if we continue like this… ’

You can escape!

I ran faster down the hallway.

It was then.

– Crunchy.

There was a strange sound coming from across the hallway I was running through.

It’s the sound of something collapsing.

-Fee profit.

And dark smoke begins to rise from the cracks and corners of the wall.

In the hallway where the smoke was shown one after another the flickering lights turn off infrequently. The other side is now dark.

‘In a state of darkness… ’

I ran and reached the end of the hallway.

Smoke billows in.

‘smell of burning… ’

I stand alone in a dark smoky enclosed space.

“…”

I stopped walking.

Cold sweat ran down my neck.

Chapter 280

Alone in a blocked sight and sense of smell…

Inconceivable thoughts come and go in my head.

‘alone.’

Having to live alone means that you have to take responsibility for everything.

I am responsible for all actions and mistakes required by society including late payment of contract reports.

The risks and pain that arise from my judgment and actions are all mine.

You cannot share it with anyone. Because I have no options.

‘are you okay.’

But you get used to this after a few years.

I’m not the only one who lives like this. It means that even if something terrible or difficult happens you can still survive.

‘It was worth it.’

But situations that you can’t handle… Don’t situations that you can’t handle come along in life?

‘I can’t guarantee that it won’t come forever.’

Just like what happened to my parents… when a sudden disaster situation occurs…

If a fire breaks out.

What if I'm sleeping injured or sick at that time? What if I'm helpless and can't do anything?

'There are too many holes.'

If I let my guard down I will die.

Pop.

Cold sweat fell on my feet… no it was strange that a drop of liquid on my shoe could feel so heavy.

'Is it real?'

The smell is pungent.

But when I tried to check I couldn't see anything…

"Park Moon-dae!"

Suddenly a voice cut through the silence.

And then something came up on my shoulder… I think it's a hand.

It's someone else's hand not mine.

"are you okay? "Just stop first."

Was I walking?

"yes."

The answer came out reflexively.

I took a deep breath and stopped.

And I said something without even asking.

“It looked like there was a fire…”

“I think it had an effect as the escape time limit got closer.”

effect.

‘yes.’

To liven up the atmosphere at the end you can create an effect like a collapsing building. I raised my head.

Light was leaking from the corner of the passage in front of me. It is the blue light of the emergency exit.

“ah.”

I had already walked away from the darkest section.

I just didn’t know.

From my open ears I can finally hear the loud siren sound the distant sound of zombies and the sound of an artificial collapse.

“I must have been surprised if I went alone. “It’s a good thing you followed along.”

And the owner of the hand was Ryu Cheong-wu smiling shyly. The guy holding the laser gun was chasing me in an instant.

I chuckled.

“yes. “I feel reassured.”

Useless thoughts disappear.

‘What kind of foolish behavior is this while filming?’

Nothing to worry about happened.

And even if it happens you can deal with it. Because I'm not the only one here.

"okay."

Liu Chengyu seemed to check my face then lightly patted my back and nodded.

"If you're going to move it's better to have a weapon. "Let's go together."

"That's right. thank you."

I really don't have time anymore.

For a moment I thought about the time I wasted being deceived by thoughts and clicked my tongue.

And then started running again. Liu Chengwu followed right away.

"Where are we going?"

"The room with the vent."

"Ah the room where I found this laser gun. "Would you like to look there again?"

"no."

I answered quickly.

"With that I'm going back to the first room."

"…Why are you there?"

"I thought it might have a different meaning since there were no tricks in the starting room.”

All I had to do was find the vent and get out.

Even that was a clumsy structure that the production team covered up. That is not the curriculum that this institute originally operated.

‘There must be a trick in that space for the composition to be correct.’

Ryu Cheong-woo and I passed the actor playing a zombie corpse and went up the stairs through the emergency exit.

Up here is that room. I spoke quickly conscious of the camera.

“When I first saw the word ‘pass’ on the back door the first thing that came to mind was ID.”

“ID?”

“yes. It’s easy to think of something like an ID card as a pass for a lab like this. However none of the people we met were wearing cards around their necks.”

I recalled the group interview.

There were no straps on the neck or chest of the expert conducting the interview.

“Then wouldn’t you have carried it around in your clothes pocket?”

“…!”

And while we were at it we came across one piece of clothing that really impressed us.

I opened the door passed the mannequin and climbed into the vent.

Because the cabinet had been removed in advance all the actor had to do was carefully step over the corpse.

And then I remembered.

This content was the first sign of a change in genre from psychological testing to zombie escape.

– Oh my!

“At that time the person conducting the consultation fell down the hallway and his white coat got caught on the door.”

And of course we couldn’t help but witness it with extremely shocking concentration.

“I guess the reason I showed you that gown hanging there is because the most important answer is there.”

Almost confidently I reached the end of the vent and put my foot down.

‘I can see it.’

Directly across from me there was a gown spread under the first iron door that went down.

I immediately ran over lowered my posture and rummaged through my white gown.

A square piece of plastic touches the fabric of the front pocket.

‘yes.’

I laughed.

“The pass has always been here.”

He then took out an ID card with the person’s face and position stamped on it from his pocket.

On the back you can even see the small letters clearly written on the back saying ‘Can also be used as a pass.’

“As expected Mundae is smart.”

Liu Chengwu was heard admiring.

I turned my head as I put my ID card in my pocket.

“Not really…”

Crash.

“…?”

The muzzle of a laser gun appears before your eyes.

The laser gun that Ryu Chengwu was holding or is still holding.

‘what.’

I only moved my eyes and looked up at Liu Chengwu.

He said to me with a slightly embarrassed expression.

“I need to give you my ID card. “It’s a door.”

“…”

I paused for a moment then gathered my logic and opened my mouth.

“Whether it’s me or my brother opening the door from the back will be the same anyway.”

“No we have different goals.”

Liu Chengwu kindly added an explanation.

“You escape. “I am Jersey.”

“…!!”

“Well… so to speak I am the villain. “That’s how it happened.”

No what bullshit.

‘Who contributed the most to the escape so far?’

The advantage we gained thanks to that marksmanship… Wait.

In an instant Liu Chengwu’s actions pass through my mind.

-I’m sorry but could you pull the cabinet a little bit? I’ll sweep my head.

I wasted two shots of that damn laser gun’s battery on the zombie in the vent.

He personally applied and was shot in the arm without asking for any consent.

And even in sections that didn’t need to be used we always asked whether or not to shoot.

‘So I waste time even in sections that don’t need to be used… ’

From the beginning the escape route from this laboratory was created to allow for stealthy movement without the use of weapons…

In other words the only good thing about this bastard holding a gun is peace of mind and wasted time.

‘and… ’

I’m completely hooked on this.

I clicked my tongue at the production crew and looked at Liu Chengwu.

‘Is it time to hear the story about why it was selected and what the background story is?’

does not exist. Please include that in the interview.

I got straight to the point.

“I guess that only works on zombies.”

Liu Chengwu answered calmly.

“no. “The user manual said it was for both use.”

“ah.”

I don’t care if it’s not real. The possibility alone was enough to give the gun its power.

If you get hit you’re out and there’s no more chance of escape.

If Ryu Cheng-wu disappears with the ID card like this that’s it.

‘It’s tough.’

How many minutes are left now?

Coincidentally there is a time countdown on the large screen here.

[00:05:19]

…The ending is the most immersive and has a wonderful flow structure.

‘5 minutes.’

It’s breathtaking.

I sighed and raised my hands.

“…wait a minute. “I’ll take out my card.”

“okay.”

I put my hand into the largest pocket of my coat.

And as soon as he grabbed the object he immediately pulled it out and aimed it at Liu Chengwu.

“That’s good. “It works for people too.”

It’s a laser gun.

The first laser gun I found was the one I took out of the hand of the security officer who ended his life as a zombie.

Liu Chengwu opened his mouth with a mixture of surprise and puzzlement.

“The battery…”

“there is.”

Everyone unconsciously assumed that Ryu Cheong-wu was not here because he was carrying a laser gun with 12 rounds to spare.

no.

I checked.

“There’s only one step left.”

There was just enough left to shoot once.

Although I did community service I thought it would be better if he went to a training camp so I took care of him.

Now that I hold it it doesn’t look that much like the real thing so I don’t think it will mean much.

‘Because there was no need for two guns as we progressed.’

Since Liu Chengwu alone was enough interest has faded.

“Hmm.”

Liu Chengwu smiled bitterly as if he was in pain. It’s a face that says you’ve been caught up in it.

But soon he nodded as if he realized something.

“Mundae. But even if we just confront each other like this doesn’t that mean we can’t use the ID card anyway? “You can’t take it to the back door.”

“…!”

“Then I don’t think this means much either…”

That is correct.

‘I should have shot it as soon as I took it out.’

I was worried that if that statement was a lie it would lead to a dog fight and make it unbecoming of idol content but I forgot that Ryu Cheong-woo’s personality is not one to lie about such things.

‘Then should you shoot me now?’

I don’t know if I can shoot before that guy… and he only has two shots left.

It was a moment to worry about.

Teodeudong!

“Hyung Moon Dae! Cheongwoo hyung!”

“…!”

The ventilation shaft on the other side hurriedly opened with a loud noise.

And cheerful voices were heard.

“I was right! “It’s here!”

“Oh~ really!”

“Hey we’re here…”

The guys who were trying to wave their hands cheerfully as they climbed out of the vent froze when they saw the situation.

“Uh oh.”

Two members aiming laser guns at each other.

“What is happening!”

I opened my mouth without realizing it.

“Why did you guys come all the way here…”

I thought you were waiting at the door?

“No of course you run alone so you’ll be chased!”

“that’s right!”

“Ugh I’m worried…”

I looked at them as if I had been hit.

‘I ran alone because I didn’t have time… because I couldn’t explain.’

So… then if you just told him to run without explanation would he have followed?

‘okay. And the shooting picture would have been better as well.’

The inner voice answers in its own way. I laughed without realizing it.

‘I guess I still need time to change my habits.’

However there are also those who are serious alone. Kim Rae-bin looked at me and Ryu Cheong-woo alternately her pupils trembling.

“There is internal division in our team which must go to the fateful community until escape…”

“…”

I need to clear up the misunderstanding first.

I opened my mouth right away.

“I just found my pass in this gown and Chungwoo tried to take it away. “He was actually a spy.”

Then I took out my ID card from my pocket and waved it.

“oh my god!”

“Huh! Brother Cheongwoo!”

“also! “He was in the gown… No then we have to subdue him now!”

In an instant the atmosphere changes again.

And since the number of pages has increased it is almost like winning.

‘The remaining 4 minutes are enough to escape.’

But at that moment I felt a little cold.

But do these guys need to blindly believe what I say? What if two people with guns are pointing at each other?

Doesn’t it seem even more strange that I who had not stepped forward for so long picked up a gun?

‘If Ryu Cheong-woo says on the contrary that I tried to stab him in the back and that he was blocking it… ’

“haha.”

…doesn’t seem to be happening. Looking at Ryu Cheong-woo’s expression it says ‘I got caught.’

Actually I would rather lose than use that method.

“Uhm. This won’t work. “I will surrender.”

Liu Chengwu smiled with a slightly surprised expression put down the laser gun and raised his hand.

“Wow!”

The members immediately ran over and retrieved Ryu Chengwu’s laser gun exclaiming and screaming. It seems like the twist at the end was thrilling.

“We are escaping!”

“No we have to run first!”

“Yes!”

Then he started running to the back door jokingly threatening Liu Chengwu.

And the ID card in question…

-Tirik.

“It’s open!”

“Good…!”

It worked successfully. I went outside with the guys who were shoulder to shoulder with me.

The sun was setting.

The wind blew against my face.

“Escape succeeded with 29 seconds left!”

“We’re crazy!”

I obediently joined in on their ceremony. Honestly it was refreshing.

After talking about the behind-the-scenes and what happened for a while.

“Ah thank you all for your hard work!”

“Ugh! really!”

The production crew met again and were smiling.

Moreover the camera is still rolling as if they are trying to capture even us who are upset. They are great guys.

“Who made you betray Cheongwoo? “Aren’t you doing too much to our leader?”

“No Mr. Cheongwoo had fun too??”

“Haha no.”

“Cheongwoo you betrayed me like this!”

A few minutes of playful and funny discussion followed and then we got to the point.

“So who is our roommate??”

“Well of course. “I wonder how it is decided?”

Yes that was the original purpose of this mess. We looked at the crew waiting for an appropriate response.

“that…”

The PD smiled broadly.

“Please check it out while watching episode 1 live~”

“Oh really!!”

In that way Testa played in the hands of the production staff until the very end.

…It was fun so I’ll skip it.

* * *

A few days after Testa finished filming after many twists and turns.

Fans checked the fan service video uploaded on WeTube.

However for a roommate series it was quite extraordinary.

[“It’s a psychological test! “It’s called counseling!” I’m sorry Fake! 〈Testa Roommate〉 Episode 4 becomes a zombie… ☆Season 4 ep.1]

The thumbnail shows Kim Rae-bin and Keun Se-jin screaming.

“…??”

A graduate student who saw the notification and accessed WeTube looked at it in confusion for a moment but then burst into laughter and clicked on the title.

“haha!!”

My heart swelled with anticipation!

Chapter 281

Testa Roommate content was mainly short videos that ended in one or two episodes.

But they numbered the seasons in such a grandiose way and what about zombies?

Even if you can't analyze the specific reasons it comes intuitively.

'This… will be fun!'

Expectations for content that seemed fun were bound to rise just by predicting such simple reactions.

The thumbnail and title that really attracted attention had the magic to make people who thought 'I'll watch it this weekend' and had forgotten about it click on the video.

The same was true for graduate students.

She planned to play the video with a reverential heart after going home washing up and cleaning up but she just played the video on the subway.

'Thank you Bluetooth earphones!'

The first thing I heard was an elegant string classical music.

Dandandandandarara~

[The story you will see today]

[Researcher: Through the scientific method! We will find and match you with the most suitable roommate.]

[Testa: Wow! (Twinkle)]

Then along with the vaguely bright recorder BGM Testa appeared slapping his palms with his eyes shining brightly.

[Testa's curiosity and joy…]

[Kim Rae-bin (cute youngest member): It was an amazing experience. I think I will learn more about myself!]

[Seon Ah-hyeon (sika deer): Wouldn't it be warmer here…?]

However the atmosphere completely changes with the addition of black subtitles and eerie sound effects.

[Sublimates into a zombie!]

[Kim Rae-bin: Argh!]

[Lee Se-jin (deuk-eum): Huaaaaak!]

Kim Rae-bin stuck in a vent and screaming Ryu Cheong-woo slipping with a laser gun and Cha Yu-jin clinging to furniture in the dark passed by.

The last are the members running through a smoke-filled hallway with flickering lights.

[Testa: Ouch!!]

[↑ Fooled by the production team again]

"Ugh."

The graduate student quickly closed his mouth. It was so funny but I couldn't make a sound so I felt like my stomach was going to explode.

[♡Always makes shooting rewarding♡]

‘Hold on! ‘Hold on!’

She took a deep breath doing her best not to turn into a subway maniac.

Still I couldn’t take my eyes off the video. Because it was already fun!

Now the video was parodying the opening of a famous sci-fi classic movie with subtitles accompanied by a magnificent OST.

[May XX a research center in Ilsan]

[It is roommate reassignment season and Testa members gather together again (in fact they always gather together) to reminisce about the past three roommate assignments. However there is a conspiracy by the evil production team lurking here…]

Highlights of past roommate videos pass by in the black space background.

Park Moon-dae throws away Cha Yu-jin’s card and chases after Lee Se-jin who was scammed by Bae Se-jin…

And Testa standing in a white indoor space with an excited face appeared on the screen.

[Lee Se-jin: Everyone~ What content are we going to have today?]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Let’s all talk together.]

[Testa: ‘Roommate is science!’]

As befits idol content the first episode was faithfully filled with psychological test results. It wasn’t removed because it was something fans would be curious about.

[Chinchilla VS Rabbit who is stronger?]

[Bae Se-jin: (pupil earthquake) Wouldn’t the rabbit be stronger? There are also those teeth.]

[Members who do not lose their sense of professionalism despite a series of strange problems]

The question didn't seem to have any credibility but even that was funny since I already knew I was going to be destroyed as a zombie.

And it was always nice to see the members bickering or cooperating with each other.

[Cha Yu-jin: Even chinchillas have teeth!]

[Bae Se-jin: (effect of flying into space)]

-Cute♡♡

-Once the kids come up with this idea it's so cool haha.

-Why are the youngest members so excited?

-If someone goes to a fan club please ask a lot of questions.

– Mundae is so smart isn't he a genius? How did you come up with another animal there?

For reference the last one was a chat conducted by a college student. This is how I solved the problem of not being able to scream.

'Ugh!'

She thought she was slipping smoothly into a deep fan life but it was still a fairly normal choice.

Episode 1 showed a deep enough flavor of heartwarming and humorous idol content that we soon forgot about zombies but…

The predicted twist didn't last longer than the first episode and steadily appeared in the latter half of the episode.

[Researcher: Oh my!]

[Collapse…?]

Crash. bang!

The office is blocked off with an iron door edited spectacularly.

The fast and exciting effects made viewers nervous making them focus on knowing the situation was about to change suddenly.

However the testas who quickly gathered in the center and stuck to each other as soon as the incident occurred were cute.

[Testa:…?]

[Suddenly zombie atmosphere]

The situation ended in a comical way with Testa frozen and trying to figure out what the situation was and then realizing that he had been tricked.

[Lee Se-jin: Director!!]

Real-time chat exploded.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Let the camera director come out.

-I'm looking for the production crew right away.

-How deceived I am.

-Stop combining the hamster that lost Hapsi to Bae Se it's so funny.

-Ah fun

[Unexpected escape from the zombie laboratory!]

[How does Testa respond?]

And what starts here is Testa's personal interview data.

[Kim Rae-bin / Rapper / 20 years old / Rabbit born on November 11 200X]

[A fearless rabbit in this area but a worker of the times]

[Counselor: According to the distribution of scores he is a very sincere and good-natured person but has a clear ego. The synergy that comes with good feedback and advice will be great.]

On the screen Kim Rae-bin's appearance in the past Testa entertainment program passes by comparing the performance that Kim Rae-bin will show in Zombie Escape in the future.

It is mainly a feat of removing the weight of perfect hotteok dough with one hand.

Fans burst into laughter at the cute caption that included a real rabbit instead of a medieval rabbit but the video didn't stop.

[Cha Yu-jin / Center / 21 years old / Born on March 6 200X Tiger (self-proclaimed)]

[Agility and a sense of wildness the alley leader of this area]

The introduction method was somehow similar to the member introduction in a heist movie where all-stars gather to steal jewels etc. which made it more exciting.

And finally the graduate student's favorite came out.

'Mundae!'

[Park Moon-dae / Main vocalist / 22 years old / Dog born on December 15 200X]

‘It’s a puppy!!!

The graduate student was moved by nothing.

[Tibetan fox in this area with brilliant ideas and judgment]

[Counselor: Although you have strong introverted tendencies you are a mature person who has developed many extroverted elements. So I think you use both factors appropriately when making your decision.]

[Counselor: However you are a bit of a perfectionist. (laugh)]

On the data screen Park Moon-dae’s face passes by as he seriously calculates the number of hotteoks and drinks he has sold so far.

‘Oh it’s really so cute… ’

The graduate student was happy while checking the real-time chat.

-Park Moon-dae is the best dog and doesn’t accept any rebuttals.

-Mundae is always sincere about his work haha.

-The production team must know something to take care of the Tibetan fox faction.

The last person to be introduced in reverse chronological order of birthday was Ryu Cheong-woo.

‘uh? If Sejin’s date is February 7th… and Cheongwoo’s date is October 28th isn’t Sejin the eldest?’

The graduate student recalled the screen he had just passed and wondered about the order but he thought it was because Ryu Cheong-woo was the leader and moved on.

[Reliable leader dazzling survival ability]

[Counselor: You have strong independent and independent tendencies

but it is impressive that you are in the position of an inclusive leader.]

[Counselor: You have a very stable psychological state.]

On the data screen Ryu Cheong-woo smiling and taking care of the members with a normal face passed by all kinds of horror-related content.

And then the main story returns.

[Cha Yujin: Wait wait!! There's a door behind here!]

The video ended with the members finding a vent behind the production crew and crawling into it.

[Testa Dream Team!]

[Will you succeed in escaping from a laboratory full of zombies?]

'Ah we're starting to get into zombies in earnest from episode 2!'

In fact there wasn't much of a zombie story given the title from episode 1 but it gave a sense of satisfaction and anticipation at the same time thanks to the detailed description of the situation in which the incident occurred and the role players.

Thanks to this the response was positive.

-Wow you decided on a scale.

-The production team is amazing. Did they cover the vents?

-Oh please give me episode 2 right now ㅠㅠ How can I wait until next week?

-Why do we have to give 2 episodes at once? Anyway please.

-So what on earth does this have to do with the roommate? The roommate was completely taken advantage of haha.

The graduate student enjoyed the afterglow by reading the posts of several people he followed on social media.

‘Oh you must have seen the performance right?’

He then contacts his homma friend and starts talking excitedly again only to end up screaming internally.

‘I passed the stop to get off!’

For reference Homma’s response was ‘I’m so curious to know if Mundae is even afraid of zombies I’m going crazy.’

And just one week later Testa’s zombie escape story was made public.

[Kyaaaa!!]

[Lee Se-jin: Ugh (mouth covered)]

The editing was excellent combining the thrilling chase and battle scenes with Testa taking care of each other.

In particular the part where you come out of the vent and block the entrance with a cabinet received rave reviews saying it was really like a zombie movie.

-It’s more fun than you can imagine;

-Ryu Cheong-woo: I wonder if he’s crazy. Look at him shooting zombies like he’s the main character in a movie.

-This seems like it would be fun even for people who don’t know kids so it was selected for business use.

-Episode 3 come out quickly ㅠㅠ

Episode 2 was a good mix of the two parts a cut where the members find a laser gun and kill zombies through their tops and a cut where they move carefully because they can’t handle it.

So the balance between coolness and horror was excellent.

-I almost screamed in the bathroom. The sound of zombies pounding on every door was creepy.

I thought Ravin passed out there and fainted haha.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ ㄹㅇ

-Ahyeon's search for dolls in the playroom was so amazing that I screamed.

In particular Sun Ah-hyun's calm and fearless behavior in the corner was emphasized through separate editing which greatly contributed to strengthening her character.

-I guess Testa didn't know that Ahyeon was like this so much so it was posted on the kids' SNS haha (link)

-Ahyeon still doesn't understand why people are surprised. It's so cute ㅠㅠ

-My sika deer elk a specimen of external and internal lectures…

And Park Moon-dae's fans were also satisfied. Homma sent this message to her friend.

[Performance: This is a valuable entertainment show that teaches valuable information about how zombies are only half scary]

This is because Park Moon-dae was afraid of being a zombie without being seen but when he actually appeared he had the expression of a Tibetan fox.

Fans rewatched episode 2 which ended with Testa racing toward the back door and produced numerous GIFs.

-I think something like this would be fun for the kids' next concept. Students surviving the zombie apocalypse… I'm already delusional.

-Does anyone want to see Cha Yu-jin attracting the attention of zombies by throwing a ball in the playroom? (GIF file)

-Lee Se-jin's amazing communication skills while being pushed and pushed by zombies hahaha (captured link)

Overall the fans were very satisfied and were in peaceful enjoyment.

There were no particular questions or controversies.

-Episode 3 will probably be about escape + roommate assignment. I think the zombies are almost over haha.

-Episode 2 had good pacing but I expected episode 3 to have the feel of cute traditional roommate content.

This was the established theory.

However the day when the long-awaited third episode was released.

-omg

-Mimimi crazy

-Are you Cheongwoo?

[Ryu Cheong-woo: I have to give you my ID card. Mundae.]

[Park Moon-dae: !!!!]

As soon as the scene of Ryu Cheong-woo pointing a laser gun at Park Moon-dae who was showing off his brilliant deduction in the first room was shown the reaction exploded.

And when two people are staring at each other in a frozen screen like a movie.

The screen rewinds and returns to a cut of Ryu Cheong-woo's personal consultation.

Chapter 282

[◀◀◀]

In the video the benevolent face of the counselor explaining the personal interview with Ryu Cheong-woo is replayed.

[Counselor: You have strong independent and independent tendencies but it is impressive that you are in the position of an inclusive leader.]

Up to this point it's the same phrase as before. However a new phrase was added after that.

[Counselor: Then what about Ryu Cheong-woo who is not the leader?]

[Counselor: How would you act in a situation where you can demonstrate your independent tendencies more?]

And the screen changes again.

[After personal interview]

[A mysterious letter suddenly delivered to Cheongwoo]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Hmm? What is it?]

[Ryu Cheong-woo:…?? zombi?]

The moment it was revealed that Liu Chengwu knew about the zombie outbreak even before the group interview took place the chat window was once again filled with screams.

His role was the force that brought the zombie virus into this laboratory.

The goal is to turn everyone into zombies or blow them up!

[Counselor: How different will Teacher Ryu Cheong-woo be from his usual self when he is in a position where he is in conflict with his group members and is out of his role as a leader?]

Using the counselor's voice as background music Ryu Cheong-woo's behavior that had not been revealed until now began to appear.

Instead of intentionally moving the members to confront the zombies in the ventilation shaft he moved the members to the back of the passage.

And when he gets out of the dark room he walks alone and removes any hints about the spy.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: (waves his hand at the camera)]

Fans cried at the sight of Liu Chengwu approaching the corpse mannequin first and removing the note from the hand on the other side of the gun.

The content of the note was 'There is a traitor among the guests.'

[Ryu Cheong-woo: I was worried about whether I could do well but it was surprisingly fun.]

Ryu Cheong-woo intentionally abuses the laser gun and invites discussion on whether to shoot zombies or not.

To make you waste time.

The last one is Ryu Cheong-woo who looks at Park Moon-dae running out as if he senses something and says this to the members.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: I will follow the door. Because I have a gun.]

[Kim Rae-bin: I understand!]

Ryu Cheong-woo broke through the hallway that had the effect of collapsing the building and ran straight at incredible speed to catch up with Park Moon-dae.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Park Moon-dae!]

After showing all the cuts the scene comes back together as if it were being sucked in and returns to the present.

Liu Chengwu aimed his gun. A strong Park Mun-dae.

-Ahhhhhh

-Is this a great victory for Ryu Cheong-woo??

-Ah I never imagined it would be amazing. Why are you so good at it?

-Hehehe Villain Me Cheongwoo is the best…

-What should I do with Mundae?

People screaming like crazy.

And these people are shown screaming once again in the scene a moment later.

[Park Moon-dae: That's good. It works for people too.]

The moment Park Moon-dae took out the laser gun the chat window stopped due to lag.

"Wow!"

The graduate student also screamed.

Like last time I was watching a video on the subway so people's attention was focused for a moment but I didn't have time to pay attention to it.

Interview scenes intersect.

[Park Moon-dae: When I first looked at what was in the mannequin's hand… there was only one foot left.]

[Park Moon-dae: First of all I took care of it. I was planning to give it to Chungwoo just in case… but I ended up using it for Chungwoo anyway.]

'crazy!'

He even looked at the pass in his gown and he even packed these things!

'Shouldn't there be more entertainment shows like this in Mundae??'

And in the real-time chat window they were spitting out similar sounds using single words and screams.

And the conversation between the two people in the standoff and Ryu Cheong-woo's briefing on the situation.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Mundae. But even if we just face each other like this doesn't that mean we can't use the ID card anyway?]

"Huh!"

Despite the secret move prepared by Park Moon-dae it seemed that Ryu Cheong-woo would win but the balance of power soon collapsed.

This is because members who were supposed to be at the back door poured out of the vent.

-Wow really

-It's a spectacle.

-ㅋㅋㅋ Daeyujam Group

-Isn't this a script?

[Cha Yu-jin: I was right! It's here!]

The members who remained blankly at the back door also moved immediately after being pushed by Cha Yu-jin's support and Lee Se-jin's sympathy Bae Se-jin's reasoning.

Only Kim Rae-bin who had insisted on remaining at the back door just in case looked at the situation with a lost expression.

[Kim Rae-bin: I never dared guess that such a situation would happen…]

Kim Rae-bin who had a downcast and vain expression on her face during the interview was honestly funny and cute.

And the confrontation scene returns again.

As the number of men decreased and the structure changed Liu Chengwu meekly lowered his gun and surrendered.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: This won't work. I will surrender.]

[Cha Yujin: Waaaaaa!]

The production team edited the situation without stopping showing that the situation kept turning over and over again with perfect timing and eventually resolved for the better.

So Ryu Cheong-woo's cool surrender exploded with warm exhilaration instead of regret.

-Ah we're finally leaving!!

-You guys are really amazingㅠㅠ

-I think I'm escaping.

[Park Moon-dae: Honestly if Chung-woo showed up badly he would have been able to win but I think he couldn't do that due to personality issues.]

[Park Moon-dae: Of course in a good way.]

Even Park Moon-dae's soft words were inserted heartwarmingly as the members ran to the back door.

-It's a legend.

-No is this the quality that will come out of Zarkon?

-Is it thrilling comical with a twist and even touching? What on earth?

-You can just do it as an official entertainment show.

-Testa The faith and trust we have in each other… The only villain is the production team.

[Lee Se-jin: Uh-huh! Spies walk fast!]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Haha I understand.]

Ryu Cheong-woo who was going with the members had an innocent smile on his face.

And it was during this run just before escape that the expert's analytical comments began.

[What type of testa was observed during the disaster escape process?

After a brief explanation of the 'role-playing taxonomy' that the research institute developed in-house an evaluation of each member follows.

First the twist of this episode is Ryu Cheong-woo.

[Counselor: As expected you show calm and challenging behavior without anxiety even when acting alone. I think this looks very natural.]

[Counselor: However Teacher Ryu Cheong-woo has very high ethics and moral standards and does not prefer trickery.]

Behind the close-up of Ryu Cheong-woo's running face his interviews and reminiscences are shown.

This is the scene where Park Moon-dae is chased. There was another small twist here.

[Ryu Cheong-woo: The reason I chased Moon Dae there was not specifically with the intention of stopping him.]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: I decided to join because I thought it would be dangerous to go alone. There was smoke coming out of the wall.]

Liu Chengwu's last act was simply a good deed.

Of course it was also due to seeing Park Moon-dae's abnormal reaction but the production team had already neatly covered that part.

This is because as soon as filming was over Park Moon-dae politely said 'I feel quite uncomfortable because my five senses cannot function properly in a fire situation.'

The production team was shocked apologized and even contacted me separately to say they would be more careful in the edited version.

However even apart from this fact this truth was enough to warm the heart.

[Ryu Cheng-wu / Humanitarian Explorer]

[Independent human-friendly type with the spirit to pioneer the future]

Liu Chengwu's type appeared like a verification mark next to his face.

It was the easy-to-view type classification that Park Moon-dae had hoped for.

Next the members also gave their own evaluations.

[Raebin Kim / Ethical Therapist]

[Cha Yu-jin / Destructive Explorer]

[Bae Se-jin / Ethical Fighter]

[Lee Se-jin / Rational Strategist]

[Ahyun Sun / Humanitarian Fighter]

No one's types overlapped.

I don't know if it was a coincidence or if the lab just interpreted the data in their own way for a more dramatic feel but it looked impressive.

'Well there are 16 types of 4X4.'

The graduate student nodded and found the story quite interesting.

I'm not sure if the theory is that solid but it was quite fun to clearly explain each member's actions. I think some of my colleagues in the lab are foaming at the mouth and getting angry.

And Park Moon-dae whom she was waiting for was the last one perhaps thanks to his performance.

[Counselor: Looking at this escape I see that Teacher Park Moon-dae has a tendency to be a perfectionist but at the same time he also has a great desire to take risks and challenge himself?]

The action of grabbing a gun the first one running out of the bathroom to check if a zombie jumps out and finally the image of Park Moon-dae running back with all his might passed by briefly.

[Counselor: I think it would be good to do some training to control yourself and not overexert yourself but you are a very clear-headed and confident person.]

Arriving at the back door Hyeong-hyung is pictured next to Park Moon-dae's smiling face as he takes out his ID card.

[Park Moon-dae / Destructive Strategist]

[A brain type that sees the forest more than the trees the embodiment of efficiency and full-throttle sprinting]

'It's cool!'

She was cute with pink hair and this coolness was her favorite!

'The fatigue is gone… '

She stared at the screen her eyes sparkling.

[Wow!]

The screen which stopped briefly after displaying the type flows again to finally show the back door opening and the testa pouring out.

In the evening when the sun goes down Testa whose face looks refreshing comes out and shouts 'success' and 'big hit'.

[Bae Se-jin: I don't think I'll forget it.]

[Cha Yu-jin: The best! Let's do it again!]

[Lee Se-jin: It was fun~]

'I had fun too!'

The graduate student smiled and looked at it happily. It was a great ending!

And the moment when I thought the video would end.

The screen has changed.

[Testa: Oooh~]

Instead of outdoors members sat at tables in a comfortable indoor setting and came out.

The members were applauding hard.

"…??"

[Lee Se-jin: Did you enjoy the video viewer!]

[Seon Ah-hyun: We just finished watching episode 1…!]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: And I am sitting here to hear the main point.]

Liu Chengwu grinned. Cha Yu-jin intervened.

[Cha Yu-jin: Roommate!]

"Oh that's right roommate!"

Before I knew it I had quietly forgotten about it. It seemed like there was additional filming to explain this! The graduate student focused on the screen again.

[Park Moon-dae: They say they will announce our room now.]

[PD: Yes everyone~]

The PD's voice came out in an instant causing laughter from staff and members everywhere.

[PD: Do you remember the type you received?]

[Testa: Yes!]

Testa held up the note in his hand as if he had just received it and showed his type and explanation to the camera.

[PD: Our Communication Relationship Research Center fits that type perfectly! We paired roommates with people who complemented each other!]

[The magic that makes us the advertisers who gave us PPL]

“Oh~”

The graduate student watched the video with excitement. This is why the types were divided!

‘So who are you?’

[Lee Se-jin: Oh I’m fine with whoever I’m writing with! I hope you let me know quickly!]

[PD: Now we reveal it!]

While Bae Se-jin wishing for solitary confinement and the carefree Lee Se-jin intersect the PD revealed the whiteboard.

[Bae Se-jin and Cha Yu-jin]

[Ryu Cheong-woo and Park Moon-dae]

[Sun Ah-hyeon and Kim Rae-bin]

[Lee Se-jin]

It was a neat reveal.

“…??”

And both outside and inside the screen were filled with questions.

[Kim Rae-bin: I have no complaints about the room assignment but weren't they assigned to people of similar types?]

[Bae Se-jin: That's right!]

None of the types matched!

However the PD spoke naturally.

[PD: It's not similar to A but a 'complementary' personality!]

[!!!!]

[PD: Think about it you have to have a different personality to complement it!]

[Ryu Cheong-woo: Oh my god.]

There was a brief uproar among the members who realized they had been caught again but they soon accepted the reality and exchanged greetings with their new roommates.

The way he tried to hold back his laughter was like entertainment.

Except one person.

[Lee Se-jin: PD? What about me??]

[PD: Mr. Lee Se-jin… I recommend solitary confinement to experience solo action at least once!]

[Lee Se-jin: Ugh!]

The intense pain of insider Lee Se-jin brought a lot of laughter.

And even though the graduate student laughed at that he couldn't help but focus his attention elsewhere.

‘Oh good. ‘It’s the same room as the leader!’

This is Park Moon-dae’s roommate.

[Ryu Cheong-woo and Park Moon-dae]

‘Are you okay?’

The graduate student concluded his thoughts comfortably saying that they would both get along well.

Of course not everyone was like that.

-Ah haha the atmosphere will be amazing.

-It looks like they will change it among themselves as soon as they enter the house.

There were a few comments being made behind the scenes about this new roommate assignment but they were just behind the scenes.

The fandom that united against the new season of Azusa has not yet been reduced to bean dust.

The overall response was very good like that of graduate students.

[Testa zombie escape with a twist (including spoilers)]

During Testa’s hiatus he maintained his form without any decline.

And like it or not contrary to what was predicted behind the scenes they have already changed rooms.

* * *

[Keun Se-jin: I’m bored at Mundaemun University and I’m so sad in solitary. Really ㅠ]

‘Funny guy.’

The guy who was secretly liked after being put in solitary confinement and said he was chosen as a good character has a long tongue.

[Then come out to the living room]

I quickly replied and tried to turn off the screen but he was there first.

Grumble.

[Keun Se-jin: ㄴㄴ Park Moon-dae should come to play haha. The correct answer is decided]

“…”

I’m busy bastard.

[Sense of movement]

I shrugged and turned off my smartphone screen.

It wasn’t a lie. Because I’m really thinking of leaving.

‘I need to build more body.’

The atmosphere of the entertainment show during this hiatus was also good so preparations had to be made quickly until the comeback.

‘There is nothing to worry about… ’

The type of research institute that gave us the PPL was embroiled in some sort of minor copyright controversy but it didn’t matter because it wasn’t related to us.

‘I heard it’s similar to the personality classification method in a board game.'

This is okay but what I'm more concerned about is the other part.

"Are you going to exercise?"

I mean I'm roommates with this guy.

"Um yeah."

I looked at Liu Chengwu and nodded.

I'm not as reluctant as before but if you ask me if I'm comfortable at all…

'It's a bit like that.'

In fact there was even an idea to completely change the roommate entertainment show to an entertainment show but it was quickly withdrawn.

'The risk is high.'

Wouldn't it be better to pay some attention to it than to get caught and have rumors of discord starting? And it's no longer uncomfortable so you'll get used to it over time.

I decided to answer my roommate more cooperatively.

I'd like to add a meaningless explanation that I don't usually make.

"But there are few places to go so I'm thinking about it for a while."

I thought there would be a lot of people to go to the trails and a lot of people to go to the exercise facilities.

'Should I just go to work?'

It was the moment when I was about to fall into trouble again.

“Oh then let’s go together. “I was planning to go to the gym too.”

“…?”

Liu Chengwu smiled and got up from the desk.

“There is a place I often go to.”

…Hmm I suddenly have an ominous feeling.

Chapter 283

The situation went as expected. However it was more comfortable than I thought.

Since a former national team member said it was a place he often goes to I thought it would be like rock climbing from hell.

“Are you okay here?”

“yes.”

I moved my feet and looked around.

This was a hiking trail on the outskirts of Gyeonggi Province that we arrived at in less than an hour by car.

It didn’t feel particularly well-maintained but the slope wasn’t steep and was worth walking on.

‘…are you watching?’

I remember what this guy said the last time I hiked a deserted island.

-You… have already lost stamina due to the aftereffects. In the past hiking like this wouldn’t have been so out of breath.

Although this is a guess that is flawed in many areas I decided to accept this situation without protesting.

‘It’s work-life balance rather than pride.’

However there is something puzzling.

“But there really aren’t many people.”

The point is that there are no people in sight right now except for a few older people.

Even on a weekday you can expect to see quite a few people hiking.

“Oh there was construction going on next door. Can you see it?”

Liu Qingyu pointed to the small river on the left with his hand.

Nets and construction materials are scattered sparsely along the road.

“I guess that’s why most people go in the opposite direction. “They say the roads are better there.”

“ah.”

“Well since it’s a local mountain there aren’t that many people coming. “There are no mineral springs or rocks.”

“You know very well.”

“This is where I lived when I was young.”

Liu Chengwu smiled awkwardly.

“The archery range I used to go to was nearby so I kept coming even after I moved.”

“…”

A guy who can’t shoot properly due to aftereffects didn’t bother coming near his favorite archery range… that’s okay.

‘That guy is not in a position to be pitied right now.’

I just nodded modestly.

“I think it was a place with good facilities.”

“It’s more of a memory than that.”

Liu Chengwu closed his mouth for a moment but spoke again a beat later.

“I think it would be okay to come with the kids next time. “The owner is kind.”

If you reject this outright you will be the type of person who has thrown your social skills into the fire pit.

“Of course.”

“good.”

Liu Chengwu smiled.

“Since the tour ended we didn’t have to go out and play separately so it was good. “I had a schedule when you guys left a few days ago.”

ah. That’s it.

I recalled that several members went out to coincide with Sun Ah-hyun’s birthday.

At that time Ryu Cheong-wu and a few other people couldn’t go because they had separate schedules.

“I didn’t do anything special. “There are a lot of people.”

“Haha you even left a proof photo for something like that?”

I wiggled my eyebrows remembering the Polaroid that Big Sejin left behind after escaping from the room.

-Testa Friendship Forever☆ 5/7

Happy birthday Ahyeon-ah!

It would be a lie if I said I didn't know that it would be posted on the internet right away like that but the fans liked it anyway so it's okay.

"I left that behind and went straight back to the dorm. "Because there are so many people."

"I see. This job is definitely rewarding but I think it's difficult. "It's going to be difficult to go out."

"Of course."

I took a quick run down the street and then shrugged.

"But even if I hadn't done this I think it would have been the same for my brother. "What about archery national competition?"

"what? haha!"

Liu Chengwu stopped laughing only after some time had passed.

"that's right. That kind of thing doesn't really suit me. "I guess there's nothing we can do about arts and physical education."

Liu Qingyu's tone did not sound lamentable or grumbling but rather refreshing. Well it's proof of success.

'This is a problem that only the winner can deal with.'

Ryu Cheong-woo and I continued to run on the outskirts hiking trail we found due to the side effects of the winner.

And only after a while did I realize something was strange.

"Whoa."

This is because the slope gets steeper as you go up. I took a few deep breaths and realized that my fairly large stamina bar was gone by more than half.

‘I would definitely be above the average adult male.’

Moreover looking around it seems like not many people go up here.

…Moreover we are the only ones running up the mountain.

And then I realized.

‘I was deceived.’

From a flat walk the angle was cleverly steepened making me keep climbing like a frog submerged in boiling water…

The flat hiking trail was not a consideration but a bait. I suppressed a moan.

After all Liu Chengwu is not an idiot and he saw me working out like that so of course he would know that my physical strength has increased.

‘You played well… ’

Even without reaching the summit it seemed like it would take quite some time.

However I felt like even if I complained I would only ruin my social status and not be able to descend the mountain so I decided to just keep my mouth shut and move on.

It’s not like I can’t do it.

‘Make sure you exercise once.’

I silently looked up and moved on.

How long has it been like that?

I felt a hand tapping my shoulder.

“Moondae over there.”

“Whoa what…”

There’s still a long way to arrive.

I raised my head and followed his hand with my gaze.

“…”

The city at midday was spread out in my field of vision.

Rolling mountains and fortresses rivers running down them and dense building complexes.

It was a colorful spring city.

Swish.

The wind blew. The mountain air blows through my nose.

It was nice to see.

“Are you okay?”

Liu Chengwu spoke leisurely.

“There is nothing more to go up. This is the best view so far… I quit archery and started climbing every day while preparing for this job and that’s when I realized.”

“…”

I stood on the railing while looking at the scenery.

‘I wasn’t planning on going to the top.’

This is true.

“how is it? It’s a little bit motivational… isn’t it good? “I did it more than just exercising.”

“yes. “It will work.”

I confirmed. Secured route expected hardship certain reward.

It’s not my type of hobby but hiking might not be a bad hobby.

“Well that’s a relief.”

I leaned on the railing with him and slowly looked down the mountain.

And only after enough time had passed did Liu Chengwu open his mouth.

“Shall we go down slowly?”

“Of course.”

I felt very refreshed.

While I was trying to stretch I finally said something that had been in my mind since I saw the hiking trail.

“brother.”

“huh?”

“It’s all good but I needed to do anaerobic muscle exercise.”

“ah.”

I just didn’t say anything because I felt like if I refused as soon as I saw the hiking trail I wouldn’t believe them and it would make me feel awkward.

Liu Chengwu answered with a embarrassed expression.

“Because it was uphill… I must have used my strength.”

“…”

You’re an expert at rationalizing it. i get it.

I had no particular complaints while descending. And I agreed with Ryu Cheng-wu’s words ‘Let’s come for a run sometimes.’

‘The intensity of exercise is appropriate and it would be nice to try it out since we are roommates.’

* * *

Two weeks after changing rooms. Not only us but also the new room owners all adapted to their situation in their own way.

“Would you like some?”

“Oh yeah.”

For example Bae Se-jin surprisingly became less likely to stay in the living room. Now I only come out during the day to avoid Cha Yu-jin.

“It’s a bit noisy at night but as long as you have earplugs it’s no problem!”

Bae Se-jin once said that he was angry. Surprisingly Cha Yu-jin respects her roommate’s individualistic tendencies well.

‘Maybe it’s because I’m American.’

Of course that also has its limits.

“Sometimes if I just play a game or watch a video together it’ll be quiet when I go to sleep…”

I calmly told them the reality.

“That won’t last long.”

“what?”

“If talking to you doesn’t work I’ll shake your shoulder right away.”

“…”

“Congratulations on becoming a night owl.”

Bae Se-jin looked at his room with a blank face.

And I the one in solitary confinement… am living a good life moving from room to room.

“Hey you and Chungwoo from Mundae have become best friends. Are you going to the gym tomorrow too?”

Is this the room today? I answered hesitantly to Keun Se-jin who was playing on his smartphone on Ryu Cheong-woo’s bed.

“Well… I’m a roommate so I’ll do my best. “If you want to go you can go too.”

“Hey I’m not that clueless! “Good exercise!”

“…”

Although Keun Se-jin didn’t add any more words he couldn’t help but wonder what it meant.

‘I’m asking you to take this opportunity to completely change the atmosphere.’

There are people who still think back on how shitty my attitude toward Ryu Chung-woo was during that damn summer package shoot.

I feel like I'm being nitpicking about this roommate assignment but there's no need to leave this kind of spark in a barely-knit fandom.

'It just has to look comfortable.'

They are the ones who motivate me even though I thought I was going to do well anyway.

I waved to Geun Se-jin and went in to wash.

And the next day on the hiking trail.

"Do you want to climb to the top today? "Just as a test."

Liu Chengwu made a new suggestion. He didn't say anything on the way up so he must have been thinking about that.

'Well it might be okay to climb up there at least once.'

The period when people could leisurely exercise outdoors was slowly coming to an end.

Now is the time to really focus on preparing for the comeback.

I calculated my remaining stamina and immediately nodded.

"Of course."

"good."

And we leave at 4pm. I started walking towards the summit at an odd hour.

The slope got steeper so I didn't have to run so it was worth it.

When we climbed for about forty more minutes.

The summit was visible.

“after.”

There was no one up there. Liu Chengwu and I picked up a little more speed and moved at the same tempo to the summit marker.

“It’s been a while.”

Liu Chengyu stood holding the wooden fence next to the sign and I stood next to him and looked down.

And on the first day of hiking I confirmed that what Ryu Cheong-wu said was correct.

“It definitely looks better there.”

The view from the top was not as nice as the view from halfway up. Of course the higher it is the more overwhelming it feels…

“okay.”

Liu Chengyu nodded as he looked at the scenery. Then he took out water from his backpack and drank it.

I likewise took mine out and drank and there was a moment of peaceful silence.

Well it’s definitely more comfortable than before.

“…”

“Mundae.”

“yes.”

“Is it okay if I ask you something?”

“Yeah whatever. “Let’s do it.”

I answered without much hesitation.

Liu Chengwu slowly opened his mouth with his eyes fixed on the scenery.

“Actually… I asked a few more questions about the person you mentioned after watching the family video during Chuseok last year.”

“…!”

“That ‘Ryu Geon-woo’.”

I almost got sick while drinking water.

I quickly put down the water bottle and came up with a hypothesis.

‘Surely you knew the location?’

“Is your whereabouts…?”

“Um no. Sorry that wasn’t it. “I just… just heard a little about his past.”

“…”

“Except for myself my entire family got into an accident on a trip to my parents’ house. I think it was a combination of a car accident and a fire.”

Liu Qingyu took a pause and continued speaking so calmly that it seemed artificial.

“And the former… It’s like the car accident that left me with the aftereffects.”

Fuck you.

I took another sip of water on a topic that wasn’t very pleasant.

‘If those in the family don’t know the whereabouts they’ll just say they don’t know and be done with it.’

Why on earth would I do something like this?

But Liu Chengwu’s words were not over.

“And you know what Mundae?”

what.

“…It wasn’t your parents’ car accident. “You were in a plane accident.”

“…”

what?

“Actually last year the article was about to be published but the company blocked it. “It might be a shock to you so we discussed it briefly with me and it was not long after you were discharged from the hospital.”

I raised my head.

“But you… have trauma from the traffic accident and fire situation. “Not an airplane.”

Before I knew it Liu Chengyu had taken his eyes off the scenery and was looking at me.

“That’s the story of Ryu Geon-woo you were looking for.”

“…”

“Mundae. “Who are you looking for?”

Chapter 284

Cold sweat ran down my face.

No it was sweat from hiking but it may have felt cold due to the conditions.

Because it was completely X.

‘A plane accident?’

This is my first time hearing this story.

‘Organizing… starting with organizing.’

There was no way for me to find out exactly why Park Moon-dae’s parents died.

…Park Moon-dae had already vacated his studio apartment and even organized his belongings.

I was only able to confirm my parents’ names and ages but just in case I searched several articles using my region of residence and first and last name but nothing came up.

‘Then it’s a common incident that won’t become a big topic… ’

Doesn’t it naturally remind you of a traffic accident? So I also let someone misunderstand it like that.

For example Liu Chengwu.

-The fact that I brought up the story of the aftereffects of a traffic accident… must have sounded like I was full.

I thought it was highly probable and even if it wasn't there wouldn't be anyone who could prove it.

However despite the odds a completely new accident emerged as the cause.

And I… I flew the fucking plane without any problems and even went skydiving.

"…"

Damn it.

I realized I still had water in my mouth and swallowed it.

The water bottle was almost empty. It seems like a sound is coming from the electronic watch on my wrist.

How long am I waiting to reply?

-Tick tock.

'There is no excuse… anything that can be reasonably used.'

In fact it is a dilemma.

Everything from the traffic accident and fire to the overreaction to Ryu Cheong-woo's accident fits perfectly with the story of 'Ryu Geon-woo'.

And it doesn't work for either party to say no to something that has already been confirmed as fact.

'I'm almost sure about this guy now.'

This is a story I came up with after ruminating several times after realizing that my words and actions including Park Moon-dae's past were completely inconsistent.

I slowly closed the canteen and quickly shook my head.

Ryu Geon-woo and Park Moon-dae.

-Tick tock.

"…"

okay. If you make a hypothesis as realistically as possible is there anything you can draw out?

'You just have to add one more mental illness to amnesia.'

This is a psychopathological explanation that Park Moon-dae mistook Ryu Geon-woo's situation for his own.

It is said that he was confused in the process of recovering his memories because he received great help from Ryu Geon-woo and had a lot of emotional interactions.

'But… the moment you make an excuse with this aren't you going to the hospital?'

It's like a cessation of activity. This is… it would be better to just talk about the status window.

'Why don't you explain that there is a status window that is invisible to others? 'What bullshit.'

It would be fortunate if this was just misunderstood as paranoia.

'Either way I only see the spirit and ending.'

All dismissed.

-Tick tock.

In the meantime time is passing.

Even if Liu Chengyu isn't looking he's still looking this way. There is no countdown to the feeling of gaze.

'You brought this bastard to the summit on purpose.'

I had run out of stamina there were no other guys and I had driven myself to the point where there was no other factor to alleviate the situation.

And there is a limit to wasting time right now but I can't think of any particularly amazing measures.

'Is there any way it could come to mind?'

Everything is blocked.

-Tick tock.

It won't work. Clear it first.

I tried to open my mouth to say something absurd that started with 'I didn't remember the plane accident only a vague image of an explosion and a moving accident left me with a misunderstanding… ' But the other guy struck first.

…is a party.

"If it's difficult to talk there's nothing we can do."

"…!"

"Tell me if you feel like it."

Liu Chengyu said this in a calm tone and put his canteen in his bag.

And then I lightly turned my back.

"Then shall we go down?"

That was the end of it. Liu Chengwu walked slowly.

I shut my mouth and followed him down the mountain.

But the tension still remained. Because I knew the answer was just delayed.

Moreover now I have to think of the reason why I couldn't answer right away.

'I'm going crazy.'

That's how my extremely uncomfortable dorm room life began.

* * *

And a few days later.

"What are you… doing?"

2 o'clock in the morning. This is what Bae Se-jin said after coming out to drink water and almost falling when she saw me sitting on the living room sofa.

"I can't sleep."

"Then… you can just go in and lie down."

"I don't really feel like it."

Bae Se-jin looked at me with his mouth wide open and I turned away from his gaze.

It must be incredibly funny because it's like I've just touched the baton with him.

However I wonder if there would be someone with enough nerve in this situation to go into a room and sleep comfortably at the same time.

After being pointed out in detail by my roommate the contradictions in my life I was given no time to respond.

And the ominous calmness of not even mentioning the topic for several days.

‘It’s not the eye of some kind of typhoon.’

It would be better for that crazy guy to yell at me every time he opens his mouth and say it’s a lie. What on earth are you thinking?

‘Damn it.’

I held back a sigh and leaned back on the sofa.

Still it would be too obvious to sleep in the living room so I planned to go in when my head cooled down and became more dull.

‘If you just put your head to it it works to pass the time.’

But Bae Se-jin seems to have thought a little differently.

The guy looked at me with a strange expression and then his face changed to one where he realized something.

And he asked with a slightly expectant look on his face.

“Park Moon-dae would you like to switch rooms with me?”

hey.

“No it’s not that I don’t want to use my room it’s just that you look bad!”

I can see inside.

I thought for a while and held back a sigh. And shook his head.

“I have no intention of changing it.”

“…okay?”

“yes. “If you see something it will be okay.”

It has to be okay.

If you make a comeback and film content after things have become awkward like this you will be shattered again. This is just how the summer package nightmare is building up.

‘So we need to see a solution.’

There is no way. An explanation that Liu Chengwu can understand.

I put my head down on the sofa. My appetite was bitter.

Bae Se-jin drank a glass of water according to the purpose of coming out and then quietly came to the side.

“Well Ryu Cheong-wu… he’s a good kid.”

“…yes. “I know.”

“Oh right. you also! “He’s a good kid!”

“…”

I’m going to wake someone up you bastard.

Bae Se-jin lowered the volume with his ears open and cleared his throat a few times before speaking in a quieter voice.

“Some people just don’t get along but I’m saying this because I don’t think it’s like that for you guys.”

“…”

“Just tell her honestly if there’s anything uncomfortable about her. “Please stay out of the living room.”

I paused a bit and then chuckled.

“It seems like advice that comes from experience.”

“okay.”

I thought he would be shocked but Bae Se-jin surprisingly nodded seriously.

“It’s because I’m more comfortable in the living room but you don’t seem to be that comfortable in the living room.”

“…”

“You want to get along well with Cheongwoo. “Then he’s… a bit of an easy-going kid so just listen when I talk to him.”

Sorry but it’s the opposite situation. He must be uncomfortable with me.

I shook my head. Even if I say something like this I’m just putting this guy in a situation that’s difficult for him to understand.

Let’s just say it well and send it back.

“I’ll give it a try. “Thank you for your help.”

“I’m glad that happened. “Sleep well.”

“yes. “Please sleep well too brother.”

Bae Se-jin walked into the room with his shoulders straight. I guess I thought I had solved one problem.

I guess he was like an older brother.

Watching that strangely enough my heart felt a little lighter. As I was laughing I suddenly remembered what Bae Se-jin said.

‘Ryu Qingwu just listens when you say it… ’

“…”

I lay down in the living room and recalled my thoughts.

This time I didn’t focus on finding ‘an explanation that wouldn’t be strange if I did it myself.’

Instead what we focused on was ‘what was Liu Chengwu trying to hear?’

Let’s organize the series of events he went through before asking this question in chronological order.

“…”

And a few hours later.

“after.”

A conclusion has been reached.

It’s a bit funny but Bae Se-jin’s role as the older brother really worked.

I made a suggestion to Ryu Cheong-woo in the car on the way back after finishing my recording schedule that day.

* * *

My suggestion was simple.

-How about exercising on Thursday morning?

-In the morning?

-Yes it was the only time we had time.

Now that time is spent preparing for a comeback body care mainly revolves around diet and fast intense calorie-burning routines.

As expected it means that there is no time to leisurely exercise but this proposal means that I will use the little meal and rest time I have a week to exercise.

Liu Chengyu looked a little puzzled but soon nodded.

-Yeah it's okay.

And now that he was out exercising at the appointed time he seemed a little surprised.

"Is it okay to come here?"

"sure."

Because it was the same hiking trail that I had been tired of for the past few weeks.

"Let's go."

There was no time to say more so I immediately started running lightly.

"hook."

Now that it is closer to early summer the mountains are getting hotter.

There seemed to be some people hiking in the morning but due to the weather many people left and it was still quiet.

So it was actually good.

'Because no one will overhear.'

I stopped at a mountainside where there were almost no people.

Of course the reason I stopped was not just because there were no people around.

“hmm?”

“Like you said I don’t think there’s any need to go all the way to the top. “It was best to see it from here.”

“Oh really?”

Liu Chengwu looked a little embarrassed but soon nodded. And then I turned my attention to the scenery.

“It’s gotten more lush.”

“Sure.”

I took a moment to look at the beautiful scenery and then took a breath.

And then I measured the time.

‘You would have guessed it if you came here.’

Because it gave me time to mentally prepare by taking the route that I was asked about.

No he probably guessed it from the moment I suddenly suggested exercise in the first place.

‘An answer to the contradictions you pointed out.’

As expected Liu Chengwu slowly opened his mouth.

“…Hmm do you have something you want to say?”

I shook my head.

It's not that I came up with an excuse that fit the situation well enough to turn the situation around and that's why I came up with what I wanted to say.

What came to mind after listening to Bae Se-jin last night was something else.

"I don't have anything I want to say… I have something to say."

It is justifiable.

Ryu Cheong-woo had a right to receive an answer to this question.

'This guy was convinced that I was being mean to him because it reminded me of my parents' accident so he moved on.'

Afterwards he said he suddenly remembered something and cooperated with my actions to find 'Ryu Geon-woo' without opposition. Simply because they may know you because they are your relatives.

However the reasons and explanations I gave while getting there did not all fit.

'It's almost a good thing I'm not upset.'

This guy didn't dig up anything. As I got caught up in it I only noticed a contradiction that seemed deceptive.

'Honestly even if you find a suitable excuse here the moment there is another contradiction it's over… '

At that point it wouldn't be surprising if the group and the group turned around and cut me off.

Even after this guy fully understood the situation he kept his mouth shut and waited for quite a while until the timing was right.

Probably until I recover my physical and mental strength.

‘I guess what I said at the summit was let’s just exercise and refresh ourselves and then talk quietly… ’

This was neither malicious nor meddling.

So the conclusion has been reached that at least the sincerity should be conveyed without the unreality of resets and status windows.

‘Whether that makes sense or not is another matter.’

Anyway there is no explanation that makes sense. So if a person has a fucking conscience they should do this.

I sighed and then spoke slowly.

“brother.”

“huh.”

“Now… I know that the words and the situation may not seem to match.”

I reflexively put my hands in my pockets and then took them out when I realized I wasn’t smoking anymore.

And spoke slowly.

“I have never lied.”

“…”

“What… Even if I try to explain it I don’t really understand it… Oh it’s not a mental problem. “It’s not like you mistook me for someone else or identified with me.”

This bastard is the kind of bastard who even with the best of intentions would send me to a mental hospital if I were to criticize him. I held back a sigh and rubbed the back of my neck.

“It’s just… I just acted the way I did.”

Liu Chengwu did not refute. I continued speaking.

“It is true that I am uncomfortable with traffic accidents and fires because of my parents’ accidents. Of course during the summer package my brother might think that I was being rude by giving reasons that weren’t even true…”

“for a moment.”

Liu Chengyu interrupted looking a little embarrassed.

And smiled bitterly.

“Mundae. “I think there’s a bit of a misunderstanding… I’m not trying to discredit you or question you.”

what?

“During the summer package? Anyone who sees you at that time will never be able to say that the pain was fake. “I don’t think you lied.”

I listened to him in a daze.

“And… you saved my life when you almost died. That’s a fact that never changes. yes?”

that…

“Who would get angry because they don’t agree with their lifesaver? “Don’t worry about that.”

Liu Chengwu added slowly.

“What I want to ask is this. “It’s a door.”

“…”

“Do you need help right now?”

Chapter 285

I heard a remark that was the most unexpected… or the exact opposite of what I expected.

‘Do you need help?’

So I’m not trying to question why none of the facts match but I’m asking because I’m worried that something is wrong with me…

‘Is it for creating an atmosphere?’

I wondered if this was bait thrown to get a more specific explanation. I looked up to read Ryu Cheong-wu’s expression.

And this idea was immediately withdrawn. Liu Chengyu’s face was clean.

Yeah he’s not like that.

What I’m saying is that I really want to help.

“…after.”

…I was dazed.

‘I didn’t know there would be talk of help in this situation.’

It seems that Ryu Cheng-wu still feels like he owes me a lot during the car accident.

‘I didn’t particularly consider that part.’

Come to think of it I even said ‘be thankful’ in my own words before.

I recalled what I said to Ryu Cheong-woo who seemed to be suffering from a sense of debt during the uninhabited island distress show.

-is it so. So let's say I saved my brother's life.

-…!

-You will continue to be grateful. I will call you without hesitation if I need it so please make sure to repay me.

Liu Chengwu really did as he said.

'…I was hiking at this time too.'

It was a bit funny to receive similar comments in the same situation.

"hmm."

I put my arm on the railing and smiled bitterly.

After putting it all together… I feel even more strange. A helping hand instead of doubt.

'That's strange.'

I was shaking. But it wasn't bad.

I answered slowly.

"First of all… thank you."

"…"

"Thank you for saying that. "It's a situation worth getting angry about."

"That's not it."

Liu Chengyu answered firmly and then leaned comfortably with his arms on the railing.

“You didn’t lie and I wasn’t harmed so why get angry?”

The fact that you believe I didn’t lie is surprising.

I was trying to get lost in some strange sentiment but I quickly got out of it.

Because there is still something left to answer.

“And my situation is actually difficult for me to understand or explain… but it’s not so difficult that I definitely need help.”

I thought about my situation.

I was successful with this job no longer had any status ailments and the people I live with are all nice guys.

I’m living okay.

‘No it’s just too much.’

Taking risks is the destiny of this profession. And compared to sudden death there is at least some context.

“All the difficulties have passed. Now I’m just having a hard time buying it. “I’m trying to figure out why the contradictions you mentioned came about.”

It’s just… I don’t know why I came into this body and am doing this so I had to know the truth.

‘If you don’t know the cause you never know when this situation will change drastically again.’

Liu Chengwu nodded.

“That’s where we need to know the whereabouts of ‘Ryu Geon-woo.’”

This kind of insight is good again.

“That’s right. So my brother is already helping me.”

Liu Chengwu laughed.

“okay. Don’t worry I’ll do everything I can in that regard. “Is there anything else?”

“It’s okay…”

Oh is there one?

“I really need to win the grand prize this time so please cooperate with me.”

If you win the grand prize you can receive the ‘Conversation with Park Moon-dae’ mission reward.

“what?”

Liu Qingwu’s expression now looked as if he had just been punched and he immediately smiled comfortably.

“That’s what our team should originally aim for.”

“Sure.”

The reason I didn’t ask the reason for this incoherent sound was probably because I mistakenly thought it was a joke or something meant to get the conversation back on track.

‘Even if you misunderstand it like that there’s really nothing to explain.’

But what can I say… there was a strange sense of liberation in just saying it out loud like this.

The strength in my shoulders disappeared.

“good. “I will work harder.”

“thank you.”

I laughed with him and then looked at the road. The mountainside without people was quiet.

“It’s a little hot but the weather is nice.”

“yes.”

The heat was more than comfortable but I didn’t bother to point it out.

Afterwards Ryu Cheong-wu did not ask any more details or reasons.

I only confirmed one thing while descending.

“It’s not a coincidence that Mr. Ryu Geon-woo’s circumstances match yours is it?”

“yes.”

“okay.”

That was it. With that this topic is over.

‘Isn’t it frustrating?’

If it were me I would have told him to tell me everything he knew because I would decide for myself whether I understood it or not but he showed surprising composure.

Instead Ryu Cheong-woo ended the conversation by saying ‘I said not right now but if you need help in the future feel free to tell me.’

Even that wasn't the end.

"Mundae can we speak comfortably?"

This is what Ryu Cheong-woo who was driving said while descending the mountain and returning to his accommodation.

"Now that I think about it I'm not even in the athletes' village yet so I guess they told me to be too strict about being polite."

"no. "You can do that."

You're talking about big trouble.

"If I didn't say anything at all it would have looked bad to people. "Controversy may arise for no reason."

If he had done that as soon as he debuted… well he would have been brutally beaten for ignoring the leader just because Park Gomer was number one.

However Liu Chengwu did not give up.

"Hmm I see. So should we do it like this? Use only honorifics and don't be too formal. "I think just adding 'yo' will do."

Why?

However there was a part of me that could guess why he said that.

I eventually smiled and answered.

"Is that so? brother."

"haha."

I didn't particularly play music in the car on the way back but the silence didn't bother me.

And I realized that my problem had been solved.

'…I don't think there will be a repeat of the summer package controversy.'

That's how I got used to my new roommate.

However once one problem is resolved another problem arises.

* * *

After the conversation with Ryu Cheong-woo Dawn was once again working on an insanely tight comeback preparation schedule.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: Don't you exercise?]

I received a call out of the blue.

'Why is this guy texting needlessly… '

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: (dog photo)]

I looked at a photo of a dog happily walking along a familiar apartment building.

The dog is also a familiar sight. To be exact I met him while jogging in the fog at dawn.

'Come to think of it I haven't gone for a walk there even once since then.'

You can't believe it when I tell you but I forgot because I was hiking.

I roughly typed my reply with my free unadorned hand.

[I switched to another exercise]

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: I see. I couldn't see it so I called. Today is the end for me too]

This means I can now resume my early morning walks without worrying about meeting this bastard. It's good news but I'm busy preparing for the comeback so I can't go out anyway…

'Wait a minute this guy can't come out there either?'

That means…

Of the several possibilities I threw the one that bothered me the most: a fastball.

[Are you ready for a comeback?]

The curve ball is back.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: We are always preparing for the album^^]

'Fuck you.'

These guys are making a comeback now. It's obvious to see the words being turned around like this.

'What happens to the term?'

I quickly shook my head.

This year we had a comeback in January and these guys made a comeback in February.

It's the end of May now… So judging by this guy's nuance it means that VTIC will make a comeback around June.

'Then it's been 4 months… It would be perfect to release a repackage in that weight class.'

Usually when a repackage is released sales tend to drop compared to the previous album.

Since this album is released with only one or two songs added to the previous full-length album there is little purchase merit and the duration is short so it is burdensome for consumers to spend a lot of money.

But 4 months is enough.

'With this amount of time there is almost no loss.'

It's almost at the normal activity level of a rookie and the quality of VTIC's albums is so well-known that everyone who wants to buy them will buy them.

And this is how it was set up…

'This is how I won't lose money in my annual grades.'

The Maginot Line which is disappointing is making a comeback in the beginning of the third quarter so it must have been planned since the beginning of this year.

'I'm saying I need to include half a year's worth of grades.'

At the same time I am confident in this repackage.

"…"

It must be tough. I smiled bitterly.

'He had the same plans as us.'

Because we're aiming for a comeback this summer for exactly the same reason.

"Mr. Moon I'm going to start shooting right now!"

"yes."

I put down my smartphone and followed the staff. But my head was spinning.

“Slightly diagonal in front… Yes it’s fine.”

And we came to a conclusion while taking concept photos for the album.

‘The moons should not overlap like this.’

For us the Maginot Line is also in July. If possible come back as scheduled in June so that we can get along well for at least a month.

However the emergency news that came through the company’s emergency contact network shortly afterwards was the exact opposite of my hopes.

“…It’s July.”

-Yes.

Through the phone that Ryu Cheong-woo had handed over the wheezing of a planning team member who was suppressing double insults could be heard. I held back a sigh.

Just two days after I texted Cheongryeo there was news of VTIC’s surprise comeback in July in an article.

[“KPOP King” VTIC comeback in July… album reservation countdown]

It was sealed without a card and then exploded.

“…”

okay. Let’s think about it kindly… But it was also released early roughly over a month and a half later.

It also means that if you don’t want to be eaten by those in your weight class you should avoid them.

‘It’s tingling.’

Our company’s sealing skills must be terrible so our comeback schedule must have already gone through T1.

‘Then do you really think we should postpone it until September or take off the rank insignia and hold on for now?’

Cheongryeo is doing such a dangerous thing?

“They know that we are making a comeback in July right?”

-… no. I think it’s probably June. That’s how our first article came out…

“…”

I see.

It seems that when T1 mentioned the testa activity plan while unpacking stock-related presentations and articles it was announced in June out of June or July which was the scheduled month at the time.

June was the second quarter so it felt different when I was putting together the PPT.’

It was a commonly used trick.

And if VTIC’s agency LeTi thought we were in June and caught it VTIC’s comeback would probably be in late July…

It’s worse. There may actually be overlap.

“I understand first.”

I hung up the phone with a cold head and returned it to Liu Chengwu. Anyway I couldn’t talk on the phone anymore because my schedule was changing again.

“Brother here.”

“okay.”

And what this means is that the members are listening to the call next to me.

“Does this overlap with our VTIC seniors again?”

“uh.”

“after.”

Big Sejin sighed and smiled bitterly. The other guys also look nervous.

And it was well deserved. Because it is a reenactment of the nightmare that was released simultaneously with debut.

I somehow managed to survive and come in first place but when I think about the hardships I had to go through people usually feel at a loss.

“Umm~ OK!”

Oh except for that guy.

And Bae Se-jin interjected with an expression of frustration.

“If it’s that burdensome isn’t it okay to postpone it for a bit? “August is also okay.”

“I think if I go that far I will lose money in my year-end grades.”

If you go past the beginning of the third quarter you will lose a lot of your music score at the end of the year.

Then you can only focus on the album target but that’s… you’re already behind VTIC.

A decision was needed.

Chapter 286

“Shall we start by organizing it?”

“Let’s do that.”

“yes!”

Keun Se-jin began writing down topics on a whiteboard in one corner of the conference room.

It was an emergency meeting that started hastily after midnight.

[Testa comeback date]

It is a comeback that overlaps exquisitely with VTIC.

‘Originally these matters are decided by the agency and it is normal for idols with this level of experience to have no authority… ’

After going through various circumstances I came to my senses and realized that we are all involved.

Well that’s what I intended and I feel more comfortable doing it this way. If someone else decides and our album fails we’ll go crazy.

“First of all… here is our comeback date.”

Big Sejin drew a long line with the date and marked it on the front of the July scale.

Monday July 5th. This is the day that was originally set as the comeback date.

“It was a choice that allowed me to include a week’s worth of music broadcasts one month's performance in the July monthly chart and all of July August and September's performance in the 3rd quarter awards! Hey it's nice to see who chose it right?"

It was a date that the company and members unanimously agreed upon. I nodded.

"And I think VTIC thought the same thing."

"…!"

Of course not. If it had been July I would have made the most efficient choice.

Sun Ah-hyeon cautiously opened her mouth.

"So… did you pick the same date…?"

"It will probably be a little different because the standard will be the billboard."

The days of the week that are fully reflected on the billboard… Keun Sejin is already writing it down on the whiteboard.

[VTIC senior's comeback date]

[Billboard Friday!]

"friday! "If this is the case it will be Friday July 2nd."

"hmm."

It's only 3 days since our comeback.

July 2nd and July 5th.

The two dots that Keun Se-jin had drawn on the date line looked extremely close. Here and there other guys were staring at the whiteboard with serious faces.

Except one guy of course.

“Is there a problem? “Don’t you want to meet our VTIC senior?”

This is Cha Yu-jin.

Of course the very next moment someone came out to mark Cha Yu-jin one-on-one.

“Cha Yujin it’s not such a personal problem! “You are talking about both teams losing money in many evaluation items calculated by relative share!”

Kim Rae-bin proudly boasts of the calculation method she discovered only while preparing for this comeback.

‘I’m putting to good use what I’ve known for less than a month.’

To make that easier to understand it means that no matter how much you both sell it is the same period of time so if you look at it as a percentage you will be sharing one piece of the pie.

‘Impact and short-term performance also suffer.’

But Cha Yu-jin was indifferent.

“no! We won first place last time! I don’t have any problem. “We just have to do our own stage!”

“Last time?”

“Our debut album!”

Ah the debut album that dragged on for several weeks and took first place on the music charts.

‘Actually isn’t that no different from VTIC stealing an empty house while on tour?’

In fact the timing worked out amazingly well. It usually didn't work out that way.

There are rebuttals here and there as if they were thinking the same thing.

"That was lucky."

"Yes that's right. "It's honestly a bit different because it didn't win first place as soon as it came out~"

There Ryu Cheong-woo gently reprimands Cha Yu-jin.

"Ravin probably means that there is no need to take a path that is too difficult. "Both you and we are uncomfortable."

I don't think there's any need for me to open my mouth at this rate.

"Boo…"

Cha Yu-jin reluctantly accepted the majority decision.

'So except for Cha Yu-jin… you want to change everyone?'

I looked around and gathered my thoughts.

possible way.

"First of all it is difficult to hasten a comeback. "We also have a music video schedule."

"That's right we also pull out our teasers separately. "No matter how much I stretch I think a week is the limit."

And even if we pulled it out if we got one week of music broadcasting VTIC would push in and that would be the end.

"okay. So the main thing to consider is to put it off…"

Liu Chengwu added his words carefully.

“The company said August or September.”

“Hmm.”

Are we going to lose more than a month until the end of the year?

‘It’s already difficult to beat VTIC in terms of performance so I think it’s dangerous.’

Still it is a stable choice in terms of avoiding bigger risks. At least you can win first place on a music show for about 2-3 weeks.

But I was in trouble.

‘You must avoid choices that will damage the route to the destination.’

Here I want to choose a date that will be more beneficial to the grand prize than winning first place on a music show.

But this… you can only speak out if there is a clear alternative.

‘Normally I just pick August and end it here.’

I tried to get the word out before the trend solidified in that direction.

It was then.

“But I don’t want to put it off that much.”

“…!”

Liu Chengwu opened his mouth first.

“Really?”

“Why why?”

“It would be nice to easily win first place on a music show right now but in the long run I think it would be better to go as we planned.”

The guy smiled coolly.

“I should try to win the grand prize this year.”

no way.

‘That… ’

“Oh~ bro!”

“That’s a great ambition.”

“I like that too!”

It was well-received because it was said by a guy who doesn’t often make such remarks.

And I was convinced after making eye contact with him.

‘You’re giving me the right push.’

He took my words seriously that he had to win the grand prize.

‘good.’

Then it was definitely easy for me to talk about it.

“Then if we think about preserving our existing schedule as much as possible… let’s analyze the expected grades.”

I started organizing things with a pen on paper instead of the whiteboard that Keun Se-jin had taken over.

“First of all VTIC’s album has a shorter period of time than us and since it is a repackage it will not rise dramatically.”

You would have known that annual leave was also called annual leave without having to add it.

“Then let’s assume 1.93 million copies based on the previous work.”

That’s a scary number.

“yes. And we…”

If we manage the initial testa well we can expect up to 1.3 million.

In fact this is also an insane sales volume.

‘Baekman is not even your dog’s name.’

Still there is an unavoidable gap.

“…If we cut it to 1.3 million it will be difficult for the album to keep up.”

“hmm…”

But it doesn’t end here.

“But our music comes out better.”

“Oh right.”

Testa had an advantage over other male idols. Popularity.

This is thanks to the fact that while adhering to a conceptual concept they release an easy-listening song at least once every two times and have caught several popular solo entertainment shows.

‘Of course I can’t deny that I owe a lot to starting with ‘Azusa’.’

In any case the long-term performance of the sound source is also something to look forward to.

“So if another major singer doesn’t join us when we and the VTIC seniors come out together we will be left out in the first week and from the second week onwards…”

Oh wait.

If you go like this…

“…!”

“Why Mundae?”

I looked through what I had written down. And then I realized.

‘I see.’

When I debuted I saw a point that I couldn’t see because I was buried in the fact that we had to deal with a lot of simultaneous releases.

Now we… weren’t debuting.

I answered almost unconsciously.

“Let’s go in with VTIC on our tail.”

“Uh huh?”

“You just have to postpone it for one week. then…”

Bae Se-jin intervened.

“Wait a minute then it’s the same as when we debuted.”

That’s the point.

“no. “The incident is the same but the situation has changed.”

I turned the paper towards Bae Se-jin.

“After VTIC’s initial release the second week’s supply is now our first-time winner.”

“…!”

“As for the music charts… once they enter and stabilize the graph will fall similarly. Maybe we should go a little higher.”

I wrote down the comparison on paper.

[record]

VTIC (Week 2) < Testa (Week 1)

[sound source]

VTIC (Week 2) ? Testa (Week 1) (Expected to do well based on existing graph)

Just looking at it it looks like it will win on music shows.

‘This cannot be overturned even by broadcast scores.’

We’ll be making a comeback on Monday and starting radio promotions from then!

The amount of mentions on social media and the number of views of the music video do not decrease as it is the first week.

Now we too are in the first division.

“The composition is exactly the same as when we debuted but this time we will just eat it for the first week.”

This is a huge image benefit.

“And it doesn’t matter if there are ups and downs from week three onwards. No as long as you don’t get pushed out at all it’s an unconditional benefit.”

Big Sejin nodded.

“Hmm you’re saying that we’ve grown so much that now we can’t fall behind even if we’re up against VTIC seniors?”

“yes.”

Following the simultaneous release with Younglin in January we are starting to solidify our weight class.

This time we can compete by releasing it at the same time as a target level product in the same industry.

‘If you add the story comparison to the time of debut it is narratively good and will definitely become a hot topic.’

SNS and articles will be pouring in saying that this is a sign of a generational change.

That’s what we’re aiming for.

‘It’s almost impossible to beat VTIC on this year’s album anyway. There is Youngrin in the sound source.’

In that case there is one item worth challenging for those of us who have an advantage in balance in the first place.

[Singer of the Year Award]

Since she is a singer who was a ‘trend’ this year the award ceremony goes to the picture where she receives ‘public opinion awards’.

‘All of our music albums have the highest scores so there won’t be anything else to say.’

It was a gamble but it was worth a try.

“But you know that VTIC fans will really hate it if you do this right?”

“Is that so?”

“I guess so right? “I feel like I’m being used.”

That was something I had to endure.

The topicality of this two-strong structure inevitably brings backlash and fatigue.

“Ugh I think Loser fans will have a hard time too…”

“hmm.”

Actually it won’t matter if my grades come out with VTIC as I expected. Because the taste of mulberry will be stronger than the fatigue.

‘Isn’t it good for fandom unity?’

It was almost time for the new season of Azusa to end. I think it would be a good idea to designate VTIC as an external enemy just in time for internal division to occur again.

And when my thoughts reached this point unexpected support fire came.

“If we do well it’s OK! No need to worry. Bro we’re doing well! “I love the fans!”

This is Cha Yu-jin.

It seems like this guy is just randomly shouting OK to being able to work quickly without delaying the schedule…

“What about us? “Hyung are we good at this?”

“Ugh. “Wow we’re good at it…!”

“That’s what I say!”

There was no one like him when it came to pushing. I opened my mouth while watching Cha Yu-jin suddenly condemn Sun Ah-hyun as a pro-choice fan.

'No matter what it doesn't work like that.'

We all had to think about it and then agree. We can't give up the possibility of division after a comeback for no reason.

"I'm just saying what I think but I think some people will disagree. "How about we each think about it a bit and then raise our hands."

"It's okay."

I proposed a majority vote and the members readily agreed.

And after a while.

"…"

"Oh unanimous~"

Surprisingly an agreement was reached without a single dissenting vote.

'This works?'

I thought I would need some persuasion.

And those who were thought to have opposing opinions opened their mouths one by one and expressed their reasons.

"I don't think there's any need to be scared… I think it's right for the fans if we do well…!"

"Conceptually I came to the conclusion that I would not be able to fully showcase the charm of this song if it came out at the end of the summer. Dae-hyung Moon this is an excellent judgment."

The last one is Bae Se-jin.

"…Now that I think about it delaying our schedule just because another group shows up seems like losing without even fighting."

"…"

Is that so?

Bae Se-jin slightly avoided his eyes. Liu Chengwu finished speaking with a smile.

"I'm saying that because I've never suffered any loss by listening to you."

"…"

This is it. I nodded while rubbing the back of my neck.

"Then let's just keep going like this."

"good!"

So we tentatively agreed on a comeback date.

However there was a question in my head. Cheongryeo's dyed hair and strict confidentiality.

'What on earth does VTIC bring?'

And even if I didn't want to know this I would soon find out.

This is because VTIC released the first teaser just two weeks later.

* * *

[A cataclysm in the music industry in July… A huge male idol group aims for the throne.]

In mid-June social media was turned upside down when even Testa revealed news of a comeback in July.

The office worker who runs Park Moon-dae and Lee Se-jin's twin home was conducting research and checking the activities of the biggest competitor.

-It creeps into the same month lol.

-I think I turned around after seeing my kids renew their contracts because it was 5 years old.

'It's obvious.'

An office worker who checked VTIC's anonymous fan site clicked his tongue saying that it was going to be a tiring month.

'Why on earth am I so upset that I can't come out in July?'

This is because everyone is preparing some great summer song.

'I don't know why we're so obsessed with seasonal songs when we're a fandom anyway."

The only good thing was the extra profit he could make by selling VTIC data with overlapping schedules so the office worker decided to use a calculator.

'I feel like I've lost touch with this company and that company. No T1 originally had no sense.'

And that day a teaser for VTIC appeared.

[VTIC – 'HELP' Official M/V Teaser]

"…!!"

An office worker's head becomes full of exclamation marks.

‘This… ’

It was definitely a summer special.

However the keywords targeted were different.

Chapter 287

V.Tik's teaser started with an ominous siren sound and an old-fashioned four-legged bathtub.

Weeeeeee~

'hmm?'

Office workers watching the teaser were briefly puzzled saying it was an unsuitable combination.

The sound of the siren slowly subsides and its place is filled with the sound of water drops falling into the bathtub.

Tok-.

Tok-.

A screen in a white marble tile with only a black bathtub.

The moment when the siren disappears and only the sound of water drops remains.

Sweet.

The image passes by.

A red candle a sign of silence by placing the index finger near the mouth an old book a virus structure a drop of blood an ominous sign.

Tok-.

And the last one… is the man's feet entering the bathtub.

Incredible sense of speed and symbolism.

After those flashback-like image cuts I thought the brief silence and black screen would help me catch my breath.

The elegant and soft sound of string instruments fills the screen.

[Woo~ Woowoo Woowoo]

A cappella like humming.

At the same time the screen lit up.

It was a cut of the bathtub I just saw…

"…!"

Before I knew it the bathtub was half broken and rising into the air. The solid figure that grabbed the body as if squeezing it was raising the bathtub.

It was an intensely carved dark-green cephalopod with eight tentacles.

The camera focuses on the dangerous inside of the bathtub.

There was a figure lying there up to his neck submerged in water.

It was a blue girl with silver hair. Perhaps because of the screen light the reflected light appeared green.

'dyeing??'

Before the viewer can think any further. Cheongnyeo opened her eyes.

[What I don't understand is

You can forget it

[This moment requires understanding]

A minor melody gently surrounds the screen and light flows down from the broken ceiling onto the bathtub.

Light pours down on Cheongryeo's languid face.

'Look at your face.'

It was around this time that office workers felt reflexive admiration at the slightly touching cut.

Cuts of the other three members slowly flowed and appeared on the screen.

[Ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh]

Chae-yul holding his index finger to his mouth in front of a huge stained glass Shin-oh holding a candle in a dark hallway and Ju-dan wearing a black robe over his head in the forest.

And then the screen of Cheongryeo submerged in water in the bathtub came back.

The final verse ends with a graceful cut and a whispering bass note with the singer lying down with his head submerged in water.

[Blow out the candle right]

Pot.

An empty bathtub falls alone from thin air.

"…!"

There is no trace of the cephalopod's legs that were used to support it. Just before it hit the floor and shattered into pieces.

At that moment the screen stops.

And ominous black letters are engraved on it.

[He got a Permission to Explore my Land]

The sentence becomes a title by rearranging only the uppercase initials.

[HELP]

And the moment the last letter is turned over.

[HELL]

The sound of a bathtub being smashed echoed across the black screen.

“…”

That’s how the video ended.

“ah.”

The office worker was about to respond vocally for a moment but consciously stopped.

But the brain already knew. It was impossible not to know when I saw the updated real-time reactions.

-OMG is it real?

-You crazy guys.

-no what

-I’m doing all of V-Tik this year too.

VTIC came up with a crazy title with a concept that would make their fans crazy.

It even has a cool horror feel that's perfect for summer.

"…I'll make good money."

The office worker was hit hard while making an estimate.

And I wanted to ask the idol I caught.

I thought it would be nice if a slump album that would slow down the upward trend would not come out now.

'Why on earth did you bring a season song to this situation?'

* * *

"…"

I browsed social media.

-I almost had trouble breathing

-I love it so much I'm going crazy. Please let's keep it like this the song concept.

– V-Tik must keep the firm belief that the teaser is not a fraud.

-Aren't you prone to this mannerism of neglecting annual leave management? There's no way around it haha V-Tik is a professional idol~

These are reactions to the VTIC teaser.

It's not like they're just plastering it all over the air for the sake of public opinion but you can see that the fans are truly thrilled and running around with excitement.

"hmm."

The song definitely caught on well.

Just by looking at it you can see that the horror concept has been refined to the limit so that it is not crude and thick layers have been built up.

‘I think they even made it look like a finale to people who listened to the previous album.’

The advantages of repackaging were also utilized to the maximum.

Thanks to this song the concept of the previous album was completely turned over giving room for a new interpretation.

I heard it’s some kind of 20th century cosmic horror concept but it seems to have worked well in that it’s not a one-dimensional sweet special.

-The timing is perfect for my previous album Broadway. Cthuluk hahaha.

-Cosmic horror concept Idol with 10 years of experience? Isn’t this something that only exists in 2D?

-I can already hear the overseas fans going crazy. They like this kind of thing more than us haha.

-It’s like an otaku and the original intention shines through.

The moment Teaser 2 which focuses on choreography was announced public opinion took off once more.

‘Sophisticated.’

The demands that the public would expect from a popular idol are met in almost every respect.

Camera work that goes into the right place at the right time strong formation using dancers group dance costumes that are not overly experimental.

The popularity seems to neutralize the first teaser which is conceptual to the extreme.

‘I thought the vocals were weak.’

The sound range was also well adjusted to make it easy to listen to. It means I didn’t just eat it.

To sum up… this is an activity that will have fans clapping and cheering.

‘There is no such thing as a fluke.’

I chuckled. Anyway I guessed this from the moment I saw the dyed blue ryeo.

Still I thought I might lose my senses as I was just leaving but as I became less cautious the song became more interesting.

‘hmm.’

“Mundae let’s stop watching~ We’re too busy looking at ours~”

“okay.”

When I heard the sound stopping me I obediently turned the smartphone screen.

“exorcism!”

If you keep watching people who have the same behavior you can’t change it and it will only make your mind more complicated.

But actually I’m not that nervous.

‘They don’t overlap.’

This is because as a latecomer the areas I was most wary of have disappeared.

The concept genre these guys were aiming for has a completely different feel from ours.

However it seems that there was someone who thought deeply about this detail by detail.

This is because Bae Se-jin said this after the schedule that day was over.

“Hey is this okay?”

“yes?”

“I’m talking about our teaser. “I feel a little…”

“iced coffee.”

If you just look at the teaser… you’ll know what I’m trying to say. I nodded.

“I think it’ll be okay.”

“…are you sure?”

“yes. Rather it will be beneficial. “No matter what the reaction is it will ultimately become a hot topic.”

If public opinion is going to be overturned anyway it is just a build-up to increase the stakes.

And a few days later VTIC’s music video was released two days before our first teaser.

* * *

VTIC’s music video was a masterpiece that maximized the feeling of the teaser and mixed it with a slightly more sad and sexy feel.

The ominous occult element pays homage to the colorful and laid-back Broadway scenes of the previous album creating a creepy cut to heighten the tension.

Above all it was cool without being childish or breaking the mood.

-This should be passed down as cultural heritage.

-I can only express it this way and it is deplorable. VTIC is God.

-We're all getting old so it's too much.

Are you saying you are old to the kids who haven't even been to the military yet… are you their fan? haha

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ I can see the subject!

-It's really amazing to be held in check during this year. How big are you planning to grow? Haha.

A flood of reaction videos and positive reviews from fans.

The reactions that were initially thought to be 'the song is too flashy and difficult' were reversed as time went by. This is because the sound source had good staying power.

-Muggles also caught on. What should I do now that the chanting is so popular?

-Namdol being on the charts with a song like this is something only V-Tik can do.

Beep! This is a comment that will be deleted once the test comes out.

Yes? Is this the group that pushes easy listening into each album because they want to somehow seem popular?

Kkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkk

Good grades had the power to turn negative public opinion into consideration.

Their fans became more repulsed by the news of Testa's comeback due to the VTIC-like title which did not betray expectations but exceedingly satisfied them.

Even if they hadn't announced their activities so closely they would have enjoyed VTIC's activities without worry.

-The rude + stupid combo is really crazy.

-Don't worry it'll be number 1 for a week and then disappear.

-I think it's disgusting because the strategy is visible.

But the general public had fun.

A great clash between top weight class male idols!

Isn't it so fun to compare and evaluate no matter who wins?

Some quick-moving agencies even hastened the comeback of idols with little recognition. This was probably the time when the music broadcast viewership ratings were the highest this year.

-Testa teaser will be released soon

-Ah fun haha

-You don't even know it's coming out because it's buried in V-Tik? Hahaha

Seeing how this is going on every day I don't think that will happen.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋ ㅅㅂ

And when Testa's teaser finally came out even people who would normally have skipped the teaser clicked on it.

Because I want to compare it to VTIC!

However at this time people had already given the decision to VTIC so they clicked on the video with a more desperate heart.

Sweet!

[TeSTAR 'Promise' Official Concept Teaser]

And indeed ambiguous responses began to flow.

-???

-hmm

The video was a short exploration from a first-person perspective swimming through the deep sea and rising to the surface.

A slow bass and string accompaniment without the main melody sounded.

The video was dark and had a calm deep background sound… It even looked strangely similar to VTIC's teaser.

-It's like an experiential VR game.

-Uhm

-It's fascinating.

-Am I the only one who thinks of V-TIK? LOL

And after some time social media and communities were covered with harsh criticism.

It seemed like a similar branch to VTIC but it wasn't as impressive.

It made me want to pour out harsher evaluations and ridicule.

-That's the normal stuff I always listen to. It's like an otaku.

-Yes I can feel the backward compatibility of VTIK just by looking at the teaser.

-These guys are now stereotypes. Just doing what they do and going on tour is an unstoppable trend. Get ready.

-I think the song is good~ But the concept feels the same.

-Well this is why it doesn't really matter that there is a producing member in the group but at this point I'm starting to lose my sense of it. It's a shame.

The reviews were so cruel that fans froze. There must have been some determined VTIC fans among them but the general public opinion was clear anyway.

-It's a check so it's better not to worry too much and just go.

-If you try to do this you may experience things turning upside down once or twice but we will get by just doing what we have to do.

-You don't have to worry about buying it really. Let's prepare for streaming during that time.

Although there were anonymous accounts running around excitedly saying things like 'Testa has already failed' the majority of fans remained silent and waited for the next piece of cake.

This was because of the trust that had been built up over the years.

If nothing else the quality of Testa's albums has never been poor!

And a week later.

Testa's real music video has been released.

-Music video

-Horror again? Haha

However people's expectations were spectacularly wrong.

The thumbnail for the Testa music video was a beautiful white sandy beach with blue waves. It had the feel of a typical bright summer season song.

-???

-Is it so bright?? lol

It was a teaser scam!

No at this moment everyone thought it was a teaser scam.

People were a bit confused and clicked on the video.

Chapter 288

Testa's music video started with a blue sea like the thumbnail.

However the timing was different.

Not outside the sea but inside the sea.

The blue sea close to the surface seems to be a continuation of the teaser that came up from the deep sea.

'Oh that's why the teaser…?'

It took a while for people to realize.

Eventually the sight protruding from the sparkling water surface appears.

[Ahyeon!]

I heard my name being called. When the screen turned I saw a person running from the sandy beach with waves over there.

This is Lee Se-jin smiling brightly and wearing short-sleeved shorts.

[ruler!]

A wet Inyoung soon submerged up to her waist in the sea held out her hand.

[…]

A white hand reached out from behind the screen and grabbed it.

[Take your STAR

A day when the stars are pouring down

Kicking the waves and running

[Run and Fly to the sky]

After the clear high-pitched lyrics rang out alone.

The accompaniment comes in as if dancing.

The combination of hi-hats which sound like applause and the cheerful drum accordion electronic sounds created a cool sound.

Then the cut changes to show Testa going about his daily life during the summer.

Cha Yu-jin's rhythmic vocals came through.

[Yes today would be good

Even if the sunlight makes my face blush

Because the wind cools me down

I want to go meet you today]

Park Moon-dae sitting in the office Rae-bin Kim doing an assignment with a laptop Yu-jin Cha serving Se-jin Lee a staff member at the amusement park…

The initial story was that the members passing by one cut at a time gathered together and went to the sea.

It was a classic summer song concept.

'It's typical but there's a reason it works.'

Office worker Twin Homma who had been anxiously waiting for the video was a little discouraged by the cliché but was also relieved.

Because there seemed to be no direct comparison with VTIC.

[My heart rushes in like the sea

Memories pile up like sand

I'm fine with that

[Dip it in the Ocean]

In the video Testa who went on a trip one after another finally kidnapped Park Moon-dae from the office and burned him.

Park Mun-dae who seemed to be in a daze smiled faintly and the yellow bus ran toward the sea.

[Take your STAR

A day when the stars are pouring down

sailing island in the sky

We fly so far]

And the guys who arrived at the beach jump out of the car and meet Sun Ah-hyun and the chorus comes in again.

Point choreography at the beach barefoot wearing jeans and a white t-shirt.

It is a choreography that uses cool agile and good-looking rocking.

It's easy to listen to and fun to watch.

'It's a real summer song.'

Everyone who was watching nodded their heads.

The members on screen had the familiar hair color they had when they debuted.

Those choices which evoke a strange sense of nostalgia bring out the exciting yet faint feeling of summer.

Moreover because the clothes were light and the beach was set it seemed like it would sufficiently satisfy the demand for sexiness…

‘Is it healthy refreshing and sexy?’

The office worker nodded somewhat satisfied this time saying it was like an advertisement for an ionic beverage.

And before you know it evening has arrived on the screen.

Cuts of the members’ choreography intersect with cuts of them sitting on the beach and making a campfire.

[Life is short and songs are long mirrors that reflect each other

Inside I promise again

Today is today.]

The moment the rap part which is easy to listen to ends in sync the interlude disappears.

And the sound of the recorded screen not the song rings through the speakers.

[…]

The sound of sparks popping. The sound of the sea. The sound of fabric rubbing against each other.

Testa who was sitting around the campfire smiled and exchanged glances with each other then glanced around to confirm that no one was there.

and.

[Hey~!]

[Whisk!]

jump into the sea

“…??”

A bit of a sudden and aggressive acquisition.

with a plop.

The sound of laughter fills the screen along with the sound of water splashing.

‘what.’

It was around the time when office workers were starting to cool down wondering if it was an artificially touching scene.

The moment Sun Ah-hyun who was swimming with a smile lies down as if doing backstroke something light purple scatters water droplets from underneath the water.

Divided in two…

“…!!”

-???

-tail?

-what

Real-time comments flooded in and the office worker looked at the screen again.

A curve of another color briefly appears above the water and disappears…

mermaid?

“ah.”

The scales sparkle in the darkening sea and reflect the light of the sunset.

The members went deeper and deeper into the sea. Their arms splash water on each other and their tails splash on the water.

[haha!]

The film color and camera work were more like an independent film than a Hollywood children’s film so the scene felt like a kind of human documentary.

And the moment they suddenly dive into the sea.

[Wooow~]

Briefly the screen becomes fantastical.

The moment the glowing tail entered the water the colorful hair that changed flashed on the screen and intersected with a series of cuts. Schools of small fish and seaweed pass by in the clear sea.

It is the ecstasy of the sea.

slam!

And out of the water again.

Returning to reality against the background of the dark beach sea the wet members smile and point to the sky.

Peeing!

Fireworks exploded.

Yellow fireworks bursting into the dark purple sky after the sunset.

And the cheering members in the sea.

It was at that exact moment that the song returned.

[Mood twinkling like stars

Come with me I promise

Make you fly

To the last island beyond the horizon

Today will shine]

Wearing more stage costume decoration than before

The members filled the last chorus with a spectacular group dance at the beach.

The robe's fabric and bracelet decorations were reflected in the string of mini light bulbs scattered along the beach.

It was a brilliant ending.

[…]

The music video ended with Sun Ah-hyun leaving the beach with a smiling face after the summer putting a group photo of them in a suitcase.

However the office worker remained seated.

“…”

Office workers first tried to anticipate various situations – VTIC comparison of performance trends fans’ reactions on stage etc. – but instinct won out.

She played the video again feeling a little dazed.

‘Well… it seems like there was a lot of foreshadowing.’

It was a reflex action.

Meanwhile her SNS timeline was being updated at a scary rate.

* * *

Testa’s music video bounced back as the teaser response was a failure.

[Refreshing male idol lineage appears again. Yes I’m talking about Testa]

[Mermaid Concept Tester Crazy]

[Idol whose music video is gaining crazy views in real time]

[Test of light V-Tik composition of darkness established]

It was a completely different concept than expected but the people who watched the music video cheered at the pleasant exception they encountered by twisting it one more time.

I thought ‘At this level the quality is not inferior to VTIC’ and the concept of contrasting the two rather than directly comparing them was interesting.

It was an effect of positioning.

-Ah K-pop is fun this summer haha.

-The best time for japdeok

-Wow how did you both choose the songs so well? K-pop is awesome.

-Isn't this something you can reminisce about for ten years from now? lol

And fans were busy digesting the music video right away.

-Abs… I can't believe this is reality.

-No it's really the best summer. It's really the best summer of my life.

-Jumping into the sea wow silhouette

-Shoulders wow (GIF file)

-I guess they all worked out so they are very confident haha.

-Yes thank you very much. dissatisfaction? die

The visual beauty and revealing visual elements were consumed like crazy but the story also played a part.

This is because upon closer inspection there were many very meaningful aspects as if only one key shot of a very large setting was shown.

-Ahhhh so that's what the teaser was like it was from a mermaid's point of viewㅠㅠㅠ

Huh

That's right I think it's true that mermaids came up from the deep sea. I guess it's only Ahyun's first time living on land.

I went crazy so Big Se came to meet me hahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahahah you perverts!

In addition Testa's concept photos released the day after the music video was released hinted at the story behind the music video making fans more excited.

-It looks like the kids in this contest have jobs on the mainland but only Ahyeon is a traveler. As expected Tornado Potato's hypothesis seems to be correct (popcorn)

-A mermaid who works as a librarian on land? Isn't it perfect with Bae Se-jin? Stop composing hamchi and just look at the glasses (capture)

-Cheongwoo did you choose the police yourself? It was a truly excellent choice thank you…

-Crazy crazy this is a mermaid conformation. If you look at it like this with jewelry on your hand it looks like webbed feet. (Concept photo with a red line added)

The majority of fans were very satisfied as there were no regrets. I also understood that Testa could not possibly postpone its schedule.

-This has to be done in the middle of summer.

Because it's a summer mermaid concept!

Of course if you are not a fan there were many people who showed resistance to the mermaid concept of the music video itself which is the starting point for these elements.

This is because I had the sensibility to become childish and manic if I made even one mistake.

And no matter how perfectly the content was extracted the standards for 'one inch' were different for each person so there was no choice but to tolerate some likes and dislikes.

Especially in a situation where it was released at the same time as its biggest competitor like Testa.

There were people who were intentionally making fun of Testa's mermaid every time saying that it felt raw compared to VTIC's sophisticated horror.

-Oh it really went too far.

-I don't buy male mermaids.

-It seemed like it was a flash in the pan while filming and I thought it was a renewal of dark history haha.

-The moment the mermaid appears you feel your blood run cold.

-The response from overseas and domestic schools is good but here they are acting like idiots. Ugh.

Several times a day there were arguments about the 'mermaid concept'.

But actually it had nothing to do with grades.

After all the general public is more likely to see a song performed on stage rather than a music video.

And Testa's latest song is armed with refreshing easy listening and a liveliness that makes anyone want to follow the choreography without overdoing it.

'If you dig deep you'll become maniacal; if you enjoy it lightly you'll become popular.'

It was a structure completed through thorough calculations to somehow maximize both advantages.

And to make sure there were no mistakes in this calculation formula Testa pulled out the scores.

-Wow 500000 copies were sold in just half a day. That's a self-record.

– Ranked 72nd with 24 hits… Almost similar to VTIC. Has the domestic fandom caught up? ㄷㄷㄷ

-Does Testa have better sound retention? I'll come back soon and turn the tables.

Shut up and be quiet

Tika is having a seizure haha.

Yes I'm a lover. Don't use my kids to criticize you.

A mixture of confusion and excitement made related internet sites and social media sites almost like a dumping ground.

And on Thursday. Before the day of the first music broadcast Testa was already trailing VTIC by a few steps on the music charts.

-If a sex room comes out things could really turn upside down.

-Isn't it possible to get compared and go to hell?ㅠ Either way is fun.

-V-Tik's initial release was 2 million copies so it would be very unfair if this unprecedented situation were to be overturned ㅠ I'm sure the two will fight right?

-Don't worry about these vulgar bastards I hope both groups achieve success. Good luck Idol.

The good news for both is that since the genres did not overlap it was rare for one of the two to be chosen by the public due to its comparative advantage.

The two did not openly take the pie from each other but on the outside they both looked like winners keeping each other in check behind the scenes and building up their results fiercely.

Of course VTIC's performance in the first week was ridiculously good but the momentum of the testa was so good and the image advantage given to the challenger that the composition was gradually solidified.

-Does T-Net music come out right after the testa?

-Starting this week the two activities overlap.

-Guys pack some popcorn.

-I'm both good people♡ You should watch the live broadcast

And finally the first live broadcast of a music program in which the two appeared together began.

Chapter 289

Inside the waiting room before the live broadcast of Tnet's music broadcaster MusicBOMB.

"Would you like something to drink Mundaedo?"

"Some water."

I volunteered to take water from Big Sejin who was distributing drinks and continued monitoring.

Because I still had some free time.

'First of all an album.'

The album trend is as expected… no inflation is a bit more severe than expected.

Both VTIC and Testa.

'Is it a competitive mentality?'

[TeSTAR "The Ocean of Wonder" – 1 317 215]

I can't believe we've already surpassed 1.3 million copies.

I looked at the album sales which exceeded the expected number in just four days in awe and thought about VTIC's first week sales and stopped to think for a moment.

Are there crazy people who sell over 2 million copies in the first week of repackage albums?

'It's quite easy to make.'

In order to appear to be on par with these guys in this situation we had to check our numbers more carefully.

I checked the music charts.

[7th place VTIC HELP]

[9th place Testa – Promise]

We are closely following the daily rankings. 24Hit is already in trouble and there is a high probability that it will turn over in the near future.

This is because the response to this song was as good as expected.

Since it's easy listening and has a good sense of season people who had previously listened to Testa's songs seemed to immediately add them to their playlist.

'Good to listen to while driving.'

And it had enough topicality to attract new listeners. There was some interest from releasing it simultaneously with VTIC but…

"I definitely think Ahyun suits her best here."

"Is that so? I think Ahyeon would look good even if she had a real mermaid tail~"

"I have enough tails! "We don't do that!"

"Hey Eugene your tail didn't even appear in the music video~"

"haha."

hmm. That virtue is definitely there.

The mermaid concept exploded aggro.

‘Once you hear the word it’s a bit shocking… ’

Existing fans are very familiar with how we make videos but when they just heard it they had a rough idea of what it would sound like to say ‘You’re dressed up as a mermaid in a music video!’

‘It’s either an animation for children or a B-grade movie.’

First of all… if you think about regular CG doesn’t the angle come out roughly?

-Testa Mermaid concept is revealed

Mermaid? That mermaid that lives in the sea? did i hear wrong

However if you are really attracted to the aggro and click on the music video the mermaid only appears briefly and not long after.

It’s not CG but actually made animatronic tails and only the ends were inserted into the middle of the cut scene to make them look like the members’ tails.

Just enough to make you understand that the short-sleeved guys playing in the water at the beach at sunset are a mermaid concept.

‘If I were to be honest… it’s closer to an art film in its sensibility.’

People who clicked expecting to see a real topless Testa with a full body of glitter and a CG tail were practically hooked.

-?? Well it’s better than I thought.

-It’s just a well-made gambling music video but they poured a lot of capital into it.

-Does that tail fin mean she’s a mermaid? Oh I understand.

-Santal… It’s the size of Cheongwoo. Yes I understand… I can be satisfied with the silhouette.

It became a good internet story to see people who were attracted to aggro leaving in confusion saying that it was surprisingly good. Thanks to this the number of views on the music video continued to rise.

And word of mouth is spreading that the song is good which is helping a lot with the music.

‘Of course… Still it’s hard to avoid likes and dislikes.’

-I love mermaids. Best concept.

That’s not it

-Take it out and give it back. Fuck mermaids aren’t real…

Then just watch the stage.

I’m sorry but I’m writing this because I’m scared that a mermaid will appear on stage. Please watch this T-One bastards.

There were various reactions swirling from people like this to those who were expecting a real mermaid costume to be disappointed but in any case if the majority is positive it is a success. Rather it becomes noise marketing.

‘I took this arrangement into consideration.’

When you look back a few years later the music video isn’t so bad that it becomes a black mark so it’s not something you’ll regret.

Actually I thought about only giving the mermaid as a hint… but I thought that wouldn’t be enough for aggro.

‘I needed impact.’

If we had just gone with the easy travel concept we would never have been able to create the composition of VTIC and Yanggang.

The amount of mention changes.

‘Image is ultimately a battle of momentum.’

Testing popularity It was ambiguous to frame the fandom as a VTIC because we were not as popular as Younglin.

Moreover the concept that VTIC came up with this time was working even better overseas.

I remembered the time I had just encountered them in the hallway.

-Hello Testa juniors!

-It’s been a while since I actually saw you~

The VTIC guys were fools but they smiled and asked how we were doing and we had a reasonably friendly conversation.

‘There were so many staff and singers coming and going that we had no choice but to be in harmony.’

And among the well-wishes we received was this.

-Congratulations on placing 2nd on the Billboard album chart. Seniors~! Respect!

-Ahaha thank you!

These guys entered the Billboard chart by updating their rankings.

It turns out that the strange cosmic horror concept is a well-known worldview with a considerable tradition and scale in foreign countries.

Thanks to this the fandom has grown strongly there and the American schedule seems to be tight. I guess they were aiming for it.

‘If this is widely covered in the media it could be pushed out as an issue of promoting national prestige… ’

Before that I'm just glad that I managed to secure at least trendy popularity through mermaid aggro.

I shrugged and stopped reminiscing.

Because the conclusion was obvious.

'In the end I have to perform well on stage.'

The current interest needs to be raised once more on the stage. Only then can this tight structure be maintained.

I put down my smartphone. Ryu Cheong-woo who had been accepting Kim Rae-bin's criticism of Cha Yu-jin turned his head and asked.

"Stretching?"

"yes."

Soon it was time for the live broadcast.

Testa's order is third from the back.

Next to us is a female group with quite a bit of experience… and the last one is of course VTIC.

Wow!!

I think both sides probably had the intention of arranging it this way to avoid direct comparisons but since they share a concert hall anyway it doesn't mean much.

'There are a lot.'

I lined up to see VTIC and Testa's fans almost split apart standing under the stage.

There are many cases where the pre-recorded part of the live broadcast stage is not performed or is only appropriately selected but it is because the audience is so focused that they end up working hard.

‘This is also filmed as a direct cam and circulated around.’

When we got on stage we waved our hands and then formed a group.

The first is a performance-type sub song using chairs that is close to Latin pop.

[Como tu dulce y amargo café

my love]

Cha Yu-jin takes charge of the Spanish refrain and adds flashy choreography and vocals.

‘It has increased.’

There are more songs in that one.

The thought of checking the status window briefly crossed my mind but it disappeared the moment I realized I was on stage.

[Your heart blooms like charm smoke in the hot air]

I sang the melody part at the beginning of the second verse. After performing the choreography of turning and jumping they slide to the side grab a chair and change formation.

And Raebin Kim sings and raps alone while sitting on a chair.

After that successfully clear the second verse refrain and the final climax.

Adrenaline rushes.

“Whoa.”

Ahhh!!

The response is also good.

‘I guess the difficulty level of the performance was difficult here as well.’

I looked down at my feet just before the interlude preparing for the title that would immediately follow.

And without realizing it I chuckled.

There is a bit of an interesting part.

The current outfit is somewhat unbalanced for the sticky sub song.

Because the clothes are worn according to the title that will be broadcast live.

[Take your STAR

A day when the stars are pouring down]

Everyone is wearing jeans and a white t-shirt.

* * *

‘good!’

Park Moon-dae’s first home horse clenched his fist in victory without realizing it when he saw Testa’s first broadcast outfit.

The outfit she liked the most in the music video was the first one so she couldn’t help it.

‘If you don’t like that you don’t have eyes.’

Jeans and a white t-shirt can’t be a bad thing as long as you have a good body!

I guess I exercised with intention this time but the fit was clear even in the light fabric. Almost instinctively she prepared to unclamp.

At the same time the future candidate's outfits automatically went through my mind.

I'm probably thinking of pushing music video costumes in the first week as well. Work clothes vacation clothes robe-covered beach clothes…

'…and maybe a mermaid-like outfit at least once?'

However since it is a costume that has never appeared in a music video and the mermaid is only a story concept in the story she quickly gave up on expectations.

'Looking at the first episode's selection it looks like they're planning to keep it pretty without anything experimental. Please let's stick with that tone until the end.'

The stage begins!

She immediately cleared her mind and focused all her attention on the stage on the screen in front of her.

A refreshing background with blue sky and white sandy beach.

And the stage that unfolds is…

It was like an extremely pure quintessence of the fun of watching and listening.

[Sailing Island in the Sky

We fly so far]

There was no walking movement in the choreography.

In every step whether it's a slippery run or a bounce there's always an element of focus and rhythm included.

In addition the genre of the choreography changes depending on the part attracting attention with just the right impressive movements.

For example Lee Se-jin's bridge features a tango-style kicking movement and Cha Yu-jin's chorus features rocking.

Meanwhile the margin was created solely by the difference in speed. There is no rest section for anyone.

This means making people watch with fascination so that there is no time to get bored.

[Make you fly!]

"Park Moon-dae!!"

When accompanied by a refreshing live performance it felt like drinking a carbonated drink with ice.

Meanwhile the point choreography that used gestures and gazes in a subtle way during 'Take your STAR' stuck to the song like a sticker.

It was extremely catchy.

'I think the song sounds better thanks to the choreography?'

I thought I would have been impressed if Lee Se-jin and Cha Yu-jin who almost fought because they were trying to put together a draft with only choreography that people would want to follow had heard of it.

However on the screen they are flying around the stage like ghosts looking for the camera and making use of their facial expressions and atmosphere.

As the formation changes the stage takes up time in an instant.

If you come to your senses it's the ending.

[To the last island beyond the horizon

Today will shine]

Sun Ah-hyun is shown in close-up in a large format that resembles waves using camera work to the limit.

The acrobatics that appear for the first time between emotional vocals and drums are also impressive.

[Umm~ UmmUmm]

Even the members nodding their heads to the last melody and sitting cross-legged were brought to life with highlight choreography.

The song ends with the grinning members each making gestures such as clasping their shoulders or resting their chins.

Well-maintained handsome faces were captured one after another on the screen.

[TeSTAR – Promise]

"her."

Homma took a deep breath again only after the title appeared on the screen and Park Moon-dae's ending close-up disappeared.

'It's so fun.'

So to conclude…

'This works.'

I thought it would be a choreography challenge first. Since word of mouth had already spread I could see all kinds of videos already being uploaded with this stage release.

You can tell from the music video that the choreography isn't crazy difficult but it's just impressive and addictive.

Just looking at real-time social media similar reactions were pouring in.

– Is it already over?

-You're really good at it. You're a mermaid and you have to be good at performing on stage.

-After watching the stage the song sounds better. Is this an auditory hallucination?

-The stage restaurant is particularly delicious.

-I'm going to get sick of watching Tic-Tac-Toe doing things like this with my back and my hands. (Video)

"That's it."

The domestic trend that VTIC fans are talking about is Testa!

She predicted the future with satisfaction. And the prediction was to turn out very similar to reality.

However Testa was not the only one who converted the attention into consumption.

* * *

"The joy of bursting music! MusicBOMB~"

"First place this week… Congratulations! VTIC!"

Music broadcast MCs politely hand over bouquets and trophies to VTIC.

It was natural. Today due to the counting period last week's performance is included and if VTIC is not first it is a manipulation.

“First of all to Tika who supported me until I won this award today…”

I laughed hard and slapped my palm at the guys who said their thoughts on winning first place. Everyone is doing that.

I’m sure there’s no idiot here who can’t manage his facial expressions.

Still I’m probably thinking about various things inside but in my case… yes I guess you could say I’m evaluating it.

‘These guys are definitely good.’

It was my first time watching these guys perform on their title stage properly.

And it was quite… impressive.

‘You’re digging a very well.’

They said that the music video was a culmination of content that their fans would like and the stage had the same tone.

‘Intense and stimulating high quality.’

It’s not like they threw away their popularity but the snake-fighting performance in the intro is clearly intended for the fan base.

‘And his stage skills are so outstanding.’

It’s not for nothing that I’m gaining new fans because of my seniority.

“MusicBOMB! See you again next week!”

I bowed my head to the waving first place guys and came to a conclusion as I got off the stage.

Although the results of this activity are different I don't think either of us will fall down on stage.

And in fact the response was similar.

In the following weeks Testa continued to climb the music charts through word of mouth and the picks of social platform users.

And eventually it happened.

[Testa just reversed the V-TIK sound source]

: Climbed up to 5th place. Testa seems to be at the top when it comes to real male idol music (capture)

-I'm crazy

-Awesome testa hahahaha

-Honestly the song was chosen very well. I think it's a good song.

That was composed by Kim Rae-bin.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋ You may have seen it once or twice to mention the names of the producing members but at this point they just put their names at the end.

This is the first time (capture)

Kkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkkk

-It's worth coming in a week late. The album sales are also deceiving.

-I knew it would go well. The performance was really good. The music video story was also good.

-Lucky

Thermal width

-The atmosphere is really bloody. Are you going to stay like this until the end of the day?

The VTIC and music rankings were reversed.

There was an uproar for a while as they thought it had actually come to a conclusion but it soon subsided. VTIC's global records continued to be spectacular.

Starting with 'No. 1 in 76 countries' interviews and awards ceremony invitations mentions in English and American countries and music video views.

It was enormous.

Thanks to its sparkling status more and more people came to listen to it and VTIC's title song continued to be at the top of the domestic charts.

This applies not only to the sound source but also to the overall topicality. We ended up being the ones holding out.

'It's easy.'

We swept the top rankings this week as planned but it was still unclear how the perception would change in August.

'Still what's satisfying is that the two-river system has been solidified.'

Nowadays we rarely see people asking 'How dare they put Testa on VTIC?'

This tension must be maintained until the end of the year.

I decided to pay attention to that and wait for the decisive end to come.

And so the music broadcast day returns again.

Testa's 3rd week of comeback music broadcast.

And VTIC's last domestic music broadcast for this album.

In fact they should have stopped appearing last week but since it was a special feature it seems like Tnet was holding on to their pants.

And I realized that this was the first critical moment.

'We have to capture public opinion.'

The topic had to explode once again.

However I did not know that I would encounter an unexpected and unpleasant situation in this special feature.

A prospective junior appeared as a special stage guest.

〈Azusa〉 This season's debut group.

Chapter 290

We have already participated in this week's music broadcast special format a few times.

'Group KPOP concert.'

Tnet held a global concert called 'TaKon' every six months.

Well it's the typical tyranny of a broadcasting company that broadcasts live in dozens of countries and doesn't have a proper infrastructure but it still looks shiny on the outside.

This time since they got hold of VTIC they seemed to be trying to be ambitious by dividing it into two days and organizing Part 1 and 2.

And Testa… isn't it obvious? Since Tnet is in the red he has to appear on both days.

However now there are not one but two sons of this broadcasting station.

"Hello senior!"

Day 1. What we met at the rehearsal was the debut group of this season of "Azusa." From what I heard they were doing a cover performance of our song.

Gold 2's grinning face can be seen among the guys greeting you energetically.

It's jaw-dropping to hear that they debuted at number one in such a dramatic way that it barely took any time.

"Senior please give me a lot of guidance~"

“Oh my please take care of us~”

He still gets along well with Keun Se-jin.

Of course this is not the one to pay attention to.

The guy who quietly buried himself earlier when everyone was kissing each other and saying hello.

Chae Seo-dam was in the debut group.

“…”

This is the guy who messed up with Sun Ah-hyun when he was in school and then couldn’t get rid of that habit in Azusa and ended up messing around with it.

‘The strings are also tough.’

Surprisingly this bastard debuted in 10th place after editing the latter part of Idol Inc. to correct his ‘desperate effort to survive’.

It is said that it was only then that the explanation that ‘it was all a misunderstanding’ came out perfectly and captured the hearts of general viewers…

-It sounds like a misunderstanding. A deceiver with a big mouth is in the debut group… Oh I’m so mad.

-Is it possible for idols to coexist with romance and earnestness?

-Chaeseodampads are really disgusting haha. I don’t accept PD picks for forced narratives.

Well for this reason it seems like they are getting a lot of criticism from fans of the same debut group.

‘But debuting is definitely an advantage.’

If you are eliminated due to controversy there will be a difference in your chances to advance.

I don't know if it's a coincidence or if it's just a coincidence but it's of no use.

Because Sun Ah-hyun hardly cares anymore.

"I'm fighting today…! "I will support you!"

"thank you!

I'm just cheering on other guys.

Since the person involved was like that we just ended up treating this guy like he didn't exist.

In addition the momentum of this season of <Azusa> slowed down as Chae Seo-dam who was in first place was defeated so this debut group… Hmm they should be good at producing.

'The general manager?'

I'm not that nervous.

"I hope you don't be too nervous and have a good performance."

"yes!"

So all I'm considering now is what we can gain from this unwelcome encounter.

'As long as I can use it that's fine.'

That's topical.

"See you next time!"

The moment we parted ways after saying hello the older Sejin quietly spoke.

“You changed places with them?”

“uh.”

The timer for the first timing has already been set.

“Testa up!”

As I step onto the rehearsal stage the early morning air blows through my nose.

A view of the outdoor stage.

Originally the outdoor concert hall where the debut group of Azusa would go was changed in the name of consideration to ‘remind us of the old days’.

‘Thank you just in time.’

Thanks to you the story will come out well.

I recalled the weather forecast I had checked a few days ago.

The probability of precipitation on the day of the performance was 70%.

* * *

“You bitch!”

“Oh it’s so loud!!”

Kim Rae-bin’s fan got up from his seat without even responding to his younger brother’s words. This was after I pounded the keyboard I was using with my fist.

puck!

It was the result of a war of words… or rather a war of fingers with VTIK's fans.

'The campaign is going downhill while surviving on winning overseas!!'

Her fighting power which has continued since the donation concert has been on the rise. But now is the time to calm down a bit.

"Hey are you saying you're watching this?"

"uh. "Get out of the way."

Without even correcting her tone she pushed her younger brother away and sat down on the sofa telling him to call her sister.

TaKon was broadcasting live on TV.

[NEXT STAGE]

[TeSTAR]

I don't know how many times that guy's next stage has been announced but it must be about time. Now the broadcast time is almost over!

And the Testa intro VCR actually plays on the screen.

"Good…??"

However she was speechless when she saw the performance scene captured on camera from afar.

It was so absurd.

"…What is this?"

“why?”

Why?

‘Why are these guys standing on the outdoor stage?’

As TaKon is broadcast live it uses two stages alternately to ensure quick maintenance.

And this time due to problems with the structure of the concert hall the stage was divided into outdoor and indoor areas.

So what usually happens?

Teams are brought into the room in order of seniority and teams that are very popular are invited into the room even if they have less seniority.

So of course I thought the Testa would be indoors…

These guys were standing on an outdoor stage.

Even on a rainy evening!

‘What’s wrong with Daewoo!’

She couldn’t help but feel heat in her head as she complained that there were no hostages and that they had called the 1st team for two days in a row saying it was their line.

For reference there was an almost hellish silence on social media which was overflowing with fans who had already witnessed that the debut group of Azusa was held indoors.

What she didn’t know about while fighting with VTIC’s fans was actually medicine for her.

Because I’m already angry enough!

…Still the moment Testa was close-up Kim Rae-bin's fans immediately forgot their anger.

'Whoever's idol is he's good.'

The testa came out flawless in every corner.

'Is Kim Rae-bin's silver robe crazy?'

The appearance of a colorful robe cardigan over a white shirt probably inspired by a music video costume looks wet and moist…

"…?"

Water… falling on your head?

'Where's the lid?'

Even though it is an outdoor stage they provide at least a waterproof screen.

No the weather forecast clearly said it would rain so of course there were curtains prepared for the stages so far.

But suddenly it wasn't there.

'For some reason the rain caught my eye…!'

'These crazy people…!'

She almost cursed but the performance started before she could so she reflexively focused on it.

Testa bounces his feet at the start of a rhythmic and thrilling song.

[Take your STAR

A day when the stars are pouring down]

Refreshing sounds pour out.

Testa didn't seem to care whether it got wet or not.

No rather when it hits the raindrops a new taste pops out.

'uh?'

As evening approaches and the lighting becomes stronger the light reflected from the water droplets on the accessories and robes on the feet and arms sparkles.

Hwiik.

Even the splashing water appears to be part of the stage perhaps due to the choreography involving a lot of bouncing and turning of the limbs.

And with every step they took water droplets splashed like decorations.

Below that… bare feet.

'…!'

I have long legs… or longer…

'There's stagnant water right??'

There was a lot of water on the floor probably because the top screen had been removed from the previous indoor stage.

'Too dangerous… '

However perhaps because I am barefoot the Testa does not slip.

Instead the stage unfolded as cleanly and pleasantly as if it were performed on dry land.

No it actually looked better.

‘what… ’

Every time I step on it with my bare feet my toes are half submerged and then come out. And the water rings bounce together.

In particular when entering the chorus it is excellent to move up to the point choreography steps.

[We fly so far]

Water gushes out between large formations. And the robe flutters splashing water droplets again.

It catches the eye.

A stage where extravagance overpowers the existing coolness.

All of that was done with wet more presentable costumes and hair so it was no different from a well-planned underwater performance.

‘ah.’

And she realized like a lightning bolt. The color of the robe’s decoration and the color of the gemstone on the limb accessories… is the color of the tail fin in that music video.

A performance wearing a mermaid symbol in flowing water.

‘You did this on purpose?’

For that concept you planned the stage by running around barefoot on a rainy day? The lid blows off too?

This is ridiculous. However Testa’s appearance on TV was so impressive that question marks and exclamation marks filled my mind.

[To the last island beyond the horizon

Today will shine]

The ending approaches with Sun Ah-hyun's acrobatics drawing a neat vertical droplet parabola.

Thanks to the members supporting them instead of looking nervous they started out with admiration. It is a choreography that catches the eye.

And the motion of sitting down while humming at the end… Instead they turn back with their arms around each other's shoulders.

[Umm]

It ends with looking up at the rainy sky to the final bass.

And so the stage ended.

"…"

[Turutturu~ The soup is excellent!]

The screen changed to an advertisement. However Raebin Kim's fans continue to sit on the sofa.

Her younger brother tapped her thigh with his foot.

"Hey are you good at it?"

It's so good and I don't know.

No I'm good at this but it's not something that will end at the same level…

So how amazing is this?

“Oh really!”

Kim Rae-bin’s fans immediately took to social media.

I had to find out what the hell was going on!

* * *

“eww!”

“Cha Yujin! “Are your feet okay?”

“OK! are you okay!”

Cha Yu-jin tore off the transparent protruding protector attached to her feet.

Even if the staff helped it still stung so it looks like he ripped it off with his own hands.

What is that? It is an anti-slip equipment made of rubber synthetic material.

‘Running barefoot across that wet marble floor is suicidal.’

That was custom-made before our comeback. I shrugged and took the thing off my foot.

“Oh doesn’t it hurt…?”

“uh. “It’s okay.”

The adhesive may sting a bit but there will be no aftereffects.

And I just had an even bigger opportunity.

“I know. “We just did a great job!”

“Oh really? “I think so too Eugene~”

“Hehe.”

“I hope viewers enjoy it are satisfied and feel good in their hearts!”

“uh. It has to be good.”

Bae Se-jin speaks firmly. Well he is the one who worked the hardest to complete the game due to the difference in stats so he has the right to say something like that.

I chuckled and nodded.

“is it so.”

Then let’s check it out.

As soon as I returned to the waiting room I covered myself with a towel and accessed the internet.

The related community… has already responded.

[Idol who just performed in heavy rain]

[Legendary Taken stage]

[Testa the stage we just finished performing is dangerous VS cool which is better?]

[Testa dizzying scene]

It’s uproar.

I thought it would probably be the same on social media and it was as expected.

Posts were pouring in like crazy and ‘Heavy Rain’ and ‘Testa What’ were trending.

-Aren't Mimi crazy?

-How should I accept this?

-Everyone else aside my kids are geniuses really;;

-Are my eyes weird? This looks better than the regular stage. Oh it shouldn't be like this.

No that's right. It has to be nice to look at.

'It's a choreography created with water in mind from the beginning.'

To be exact it is a choreography requested while simulating digestion on a stage set filled with water up to the ankle level.

I wanted to take advantage of the uniqueness of the album's summer and sea concept.

'It was meant to be used at concerts.'

It was hit here.

And it's natural that if one more well-considered element is added it's bound to be more fun.

'I knew there would be a reaction.'

I assumed that it would definitely be effective if I stay for 2-3 weeks and pop it when the buzz gradually stabilizes.

Plus we added some elements to make it even more impressive.

'This situation.'

Since we don't know if this is a plan or an unexpected situation due to weather conditions the talk will continue to come out.

It has already begun.

-Good coping skills

-It's definitely a plan.

-If it was planned they would have already started advertising it. In my opinion it is an accident resolution.

-Why would Testa come to the outdoor stage in the first place? Of course it's a special stage so I can't communicate with idiots really.

-Predict the weather forecast and perform on stage according to rain showers…? Isn't this too much of an unreasonable guess?

I hope that the story continues to spread widely.

'It would be right around the time when WeTube's cyber wrecker bites.'

I checked the video which was spreading faster due to its controversial nature and started talking to the company.

* * *

Testa's stage in the heavy rain emerged as a hot trend at the end of the week amid various speculations and admiration.

Since there were many people who knew about Testa's recent activities due to the confrontation with VTIC and the songs that were missing people became interested more easily and became attached at an alarming rate.

It's not just about performing well on stage it's about being able to add your own opinion to this unique situation!

In the end it spread to a safety issue and ignited fire in many ways but the official position was clearly announced in an article before the controversy officially surfaced.

[Testa's performance in the heavy rain? "Concession not an accident"]

[TaKon's dizzying downpour stage… an impromptu natural set]

It is said that Testa changed the stage on the day of rehearsal out of consideration for his immediate junior's first joint concert stage.

And after being aware of the weather situation they changed the configuration as an event and even wore equipment while paying attention to safety.

The articles that had been carefully inspected by the agency continued to appear in the main entertainment articles and advertised Testa's stage.

This is the clean truth except that the context has changed.

And Testa even showed their excitement by posting the anti-slip protective gear they were wearing at the time on social media.

_____

Ahyeon wore these and did ballet. It was so cool. We all followed along.

(video)

_____

-I thought they were using the Teenet kids as a shield for funny stories but it turned out to be true.

-What on earth were you trying to show at the concert? Guys I'll definitely go this time I'll get tickets!!

-♡♡♡♡

-This is the first idol who is so sincere about being an idol;

Because it came out quickly the truthfulness of Testa will not be damaged and because it was an unexpected situation its status will not be lowered.

However I had no idea that the video that had already spread would continue to gain momentum and go down from the most popular videos on WeTube.

People who praise people who find fault people who make aggressive videos based on this incident.

And even people who re-post the dance challenge comparing it with and without water.

Everyone contributed to the popularity of the song and raised Testa's music rating.

Thanks to this Cheongnyeo was able to organize it easily.

"…"

The calculation is that the country will be given over to Testa.

Chapter 291

In conclusion the sound source was a huge hit.

“What rank are you…?”

“for a moment.”

I checked the daily music chart.

[3rd Place Testa – Promise]

“oh my god.”

“I went up one step higher than yesterday!”

“Wooooow!”

Cha Yu-jin passed by humming something that sounded like a strange hooligan song. To be honest I understand because it made me feel bad.

I feel… excited too.

‘If you get results equivalent to your investment there is no other hormone system that is as good as this.’

The music above us was a drama OST and a song by a long-running indie band.

In fact it means that we did the best among the easy listening products released for the summer.

‘The build-up went well.’

The feeling of pleasure when the timing section of the route that was put together with the completed song two months before the comeback matches up is almost euphoric.

Topical. And topicality.

I looked back on the past week.

The heavy rain stage which attracted aggro with half controversy and half admiration swept social platforms and became a ‘positive image’ thanks to the explanation provided at the right time.

-It’s just a work of art.

-I’m the person who said in the comments on Testa’s comeback stage that watching it makes me feel better but this makes me feel even better haha.

-Gatgok Gatdol Gatmu

-It’s so amazing that water can splash like that. Testa you are mermaids.

-K-pop this summer is really fun. When I look back on it in 10 years I’ll be reminiscing about it all haha.

Even though it was an issue I couldn’t like it to my heart’s content because of safety issues but now I have no hesitation about consuming it.

‘People’s psychology is more enthusiastic when restrictions are lifted after being restricted than when they are just released.’

After that as expected people who heard the water splash choreography were immediately absorbed in the music as soon as the song became familiar to their ears.

Once again the virtuous cycle of larger sound sources and stages was completed.

[(Pre-release) Those who sail into the sky appear in water drop dance! | Tiny Club Episode 102]

In the end a parody that seemed to have been hastily put together appeared in advance on this week's TV entertainment testa appearance.

Since it appears in the most conservative media outlets it means that it has become a trend.

'That's because TV can use that stage image for topical aggro purposes.'

So the result is this.

-Testa songs are really everywhere. I went to Hongdae and was confused haha.

-Honestly both the song and choreography were very well chosen. The heavy rain dance was really sweet.

-My nephew who is in kindergarten also follows suit. How far has it spread?

The song itself and the stage itself became a popular trend.

'It's the flow.'

Although it was destroyed in a car accident at the time it was similar to the trend vaguely seen during the 'Calling' promotions.

This is an influence that extends beyond Testa's first-team name value.

It's so bad that on the Internet people who say 'I can't feel it' are flooded with comments with ridicule.

"Ravin is good at making songs so we're all doing well together."

"That's too much praise! "It was a collaborative effort and since it was a song that could not have been released without the hyungs' feedback and Moon Dae hyung's idea I will move forward without being complacent!"

Raebin Kim spoke almost without even breathing. Anyone who sees it will think it's an acceptance speech.

Meanwhile Cha Yu-jin is answering seriously.

"Sejin and I made a really cool Choreo to Kim Raebin's song. Raebin Kim didn't do it alone!"

"That's what I said you idiot!"

"That's what I said idiot!"

You're playing well. I said a word to the party mentioned.

"That sounds good."

"uh?… Of course it's good~ Because people like it."

Surprisingly Big Sejin seemed a little embarrassed.

"What can I say… I can't believe it's going so well."

"…"

No it feels like a thrill.

He is a guy who has had almost no solo music-related activities. It was a special feeling to see the choreography that I personally selected and arranged become popular.

Big Sejin looked at the ceiling took a deep breath and raised both arms.

"Ah~ I don't know! Great! thanks! Thank you our members~"

“Go for it!!”

It was fun to watch the music ranking celebration ceremony where even Bae Se-jin turned red and applauded Keun Se-jin saying that the atmosphere gets better when things go well.

“Ah Testa showed me something again this time～”

It’s 1 a.m. right now and there’s another schedule at 4 o’clock but everyone seems to have forgotten about being tired.

Looking at the cases so far it’s okay since they aren’t the type of people to roughly schedule…

‘It’s not enough to let down your guard.’

In terms of name value alone it is difficult to say that it has surpassed VTIC. Besides the initial difference doesn’t go anywhere.

Of course we sold a lot… well this time.

[TeSTAR “The Ocean of Wonder” – 1 558 114]

Initial sales of 1.55 million copies.

To be honest I had many thoughts because I didn’t expect it to be this popular.

Just looking at it it is a huge number. Excluding VTIC there are only three active idols who have achieved this level of sales.

‘I’m still in good spirits.’

I shrugged my shoulders after checking how many albums were still being released even after the initial release.

‘I’ll take it for a month.’

I was almost certain that this composition would continue.

It seemed unlikely that other top ranked music artists would enter the market until mid-August.

‘I can’t even enter the country.’

In this situation where the first place is being shared between the two first-team teams what benefit can there be?

Now that Testa has gone beyond what he was forced to endure and has become a truly solid duo it will take quite some time for both of them to slow down.

VTIC fans also seemed to know this and changed their stance a bit.

-Because we are both doing well we don’t get into trouble.

-VTIK Testa has completely different routes so why are they being compared like this?

-Why is it so pathetic that you guys are so excited that they are hitting Testa with the V-Tik soundboard and V-Tik with the Testa sound? Those stones have no future.

It is a ceasefire gesture.

The moment Testa’s song became popular it seemed like a decision was made: ‘This is going to be difficult to win over public opinion.’

Instead the goal is to solidify VTIC’s top tier position and avoid stressing about the arrows.

‘Jjambap isn’t going anywhere.’

Of course behind the scenes they are gnashing their teeth and creating rumors that they will catch and kill Testa… but that was expected.

Since the song worked so well the fans… I mean our fans will have a lot more fun than stress.

From the perspective of someone who is trying to get ahead this situation is no different from a decision win.

'That's it.'

I turned off my smartphone.

…Is it the taste of exquisite success in the number of adventures or is it time to enjoy it a little more?

"Park Moon-dae!"

"Moondae come here! "You should do this too!"

Me indeed.

I got up from my seat. It's funny to see the encouragement pouring in from excited guys.

Let's at least give him a shoulder hug. Still it was a good moment.

* * *

8 hours later. After the early morning photo shoot what took place at 9 a.m. was a light interview shoot.

The subject is also Tnet.

This year's TaKon which was held over two days was so well received that it seemed like the VOD specials would be a bit more fancy.

It looks like they started filming from early morning from the debut group of <Azusa> to Mirinae.

But honestly no matter how many broadcasting stations call it I thought it would be omitted if it had a name value of VTIC…

"hello!"

“Hello~”

It came unexpectedly. It looks like he happened to be in the country.

It’s not surprising that we met in overlapping time zones.

‘They took it out at the most convenient time.’

So as far as filming goes it was kind of a natural flow for the two most popular people in the same time zone to meet.

However… there was no need to allocate the same space to them just to give them the most spacious and well-equipped waiting room.

“…”

“…”

I happened to be the first person to bat and fell silent when I saw the guy coming in from the interview.

Cheongryeo.

I have to be alone with this bastard for 20 minutes until the next one comes.

Well it’s surprising that I’m reluctant to do it now.

“It looks like your junior took the first picture too.”

“yes. “Yes.”

“Are you enjoying your activities these days?”

“I’m trying to do well. “It’s also fun.”

I’m sure this bastard won’t turn away just because I lost out on the music.

However Cheongryeo's face looked quite relaxed.

"Me too."

"…"

"No it's fun. It's been a while since I tried a new song. "There are so many variables here so I've only written songs that have been tested in previous periods."

Not only is your face comfortable right now but you also seem to have used words that are too comfortable to answer here.

"yes. "I see."

Why would you speak so openly if someone comes in?

"hmm? "Speak comfortably."

"I'm not sure what you're talking about."

"ah."

But the guy across from me laughed heartily.

"It's not a commercial it's not a music show… It's rare for outsiders to come to such hastily organized internal filming. "I think you can take it easy."

Is that so?

'Is this what an idol is risking his own safety?'

Well our staff could come but there was no reason or justification for them to put their ears in the room and listen.

"So then."

“haha.”

I leaned on the sofa and picked up my smartphone. Cheongryeo stopped laughing and asked.

“Are you targeting the target?”

“All singers are like that.”

“No I’m not talking about such a general goal… I think I’ve thoroughly planned out a strategy for this year.”

“From the timing of the release to the music video and this shower stage the viral effect was good.”

I looked at Cheongryeo.

“Basically it worked because the song and the stage were good.”

“…”

“I did it because it was worth doing.”

“Is that so?”

“Don’t you think that your song worked because it deserved it?”

I looked back down at my smartphone.

“They said it was a song that had never been tested before. “Then what did you believe in?”

“I don’t know.”

Cheongryeo’s voice became monotonous.

“I was just trying to make it good.”

“So that’s good.”

“My junior took more of the music though.”

Yes I knew this story would come out eventually.

“Who sold 2 million albums? “Don’t pretend to unilaterally submit to the outcome.”

“haha!”

Cheongryeo laughed.

“I guess so. “I still have no intention of being pushed back.”

The answer sounded a bit refreshing.

“Are you sure you are brave?”

I sank back into the sofa. The atmosphere becomes a little looser.

And suddenly I heard a small dull sound behind my voice…

‘no way.’

My mind stops.

“Ah Kong…”

I didn’t listen and stood up right away. Cheongryeo immediately closes her mouth and stands up to follow.

Without warning I turned around walked to the door grabbed the handle and opened it.

“…!!”

Damn it there was someone.

The thing that suddenly happens beyond the door…

This is Chaeseodam.

"…"

Throw away all surprises and surprises.

'This bastard was trying to eavesdrop.'

I reflexively recalled the conversation between me and Cheongryeo.

'No swearing unrealistic words… '

Did you say something similar? No I think I used an overly primitive expression about this activity…

I spoke informally to Cheongnyeo.

"It's strange. This side of the route is… ah."

They say no one goes around here.

Cheongryeo looked at Chae Seo-dam and her eyes lit up.

"You came to visit my junior."

"…!"

"I think that's right. It's not because he doesn't know me… There's no reason to come to the outskirts for any other purpose. "Isn't that right?"

"…"

You came for me?

Judging from that cold sweat look on my face I guess it's true.

Chae Seo-dam's expression returned as if she had regained her composure at that moment.

"I… I just got lost and came here. "Seniors."

"I guess filming is over."

"He said he would wait longer and take another photo after lunch."

This means that because the best time was taken away from the first team this guy's filming time suddenly popped up so it's still a waiting time.

And after finding out my whereabouts and following me he somehow tried to eavesdrop on our conversation outside this door?

"But I have some concerns. "Senior."

At that time Chae Seo-dam's voice suddenly became relaxed perhaps due to a change of heart.

"Actually I'm scared of many things these days… so I always record when I'm working. I'm afraid there will be a big problem due to another misunderstanding. "Isn't that right?"

The embarrassment slowly disappeared from Chae Seo-dam's face and her eyes began to sparkle instead.

"I debuted because I was 'lucky'…but I think I'll need an objective excuse if another rumor arises."

In a strange way there is an emphasis in the tone.

This bastard…

I reflexively recalled the expression I gave that guy.

'Lucky bastard.'

“But this recorder performs better than I expected. “I’m asking because I’m concerned because it could be inconvenient.”

“…”

“Did you say anything that would be embarrassing if it were recorded?”

Chapter 292

When Chae Seo-dam brought up the topic of ‘recording’ the atmosphere suddenly changed to typical.

I mean it was funny.

‘What is this guy talking about?’

If you want to use whatever you’ve recorded isn’t it best to keep your mouth shut and then figure out the timing?

Why are you giving me time to deal with it by speaking out of my own mouth?

‘Well are you trying to take control through threats?’

Are they trying to embarrass me by telling me to release the recording?

Well I’m curious as to what will happen if it’s recorded and they say they shared something embarrassing and what will happen if they say they didn’t share it.

I opened my mouth right away.

“You know that third-party recording is illegal Mr. Chae Seo-dam.”

“yes? Ah… I was trying to record my daily life and I was asking because I didn’t want the background music to contain anything that might be embarrassing to my seniors.”

Chae Seo-dam bowed her head.

“I’m truly sorry if this was a sensitive conversation!”

oh.

If you say it was sensitive it's a weakness and if you say it wasn't sensitive are you saying that the grounds for questioning will disappear?

I crossed my arms and smiled.

It's true that you're trying to make me angry.

"Hmm… I guess this happens a lot. "It's an illegal invasion of privacy."

Okay so you said it was illegal?

However this cub's next behavior was different.

"yes! I am also careful to prevent that from happening. "First of all I will delete anything that may have been recorded by my seniors."

Chae Seo-dam took out a button-shaped recorder from the back pocket of his pants.

'Is it a Bluetooth type?'

He then took out his smartphone and played the recording file in front of me.

-Well I don't know where this is.

-My legs hurt…

I can hear a faint sound behind Chae Seo-dam's voice as if she's deliberately speaking out loud and sitting in front of the door…

I'm not sure but I think there was a sound recorder stuck close to the door so some sound got into the waiting room.

-Aiming for the target…

Oh did it come in from there?

Let's start with the story of viral marketing.

I heard the faint voice of Cheongryeo.

And Chae Seo-dam immediately clicked on the recording file and deleted it completely.

"Deleted."

"Oh yeah."

Should I at least applaud? I nodded and looked at him.

"…"

You look embarrassed.

Why are you so calm than I thought?

Did you think that if I played the recording myself I would get anxious and ruminate on our past conversation? The ambition is good.

"Anything else to say?"

"no. Then let's go. "I'm sorry for causing trouble to my seniors."

The guy lowered his head and turned around.

I checked the remaining one of the 'seniors' that Chae Seo-dam mentioned.

Cheongnyeo.

"…"

The guy is staring at the cub who is turning around.

‘That… ’

At that time Chae Seo-dam suddenly looks back and speaks.

“But… senior do you trust me?”

“…!”

This is some bullshit again.

“I’m really sorry but I don’t know much about machines. “I was wondering if there would be a problem if it were to remain somewhere and get hacked.”

“Recording.”

I did a performance of deleting it but in reality I have it so am I trying to create anxiety like that?

‘I can see the outline of how he lives.’

I keep holding it and trying to check the other person’s reaction. It looks like you have a talent for catching pods and making leaps.

But with such a big difference in weight class such a stupid thing… Is it a calculation that they will buy it because they have more to lose?

“hmm. “Then I think Mr. Seodam will be in trouble.”

“…Me?”

“yes. “Idols who secretly record other people’s conversations… that’s right.”

I leaned against the doorway.

“If I were you I would be careful.”

This means that the moment the recording starts I will drag you in.

Chae Seo-dam raised his head defiantly for a moment but then bowed again.

"…Thank you for the advice."

Then he walked quickly and disappeared across the hallway.

'Funny bastard.'

I don't know why he's trying to end it on his own after barely debuting… but he says he wants to fail so what can I do?

I shrugged and removed my head.

It depends on how well that bastard's recording was done but… I guess I'll try maxing out the disadvantages I would get if I were to ignore it.

'Is this informal language and viral marketing?'

Both were negative factors. If I were to be specific the keywords could be summarized as 'attitude controversy' and 'public deception.'

-No matter how close you are why are you speaking like this? Is this real thing you're talking about?

-They said it was 'dang-dang' and it was like a real dog's kitchen lol.

-Honestly I wake up.

-From V-Tik's performance to the heavy rain performance it was all planned and pretended to be a coincidence. It's really a dark day itself.

Is this the expected answer?

However if you ask whether it is unconditionally fatal it is a question mark.

‘There’s a lot of swearing and it’s not good.’

However if both had enough spare time defense was possible. Ultimately it’s a matter of frame.

In particular if you keep your words in sync with the person you are talking to it could end up as a typhoon in a teacup…

“That’s fun.”

…This bastard is so calm probably because he’s the only one losing money if he gets recorded.

No from that bastard’s perspective wouldn’t it actually be beneficial if it exploded?

In this confrontation situation the greater the minus of Testa the more beneficial it is to VTIC.

‘For some reason he didn’t open his mouth.’

I massaged the back of my neck and walked back into the waiting room. I’m thinking of getting some work done until the others arrive.

But a question is heard from behind.

“I wonder what you are going to do.”

“Why are you curious about that senior?”

“I was the one who told you to stop talking so I think you should cooperate. “Hmm what kind of resentment is this?”

“resentment?”

Is that even possible?

Honestly I don't understand. To begin with the only contact I had with him was swearing once so you're saying that's going to be annoying enough to turn off recording aggro?

'I just became X so everyone should become X.'

Don't ask it's the mentality of a terrorist.

However the point that Cheongryeo pointed out again was clear.

"That doesn't seem to me like there is any intention to do business with it… This is also a unique case."

"…"

hmm.

Yes it was exactly me…

"So I'd like you to tell me what you're going to do."

"Well… look."

I completed the text I had written and sent it. Since Chae Seo-dam started threatening right away unless he was quite a stone-faced person he must have thought that I would be prepared if he blew up the recording.

If so I'd definitely do some extra work instead of blowing it up right away.

'All risks are extracted.'

It is true that it is a loss if gossip breaks out somehow so it is just an observation for now.

Until the unwary one's purpose is revealed and his weakness is revealed.

* * *

A few days later I got off work early for the first time in a while and was lying on the living room sofa.

“What is this at Mundaemundae?”

“what.”

Big Sejin holds the smartphone up to my head.

This is an interview passage.

The question is ‘close connections in the entertainment industry.’

The grand prize is… the debut group of this year’s <Azusa>.

———————

Chae Seo-dam: Recently I received advice from Testa senior Park Moon-dae. The guidance was very kind which made me think that I should work hard.

…

———————

This is a common interview with a rookie who attracts aggro by talking about his friendship with a popular senior.

However the problem is that the senior and the rookie are Chae Seo-dam and I.

“I asked Heeseung right away and he said he still keeps giving me answers like this.”

“…”

“look.”

Big Sejin changed the screen.

[Heeseung: Are you really close to Moon Dae hyung? An unimaginable development [ㄴㅇㄱ]

…Gold 2 This guy also appeared on survival programs twice and seems to be completely addicted to Internet buzzwords.

Anyway I knew the situation.

“Are you trying to use my name?”

Chae Seo-dam’s head seemed to be spinning.

I am using this as a positive factor in my situation where public opinion is negative. Right now my fans are shocked but are accepting it as a good story.

‘You’re just pushing your limits.’

It seems like he wants to take advantage of the risk and reach the limit of remaining silent.

Additionally if I contact you personally here and you get angry or show a negative reaction I will probably record that as well. That’s how it gets intertwined.

‘You clever bastard.’

I’ve been doing something similar for a long time.

…Of course no matter what analysis I do the situation I’m facing right now is different.

Big Sejin lowered his smartphone and asked.

“So. Mr. Moon Dae. Why did this bastard suddenly think of using the three letters of Park Moon-dae's name?"

"…"

"Has something happened?"

This question.

And no matter how well I prepare and prevent this it can pose a risk to the team.

I decided to reveal everything clearly.

"I'd like everyone to gather in the living room for a moment."

It is time for confession.

And after a while.

"So… you're saying you spoke informally to senior Cheongnyeo?"

"…okay."

"…"

I thought they were going to swear with their eyes but surprisingly there was a look of understanding in the eyes of the two people with the same name. What is it?

"Yeah… that's how the order turned out so the two of us were together."

"good job!"

Oh those two guys know that they are the cause of my dog fights on vacation. I guess you think I said it because I didn't feel it was worth speaking politely to.

However the others seem puzzled. Liu Chengwu mutters.

“You did well…?”

“Oh that guy has been harassing Park Moon-dae!”

“…!!”

“…okay? when?”

Now is not the time to talk about that.

I ended the conversation between Ryu Cheong-woo and Bae Se-jin. When I heard Kim Raebin my eyes popped out.

“It was a while ago but the broadcasting station had to be careful anyway so I’m sorry. And I said that he planned the way our song took off but he didn’t deny it.”

“I’m sorry about this too.”

“No!! The person who recorded it is bad! There’s nothing wrong with Moon Dae!”

“you’re right. “How could someone do such a rude and malicious thing…”

They look like they got criticized for barely releasing a song but they are fast guys. I suppressed a bitter smile.

“Thank you but a mistake is a mistake anyway. It’s my fault. “I guess I let my guard down.”

“…How can someone from Mundaemun University always feel nervous?”

Big Sejin put his arm around his shoulder and muttered quickly.

“are you okay! Recorded by someone who hasn’t even debuted yet?

“Let’s talk right away…”

“Then!” “Let me… tell you!”

what?

Suddenly Seon Ah-hyun who had been listening quietly clenched her fist.

“That kid… was mean to me but if you tell people that he’s bullying you too…”

“Ahyeon??”

“Ahyun that’s not it!”

The living room suddenly became noisy. And I agree with this response.

‘If you bring up a sensitive issue such as school violence even though there is no evidence… ’

If you criticize it wouldn’t it just become a muddy fight without benefit to Sun Ah-hyun? It’s not for nothing that I didn’t explode it when Azusa was killed.

“Seon Ah-hyun it would be better to just get rid of my informal language and shoot Chae Seo-dam as a recorder.”

Bae Se-jin helps.

“okay! “Park Moon-dae’s informal language is better!”

hey.

“All you have to do is tell that crazy guy to make an excuse! “Otherwise…”

“sudden?”

"…Anyway you just have to make it clear that it's okay to listen to informal language."

Bae Se-jin cringed in response to Ryu Cheong-woo's question not knowing the details of the situation. Did you think you shouldn't say more than that since you're not the party involved?

'I guess they were talking about threatening to release any evidence… or just reporting it.'

Well that was one of the ways.

And Liu Chengwu began to calm the mood.

"okay. In any case if you haven't been able to say anything because you've been going through a hard time don't worry too much…"

"Ah the work is done."

"work?"

"I recorded it too."

"…??"

I lifted my smartphone and showed it. It is a recording file.

"I've been doing it for some reason ever since I made it informal."

If nothing happens there's no problem if you delete it right away. No matter what you do there is no loss in saving.

And the reaction from all sides was 'I knew it would happen'…No I knew it would happen?

"After all it's Mundaemun University."

"and…"

Yeah that's good.

"We have already discussed everything with the company."

So the moment I was about to say that there is no need to worry about distortion or wrong responses.

Sun Ah-hyun raised her hand again.

"I have… too."

"…!!"

"Recording?"

"Oh no."

Sun Ah-hyun raised her head and spoke firmly in a trembling voice.

"I have a record of counseling from that time Mundae…!"

"…!"

"Of course I quit right away… but if I find it I'm sure there will be data left."

Sun Ah-hyun finished her sentence clearly.

"I want to write if it helps you."…

…With those words just now there are two ways to handle this matter.

How to quietly let Chae Seo-dam disappear from the industry.

And the other one is… a way to relieve your heartache.

'Let's do the latter.'

okay.

Only then will the profit margin be calculated correctly.

I called the last worker in the early morning after the meeting ended that day.

-Have you made up your mind?

“okay.”

Since he was overseas I received it right away.

“Please cooperate.”

Chapter 293

The recent schedule for the group whose group name has not yet been decided – <Azusa> Season 5 debut group was quite busy.

This is because at the same time as preparing for his debut he was also carrying out the schedule of the winner of the audition program including interviews for advertisements.

Although the popularity was not comparable to the status of Testa in the previous men's season it was still enough to excite the hearts of those involved.

And there were also members who felt a sense of victory for other reasons.

'Can't you even contact me? 'Fuck that's funny.'

Chae Seo-dam checked a contact on her smartphone that was unresponsive.

[Mundae senior]

It was a number I found out by coaxing the manager who was previously in charge of Testa. It would have been easy to just say 'Brother brother' and let the bastard fly.

'Even if you catch Gao at that level it's still that way.'

Chae Seo-dam guessed that Park Moon-dae was also of a similar type.

It was shameful to see a misfit who couldn't even speak in school come out loud because he was so drunk that he had become a popular idol.

'What's wrong with you lucky bastard?'

From what I heard he seemed like he was really looking after him but in the end there was nothing more to it than just pretending to be there.

Even now Chae Seo-dam himself secretly brings up Park Moon-dae every time he does a related interview or shoot but doesn't he get any response?

He was clearly scared.

'I thought I would do it because I was angry but look at how I couldn't do it because I was scared.'

Then in his head it was obvious that he was glorifying himself as a cartoon character or something. Aren't there one or two people in every class who fail?

'Where are you introducing yourself?'

It's just funny that someone who has succeeded just because of timing and intelligence can abuse someone like him who has worked so hard to live his life.

Chae Seo-dam personally showed respect to herself for cleverly overcoming the situation by practicing with her feet broken and using any means possible.

I let my guard down for a moment and slipped but that was the end of it.

'I won't do it like that anymore.'

After using Park Moon University to its limits and benefiting from its recognition and image there were still more exciting plans left.

The moment he encounters Park Moon-dae again he can't hold back and directly causes him to explode. Because eliciting reactions from others was his specialty.

'If possible it would be better if you tell the company as well.'

If the company tried to cover it up that was a good situation. Then gather it and use it as a weakness again.

‘If anything happens I can use it as evidence that I was bullied and get away with it.’

In this case the reversal of the image killed two birds with one stone.

‘An idol who continuously harasses his juniors using the excuse of a recording that was already deleted on the spot!’

“ah.”

Just thinking about the situation being overturned seemed plausible so Chae Seo-dam felt satisfied.

And for a moment he thought about Cheongryeo another person involved in the recording whom he had not thought about because he was too excited at the time.

Of course now he was rationalizing that it was all his own calculation.

There was no way that person could have made any kind of gesture.

‘Is it all like that?’

Chae Seo-dam was sure that Park Moon-dae was glad that he was in trouble because there was no harm to him. Haha even if you do it aren’t you competitors?

I found out that he was an idol who did well as soon as he debuted but I fully expected how childish his personality would be.

‘Instead you could contact me to make a deal.’

He was polite enough in that situation so there would be no need for his feelings to be hurt.

Perhaps Park Moon-dae’s weakness was waiting to be revealed.

“Hmm~”

Chae Seo-dam thought of this snowball-like logic that followed naturally and threw away the anxiety of the past few days.

‘You made a bold plan well.’

The arrogance that had consistently held him back in life grew again.

And this optimism was shattered a few days later when I met someone in the company hallway.

His classmate Sun Ah-hyun who is now a senior.

“Hello senior!”

“hello…!”

Sun Ah-hyun who was walking in the opposite direction was looking at her with her head held high unlike when she was in school. A guy like that has to be treated like a senior because his seniority is behind him.

Chae Seo-dam felt bad for a moment.

‘If ‘Azusa’ hadn’t done well I wouldn’t have had a social life.’

It always made me feel the bitter taste of absurdity when people like that talked about themselves as if they were more successful than me.

“But what are you going to do?”

Isn’t there nothing you can do other than campaigning as a senior? That is if you care about the social position you barely created.

And as for Chae Seo-dam Sun Ah-hyun’s campaign… honestly I wasn’t even tickled.

“I have something to say to Mr. Seo Dam is it okay for a moment?”

“Oh yes! Seodam hyung!”

Although it was a bit annoying that he was trying not to stutter he internally laughed at Seon Ah-hyun’s behavior of calling him out.

The tape recorder is still running.

‘There will be one more weakness.’

However as soon as Chae Seo-dam enters the corner conference room he is hit by a direct ball from Sun Ah-hyeon.

“I’m thinking a lot… should I tell the truth that you bullied me?”

“…!”

What are you revealing?

Chae Seo-dam momentarily wondered if this was reality.

However Sun Ah-hyun’s words were not over.

“Seodam I have a recording.”

“…!”

“I was so scared of you… I thought maybe I was strange so I recorded it to listen to it again and try to understand… for a while.”

“…”

“And there are still some left.”

Chae Seo-dam felt a cool sensation running down her spine.

It was a survival instinct felt in the face of crisis.

‘Oh no.’

Chae Seo-dam barely denied reality. And I rationalized it thinking it was rational.

Similar to what we have been doing so far but a little stronger.

‘Even if I say that it won’t explode?’

If it explodes wouldn’t it be a loss to yourself? He’s such a popular idol right now.

When you’re barely in school it’s hard to complain about school violence just because you’re in a bad mood and messed up your practical skills. At least he thought so.

‘And what did you record?’

In his opinion no matter how much he thought about it he had never verbally abused or hit someone to the point where he could be blamed.

That’s just to scare you.

‘but… ’

But just in case… Okay just in case.

After finishing rationalizing Chae Seo-dam opened her mouth in a regretful tone.

“Ahyeon… do you hate me that much?”

“…”

“There was some friction when we were in school… but not to the point like this. Are you saying… that I was pushed out of the top spot? “I’m so embarrassed.”

If you were expecting a picture of you making excuses and being embarrassed you would be mistaken.

“I feel ashamed because I think it’s because I think it’s fun because I have a bad image…”

He was conscious of his tape recorder and worked hard to produce evidence…

“Seodam.”

However Sun Ah-hyeon did not move a single inch.

“That doesn’t work anymore.”

“…!!”

“I really want to make it public. “I came to let you know because I thought it would be my final decision to tell you in advance.”

“…”

“Then I’ll go in.”

Sun Ah-hyun slightly lowered her head and left the conference room first with a stern expression.

And Chae Seo-dam’s mind went blank.

* * *

‘There’s no way it exploded.’

Chae Seo-dam lay on the bed in her dorm and thought to herself.

He may have just said it out of interest in his position and wanted to threaten him.

‘I’ve seen that bastard somewhere.’

…But on the other hand I keep imagining what kind of ramifications

there would be if Sun Ah-hyun released the recording.

Eventually as time goes by these thoughts come to mind.

'…Do you apologize now?'

No an apology is an acknowledgment! He could never apologize… He didn't do anything wrong to deserve an apology in the first place right?

I was sick of being treated like a huge victim for encouraging the mentally weak person to collapse on their own.

"Fuck…"

Everything was uncertain as to what would happen. However the moment you make the gesture it becomes numb.

'Ignore it and go?'

But I felt uncomfortable. My thoughts endlessly return to the starting point…

After such an anxious and crazy long few days.

There has finally been a change.

"Seodam um… the management manager at the company wants to see you."

"…yes."

Fuck you! Fuck you!

Chae Seo-dam had a hunch. Looking at the manager's expression I don't think it's a good thing.

This is what Sun Ah-hyun did.

“…!”

yes!

At that moment an incredible idea passed through Chae Seo-dam’s mind.

If Park Moon-dae finds evidence that he harassed her first wouldn’t he be able to make a deal with the company if Sun Ah-hyun exposes it?

As he went to the management office at the end of the hallway under the guidance of his manager he continued to do calculations in his head.

‘If I send a text message right now and try to scratch it… ’

Sweet.

However after checking whether or not a recorder was in possession when the door to the consultation room in the management office was opened.

“You’re here.”

Sitting there… was the completely unexpected Inyoung.

Moon-Dae Park.

“…!”

What kind of situation is this?

Park Mun-dae who was sitting in the position where the director should be glanced at Chae Seo-dam indifferently and then gestured.

“Please sit down.”

“…”

“Oh I’m the assistant manager.”

Tuk.

Park Moon-dae who was quietly muttering something nonsensical glanced at the door being closed by the manager.

And then he laughed.

“Let’s talk.”

…Only then did Chae Seo-dam recall the suspicions she had forgotten about looking down on Park Moon-dae.

The reason why he tried to spy on Park Moon-dae.

revenge.

-Lucky bastard.

After Park Moon-dae’s remarks he wondered if all the incidents and revelations that had happened to him were the actions of Park Moon-dae.

* * *

I raised my head and checked who came in through the door.

Chae Seo-dam’s face looks like she’s seen some kind of ghost.

‘Good.’

The more distracted I was the easier it was to eat. It will be easier for someone who is already easy.

I said to the guy who was still standing.

“Aren’t you going to sit down?”

“…”

“It doesn’t matter… Then we’ll just talk.”

I continued monotonously.

“I heard there was a report regarding school violence…”

“It’s all your doing right?”

“What is it?”

“…”

But instead of answering this bastard’s expression changed as if he realized something.

And only then pull out the chair and sit there.

‘oh.’

The guy said with a twinkle in his eye.

“I think you’re mistaken… I don’t care if something happens and I have to stop doing this senior. “I’ve already been criticized enough… There’s no one way right?”

“…”

“okay. I’m just going to quit being an idol so I’m going to tell everyone and leave. uh? “The senior group worked together and even the company put pressure on people to create the rumor.”

Well that’s a typical reaction.

‘We’re cornered so let’s all die together. ‘I will self-destruct’.

‘In an emergency you can go back to your major industry. Is this it?’

You may have guessed that this bastard has a head but from Testa's perspective I will suffer a loss no matter which side Sun Ah-hyun explodes in the matter.

'I continued to be cautious to avoid that.'

So I guess they thought that if they did this the threats would go away and they would enter the negotiation stage.

"I see."

It's a shame but it's useless.

There is no negotiation with you.

"But do you plan to study abroad when you quit being an idol?"

"What are you saying…"

"I think it will be difficult to live in Korea right now."

I rested my chin and spoke without even looking at Chae Seo-dam.

"I will somehow expose all the facts and create such a bad story that you will no longer be able to live socially in Korea."

"…!"

"I don't mind either. Whether it explodes or not. "That doesn't mean Testa will fail."

I shrugged.

"I told you idiot that all discussions between officials have ended since you started talking about recording and such nonsense."

How to drive this bastard into a state of panic where he loses all credibility.

This is a sincere bluff.

Chapter 294

It was important from here.

‘Push in.’

I took my smartphone out of my pocket and placed it clearly on the desk.

And just like this guy did to me last time I played the recording file.

-Are you aiming for the target?

-Is that true for all singers?

A sound source with much clearer sound quality than what Chae Seo-dam recorded.

I recorded it.

“They’re not the only ones who can record.”

I stopped playing and chuckled.

“Did you really think I was going to get angry and ask you not to reveal the truth just because I spoke informally with a senior?”

“…”

“Just go on a variety show right now and use it as proof of your friendship with that senior and that’s it.”

Chae Seo-dam seemed to be trying to understand what the situation was.

It may not be of much help to the situation but the desire to deny reality makes you reflexively look for something to refute.

‘Shall I wait?’

Only after a few more seconds had passed did he urgently open his mouth.

“A new song is out! They say it was all planned…”

Ah that.

“well. Did I do that? “I didn’t want to talk too long so I just skipped it… I guess it all depends on the situation.”

Without another word I used the smartphone again.

Go to your address book and make a call.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo]

The melody of the acoustic version of TiriRing VTIC’s new song plays as a phone call sound for a while… and then cuts off.

Sweet.

-Hello junior.

“Hello senior. “I’m talking about what we talked about in the waiting room last time. Would it be okay if I gave it as a source for entertainment?”

It was a little annoying to hear laughter over the phone but Cheongryeo answered anyway as planned.

-sure. That’s how I do it. Because I was the one who told you to stop talking.

“thank you.”

-What?

I hung up the phone.

“They say so.”

“…”

Now whatever you were gleeful about as a weakness has both disappeared.

The idiot in front of me seemed to have calmed down as if the momentum he had been fighting earlier had gone.

‘Even if my eyes turn upside down it won’t last long.’

He is a guy with a really strong desire to see himself.

I knew it was time to ratchet up the pressure a notch higher.

So we quickly changed the conversation.

“So I think this answers your question… Next is the report on school violence that I originally wanted to talk about.”

Now that I’ve covered my weaknesses let’s talk about yours.

I said it casually.

“Isn’t it neat for the victim to be interviewed by a reporter?”

“…!!”

“I think it would be a good social message to do this officially and since there is enough evidence I think everyone will believe it.”

evidence.

I'm going to make a recording because the conversation I had with Sun Ah-hyun is flashing through this bastard's head right now.

I finished my sentence.

"I thought it would just fall flat if we added the context that they were trying to exploit other people's weaknesses while recording. I'm going to proceed right away. end."

I picked up my smartphone again and cleaned up my place. It is a gesture indicating that everything to be said is finished.

"…that!"

Chae Seo-dam woke up in shock as if she had been bombed.

"Now wait a minute. "Why is this… why is this?"

So why are you asking me why I keep talking about this to a guy like you? Thank you.

I smiled faintly and answered.

"Give up."

"…"

"Since it was decided to just resolve everything I think we should notify the parties involved. Now all we have to do is wait."

It was a notification.

"…"

Chae Seo-dam froze in her seat.

It's a normal reaction. At this point the average person is overwhelmed.

The other party has no will to negotiate all your preparations have been ruined and you even have a warning that they will now fatally attack your weakness.

Right now it feels like I'm cornered with no way out.

Regret and disbelief.

And this bastard with an oversized ego comes up with a different result in his head.

"Why on earth are you doing this to me?"

It's someone else's fault.

"I didn't do anything wrong to you! This happens because he and Sun Ah-hyun had a bad relationship when they were in school… Does this make sense? Seriously… why are you doing this?"

Chae Seo-dam started talking gibberish.

"You can't just trust what Sun Ah-hyun says and make people like this! To bury it unilaterally like this…"

"I see."

I said carelessly.

"What you did to Sun Ah-hyun is something anyone would do in that environment and what you did to someone else is cowardly and unfair?"

"…"

"When you did that to Sun Ah-hyun you knew how much damage it would cause to the other person. "It's the same when you record me."

Chae Seo-dam looked like she had been hit.

These bastards say they have to suffer like shit to show any remorse.

“If it were me I wouldn’t say that out of embarrassment. “Isn’t it better to accept the outcome?”

Of course I said this knowing that I was not the type of person to give in.

“No not even Seon Ah-hyun! “If a story like this comes out it will cause damage…”

Yes if you were someone who would reflect on something like this you wouldn’t have come this far.

I shrugged.

“He said he would do it himself but should I even think about that? “What do you know?”

“…!!”

“It’s not like I’m going to fail.”

Chae Seo-dam closed her mouth.

When you get to this point you can’t help but think about this.

‘This guy is really crazy.’

‘I’m planning to punish the real fucking members by letting go of everything regardless of whether it’s a group or a hit.’

…is something that will come to you desperately.

In addition he is probably using his imagination as much as he can to raise the level of himself and create hell.

‘That bastard is preparing for my social death!’

hmm.

Of course it's false.

I'm not stupid and I certainly have no intention of raising this issue to the surface.

'It's just a threat.'

"You are responsible for your own affairs. Isn't it? "They say there is evidence."

"Oh no…"

Same goes for this.

We realized through discussion among ourselves that Sun Ah-hyun had recorded the situation. However it is difficult to identify Chae Seo-dam in that file due to sound quality issues.

All that remains are the counseling records that Sun Ah-hyun first mentioned but there is a high possibility that this will lead to a dog fight as all kinds of public opinion attaches to it.

All that aside I have no intention of bringing up elements of personal life other than activities in this group that has already had a lot of events.

But Chae Seo-dam doesn't know that.

"…"

He was completely caught up in this huge bluff and sank.

And he seems to have lost his will to fight and is in such a panic that he can't even think about crying or getting angry.

'I'd like to leave it like this for a week but…

In the meantime variables may pop up again so let's give it something that looks like a rope.

I touched my smartphone once under the table.

It was time for the last helper to appear.

A few seconds later.

-Knock knock!

At the same time as there was a hasty knock the door burst open.

"Tongue brothers."

It's gold 2.

The guy's expression was somewhere between urgent and tense.

"…Kwon Hee-seung."

Even though Chae Seo-dam was tired he turned his head and looked at the guy as if he was writing all kinds of scenarios.

However the moment Gold 2's next words came out the atmosphere changed.

"I came here after hearing the story at the meeting… Mr. Moon Dae anyway can you please bear with me until the official announcement is made?"

"…hmm."

I intentionally didn't answer. As if slightly conflicted.

"…!"

Then for a moment a sparkle returned to Chae Seo-dam's eyes.

It's hope.

"I'm sure Seo Dam is really reflecting on this a lot. "Isn't that right bro?"

Chae Seo-dam nodded as if he was sincere. And then he opens his mouth urgently.

"I'm sorry."

I realized it was a good time to do something.

"yes."

"I recorded it… so I could use it. I thought wrong. "I misunderstood…"

After taking a while I answered.

"I don't think I would have apologized if this situation hadn't happened. Anyway I understand."

"Because of the current situation Seodam hyung completely understood?? Tongue type. "Tell me what you understand."

You can see Chae Seo-dam shaking her head at Gold 2's words.

In the end he almost repeated what I said earlier.

"…You can't try to do well even if it causes great harm to others… I think that's the wrong effort."

'good.'

Finally this came out.

I don't know if the guy who has lived a life of breaking that obvious proposition is sincere when he says it but what he said out of his own mouth in a shocking situation was important.

Over time if you want to rationalize your actions as positive you will have to affirm that recognition as well.

And at the moment of silence Gold 2 stirs up the situation again.

“Think of something new Brother Mundae! If Seo Dam hyung leaves in such a bad way… things might get bigger than expected… then this year’s schedule might be difficult…”

“…”

I looked at Gold 2 in silence. Gold 2 looks at me with a face that looks like he’s about to break out in a cold sweat and swallows.

Gulp.

Only at the end did I shrug my shoulders.

“Well… if there is damage to the company there will be a lot of work.”

“…!”

I glanced at Seodam as if holding back a sigh then nodded.

“It’s just this one time.”

* * *

After that it was simple.

Chae Seo-dam who was relieved took advantage of Gold 2’s encouragement and quickly signed a contract and withdrew from the team.

‘The nuances of the contract were also important.’

Rather than keeping Chae Seo-dam a secret from the conversation they just had we made sure to keep Chae Seo-dam’s weaknesses quiet.

In exchange for burying Chae Seo-dam's attempt to spread rumors and talk about school violence the contract is that he will leave quietly and not cause any harm to the team.

And articles and announcements appeared quickly.

[〈Azusa〉 New season's 10th place Chae Seo-dam fails to debut "due to health issues"]

Anyway because of various incidents the debut group's fandom was hated and the reason was 'health' so this incident passed without any major problems or trouble.

And Gold 2 who came in at the end of the conversation and sucked in the honey was smiling.

As you may have noticed Geun Se-jin is the guy who lured Chae Seo-dam by giving him carrots while planning the game.

-Okay just swing the whip~ Let's just let Heeseung give him one bite of the carrot at the end!

I can't deny it. It was a good appointment.

"You're good at acting."

"Me? "It was completely sincere."

On that day as soon as Chae Seo-dam left the room Gold 2 took a long deep breath with an expression of relief.

"Whew… No how could he debut this time too… Ah I don't know! Anyway I'm really relieved that I let it go quietly before my debut!"

I have no intention of blaming him as it would be frustrating to have someone like a time bomb on the same team. I just laughed.

"Thank you for watching again. older brother!"

“There is nothing to be thankful for.”

“Brother A you are truly amazing to see again! “I will be really nice to you at any time!”

Gold 2 started sending hello texts more often after that.

And after a while another text message came in through the manager of the Azusa debut group.

The sender was Chae Seo-dam.

It was a long text and interestingly enough the person who asked to be the recipient was Sun Ah-hyun.

[I was being competitive thinking that everything was part of competition but I’m sorry that I hurt you more than I thought or intended. This time I really realized it painfully. There may be a problem with my methods…]

To summarize this rant it was that he seemed to have passed over Sun Ah-hyun during his school days.

Of course half of it was more of a self-excuse.

“…’More than intended’? Did you call this apple now? “I still can’t come to my senses…!”

“It’s okay…!”

Sun Ah-hyun stopped Bae Se-jin who was vicariously angry.

“I didn’t expect to receive an apology… I didn’t think so but the apology… I guess I wanted to receive it too.”

“Ahyun…”

“Thank you.”

Sun Ah-hyun nodded her head around and then made eye contact with me.

“And thank you Moon Dae… I tried to help you too but it seems like I get the help every time.”

“…?”

What are you talking about when you laid the ground rice well and sent it to Seodam?

Of course if I answered like this there would be endless empty talk so I just answered briefly.

“It was cooperation. “I was grateful too.”

“Ugh…!”

Sun Ah-hyeon smiled brightly and coolly took down the text capture of Chae Seo-dam.

“Oh!”

The members applaud as if they were watching a ceremony. Sun Ah-hyun seems a little embarrassed.

“hmm.”

I thought as I watched that apology-like thing disappear.

‘Anyway it looks like that bastard will forget that again and kick it.’

But it was planned with that in mind as well.

‘I guess I’ll just keep my mouth shut because I have the personality to avoid anything that comes at a disadvantage to me.’

And when he almost becomes

‘Still I handled it well and got out of that situation.’

It’s like this.

Therefore this guy will not be able to think about this problem again. Sun Ah-hyun will forget this guy.

‘I won’t ever see you again.’

It was completely swept away from the industry.

“…hmm.”

After thinking about it for a while I sent a text message that night.

[It ended well. Thank you]

Well it’s a simple fact that it helped me with this so it’s worth it.

Tiring.

Not long after a photo of a familiar dog with its front paws raised arrived.

Greetings?

“…hmm.”

I touched my chin.

Surprisingly it doesn’t scratch. This kid also slowly came to his senses…

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: Really? Then I would like to receive a song in return.]

“…”

Are you crazy?

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: I'm just kidding^^]

I turned off the text without replying.

After sending Chae Seo-dam away with that the entire impact was resolved.

And at the meeting the very next day it is revealed that if Chae Seo-dam had not been sent away at this time they would have worked together.

"A more detailed schedule has been released regarding the agency's concert agenda…"

This is because there was talk about a group concert schedule for artists belonging to the symbol of a successful agency.

Chapter 295

Agency group concert.

It is usually an event that can be held by a company that has at least one well-known male and female idol group as well as promising rookies.

In that sense you might think that this agency which has three teams from Azusa has met the minimum requirements… but you're mistaken.

I frowned as I checked the plan I brought with me on the way home.

'I don't think anyone will like it.'

Isn't there a unique color to this hastily created agency even if you look for it?

This is what is commonly referred to as 'the unique feel of that agency.'

'There must be a common demand between teams to ensure audience satisfaction.'

I just don't know what kind of guts the group that won the audition program or the agency that received the money for has the guts to even plan their own concert.

Of course I can roughly guess the purpose.

"Hmm I guess they're trying to give a boost to the newly debuted kids?"

Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders and said.

“Look I even gave those friends a song to cover a few of our songs. Our season song ‘Azusa’ is also in the draft.”

“Hmm.”

And Bae Se-jin who was drinking water in the kitchen spoke with a slightly nervous expression.

“…Isn’t this an attempt at generational change?”

“Generation change?”

“Why because we don’t even have much left on our contract… There’s something about encouraging fans to like new groups!”

“that…! Are you misjudging that this group’s potential has already been exhausted?”

Kim Rae-bin is surprised because it sounds plausible. Bae Se-jin nodded seriously.

“…That could happen.”

Me indeed.

‘Did I see this on WeTube somewhere?’

After watching so many KPOP related channels I seem to have gained some vague knowledge.

I chuckled and shook my head.

“Probably not. “I think they’re just trying to add some buzz to the group.”

“Is that so?”

“yes. Since the previous season wasn’t as good as ours I think they’re trying to make some gains. “Don’t worry too much.”

We have managed to build up a friendly relationship but it would be too wasteful for the company to give up Testa here.

'I'm sure they're thinking we'll renew our contract.'

It will only end up taking away the benefits that come with being in the Testa weight class.

'There is no great merit in going after the goose that lays the golden eggs.'

Big Sejin also readily agreed.

"I agree! Still it's good to be alert~ Well I think what you said is also a good direction."

"…okay."

"That's a great thing to say."

Bae Se-jin and Kim Rae-bin quickly discarded the conspiracy theory. And Cha Yu-jin intervenes.

"So when are we doing that? Are you doing it quickly?"

"Let's see… in 25 days?"

Ryu Cheong-woo pointed to the 'Completion of rental in August' section of the plan. I paid more attention to other parts.

'It's smaller than I thought.'

The Jamsil Indoor Gymnasium can accommodate 1000 people.

At least 'Testa + Mirinae + Rookie? 'Let's go to the stadium!' The point is that they didn't figure out the demand by calculating the number of stupid fans.

This is an insight into the industry that cannot be expected from the head of this agency.

‘Head office intervened.’

It seems like T1’s breath got into it.

Seeing that this concert itself was aired on Tnet in the first place it seemed like T1 was pushing it and the agency was rushing it.

‘TaKon’s response was so good that I guess I want to do another similar one.’

It seems like it will get some criticism from fans… but Testa will hardly lose anything.

‘If part of the concert stage is broadcast it will have a promotional effect.’

It is the latter part of the contract so if there are no problems in the future now is the time to go without any friction with T1 so I think we can continue to accept this without a boycott.

“I only need to prepare five songs in total.”

I chuckled and tapped the plan.

‘Let’s get some buzz.’

However you have to take responsibility for what kind of topic it means.

Two male idol groups of similar age from the same audition series… even singing the same song?

The comparisons will be crazy.

And there is no pressure on us.

“Well about three and a half weeks. “It’s too late.”

“It’s similar to the theme of the last concert so I don’t think there will be any problem~”

“I would like to inquire about the details of whether separate arrangement work is necessary.”

I brought up the status window of one of the guys talking hard right now.

[Name: Raebin Kim]

Lab: A+ (S+)

(Singing: C+)

Dance: B+ (A+)

Appearance: A- (A+)

Talent: A (S)

Attribute: Maestro (S)

If you catch anyone from this group they’ll come out roughly like that.

There are even a lot of people whose stats have increased by at least 3 points compared to Azusa.

‘Meanwhile Kim Rae-bin rose to the characteristic level.’

It may be natural that we volunteer to work on short-term projects for each album.

The weakest one was Bae Se-jin but even he seemed to have learned some strange tricks these days.

-All you had to do was memorize the entire movement along with the lyrics…!

-…??

The guy who was used to the basic dance routine used this trick to focus on reproducing movements rather than dancing with a rhythm making the group dance much more believable.

‘Isn’t that harder?’

Well I’m more comfortable with it.

In any case the important thing is that opinions criticizing Testa as a stage are now rarely seen on the Internet.

‘The difficulty of covering is extremely high.’

They must have already been impressed by the example of Onyx who changed the song and performed at the time of the Rookie of the Year Award and came to a conclusion based on the image on the Internet.

Moreover this time they unilaterally cover us.

The moment there is a difference between the basic stats and the amount of practice the result is already fixed.

So it’s even weirder to worry about fandom being leaked because of something like this.

‘You just have to worry about how you treat your juniors.’

On the contrary what I am worried about is this stage that was put in for the purpose of matching the assortment. At that moment Liu Chengyu touched it with his hand.

Joint stage (undetermined) / 2 people per team

“And among the five there is one joint stage.”

“yes.”

It is a joint stage where some of our members go on stage with our juniors.

Excluding the tacky composition of everyone singing a national song at the end this is the first and last time Testa and his junior go on stage together.

'It looks like there's going to be some noise coming from the front.'

At that time Cha Yu-jin raises her hand again.

"I want to do it! "I'm doing a joint stage!"

"haha."

I thought so.

None of the members responded positively despite Cha Yu-jin's active support. If the atmosphere here goes okay the real Cha Yu-jin will do it.

'I think it would be a bit harsh to send Cha Yu-jin out.'

It doesn't matter to us it's a matter of public opinion.

It's like sending out a strategic weapon in a friendly match.

I decided to put this on hold for now since there was something worth thinking about further.

And soon after the first group meeting and practice schedule revealed that this concern was a cause for concern.

"Here's the new setlist."

I arrived earlier than scheduled and in the paper I received the joint stage part had changed.

Joint stage (TBD) / Testa 2 people Mirinae 2 people

‘These bastards are missing.’

〈Azusa〉 This debut group was omitted from the joint stage list.

Sayu begged saying ‘I need to prepare for my debut but the new stage I have to prepare for is too much.’

“If it’s okay with you I’m going to provide a space for these friends at the end of this stage in the form of a story that naturally leads to the next stage.”

The director’s explanation was plausible but it is a very strategic decision to see it as a decision made by a rookie group.

The excuse was good… but the timing was perfect.

“hmm.”

…It’s quite an interesting situation.

I guess I’ll just have to get over it for now and deal with what’s at hand right now.

I started revising the plan for this joint performance while the director was away on another call.

It wasn’t long before I arrived at a full sprint.

bang!

“hello!”

It’s not too late but it looks like they’re also busy preparing for their comeback. After some greetings and preparation staff moving around Liu Chengwu kindly explained.

“It is said that there has been some change in the pre-planning document. “I heard that we will be doing a joint performance.”

“Ah yes.”

2nd place So… Park Min-ha said with an empty face.

“Plan… We didn’t receive anything like that senior…”

Due to the fate of a group with less space Mirinae seems to have just received one-sided notification and participated.

‘No it’s not a matter of time but is Testa a special case?’

I took the lead due to a series of events but it’s usually a good time to listen to what the company says even if it’s been 4 years.

‘hmm.’

Keun Se-jin quickly intervened and brightened the mood.

“Oh is that initial plan important? What’s important now is that we create a great stage! Please take care of me～”

“yep. That is absolutely true. I will work hard no matter what. i look forward to!”

Cha Yu-jin brightly extends her hand for a handshake.

“Yeees! Please join us on stage as well…”

“for a moment.”

Without changing my facial expression I calmly pulled Cha Yu-jin’s shoulder.

“Eujin it’s not ‘together.’”

“…??”

“Oh that’s right… I’m not on stage with you.”

Cha Yu-jin became somewhat sullen and withdrew her hand.

That's right. Cha Yu-jin was just pulled out of the joint stage due to an emergency meeting.

-What? I'm good!

-Yes I know you are good at it. So let's do a bigger stage at our concert.

-What's bigger?

-therefore…

…Let me just say that I used a lot of carrots. And the reason I went this far is for a different reason than what I initially considered.

'This guy is too friendly so I can't do it.'

At the same time there is no hesitation. I will perform pictures that fit the stage without hesitation so if I do something harsh I will cross the line that fans can easily tolerate.

'There are a lot of things to consider when it comes to one-on-one male and female idol group performance so it would be difficult.'

In a situation like this it is safest for only those who know how to use their brains in this area to do it.

So there is only one correct answer.

"It's… Rush!"

"Yes yes~"

Big Sejin smiled and put his arm around me.

"I think the joint stage will be like this with Mundae and I. Thank you for your support!"

So it happened.

If you do this even in the worst case you'll just be told it's ridiculous because it doesn't suit you.

"Oh I see! Is it okay if I actively express that opinion?? "I hope we can do something cool!"

"Yulgi yaaaak."

"Huh why? "Am I a little strange??"

The members around Mirinae bow their heads and cling to Mirinae's first-ranked remarks while making strange noises.

Second place quietly nodded with an expression of giving up on everything.

"yes. "We are me and Yulgi."

1st and 2nd place competed side by side.

It means that we won't lose momentum… It's probably the appointment made by that second-ranked person.

'Did you guess that Testa would try to win regardless of whether it was mixed or mixed?'

Is it because we all came from auditions? This was also a unique situation.

If things continue like this they could keep each other in check like a team battle on an audition program but then there will inevitably be noise in the process.

"Wow that's reassuring~ Let's do our best!"

Moreover the guy who would normally have said things like 'Let's create a slogan and open a group room' showed a rough idea of how it would work because he just wanted to do his job.

‘If we were to pick someone with good quality here… ’

So is this all?

Of the stage concept candidates I had planned I naturally left only one and excluded the rest.

And I ran the simulation in my head a few times to make the meeting flow as naturally as possible.

* * *

After the director returns and some important announcements and discussions have taken place.

Additional meetings were held separately for members preparing for the joint stage.

First of all let’s discuss something that cannot be easily changed in the future… the stage set.

‘also.’

In addition as this joint stage is added to each group’s existing stages the devices used on the front and back stages are already occupied.

“Director you said it’s best not to overlap like this right?”

“Yes yes.”

hmm.

Then first of all the wire comes off. Also the pollen lift is used at the back stage so it is excluded.

“Water must be difficult too. “The next stage is our title so it would be a bit unfair to compare it too directly right?”

“Yes yes.”

Keun Se-jin naturally erases everything that Testa tried to use on the main stage. Good job.

However Mirinae’s first place seemed a bit frustrating.

“How about we pick a song first like we usually do? “Right now I’m only saying things that don’t work so cheer up!”

“Oh sister!”

“That’s right.”

Well said.

“What do you want to do?”

“ah! First of all I also like hip-hop…”

I just waited for Mirina to tell me how many songs she wanted.

Until you get excited and all kinds of candidates come to mind.

‘If you look at my personality I’m the type of person who wants to learn a lot.’

And I’m sure as I talk about it the songs I was considering will pop up.

“If you look at it that way ‘Attack’ is also…”

Yes it came out.

This way it will feel like you chose the song.

After pausing a little longer I gave a signal to Geun Se-jin and intervened.

“Now that I think about it you said earlier that you wanted to do something cool.”

“yes yes!”

“Then about that song you just mentioned… what do you think of this concept?”

I wrote lines and letters on the paper.

Concept Expected Effect Arrangement Direction…

Just enough brainstorming to make it look like you came up with it on the spot.

“It feels like this.”

As I wrote it down I became interested and it became more spontaneous and natural.

I slapped the paper once and looked up.

The first place in Mirinae’s eyes were sparkling.

It worked.

“I like it!”

“Me too… no yes. “I think you gave me a really good opinion!”

good. It may have been a bit mixed up in social life but it seems sincere.

Then here is the time for the next build-up.

“Ah everyone’s feelings are in this direction. So the stage elements are easy too? “I think this would be perfect!”

After hearing the two's words Keun Se-jin naturally pointed to one of the remaining stage sets with his finger.

-Laser

In this way the painting was completed steadily without wasting time due to checks.

Chapter 296

On the day that the notice and reservation schedule for the agency's concert was announced a joint performance practice schedule was also scheduled.

Thanks to you I saw some reactions at the end of practice.

To summarize… it's as expected.

-Wow this looks like a lot of fun. When is the live broadcast?

-T1 really gives a lot of support to those from Azusa. What's going on with the TV programming?;;

-You probably don't mistakenly think that the kids are doing well because they're doing well. Oh please.

-Azusa's debut group is really on the rise lol Stop it. When will it be since our kids defected? Oh it's annoying.

-The joy of having a concert broadcast on TV vs. the frustration of being criticized

A whirlpool of anticipation worry irritation and interest.

I can't help it. The TV broadcast of an agency's concert is a unique case and has both anxiety and expectation factors.

Moreover since there are three teams from audition programs their popularity is good.

As it is easily accessible thanks to the Tnet channel programming those who are interested can watch it just by changing the channel.

It is also rare to find someone who likes all three teams of this agency.

‘So there’s only one thing that’s certain.’

Of the three teams from Azusa the team that is in the worst situation can be destroyed by all-round ridicule.

Fans don’t have any pride or love for their agency so they never cover for each other.

‘Then you end up feeling resentful and tired.’

There was no need to pour more oil into it so the joint stage with Mirinae was the same.

In addition to being mixed there is one more factor to consider.

‘We had to avoid stages that allowed for direct comparison.’

And the stage was already set that way.

…I didn’t know it would get this intense.

-Here and here! Don’t you think it would be really cool if we just did this step when landing?

-If you don’t mind I was thinking about adding more of the frieze at the end of our first refrain…!

-Ah～ Shall we all take a look here? Even now we’re really good at it but wouldn’t it look ten times cooler if our heights were aligned exactly when entering the bridge? Clean and neat～

Since the other side is also very greedy for the stage the level of difficulty increases as everyone rushes to avoid losing.

In the end my stamina consumption went all the way up the escalator.

‘Are you really going to dance this time?’

I was conflicted as I looked at the remaining points but I was conscious that I could no longer level up using the system so I didn't take any more.

The moment of natural increase will surely come. My current stats are enough for this.

"Shall we take another breath?"

"…!"

So in the end the conclusion is that people are rolling around as if they have some kind of courage to create a special stage that they expect will be just a show.

I acknowledged it after checking what my teammate was like.

'I think it would be okay to reveal the behind-the-scenes practice at this level.'

There are so many dancers in this situation both men and women that it is no different from self-denial training. I wiped my sweaty temples.

'But the picture will come out well.'

"Oh~ It fits well here now."

"I'm really proud of my blood!"

I hope that my agency doesn't end up in vain after seeing the performance.

"Shall we finish it today?"

"yes!"

I shrugged my shoulders and resumed practicing without saying anything.

And the remaining free time passed quickly.

* * *

The backstage is filled with cheers from the audience and the sound of music.

‘You have to do well.’

Park Min-ha who debuted as the second unofficial leader of Mirinae swallowed her saliva.

The performance is fun. However the ‘if you don’t do it it’s over’ performance was a problem right up until the start.

This is because an enormous burden hits my brain so much that my eyes spin.

‘Woohwang Cheongsimhwan… I really wouldn’t have done anything if I didn’t have it.’

What are other people doing? She suddenly looked to her side.

The one there was Park Moon-dae leaving his face to the staff.

Sweat was inadvertently dripping from his tall white face. He pointed to his waist with his finger.

“here. “The microphone has fallen off.”

“yes yes!”

‘and… ’

Park Min-ha was about to admire it for a moment but immediately came to his senses.

He certainly had a handsome face but there was too much I had seen and heard so far to be excited.

It's still playing in surround in my head.

-Have you ever heard about America at work recently?

-The one who suffered was not ranked high. I guess I wasn't the type to have many friends.

Every time we talked about an incident whether it was Testa-related or not it felt like we were talking to some kind of ghost.

'How long did you know…?'

A strategic human being whose actions are difficult to guess by looking at the picture.

'How on earth can people live like that when they grow up?'

While watching the re-release season of Azusa thinking back to how she thought Park Moon-dae was cute Park Min-ha felt like slamming her head into the wall.

That's not me from the past!

At that time a pleasant voice was heard right next to me.

"Let's go up~"

"…! yes!"

Park Min-ha immediately returned to reality after hearing Lee Se-jin's words.

'stage!'

Meanwhile Lee Se-jin who was smiling made a hand gesture and started running while talking to Park Moon-dae.

"…"

Honestly I was scared of that senior too. Park Min-ha recalled past practice.

'When I came to my senses I was doing as the teacher said… '

Looking back now it occurred to me that even the elements that seemed like they had been discussed together were actually involved.

Are all auditionees like that? Then why is everyone in our group so naive?…

"phew."

"Minha let's go!!"

"Yes yes."

Park Min-ha trudged along to the tempo of Jeong Yul-gi who moved excitedly while pushing his back. I had a lot of worries.

But right behind the scenes.

Wow!

"…"

The smell of dry ice. The smell of metal on the stage frame. The feel of the costumes and lenses.

The air on stage had the power to awaken people.

So Park Min-ha also thought.

'Still I'm confident on stage.'

I could do well.

'I won't be pushed.'

When I turned my head I saw the faces of three people who were clearly thinking the same thing.

The countdown ended there.

“1!”

That’s how the four people’s stage began.

First of all what filled the venue was a vast bass of electronic sound derived from the sound of a piano.

The accompaniment melody was a song the audience was familiar with.

‘It’s Attack.’

It was a powerful OST from the action movie series that hit theaters in the second half of last year sung by a mixed band.

-Woa-Woah Woa-Woah…

And it was not uncommon for KPOP idols to cover famous pop songs on days when they had a special mixed performance.

It may sound a little strange but it was because there was less resistance than when performing a mixed stage with an idol song.

Maybe it’s because the feeling of ‘performance’ is strengthened thanks to the distance that comes from differences in language and sensibility.

So the audience gave a neutral response to the idea that it was a ‘possible choice.’

Until just before the singer appeared.

Hwiik.

The first to come on stage were a group of dancers.

Dancers wearing strange neutral-colored clothes that cover their entire bodies perform group dances based on repetitive movements.

‘oh.’

It’s grand at first. However repeating short routines throughout the interlude gradually becomes tiresome.

Even the lighting was monotonous.

-Is it cool…?

-??

-What are you trying to do?

The moment in Jeonju when people became familiar with everything in just 15 seconds.

Cheeeeeeeee-

Suddenly with a cool tearing sound the black flock stops.

And in the middle of it all four clearly visible people stepped out in a line quickly and without hesitation as if they had been trained.

Pinpoint lighting follows.

The outfit worn was a stylish jumpsuit with a loose silver rider jacket.

Behind them the black crowd was staring at them.

Tuk.

At the front of the stage. The four of them threw something black on their shoulders to the side and stood with their chins raised and a firm posture.

[Ooh]

And the song with a big sense of space comes back like a rush.

This time all the colors and accompaniment at once.

[Sometimes it doesn't matter]

Amid colorful lights and electronic sounds Park Moon-dae's well-spoken vocals come into the song.

Behind the large and powerful choreographic movements that break apart dancers are as black as shadows.

[if the world comes to an end]

[or not.]

They formed a formation and mixed men and women according to body balance but there was no pair choreography.

Instead the parts which were distributed considering only the tone of voice and the line of the choreography were played non-stop.

[Wherever I go

This feeling survives

The mood is all right]

Lee Se-jin who quickly completed the complex and long-reach choreography that fully brings out the flavor bursts into high notes again.

[Then I'm gonna jump into the fire]

The electronic sounds and beats are five times more gorgeous than the original song and the choreography is equally gorgeous but rough.

The moment when the white noise eats up the accompaniment and the song hooks.

[Like a bomb]

A laser explodes along with the drop.

[Yeah-ahahahah]

Jeongyulgi jumps out to the front sweeps the floor and picks up a black object.

It was thrown away when they appeared earlier.

A vague bar with no particular specificity.

However when Lee Se-jin leaps forward again and takes a firing stance with the bare stick like a gun lasers come out like firecrackers from there.

-??

-What is it?

To be precise the timing and angle were adjusted to make it look that way.

Next each movement which can be like a sword a bazooka or a gun pours out and the choreography is connected.

And the colorful laser explodes like the recoil of a weapon.

-and

The choreography adjusts the angles exquisitely and the lasers and LEDs are decorated as if they are reactions to the choreography movements.

The black dancers were knocked down by colorful lasers and all kinds of sci-fi effects were created in their place.

Moreover thanks to the exquisite camera work people watching on TV were able to experience a different experience.

It was like a one-take shot from a well-made action movie with the person moving in the center changing with each movement.

Due to differences in physique each center found the most effective movements and added flavor to each changing center.

[Like a bomb

Light up tonight.]

The moment when the 1 minute and 55 seconds of frantic running ends.

“Huh.”

Park Min-ha instinctively knew.

Even though I didn’t win this stage was a success.

[Yeah-ahahahah]

The song ended with four people in the middle of the fallen black crowd singing the last note each with a different tone.

* * *

‘It’s crazy.’

Park Min-ha thought idly as he staggered down to the backstage.

The stage where I poured out everything that made me vomit was somehow pleasing. Even when I felt it on stage the quality was so good that my heart felt like it was going to explode.

‘Furthermore because we used props the lack of uniformity in the choreography due to our different body sizes was brought to life… ’

Park Moon-dae’s idea was great.

She couldn’t control the rising desire to say goodbye and turned her head.

Jeong Yul-gi and Lee Se-jin ran away with the staff due to makeup issues.

Then even if it’s senior Park Moon-dae…!

“hmm.”

However Park Mun-dae was drinking water and looking at the other side with sunken eyes.

‘Are you unimpressed?’

Is it possible to create a stage like this on a daily basis?

Park Min-ha was somewhat shocked but soon realized that was not the case.

‘Oh you’re watching the next stage.’

He was looking at the monitor. The stage right after this is a song by Testa covered by the debut group of Azusa.

And the stage that is coming out now is…

[Go on picnic~]

‘Are you okay?’

I did better than I thought.

Park Min-ha thought about it during rehearsals but nodded that the choice of arrangement played a big role.

-From our respected senior Testa! We prepared the stage with a picnic!

They chose ‘Picnic’ over all of Testa’s conceptual and impressive titles.

Excluding ‘Promise’ it seemed like a wise choice to encourage people to sing along through that song which is the most popular of Testa’s songs.

Because capabilities are not directly compared.

Curious about what the person in question was thinking she inadvertently looked to the side.

‘What do you think… ’

“…!”

“hmm.”

Park Moon-dae was already looking at the monitor with a faint smile.

However it was not one filled with uniqueness or eyes that could see the target in check.

Instead there seemed to be a flash of triumph somewhere on his face.

Or confident.

‘uh…?’

But there was no time to think about it for long.

“I’m moving!”

“…! Yes yes! Let’s go!”

Park Min-ha said hello in a somewhat confused state and then ran to prepare for the next stage.

‘What was it?… Oh no! ‘Never mind.’

She decided not to try to find out more about Park Moon-dae than necessary.

And a few tens of minutes later.

This time Azusa’s debut team and Park Moon-dae will meet in the hallway.

Chapter 297

“You guys are bad. “I tricked you.”

“Hey~ Eugene what’s wrong with you!”

Cha Yu-jin seemed very shocked when she saw the laser chaos during rehearsal and after seeing the joint performance on stage she declared a boycott of the conversation.

The reason is ‘How can you do a performance like this without me?’

‘Yes it only lasted 30 minutes.’

After finishing Testa’s performance he seemed to be in a better mood and was slowly opening his mouth like that.

I said taking the towel off my head.

“Next time I will give you a laser dance so swing it like a double sword.”

“Oh!!… Umm it was better if I did it today!”

“Today is just one day. If we do it during our solo concerts we can do it for several months. “I think that would be better.”

“That’s right~ It’s better to do it multiple times!”

“That’s right!”

“Then it is more beneficial to wait.”

“OK Got it! “Brother I didn’t fool you.”

Now this is easy.

After accepting Cha Yu-jin's words a few times I continued walking.

My body is much lighter compared to when I usually finish a concert.

'Now 5 songs aren't that hard.'

Compared to a solo concert it's almost like eating raw food. Perhaps other participating groups had similar thoughts.

I opened the waiting room door and entered.

"Hello Senior Testa!"

Then I looked at the waiting cameras and the new group.

'Same goes for these guys with their stupid hair.'

"It was really cool. Thank you for teaching me and helping me a lot!"

"We were really thankful~ Fighting debut!"

I officially greeted the 〈Azusa〉 debut group once more in the ending behind-the-scenes cut.

I opened the waiting room door and entered.

"Hello Senior Testa!"

Then I looked at the waiting cameras and the rookie group.

'Same goes for these guys with their stupid hair.'

"It was really cool. Thank you for teaching me and helping me a lot!"

"We were really thankful~ Fighting debut!"

I officially greeted the 〈Azusa〉 debut group once more in the ending behind-the-scenes cut.

As soon as the cameras were turned off and the table was cleared I called one out.

“Heeseung.”

Gold 2.

“Yes?”

“Shall we talk for a moment?”

“yes!”

Among the new guys ‘They must be really friendly!’ There was a brief exchange of sounds and then Gold 2 happily followed behind me.

Big Sejin asked softly.

“Heeseung did something wrong right?”

“no.”

I lightly denied it. Big Sejin shrugged his shoulders and waved his hand. I think they probably assumed that I was going to talk about the performance in moderation.

But I brought Gold 2 to the van in the parking lot.

“…?”

“batter.”

At this point Gold 2 must have realized that the situation was unusual and began to lower his head voluntarily.

‘Did I make a mistake?’ is clearly visible.

‘Should I say… a mistake?’

I closed the car door and threw a can of drink at him.

“Oh thank you.”

I quickly got Gold 2 and got a drink. I waited for a moment before he brought the drink to my lips.

And the right timing.

‘…I never thought I would say this line.’

Not that crazy guy. I held back a sigh and opened my mouth.

“So… what year did you come back from?”

“…!! Cough.”

Gold 2 barely managed to squirt its drink.

It was unfortunate but that reaction alone was no different from the answer.

“Uh uh…”

I said taking out another can of drink and squeezing it in my hand.

“You said it too openly.”

The circumstances were unique from the beginning.

‘It is rare for a contestant from the previous season to come in first place.’

This is especially true if the audition was a success.

The production team said that viewers prefer faces that are fresh and unique to that season.

‘But this guy ended up debuting at number one.’

Moreover his attitude was very calm when he let go of Chae Seo-dam who was already in first place during this process.

-Ah… Ah it was a bit strange somehow.

It was a bit surprising that after this much reaction they completely trusted what we said.

‘The response was too skillful for someone of that age.’

So the next time we met I checked the status window.

This is what was in the bottom compartment at that time.

[! Status abnormality: bounce back]

-I really end up with an idol!

: ‘Failure’ if the team cannot come together within the period.

Don’t you get the feeling right from the structure?

This is a status abnormality similar to Cheongryeo’s ‘correction’ or my ‘debut or death’.

And the things this guy said while dealing with Chae Seo-dam.

-Whoa… no how could he debut again this time…

Even what was hastily glossed over after this. It was as if the heartache had ended here.

Gold 2 Kwon Hee-seung returned from the future.

Maybe as my next hitter.

“Starting from the fact that Chae Seo-dam debuted ‘this time too’ your actions in general are very revealing.”

“…”

Of course Kwon Hee-seung doesn’t seem to have the mental capacity to admit it. It was worth it. First of all the biggest problem is trust. From this guy’s perspective there is absolutely no reason to tell me that he came from the future.

‘I need to throw bait from my side too.’

I had some information to dig up from this guy. I guess I’ll have to endure it.

‘Let’s start by giving this much.’

Sweet.

I muttered as I opened the can of drink.

“I’m from the future too.”

“Huh-uh-up.”

Aren’t your lungs popping out?

Gold 2 covered his mouth and looked at me.

“…”

“…”

There seemed to be a long silence and then he nodded and muttered.

“…somehow! “I said you were really good at it.”

Did it work?

“Oh yeah.”

“Wow I thought it was just me but was this really a precognitive dream? And so it was.”

Gold 2 must have been quite frustrated so words poured out.

“As expected someone else came back too right? It’s not just me. “It’s usually like that when I watch dramas.”

I think there’s a misunderstanding but should I just leave it at that and try to get it right?

I also wanted to understand the situation.

“okay. So… did you come back because something went wrong while you were active?”

However Kwon Hee-seung answered like this with a face that seemed to be dripping with sweat.

“Uh I… I wasn’t an idol.”

…what?

* * *

“…She was a model.”

“Yep.”

I felt like the conversation would be long so I moved to work.

Gold 2 said ‘I thought my heart was going to drop’ and continued to sip green tea.

“Wow… there were a lot of things that happened while I was that model. So I really thought I had taken the wrong path.”

“hmm.”

“So this time I got rid of the model and came back to ‘Azusa’.”

Gold 2 looked a little proud saying that he was confident because he had watched this season diligently.

“Then Chaeseodam…”

“ah! Anyway as soon as he debuted he was in an uproar due to dating rumors and personality controversies. So I sent it to you without any guilt!”

It was like that too.

I was about to ask him about my future but I just let him talk some more.

“For some reason my brother is as good as a ghost! Wow… I feel so relieved. “It was good but I was anxious about what was going on.”

Gold 2 has a much more comfortable look.

“The usual cause is that the Earth was destroyed and people were sent to the past but is that really the case??”

This guy clearly thinks I’m back in the same time zone as him.

And this is the first time I have returned to the past.

Looking at the explanation in the status window this guy might be his first and last chance like me.

‘This is a different case again.’

I guess I’ll have to find out more.

“Let’s check first. “You’ve been back for a few years.”

“Uh… that’s the end of this year so um… I guess it’s 11 months?”

“…”

1 year?

“It’s totally awesome right? Not even a day ago I don’t know what’s going on.”

I was speechless for a moment and looked at him.

Isn’t that… almost like not coming back?

“You bought that stock. Really… what did you buy? Have you ever bought a lottery ticket? Oh I guess you don’t need it.”

“hmm.”

First of all my knowledge of the future is poor. I returned to my original purpose with a wry smile.

I guess I can reveal this much for now.

“I came back a little while ago. “Now the future I returned to has passed and become the past.”

According to the truth check I saw last time there is a lost memory… But let’s leave that out for now and connect the logic.

“oh my god. So bro have you figured out anything so far?”

I rubbed my chin deliberately.

“I’m guessing that… If it’s okay may I ask what you did right before you returned to the past?”

Based on the cases so far… it is likely to be a sensitive question so I thought I would understand if you hesitated to answer.

However this guy's reaction was a bit different.

"how? Ah… it might be a little funny."

Gold 2 smiled embarrassedly with a cold sweat on his face.

"What is it?"

"I accidentally fell into the river and hit my head on the bridge… so my luck was really bad…"

"…"

"Oh no! I was trying to help someone with this! I wasn't the only one who did something stupid!! A living saint! There was an accident while filming. Wow the environment is really poor…"

It started with an excuse but Gold 2 burst into anger as if he had something to say anyway.

It is said that there were many ups and downs while working as a model so when she worked and rested she stayed at home and denied the world.

Gold 2 sighed.

"…Anyway as I got into it I think I thought things like 'I'll never come back to this dirty industry again' or 'Idol was the answer' right? Then the situation became so that I could really become an idol…"

for a moment.

"Then you now… have what you wanted."

"Well you can say so right?"

Gold 2 nodded. I glanced at him.

‘A guy who returned to the past just once.’

And what I want is… ‘To quit being a model and become an idol.’

…I can see the angle.

I first took out the variable that bothered me.

“If you had come back earlier you could have debuted in the previous season with me… What do you think about that?”

“Uh uh…”

Gold 2 rubbed his head with a embarrassed expression.

“My brother. I’m sorry but that’s a bit…”

“…??”

“That season was so bad that it would be a shame to do it again…”

“…”

“iced coffee! And honestly I don’t even have the confidence to debut in that lineup! “To be honest it was a scam.”

…I don’t really have anything to refute.

‘Anyway I didn’t like it.’

I tapped my fingers on the desk and threw out the proposition I had organized.

“Then do you think that the time of your return is the most appropriate time to achieve what you wanted right before you returned?”

“yes? uh…”

Gold 2 seemed to ponder for a moment as if he had never thought of it that way but then nodded.

“I see! “I think it summarizes only the parts I wanted to try again.”

It was certain. I intertwined my fingers.

‘You’ve returned to the point you want most.’

I recalled Cheongryeo’s point of view in ‘Truth Confirmation’.

The guy’s monologue.

-If I had planned it I wouldn’t have done it this way.

…That guy wanted to start being an idol all over again.

Maybe… ‘keep going until you succeed’.

And we returned to the point before debut.

‘i get it.’

outlined.

system. This bastard doesn’t just bounce people back in time.

‘It’s about granting wishes.’

Aspiration regret whatever you call it… it reflects the wishes of the person involved.

According to this strand status abnormalities can be seen as coming from the same context. This is because the penalty is structured in a way that matches the fulfillment of the person’s wishes.

‘Just fall off.’

However there is a problem.

…It’s me.

‘I don’t remember wishing for something like this.’

Comparing it to the two cases before and after me I definitely feel a sense of incongruity.

No matter how drunk or depressed I was it’s hard to think that I would suddenly want to become an idol in someone else’s body.

So… is this ‘Park Moon-dae’s’ wish?

Why?

“…”

First I think we need to explore more detailed conditions to understand the mechanism.

And to find out more details case comparison would be needed.

“brother?”

“…hmm. for a moment.”

After thinking for a moment I took out my smartphone.

[Are you on tour]

After a while.

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: On the move]

[VTIC Senior Cheongnyeo: What’s going on?]

In the end there is only one choice.

Let’s cross-verify.

Chapter 298

Idols before and after their active period are extremely busy.

When there is no name value you are busy publicizing it and when you have name value you are busy trying to get your money's worth.

In that sense it is quite a reckless challenge for 10-year-olds who released a new hit song just before debut and are currently on a stadium tour for 4 years to come together in a hurry.

[So this is a video call? oh my god.]

"okay."

I pressed my eyebrows as I looked at the split screen on my laptop.

The left space is empty. And on the right Gold 2 is sitting wearing a headset with an excited face.

The time is now 2 am.

We chose a time when all three of us were there so this was the only time left.

"It's probably true that it's in a soundproof place."

[yes. I'm currently in the dorm's dressing room and the door is locked! But even if you get caught won't everyone think you're talking about a drama?]

"…"

I barely answered.

“Still be careful.”

[yes!]

Maybe it’s because he only came back for 11 months and was successful in the stock market but this guy is too light.

He seems like he knows how to use his brain but his attitude… well it’s his life so he’ll take care of it.

[Our team name came up. Do you know anything? Spacer!]

“Okay congratulations.”

Gold 2 After talking about his personal life for a while Heeseung Kwon took a deep breath and began to talk about the main topic.

[I’m a little excited. Future People’s Meeting… It’s about to be released on Net Plus.]

Is that so?

[And really… wow I never imagined that senior would come too.]

Yes there may be some explanation on this point as well.

I checked the initials that lit up as ‘online’ in the friends window on the screen.

-CHR

As anyone can see this guy is Cheongryeo.

That’s right. Rather than isolating these bastards separately and collecting information while maintaining anonymity I was open from the beginning and prepared for a three-way meeting.

There is one reason.

[Now that I think about it I have also collected information on what kind of situation this is.]

Gold 2 This bastard… would have been caught within a few months at the latest.

Look at that.

[Is there a cafe called ‘People who came back from the future’ on the Internet? But it turns out that they are just pretending like that… what kind of worldview is this? Wow I was really disappointed.]

“…”

‘By the end of the year he must have been getting robbed by Cheongnyeo.’

I can assure you.

And do you have the confidence to handle it when Cheongryeo finds out too late that I already knew this guy’s identity and took advantage of him?

I thought for a moment and then nodded.

‘Yes.’

There is nothing you can’t do.

However it is a very obvious and troublesome future. There is no need to brag about it. It would be better to explode something I can control.

I moved the mouse to join ‘CHR’ Cheongryeo in the video call.

Soon the guy’s face appeared on the screen with the hotel room in the background.

It said ‘Argentina’ and it was daytime. Cheongryeo soon opened her mouth probably checking her screen.

[hello.]

[Wow hello senior…! It's really nice to meet you like this!]

[yes. nice to meet you.]

With a smile on his face he glanced at the corner of the screen where Gold 2 was likely to be.

Those eyes look like they're expressing some kind of emotion.

'I won't think nonsense.'

I recalled the situation when I gave him information.

-So… the winner of this <Azusa> is someone who has returned from the past?

He didn't seem excited or overly interested. I was just talking nonsense.

-That's fun. Has there been any tradition since you were a junior?

-Stop even joking.

-And 11 months… Well I guess I should say it didn't work out.

-That's bad?

-haha. Wouldn't there be some benefit if there was at least a difference of at least 2 years? Well it would be difficult for that team to do well. I don't think there's any specific information to extract… Where should I use it?

After weighing it I think it would be a good explanation to say that it was not worth the price compared to competitors or trading partners.

Anyway I stated my purpose honestly.

-I don’t need future information.

-then?

-I’m trying to come up with a hypothesis as to why we’re doing this.

The guy on the other end of the phone didn’t answer for quite a long time and then gave only a short answer.

-is it so.

And now I am participating in this video call.

“Once everyone says hello let’s start the conversation.”

[yes yes!]

[Haha please speak comfortably.]

I’m already tired. I opened my mouth trying my best to keep my composure.

“First of all… I’d like to organize the time zone first.”

[…? Time zone?]

[Ah the order.]

Cheongryeo rested her chin and muttered.

[Time won’t be wasted. Let’s see… First of all my junior said he started in December 4 years ago.]

right. The day I woke up in that old motel with Park Moon-dae’s wallet.

I nodded.

[What about that one?]

[Yes when I opened my eyes it was the end of October last year!]

The pattern is strange.

Based on memory my knowledge of the future lasted until July of last summer.

‘The day I confirmed that I failed the public examination drank alcohol and then fell asleep.’

However it was in October last winter that Gold 2 returned from the future and woke up.

July and October.

‘It’s been three months.’

There is a difference from the time of Cheongnyeo and Park Mun-dae which were connected almost immediately.

However that unfamiliar memory that I saw in the last ‘Truth Confirmation’…if it is true the period overlaps.

It was at least a year worth of memories of me quitting my civil service exam and getting a job at a company.

‘Then Gold 2 shouldn’t have appeared already without considering the future.’

Neither fits perfectly.

So in order for this to fit together neatly…

“…!”

Let’s change the assumption itself for a moment.

okay. Unless ‘the future as I know it’ is not the standard for this strange baton touch.

Next isn’t there a reasonable standard?

“…Senior.”

[yes?]

I asked quietly.

“…When did you realize that you had cleared the last mission?”

[…]

Status clear date.

[Mission? What mission do we have?]

Cheongnyeo ignored Gold 2’s remarks as if they had never happened and answered briefly.

[November 30th.]

I see.

And I…

It was the Chuseok holiday last year. It’s October. I still remember. The hologram of pollen exploding that appeared at that time.

[great success!]

User: Park Moon-dae (Ryu Geon-woo) succeeded in removing all status abnormalities!

I chuckled. I understand now.

“Was it this?”

[Any new thoughts?]

“It seems like when the existing person clears all the missions a new person appears.”

I erased the line drew it again and displayed it on the call screen.

[4 years ago /

Cheongryeo late November (mission clear) – Park Moon Dae mid-December (start)]

[1 year ago /

Park Moon-dae mid-October (mission clear) – Kwon Hee-seung late October (start)]

It fits neatly.

[…]

Cheongryeo erased his expression and raised his gaze. As if measuring it.

And then he nodded.

[You can think of it this way. But why does that bother me?]

“Let’s assume there’s… something here.”

Among these there is a situation that only I felt intuitively.

This is because I saw with my own eyes the occurrence and disappearance of ‘status abnormalities’ which this guy called missions and various special abilities through the status window.

“It’s something that wakes people up from their past according to their wishes and even customizes their mission.”

The operating system disappeared leaving me with only a status window.

‘System.’

“I think the story is correct if you assume that there is only one and that he switches to someone else the moment the mission is completed.”

[Hmm.]

So perhaps the criterion for this chain of returning to the past is ‘the presence or absence of a system’.

How about thinking that the system that left me after I finished all the status abnormalities during the holidays in October of last year entered the body of Gold 2?

And now I have granted the wish of that new body and given it a ‘status abnormality’.

[Hey… I’m sorry but can you tell me what the mission is… I’m a little scared!]

To that guy who is crying right now.

“It’s like something I have to do in return for coming to the past.”

[yes??]

Cheongnyeo opened her mouth with her eyes looking at a piece of leaflet or something.

[Let’s think of something that needs to be done right now.]

[Uh um… are you debuting safely?]

[In the sense of vision not plan.]

[Rain vision? Uh… Our members are all good at working together so it lasts a long time!]

[Um really? I think it's better than first place in this situation. cheer up.]

[yes?]

[hmm? Isn't this enough of a compliment?]

This crazy guy.

After giving an appropriate explanation to Gold 2 who was shocked I returned the conversation.

Fortunately I quickly figured out whether Gold 2's head was worth using.

[Uh oh then… I don't know what it is but something that sends that person to the past is coming back and forth to us?]

"yes."

If I had to call it that… it feels like a form of catching a host.

This mental parasite which I call 'the system' changes bodies while granting wishes.

But I still don't know how to change it.

"I think there must be a reason why these people were selected."

Gold 2 held up the dog with a slightly expectant look on his face.

[Ah maybe you saved someone and almost lost their life honorably… something like that? Do you need qualifications?]

Cheongryeo grinned.

[It's a unique idea.]

"…"

Definitely not.

I think… he seems like a guy who is willing to die and has a wish he would like to go back in time and fulfill.

'I'm sure there aren't just one or two people like that.'

Honestly if you put your mind to it you could find hundreds or thousands of people a day who would change jobs faster. It's overflowing.

There are some biases in terms of occupation and age group but it is difficult to say that they are clearly divided.

Is that enough?

"…"

After a few meaningless suggestions and considerations passed through my mind.

Cheongryeo opened her mouth again.

[Let's see… I've taken time into consideration so far. This time why not try reversing the axis?]

"on the other way?"

[space.]

"…!"

[I guess you like it.]

This supernatural phenomenon… It wasn't an idea that was easy to come up with but it was definitely a usable idea if processed a little more.

If we add the concept of the system 'moving'…

"Let's do it on the street."

I asked quietly.

The focus is on the date the system passed.

"What was your position when you realized the mission was completed on the 11th?"

[In the car. Probably… the Western Main Road.]

I immediately turned on the map app.

"…!"

[Where did your junior wake up with future knowledge?]

"…Guro-dong."

In the map app you can see the Western Main Road passing right next to Guro-dong.

"It's nearby."

The joy passes briefly.

Laughing was heard from beyond the screen.

[Oh this is interesting. Where did you wake up with future knowledge?]

[That's Hangang Park! Gwangnaru!]

The place where the Gold 2 system was installed is Gwangnaru Hangang Park.

And the place where I officially cleared the status abnormality and the system disappeared was Bae Se-jin's house.

"…It's near Cheonho-dong."

[omg!!]

Bae Se-jin's house is in Cheonho-dong.

There is a view of the Han River.

'Fuck you.'

It fits perfectly.

'Time and distance.'

In the end the system chose the one who could get in the fastest among the candidates.

A voice mixed with laughter asked.

[how is it? Is this a useful inference?]

I declared calmly.

"yes."

* * *

In this way the three-way meeting ended with the desired result.

'Now if we just figure out how to select candidates for the system we can see a rough outline of it.'

It will become clearer if I break it down a little more but honestly it exceeds my expectations.

[Wow already! sorry!]

And Gold 2 who was deeply engrossed checked the time and ended the call first freaked out by the early morning schedule.

I was about to hang up the phone to get some sleep for a few hours.

"Shall we leave it at this?"

However instead of getting ready to turn off the screen the blue bird tapped the screen and opened its mouth again. I guess it's because it's daytime so I'm still fresh.

[I don't understand.]

"what."

The guy spoke monotonously and knocked on the desk.

Tuk-tuk.

[I don't know why this conversation was rushed. Isn't this the kind of thing that can be exploited even if you guess and formulate a theory?]

[Your junior of course would have known. Even if you analyze this pattern it's not like you can figure out the next person. It is not possible to know where that person will die in the future.]

Cheongryeo grinned.

[Or… is there a separate way to try?]

Damn it.

I held back a sigh and opened my mouth.

“therefore…”

At that time a knock was heard outside the door.

-dripping.

“…!”

“Mundae?”

It was my roommate’s voice.

Chapter 299

Normally you wouldn't be surprised to hear your roommate's voice in the early morning but this situation is a bit unusual.

'I'm going to be amazed.'

Today Ryu Cheong-woo was a guest on a camping entertainment show that was held for 2 days and 1 night.

So since it was virtually a private room the video call was conducted comfortably.

[oh…]

"for a moment."

widely.

I closed my laptop for now. Then I got up and headed for the door.

"Hyung wait a minute."

And opened the door.

Liu Chengwu dressed lightly was standing with a somewhat puzzled expression. I'm curious too. why are you here

"Well I thought you were filming."

"Oh due to a casting issue I decided to rejoin tomorrow evening."

Liu Chengyu touched the back of his neck a few times and said in a slightly embarrassed tone.

“But the door was locked… I was just going to sleep in the living room if you were sleeping but I heard a noise.”

“…”

If you heard what I was saying there was no way you would be so calm.

‘It’s also a place with good soundproofing to begin with.’

I suppressed a sigh and stepped away.

“There were a lot of noisy people so I guess I locked it and forgot about it. sorry.”

“There’s nothing to be sorry about.”

That seems sincere but it’s even funnier that he seems to understand this excuse. I briefly thanked Cha Yu-jin and then sat down on my bed.

I waited for a while and when Liu Chengyu went to wash up I took the laptop and went out…

“Mundae the laptop light is coming on.”

“I was playing a game just now.”

Liu Chengwu seemed a little shocked.

“Until this morning?”

“Yeah whatever. “I think it’ll be okay for a day or so.”

As I was thinking about Cha Yu-jin right up until now this excuse came to mind. I feel like my dignity is being shattered.

A shaky answer came back.

“Um… it can be bad for your health so let’s try to moderate it.”

“yes.”

I answered with difficulty.

“I will sort it out now.”

“okay. “Even if tomorrow’s schedule is for the afternoon it’s already 3 am.”

Liu Qingyu smiled faintly and began to take out his pajamas.

I resisted the urge to pound the bed with my fist and made a rational decision.

‘I’ll go in to wash up in 30 seconds.’

So get ready to pretend to organize your laptop…

“Well it’s Mundae. Since this is a situation… is it okay if I ask you something?”

“sure.”

Liu Chengwu holding the clothes opened his eyes a little cautiously.

I should have guessed it there.

“I’m talking about that VTIC senior.”

Oh damn.

I swallowed my sleep at the topic on my laptop.

‘It’s covered so you won’t be able to hear it.’

“After listening to Sejin it seems like there was an incident. “Did that senior do something?”

“hmm…”

I did the math briefly. How close to the truth and specifically will you tell it?

And the appropriate concentration was created.

First of all to avoid unnecessary reactions imply that it is a thing of the past.

“I had some work done before.”

And the mood changes by focusing on the explanation that it is not my fault rather than the incident itself.

“They started a fight and started a fight. “I didn’t hit him first but I fought back.”

“A fight?”

“yes. So we got into a fight with each other… fistfighting.”

“…”

I was a little confused.

good. I think it will end up in a similar situation as the last two guys with the same name.

“That… sounds like he tried to hit his junior and got hit back.”

Exactly.

“That’s right. There was probably a difference in age… From a hierarchical perspective it was their fault. “I fought back well.”

“okay.”

Is it the end?

It’s time to finally get some consolation or advice…

“But have you become close enough to play games with that senior?”

“…!”

shit.

I don’t know how many times this has surprised me.

However it seems that Liu Chengyu did not intend to interrogate him but was just curious.

“I was coming in earlier and I heard a sound coming from your earphones. “I didn’t mean to listen to it on purpose.”

As soon as the laptop was closed it didn’t go back to dormancy but rather came alive for a while. Anyway he’s a good guy.

“Do you have any concerns or inconveniences? “About that.”

…He seems a little worried.

Perhaps as I add up various circumstances including the recording of my informal language I am suspecting a situation in which the military is constantly being arrested and harassed.

Is this speculation that they are using it as a production bot in the game until dawn to harass their juniors?

‘He must have come across a lot of cases because he used to exercise.’

I shrugged.

“Not really. After fighting it became easier for me to contact you. “I received plenty of apologies.”

“hmm.”

“I’m using it well so you don’t have to worry.”

“…Do you use it?”

“Well… it’s easy once you get it all sorted out. “Don’t worry it’s something you can easily mobilize from time to time.”

“Just wait…”

Liu Qingyu seemed to understand something but then a look of concern flashed across his face.

And then he hurriedly asked.

“Mundae that doesn’t mean you’re harassing me on the contrary does it?”

I’m the one who gets annoyed every time. You bastard.

“sure.”

Conversely I spent some time reassuring Liu Chengwu who was beginning to become concerned about the situation.

“Brother do I really look like that type of person?”

“No. Of course not. But since you’re so smart… if you want revenge you don’t have to be the same person…”

“Let’s go take a shower instead of saying nothing.”

Ryu Cheong-woo then went into the bathroom with a shy smile and I came out to the living room with my laptop saying ‘I will explain that I will leave after finishing the game.’

Then I turned my back to the veranda and opened my laptop. I was thinking of stopping the app and turning it off… but to my surprise Cheongnyeo's face appeared.

[ah.]

It looks like he was working on something while writing it down.

But why didn't you bother hanging up on this video call?

[Are you finished talking?]

"I didn't know you were still online."

[I want to hear the answer to the question.]

Ah does it come back to that in the end?

'There are so many people asking for an explanation for this and that.'

I answered lowly pressing my throbbing forehead.

"It's difficult to say out loud so let's chat."

[great.]

-CHR: Like this?

-Apple: Yes

-CHR: ^^

-CHR: So why are you doing analysis that you can't use?

Did you leave it to me?

I felt skeptical for a moment but then I quickly typed away considering this guy's contribution.

-Apple: There is something I want to deduce when I completely analyze the pattern.

-CHR: What kind of work do you do?

-Apple: I don't know why I'm here

-Apple: I have a vague memory of that time.

I can hear him making a low sound through my earphones.

I thought I was lost in thought but then a ridiculous text came to mind.

-CHR: Wasn't it your wish to become an idol with a new identity?

-Apple: I heard you were a civil service exam student.

-Apple: My only relevance is taking data and selling it.

-CHR: Could it be that you secretly developed an admiration for idols?

This guy is real.

I deliberately did not express any emotion and calmly operated the keyboard.

-Apple: Looking at the cases of you and Kwon Hee-seung it seems like you had quite specific wishes.

-Apple: Do you think I will?

Laughter was heard from the earphones. I tried to change the setting to silent but stopped just before that.

-CHR: Okay

okay.

-CHR: But I don't think that's the only thing.

what?

-CHR: I don't think I was the type of person who showed all of their cards because they wanted to feel refreshed.

-CHR: Any other reasons?

okay. Since I had the exceptional tools of status windows and missions I was able to do a lot more.

But even if you don't have to explain it there is an explanation that can be given. I paused for a moment and then slowly wrote a response.

-Apple: I hope this crazy thing doesn't happen in the future

In the end it comes down to here.

A wish is a wish but in fact going through a 'status abnormality' without a status window is crazy.

How many times have I almost died right now?

…I don't even know how many times the guy across from me has died.

'It's already crazy in the sense that there is no choice or knowledge.'

This must have been one of the reasons why I took action as soon as I got the clue instead of waiting for the 'conversation with Park Moon-dae'.

However the person chatting doesn't seem to agree. Cheongryeo glanced at the monitor.

-CHR: So does that mean it would be better to just die?

-Apple: Is that possible?

Again extreme.

-Apple: If you want to prevent people from dying you can use another method.

-Apple: Whether you are conducting a campaign to donate

-Apple: I don't think it's a good idea to send everything to the past and make it go away again if you can't clear it.

A short answer came back.

-CHR: Are you unhappy now?

It's funny because it comes from someone who has made a profit.

I typed again.

-Apple: We are a successful case

-Apple: You don't know what happened to those who failed

Kwon Hee-seung's condition abnormality.

It clearly just said 'failure' and the effect was not written down.

'Cheongryeo clearly even specified a restart.'

In that case it usually means that in case of 'failure' it may just be the end of my condition.

As for what happens after that… it doesn't feel very positive.

-Apple: It will be difficult to catch the next target.

-Apple: Still if you analyze the pattern you might come up with a way to stop it.

-Apple: Isn't it worth a try?

Because space and time are factors that can be controlled.

[…]

There was no answer for a few seconds. The guy only moved his hand on the mouse a few times.

The answer came just as I realized it was like petting a dog.

[Maybe so.]

I nodded slowly.

And the guy on the screen suddenly laughed heartily.

'what?'

-CHR: and

-CHR: To prevent variables from occurring in activities due to people with future knowledge?

"…"

-Apple: What do you check when you know it?

[ha ha ha!!]

I can hear it even through the earphones. I got fed up and turned the setting to silent this time.

-CHR: It's good to kick the ladder.

-CHR: Yes. I will cooperate well in the future junior.

“This bird…”

“Are you still playing?”

At that moment I realized again that I was sitting in the living room of my dorm.

“no. wait a minute.”

Good thing I put it back on silent.

-Apple: Turn off.

This time I closed the app and turned off the laptop completely.

Liu Chengwu was sticking his upper body out of the room with a mysterious smile.

“It looks like the game was a lot of fun.”

“I will delete it.”

“No I don’t think so…”

“no. I will do that for myself.”

After silently enduring Liu Chengwu’s continued encouragement I lay down on the bed.

“I’ll close the door.”

“yes.”

‘Let’s get some good sleep.’

After asking for Ryu Cheng-wu’s understanding I set the alarm for 10 o’clock and put down my smartphone.

I was more tired than I thought probably because I said a lot of things I wouldn't normally say when typing.

'…I guessed all the circumstances I could think of right now.'

A system that transfers to a candidate who is close in time and space.

Figuring out that pattern was something that could be considered an achievement. But the more I did it the more specific details became apparent.

'How does the system know and replace those who will voluntarily die in the future?'

No it was a transcendental ability that allowed him to return to the past at the point of death in the first place.

I inadvertently called up the status window.

[Name: Park Moon-dae (Ryu Geon-woo)]

A list of lines that start like that.

Why is this still with me even though the system of replacing people has left?

It was a strange feeling that the more I analyzed the pattern the more my uniqueness was revealed.

And in the end I realize that my choice was not wrong.

'In the end it is necessary to talk to 'Park Moon-dae'.'

I couldn't deny it. There was a high probability that the gap I had could be found there.

'And if things continue like this at least one target… '

When I thought about that I fell asleep.

It was a deep dreamless sleep for the first time in a while.

And the next day.

Jiiiing-!

“…”

You slept soundly.

I turned off the 10 o’clock alarm and erased the message notifications and pop-ups on the screen.

And although I didn’t pay much attention to it there was an entertainment newsletter app that I recently started subscribing to.

[“I can’t feel the military fatigue” T-holic’s 6-member comeback]

I later found out that it was nothing more than a disaster warning.

Chapter 300

Tea Holic. The first group that dominated the idol industry before VTIC came to power.

To sum it up in one word it is a symbol of idols of all generations.

“Isn’t this the person who first sang the song that Mumundae sang?”

“okay.”

‘Party in me’ which I sang during the ranking evaluation in 〈Azusa〉 was a song from this group member’s solo album.

‘My annual leave is so full that it’s been several years since I encouraged solo activities.’

Most contemporary idols have already gone their separate ways.

However they released an album again with all but one member.

I indifferently watched T-Holic’s music video autoplay located at the bottom of a real-time popular video on WeTube.

Coincidentally the member who sang the song I covered was Thumbnail.

[T-Holic – Let’s go M/V]

To be honest it doesn’t have a very sophisticated taste and the sensibility feels like it was a few years ago.

“T-Holic seniors have made a comeback~ Wow it’s been a while. “I did a lot of covers when I was in middle school~”

Sejin Lee who was sitting in the back seat nods her head and pretends to know.

Thanks to this even Cha Yu-jin got aggro…

“Who? Umm… I don’t know.”

Perhaps because he’s an American guy he didn’t seem very interested in idols who were popular more than 10 years ago.

However Raebin Kim seems to have been shocked.

“You don’t know Mr. Teaholic very well?”

“that’s right!”

“It’s unprofessional to not understand the background knowledge while actively working as a KPOP idol!”

“…! I know a lot of KPOP songs! “It’s not just a song I studied!”

okay. Cha Yu-jin’s claim makes sense because by the time KPOP entered the United States everyone was busy serving in the military and could not participate in group activities.

“I know your name! Senior Tea Holic!”

“It’s not enough!”

My ears are falling off.

These days whenever a topic comes up the reaction explodes in a chain reaction and turns into this mess.

I watched unimpressed as Bae Se-jin across from me crumpled further into the corner and plugged in his earphones.

Activities are going smoothly and no one is particularly worried or acting suspiciously.

As a result even trivial conversations like this get a big response.

‘There are things we have become accustomed to with each other.’

I looked at the guys who were interrupting each other’s words and interrupting the conversation without hesitation and then I settled the situation.

The reality show will turn out well.

That was the end of my feelings that day. However T-Holic’s comeback had a bigger impact than expected.

The first was a nostalgic feeling.

In layman’s terms it’s a memory seller.

-Once again there were so many T-holic songs.

-Honestly the individual charms of previous generations were better but now they look like factory dolls.

-Oh I miss it. At that time everyone was wearing UGG boots and I gave them that.

People in their 20s and 30s reminisced about their childhood and responded favorably to Tea Holic.

Since a group album was released after several years with almost no members leaving it became a hot topic amid nostalgia and admiration.

Even people who disliked Tea Holic at the time responded positively with a mixture of glorification and longing for their childhood.

‘Of course if the song is not good the feelings will disappear like a typhoon in a teacup.’

But here comes the next factor.

The second is the attribute of Tea Holic.

These bastards were… funny.

-I almost vomited from laughing.

– No I think I'm crazy about falling. Why do we all fall together lol?

-What did you do in the military and how did you become funnier?

-I'm not a fan but when I came to my senses all the algorithms were T-Holic clips.

From WeTube content that recalls the K-pop past to TV airwaves.

These guys hit the jackpot by appearing on entertainment shows. It was thanks to the skill of keeping the line while not being afraid of being broken.

Leisure and sense.

'The Jjambap you ate isn't going anywhere. It can be seen as the complete opposite of VTIC's line of fine-tuning media exposure one by one.'

They gained momentum by greedily seizing content.

Normally it would lose its freshness and it would be normal to eat it in moderation and then collapse or become quiet but it happened through a few lucky coincidences.

Several scenes from the broadcast became memes.

-T-Holic Tray Karaoke is a legend.

-Is it my fault?.swf

-Is it my fault the meme came from Tea Holic?

In the end they succeeded in appealing to the younger generation by becoming popular with the latest memes instead of the existing images that were consumed as they were consumed and all their sweetness was lost.

And with that momentum they even created a WeTube channel that airs their own entertainment.

[A new start on our WeTube… PPL madmen of desire | T-Holic's Show Business Ep.1]

Moreover unlike this entertainment topic T Holic's album and sound recording performance was not at a great level.

It's just a matter of respect and respect.

In the current KPOP market swollen by inflation their sales volume was at the bottom of the first tier.

As a result there was less of an atmosphere in which fans of current idols were keeping them in check as competitors.

-Show business is really neat. It's just professional entertainment haha.

-I hope our kids come out too.

They were categorized and consumed in a different category from existing idols.

And in the end amidst this momentum T Holic's own entertainment became a huge hit within a short period of time.

It was a bad sign.

* * *

"…"

I checked the viewership ratings for T-Holic's entertainment show which was a huge hit on WeTube and was even aired as a regular entertainment show on CVN.

Episode 1 is considered open-ended but episode 2 is important…

-2 episodes: 5.8%

It was a flagship figure. Because it was at the level of CVN's prime time entertainment show.

'It's too much.'

It came in during a gap in which there were no popular dramas or entertainment shows and did better than expected.

"Oh~ T-Holic seniors are in good spirits."

Keun Se-jin who like me was waiting for the next photoshoot shrugged his shoulders and joined in.

